For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.32, 5.02, 5.29. 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.28, 7.12, 7.33, 8.08, 8.21, 9.27, 10.23, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49, (4.13 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.27, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.13 p. m. Sundays —8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 5.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44 5.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 5.21 through train,) 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.03, 5.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.46, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electric Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after July 9, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.25 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.29 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

f 10.06, 11.43 a m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.36, f 3.33, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.: 1.04, f 2.36, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.14, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 2.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.25 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.25 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 4.25, 8.26, 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, f 2.04, f 3.44, f 5.43, and f 7.28 p. m. week-days. Sundays —9.05, 10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man. GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.06 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.27 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 212 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

Trinity C. E. Entertains.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church, had charge of the services at the Netherwood Home, on Saturday. The children were entertained during the afternoon by phonograph selections. A prayer meeting followed.

ALL-CUBANS DO IT AGAIN

One Inning Suffices to Tuck the Game Away For Visitors.

HITS AND ERRORS

Beck Larruped Out of the Game and the Westfield Series—Deegan Stops Hitting and Scoring.

Aided by four fateful errors, in conjunction with a vicious assault on Bill Beck, that All-Cuban exhibit again put on some display on the blink, Saturday afternoon. The blinking figured 4 to 1.

In that one potent inning the foreign invaders of the ballyard got all four of their runs. In accomplishing this comparatively easy feat they batted Bill to the bench and partial retirement from activity. They pasted Bill for five bases and worked him for a pass. After the inning Magnate Daab called Bill aside and told him to rest for awhile. After the game it was announced that Deegan will pitch every Saturday. The senior Bill is stronger than the junior William and can stand two games a week. Dave Driscoll says it will do him good.

One of the things that didn't happen was the appearance of Pete Kiernan. The short stop gent was missing when the gong sounded, and nobody knew why or what for. Neither Daab nor Driscoll had any word and lines of worried fear appeared on the managerial brow whenever Pete's non-arrival was mentioned. Pete was never known to stay away without sending word before. "I guess he's dead," said Captain Dave. "That's the only explanation I can think of."

Pete Cregan, who used to flit around the shortfield in his cub days, covered Happy's position, and Tuck Turner went into left. Tuck carried off the honors of the shift. Pete made one of the potent errors, but Tuck got everything that came his way. But Tuck made his really great showing at the bat. He scored our one and only and worked Polamino for three passes, getting to base four times without hitting a going some.

Real outfield glory fell to Wally Cosgrave, the displaced idol. In consequence of his doings on Saturday Wally is trembling on the verge of Moldom again. He made the greatest of the game, a one-handed sensational affair that lifted the bleacherites out of their seats. Close on the heels of this he picked up a grounder cleanly. Not satisfied with these marvels, Walter subbed into the knockers by pushing out two singles. Do like that in the next six Westfield games, Wally, and we will give you a house and lot and report for duty every morning as doormat. We are nothing if not hospitable.

Wally hits were particularly noticeable, because biffs were scarce. Polamino was wild in the first inning, but he steadied down and held the clamps on the Commuters in great style. And with men on bases he was the Demon Flinger for him. No less than eleven puzzled Runners were left homeless on the alleys through the deadly effectiveness of Senor Polamino's hurling. Man on second and third with one or more on made no difference to the Cuban performer. He kept the next batsmen from a look-in under those ordinarily trying circumstances several times with much apparent ease.

After Willie Deegan went on the firing line the Cubans quit hammering the ball. They only managed to pull two widely separated singles from his delivery in five innings. Neither side made errors except in one inning, and when the silent gazer took hold the game developed into as pretty a contest as the fans could desire.

That racking fourth section showed its ugly tendencies with the first man up. Almeyda stung one at Pete Cregan, and the utility shortstop went to the bad right away. Immediately after Mr. Almeyda had settled on the bag Jack O'Neil tried a trick play with Dave Driscoll and Kid Brogan. Something went wrong with the trickiness and the ball hurtled into right field. The fever of misdue seized Dan Connolly and he passed up the error-stricken globule. When Dan finally retrieved the ball Almeyda was on third. Polamino took a walk. Finding things thus encouraging, R. Garcia smashed a three-bagger into center, sending his mates home. Heldago died, Leonard to Driscoll. Marzan slammed one between third and short and the usually faithful Mr. Leonard fell all over himself, the ball and the surrounding section of the ballyard. Garcia didn't have time to make home on that play, but Cabrera hammered him in with a two-bagger in left-center. Marzan ruffled in likewise. That ended it, but it was good and plenty. A. Garcia and Bustaments flied out.

Our lonely tally bloomed in the third. Tuck Turner punched a hot one at second, and Valdes burned his fingers unavailingly trying to check it. Tuck went to second and continued to third when the round thing rolled tarough Cabrera's right-field breast works. Cosgrave went out short to first, but Brogan turned off the necessary long fly and Tuck fluttered in. While on the subject of the youthful Mr. Brogan's exploits we will mention that he pulled off the only extra base hit wrasched from Senor Polamino. Red Waller's amasement at the Kid's hitting, which he disrespectfully referred to as flukey after Mr. Brogan's first appearance here, does not appear to be much to the proper. The Kid is no fluke hitter. He is the Juvenile Demon Batsman, and the Terror of Terrible Pitchers.

Change of speed:

| ALL CUBANS. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bustaments, ss | 0 | 0 | 2 | 5 | 0 |
| Valdes, 2b | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 |
| Almeyda, 3b | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 3 |
| Polamina, p | 1 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| R. Garcia, c | 1 | 2 | 6 | 0 | 0 |
| Heldago, cf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Marzan, lf | 1 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Cabrera, rf | 1 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 1 |
| A. Garcia, 1b | 0 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| | 4 | 6 | 27 | 12 | 2 |

| PLAINFIELD. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Turner, lf | 1 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Brogan, 2b | 0 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| Cregan, ss | 0 | 0 | 3 | 2 | 1 |
| Leonard, 3b | 0 | 2 | 1 | 5 | 1 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 0 | 1 | 14 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 0 | 0 | 4 | 1 | 1 |
| Beck, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| | 1 | 7 | 27 | 13 | 4 |

All Cubans .....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—4
Plainfield .....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1

Earned runs—R. Garcia. Two base hits—Cabrera, Brogan. Three base hits—R. Garcia. First base on balls—Off Beck, 1; Polamino, 5. Struck out—By Deegan, 4; Polamino, 5. Left on bases—Plainfield, 11; All Cubans, 4. First base on errors—Plainfield, 1; All Cubans, 2. Hits—Off Beck, 4 in four innings; off Deegan, 2 in five innings. Hit by pitched ball—O'Neill. Sacrifice hits—Brogan, Connolly, Driscoll. Stolen bases—Driscoll. Umpire—Merity. Time of game—1:45. Attendance—900.

Somerville, 5; Garwood, 1.

In one of the best and most exciting games of the season, the West End A. C., of Somerville, beat the Garwood team Saturday afternoon by a score of 5 to 1. Next Saturday Hopewell will cross bats with the West Ends. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| West Ends 0 0 0 1 1 0 0 3 x—5 | 5 | 1 | |
| Garwood.. 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1 | 4 | 3 | |

Batteries—Galbraith and Allen; Weiner and Haugen.

Roselle, 6; Dunellen, 0.

Roselle shut out Dunellen by a score of 6 to 0 at the First avenue grounds at Roselle Saturday afternoon. The general all-around team work of Roselle showed vast improvement. The score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Dunellen ..0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 | 7 | 0 | |
| Roselle ...1 0 0 0 0 1 0 4 0—6 | 7 | 0 | |

Batteries—Smith and Nelson; De Vaux and Cowan.

Elizabeth, 2; All Americans, 2.

The game between the Y. M. C. A. of Elizabeth, and the All Americans of Brooklyn, Saturday afternoon was one of the prettiest of the season and resulted in a tie of 2 to 2, when it was called on account of rain at the end of the ninth inning. The visitors did their run getting in the first inning.

Westfield, 2; Rahway, 1.

The Westfield nine defeated Rahway by a score of 2 to 1, at Recreation Park, Westfield, Saturday afternoon. No runs were made until the ninth inning, when, after Rahway made its only run, Westfield tied the score and made the winning run.

THE HOPE EXCURSION BREAKS ALL RECORDS

ONLY ONE THIS SEASON TO PROVE A FINANCIAL SUCCESS.

The Hope chapel excursion of Saturday again proved that the West End Sunday-school conducts the banner trip of the season to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. Notwithstanding the fact that nearly 600 free tickets were issued, the committee paid all expenses and had the neat balance of $67, beating all records for this or any other year. It is the only local school that carries every scholar gratis that came out ahead this summer.

Though the trip was started under lowering clouds and it rained for about an hour after the arrival, the day proved enjoyable and the large throng enjoyed itself immensely. There were no accidents of any consequence but Mrs. Bert Snowden, of West Front street, was taken ill with congestive chills and fever on the way down. She was treated by Dr. Tregar on the train and spent the day in the Asbury Park hospital. She came home with the excursionists at night and was removed to Muhlenberg hospital in the ambulance. Today she was much better.

Daniel VanSickle, of East Third street, attempted to board the train when it drew in the Asbury Park station for the homeward run and was violently thrown to the ground. She caught hold of the last rail and had reached the step but lost her balance. She received a few bruises and a severe fright but otherwise escaped harm.

Contractor Brennan in Town.

Jas. J. Brennan, of the firm of McCloud & Brennan, who have the contract for the Netherwood tunnel was in town Saturday on business interests.

SMALL ATTENDANCES AT THE GOLF COURSES

G. F. EARLE GETS FIRST HONORS IN WEEKLY COMPETITION.

Oppressive heat and an unusual rush of players vacationward pulled down the attendance at the local golf courses Saturday. The links had almost a deserted appearence and it was a slow day generally.

At the Plainfield Country Club the only scores turned in were those for the Golf Committee cup as follows: G. F. Earle, 94, 16—78; Robert Abbott, 78, plus 2—80; Earl Stockton, 92, 11—81; W. P. Boggs, 100, 19—81; R. F. Mortimer, 90, 5—85; C. H. Stover, 99, 10—89; W. D. Rigg, 107, 17—90; J. E. Erickson, 100, 10—90. There was to have been a golf ball sweepstakes during the afternoon but not enough entries were received and it was not held.

At the Park links there were a number of players out but no scores were handed in for the usual weekly competitions.

RUSHING THE WORK ON NEW THEATRE

SCENERY ARRIVES AND DECORATORS ARE AT WORK.

Although there is no doubt as to the opening taking place on time several gangs of men worked until late last night on the new theatre in order to complete various parts for other purposes. The scenery arrived yesterday and the contractors are anxious to get the stage cleared in order to put the roof and for that reason the electricians were busy out of hours installing lights. The decorators also remained at work and the greater part of the ornamental plaster board is now in position. Word was received yesterday that the seats had been shipped and that they would be in Plainfield in a day or so.

Manager Counihan has been having lots of fun the past week with several well known Plainfielders who insisted not long since that the theatre would never be ready by August 24. They made vigorous wagers to back up their opinion and the genial manager took every one that was offered. Now that it is easy to be seen that the house will be completed on time it is a different story and Mr. Counihan has "guyed" them without restraint.

The management wishes it made plain that the scale of prices for the first night is not to be maintained. The first rows in the orchestra for "The County Chairman" were made $2.50 because of the magnitude of the company. If includes some of the highest salaried artists in the theatrical world and was secured by Mr. Counihan at great expense. The same prices were charged for the initial performance in Music Hall and it was only a choral concert. After the first night the prices will be scaled according to the attraction with $1.50 as the possible highest figure.

The lowest priced seats for "The County Chairman" are fifty cents and they will be placed on sale within a few days. A feature of the house is the fact that the stage can be seen fully from any part of the orchestra, balcony or gallery. The gallery is to be reached by an entrance separate from the lobby. For the opening night the theatre is to be lavishly decorated with flowers.

MURPHY SUGGESTS REFORM

(Continued From Page 1.)

interest of no person or persons and has no candidate for any office except as may be chosen by the majority vote of the members and known by them to be free, unpledged and independent.

The principal objects of this club are to encourage attendance at the caucus or primary meeting in order that honest and capable men may be nominated, and to promote greater interest in the city government by keeping our members in closer touch with the administration of municipal affairs, and to do all we possibly can to prevent dishonesty and corruption at elections.

The members of this club gladly welcome the co-operation of other independent Republican voters who have not already joined this organization. It would be well for the city if such a movement were started in each of the four wards and that all co-operate together for the common welfare.

The proper way to bring about the desired reform is within and not without the Republican party, and this can only be accomplished when all Republicans who desire to see clean politics and the best men in office give their hearty support to this movement.

CLARENCE L. MURPHY,
Chairman of the First Ward Republican Club.
August 16, 1905.

Judge for Baby Parade.

T. B. Koons, of Sanford avenue, who is registered at the Ocean House, Asbury Park, has been appointed a judge for the approaching Asbury Park baby parade. Raymond and Irving Manley, of Park avenue, are among the local entries.

THE CORPSE WOKE UP

And Maybe it Didn't Lambaste the Crew of Car No. 1493.

PASSENGERS CRACKED

The Awful Effect Scotch Plains Fuss Pungle Had On a Young Man Who Was Annoyed by a Conductor.

Car No. 1493, speeding from Scotch Plains to this city at 4:45 Sunday afternoon, numbered among its passengers an inebriated young man who climbed aboard at the former place. He was unable to secure a seat and stood on the running board swaying backward and forward with the motion of the conveyance. As is usual with the drunks who get confused with Plains fuss fungle he was full of advice and was busy handing it out to nearby passengers, when the conductor meekly asked for the nickle due to the company for the ride.

"G'way," said the intoxicated one; but the conductor failed to pass on.

"D'ye hear me?" queried Mr. Drunk. "Move on; shell yer papers; be on your job er shoutebody'll get hurt and it wont be me." Still the bright Reginald stood his ground and insisted on having the five cents. The man who had been viewing Scotch Plains scenery through the bottom of glasses got highly excited and holding on to the trail rail with one hand made a pass at his annoyer's face that, had it landed, would have sent him to the hospital. He must have seen two conductors, however, and aimed at the one that wasn't there.

His arm swung around with such a jolt that he lost his balance and tumbled head over heels into the roadway. The car was just passing Johnson avenue then and it went half way to Berckman street before the motorman could bring it to a stop. The drunk remained just where he had fallen, an inert, pitiful-looking specimen, to all appearances hurt or else a dead man. As the car backed up several women screamed and proceeded to faint and a dapper little Buttinsky standing on the rear platform hollered out:

"Gee, conductor, he's a goner; I wouldn't be in your shoes for $5,000."

The conductor and motorman picked up the unconscious form and proceeded to place it on the front platform while an inspector on board who used to work for an undertaker, declared that life was extinct and began to unvarnish a few remarks for names in the event of a damage suit. He had gotten two or three when a yell from up front caused him and everybody else who hadn't been doing so to look in the direction.

The two men just in time to see the conductor do a double back-action leap and quadruple chasm act that landed him in the north gutter of Second street. The supposed corpse had suddenly come to life and furnished the propelling force that had lifted the poor nickle gatherer into the air. The conductor was still rolling when the now thoroughly aroused drunk soaked the motorman an upercut that caused him to jump as though he had been stung by a short circuit and leap to the street. Two or three male passengers who had assisted in carrying the "dead" man failed to get a move on them and they also stopped a few right-handers with their noses. Disposing of them the infuriated trouble maker got down to the running board and was going to clean out the car when he made a misstep and took another tumble to the road.

This time he was trying to regain his feet but was making a bad job of it. But just the same it was the opportunity of the bruised-up conductor and motorman wanted and hustling back to their respective ends the car went ahead with a jerk and kept on going. When last seen the drunk had assumed the perpendicular position and was cutting great gashes in the air, probably in the belief that he was beating the conductor to a jelly. The car arrived at the Watchung terminus eight minutes late.

Helping Poor Children.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, on Saturday, a meeting in the interest of the Netherwood Home was held in the church rooms. Miss Curry was present with about thirty youngsters who took part in the programme Miss Curry spoke on the work that has been done and that which is planned. A number of examples were given to illustrate her meaning. The collection was a liberal one.

Rev. Mr. Shaw to Preach.

Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, will preach at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church Sunday morning and night. Rev. George Mooney, the pastor of the church, will preach at Rev. C. O. O'Donnell's West End Avenue church, Jersey City, on Sunday. Mr. O'Donnell, was formerly in charge of the Monroe avenue M. E. church.

Hope Chapel was not the only one that cleared expenses. Trinity Reformed church more than met expenses with the sale of tickets on its annual excursion to Asbury Park.

FIRST WIFE GETS $6,250

Augustus R. Keller Makes What He Calls a Good Settlement.

NOW ALL'S HARMONY

Divorce Proceedings and Alimony Ordered by the Court Had Already Cost Him $30,000.

Augustus Ralph Keller, of West Seventh street this city, for many years president of Gebbie & Co., publishers of editions de luxe in New York and Philadelphia, has finally made peace with his first wife, Annie Louise Keller. He is no longer compelled to sequestrate himself from the eyes of Sheriff Erlanger's deputies, even in so pleasant a spot as Plainfield for the purpose of evading order of arrest issued by the Supreem Court of New York, because of his failure to pay her alimony. He will be permitted henceforth to live with his second wife, who was the co-respondent named in the first Mrs. Keller's suit for an absolute divorce, without fear of molestation.

To secure this happy state of affairs Mr. Keller parted with $6,250, according to the papers receiving the approval of the Supreme Court Justices.

Mr. Keller is inclined to look upon the transaction as a good bargain, for when negotiations were first opened looking toward a settlement, with a payment in the first Mrs. Keller held out for the purchase of an annuity which would have cost her former husband $28,000. As it is, the litigation, covering a period of many years, is said to have cost Mr. Keller in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller were married in New York in 1883. Three children were born to them, Arthur, the youngest, still living with his mother by order of the court. They lived together in New York until 1889, when differences arose, and in 1897 it was suggested that they should live apart. An agreement was entered into to that effect, and, according to Mr. Keller, counsel in the latter actions were opened looking to a divorce. Proceedings to this end were begun in the Supreme Court by Mrs. Keller in January, 1902, she naming as co-respondent a beautiful young woman who she declared had been employed by her husband as stenographer and typewriter in the Philadelphia office of her husband's firm. On April 21 of the same year Justice Fitzgerald, of the Supreme Court, granted Mrs. Keller a decree of absolute divorce and awarded her the custody of the minor child, Arthur Ray Keller.

Under the terms of the same decree Mrs. Keller was awarded alimony at the rate of $95 a month, while her husband was prohibited from remarrying. Prior to this time, Mrs. Keller asserted her husband had been allowing her $115 a month for household expenses, "while at the same time he was maintaining a richly appointed establishment in Larchwood street, Philadelphia, for the co-respondent, upon the evidence of whose relations with the defendant the decree was secured, and which co-respondent is now the wife of the defendant."

Justice O'Gorman issued an order adjudging Keller in contempt for failure to pay the alimony, and committing him to the custody of the Sheriff. Mr. Keller retained Lawyers Moore and Alford, Beekman, Hoffman, of House, Grosseman & Vorhaus, to take an appeal to the Appellate Division. While these proceedings were pending in the courts Mr. Keller stuck pretty close to his home in this city. The Appellate Division reversed the order of the lower court directing the imprisonment of Mr. Keller for contempt of court in failing to give a bond of $5,000 to secure the payment of alimony, on the ground that he had never been served with the papers in the proceedings, but it upheld the appointment of Sampson H. Weinhandler as receiver of Keller's property in New York and the order increasing the alimony from $85 to $112.

This was the last of the legal battles of the case, and no further negotiations for a settlement which have proved successful.

Netherwood Home Bathing Pool.

Through the kindness of David Hand, of Leland avenue, a part of the old brick yard pond has been dredged, cleaned and surrounded by a wire fence. It will be used as a bathing place for children at the Netherwood Home. The children are permitted in the water once a day as a rule, except on hot days when they are allowed to make use of it at least twice.

Another Trenton Trolley.

Trenton will have a new trolley system shortly from Cadwalader park to Trenton Junction, and from Johnston avenue and East State street to Hamilton Square, in that city, according to the read description of the Trenton, Hamilton and Ewing Traction Company, which was granted a charter Saturday at the Secretary of State's office.

Co. K Men Qualify.

Three more members of Company K qualified on the range at Sea Girt Saturday afternoon. Rain prevented more men from trying. The men to qualify were Nelson Peterson, Albert Ford and Leonard Jennings.

PROF. LOWANDA'S BIG TRAINING BARN BURNS

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING SUNDAY AND COMPLETELY DESTROYED.

The fire at Sebring's Mills Sunday evening was not on the Totten place, as reported yesterday, but on the country place of Professor Lowanda, the well-known circus rider and performer. Lightning struck the large barn which he had built as a place for training horses and it was completely destroyed together with its contents and two valuable watch dogs, chained to the structure. The place adjoins the Sebring homestead and the latter was threatened several times.

A hose was run from the four-way hydrant near the Sebring corner by Charles Sebring and he managed to keep his buildings sufficiently wet down until the arrival of the recently organized Lincoln Hose Company. The members reached the scene in remarkably quick time and did excellent work in protecting the surrounding property. The members were commanded by Assistant Chief Abram Bulick.

Professor Lowanda is at present with Hargreaves circus and was the man who showed the ponies in the ring when the circus appeared here two weeks ago.

The building was covered by insurance but the contents were not.

Jersey Central Nine Won.

The Jersey Central team completely outclassed the Reading team, Saturday at Taborfield, Philadelphia, winning by a score of 11 to 0. The feature of the game was the heady pitching of Thompson, who struck out nine of his opponents.

Police Vacations.

Night Marshal Lemuel W. Pope, of the borough police force, returned from a two weks' vacation at the seashore on Sunday. Marshal Joseph Flack will go on his vacation next week.

MARRIED.

MINUGH—THORN—At the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, John Turnbull Minugh, of Jersey City, to Miss Jane Thorn, of Plainfield, on Wednesday, July 26, 1905, by the Rev. Charles A. L. Stromborne.

DIED.

JONES—On August 8, Grace May daughter of Emma A. and the late Evan Jones.

MUNDY—On Sunday, August 13 1905, Ellsworth L., son of Bertrum and Sarah C. Mundy, aged 8 years, 11 months.

KELLY—In North Plainfield N. J., Tuesday, August 8, 1905, Edward C., aged 6 years and 8 months, son of Edward and Catherine Kelly.

PROEHLING—In this city, Thursday, August 10, 1905, Jeanie Edna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius M. Froehling, aged 15 years, 5 months and 8 days.

HAYNES—On Friday, August 11, 1905, Theresa K., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Haynes, aged 17 years, 5 months.

RYAN—In this city, Saturday, August 12, 1905, George J., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan, aged 7 months.

SWICK—On Monday, August 11, 1905, Willard Y., son of Willard and Mabel Swick, aged 2 years, 3 months, 3 days.

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a painted blank is provided. The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 138, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, Sec'y and Treas.
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary
$900
YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, state to travel, appointing agents, managers, for local work; backing advertisements. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and bonuses paid advancement; old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman. Address, business, permanent position, Manager, 325 Caxton Bldg., Chicago.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Aves
Plainfield, N. J

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counselor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

A LOCAL PAPER IN 1838

Some Items of Interest in Copy of "Plainfield Union" 67 Years Ago.

M. F. CUSHING, EDITOR

Contains Message of Martin Van Buren, Then President, and Some Queer Advertisements.

A copy of the Plainfield Union almost black with age, and dated Tuesday, December 11, 1838, has found its way to the office of the Elizabeth Journal. It was once the property of Miss Mary W. Drake, whose father, Ezra Drake, was a former Plainfielder, and a subscriber.

The Union prints the eight column message of President Martin Van Buren, which reached New York in ten hours and fifteen minutes after it was delivered in Congress. The cash in the national treasury was then only $314,068, according to the message, and the revenues amounted to $4,262,145. There were 12,533 postoffices in the whole country.

A few advertisements are printed, including one of the New Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company. The fare from Jersey City to Newark was 37½ cents; to Rahway, 50 cents; to New Brunswick, 75 cents. Passengers who received tickets at the ticket office received a "ferry ticket gratis." There is no mention made of trains running further than New Brunswick. Two were run each day. "Newark night line, leaves every night except Sunday. Fare on the night line, 37½ cents."

Jonathan Osborn, Jr., was sheriff of Essex county and Jacob O. Drake was surrogate. Ezra Fairchild conducted the Green Brook Family School, and the long advertisement calling attention to that institution, said, among other things:

"Much solicitude is felt, and ample provisions are made, to secure, as far as possible, the health, comfort and safety as well as the intellectual and moral culture of every pupil during the hours of school, recreation and rest. The sacred Scriptures are received as the only standard of morals; and religious instruction is given without inculcating the peculiar doctrines of any one class of men."

A Rahway advertisement contained information to the effect that Joseph S. Freeman "respectfully informs the public that the Rahway boats, consisting of three good substantial vessels are now in operation, running daily to and from New York. Mechanic, Captain Wilsey; LaFayette, Captain Vanpelt; New Jersey, Captain Stansbery."

"N. B. Persons are requested to direct the goods in New York to 'Freeman's,' or the 'Old Line,' as there is another line established at Bricktown, some distance down the river."

Zachariah Webster had houses to rent in Plainfield and Scotch Plains. Craig & Shotwell sold wines, brandy, gin, rum, etc., for medicinal purposes only, and Samuel S. Pound sold sperm candles, wrapping yarn, winter-strained oil, etc.

Mr. Cushing announced that "All temperance, political and religious notices will be inserted at half the price of common advertisements."

At the head of the editorial columns of the Union is a declaration of Jefferson: "For I have sworn upon the altar of God, eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man."

On November 25, 1838, a few days before the issue of the Union, the steamboat, Gen. Brown, was blown up on the Mississippi just below Memphis, in Arkansas. From forty to sixty lives were lost.

One marriage notice was printed. It was that of Henry Garretson, of Hillsborough, to Jane Field, daughter of Richard Field, of Bound Brook. The following deaths were published:

"In New York on the 27th ult., Mr. Jos. P. Tooker, in the 46th year of his age, formerly an enterprising merchant of Rahway. His remains were brought to Elizabeth Town on Thursday and interred in the Episcopal churchyard in that town.

"Also in New York, on the 30th ult., Mrs. Rebecca Edgar, widow of David Edgar, formerly of Woodbridge, N. J. aged 68 years."

The Union which was edited and published by Milton F. Cushing, was distributed in the vicinity of Plainfield by Mr. Cushing, who took the weekly edition in his own private conveyance. He made quick time over the mountains, and had no complaints in regards to newsboys. Some of the subscribers received the paper when it was two or three days old.

A Tramp's Haven.

It was a queer freak of sentiment that led the late Mrs. Kramer of far-famed Kalamazoo, Mich., to set aside in her will $10,000 as a fund for feeding tramps. That the money will go to the proper persons there is little doubt, as the trustee of the will is Senator Julius Caesar Burrows, who drew it. Having lived in Washington practically all the time for many years, Mr. Burrows is an expert, and recognizes a tramp on sight. It may be pertinently remarked in passing that Kalamazoo is noted, among other good points, for being the seat of the State insane asylum.—Exchange.

WIDOW GETS DAMAGES FROM PUBLIC SERVICE

CORPORATION LOSES CASE IN COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

Judgment has been secured in the Court of Special Sessions this week in favor of Mrs. Mary Brown, of East Third street, in her suit against the Public Service Corporation on account of the death of her husband, William Brown, who was killed on Broad street, Elizabeth, August 17, a year ago.

Brown was motorman on a Plainfield-Elizabeth trolley. While changing a fender on one of the cars at the trolley station at Broad street, Brown was run into by another trolley and crushed to death. Mrs. Brown brought suit through a Newark lawyer and lost the case. She then took the matter to Coddington & Swackhamer, of this city. This was but a few weeks ago. According to law in such cases, the action must be taken within a year after the accident. The year is up on August 17, so the greatest haste had to be taken in the matter. S. S. Swackhamer filed a declaration at the Supreme Court last week, and on Wednesday a judgment in favor of the plaintiff was granted.

The amount of the judgment was not made public. The proceedings were conducted quietly, and it was not known that the case was resumed until a week ago. The trolley company was represented by John A. Bernhardt, of Elizabeth.

NOVEL MACHINE.

Put Nickel in Slot and Get Cigar.

Numerous mechanical devices for the distribution of chewing gum, candy and other merchandise have attracted considerable attention during the last few years and have proven both a profitable and a convenient method of selling goods, appreciated by both consumer and distributor. The penny in the slot machine is to be found everywhere and a more satisfactory, polite or honest salesman does not exist. A recent invention, for the automatic selling of cigars is a much more remarkable automaton, and solves a more difficult problem. Cigars from their shape and composition require much more delicate handling than a package of gum or candy and it has taken years of experiment to evolve the present machine.

The machine itself is compact, strong, and handsome, consisting of a nickleplated frame, about one foot high and wide enough to admit a square cigar-box holding fifty cigars. On the right hand side is attached a cigar cutter and match box. The sides, front and top are of heavy plate glass, so that the cigars and Government Stamp are in plain sight at all times. As the machine is not opened from the time the box is placed therein until it is empty the customer is assured of clean, well-kept smokes at all times.

The machines are loaded with various grades of cigars, costing from five cents to three for a quarter, and delivers the three cigars as easily as it does one. While none of these machines have yet been put in operation in New Jersey, it is expected that by fall the State will be plentifully supplied, and Plainfield will have about fifty machines installed in a short time. The inventor, Mr. Willard D. Doremus, is the man responsible for the mail boxes now in use by the U. S. Government, as well as the cancelling machine and other important devices.

Ingenious Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen, reported: Pipe coupling lock, C. A. Catalani, Newark; motor, H. E. B. Blomgren, Palmyra; seal (three patents), E. J. Brooks, East Orange; key locking device for pneumatic pianos, J. Carruthers, Garwood; underground conduit, M. T. Craven, Vineland; game apparatus, D. A. Darius, Jersey City; journal box, J. C. Fritts, Newark; slide valve for steam engines, L. J. W. H. Giffhorn (deceased), Spotswood; vibrator for molding machines, F. W. Hall, Merchantville; machine for bending hooks, H. Jones, Mahwah; lemon squeezer, R. D. Middlekauff, Plainfield; centrifugal for similar pump, F. Ray, East Orange; electric switch, J. R. Rusby, Nutley; blower for fan, J. H. Seymour, Newark; bow-facing oar, Ora C. Simpson and R. H. McPeek, Newton; pneumatic dispatch tube apparatus, J. F. Skirrow, East Orange; wire drawing machine, A. Smith, Trenton; bunsen burner, O. Wiederhold, Bloomfield. Trademark: Varnishes, C. H. Gillespie & Sons, Jersey City; skirt and waist holders, Consolidated Safety Pin Company, Bloomfield; soft and stiff fur hats, No Name Hat Manufacturing Company, Orange.

Judge Strong's Successor.

The New Brunswick "Home News" says that Judge Woodbridge Strong will not be a candidate for reappointment next winter, as he has announced his desire to retire at the end of his term as county judge next April. Judge Strong is getting along in years and he is entitled to retirement. It is said that one of the Middlesex District Court Judges will succeed him. Both are well-known and well-liked and both have served in the Assembly. Either Judge Hicks or Judge Lyon would be satisfactory to the majority.—Jersey City Journal.

DULL IS THE TOWN.

Dull is the town in midsummer;
Mary is gone to the hills.
Daily I'm hotter and glummer;
How shall I pay all the bills?

Mary is gone to the hills,
High as the rates at the inn,
How shall I pay all the bills?
Where shall I gather the tin?

High as the rates at the inn
(Air at a dollar a breath).
Where shall I gather the tin?
Creditors hound me to death.

Air at a dollar a breath
At that same Inn-in-the-Pines.
Creditors hound me to death;
I'm not an owner of mines.

At that same Inn-in-the-Pines
Beggary comes overnight;
I'm not an owner of mines:
Pity a penniless wight!—

Beggary comes overnight;
Daily I'm hotter and glummer.
Pity a penniless wight!
Dull is the town in midsummer.
—Robert Truslow, in Reader Magazine.

CENSUS SHOWS QUEER POLLING PERCENTAGES

CAMDEN HAS ONE VOTE TO EVERY 3.99 PERSONS, 20 CITIES AVERAGE 5.24.

With the issuing of Bulletin No. 12, from the office of the Secretary of State, all the unofficial census bulletins are finished, and there will be none issued until the complete tabulation of the census figures is issued in one document.

Many surprising things are coming to the surface, now that politicians have received the figures for many of the big municipalities. It is not understood how Camden, with a population of 82,912, cast a Presidential vote last fall of 20,777, or one vote for every 3.99 persons—men, women and children.

Essex county, with a population as disclosed by the present State census, of 409,625, cast 80,510 Presidential votes, while Hudson county, with a population of 449,896, cast 79,009 votes. It is claimed that Essex county had 8,000 more votes than she was entitled to under the census returns, as compared with Hudson county.

The present population, the Presidential vote in 1904, and the percentage to population of this vote, in the twenty principal municipalities reported so far, is interesting, as it shows that there are queer things in Jersey politics, hard to reconcile with the fact that a man must be 21 years old to vote, and that women and children may not vote. In tabular form this condition is shown as follows:

| | Population 1905. | Vote in 1904. |
|---|---|---|
| Newark .......... | 383,289 | 53,433 |
| Jersey City ...... | 232,699 | 44,317 |
| Paterson (estimated) .......... | 115,000 | 21,891 |
| Trenton .......... | 84,147 | 18,394 |
| Camden .......... | 82,912 | 20,777 |
| Hoboken .......... | 65,468 | 10,533 |
| Elizabeth ........ | 60,509 | 11,978 |
| Bayonne .......... | 42,441 | 6,630 |
| Passaic .......... | 37,837 | 4,679 |
| Atlantic City .... | 37,593 | 6,768 |
| West Hoboken ... | 29,082 | 4,328 |
| Orange .......... | 26,101 | 5,939 |
| Perth Amboy .... | 25,895 | 3,601 |
| East Orange ..... | 25,175 | 5,509 |
| New Brunswick .. | 23,133 | 5,110 |
| Plainfield ....... | 18,469 | 3,850 |
| Town of Union .. | 16,872 | 3,038 |
| Bridgeton ........ | 13,624 | 2,875 |
| Phillipsburg ..... | 13,352 | 2,752 |
| Millville .......... | 11,884 | 2,759 |

As will be seen the reports vary from one voter for every 3.99 inhabitants in Camden, to one to every 8.08 inhabitants in Passaic. Passaic has a very large foreign population working in the textile mills there, and Perth Amboy also has the same, although the ratio of population to voters is 7.19.

The total population of the twenty cities is 1,245,481, and the total vote cast in them last year was 229,461, or one vote to a fraction less than 5.24 inhabitants.

FOREST CULTIVATION.

State Geologist Says the Work Can Be Made Profitable.

Trenton, Aug. 12.—State Geologist Kummel, of the State Forestry Commission, said yesterday that the commission had received many propositions for the sale of woods. The commission had made no purchase, and would not make any until all offers were in.

He said the commission would endeavor to show what could be done by forest cultivation, and added:

"It is believed that such cultivation can be made decidedly profitable, especially in those parts of the State where the lands cannot be profitably employed in agriculture. Forty-six per cent. of the area of New Jersey is in forests, and there are hundreds of thousands of acres of these lands in South Jersey and in the mountains of Sussex and other northern counties where nothing else can be grown. They have not heretofore been developed to anything like their possible resources as forest growing areas, because of want of knowledge and the yearly ravages of the forest fires.

"Forest preservation and cultivation by the State, it is believed, will overcome these adverse factors."

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Good Stories for Summer Reading.

English Fiction, part 1.

Aguilar, G.—Days of Bruce.
"Tale of Scottish war of independence (Edward II.)"

Ainsworth, W. H.—Tower of London.
"The tragic story of Lady Jane Grey."

Anstey, F.—Vice Versa.
"A droll situation is effected by change of personality between a schoolboy and his staid old father."

Austen, Jane.—Emma.
"Heroine, a pretty wilful girl of sterling character, whose feminine rage for matchmaking and capacity for making mistakes, get herself and her friends into scrapes."

Austen, Jane.—Northanger abbey and Persuasion.
"Stories of English middle class society in early 19th century."

Austen, Jane.—Pride and prejudice.
"English social life in early 19th century."

Barrie, J. M.—Little minister.
"Sketches of character and of Scottish manners and religious sentiments very humorous."

Barrie, J. M.—Sentimental Tommy.
"Gives an inimitable picture of the child world in the homely Scotch village of Thrums."

Besant, Sir W.—All sorts and conditions of men.
"This sincere and enthusiastic story of London east end conditions suggested the famous People's palace."

Besant, Sir W—Children of Gibeon.
"Poverty, social reform and influence of caste are principal themes, and the life of the poor, with the various agencies for amelioration are realistically described."

Besant, Sir W., and Rice, James—Chaplain of the Fleet.
"Story of the famous jail in George III's reign, full of antiquarian lore about the streets, houses, theatres and the society of the times."

Black, W.—Daughter of Heth.
"Hero, a dare-devil but manly boy, son of a Presbyterian minister; heroine, his cousin, a half French girl, whose sunny and refined character contrasts and clashes with the rigid puritanism of the northern village."

Black, W.—Princess of Thule.
Scenes of the story laid in Isle of Skye and in London.

Blackmore, R. D.—Alice Lorraine.
"Romance of period of Napoleonic wars; full of startling incident and adventure."

Blackmore, R. D.—Lorna Doone.
"Tale of the savage deeds of the outlaw Doones and of honest John Ridd, yeoman of the downs, whose chance encounter with Lorna makes him a soldier and a knight."

Bronte, C.—Jane Eyre.
"Largely autobiographic, not so much in incident as in the strong and passionate expression of personal feeling, of revolt from social conventions and of questioning of narrow religious dogmas."

Brown, John.—Rab and his friends.
"A tenderly beautiful Scotch story of a rare woman and a noble dog."

Bunyan, John—Pilgrim's progress.
"Its form is almost epic; its dramatic dialogue, its clear types of character, its vivid descriptions, have given an equal but a different pleasure to children and men, to the villager and the scholar."

Caine, Hall.—The Manxman.
"A picture of peculiar social conditions in Isle of Man."

Collins, Wilkie.—The moonstone.
"It keeps curiosity on the alert until the key of the mystery is given."

Collins, Wilkie.—Woman in white.
"Designed to enlist the reader's ingenuity in discovering the identity of a puppet heroine and the real object of a villainous conspiracy."

Conrad, J.—Youth.
"Grim tales of sea and land."

Couch, A. T. Q.—Hetty Wesley.
"The true story of Hetty Wesley, the unhappy sister of John and Charles Wesley, worked into a historical novel. The contrast of character between John and Charles Wesley is presented with great care."

Couch, A. T. Q.—Splendid spur; memoirs of the adventures of John Marvel.
"Royalist romance of the great civil war, particularly strong on the history of the campaign in Cornwall and the west of England generally, (1642-43.)"

Craik, Mrs. D. M. M.—John Halifax, gentleman.
"Quiet story of an Englishman's daily life, commonplace in event but made fine by character: early 19th century."

Craik, Mrs. D. M. M.—My mother and I.

Crockett, S. R.—Lilac sunbonnet.
"An idyllic Galloway love story."

Dickens, C.—Christmas books.

Dickens, C.—David Copperfield.
"Founded to a large extent on the story of his own early struggles, and on other cherished memories."

Dickens, C.—Tale of two cities.
"Story of the French revolution, presenting a vivid description of the horrors of mob rule and the reign of terror."

97,036 in Middlesex.

Census bulletin No. 11 completes the Middlesex census returns and added to the privious returns gives the county a total population of 97,036, a gain of 17,247 over 1900.

MRS. FRASER TELLS OF WOMEN WHO SMOKE

COUSIN OF MRS. FLORENCE H. HALL SPEAKS OF EXPERIENCES ABROAD.

Mrs. Hugh Fraser, the authoress, cousin of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of this city, and niece of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who was recently in Plainfield, and who sailed last week for Japan, in a talk about her life abroad told of the universality of the custom of smoking among upper class women of all nationalities.

"Strange as it may seem, though," she said, "among the Japanese women, I have never seen one of the nobility smoke. No Japanese woman of the nobility, in fact, has ever admitted to me that she smoked. I presume that they do in their own homes. They may not have spoken of it, feeling that a Western woman would object, and it would not be courteous to do so.

"But if the upper class women are not seen smoking, the middle and lower class women smoke constantly. On long railroad journeys you will always see the women smoking. They smoke the three whiffs of tobacco that the little pipe contains, and then fill and light it again. They have told me that they smoke in this way because it is the first whiff of the tobacco which is agreeable. For my part I think their tobacco is very bad. I believe it is home grown, and it is not at all agreeable.

"My little Japanese maids always smoked, though never in my presence. They used to sit on their steps and smoke, but that was in their own quarters. I once raised the wages of my personal maid, and the first thing she did was to engage a maid for herself, and the duties of this little girl were chiefly to prepare her tea and make ready her pipe.

"All the upper class women abroad smoke—English, French, German, Italian and Russian. In many circles in England it is expected that cigarettes shall be passed to the women after dinner, and we have a peculiar rule there about smoking in public. At after-theatre suppers one always smokes.

"All Russian women smoke, and smoke a great deal, and I presume that it is through them to a great extent that the women of other countries have taken up the practice. They have an excellent tobacco which they use, and which is difficult to find, though it is to be had in London in some of the Russian shops.

"Turkish women, of course, smoke constantly, and they use a very good tobacco. French women I know less about than those of other nationalities, and they vary, some using tobacco and others objecting to it. German women smoke, also the Italians. A woman of the upper class, a Roman, would be surprised not to be offered a cigarette after dinner.

"But in speaking of smoking, the women who smoke most of all are the Australian women. They smoke cigars. I shall never forget a dinner that was given to the Prince of Wales by the British Embassy in Vienna. Sir Henry Elliot was the Ambassador, and my husband was secretary of the Embassy. The guests for this dinner had been selected with great care; they were distinguished people, and all the most beautiful women had been brought together. The Viennese women are charming and they wear exquisite gowns. The dinner passed off as it should, and at its close Sir Henry rose to conduct the prince to the smoking room, when, to our surprise, every woman at that table rose and trouped after them. Those beautiful women in their comely low-cut gowns and covered with diamonds disappeared into the smoking room to finish their dinners with cigars.

"Lady Elliot and I said that there was nothing for us to do but to sit down and have a friendly chat together, for we could not possibly stand the smoke of that room.

"I have seen fine old white-haired ladies in Vienna sitting tired out in a ballroom waiting to take home the daughters they were chaperoning each with a great cigar in her mouth.

"An Austrian woman is never expected to smoke until she is married, though I suppose the young girls do it in their own apartments. There was one little Austrian duchess, whose name I have forgotten, who was burned to death while attempting to hide a cigarette in the pocket of a light frock when her governess came unexpectedly into the room when she was smoking.

"In America I have found that women who have traveled often smoke, and otherwise there has been very little objection, and no one minds if I open my cigarette case after dinner where they are not accustomed to using them. The most rigid objections I have found in Maryland and Virginia. There people are horrified by the custom."

Dunellen's Population.

Dunellen's population, according to the census bulletin, is 1,517. This is an increase of 275 in five years.

Forty Good Stories.

Do you like to hear a good story? The New York Sunday World offered prizes for the best short stories World readers had heard. Forty of the best of them are published in next Sunday's World, and every one of the forty is well worth reading. There is also a good Sherlock Holmes story and O. Henry story, not to mention several timely vacation features.

NEW TROLLEY LINE CONTRACTS ARE SET

NEW YORK-PHILADELPHIA COMPANY'S SHORT ROAD WILL GIVE HIGH SPEED.

The New York-Philadelphia company has just let to Cole & Tonson's a contract for the grading and building of its New Jersey short line. This will extend from Milltown, the present terminus of the Trenton and New Brunswick, to Elizabeth, giving a high-speed line from New Brunswick to Elizabeth, and in connection with the Trenton and New Brunswick railroad, a through high-speed system from Trenton to Elizabeth.

The present route of the through service between Trenton and New York is over the Trenton and New Brunswick "Fast Line" to New Brunswick, and from there a detour is necessary via the lines of the Public Service Corporation, the cars passing through Bound Brook, Dunellen and Plainfield to Elizabeth. With the completion of the New Jersey short line there will be a direct high-speed route all the way from Trenton to Elizabeth, avoiding detours and cutting in half the time consumed for the trip between Trenton and New York will be fully realized with the completion of the Short Line railroad, the work on which will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

WHICH WOULD YOU LOSE?

Relative Value of Thumb and Finger in Various Countries.

The Thumb—The different fingers are far from having the same value with reference to their functional utilization. Much the most important is the thumb, for within it prehension would be very imperfect. The hand is no longer pincers, but merely a claw, when deprived of the thumb. It may be estimated that the thumb represents fully a third of the total value of the hand. The total loss of the thumb is estimated by Brouardel, secretary of the Societe le Medecine Legale, as 15 to 25 per cent. for the right and 10 to 15 per cent. for the left hand, except for workers in art, when estimates 40 to 50 for the right and 25 to 40 per cent. for the left hand. The Austrian schedule gives 15 to 25 per cent. In Germany, 20, 28 and up to 33.3 per cent. has been awarded. On account of the great difference resulting in our opinion from the use of both hands, we prefer, in the professions not requiring special hand skill, 30 per cent. for the right and 20 per cent. for the left. The percentage is based on 100 as the total industrial value of the hand previous to the accident, a loss of 50 per cent. representing half of that value and a loss of 25 per cent, one-fourth, etc.

The Index Finger—The total loss of the index finger causes an incapacity estimated at 10 to 15 per cent. in Germany; 15 to 23 per cent. by Thiersch; 20 per cent. for the right and 15 per cent. for the left by the Italian courts; 15 per cent. by the French tribunals; 10 to 15 per cent for the left by Brouardel, except for workers in art. These figures differ but little from one another, and the figures from 10 to 20 per cent., according to the side, may be adopted.

The Middle Finger—The total loss of the middle finger is regarded by Golebiewski as often more prejudicial than that of the index. This is an isolated opinion; almost all the authorities ascribe less importance to the middle finger than to the index. Yet a great loss of force is observed in the hand when the finger is amputated. The following are estimates: The Austrian tariff, 5 to 10 per cent.; Brouardel, 5 to 15 per cent., except for workers in art; Thiersch, 10 to 20 per cent.; the Italian law, 5 per cent. The figures 8 to 12 per cent. offer are nearest the truth.

The annular (ring) finger is the least important. Its total loss often does not cause incapacity. The Austrian tariff assimilates this finger to the middle one. Brouardel estimates the loss at 5 to 10 per cent.; the Italian law, 8 per cent. The French and German judicial decisions are often in accord in refusing indemnity, considering the incapacity resulting from the loss as very slight.

The articular (little) finger may be compared to the annular, except in the professions, in which it serves as a point of support for the hand.—From Accidents of Travel.

Higgins Goes to Europe.

B. J. Higgins, of Elizabeth, who is the chairman of the municipal ownership committee of the Elizabeth Council, has sailed for Europe on a business trip. Elizabeth is interested in a scheme to purchase the water works from a private corporation and an important meeting was arranged for tonight between the water company officials and the councilmanic committee. The absence of Mr. Higgins, it is said, places the matter in an awkward position.

Peaches and Cream.

Arrangements for a peach and ice cream festival to be held Friday, August 18, in the basement of the church, were started by the Ladies' Aid Society, of the German Reformed church, at a special meeting yesterday. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Angerbauer, president of the society; Mrs. Jacob Blimm, Mrs. J. Schorb, Sr., Mrs. P. Bach and Mrs. Scheegas.

BOOMING E. R. ACKERMAN

Despite His Refusal to Make Contest, Friends are Advocating His Nomination

FOR STATE SENATOR.

Movement in Elizabeth and Elsewhere—Something About the Man.

Although he declares that he will make no fight for the nomination, friends of Ernest Ackerman, of the Third ward, are industriously at work advocating him as a candidate for State senator. The movement started in Elizabeth and in various other sections it has gained much headway. Plainfield is still looked upon by county leaders as a doubtful quantity, although the administration people have come out for William N. Runyon. It has been stated that Mr. Ackerman will not accept a nomination without the support of his own town and his friends count upon obtaining it before the convention date.

Ernest R. Ackerman has been a resident of Plainfield for the greater portion of his life. He was born in New York city on June 17, 1863, and was educated at the Plainfield Public Schools, graduating from the High School in 1880. He has been a great traveler, and there is hardly a portion of the civilized world but that has contributed to his knowledge of men and things. He has always taken a great interest in local affairs, and in matters of general public interest. He is conservative in his actions and his mind and judgment have been ripened by a wide experience.

Mr. Ackerman fought the "Big Six" in the Common Council of 1891-92, when he represented the Third Ward in that body, and to his efforts was due in a great measure the setback the efforts the "Big Six" received and their final overthrow. He was a Presidential Elector and was Secretary of the New Jersey Electoral College in 1897. He is a member at large of the New Jersey Geological Survey. Fellow Republicans have frequently sent him as a delegate to city, county and State conventions of the party, and he was the chairman of the last county convention. He has been chairman of the Republican City Executive Committee, and is the present vice chairman, and is also the treasurer of the Third Ward Republican club.

In business matters Mr. Ackerman has always taken a leading part. He has been a large employer of labor and frequently has had from fifteen hundred to two thousand men on the pay roll. He is president of the Lawrence Cement Company, the pioneer of the cement industry and one of the largest producers of cement in the world. He is also president of the Feltville Water Company and is connected with many other business enterprises. He is a director of the Plainfield Trust Company, a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, the Union League Club of New York, the Lawyers' Club, the McKinley Club, the Collectors' Club, the Building Material Exchange, the American Society of Testing Materials, the National Association of Manufacturers, an Association Society of Civil Engineers, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History, and a Fellow of the American Geographical Society.

For twenty years Mr. Ackerman has been a director of the Y. M. C. A. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Crescent Avenue church, of the Advisory Board of the Plainfield Relief Association, and is second vice president of the Muhlenberg Hospital. He is vice president of the Plainfield Country Club, and is an exempt fireman, having been a member of the Alert Hose company in the days of the volunteer firemen.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WORK.

Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and Dr. McCrea the Officiating Pastors.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, funeral services were held Aug. 9 over the body of Mrs. F. S. Work from her late home on Prospect place. They were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of Perth Amboy, former pastor of the First M. E. church, and Rev. A. C. McCrea, the present pastor. Two selections, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Abide With Me," were sung by Miss Bertha Willis of the First M. E. church choir. There were numerous floral tributes.

The interment was made at Hillside cemetery and the following acted as pall bearers: James R. Joy and William Chambers of this city; Mr. Campbell and Mr. Druse of Roselle.

Edison to Buy Old Homestead.

Thomas A. Edison intends to purchase the house where he was born near Milan, Ohio, nearly half a century ago. Mrs. Mary Ristline, of Chicago, is the owner, and negotiations with her for a transfer to the inventor are now under way. Mr. Edison expects to visit Milan soon.

Township Has Grown!

There are 653 people in North Plainfield township, according to the State census figures. In 1900 there were 654 inhabitants.

A MOSQUITOLESS STATE

New Jersey is Now Aspiring For the Title.

Professor John B. Smith, the state entomologist, has been studying the condition of the mosquito crops in this and seashore vicinities during the summer. Speaking of the matter and commenting on the two chief reasons for the scarcity of the pests —the character of the season and the meadow drainage, Mr. Smith said:

"The general scarcity of mosquitoes along shore has been quite generally commented upon in the press, and while in some cases the tendency seems to be to credit the work done by the State with this satisfactory condition, in others the character of the season is made responsible. It is quite as important that undue credit should not be given for a favorable showing as that the importance of what has been really accomplished should be recognized. Undeserved praise is bound to be followed by blame as undeserved when changed conditions bring changed results. Hence a few words of explanation may not be out of place.

"The spring of 1905 started dry and all the salt marshes along shore drained to a lower point than they reached at any time during the season of 1904. A spring tide in May flooded the marshes, and, helped by a little rain, filled all available depressions and favored the hatching of mosquito eggs so that in a few days millions of wrigglers were present. On the Newark marshes the water drained off rapidly in most places, the pools disappeared and with them the wrigglers; even in the Ebeling tract the work of the special inspector appointed by the board of health, assisted by Mr. Behme, cleared out all the danger spots and practically no adults merged from the entire brood.

"The drainage scheme worked perfectly. But on the marsh areas to the south and east matters were different and millions of mosquitoes emerged. From these sources Newark received a scant supply of migrants, and some even came from Staten Island. But at no time was there any approach to the condition found in May, 1904, nor were matters anywhere nearly as bad as at other points. This first brood laid its eggs on the marsh, scattered and gradually disappeared. Then came the long dry spell, which gradually evaporated all the surface pools on the marshes and left the ground in such condition that such rains as fell were completely absorbed. The same condition prevented the formation of surface pools and the activity of the board of health abated many stagnant areas that in past seasons bred local and malarial species. The park commissioners aided by dealing with the catch basins and broods were killed off by oil before they had any chance to mature. I feel safe in saying that up to this time not a mosquito developed anywhere within the Branch Brook park. Collections were made at short intervals, and almost without exception the specimens were salt marsh migrants from meadows to the south.

"July 30 the very heavy downpour of rain was accompanied by a storm tide which flooded the marshes, and within twenty-four hours Mr. Behme was investigating conditions. At Newark the area was already dry in most places, young wrigglers were found in some of the deeper pools, required longer to drain; but in forty-eight hours there was not a single lava remaining except at the Ebeling tract. Here Mr. Erhardt, from the board of health, was at work opening way for the water to get out, and again the whole area is free. Elizabeth began work on her marsh lands after the first brood was out and has cut close to 100,000 feet of machine ditches on one of the worst breeding sections. That area also is now safe; but there is, unfortunately, another large section on which a heavy brood is now in the larval stage. They are due to mature by the end of the current week, and next week there will be a flight, which may or may not reach well into Newark.

"Nothing has been done on the Linden or Rahway marshes as yet, and nothing on Staten Island. The Staten Island marshes have an appropriation of $17,000 and work will probably begun before many weeks. On the east a large portion of the Kearny marshes have been filled, but the eastern section carries a good series of breeding pools. The output from these however, is more likely to reach Jersey City and to extend north along the line of the Hackensack. Examinations have not yet extended further; but, while some salt marsh specimens will almost certainly come in from the south next week, they will be nothing like the heavy swarms of a year ago. The heavy rains have also filled pools in the low lots in the city and there is also a chance for local breeding in any old tubs, pails or other receptables. House mosquitoes are, therefore, likely to increase, and as against these householders should be on the lookout. A single neglected tub will develop specimens enough to infest a square.

"As to the balance of the season it is impossible to predict; but there is yet time for two heavy shore broods."

---

S. C. Mundy, of the borough, returned yesterday from a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

HE NEVER BLAMED THE BOOZE.

He took a bottle up to bed,
Drank whiskey hot each night,
Drank cocktails in the morning,
But never could get tight.
He shivered in the evening,
And always had the blues,
Until he took a bowl or two—
But he never blamed the booze.

His joints were full of rheumatis.
His appetite was slack;
He had pains between his shoulders,
'Chills ran down his back.
He suffered with insomnia,
At night he couldn't snooze,
He said it was the climate—
But he never blamed the booze.

His constitution was run down,
At least, that's what he said;
His legs were swelled each morning.
And he often had swelled head.
He tackled beer, wine, whiskey,
And if they didn't fuse,
He blamed it to dyspepsia—
But he never blamed the booze.

He said he couldn't sleep at night,
And always had bad dreams;
He claimed he always laid awake
Till early sunrise beams.
He thought it was malaria,
Alas; 'twas but a ruse;
He blamed it onto everything—
But he never blamed the booze.

His liver needed scraping.
And his kidneys had the gout;
He swallowed lots of bitters
Till at last he cleaned them out.
His legs were swelled with dropsy
Till he had to cut his shoes;
He blamed it on the doctor—
But he never blamed the booze.

Then he had the tremens,
And he tackled rats and snakes.
First he had the fever,
Then he had the shakes.
At last he had a funeral,
And the mourners had the blues.
And the epitaph carved for him was
"He never blamed the booze."
—New Brunswick Times.

5,000 YEARS LIFE OF NIAGARA FALLS

POWER GRABBERS PERFORMING MIRACLES IN ENGINEERING.

Man in his attempts to harness Niagara would fail utterly if he imitated the slow processes by which nature is causing a recession of the great cataract. These are at the rate of five inches a century for every one hundred miles of the lake region which supplies the volume of water that rushes over the precipice at the rate of 222,000 cubic feet per second.

Geologists say that at the present rate of recession the falls will disappear in from 3,500 to 5,000 years. As even the shortest of these periods is a hundred generations ahead, we who now cherish Niagara as the grandest of out national spectacles, need borrow no trouble about its passing from human sight and ken.

Before that remote period, "the great globe itself and all who inherit it" may have dissolved. The worry of the present generation in regard to Niagara must be the future devastations of the great power companies, five of which, American and Canadian, are now organized, while scores of others are clamoring for legislative franchises.

The miracles being wrought at Niagara by engineering and electricity are almost past belief. They have made this famous spot the engineering centre of the world, the Mecca of throngs of visitors who come in the interests of science or are led by curiosity to explore the victories man is achieving over the giant forces of nature.

One among many of these triumphs is a tunnel 158 feet below the Niagara River, 1,935 feet in length and so wide that a coach and four can pass through it. These many feats of subterranean engineering, bold in conception and wonderful in execution are explained learnedly and at length in the Review of Reviews.

Niagara harnessed as the servant of man will place at his disposal 180,000 horsepower, furnish electric light plants for distant cities, prope' railways, turn the wheels of factories near and far, and keep in motion many industries, some of which are now in successful operation.

As its volume of water is one hundred million tons an hour, the canals tunnels, conduits and other engineering miracles already completed have had no perceptible effect on the cataract. But the would-be power grabbers are many, and if their ambitious schemes were carried out, even this colossal force would at last give way.

In order to prevent this calamity the people, both of the United States and Canada, are protesting against the granting of further franchises.

A Travelling Hint.

If you haven't a medicine case, pack the necessary bottles into the bag you carry—there's no use taking the risk of their breaking and ruining everything that liquid will ruin. And there's hardly anything that it won't! Over each tray spread tissue paper—several sheets of it—tucking it in carefully all around the edges. When packing, be sure to slip in a soiled clothes bag, one big enough to pack the clothes away in on your return. A large cretonne bag, made with a drawstring, takes up mighty little room and is a big comfort.

SIX HOLIDAYS NOW FOR RURAL CARRIERS

AN ORDER ISSUED ALSO MAKES THEM PAINTERS.

An order has been issued at Washington that will gladden the hearts of all the rural free delivery carriers of the mail department all over the country. They have been given six holidays during the year.

Postmaster General Cortelyou recently issued the following order: "Ordered, That hereafter service on all rural free delivery routes be suspended on New Year's day, January 1; Washington's birthday, February 22; Memorial day, May 30; Independence day, July; first Monday in September known as Labor day, and such day as the President may set apart as Thanksgiving day in each calendar year."

The postoffice department has inaugurated a new policy in the matter of painting rural letter boxes. The rural letter carriers are now to become knights of the paint brush, and receive additional compensation for their extra work, which, by the way, will be compulsory.

There are 3,000,000 rural boxes in the country, and before the close of the summer these boxes will be resplendent in a coat of brilliant green paint, which will be furnished to the carriers by the department.

A few days ago the postmaster general asked the comptroller of the treasury if he could employ the rural letter carriers to paint the rural boxes. The comptroller decided that the postmaster general could contract with the carriers to paint the boxes, provided it does not interfere with the mail service and the men were willing to do it. The comp*troller also suggested that it would* be only proper to see that the work was done at a uniform price.

In a few days the letter carriers will be notified by the department that they will be allowed so much per box, the price not yet being fixed by the postmaster general, the department furnishing the paint.

No more lists of patrons on rural free delivery routes will be posted in postoffice lobbies.

Under an order issued in 1902 the postmasters at rural free delivery offices were instructed to prepare a list of all patrons of rural routes and post it in a conspicuous place for the information of compilers of directories and others desiring the addresses of such persons.

The continuance of this practice being deemed inadvisable instructions have been sent to the postmasters that the rule is no longer in force and that the lists which have been posted shall be torn down.

The postmaster has also been prohibited from furnishing information concerning mail matter except to the person addressed or his authorized agent or an authorized representative of the department, bcause such information as is in the possession of postmasters and other employes of the postal service as agents of the department is regarded as confidential. The names and addresses on mail matter are there for the sole purpose of enabling the department agents to effect the delivery.

An Ancient Indian Observatory.

At Jeypore, the pleasant, healthy capital of one of the most prosperous independent states of Rajputana, India, is the famous Jautra, or observatory, the largest of the five built by the celebrated royal astronomer, Jey Sing, the founder of Jeypore, who succeeded the Rajas of Amber in 1693. Chosen by Muhammad Shah to reform the calendar, his astronomical observations were formulated in tables which corrected those of De la Hire. He built five observatories—at Delhi, Benares, Muttra, Ujjain, and Jeypore. It is not under cover, but is an open court yard, full of curious and fantastic instruments invented and designed by him. They have been allowed to go out of repair and many of them are now quite useless, it being impossible even to guess what purpose they served in the wonderfully accurate calculations and observations of their inventor; but the dial, gnomons quadrants, etc., still remain of great interest to astronomers.—Scientific American.

SLAMS AT NEW YORK.

"Society journalism" in New York promises to make the yellow brand seem comparatively desirable.—Washington Star.

New York is now so highly civilized that men whose unmarried daughters were slandered in Town Topics waited until the paper got into court before seeking their "revenge." At this rate of "progress" New York will die as a rose in aromatic pain.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Five skeletons have been found on an island near Hammond, Ind. Don't ship them to New York. The family trade there is all supplied.—Chicago Journal.

"New York's population is now a little less than 4,000,000," says the Brooklyn Eagle. This includes the convicted, indicted, or suspected life insurance officials and the subscribers to Fads and Fancies.—Washington Post.

New York's society swells now have their great minds centred upon the important task of pulling off a race between a coach dog and a bull pup.—Chicago News.

BARELY ESCAPED DEATH

Many Persons Grazed By Huge Boom of Falling Derrick.

DROPPED IN STREET

Accident At Trust Company's New Building Today Caused $1,000 Loss to Contractors.

Several workmen and onlookers had narrow escapes from injury or death and fully $1,000 damage was occasioned by an accident that occurred shortly before noon Friday at the new building of the Plainfield Trust Company at Park avenue and Second street.

While a section of one of the huge limestone columns, weighing nearly four tons, was being held high in the air by the steam derrick, a connecting pin broke, allowing the forty foot boom to drop. It came down with a crash and but for the fact that it gave an ominous creak at the start and struck a part of the completed stone structural work for the doorway, would have crushed a number of persons beneath it.

The boom fell outward toward the street, the top end dropping directly in the center of Park avenue. Several workmen who were arranging to place the section of column were just grazed by the heavy mass and a group of bystanders on the sidewalk saved themselves only by jumping. Lawyer Charles M. Dolliver and Oswald Love, a young boy, were passing by on bicycles and the timber came so near them both fell from their wheels. Letter Carrier Daniel Shea, Eugene O'Reilly and Ernest Millard comprised the sidewalk group which leaped to one side barely in time.

When the piece of column dropped, it struck the outer edge of a circular base on which it was to rest and broke off a large section. It also jarred and shook the foundation at that point. The boom followed after it and caught the top of the ornamental stone coping that is to grace the doorway and wrecked a part of the projecting ridges. The column itself was damaged though it finally landed on the ground. All these pieces will have to be replaced and in addition a new boom will have to be secured before the work can proceed.

The construction of the building has hitherto gone ahead rapidly and the delay comes just at a time when the contractors were confident of making great progress.

IN KNUCKLE FIGHT FOR A GIRL'S LOVE

FIVE ROUNDS HAD BEEN FOUGHT WHEN POLICEMAN STOPPED CONTEST.

A mounted policeman spoiled Wednesday night a fight between two young men in a lonely spot between Elizabeth and Rahway. The fight was to have been to a finish, the loser to relinquish all claims to the affections of a girl who is described as a very pretty blonde, twenty-two years old, and a recognized belle of Rahway. All those concerned refuse to tell the girl's name.

The two fighters were Henry Listner, of Elizabeth, and Walter Desmond, of Rahway. Both have courted the young woman and she seemed about equally divided in her affection for them.

The rivalry became so keen that recently neither man spoke to the other, although once they were friends. Matters became so strained that friends met and it was arranged that a fistic bout was the only means of settling the question.

A spot near a district camp was selected, off the main road, between Elizabeth and Rahway. Wednesday night was agreed upon as the time for the fight. Each of the two men was accompanied by his followers. No gloves were used.

The fight had gone about five rounds and Desmond seemed to be getting the worst of it when a policeman on horseback appeared and scattered the crowd, but did not succeed in making any arrests, as all disappeared in the darkness.

Listner bears no marks of the fight but Desmond is cut about the eyes and is minus a couple of teeth. The friends decided to call it a draw. It is said they soon will meet again and have it out.

NO CROSS-STATE TROLLEY.

Line from Jersey City to Shore Resorts May Be Substituted.

During a hearing before the Elizabeth Common Council, upon an application made by the Public Service Corporation for a franchise to run a line rfom that city to Rahway, Vice President A. B. Carlton of the company intimated that the cross-state trolley line from Jersey City to Trenton would probably be abandoned.

In its stead the company contemplates running a through line from Jersey City by way of Newark, Elizabeth, Rahway, Perth Amboy and South Amboy to Long Branch, Asbury Park and other shore resorts.

HE STOPPED THE FREIGHT

Joseph Sullivan Makes It Easy For Himself In Getting Off.

IS NEARLY DEPORTED

Crew Run Him Down and Insist On Taking Him To Jersey City Until Detective McCarthy Interferes.

Joseph Sullivan, sixteen years old, of John street, took a ride on an Eastbound Central freight train early Thursday. Just beyond Grant avenue Joseph decided to get off. The train was going too fast for comfortable debarkation so Joseph reached down over the side of a car and pulled out the lever that sets the air brakes. The train slowed up and Joseph got down.

So did the conductor and the rest of the crew. The sudden stoppage of the train surprised them, and when they saw Joseph leaving they promptly put two and two together. Joseph didn't wait for questions. As soon as he saw the crew coming his way he ran as fast as he could go.

The railroad men ran him down at Liberty and Third streets. The conductor grabbed Joseph and told him to come along. Joseph started, but when the conductor announced that he was going to take him to Jersey City the boy rebelled. He was willing to go to the Plainfield jail, but not to a foreign dungeon. The conductor insisted on taking him to Jersey City, and an argument ensued that attracted a big crowd.

Detective McCarthy, on his way home, was attracted by the crowd and shouldered his way through to the conductor and his prisoner.

He quashed the deportation place in short order.

"I'll take the boy to the jail here," he said, and that settled it. The conductor grumbled, but McCarthy kept the boy.

Joseph was arraigned before Mayor Buckle an hour later. With the shadow of deportation still on him, he was penitent and full of fine promises. Mayor Buckle lectured him, and suspended sentence.

Chief Dougherty, of the Central railroad police force, came here next morning to see about the case. The police told him that the incident was closed.

"COUNT" VAN NEST HAS EMPLOYE ARRESTED

MIRED LOAD OF SAND GETS THEM IN AN ALTERCATION.

"Count" J. K. VanNest, the "man of many troubles," appeared as complainant in Justice Clark's court at Scotch Plains Thursday, against Patrick Kinney, one of his employes. He charged him with threatening his life, using profane language and several other infractions of the law. The Count's eagerness to have Kinney punished for all these offenses failed to impress the court and the prisoner was discharged.

Kinney's arrest by Officer Pangborn afforded no little amusement for the residents of the village. The charges grew out of an altercation the two men had following their inability to get a load of sand out of a mire on Park avenue where Kinney had driven it. The warrant was placed in Pangborn's hands to serve but Kinney refused to let the officer lay hands upon him. Pangborn drew his revolver and bracelets but Kinney backed away from him and continued to back all the way to Justice Clark's home. The distance is about half a mile and the trip was marked by repeated attempts on Pangborn's part to get hold of Kinney but without effect. He called upon several citizens to help him but all suddenly had business in another direction and he had to go it alone.

RAILS FOR CUBA.

500 Tons are Now at Elizabethport Docks.

That the improvements which the Central Railroad has made along the waterfront will be in time destine Elizabethport to be one of the biggest shipping centres in the East is being evidenced more and more every day. The statement that was recently made, that shipmnts would be made from the local wharves for all foreign ports in the course of a year or so has materialized already and at the Elizabethport wharves there are waiting for shipment to Cuba, thirty carloads of steel rails, 500 tons which it is said, will be loaded aboard a steamship at the Pig Iron dock in the course of a few days.

The rails are from the Carnegie Steel Works in Pittsburg and are destined for Havana where they will be used by the Havana-Matanzas railroad concern in the building of a railroad across the island. At the present time there are little or no railroad facilities in the island. The cars arrived at the old Central yards on Front street a few days ago. They were shipped direct from the Carnegie Works in Pittsburg via the C. R. R. of N. J.

CHARGED EXCESS FARE

P. S. C. Called to Time by Dunellen For Violating Franchise.

EXTORTION AT LOOP.

Free Transfer Denied Passengers From Main Line to Bound Brook Cars—Charge Children Under Age.

Reports that the P. S. C. has been charging two fares between Dunellen and Bound Brook since the much-contested loop in the extreme west end of the borough has been in operation, contrary to the franchise under which cars run through the town, has called forth prompt action on the part of the Dunellen Council. Complaints that the conductors are not only making transfer passengers pay another fare, but are charging children under eight years old, another breach of franchise regulations, have been made.

Investigation convinced the borough authorities that the complaints were well founded and this week the Council informed the company that the overcharge must cease. In a letter to Col. E. W. Hine, the general superintendent of the P. S. C., the Council demanded that the conductors be notified to stop collecting the excess fare, and that a system of transfers be put in operation between the two lines.

The Council asks further that the company send a copy of the instructions issued.

The letter to Col. Hine reads as follows:—

"Col. E. W. Hine,

"Dear Sir: Will you please instruct your conductors who pass through or run into our borough regarding section 22 of the ordinance as amended April 2, 1900, granting the Brunswick Traction Company permission to construct, operate and maintain an electric street railway in the borough of Dunellen, which ordinance was passed and approved March 7, 1898.

"Section 22 as amended reads as follows: 'The fare from any part of Dunellen to the city of Plainfield or to any part of the borough of Bound Brook or so far as the said traction company's railway shall run to or in said borough of Bound Brook, shall not exceed the sum of five cents for the adult passengers, and no fare shall be charged for children under eight years of age; and said traction company shall issue school tickets for a sum not to exceed three cents per ride for school children and school teachers and said school rates shall apply to children going from Dunellen schools to Plainfield schools and to Bound Brook schools.'

"We are in receipt of advice that fare is being demanded of children under eight years of age, also that a five-cent fare is being demanded of adults east of the trolley loop without offering or giving transfers beyond to Bound Brook, contrary to the ordinance as amended, and the agreement thereto.

"A system of transfers must be arranged or these demands for excess fare must cease.

"We would appreciate a copy of the instructios which you issue to your conductors on this subject.

"Your kind offices and prompt attention to this matter will be much appreciated.

Respectfully Yours,
"Borough Council of Dunellen.
"Joel D. De Groff,
"Borough Clerk."

An Idyl of Summer Pleasure Travel.

Tourists declare that the most charming inland water trip on the American continent is the Hudson river by daylight. It is the favorite connecting link for travelers between New York and scenic America, including the Catskills, Saratoga, the Adirondacks, Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands and the St. Lawrance river. But the general public, that great mass of thrifty citizens who cannot afford extended pleasure at mountain resorts have put the Hudson River by Daylight Route to another use. They find in the trip a delightful day's outing. It gives them an opportunity to see West Point, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie as well as other old places. The cuisine is superior, a la carte and table d'hote both being specialties, and for a full course dinner the nominal charge of one dollar is made. From the broad decks of the palatial steamers, which glide majestically through the waters of the Hudson, can be seen historic points made famous by the Nation's greatest men in times of war and peace. Both the "New York" and the "Albany" are modern in every respect. They cannot sink. They cannot burn. And while you enjoy the cool breezes and charming scenery you find additional pleasure in the concerts given twice daily.

---

The Misses Carl, of New York, returned home today after a several days' visit to Miss Ella Grieb.

Miss Carrie Lee, of Bath, Pa., has returned home after visiting Mrs. Sarah Brokaw.

Miss Nettie Dilts, of Netcong, is visiting her cousin, Miss Florence Nelson.

Mrs. Ziba Osmun has returned from a visit to friends in Quakertown.

NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

Charles A. Bordman Will Succeed F. A. Henckel at Y. M. C. A.

WIDELY EXPERIENCED

Has Studied Medicine for Two Years—Will Take Charge on September 1—Mr. Henckel's New Place.

Charles A. Bordman, a graduate of the Springfield training school of the Y. M. C. A., will succeed F. A. Henckel, resigned, as physical director of the local association. The new director will take charge on September 1, when Mr. Henckel will leave for Brooklyn to assume the assistant physical directorship of the Central Y. M. C. A. of that place.

Mr. Bordman's acceptance of the call extended to him a week ago by the committee appointedd to fill the vacancy was received by General Secretary Manning yesterday. Mr. Bordman has had wide and successful experience in physical department work. Two years ago he discontinued his association labors to take a short course in medicine at Tufts College, and brings a highly useful knowledge of medical science to his departmental work.

The committee in charge of the appointment considered a half a dozen different eligible men, and the choice finally narrowed down between two men, of whom Mr. Bordman was one. It fell on him after the committee had convinced itself that he was the best available man for the place.

The committee was made up of Dr. Norman H. Probasco, chairman of the physical work committee; President J. W. Gavett, A. C. La-Boyteaux, C. M. Thorp.

Mr. Henckel's new position is a post of some honor in Y. M. C. A. physical department work. Although he gives up a directorship for a junior position, the size of the Cen*tral Branch, the largest in the city* of Brooklyn, makes the change actually a promotion. The change will be particularly agreeable, because John H. Scott, the physical director, is a personal friend of his. Should Mr. Henckel fill his new position successfully, as his friends here are sure he will, he would stand in line for the directorship of the Central association whenever that might become vacant.

ENEMIES OF RUNYON HOLD A CONFAB

SECRET MEETING IN ELIZABETH RECENTLY.

The Elizabeth Times said Thursday, "At a secret session of the 'Men Behind the Guns' in this county held one moonlight night recently, a conference was held in the Cory building on Broad street for the purpose of discussing the Runyon boom up county and of doing what can be done in the way of Osslerizing the ambitions of Captain Robert J. Kirkland for the office of sheriff.

"Present at the meetiag were Chas. H. K. Halsey, Police Commissioner John C. Rose, and a number of others who are known to be strong factors in Rpublican matters in this end of Union county. Now it was understood that this meeting was to be entirely secret for it was merely a formal heart-to-heart discussion on the local and Plainfield situations, the former on behalf of George T. Parrott, whose term of office expires in another year as surrogate, and the latter on the interests of Ernest R. Ackerman, presumably, as the candidate for State-senator.

"It is known that there is a strong sentiment in this city in favor of Robert J. Kirkland as the candidate for sheriff and he would doubtless make a much stronger candidate in the convention than any of the others who have been named even though Dr. Lawrence of Summit, is being urged forward by his friends with all strenuosity upon a convention promise of a year ago.

"The meeting in the Corey building was, therefore, of importance because it showed that there is a disposition on the part of some of the local Republican leaders to favor the Summit man and to put a quietus if possible on the boom in Plainfield in favor of Judge Runyon.

"The meeting was a short one but these are the subjects taken up for discussion. Mum is the word, among those who were there regarding the result of the session in the moonlight."

The Boston Bag.

"The Boston bag is a growing evil," said a man who has just returned from the Hub. "Formerly it was only the women who carried them, but now no Boston man is correctly equipped for the street who does not carry a bag. Every day in Boston I saw scores of business men carrying large green or blue broadcloth bags, exactly like those the women affect. They contain their books, papers, and small packages, and on one occasion I saw a man dive into his bag for street car fare. Do you think you could hire a New Yorker to do that?"

STANBERY JURY DISAGREE

Harrison Fails to Get a Verdict in Dunellen Court.

TO START SUIT AGAIN

Auto Owner Displays Strong Emotion On the Stand—Jurymen Wrestle With Evidence for Three Hours.

After wrestling for three hours with the testimony the jury in the suit of Oscar Harrison against William R. Stanbery, for $200 in compensation for the loss of his horse and wagon, which opened in Justice Von Minden's court Monday morning, was discharged Monday night as hopelessly divided. A second suit will be brought by Harrison. The case went into the jury's hands at 5:20 o'clock. They were discharged at 8:30.

Court reconvened after the noon recess at 2 o'clock. Five witnesses were presented by the plaintiff, and the defense put on eight. A crowd as large as the one that attended the morning session was present. Boys and men, unable to get into the courtroom, still hung outside the open door and windows.

There was one intensely dramatic feature to the session. The testimony of Stanbery was marked by a display of emotion rarely seen in justice court cases. It was noticed all through the trial that the automobilist's face worked whenever reference was made to features of the accident that recalled the death of Mrs. Westphal, and when he told the story of the accident himself his emotion appeared to be almost too strong to control. Twice he broke down, and the thread of his testimony was interrupted while he recovered himself.

The first witness called after court reconvened was Michael Boyle, of Dunellen, an eye-witness. He testified that Stanbery was on the wrong side of the road and that Harrison was on the right.

Elmer Howell, of Brooklyn, a summer resident of this city, testified that Stanbery passed a runabout he was driving to the city just before the accident. The automobile, he swore, cut sharply across the path.

James Greenhouse, who lives near the scene of the accident, swore that Stanbery was on the left side of the road, and that Harrison was on the right side.

Theodore Voorhees another resident of the vicinity, testified to going over the scene of the accident a few minutes after it occurred, and described the course of the tracks.

Joseph Cullom, an employe at the Central Railroad roundhouse, a short distance away from the scene of the crash, testified to seeing the auto and carriage come together. He said Stanbery was on the left side of the road and that the runabout was on the right side. He said he saw Stanbery drinking out of a black bottle after the smashup. Mrs. Voorhees also swore to seeing the motorist drink out of a black bottle.

This closed the plaintiff's case in direct testimony. The defence opened with Chauncey Martin, a trolley conductor, and George Staller, a motorman. They swore that they saw a horse and carriage go by them about the time of the accident, in that neighborhood, at a rapid rate.

F. A. Dunham, civil engineer, proved a map of the scene. After him Stanbery took the stand.

He told the story of the accident in detail. The first warning he had of the runabout's approach, he testified, was a cry from Mrs. Westphal. "Look out!" the witness said she cried, "here comes a runaway." Then he turned to the right, and the runabout crashed into the left side of his machine. He described the damage done to the automobile to support the contention that the driver ran into him. The shaft, he said, pierced the side of the auto and pushed up the seat. A picture was shown to illustrate this bit of testimony. He denied he had been drinking through the day. The only intoxicating drink he had had, he swore, was a milk punch in the morning. He testified that his speed was slow.

Under cross examination Stanbery's testimony was unshaken. His display of emotion appeared to have considerable weight with the jury.

Following Stanbery's testimony a five-minute recess was taken. Lawyers, court attendants and audience needed the rest. The room was close and the tediousness of the proceedings was plainly affecting everyone.

When the trial was resumed Dr. Platt, who attended Mrs. Westphal after the accident, was called. He started to describe the wounds in detail, but Attorney Hetfield objected to the gruesome testimony. Mr. Swackhamer said he wanted to prove that the dead woman was struck on the left side. Mr. Hetfield said he would grant that to avoid the necessity for recounting the hurts to which the victim succumbed. The physician's testimony ended. Miss Ada Westphal, the daughter of the dead woman, who sat with Walter Vail, a youth, in the rear seat of the auto, testified to the general circumstances surrounding the crash. Her testimony brought out nothing new. She delivered her testimony in a strong clear voice.

Young Vail testified to hearing Mrs. Westphal's cry about a runaway horse. He said the horse turned into the automobile.

John Fenner was called, but when he testified to seeing the horse and carriage go rapidly two blocks away from the scene of the accident the plaintiff successfully objected to his testimony as immaterial. That closed the defense. In rebuttal, Attorney Hetfield put Mrs. James Boice on the stand to testify that Stanbery, a short distance below where the accident occurred, turned around her carriage rapidly.

Counsellor Swackhamer consumed half an hour in summing up. He warned the jurymen that their verdict would have an effect on the criminal prosecution the county is expected to begin, and asked them to weigh the testimony very carefully for that reason if no other. He made a characteristic appeal to sentiment.

Attorney Hetfield's summing up was ten minutes shorter than Mr. Swackhamer's. He referred to the latter's declaration that a verdict for the plaintiff would be followed by an appeal as a threat to the jury and told the jurymen that he would not appeal; that he was satisfied to accept Dunellen justice.

"Didn't you tell me this morning, that you would appeal this case if it went against you?" interrupted Mr. Swackhamer.

"No, I didn't," retorted the younger lawyer. "Now, none of your grandstand plays," he continued as Mr. Swackhamer gave symptoms of a rush of eloquence.

A burst of handclapping came from the rear of the court. "Good, young fellow," shouted a man in the crowd, "don't let him walk over you."

Justice Von Minden was scandalized. He rapped sharply for order, and when the buzz of approbation for Mr. Hetfield continued he ordered the room cleared. All the people in the rear of the room were turned out.

When quiet was restored, Mr. Hetfield resumed his argument. In the course of it he said bluntly that it was a well known fact that automobiles could not be run with a mixture of gasoline and rum.

Before Justice Von Minden addressed the jury Counsellor Swackhamer requested him to charge as follows:

"1. That if the injury complained of was contributed to by the plaintiff in such a manner that if he had not been negligent he would have received no injury from the negligence of the defendant, in that case he is not entitled to recover.

"2. If the injury was contributed to in this sense by the plaintiff's negligence, the comparative degrees of the negligence of the parties is immaterial. If the injury was occasioned in any degree by the plaintiff's own negligence he is without redress unless the act of the defendant amounted to a wilful trespass or intentional wrong.

"N. J. Express Co. v. Nichols, 4 Vr. 434.

"3. That drivers of carriages, sleighs or sleds whether of burden or pleasure using any of the turnpike or public roads of this State, when men by another carriage, sleigh or sled, shall keep to the right, and when overtaken by a carriage, sleigh or sled, they shall likewise keep to the right, so as in both cases to permit such carriages, sleigh or sled either met or overtaken, to pass free and uninterrupted; and if any person shall offend against this provision such person shall forfeit and pay the sum of two dollars to any person who shall be obstructed or hindered in his or her passage and will sue for the same, and shall be subject to an action for damages for every such offense to be recovered with costs of suit.

"Genl. Stat. Vol. 3, page 2822, sec. 91.

"4. That by the law of 1905, sec. 4, the defendant was required to carry upon his automobile during the period from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, at least two lamps showing white lights, visible at least two hundred feet in the direction towards which such automobile was proceeding, and to exhibit at least one red light visible in the reverse direction; but that the defendant was not required to carry upon his automobile any light except during such period.

"That when the plaintiff and defendant approached each other just prior to the collision in question, it was the legal duty of the plaintiff to have turned to the right of the street, and it is no defense that he had no design to offend; that he attempted to prevent a collision; that the street on his side was rough and rutty; and that it was more difficult for him than for the other party to turn out unless the obstacles to turning out were insuperable or extremely difficult."

The case went to the jury at 5:35. Justice Von Minden's charge was very brief. He told the jurymen that they were not to concern themselves over the death of the woman, the criminal side of the case, nor the wealth and poverty of either party. They were to consider the loss of the horse and wagon and fix responsibility for that.

The jury came in three hours later and the foreman reported a hopeless disagreement.

It was said by a court officer in a position to know that the jury took three ballots. On the first they stood 7 to 5 for Stanbery; on the second 9 to 3 for Stanbery; and on the third and deadlocked vote they went back to 7 to 5 for Stanbery.

After the jury's return Mr. Hetfield announced that another suit would be brought immediately.

Out of the hearing has grown a settlement of the manslaughter warrant muddle. Detective Mulvey, of Prosecutor Berdine's office, was present at the trial, and when the noon adjournment came he informed both parties to the suit that their presence at the September session of the grand jury was required. Both agreed to appear. This is practically a short-cut in the preliminaries to criminal prosecution. Should either fail to appear before the jury a bench warrant will be issued.

COUNTY BOARD NAMES OFFICERS FOR ELECTION

LIST OF MEN WHO WILL ACT AT LOCAL POLLS.

Election officers for this city were appointed by the County Board of Elections at a meeting in Elizabeth this morning. The list is as follows:

First ward—First district, David Dunham, Fred Atkinson, R.; V. L. Frazee, M. J. DeCourcy, D.; Second district, Horace Adams, Guillermo Thorn, R.; Richard Kearns, W. C. LaRue, D.

Second ward—First district, J. Hervey Doane, J. W. Drayton, R.; Joseph Harrigan, Charles Messersmith, D.; Second district, William R. Townsend, Edward Willis, R.; James Guttridge, J. V. F., Dilts, D.

Third ward—First district, J. M. Leonard, T. J. LaRue, R.; W. A. Boone, Frank McInerney, D.; Second district, Charles Dickson, Charles Close, R.; W. H. Harding, M. D. O'Keefe, D.

Fourth ward—First district Daniel Force, Edward Nelson, R.; Jonh F. Carty, Edward Lynch, D.; Second district, Edward Mosher, Walter Clark, R.; James J. Kane, Clinton Shannon, D.; Third district, Garrett Dunham, William Craig, R.; John J. Kinniery, Ira G. Hulbert, D.

The name of Edward Nelson, First district of the Fourth ward, was handed to the committee this morning by the Republican county committee secretary. All the others had been chosen at a previous meeting, but Mr. Nelson's appointment was not slated until the session of the committee last night.

Up the Hudson.

On Thursdays, July 27, August 10 and 24, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run its usual midsummer excursion to the "Upper Hudson," under personal escort. Special excursion tickets will be sold on these dates for regular trains arriving at Jersey City prior to 10:05 a. m., good to return on same day on any regular train leaving Jersey City after arrival of steamer. A stop will be made at West Point, giving those who disembark an hour and a half at that point, and enabling them to view the United States Military Academy. In order to insure an early return, no stop will be made at Newburgh, although the steamer will run to a point off that city and there turn. Round-trip rates: Princeton, $2.00; New Bunswick, Metuchen, and Perth Amboy, $1.00; Rahway, 80 cents; Elizabeth, 75 cents; Newark, 50 cents. Proportionate rates from other points. 7 18 oaw td

BRIDE 30 YEARS HIS JUNIOR.

Couple, Both Religious Workers, Met at Religious Services.

Recorder Thomas P. Day, of Nutley, who lacks one year of being a septuagenarian, surprised his friends yesterday by announcing his marriage last Thursday at Ocean Grove to Miss Ida M. Jordan, who is more than thirty years his junior. Mr. Day is a local preacher and his wife is an evangelist.

The couple met several months ago at religious exercises in Ocean Grove. Despite the disparity in ages it was not long before they were engaged.

With her mother, Miss Jordan moved from Ocean Grove to Nutley, taking rooms above the Recorder's office on Chestnut street. Friends and neighbors of Mr. Day never dreamt that "the lady upstairs," whom they saw daily going quietly about, was to soon become his wife. News of the wedding quickly spread and soon Mr. Day's office was filled with friends who came to congratulate him.

OPPOSITION DELEGATES.

County Committee Allots Twenty-Seven to Plainfield.

The apportionment of the Plainfield delegates to the Republican county convention was announced at the meeting of the Republican County Committee last night. The delegates will number twenty-seven. All the wards are to have six, excepting the fourth, which is to send nine.

Chairman Newcorn, of he Outing Committee reported that the financial success of the recent outing was assured by he returns made so far, although the returns are not complete. All the bills have been paid and a surplus remains.

The committeemen for this city at the meeting were Mayor Buckle, Andrew McCardell, Frank H. Smith and William Newcorn.

Guillermo Thorn Improved.

The condition of Guillermo Thorn, of East Second street, who fell from a trolley car Sunday night, was reported today as being greatly improved. He has fully recovered consciousness and it is now almost a certainty that he has not been injured internally. The cuts on his head are very painful and he has several contusions that will keep him in bed for several days at least.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Good Stories for Summer Reading.

English Fiction, part 2.

Doyle, A. C.—Adventures of Sherlock Holmes.

"Series of detective stories that form the life history of a man of superhuman powers of observation, inductive sagacity and combination, whose exploits are usually accompanied by gruesome and thrilling incidents."

Doyle, A. C.—Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes.

Sequel to the above.

Doyle, A. C.—White company.

"Episode of the 100 years war with France."

Eliot, George.—Adam Bede.

"English country life a century ago."

Eliot, George.—Mill on the Floss.

"Deeply significant tragedy of the inner life, laid amidst the quaint folk and old-fashioned surroundings of a village and a provincial town."

Eliot, George.—Romola.

"A stern drama of temptation, crime and inexorable retribution, in the Florence of Lorenzo de Medici, Savonarola and the early apostles of the renaissance, (1492-1509.)"

Eliot, George.—Scenes of clerical life.

Fothergill, J.—First violin.

"Pictures of German musical life."

Gaskell, Mrs. E. S. C.—Cranford.

"Humorous descriptions of bygone etiquette, tea drinkings, formal parties and gossip of a little old-fashioned country town, inhabited mostly by elderly spinsters and widows living in genteel poverty."

Gaskell, Mrs. E. C. S.—Mary Barton, etc.

"A story of factory workers in Manchester during the very hard times preceding the enactment of free-trade laws in England."

"Goldsmith, Oliver.—Vicar of Wakefield.

"No figure in our literature is at once so simple and so impressive, so ideal and so human as the Vicar, and the acquaintance of the Primrose family once made, they and their misfortunes became a dear and imperishable memory."

Grahame, Kenneth—Golden age.

"Stories of child life for lovers of children, told with tender humor and sympathy by a man who has not forgotten how he felt when he was a child."

Hardy, T.—Far from the madding crowd.

"Every character is of the lower class in England."

Hewlett, M.—Forest lovers.

"A landmark in the renaissance of pure romance in the style of Malory."

Kingsley, C.—Hereward, the last of the English.

"Historical romance dealing with the Saxon hero's exploits and famous stand against the Conqueror in the Fens."

Kingsley, C.—Hypatia.

"Hellenic Egypt in the 5th century, when Christianity and paganism were at war."

Kingsley, C.—Westward ho.

"Sea stories and tales of adventure based on achievements of sailors of the days of Drake and Raleigh and Grenville on the Spanish main."

Kingsley, H.—Ravenshoe.

"Scene laid on the west coast of England."

Kipling, Rudyard.—Day's work.

Kipling, Rudyard.—Life's handicap.

"Stories of the famous 'soldiers three' and tales of the English in Hundustan."

Kipling, Rudyard.—Many inventions.

"Many stories of life in India."

Lover, S.—Handy Andy.

"Here a simple-minded, awkward-handed young native engaged as gentleman's servant whose mistakes and misadventures are very funny."

Lyall, Edna., pseud.—Donovan.

"An Englishman's religious development through agnosticism to a practical Christianity."

Lytton, E. G. E. B.—Harold, the last of the Saxon kings.

"The tragic history of Harold's fall; elaborated descriptions of battles of Stamford Bridge and Hastings and of English life in the eleventh century."

Lytton, E. G. E. B.—Strange story.

"One of the most fascinating embodiments in fiction of the occult philosophy."

Macdonald, George.—Sir Gibbie.

"Whether as the poor dumb waif in Glasgow, whose heart is full of love for all men, or as Sir Gibbie, the social reformer, the hero is a beautiful and interesting character."

Meredith, G.—Diana of the Crossways.

"Story of a woman of genius, suggested in the main lines of her character by the Hon. Caroline Norton, though the famous episode of the selling of the secret is not authentic."

Meredith, G.—The egoist, a comedy in narrative.

"A psychologic comedy, tragic in its exposure of the secret egoism that is in all men."

Merriman, H. S.—The sowers.

"Story of Russian political intrigue, showing the degradation of the Russian peasants."

Moore, F. F.—Jessamy bride.

"Oliver Goldsmith is the hero, and Dr. Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds and David Garrick appear as characters."

Seminary Opens September 21.

The Plainfield Seminary will reopen on Thursday, September 21, for its thirty-eighth year.

ON THE SEA GIRT RANGE

The Full Programme Beginning August 27 and Lasting Till Sept. 9.

Sea Girt, Aug. 15—In less than a week riflemen from all parts of the United States will begin to assemble here in readiness for the national match and tournament of the National Rifle Association and the New Jersey State Rifle Association. The national match will be shot on August 26, 28 and 29, and the tournament will continue until September 9. Judging by the applications that have been received for accommodations during the tournament there will be between forty and fifty teams, including the principal teams of the Eastern and Middle States and some from the Far West.

Lieutenant Albert S. Jones the secretary of the National Rifle Association, has heard from the following teams: United States Army, United States Navy, United States Marine Corps, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts Rhode Island, Vermont, Connecticut, Maine, Maryland, District of Columbia, North Carolina, South Carolina, California, Idaho, Ohio, Iowa, Kansas, Tennessee, Florida and Wisconsin. It is not known definitely whether Michigan and Minnesota will have teams or not.

The order of the events will be as follows:

Thursday, Aug. 24—The 200, 300, 500 and 600-yard stages of the national individual match will be shot, followed immediately by the 200 and 500-yards rapid fire.

Friday, Aug. 25—8 a. m., Skirmish runs in the national individual match. 1 p. m.—The national pistol match.

Saturday, Aug. 26—The first day of the national team match. 8 a. m. —The 200 and 600-yard slow fire followed immediately by the 200 and 500 yards rapid fire.

Sunday, Aug. 27—11 a. m., Divine worship.

Monday, Aug. 28—The second day of the national team match. 8 a. m. —800 and 1,000 yards slow fire.

Tuesday, Aug. 29—Third day of the national match. 8 a. m.—Skirmish runs.

Wednesday, Aug. 30—8 a. m.—Columbia trophy match. This will be shot by teams of the National Guard of New Jersey. 10 a. m.—Cadet match by military and naval acadamies. 2 p. m.—Hale squadded match. All day—All continuous individual matches.

Thursday, Aug. 31—8:30 a. m.—Regimental skirmish match, National Rifle Association. 1:30 p. m.—Leech cup match.

Friday, Sept. 1—9 a. m.—Carbine team match. 1 p. m.—Wimbledon cup match.

Saturday, Sept. 2—9 a. m.—First stage (200 and 600 yards,) Dryden trophy match. 2 p. m.—Second stage (1,000 yards.)

Sunday, Sept. 3—Divine service 11 a. m.

Monday, Sept. 4—9 a. m.—Squadded revolver match. 2 p. m.—Interclub match (N. R. A.) 2 p. m.—Inspector's match.

Tuesday, Sept. 5—9 a. m.—Revolver team match. 2 p. m.—Company match.

Wednesday, Sept. 6—8:30 a. m.—Regimental team match, 200-yard stage. 1:30 p. m.—Regimental team match, 500-yard stage.

Thursday, Sept. 7—9 a. m.—Company match (Tyro). 3 p. m.—Company match (Ideal).

Friday, Sept. 8—8:30 a. m.—President's match, first stage, 200, 500 and 600 yards, slow fire; 200 yards, rapid fire. 3 p. m.—Veteran organization match.

Saturday, Sept. 9—President's match, second stage. 9 a. m.—Skirmish. 2 p. m.—800 and 1,000 yards 5 p. m.—Closing of meeting.

The National Individual match will be open to individuals holding membership in the army, navy, marine corps, National Rifle Association, military clubs and the National Guard. It will consists of slow fire at 200, 300, 500 and 600 yards, ten shots each; rapid fire at 200 and 500 yards, 100 shots each and two skirmish runs. There must be at least thirty-six entries for this match. There will be twelve prizes, ranging from the first, a gold medal and $60, to the twelfth, a bronze medal and $5. Individuals making the highest aggregate at the different ranges will receive prizes.

Crack pistol shots will find the national pistol match all that can be desired. There will be slow fire, timed fire and rapid fire. The slow fire will be at 75 yards the timed fire at 25 and 50 yards, and the rapid fire at 15 and 25 yards. Those eligible for the National Individual match may shoot in the pistol match. The twelve prizes will range from a gold medal and $20 for the first prize to a bronze medal and $10 for the twelfth. Competitors making the highest aggregate on the different ranges will get medals and cash prizes.

The National match will excite the greatest interest of the meeting. New York won it last year, at Fort Riley, Kan., after an exciting struggle. The match will be open to teams of twelve men from the army, navy, marine corps, military and naval academies and the National Guard of the several States. The slow fire will be at 200, 600, 800 and 1,000 yards. The rapid fire will be at 200 and 500 yards, and there will be two skirmish runs. The team making the highest aggregate will take the national trophy and $300 in cash; the team making the second highest aggregate will take the Hilton trophy and $200 in cash; the team making the third highest aggregate will get the "Soldier of Marathon" and $150 in cash; the fourth prize will be $100; the fifth prize $75, and the sixth $50. Each competitor on the winning team will receive a medal.

The Columbia trophy, for which the New Jersey National Guard will shoot, was the gift of the District of Columbia. Teams of six men will shoot for it at 200, 600 and 1,000 yards, with one skirmish run. There will be three prizes—the trophy and $100 for first, $50 for the second and $25 for the third.

The Dryden trophy is one of the finest of prizes. It was presented by United States Senator John F. Dryden, of Newark, and cost $4,000. The match will be open to teams of eight men. The distances will be 200, 600 and 1,000 yards, and it is required that every competitor shall have performed 75 per cent. of military duty. The first prize will be the trophy and $150; the second prize will be $100, and the third prize $50. The New Jersey State team won the trophy in 1904.

Teams of six men will shoot in the regimental team match, one of the most interesting of the tournament. It will be shot at 300 and 600 yards. The first prize will be the Interstate trophy and $150; the second prize will be $75; the third $50, and the fourth $25. In the years 1903 and 1904 the match was won by the team of the First Regiment of New Jersey, with headquarters at Newark.

The Hale match will be shot at 600 yards, squadded competition for a trophy presented by Robert S. Hale, of Boston, Mass. There will be twelve prizes ranging from $25, and the trophy for the first, to the twelfth, $5. The National Rifle Association will also give $50 additional to the winner. The matches for the Wimbledon and Leech cups will both attract plenty of riflemen as will also the president's match, which was won last year by Howard Gensch, of the First Regiment.

The executive officer of the national match will be Brigadier General William P. Hall. The other officers of the tournament will be Brigadier General Bird W. Spencer, inspector general of rifle practice of New Jersey, executive officer; Lieutenant Albert S. Jones, post adjutant; Captain William Libbey and Captain Charles Reynolds, assistant statistical officer; Captain Alvin H. Graff, of the First Regiment, Newark, post quartermaster. The committee on competition is composed of General William P. Hall, General Bird W. Spencer, General George H. Harries, District of Columbia; General Lawrason Riggs, of Maryland; Colonel Frank Y. Paterson, of Pennsylvania; Lieutenant Albert S. Jones and J. A. Haskell, of New York.

TO MAKE TOTS GO TO SLEEP.

How many ways are there of getting the wee ones to sleep! One mother, of whom a friend was telling me, always walked the floor with her little one until sleep came to him. Another one I knew always lay down with her child to get her to visit the land of dreams. In another household a little maiden of five was always expected to rock the baby to sleep. In still another the mother let the child take its naps in her arms and it lay close beside her at night. She had lost one little one when it was a small child, and she could never bear to have this baby out of her arms longer than was absolutely necessary. I felt much sympathy for this mother, for there is a little grave that holds one of these precious little ones, that was, oh, so dear to me, says an exchange.

But I wonder how little ones are ever broken of such habits, and have thought how much better it would be for mother and babe if the child were taught to go to sleep, from the first, in a sensible way.

In the first place always let baby have her own little bed. She will sleep just as well if kept warm, and it is much better for her than sleeping in a bed with older persons, inhaling the poisonous air under the covers.

One mother who had a large family once told me she had always had each baby sleep with the dear little head resting on her during the night. Another time I heard her complaining that there was no strength left in her arm and wondering why.

Always insist on the little ones retiring early in the evening. Besides being better for the child, it affords the mother time for needed rest and recreation. Do not romp or play with the little ones just before sleepy time comes, as they will go to sleep much better if the brain is kept quiet.

Do not always be saying, "Hush, the baby is asleep," when the little one is taking a nap. She will soon become accustomed to ordinary sounds if everything goes on as usual.

Months to Marry.

June is first choice.

In Holland girls prefer to become blushing brides in May.

About an eighth of Scotch marriages take place in June.

One-seventh of the Swedish marriages occur in "the month of roses."

Germany favors April, regarding it as the first of the spring months.

February is the first choice in Italy, especially in the period preceding the beginning of Lent.

Russia's favorite marriage month is January.

WEALTH FOR HEIRS HERE

A Tale That Reads Like A Chapter of Fiction.

WORMAN ESTATE.

Vast Possession Said to Await Claimants—Why Elizabeth Man Visits Europe Suddenly.

When Councilman Bernard J. Higgins, of Elizabeth, left New York for London last Tuesday he carried with him, it is alleged, the details of a story of thrift, cupidity and wealth seldom surpassed in the world of romance. He is to use his information in an effort to secure a prize of a vast estate for an association of the heirs of Christopher Worman, a silk manufacturer, who died at an advanced age in London, leaving an estate and a large amount of money which has now increased to an immense sum.

Harvey E. Worman, of Elizabeth, who is employed in the blacksmith shop of the Singer Manufacturing Company, is the secretary of the association, which numbers about fifty heirs of the deceased manufacturer.

In the latter part of the 18th century Christopher Worman, by years of toil and patient industry, had grown to be the leading silk merchant of the British metropolis. Almost in the shadow of the famous London bridge his dingy office faced the entrance to that structure. It was the official of his great manufacturing establishment covering almost the entire area of the square which he owned. He had entered the real estate field too, and owned several other large blocks of property in the city limits.

In sharp contrast to the life of Christopher was that of his brother John, who, of a shiftless and erring disposition, failed to make a success in England and finally came to America. While John did not believe in devoting all his energies to the accumulation of wealth, he was secretly proud of the achievements of his brother, and while he envied him and longed for a time to come when he should fall heir to the vast estate, although he was some years older than Christopher. He hoped the latter would die as he had lived most of his life, a bachelor.

The fates, however, brought Christopher and a bright young English maid together and they married. John had settled in Pennsylvania when he heard of the marriage, and, deeply chagrined, he awaited developments, tormented by the fear that an heir would be born to the couple. He had himself married and was the father of a son whom he named John.

In the course of a year he learned that Christopher also had a son who was also named John. The young mother died, but the boy lived, and as he grew in strength his Uncle John laid plans to do away with him. He finally decided on kidnapping him. He went to Europe, and, visiting the home of his brother, managed to get possession of the boy and fled with him to Pennsylvania. Thousands of dollars Christopher is said to have spent in fruitless efforts to recover his child, until, overcome by grief and broken-hearted, he died in 1780.

His entire fortune he left to the boy, but it was so tied up that in the event of the failure of provisions made in the will for his recovery the fortune would go into chancery until some trace of the boy or his descendants could be found. The kidnapped boy grew to manhood, and died in Warren county, N. J., without learning of the wealth that awaited him in England.

His cousin, the son of John, the kidnapper, remained in Pennsylvania. It is not known that they ever had any intercourse with each other or that the old silk merchant's son ever dreamed of the wealth to which he was the rightful heir until a few years ago the descendants of his cousin formed an association and made an effort to secure possession of the property. This fight was continued until recently, when their legal representative was convinced that he was appearing for the suing branch of the family. The New Jersey branch, which Lawyer Higgins represents, claims to have records that will make their title to the property clear beyond doubt, and it is expected that before another year is over Harvey E. Worman will be one of the multi-millionaires of America.

It is said that several residents of Elizabeth have visited the old Worman mansion and heard there the story of the romance and sorrows of the old silk manufacturer. The Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Vassar, a retired Baptist minister, who is now living on Madison avenue, Elizabeth, is said to have recently visited the mansion and noted the name Worman still visible over the old doorway, where it was inscribed during the life of old Christopher about the time the Continental troops were battling for liberty in Elizabeth, 125 years ago. The mansion and the business block cannot be sold. They are in the care of a crown trust pending the appearance of the rightful heirs.

Miss Mollie Pratzner, of Orchard place, has returned from a two weeks' visit to friends in New York.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1905. NO. 34.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

MANAGER DAAB'S PLANS

Has Arranged Some Good Games For Remainder of the Season.

GIANTS MAY COME.

Will Continue His Local Relations Next Year and May Possibly Secure New Grounds.

While the local baseball season is more than half over, there are yet many fine contests arranged by Manager Daab, and providing the usual good weather prevails the remainder of the summer, the fans will have a feast of good ball. There is every reason to believe that fandom has fully enjoyed the fine article of baseball furnished by Manager Daab, and that he is a true sport is shown by the fact that in the face of many obstacles he has stood firm and continued to give the public full value.

He has made a host of friends here by his honesty and fairness with the people, and every fan will be delighted to know that he has decided to continue his relations here next season, and that he will present the same fast article of ball that has given Plainfield the reputation this year of having the best independent team in the country. He is very well satisfied with his first year locally and appreciates the way he has been treated by the public. It is with the feeling that he has many friends and that they want the best ball that has led him to continue here next year.

Mr. Daab feels that the season has given him a good opportunity to get acquainted with the people and conditions in Plainfield and they have impressed him so favorably that he is assured of loyal support. One strong factor recognized by Mr. Daab is that local interest plays a large part in the national game here, and another season he hopes to increase this materially by securing games with strong teams throughout the county and other parts of the State, with occasional contests with first class teams from the metropolitan district and elsewhere.

Mr. Daab is not altogether pleased with the present location of the baseball grounds, and he will undoubtedly make a change before next season opens. He realizes the difficulty of handling a large crowd on the Arlington avenue trolley, while the accommodations at the oval are not up to his idea. His plan is to secure suitable grounds on the main line of the trolley within a few minutes of the business section, enclose the same and have them equipped in a first class manner. With this purpose in mind it is safe to say that it will be accomplished, for Mr. Daab is known as a man of his word and is not easily discouraged.

There is probably no man in New Jersey who has been suca a successful manager as Mr. Daab. He enjoys the confidence and respect of every player, and they know they have the same regard from him. Now that the national game is on a good, solid foundation here, with a team second to none in its class, fandom may feel assured that Plainfield will take its place among the leading cities of the country as a baseball center.

For the purpose of increasing local interest, Mr. Daab has arranged to play three games with the Summit team at the close of the Lackawanna League season. They will be played on Crescent Oval, and the fact that Summit will undoubtedly win the pennant in its league will give Plainfield the chance of playing the best nine. Summit can be depended upon to bring a large crowd of rooters. Another contest sure to be filled with interest is the one scheduled with Dover for September 23 on the oval, when many favorites will be seen here. In the meantime the Daabsters will continue to clean up Westfield.

As a final attraction for the season, Mr. Daab will probably arrange to bring the New York Nationals here. If this can be fixed, he will try to secure Louis Wiltse to pitch for the locals and arrange for his brother, George Wiltse, to twirl for the Giants. This would make the contest well worth going many miles to see, as many believe the Plainfielder to be stronger than his brother.

Providing the locals win the next two games from Westfield, it is likely that Mr. Daab will give "Phil" Smith, the High School twirler, an opportunity to face the Denmanites. He has heard much about Smith and is inclined to favor him.

One feature that has encouraged Mr. Daab much this year is a noticeable decrease in the "knocking," and he hopes that it will practically be eliminated. When his efforts to give the best ball are appreciated by those inclined to too much criticism, praise will surely take the place of "knocking."

---

Dr. W. E. Mattison, of Somerset street, is ill at his home.

FOUR HORSES LOST IN A COUNTRY FIRE

HENRY RANDOLPH'S BARN IN PISCATAWAY ENTIRELY DESTROYED.

Piscataway township was the scene of a disastrous fire early yesterday morning, when a barn and all of its contents on the farm of Henry Randolph, below New Market, were destroyed by flames. The fire swept rapidly through the building after being discovered, and it had made such headway when Mr. Randolph was aroused that he was unable to save any of the contents.

The losses include the barn, four horses and a quantity of hay and grain. The money loss will amount to several thousands of dollars.

Some of the neighbors went to the aid of Mr. Randolph, whose farm is not far from Stelton, and the combined efforts of the volunteers succeeded in keeping the flames away from the other outbuildings and the dwelling house, but the fight was a hard one.

The origin of the fire is not known. The barn was the one in which seventeen-year-old William Matthews committed suicide last week by hanging himself to a hay mow.

VENTURESOME BOY FALLS DOWN WATCHUNG DAM

ATTIRED IN NATURE'S GARB TRIED TO WALK ACROSS IT.

The adventuresome spirit of George Webster, son of Frank O. Webster, of Duer street, got him into trouble yesterday and he is now at his home under the care of Dr. D. C. Adams, who hopes to bring him about in a short time.

George, with several companions, had been fishing and swimming about Watchung Lake, in Washington Valley, and desiring to cross the lake, tried to walk across the large dam. A considerable amount of water was running over and the planks which form the shed over which the water passes were very slippery. George had gone only a short distance when he lost his balance and slid the entire distance, from the top to the bottom, where he struck a pile of jagged rocks. He received a long cut in the side and his arms and back were badly scraped. After much difficulty he reached the bank and managed to get his clothes on.

He then walked to the terminus of the Somerset street trolley where he took a car for home, reaching there about 5 o'clock. Dr. D. C. Adams was summoned at once and he made two calls last night. While the boy suffers a great deal of pain, the physician does not think his injuries are serious.

EDMONDS MAY ESCAPE.

Hubble Girl Said to Have Been Warned Against Him.

A way of escape from the crimina' consequences of his entanglement with Miss Anna Hubbell, the Metuchen girl who had him arrested on a charge of seduction, is said to have opened for Lambert Edmonds. A man who is acquainted with Edmonds and to whom he spoke of his trouble last week, declares he was told that the Hubble girl was informed that Edmonds was a married man early in the couple's acquaintance. If that is so, and Edmonds can prove it, the girl will have to be content with civil proceedings.

On the other hand, if Edmonds is proved to have posed as a single man, unsuspected by the girl, he is likely to suffer heavy punishment. The sentiment against the crime of which he is accused is very strong in farming communities.

Building Ready for Removal.

Contractor Mobus expects to move Charles W. McCutchen's brick building from Park avenue to West Second street, inside of two weeks. The cellar is about excavated and the work of laying the new foundation will be rushed as fast as possible. Alex. Kane has about completed his work of demolishing the old structures on Park avenue.

Auto Victim Confined to Bed.

Mrs. E. O. Edgar, of Central avenue, Westfield, who was injured in an automobile accident at that place on Sunday afternoon, is confined to her bed and under the care of a physician.

Who It Was.

It was George VanNest, Jr., son of George VanNest, that figured in the escape with the Seader boy a few days ago, and not Arthur VanNest, son of Charles VanNest, as stated.

—The quality of Mountain Rose peaches is without an equal. Tomorrow morning Neuman Brothers will have 100 baskets of this variety. Better make selections early.

THE DEMOCRATIC OUTING

Plainfield Well Represented in the Annual Trip to Whitestone, L. I.

SLATE FOR UNION

Situation in the County Will Be Discussed and the Local Discontent Sized Up.

Politics and pleasure are being intermingled today at the annual outing of the Elizabeth City Democratic Committee, which is attended by all the faithful throughout the county. Plainfield is well represented, the genial "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine and S. S. Swackhamer being among the first to arrive at the starting point. Duer's Park, Whitestone, L. I., is to be the destination, and the pleasant weather at the start leads to the belief that it will be the most successful affair of its kind in years.

The iron steamer Cygnus, one of the finest vessels in this vicinity, is conveying the excursionists, and will probably reach the grove at 2 o'clock. Then the party will partake of some refreshments and incidentally discuss the situation in Union county and name a slate for Union. The present discontent of the Republicans in Plainfield at ring rule will be a topic of conversation.

A program of sports has been arranged, and athletes of the Jeffersonian persuasion will compete. Hughie Boyle, who usually takes care of this end of the affair, is in charge this year, and has fixed things in good shape. There will be a fat man's race, with several obese Democrats participating; also a 100-yard dash, obstacle race, tug of war, and baseball game. In this contest the Pick-Me-Ups and Throw-Me-Downs will be opponents, and will try to develop some stunts with which to surprise the McKinley Club diamond artists when the teams meet later in the season.

The excursionists will also be photoed by Herbert A. Pierson, of Elizabeth, and will again be feted after the games. The return trip will be made so as to give the guests a glimpse at dear old Coney. Badges were distributed to the guests. The boat left the Chancellor Dock promptly at 9 o'clock. James' orchestra was on the boat to discourse music and soothe the cohorts with harmonious airs.

Among the notables on board are Hon. William B. Gourley, State Democratic chairman; Hon. James A. Hammill, of Jersey City; Hon. James E. Martine, of this city; Hon. Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield; Colonel Edward Stevens, of Castle Hook, Hoboken; Hon. Leon Abbott, Hon. John T. Dunn, Hon. P. J. Ryan, Hon. DeWitt C. Flanigan, and Mayor Berry, of Elizabeth.

FACTORY MAY MOVE.

Newhall Company Looking Over Site at New Brunswick.

An effort is being made to get the Newhall Ship Chandler Company, of which Henry B. Chandler, of this city, is the head, to locate its large factory in New Brunswick. General Manager John W. Bankeross, of the company, has been in that city looking over various sites and after looking over the factories available found one well adapted for the company's business.

It is felt confident that the company will settle in New Brunswick, as its manager liked the city and the advantages, as well as the reasonable price at which he could purchase the factory offered. The firm manufactures marine hardware and the famous "Neptune Brand" hardware.

Naughty Immigrant.

Nacliasek Miclola, a Slav, was arrested by Officer Payne on West Front street last night, for helpless drunkenness. Nacliasek has only been in the country three months, and Judge Runyon was scandalized when he learned that an immigrant had begun his career in a new land by loading up. He fined Nacliasek $3 as a warning to keep himself spotless and pure.

Collier Defeats Rockwell.

Paul Collier played Sidney Rockwell in the semi-final round of the Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament on the Cedar Brook court, Saturday morning. Collier had things all his own way and won easily, 6—1, 6—3. By winning this match, Collier earned a right to play in the finals with T. O. Gavett later in the week. This match will probably be played on the Cedar urday.

Laying Long Distance Gas Main.

The Public Service Corporation gas department is making excellent progress in the work of laying a main between this city and Bound Brook. It will be eventually laid to Somerville and the several towns along the line will be supplied with gas from the Plainfield plant.

NEW FACTORY TO BE LOCATED IN EAST END

NEW YORK FIRM LEASES OLD OILCLOTH WORKS.

The Sherwood Metal Working Company, of 149 Broadway, New York, has leased the old oilcloth factory on North avenue, and expects to take possession September 1. The company is engaged in the manufacture of iron doors, sashes and all kinds of metal work and the company will probably employ a force of 100 men at the local factory. The lease for the property was signed yesterday and a representative of the company will be here in a few days to arrange for putting the plant in shape.

Considerable work will be necessary to equip the buildings for the new business, but a large force of men will be engaged and it is hoped to have it in readiness at an early date.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER WEDS TROY YOUNG WOMAN

CEREMONY TOOK PLACE AT THE BRIDE'S HOME TODAY.

Miss Mannell, of Troy, N. Y., and Clarence Rogers, formerly of this city, but now of Miami, Florida, were married today at the home of the bride. After the ceremony and reception, the couple left for Shiloh, this State, where they will remain during the Seventh-Day Baptist church conference. They will then go to Miami to live.

Mr. Rogers, who is the nephew of L. T. Rogers, of Central avenue, and with whom he lived while here, is a graduate of the Renssiaer Polytechnic Institute, at Renssiaer, N. Y., and it was while a student there that he met Miss Mannell. For a long time he was employed in the civil engineering office of Frank J. Hubbard, and left there to accept the position of assistant engineer for the Key West Railroad, with offices at Miami. Mr. Rogers lived in Florida for several years prior to coming to Plainfield.

Mrs. Rogers belongs to one of the prominent families in Troy and is a most estimable young woman. She enjoys a large circle of acquaintances at her home and she was well remembered through a large collection of wedding presents.

STEERED WITH ONE HAND.

Small Boy on a Bike and Big Touring Car Come Together.

As a big touring car, in which Mrs. W. B. Joyce, of Cranford, three women guests and the chauffeur rode, shot over the North avenue crossing at Park avenue this forenoon, a bicycle, on which rode Thomas Colton, thirteen years old, the son of Joseph Colton, of West Third street, approached down North avenue. Thomas was carrying a package and steering with one hand. He saw that the auto was in his path and made a valiant one-handed attempt to steer clear, but the bike butted squarely into the side of the car.

Thomas was bruised, his clothes were dirtied and his bicycle was put out of business. The automobile wasn't hurt.

CHANCELLOR TO DECIDE.

Both City and County Will Pay Over Long Reward to Him.

Who is to get the Long reward in its entirety will be decided by the Court of Chancery. Following the example of the city of Trenton, which offered half of the money, the Mercer County Board of Freeholders decided, at a meeting yesterday, to pay the county's $250 into the Chancellor's hands, and let him decide where it belongs.

This action by the city and county will save them from defending the suits for $1,000 each, brought by Franklin Van Nuis, who disputes Chief Kiely's claim to the money. The Van Nuis suits are set for a hearing in New Brunswick September 8.

Another Disturber Fined.

William Robinson, a plumber, was arrested by the city police yesterday, on a charge of being one of the crowd of disturbers in the rear of the Watchung Silk Mills Sunday. Robinson appeared before Recorder Doud in the borough court last night and pleaded guilty. He paid a $5 fine in preference to going to jail for seven days.

Death of Young Son.

Patrick Day, the six-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Day, of South Plainfield, died yesterday afternoon after a few days' illness. Funeral services will be held at the parents' home tomorrow morning. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

DENMAN WILL PROTEST

Declares Result of Saturday's Game Should Not be Allowed to Stand.

QUOTES SIMILAR CASE

Insists That O'Neill Had No Right to Interfere With Batsman In Effort to Prevent Flynn Scoring.

On the ground that O'Neill had no right to interfere with the batsman, Joe Wall, in an effort to prevent Flynn from scoring in Saturday's Plainfield-Westfield game at Westfield, Manager Denman today announced that he would protest the contest to Manager Daab. The Westfield manager claims that for interference on the part of O'Neill, Flynn should have been allowed to score, that by stepping on the plate, while Deegan was in the box ready to deliver the ball, he violated the baseball rules.

In speaking of the matter today, Mr. Denman quoted a similar play which happened in the Detroit-Washington game at Detroit yesterday. The account of that game says: "Today's game broke up in a row in the eleventh inning. Hill on third broke for home, and Warner touched him, but Umpire Sheridan declared that Warner had interfered, so he allowed the run to score and Anderson to take first base. The Detroits refused to play and forfeited the game to Washington."

The same thing happened at Westfield Saturday, and as in the Detroit-Washington game, the score was 2 to 1. Mr. Denman does not question Umpire Henning's honesty for one minute, but after looking up the rules and noticing the comment on yesterday's game, he has decided to enter a protest. He says that O'Neill admitted after the game that it was his place to take every chance, which he did, and if he was wrong, it was up to the umpire to say so.

There are many persons who claim that Deegan was not in the box and in position to pitch the ball when Flynn attempted the squeeze play, and that the ball was a thrown and not a pitched one. Others are just as sure that Deegan was in the box and had wound himself up preparatory to pitching the ball. There is now a bet of $10 on this point between two local fans, but it is a question as to who shall decide it.

Mr. Denman says that he believes Henning gave the decision with every idea of being fair, the same as Merity gave a questionable decision in the twelve inning game on Crescent Oval, but being convinced that the decision was contrary to the rules, he will protest. The matter will be submitted to Manager Daab and a decision will probably be reached before Saturday.

Mr. Denman says that Patience has left him to play with Central Islip, and that he will have a good man in his place on Saturday. As for McCormick, who is now playing at York, Pa., he says that according to his arrangements the player is to be with him on Saturdays, and that he only went to York to play during his vacation. He expects to have him in right field on Saturday.

Oak Tree A. A.'s Dance.

Under the auspices of the Oak Tree A. A. a successful dance was held last night. Over 300 guests were present and the festivities continued until a late hour. All of the refreshments were sold out early in the evening. A feature of the dance was the music, which was furnished by Prof. Sam Frazee, the veteran, and all were so pleased with it that he was engaged for another dance to be held on September 12. The committee in charge comprised Chester Huff, Fred Stover and Bryant Randolph.

Rev. A. F. Irvine to Speak.

Rev. A. F. Irvine, who is to address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, August 27, is perhaps the most prominent speaker in the country. He is closely allied with the Labor Unions of his native city, New Haven, Conn., and is frequently called upon to settle the differences between the men and their employers. Carl Haynes, of the Mt. Vernon M. E. church, Washington, D. C., will sing and Miss Eva Wells, of Westfield, will also give a solo.

Realty Company Organized.

The Picton Realty Company filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State at Trenton yesterday. The capital stock is placed at $125,000, and the following incorporators were named: William Bloodgood and Mulford Scudder, of Picton, and William J. Taylor, of Plainfield.

Juniors to Visit Somerville.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will visit the Somerville Council next Monday night, making the trip by trolley. On Labor Day afternoon the council will go to Cranford to attend a flag raising by the local council.

JUSTICE HAND BOOMS HIMSELF ON OUTING

DENIES HIS CANDIDACY FOR SHRIEVALTY NOMINATION IS A JOKE.

Justice Hezekiah Hand closed up his court this morning to go on the Democratic County Committee outing to Whitestone, L. I. The judge will do some missionary work in behalf of his candidacy for the shrievalty nomination. He is grieved at the general tendency to regard his boom as a joke.

"Young man," he said to a reporter yesterday, "I am not the man to make sport of an office as important as the shrievalty, and when I say I am after it, I am after it. Don't regard this as a joke.

"For a good many years I was a court officer at Elizabeth, and I consider my record there and as a justice of the peace, not to mention my term as postmaster at Scotch Plains, entitles me to serious consideration as a candidate for the higher office."

James B. Guttridge is managing the judge's boom at this end of the county.

CHILDREN HOLD BENEFIT FOR MOUNTAIN BABY CAMP

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT NETS $7 FOR THE CAUSE.

For the benefit of the King's Daughters' baby camp on the mountains, a number of girls and boys held a lawn party and entertainment last night at the home of H. C. VanEmburgh, on Richmond street. The affair was largely attended and liberally patronized, and after deducting about $3 for expenses, the young folks turned over $7 to The Daily Press this morning for the baby camp.

The large lawn was attractively decorated and illuminated with Japanese lanterns, while numerous tables were placed about the grounds at which refreshments were served.

The programme, which was in charge of H. C. VanEmburgh, consisted of a vocal solo, "Dairy Maid," Miss Daisy Robinson; recitations, Frank Simpson, Raymond Cutter, Harvey Thorn, Walter Fisher, the Misses Helen Baker, Mabel Koch, Ruth Klein, Margaret and Mabel Loizeaux, Isabelle Gloak, Bessie Adleberg; songs, the Misses May Koch and Daisy Robinson. The latter also sang "Hiawatha." Miss Bessie Adleberg and Bennie Adleberg sang a Japanese love song. Miss Helen Baker represented the shoemaker in a song called the "Shoe Shop," and the others sang the selection. The Misses Marguerite Walsh, Sadie Moskowitz and Mabel Loizeaux gave a doll baby drill, and Miss Sadie Moskowitz sang a song called "Pansy." Other songs were "Wee Little Lad" and "Baby's Boat," Miss Isabelle Gloak; "Christmas," the Misses Margaret and Mabel Loizeaux, and the last number was a recitation, "The Crows," by Miss Margaret Loizeaux.

Miss Daisy Robinson, who took a very active part in the affair, was presented with two handsome bouquets of flowers by Fred VanEmburgh, after her two vocal solos.

Those who arranged the affair and had charge, comprised the following: The Misses Daisy Robinson, May Koch, Ruth Klein, Bessie Adleberg, Helen Baker, Hazel Press, Margaret and Mabel Loizeaux, Isabelle Gloak, Sadie Moskowitz, Gladys Edsall, Marguerite Walsh and Bennie Adleberg, Walter Fisher, Harvey Thorn, Raymond Cutter and Frank Simpson.

ARRANGING OX ROAST.

Local Colored People to Have Big Time on September 14.

Under the auspices of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church an ox roast and barbecue will be held on Thursday, September 14, and no pains are being spared to make it one of the greatest events of the year or in the history of the church. The ox will be cooked whole and will be guaranteed to be as tender as a squab. In addition, Toney Brothers' Mandolin Club will furnish the music for the occasion, which will be held on the large lawn directly back of the church.

The committe of arrangements comprises I. H. Hooper, Alexander Still, W. M. Grobes, A. P. White, E. B. Maynard, Henry Williams, Thomas Johnson, Major Selby, Spencer Kelly and Elmer Thomas. A committee of women will also assist. The affair will start at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and dinner will be served from 12:30 noon to 11:30 at night. If stormy the affair will be held on the next fair day.

Vets to Have Reunion.

The sixteenth annual reunion of the Thirty-fifth N. J. Vols., will be held at Morristown on Labor Day.

CONDUCTORS LOSE MONEY

New Cash Registers in P. S C. Cars Work Queerly They Say.

ONE RETAINS LAWYER

Amos Stites Fights Against Payment of Alleged Shortage—Hints of Graft Among Officials.

General dissatisfaction among the conductors of the P. S. C. over the new-fangled cash registers, on which all the various fares, from three cents to twenty-five cents, are recorded, has reached an acute stage. One suit is threatened as a result of them, and others are likely to follow.

The complaint against the registers is that they are continually getting out of order, making the conductors liable to costly mistakes in ringing up fares. Since the registers were introduced a year ago reports of shortages in money turned in have become the expected thing by conductors. So common have the "shortages" become that the conductors are openly hinting at some sort of graft game, which the peculiar character of the register makes it possible to work.

The suit with which the company is threatened grew out of an investigation made by Amos Stites, of this city, a conductor, into an alleged shortage of $12.11 in his last month's returns. Stites was told of the shortage by the local paymaster. Totally unable to understand the shortage, he went to the auditor's office in Newark, and asked for an accounting. The auditor said the shortage was $5.65, and could find no entries to make it bigger in a search of all his books. Stites took the auditor's statement to the paymaster. He was willing to pay $5.65, but the paymaster insisted his accounts were all right, and $12.11 was due the company.

Stites refused to stand for the demand and placed the matter in the hands of Lawyer H. C. Runyon.

The wages due him amount to $27.50. He is not working, but refuses to turn in his badge and number until his wages are paid. If the company does not settle in a few days suit will be brought and a good deal of interesting testimony will mark the hearing.

All his fellow conductors are intensely interested in the outcome of Stites' action.

"Those registers were put there to do the conductors," said one of them in commenting on the action, "but I don't think the big men were on to it. This kick will probably open their eyes to what's been going on."

As an example of how the registers work, the men tell of a new conductor who recently stepped up to the pay window to collect his first full week's wages, $15. He was told there was a shortage against him.

"How much?" he asked.

"Fourteen dollars and ninety-five cents," answered the paymaster, and pushed a nickel at him.

There was room for another conductor on the next run of the new man's car.

More Haste; Less Speed.

A laughable incident to all, except the interested parties, happened on the 5:10 train from New York, last night. This train, as many persons know, is an express to Plainfield, but last night it slowed up at Elizabethport and a number of young men at that station, in a hurry to get to their homes in Elizabeth, jumped on, thinking, of course, that the train stopped at Elizabeth. As usual, the train went through Elizabeth at a forty mile rate and the expressions on the faces of the young men were most amusing to the regular commuters. The young men got off at Plainfield and paid their fares back to Elizabeth. So much for being in a hurry.

Plains Pastor An Author.

Rev. Ernest Richards, pastor of the Scotch Plains M. E. church and formerly editor of the "Family Churchman," London, England, has just corrected returned proofs of two instalments of his twelve months' serial story, "Day by Day in a Deepwater Ship," which commences in the October number of a London magazine.

Cops Go On Shooting.

Shooting for the August trophies was continued by the cops at the Independent Gun Club range yesterday afternoon. Two more days will be required to finish the shooting. Pipes are offered this month. The averages have not been figured yet, so the leaders are not known.

Go To Conference.

Rev. George Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, left for Shiloh yesterday with the other Seventh-Day Baptist clergymen, to attend the annual denominational conference.

BIG CROWD AT BENEFIT

Over 5,000 People Attended Ben La Vere's Own Pyrotechnic Concert

THREE VOCALISTS

Affair Was a Great Success and Pleased the Beneficiary—He Makes An Unheard But Appreciated Speech.

There was no room for pessimism in Bandmaster Ben LaVere's heart after his benefit concert Friday night. LaVere, being an artist, is inclined to a melancholic tendency to regard the dark side of things but he couldn't help cheering up last night. Concert Park and all the adjacent open spaces were jammed with people, and the way in which the programme went off marked a new degree in the enjoyment of Concert Park audiences.

It was the biggest crowd that has come out to a concert this season by a good deal. Exact figures are hard to get, because the music lovers and admirers of LaVere were scattered all over the neighborhood of the Park, but it is certain that considerably over 5,000 people came out to hear the music and see the fireworks —and pay a tribute to LaVere. It is not known how much the unusual programme and not a desire to gather in the bandmaster's honor figured in the big crowd, but LaVere doesn't care. No matter what moved the crowd its money was good and there was enough of that to make the artistic soul indifferent to the public's estimate as between personal worth and fireworks.

There were fully 1,000 people inside the stand enclosure. Every seat was taken and an overflow that filled the space in front of the seats as much as the management could allow was content to pay for the privilege for standing within the ropes. And the price was five cents more than usual, too. The space outside the enclosure was a solid mass of humanity, and the crowd on Watchung avenue was so thick that progress from Front street to the Park was a matter of fighting inch by inch.

Fireworks and all, the programme was one of the most enjoyable the public has had a chance to enjoy here for some time. The music was "pop" from first to last, and the pyrotechnic display was even better than that shown by the Italians in their feast-day celebration.

Most of the fireworks were reserved for exhibition by themselves after the music, but some of the pieces were set off between the musical numbers, making the programme a no-stop one. The fireworks included rockets, bombs and large set-pieces. The piece de resistance or at least the piece that struck the crowd's fancy was the figure of a woman, which burned away with sudden and unexpected touches of humor.

Three vocal soloists enlivened the musical programme. William Redmond sang "We'll Be Together When the Clouds Roll By;" Billy Murray sang "Happy Go Lucky Is the Way To Be" and "I Wonder If You Miss Me As I Miss You;" and Lew Leever sang "Down in Blossom Row."

Halfway through the programme Bandmaster LaVere arose to make a speech of appreciation. The hubbub and the soft quality of his tones made it impossible for anybody in the crowd to hear a word of what he was saying, but they took his eloquence for granted and cheered whenever the agitation in his face ceased. After a time Mr. LaVere stopped talking. An enthusiastic burst of handclapping and cheering came from the audience, for while it was impossible to tell what the speaker was saying it was very plain that he was pleased. The incident closed with palpable relief on both sides.

Sewer for South Section of City.

In connection with the investigations which the committee on streets and sewers are making for a sewer for the part of Plainfield not reached by the gravity sewers, Street Commissioner Gavett is having some test pits dug to ascertain the character of the ground. This work is to verify some borings made two years ago, and indicates considerable water and quicksand. The section under consideration reaches around the south and southeast portions of the city.

Charged Wrong Boys.

Howard Laury and Irving Cassett, both colored, one eleven years old and the other sixteen, were arraigned in the city court this morning, charged by M. Kadesh, of West Third street, with breaking a window in his house. The complainant said the boys smashed the glass at six o'clock in the morning, but the mothers of both swore that the lads were in bed at the time. Judge Runyon dismissed the complaint.

Beneficiary Gets $2,000.

Through Recorder H. H. Loughlin, Mrs. A. V. Harvey, of Jackson avenue, whose husband died recently, has received a check for $2,000 from the Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., the amount of a policy held by him. Mr. Berkaw was a member of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, of this city.

Albert V. Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, is spending his vacation at Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y.

LARGE GATHERING AT MRS. MOSHER'S FUNERAL

TWO PASTORS OFFICIATE AND PAY TRIBUTE TO HER MEMORY.

There was a large gathering of relatives and friends at the funeral services of Mrs. John P. Mosher held Friday afternoon from the home in West Fifth street. The sad circumstances attending the death of Mrs. Mosher called forth deep sympathy for the bereaved ones. There was a large display of floral tributes from relatives and neighbors of the departed attesting the high esteem in which she was held.

Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which Mrs. Mosher was an active member, read appropriate Scripture selections, offered prayer and made a short address, dwelling on the exemplary life and character of Mrs. Mosher and her unselfishness.

At the conclusion of Mr. Shaw's remarks, William N. Runyon sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," after which Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, an intimate friend of the family, spoke at some length, recounting the incidents which led up to the death of Mrs. Mosher. He referred to the fact that it was while she was on her way to attend his second wedding anniversary that she received injuries which caused her death. He also paid a tribute to the character of Mrs. Mosher and her devotion to her church and home, offering sincere words of sympathy to the bereaved family. He concluded his words with a prayer.

The interment was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearer were Boardman and Arlee Cottrell, of Alfred, N. Y., brothers of Mr. Mosher, her three sons, Stanley, Wendell and Boardman Mosher, and her son-in-law, George Homan.

DOMESTIC SERVICE.

Such good work is being done by the Women's National Household Alliance in New York that local women are seriously considering the advisability of establishing a branch. The purposes of the corporation are to ally, through practical co-operation, all feasible means of promoting the higher life of the household, as follows:

First—By affording a medium through which housekeepers may obtain competent servants, and by securing good positions to good help.

Second—To enlist the co-operation of both employer and employee in raising the standard of domestic service and home life.

Third—To foster the interests of all who employ women in occupations other than domestic service, as well as assisting girls and young women to qualify themselves for and to successfully fill such positions.

Fourth—To protect the interests of pure foods, right living, economical buying, rational cookery, the marketing of products made by women in the home, the advancement of rational education, etc.

The capital stock of the corporation is placed at $100,0.., of which nothing is paid in. The par value of a share is $100.

FOUND THEIR HOUSE TURNED UPSIDE DOWN

UNPLEASANT ENDING TO A PLEASANT DAY AT THE SEASHORE.

Francis E. Bodin, of the firm of Francis E. Bodin & Co., of Park avenue, whose home is in Washington Valley, locked up his house on Thursday and went with his wife for a day at the seashore. They had a nice time at the shore, but the edge dropped from their enjoyment when they got home.

The house looked as if it had been swept by an eccentric cyclone. None of the furniture in any of the rooms was where it belonged. Chairs were piled on beds, tables were lying on their sides or upside down, cuspidors where on the mantels, and mantel ornaments reposed piquantly on the kitchen stove.

Nothing was missing and it was evidently the work of some practical joker. But how the jester got in was a mystery. All the doors and windows were tightly locked, exactly as Mr. Bodin left them. He hasn't the slightest idea who the joker can be. The family has not been living in the Valley long and not very many people know them.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Overbaugh, of East Fifth street, are spending a week with relatives at New Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fury and daughter, Nellie, of Somerville, are stopping at Asbury Park for this week.

Miss Anna R. Molloy, of Glenside Park, with her friend, Miss Mary Meecham, of New Brunswick, are at Asbury Park.

Mrs. John J. Kilen and daughter, of Chatham street, have gone to the Catskills, where they will remain until September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rocap and family, of West Front street, leave town tomorrow to spend several weeks in Maine.

HERZIG & CO. INSOLVENT

Unexpected State of Affairs Revealed By Senior Members's Death.

CREDITORS MEET

Counsel for Partner Asks That He Be Given Charge But No Action Taken.

Before the death last week of Samuel Herzig, senior partner, the firm of S. Herzig & Co., whose factory for the manufacture of petticoats and women's underwear is in this city, was supposed to be in prosperous circumstances. Mr. Herzig made a statement only four days before he died to Bradstreet's representing the firm to have assets of $251,395 and liabilities of $99,353. Friday at a meeting of creditors it was announced that the firm was insolvent.

The firm was organized July 1, 1905, succeeding the firm of Herzig & Kapp, which had been in business five years. On the reorganization Nathaniel Levy, who had been a salesman for the firm of Herzig & Kapp, succeeded Edward Kapp.

George W. Gallinger, counsel for Mr. Levy, told the creditors that the two firms owed $96,000, of which $58,000 is for loans from banks as follows: Importers and Traders', $25,000; Chemical National, $15,000; Corn Exchange, $5,000; a private banker, $3,000. The assets, Mr. Gallinger said, were but $46,012. Of the liabilities Mr. Levy is responsible for but $12,000, the amount owed by Herzig & Co. Mr. Gallinger proposed that Mr. Levy be allowed to continue the business, but no action was taken on the suggestion.

In the event of the creditors refusing to allow Mr. Levy to assume charge and close the firm's affairs, the loss of the local factory would be greatly felt by Plainfield people. It employs about 200 women and girls and is the most important industry of its kind in this vicinity. It has always paid its employes good wages and many of them have been earning weekly amounts equal to those paid men in various departments of the city's machine shops.

The factory was moved to Plainfield from Dover in 1900, taking possession of the old Rink building on Watchung avenue. Mr. Kapp personally supervised affairs from the start until his withdrawal from the firm a few weeks ago.

POPE LEO'S POEM ON DEATH.

In 1897 Pope Leo felt the shadow of death beginning to fall upon him, and, in splendid defiance of its power, wrote the following lines, which are considered among his strongest works:

DEATH.

The Westering sun draws near his cloudy bed,
Leo, and gradual darkness veils thy head:

The sluggish life blood in thy withered veins
More slowly runs its course—what then remains?

Lo! Death is brandishing his fatal dart,
And the grave yearns to shroud thy mortal part:

But from its prison freed, the soul expands
Exulting pinions to the enfranchised lands.

My weary race is run—I touch the goal;
Hear, Lord, the feeble pantings of my soul;

If it be worthy, Lord, they pitying breast
Welcome it unto everlasting rest!

May I behold thee, Queen of earth and sky
Whose love enchained the demons lurking nigh

The path of heaven; and freely shall I own
'Twas thy sweet care that gained my blissful crown!

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore, of Grove street, are stopping at the Catskills for their vacation.

George Rust Rogers and mother, Mrs. Charlotte Rogers, of Madison avenue, are stopping at the Sea View House, Bay Head.

Among recent arrivals booked at the Laurel House, Lake Hopatcong, is Walter L. Long, of this place.

Walter Haurand, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haurand, of Elmwood place, is improving from a serious attack of meningitis.

Mrs. Augustus VanDeventer and son, of Washington avenue, who have been spending their vacation at Beach Haven, have returned home.

Mrs. Ell Loug and daughter, Miss Margaret Long, of Grove street, who have been spending their vacation at Atlantic Highlands, returned home on Saturday.

Clarence Giles, of East Second street, and Robert Runyon, of Park avenue, are guests at the Lister Cottage, Asbury Park.

Herbert W. Gray, of Elmwood place, is spending a part of his vacation with friends on the Blackford farm at New Market.

PRE-ELECTION MATTERS FIXED BY REPUBLICANS

CITY COMMITTEE GIVES SECOND REPORT OF ITS SESSION.

One or two pre-election matters were arranged by the Republican City Committee at its regular meeting Friday night. A naturalization committee was appointed, and Secretary Newcorn was authorized to issue the call for the primaries, which are to be held on September 12. All the members of the committee, excepting J. W. Murray, Jr., and Charles Foster, of the Third ward, were present.

Dr. O. L. Jenkins, the chairman, appointed the following on the naturalization committee: Horace G. Adams, First ward; William Townsend, Second ward; Charles Foster, Third ward; Andrew McCardell, Fourth ward. Foreigners who desire to become citizens may apply to any member of the committee or to Secretary Newcorn.

There was considerable talk over the local outlook, the tenor of which was agitated at times, but none of this was allowed to leak beyond the confines of the meeting room. Secretary Newcorn was delegated to give out a carefully censored report on the session, and the other members became as clams in the presence of reporters.

At the primaries for which the committee prepared a councilman, justice of the peace, and constable will be nominated in each ward. At the city convention to follow three councilmen-at-large, one member of the Board of Education, tax collector and a freeholder to serve one year will be named.

DON'T DREAM.

Wake up, girls!
You have no time to spend in idle day dreams.
Get the best out of every moment you live.
At the end of each day you should be able to say to yourself: "I have learned something today, my time has not been wasted."
There is no sense in saying that no good opportunities come your way.
They come, but you don't take advantages of them.
While you are dreaming of the great things you will do, someone else gets ahead of you and does them.
Be on the alert and don't be afraid to try things.
What if you do fail a few times, you will be all the better for trying.
No one yet was ever hurt by earnest endeavor, always through the endeavor was for what the person considered to be right.
Day dreams are very pleasant luxuries, but they don't travel hand in hand with success.
Dreaming means sitting with folded hands and waiting.
Success will never come to you unless you go to it.
You must keep your eyes open and take advantage of even the smallest opportunities.
It is wonderful how much one can learn by cultivating the habit of observation.
As you walk in the street or ride in the car you can pick up a surprising amount of information.
Our fellow beings are intensely interesting and they are constantly teaching us something or other.
Do not let your knowledge stagnate. Put it to some practical use.
If you allow it to grow rusty it will be of no use to you or to anyone else.
Remember you have only one life to live on this earth, so make the best of it.
Don't mourn the opportunity you lost yesterday. Put all your heart into the one that may come to you today.
And bear in mind that to do a small thing well is better than to do a large thing badly.
Don't sneer at the small opportunities, they may lead on to great ones.
If you want to get on well, dear girls, here is a little bit of advice I would offer you:
Keep your eyes open, don't whine and don't neglect the everyday opportunities.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey Bodine, of Madison avenue, are at Asbury Park.

William Higgins, of North avenue, will spend his vacation at Asbury Park.

Miss Marion Overton, of Rockview avenue, is spending her vacation at Block Island.

Ralph Taylor, of West Seventh street, is sojourning at Asbury Park for two weeks.

Percy Watson, of Washington avenue, is spending his vacation at Euclid, Wisconsin.

Captain and Mrs. L. B. Jewett, of Washington avenue, are spending August at Hadley, N. Y.

Letter-carrier J. W. A. Bauersachs, of the borough, is spending his vacation at Stroudsburg, Pa.

Everett K. Hartley, of Rockview avenue, is registered among recent arrivals at Long Beach, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Howell and daughter, Miss Sarah Mae Howell, of Myrtle avenue, are sojourning at Mouse Island, Me.

P. C. Jenings and family, of Rockview avenue, who have been spending some time in Canada, are at Newport, R. I., for a stay.

ENDS WAR WITH EXEMPTS

Ex-Secretary Murray Finally Delivers up Records and Money.

BY COURT'S ORDER

President Littell's Action In Replevin Completely Successful—A Warrant for Murray's Arrest Was Out.

Firemen here and in other parts of the State have found a topic of conversation of more than usual interest, in the replevin suit which the New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association recently instituted against Peter J. Murray, of Hoboken.

Mr. Murray is prominent in political circles in Hudson county, being for many years clerk of the Board of Assessors, of Hoboken, and for the past two years secretary of the State Exempt's Association. So it is a relief that he is no longer compelled to keep in hiding in order to evade service of legal papers, demanding of him the delivery of the Exempt Association's books, records, minutes, money and seals. He has at last made peace with the old volunteers, giving up all the records which he had and $14 in money, by order of a writ of replevin from the Hoboken District Court.

As it is, the litigation has covered many months, the first procedure being started early in March of this year, when a committee composed of Joseph G. Burns, of Perth Amoby; D. W. Littell, of this city, and H. W. Hughes, of Orange, called on Murray and demanded that he attend to the duties of his office and prepare the notices of meeting for the convention to be held at Trenton in May. This he failed to do, complaining that he had several grievances against the association and declaring he would not attend to the office, nor attend the convention and deliver up the records and money to his successor, E. T. Humphrey, of Nutley, until "he got good and ready."

After assuming the office of president, Mr. Littell decided that for the best interests of the association and its members legislations should be severed with Murray, and legal proceedings instituted.

V. W. Nash, Jr., of this city, attorney for the State Association, was sought, and at once made application for a writ of replevin to Judge Frederick Frambach, of the Hoboken District Court, ordering Murray to appear and show cause why he had failed to comply with the legal demand made by E. T. Humphrey, the new secretary, at the request of John T. Spittell, chairman of the State Executive Committee. At the same time complaint was also made to Justice of the Peace John Duffy, of Jersey City, charging Murray with embezzlement of $14 of the association's money, alleged to have been collected as dues from the Tenafly and Red Bank associations.

Upon this complaint a warrant was issued and placed in the hands of a constable for service.

On Tuesday, after many delays, the cases were called for trial, and with the approval of the court possession was given to the association of the records and papers, money and costs of court.

GOVERNOR STOKES MAY NAME JUDGES

HE WILL HAVE TO APPOINT SUCCESSOR TO CHANCELLOR MAGIE IN 1907.

Trenton Aug. 2.—It has been discovered that the term of the present Chancellor, William J. Magie, will expire at midnight, January 13, 1908, and that, as this will be the last day before the Legislature of that year assembles, the appointment of his successor will devolve upon Governor Stokes in 1907, nearly a year before the end of the Chancellor's term.

The Constitution provides that "no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the Governor during the last week of his term," otherwise Governor Stokes could make the appointment the day the Legislature convenes in 1908. This probably escaped the attention of Governor Voorhees in making the appointment so early in the session of 1901. He was such a friend and admirer of Chancellor Magie, with whom he studied law, that he was anxious to pay him the marked compliment of so prompt an appointment. Before that the term of the Chancellor expired May 1.

It is understood that Chancellor Magie will not desire a reappointment in 1908. His successor will probably be Chief Judge Gummere, whose promotion will create a vacancy in the Supreme Court, to be filled by Governor Stokes, who will also have the naming of a chief judge in place of Mr. Gummere, and who is very likely to advance to that position one of the present Supreme Court judges, Judge Jonathan Dixon being marked by seniority and ability as in the logical line of promotion.

For the vacancy on the Supreme Bench there are many able lawyers in New Jersey who would look well in that seat, and who are willing to fill it.

SAT ON DEAD LIMB TO VIEW FIREWORKS

IN CONSEQUENCE RALPH RUNYAN TOOK A SUDDEN TUMBLE.

While viewing the fireworks display at Concert Park Friday, the limb of a tree upon which Ralph Runyan, of Manning avenue, was sitting broke and threw him to the ground, a distance of fifteen feet, severely bruising and spraining his left leg from the hip to the foot. As he fell he gave a cry and this attracted the attention of neighbors, who rushed to his assistance. He was helped home, where proper treatment was given. An examination disclosed the fact that no bones were broken. Although he is able to walk about, Mr. Runyan suffers intense pain, and it will be some time before he will be able to return to work.

He intended to take his family and go to Concert Park, but it being late when he finished work, he afterward decided to climb a tree in the Babcock property, adjoining his residence, where he had an excellent view of the pyrotechnic display. It was afterward learned that the limb upon which he was sitting was partially dead.

FOR THE COOK.

A Summer Drink.—Put into a basin two pounds of loaf sugar, pour on to them a pint of water to cover it, stir in one ounce of tartaric acid, and enough essence of lemon to taste. Set it aside until quite cold. Put into bottles and cork well. Take one wineglassful of the beverage to a tumbler of water. Add a pinch of carbonate of soda to each tumbler. This is a very nice, refreshing drink.

Orange and Rhubarb Marmalade.—To every pound of rhubarb allow three or four Seville oranges and one pound and a half of loaf sugar. Peel the oranges thinly and cut them into stripes as for marmalade; take off the white pith, which will not be needed. Remove the pips from the fruit and cut it in slices. Place oranges, rhubarb and sugar in the preserving pan, and cook gently till sufficiently done, and the scum has ceased to rise. Pour the preserve in small pots, and next day cover it down with gummed paper.

Cheese Straws.—Take two ounces of butter, two ounces of flour, two ounces of grated cheese, a little salt and cayenne pepper, mix into a paste, roll out thin, cut into fingers quarter inch wide and two inches long. Twist them and bake them for a few minutes in a hot oven. Serve cold.

Egg Dainty.—A tasty breakfast dish. Boil three eggs twelve minutes, take them out and put them into cold water till cold. Remove shells, dry them with a little flour, cover them with sausage meat, egg and bread crumbs. Fry in boiling fat a nice brown. Serve cold, either cut in halves or whole.

Yorkshire Pudding.—Mix five spoonfuls of flour with a quart of milk and three eggs well beaten. Butter the pan. When brown by baking them under the meat, turn the other side upward and brown that. It should be made in a square pan. Set it over a chafing dish at first, and stir it some minutes.

Preserved Rhubarb.—To every pound of rhubarb put one pound of sugar. Let it remain three days, then boil the syrup two or three minutes. Next add the rhubarb and boil three minutes. Place on a flat dish till lukewarm, then add essence of ginger to taste. Put into jars.

For minced pickle chop half a peck of green tomatoes, cover them with two-thirds of a cupful of salt and let stand twenty-four hours and a night. Then scald half a gallon of vinegar, with a tablespoonful of pepper, a tablespoonful and a half each of ground mustard, allspice, cinnamon and cloves and half a cupful of white and sugar. Add to the tomatoes two onions chopped fine and four large green peppers deluded of seeds and cut into rings. Turn the vinegar over the mixture and boil steadily twenty minutes.

A Simple Savory—This little savory is seasonable at all times, as sardines are with us all the year round. To make the dish you must bone as many of the fish as you require, first removing the skin; then make a little white sauce (about a quarter of a pint) and add to it a seasoning of salt, pepper, cayenne, and a few drops of lemon juice; now add the sardines, and put the mixture into scallop tins, cover each with fine bread crumbs; put a few small pieces of butter on the top, and bake for about ten minutes in a moderate oven.

KEEP GOING.

The world is moving right along,
You must keep going,
There is no halting with the throng,
You must keep going.
There is no stopping on the way,
The same old hustle day by day,
You cannot stop in some one's way,
You must keep going.

If you would reach fame's topmost round,
You must keep going;
Begin the strife while you are young,
And then keep going.
If you would keep from dire distress,
If you would make a big success,
And reap reward and happiness,
You must keep going.
—The Christian Work and Evangelist.

FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Lambert Edmunds Arrested in Jersey City on Metuchen Girl's Complaint.

A MARRIED MAN

Has a Wife and Four Children Residing on West Front Street—Former Suspected Perfidy.

Charged with breach of promise by Miss Annie Hubbell, of Metuchen, Lambert Edmunds, who has a wife and four children at 580 West Front street, was arrested in Jersey City Saturday. Until Friday night Edmunds lived with his family here. He fled from them after his wife had confronted him in company with Miss Hubbell in Metuchen.

Mrs. Edmunds was told of her husband's arrest by a Daily Press reporter. She expressed no surprise.

"I have known that this thing was going on for two months," she said. "I tried to lead my husband from the course he was following, but without avail.

"Six months ago he started to come home later than was his habit and I suspected something was wrong. Two months ago in cleaning his clothes I found a letter from this Hubbell girl that confirmed my suspicions. At that time I did not know her address, and it was not until yesterday that I discovered it. As soon as I learned where she lived I went to her home.

"I learned there that my husband had engaged himself to Miss Hubbell under the guise of a single man. The girl's father was astounded when he learned that her fiancee was a married man with four children, but the girl herself told me that she had learned it from his own lips two weeks ago. She said they became engaged a year ago, my husband posing as an unmarried man. Two weeks ago the girl said he told her the truth, but said it need make no difference in their plans for marriage. He proposed that they go South, where he said they could be married quietly without fear of interference. My husband began to throw out hints some time ago that his health would require a change to a Southern climate, and I suppose this plan had been in his mind for months. He refused to promise to take me and the children with him, and the talk strengthened my suspicion that something was wrong.

"I returned home yesterday afternoon but went back to Metuchen in the evening. I met my husband and the girl on the street. He refused to speak to me and hurried back to this city. When I reached home I learned from his mother, who lives with us, that he had been here, packed up his clothes and fled. Mother pleaded with him to give up his wicked plan but he refused to listen to her.

"My husband has always treated me well and this is the first thing, but I will not seek to shield him from the consequences of his act unless he makes it plain that he will reform completely. I am ready to appear against him in court."

Edmunds met Miss Hubbell in this city. Until two months ago she was employed as a domestic in a fashionable Crescent avenue boarding house. She drew her money from the bank and returned to her home in Metuchen in expectation of getting married.

Edmunds is a boss plumber in the employ of the Central Railroad. He was arrested while at work. He came here ten years ago from Bound Brook. He has been married for seventeen years. The eldest of the four children is eleven years old; the youngest is only three months old. He is a member of a local council of the Jr. O. U. A. M.

PREPARING FOR SCHOOL.

Vandeventer Building Being Made Ready for Drake Business College.

A large force of workmen are employed at the Vandeventer building place it is readiness to be occupied by the Drake Business College, September 5. The large floor space is being divided into a commercial, shorthand, typewriting, office and reception rooms. The ceiling and sides of the different departments are to be finished in cream and light pea green, surrounded by a stenciled friezed border. The commercial and shorthand departments will be equipped with the latest improved desks finished in golden oak and the typewriting room with the most improved Remington machines and tabulators.

The management of the school will be placed under the principalship of C. A. Ricker, a graduate of Lafayette College. A force of competent teachers will be brought from the Drake Business College at Jersey City to take charge of the different departments.

Back from the West.

Samuel Dreier, of West Front street, returned home yesterday from a month's trip through the West. He traveled alone. Most of his time was spent in Colorado. The trip has improved his health greatly.

Miss Jessie Munger and her brother, Harry Munger, of Washington avenue, are sojourning at Whiteface Inn, Lake Placid, Adirondacks.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Ocean's Supply of Fish.

The fish is a migratory animal and his home covers three-quarters of the globe. Some varieties may be absent or scarce one season and abundant the next. They eat each other more extensively than man can catch them. While it is about time that old ocean was fully stocked it will take quite a long time to clean out so large a pasture. Some varieties may disappear and other develop to succeed them. Man is the most destructive and voracious animal that threatens the fish supply.—Atlantic City Union.

No Credit to the Sex.

Those women who waved handkerchiefs and kissed the tips of their fingers to convicts in cells at Trenton are no credit to their sex. The building of an addition to the prison necessitated the removal of a wall, thus exposing to view windows of the cells, in each of which was a prisoner. So great became the crowd of female gazers and so marked their flirtations with the convicts that the prison guard had to be called out to disperse them.—Hoboken Observer.

Can Do Without a Leader.

If the Republican party of New Jersey acquits itself as it ought to, and by fidelity to the best interests of the State and honest zeal in its service commends itself to the confidence and support of the common people, it won't need any leader, and, in fact, the farther it keeps away from the domination of "Bossism," the better for it. What the party needs for a leader is high principle, and not a man, no matter how exalted his political station.—Paterson Press.

Thinks He Would Fill Bill.

The New York Tribune is concerned beyond measure as to the condition of the Republican party in New Jersey, and the pessimistic Republican, who told its correspondent that "unless the party gets a leader pretty soon, it will surely meet with disaster," must feel lonesome. However, if there is a crying need for a leader, the Tribune has suggested one who would fill the bill, when it names Senator Kean.—Elizabeth Journal.

Advices That Conflict.

Information concerning the Morris canal that drifts down from the north end of the State, and especially from Newark, is varied and of a character to set a man thinking. The Newark newspapers refer to the canal as an open sewer. A few days ago we were told that a convert to the Baptist church was baptised in the canal. Our Baptist brethren are sticklers for pure water when it comes to immersion. They are not apt to baptise a convert in an "open sewer."—Trenton State Gazette.

County Politics.

Although he declares that he will make no fight for the nomination, friends of Ernest Ackerman, of Plainfield, are industriously at work advocating him as a candidate for State Senator. The movement started in Elizabeth and in various other sections it has gained much headway. Plainfield is still looked upon by county leaders as a doubtful quantity, although the administration people have come out for William N. Runyon. It has been stated that Mr. Ackerman will not accept a nomination without the support of his own town and his friends count upon obtaining it before the convention date.—Rahway Advocate.

Chancellor Magie.

Chancellor Magie has begun his six weeks' vacation in Maine, where he fishes and sails a boat and otherwise shakes off the cares of office. The Chancellor is now 73 years old, but vigorous and as interested in his profession as ever. He has had a very peaceful life. He was valedictorian of his class at Princeton in 1855, studied law and had a good practice at once in Elizabeth, where his family had lived for years; was appointed Prosecutor, then elected to the State Senate, and in 1880 made a Supreme Court Justice. He has been Chief Justice and, for the last four years, Chancellor, and each place came to him without any special effort on his own part. He has ample means and honorable office, and, altogether, has escaped most of the troubles of life.—Paterson News.

Not Silly, But Good Sense.

The Somerset Messenger says: "This is the silly political season of the year" and the only reason assigned for this statement is that "the Republican press of the State is attempting to convince its readers that New Jersey is safely Republican." We cannot see anything silly about this. It would certainly be silly for anyone to attempt to prove that the State was Democratic. The Messenger says itself that "the Democrats cannot logically deny the soft impeachment that for the last 15 years the State has been in control of the Republicans." There is nothing silly then in telling the facts as they exist. New Jersey is Republican because we get a better government through that party. The present financial system was not thought of by the Democrats, but all departments are now conducted on strict business principles. The State government has been improved and built up in many ways and while the yearly expenditures may be somewhat more than a decade ago when the Democrats were in power the population has increased over 30 per cent. and the comforts and conditions are vastly superior. No one objects to justifiable expense in the interests of good government.

The voting system has been so much improved that the old habit of stuffing ballot boxes is no longer possible. Voting machines cost the State about $50,000 a year but they help to make a pure ballot. We spend $250,000 a year on stone roads which add value to the farmers' land and give him easy access to the markets. We are paying to the counties for the support and care of the insane $100,000 more than ten years ago, and a special officer has been appointed to look after all charitable and penal institutions. We are spending three times as much as we did ten years ago for charitable purposes. We are spending for educational purposes three times as much besides giving a million a year to save the people from school tax.

There are many reasons why New Jersey is Republican, and many reasons for the conclusion that she will remain so. It may seem silly to the Messenger, but the people do not think so.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

Municipal Ownership Abandoned.

The city of Elizabeth has, through the action of its City Council, practically abandoned the idea of the municipal ownership of its water supply for at least five or six years to come. Several months ago the question was raised in the Board of Trade and was discussed with much vigor, not a few of the leading business men and taxpayers taking positive ground in favor of the city either negotiating with United States Senator John Kean, who controls the Elizabethtown Water Company, for the purchase of the plant, or beginning condemnation proceedings to secure the entire supply. But Elizabeth could not buy and was not in position to condemn, and this was known to everybody familiar with its financial condition for the past thirty years. The cloud of its former financial misfortunes hangs over it still, retards its progress and blocks the large enterprises which its own welfare demands. The city debt is still over $20,000,000, the tax rate is still above $2.90, and to buy or take over a water plant capable of supplying more than 60,000 people would undoubtedly necessitate the doubling of the city debt and of the fixed charges. How this could be done with the Hilliary maximum tax law about to become operative was the problem which the City Council could not see its way to solve. But the agitation over this question has not been without good results. Senator Kean's water company has conceded better terms to the city and to private consumers. The rates to houses are to be reduced and a discount is also to be allowed for the prompt payment of bills. The company reduces the yearly rent of fire hydrants from $20 to $15, and will supply gratis the water necessary to sprinkle the streets through which the trolleys run. A new contract will be made between the city and the water company, and the agitation, though fruitless of its avowed purpose, will prove of no small advantage to both the city and the citizens. Under the circumstances nothing more could reasonably have been expected, but had the city been free from the burdensome legacy of the old wooden pavement debt, how easily could Elizabeth have raised anywhere from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, or more if necessary, and become the owner of its own water supply; while at less rates than are now paid for water it could meet all expenses, pay its interest charges and provide a sinking fund for the retirement of the necessary bonds.—Newark News.

FASHION WHIMS.

There is very little trimming on the long skirts to be worn in the afternoon and evening.

Sleeves for the coming season will be large at the top and short in length.

Choicest materials for dresses for the coming season are of solid colors.

If a strictly tailored shirt waist is worn it is proper to wear a strictly tailored stock.

Feathers have taken the place of flowers in millinery to some extent.

The most popular style of embroidery at present is Broderie Anglaise.

The linen shoe, heavily embroidered on the toe, is very fashionable.

Linen with incrustations of eyelet embroidery is among the favorite materials for gowns.

The aigrette plays an important part in the trimmings of headgear. The newest aigrettes are shorter, but very full.

The suspender dresses which have been so much worn during the summer will again be worn this winter.

White dresses are very popular at the seashore and country. They are worn at all occasions.

New Signs on Cars.

The trolley cars on the local and through divisions have been equipped with large signs in front which are illuminated at night. Those running between Dunellen and Newark are marked "Main line." The change is beneficial to passengers as the signs are to be distinguished a block away.

Boys' Athletic Club.

A number of West End boys have formed a baseball and football club. The organization is known as the Columbia A. C.

Harry Dreier, of West Front street, is recovering from an attack of dysentery.

THE GENTLER SEX.

Mrs. Angelina Clementina Smith, ex-assistant superintendent of the department of sociological civics of the American Confederation of Women's Clubs, and assistant general manager of the lingerie exhibit of the woman's amalgamated department of the Topeka State Fair, went to Kansas City today.—Eldorado (Kan.) Republican.

It takes a Kansas woman to think quickly in case of an emergency. Mrs. Cooper, a 19-year-old girl, obtained a divorce from her husband at Ottawa in April. She was given the custody of their only child, a little girl. A few nights later Cooper stole the child and left the country. He was traced to California. Mrs. Cooper went out there and found that the child was in a hospital. She employed a lawyer and went to the hospital. The attorney passed himself off as the child's father and Mrs. Cooper as a trained nurse. They were allowed to take the child out for an airing. Mrs. Cooper boarded the train with the child and they are now back at Ottawa.—Kansas City Journal.

To the quick eye and steady nerve of Miss Florence Rueckheim, of 4226 Vincennes avenue, Edward Olson, 12 years old, owes his life. The boy contracted his indebtedness and the girl won her laurels at Paw Paw, Mich. last Wednesday. Olson was sailing on the lake with his mother. In attempting to handle the sail the boy crawled to the fore part of the boat but the tossing caused him to lose his hold, and he was thrown into the lake. As he could not swim and his mother could not reach him, his plight was desperate, when Miss Rueckheim saw the accident. With Miss Blanche Williams, of 716 East Fiftieth street, Miss Rueckheim was swimming near the shore, 100 yards away. She at once struck out for the little boat. When she neared it she saw the boy, apparently unconscious floating near the surface. Seizing him by the hair, she began a long and arduous journey back to shore which she finally reached after Miss Williams had assisted her.—Chicago Tribune.

"Who is the beautiful girl on the box seat?" is now an obsolete question. Motor cars have ruled it out There are no coaches, consequently no box seats with beautiful girls upon them. When automobiles chug along with beauty it is in disguise. If any curiosity is shown it is to see the car's number and wonder merely who the dickens that bundle on the back seat can be.—Boston Herald.

WOMEN MEN LIKE.

To be brilliant and accomplished would seem to be very much to the advantage of a marriageable young woman. This, however, is not the *view taken by a lady with some pre*tensions to speak with authority on such subjects.

The average man, she considers, is a little afraid of the highly accomplished damsel. She is too apt to be assertive, to have opinions of her own, and to be a little deficient in that deference to and sympathy with masculine opinions which appeal so much to men. As a result it is often the case that the brilliant girl remains on the shelf long after her less gifted but more submissive sisters have provided themselves with husbands.

The moral seems to be that the clever girl mus be clever enough to avoid making too great a display of her accomplishments before her male admirers. She must suppress the tendency to disagree with masculine views of things, however wrong-headed, and remember that men are shy of women whom they suspect to be intellectually superior to themselves. They like best the women who defer to their opinions, and who make them feel pleased with themselves as the wise and strong sex upon which women must rely for support and protection. So at least thinks the authority; and truly it is a pretty lesson in feminine diplomacy.

CHARACTER IN THE NECK.

It is claimed that character, and often the state of health, may be judged from the neck as readily as by features.

A short, thick neck denotes a wilful disposition and a sagacious mind.

The avaricious person is discovered by long, thin neck, stretching forward in an ungainly manner.

The perfectly formed neck is rather long, but gracefully proportioned and rounded denoting a pleasant disposition, while the coquettish neck is of medium length, but allows the head to toss and generally holds it at an angle, while the oversensitive, shy woman generally has a long, thin neck.

The short, rounded neck of the affectionate woman retains its graceful curves longer than any of the others.

All of which goes to prove that, if only the neck were to be considered, a woman would, indeed, have every opportunity to improve her disposition and mold her character. Even a thin neck may be strengthened and rounded by proper exercise and massage—unsightly wrinkles and black lines escaped by avoiding tight high collars and collar-buttons. A pretty well-formed neck and well-poised head go far toward improving a woman's looks and carriage, and, knowing this, it seems strange that the average woman pays so little attention to this important part of her anatomy.

Miss Gertrude Geier, of Madison avenue, has returned from a week's stay at Asbury Park.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Aug. 27: "Woman's Work For Missions"—Mark xiv, 3-9; Acts ix, 36; Rom. xvi, 1, 2.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

Women have ever been among the foremost helpers in Christianity as in all other religions. The Scripture texts refer to names of noted women in the early church who did much for the furtherance of the gospel.

No less successfully are women working at the present time. The women's boards of missions in the various churches are of recent origin. Their work has but lately been possible. Indeed, our whole scheme of mission work, as now organized and carried on, dates back scarcely more than a century. The foundation laying was long and arduous. In the east it was for many years impossible to penetrate the barriers which surrounded the native life and come into close touch with the people in their deepest needs. As progress was made it was found that no man could meet in any way the women of the upper classes in society. But the real citadel of religion in any land is in the home, and the womanhood of the land holds its key. Women alone can reach women.

In many lands at nearly the same time the opportunities presented themselves for woman's work. Christian womanhood readily responded to the call for her services. In the zenanas of India, the kraals of Africa, the compounds of China, the homes of many lands, the call went up for the skill of Christian women to teach their less advanced sisters. Women had long been among our most successful teachers. So it was natural that the children of heathenism should be placed under the care of our consecrated young women for their education. Bible reading and conversation among the women in their homes followed naturally, almost inevitably.

Then the utter misery of heathen womanhood in sickness and the complete lack of medical skill and knowledge in those lands aroused our women to a knowledge of their ability in this direction. Our girls studied nursing, medicine, surgery, and went out as healers. God has greatly honored His church for this. He has opened the doors of all pagandom, and the skilled physician has won the hearing for the gospel message which teacher and preacher might have sought in vain.

This work of women for missions has many sides, and the story has many incidents of surprising romance and thrilling interest. Large ability in business enterprises and handling with fidelity trusts of great financial responsibility have been among the developments and surprises.

Theories of woman's capacity have been profoundly modified as these enterprises have progressed under her own management. She is doing her full share with her brother in making the world that is to be.

One of the most valuable results of her work for missions has been the development of her ability to do work in fields of activity never before recognized as open to her. She has gained for herself a place of higher worth and wider influence than ever before accorded her. This is greater than all she has done besides, since it is prophecy and promise of what she shall be and do in the days to come.

Surely she is true sister to the Son of Man and mother of all the good the race holds fast.

Superlative Wisdom.

"He that winneth souls is wise." He is wiser than one who wins wealth, because the soul is worth more than all material wealth. He is wiser than one who finds out how to separate the gold from the dross and turn the crude ore into pure metal, because it is a greater work to separate a sinner from his sins and turn him into the way of righteousness. He is wiser than one who enters into partnership with kings and princes in the grandest enterprises of statecraft, for he enters into partnership with God in building up an everlasting kingdom. He is wiser than one who discovers and makes known a sovereign remedy for the worst physical malady, for he makes known to the lost soul the remedy for sin and saves him from everlasting misery.

And in this holy, sweet employ—
However long and hard the task,
The sacrifices it may ask—
The worker shares the heavenly joy
Which breaks in rapture from the throne
When sinners are for glory won.

—Christian Work and Evangelist.

To Deal Kindly With Others.

Be true, be honest, be faithful, be just in what you think with yourself, in your inward communings and dealings with your own spirit, where no one is witness but God, and your words will be true of themselves, and the temptation will hardly come to you to deal unkindly and unfairly with your brother.—Dean Church.

The Things I Miss.

An easy thing, O Power Divine,
To thank Thee for these gifts of Thine—
For summer's sunshine, winter's snow,
For hearts that kindle, thoughts that glow,
But when shall I attain to this—
To thank Thee for the things I miss?

For all young fancy's early gleams,
The dreamed of joys that still are dreams,
Hopes unfulfilled and pleasures known
Through others' fortunes, not my own,
And blessings seen that are not given
And never will be this side heaven.

Had I, too, shared the joys I see
Would there have been a Leaven for me?
Could I have felt Thy presence near
Had I possessed what I held dear?
My deepest fortune, highest bliss,
Have grown, perchance, from things I miss.

Sometimes there comes an hour of calm,
Grief [illegible] to blessing, pain to [illegible];
A Power that works above my [illegible]
Still leads me onward, [illegible]
And then my heart attains to [illegible]—
To thank [illegible] for the [illegible]

—Thomas [illegible] in Christian Endeavor [illegible]

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 27.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Mission work among women.—Acts xvi, 13-15; Tit. ii, 3-5.

It seems to be one of the unfortunate phases of human life that women suffer from so many things for which they are not responsible and over which they have no control. The correctness of this statement can find no better illustration than in heathen lands. The women of India, China and Japan have had nothing to do with the development of the religious of their countries, and yet who suffers so much as they from the infamous features of these religions? They have been held in more or less bondage and have suffered most from the practices of the religious faith of their country. It was the mother in India who cast her babe as an offering into the Ganges, and it is the girl widow there today who lives a life indescribable in its cruelty, and yet her husband had been chosen for her, and in many cases she had never seen him! Christianity is the only religion that has recognized womanhood at its true value and has given woman her rightful place in life; hence the gospel should be carried to the women in heathen lands and should lift them, as it only can, out of the burdens and cares of their lives.

Mission work among women has always been unusually successful. Women have found in Christianity that which satisfies the wants and needs of their hearts. They seem able to grasp the blessings and benefits of Christianity even more heartily than men and are also more ready than men to accept Christ and to consecrate their lives to Him. Paul found that women were ready to respond to the call of Christ for consecration and service. In Lydia we have a good type of the effect of Christianity upon the lives of women and of the invaluable service that women have rendered to Christianity. And millions of consecrated women like Lydia have given their lives to Jesus Christ in beautiful service for others. But, inasmuch as it was done in His name, it was done unto Him.

Mission work among women should not only aim to save them by faith in Jesus Christ, but also to develop in them the traits and characteristics that true Christian women should possess. Paul in his instructions to Titus sets these forth as follows: "The aged women likewise, that they be in behavior as becometh holiness, not false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things; that they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children, to be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, obedient to their own husbands; that the word of God be not blasphemed."

Mission work for women must largely be done by women. Women understand each other better, and on the mission fields they have easier access to the homes and to the women. In foreign fields this is especially true. The women live enforced secluded lives in many cases, and only the women missionaries can have the opportunity of speaking to them of Christ. Every Christian woman should be specially and deeply interested in mission work for women.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. lii, 7; Nah. i, 15; Matt. xv, 21-28; John iv, 21-30; Rom. x, 14, 15; Matt. xxvi, 6-13; Rom. xvi, 1-5; Rev. xxii, 17.

Wafted From the Philippines.

A letter from Rev. George William Wright, *the successor to the late la*mented Leonard P. Davidson as missionary of the Presbyterian board in Manila, says: "We have Endeavor societies in almost all of our churches, though it is a difficult thing to give them the personal attention they so much need. Our Tondo congregation here in Manila has a strong society, and every Friday night they fill the little room. This is a sort of first training school for young preachers. I mean by that that they begin to do their talking in the Christian Endeavor meeting, and it is usually the young men who develop in this way who become our evangelists."

The Quiet Hour In California.

California is far in the lead in the matter of Comrades of the Quiet Hour. Miss Sadie I. Tuthill, the superintendent for the state, recently reported a list of 198 new names. "The interest in the Quiet Hour," she writes, "is steadily increasing throughout the state, and every mail brings a testimony from some one who has been helped by the observance of this covenant."

Rouse Ye For Christian Endeavor.

[A new state song written for and dedicated to the Louisiana Christian Endeavor union by John R. Clements, press superintendent World's Christian Endeavor union.]

Sing to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia."

Sing a stirring working song
That tells of much to do
As we press our way along
To Jesus, ever true.
Many tasks now wait our hand,
With workers all too few.
Rouse ye for Christian Endeavor!

CHORUS.

Peal out! Peal out! A watchword sweet and clear.
Peal out! Peal out! The hour for work is here.
"Christ and church" our call today,
And this our banner year!
Rouse ye for Christian Endeavor!

Sound a stirring bugle call
And wake the sleeping band.
Work is waiting great and small;
Let no one idle stand.
Jesus needs us in the ranks;
Move forth at his command.
Rouse ye for Christian Endeavor!

Harvests white now need the blade,
Why pass an idle day?
Have you Jesus' call obeyed?
Forth to the field away.
Rich reward is waiting you,
Then labor while ye may.
Rouse ye for Christian Endeavor!

SUPREME COURT BIBLE.

Book on Which Distinguished Men Took Oath.

Kept secretly under lock and key in the Supreme Court room at Washington, there is a small Oxford Bible around which cluster many notable and historic incidents. It was printed at Oxford in 1799, first came into court's service in 1808, and is believed to be one of the 20,000 imported by Congress a few years before. During its court career of nearly a century this volume has been called into service every day on which the august tribunal has held session.

The great constitutional lawyers of the formative period of our government, as a prequisite of their admission of practice before this learned body, kissed its material face.

Besides these great legal lights, every associate and chief justice, with the exception of Chief Justice Chase who had a Bible of his own, and every lawyer except Daniel Webster, sworn to practice before the Supreme oCurt bar, has taken his oath of allegiance on this book.

It is a tradition of the court that when Daniel Webster came before this high tribunal in his first argument in the defense of the chartered rights of his alma mater, Dartmouth College, against the legislative attacks of New Hampshire, by some strange inadvertence the oath was not administered. The tradition goes further, intimating that the judges were so impressed by he eloquence of his appeal, which stands out today as a classic in legal lore, that they either forgot or dared not to mention his dirEliction.

It is no wonder that this little Bible is so carefully preserved, endeared as it is with the memories of America's greatest statesmen and jurists. When a President is to be sworn in the clerk of the court usually purchases a new Bible, and after the certificate has been affixed he presents it to the first lady of the land.—Leslie's Weekly.

DOZEN GOOD BUSINESS MAXIMS.

The president of the London Chamber of Commerce gives these twelve maxims, which he has tested through years of business experience, and which he recommends as tending to insure success:

1—Have a definite aim.

2—Go straight for it.

3—Master all details.

4—Always know more than you are expected to know.

5—Remember that difficulties are only made to be overcome.

6—Treat failures as stepping-stones to further effort.

7—Never put your hand out further than you can draw it back.

8—At times be bold; always be prudent.

9—The minority ofter beats the majority in the end.

10—Make good use of other men's brains.

11—Listen well, answer cautiously, decide promptly.

12—Preserve, by all means in your power, "a sound mind in a sound body."

Ingenious Jerseymen.

The following patents have been granted to Jerseymen: Treadle stand for sewing machines, E. B. Allen, Elizabeth; electric clock, R. Carlstadt, Jersey City; fuel burning apparatus, C. J. Coleman, Rockaway; tire, A. De Laski, Weehawken; variable speed gearing, F. L. Dyer, Montclair; lamp guard, T. A. Edison, Llewellyn Park; making urea, H. Foerstling and H. Philipp, Perth Amboy; blow and plunger head for glass blowing machines, W. D. Frederick, Bridgeton; molding device, F. J. Hall, Jersey City; molding machine (3 patents), J. P. Hall, Jersey City; toy, F. Hordick, Jersey City; drawing board, W. L. Keuffel, Hoboken; chute, J. Koller, Newark; railway tie, R. B. Lamb, Mt. Holly; ruhmkorffcoil, J. McIntyre, Jersey City; machine for shaving sound records, J. F. Ott, Orange; linotype machine, D. Petri Palmedo, Hoboken; automatic fire door opening device, W. P. Reed, Newark; repairing pipe lines, J. Welsh, Jersey City. (Designs), pile fabric, F. E. Kipp, Montclair. (Trademarks), satin velvet ribbons, Helvetia Silk Mill, Paterson; medical tonics, Maas & Waldstein, Newark; coffee, Park & Tilford, Jersey City; spring shade rollers, Stewart Hartshorn Company, East Newark; rasps and files, Stokes Brothers' Manufacturing Company, Freehold.

ELECTION PAMPHLET ISSUED.

Book of Instructions Completed by State.

The Secretary of State has issued the annual pamphlet on "Instructions Relative to the Duties of Officers and Voters," to be used in connection with the preparation for the election November 7. The publication of the book is required by the general election law.

The book contains a chronological index of the duties relating to the preparation for the election, and then gives in full the duties of every officer in connection with the election from the Governor down to the members of the district election boards. Each paragraph gives the proper references to the election laws, which have also been published in pamphlet form by the Secretary of State. These references make it easy to consult the full text of the election regulations.

The latter portion of the book gives samples of all the forms and documents necessary to be used in connection with the election. It will be a valuable aid to those interested in balloting.

HE RAISES DUCKS BY THE THOUSANDS

MAN HAS GOLD MINE IN LINE OF FARMING IN WHICH HE IS THE ORIGINAL.

Readington township, Hunterdon county, with its many historic buildings within its borders, also boasts of the largest duck farm in this section, if not in the State. The farm is owned by Andrew T. Connet, of Flemington, a wholesale produce merchant, who is not only a veteran of the Civil War, but a veteran of the duck raising enterprise.

The farm is located between Centreville and Readington, and is managed by Charles Elmer Sutphin, whose experience has been of long standing. There are 5,000 ducks, the ages of which run from five days to ten weeks, which can now be seen in the different yards.

Most people think ducks cannot thrive without having large ponds on which to swim and stand upon their heads while they burrow in the mud beneath the surface of the water. But this is not so, for not a single one of these 5,000 waddlers have been allowed to take a swim, and they will not.

But troughs are so arranged that they can get pure water to drink continuously. They are hard drinkers, and keep the large wind wheels working overtime pumping from the 150-foot wells on the premises. The farm has a capacity of 10,000 ducks annually, but the largest number dressed for market in any one year has been 7,000.

The farm consists of 110 acres, and large fields of corn are planted, which is furnished the ducks as greens. Other diets consist of meat, broken crackers, sand, corn and wheat, which is prepared to suit their duckships' appetites.

After the meal is prepared in the feed room the diet is placed upon an improvised railroad, which runs to the different pens. So ravenous are the appetites of the ducks when the meal is served that they stand upon their heads to eat, so eager is their endeavor to get to the troughs. Another antic of the duck is that when one starts in the direction of another point he gives a succession of "quacks" and all the rest follow.

Ducks are ready for market when from nine to ten weeks old, at which time they weigh from nine to ten pounds per pair. About 1,000 have already been placed upon the Newark and New York markets, and now hundreds of others are so fat that they can scarcely waddle about the enclosure.

Mr. Connet also raises chickens upon an enlarged scale, having about 1,000 laying hens, and sells annually $2,000 worth of eggs, which go largely to the families of Newark and the Oranges. A large dairy is also run in connection with the farm. Asked as to what his specialties were, Mr. Connet said: "Ducks, eggs, milk, pork and hay."

That time-honored subject that "farming doesn't pay," which is continually harped on by thousands of farmers, resulting in driving the sturdy sons from tilling the soil to seek employment in the cities, is tabooed by Mr. Connet.

ON THE MILLIONAIRE.

As a rule the millionaire is a man. Occasionally, however, it happens that he is a woman.

When he is a woman sometimes it is harder for the tax collector to corner him than it would have been had he remained a man.

It is nice to be a millionaire—much nicer than to peg along on pork and beans.

If you are a millionaire you can wear a butonhole bouquet everyday without all the neighbors making remarks about it.

You can marry your daughter into the nobility and no questions asked.

You can keep a dog kennel and 25 chauffeurs, with automobiles to match.

You can wear a pair of low-necked shoes in season and out of season without taking the advice of anybody.

There are a few things about which a millionaire should be careful.

When he offers to cover the nudeness of the heathen with shirt-waists and four-in-hand neckties he should see that they are of proper style and pattern. A heathen is extremely sensitive as to the cut of his garments.

To be a millionaire once is great, but it is a great deal greater to be a millionaire many times over. You can then give your fellow-countrymen whole gobs of education. In return he will gladly increase his gas bill and burn the midnight oil. In this way things are evened up.

Some people do not appreciate the millionaire. They are blind to his interests. They seem to think he ought to divide his pile with them. They do not realize how hard it would be for the millionaire to return to the hog and hominy that nourished his childhood days. This is an unfeeling world.

The millionaire is a necessity—a prime roast beef necessity. If it wer not for him no calm and collected Trust could come stealing over the land enfolding in its embrace the dealer in barbed wire and tobacco.

It is good to be a millionaire. Much better than to depend on your wife's relations for your bread and butter and blackberry jam.—Chicago News.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force Co., Proprietor

Thursday, Aug. 24, 1905

Meaning what you say and saying what you mean are two essentials in successful advertising. If you don't mean what you say the public soon detects the insincerity. If you don't say what you mean you are also subject to public criticism. The sign "Boots blacked inside," to be seen in front of a West Philadelphia shop, is well meant; but it stirs the mockery of men who insists that what they want is to have their boots polished on the outside.—Philadelphia Record.

Matthew Stanley Quay built up what was probably the greatest and most perfect political "machine" of modern times. Millions were spent by reformers and alleged reformers to overthrow its power but attempt after attempt proved futile. Now Quay, the engineer of the "machine", has passed away and his handiwork presents a sorry spectacle. The first blow was struck by Mayor Weaver, formerly one of his devoted lieutenants, and the effect has been widespread. Even Larry Eyre, the most loyal henchman and at the same time one of the most astute politicians of the day has been driven to accept the reform medicine. A new day is dawning for Pennsylvania for the yoke of bossism is being lifted from it. What Pennsylvania has done can be accomplished by any State, county, city, or village, when once the people realize their might.

One of the silliest stories of hot weather politics has been manufactured in Elizabeth. It is to the effect that a movement is on foot to run former Mayor West against Judge Runyon for the Repubican senatorial nomination, and that Ernest R. Ackerman could not win out against Runyon, "as the latter being a temperance man, would, it is claimed, be fought by the saloon element and the brewers." What rot! Everybody who knows anything about the political situation is aware that the county leaders have long ago agreed that the senatorial nomination should come to Plainfield. That eliminates a Roselle man. Again, Mr. Ackerman has never stood on a temperance platform and anyhow so far as Plainfield is concerned the saloon element doesn't cut any ice. It would be a calumy on this city and on Union county to say that the saloon people have enough power to defeat such a man as Mr. Ackerman were he a candidate.

Apropos of the controversy over the division of the reward for the capture of Murderer Long by the Plainfield police, the Trenton State Gazette spoke editorially as follows in Saturday's issue:

"The controversy that has arisen over the payment of the reward offered for the capture of Murderer Long, is apt to lessen interest in rewards that may be offered for the capture of criminals in the future.

"The police authorities of this city and Plainfield say that Van Nuis was guilty of harboring Long until the time when the reward had reached proportions great enough to induce him to turn the man over to the authorities.

"It would seem that a portion of the reward had been earned by Van Nuis, who gave the information that led to Long's capture after he had kept the police of this city and Plainfield on the hunt for ten days.

"If Van Nuis was guilty of harboring the criminal and keeping him informed of the whereabouts of the detectives so that he was able to escape apprehension, there may be provision for his punishment in the statutes and it would appear to be the duty of the authorities to prosecute him with that end in view.

"Van Nuis is certainly innocent until he is proven guilty, and no matter what the opinion of the police authorities may be as to his disposition to shield Long, they have not the right to undertake to punish him by withholding from him a part of the reward which was clearly earned by him.

"Van Nuis, it is said, will institute proceedings against the city of Trenton and the Board of Freeholders of the county of Mercer, not so much to get possession of the reward offered for the capture of Long as to get an opportunity to prove in the courts that he is not guilty of the charges made to the effect that he aided and abetted Long in eluding the police.

"Before the reward is entirely disposed of, it would seem to be only fair to give a portion of it to detectives Pilger and Clancey, since it was from them that the Plainfield police received the "tip" that Long was on the Van Nuis farm, and that information came to Trenton from Van Nuis himself.

"If a man is obliged to fight for the possession of a reward after he believes he has earned it, he is not apt to put himself out of the way to assist the police authorities in their efforts to apprehend escaping criminals.

"The question has been asked the State Gazette why the Plainfield police should expect to be rewarded for performing a duty that was clearly theirs, when they qualified for membership of the police force?"

AMUSEMENTS.

Laughter is in vogue wherever "The County Chairman" is given and George Ade has caught and pictured with a facile pen the foibles of a country community and shed the gentle light of satire upon them. It is in his "types" that Ade is seen to advantage and in "The County Chairman," which will be presented at the new Plainfield theatre Thursday night, abounds with them. Characters from every day life and those we know from association are vividly drawn with just enough of caricature

Zenaide Williams
as Lorena in "The County Chairman."

to make them stand out boldly from the canvas. Here we have the bluff, rugged personality of Jim Hackler, the county chairman. He is an easy going, open hearted spender but one whose every energy is aroused when upon a set purpose. The sort of a man who would stay up all night to defeat an enemy. Jim Hackler is a curious composite of easy good heartedness, sentiment and fierce hate. His frequent allusions to what "Bill Says" (referring to the immortal bard) are extremely amusing.

The village ne'er do well, Sassafras Livingston, a "gentleman of color" with a large family and with a strong disinclination for work is the cause of considerable merriment. He is depicted with strongly marked absurdities and while the character often approaches the farcial yet there are just such derelicts in every village community. Then there is the fat, slothful husband of the energetic boarding house keeper; the elderly candidate for office, flint hearted, bent of back and strong of hate; the editor of the country paper, unscrupulous, tall, lean and fierce; the smart, scrappy youth of the grocery store; Uncle Eck, the town Methusaleh, who "remembers" distinctly events that happened before his birth; and the two lovers, Lucy and Wheeler, who prevade the comedy with the telling of the old sweet story. Henry W. Savage has given "The County Chairman" a stage presentation of rare pictorial excellence. The cast includes that fine character actor, Theodore Babcock, George Thatcher, Cyril Raymond, R. J. Dillon, George R. Caine, Edward Gorman, Jas. H. Bradbury, Charles Burke, Will Phillips, Ruby Bridges, Laura Ayres, Zenaide Williams and Florida Kingsley.

The sports of the day at Washington Park and Casino, Maspeth, L. I., on Labor Day, the occasion of the Forty-ninth Annual Scottish Games of the New York Caledonian Club, will commence with an old fashioned Scotch reel at 11:30 o'clock. These games furnish an exceptionally favorable opportunity for a reunion of the Scottish folk of New York and adjacent States, and are usually well attended, attracting on one occasion in old Jones' Wood no less than 40,000 people. The grounds being splendidly equipped and easy of access, Chief James M. Congalton expects that the attendance this year will furnish another proof of the loyalty of Scottish Americans to the customs and sports of "auld Scotia." It is expected that many organizations from neighboring cities will attend in their picturesque national costume. Two bands will furnish the music, assisted by the club's pipers.

When it was first announced that arrangements had been closed to bring "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," the big Drury Lane pantomime, to New York, many wise and sagacious theatrical managers shook their heads doubtingly, and observed that English spectacular productions would never do in this country, and that the risk was altogether too great. But this firm went serenely on about its business, and "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" took hold of the public from the outset. As soon as patrons of the Broadway Theatre commenced to tell their friends of the great attraction the house was filled from orchestra rail to back wall and remained in that condition until the close of the engagement, without so much as a momentary cessation. This season the big spectacle has continued to draw capacity audiences in all the cities in which it has been presented.

This evening at the Majestic theatre, New York, will be a notable occasion, it being the opening of the regular season, and it will also be the first presentation in New York City of that best of all pastoral plays, "York State Folks," with a most elaborate production and a cast that has seldom been equalled. Of course James Lackaye will be seen in his original creation of the part of Simon Peter Martin; Mr. Ray L. Royce, as the old organist; Myron Cooper, Miss Lilia McIntyre, who was the original in the part of Jeanie has been engaged for this engagement. "York State Folks" is a delightful departure from the conventional rural drama. There are no "hayseeds" or exhibits of farming machinery, and there is not even a mortgage, neither is there a villain, nor a woman with a story of wrong. There are no thrills, save those that stir the heart when love is winning its wonted triumphs over less worthy passions. There is no horse play or buffoonery artificially contrived through caricature of rustic characters. One laughs with these villagers, rather than laugh at them. The absence of straining for theatrical effects is one of the chief charms of the play.

Colonel Frank E. Fillis, who is one of the leading attractions of the Boer War spectacle at Brighton Beach, has received during the last two weeks not less than five hundred offers from booking agents in every part of the country. At the close of the season at Brighton Beach Park he has an eight weeks' engagement in New York City, where he will be seen on the stage of one of the big theatres, accompanied by his "High School" horse Povero. At each performance of the Boer War spectacle this horse and his trainer receive round after round of applause, which is amply appreciated by both horse and rider, which fact is attested by Povero's graceful bowing in acknowledgment. The Boer War spectacle has added many features during the last two weeks, among them being the airship, the California Arrow, which is on exhibition just outside of the Boer War area. This ship is the only one in the United States that has made successful flights around New York, and it is the only one of the many at the Worlds Fair at St. Louis last year that made a completely successful flight over the fair grounds. Captain Arthur W. Lewes, manager of the Boer War spectacle, has secured the ship and it will be sailed at the Boer War show until the close of the season, when it will be sailed across country by the successful aeronaut, Leo Stevens, to a State fair in a nearby State, where it will again be on exhibition and where daily flights will be made, principally in the interest of science and a demonstration of the possibilities of the construction of vessels that may eventually be used for the navigation of the air for both pleasure and pastime, and even for commercial purposes.

The Boston Globe, in speaking of the engagement of the "Sign of the Cross" in that city recently, said: "Any one who witnessed the two immense audiences that attended the opening portrayal of the "Sign of the Cross" in the Music Hall yesterday could not fail to have been impressed with the tremendous hold this drama has upon the public. For eight seasons this remarkable play has been upon the stage, and yet the tense silence, the eager watchfulness of the spectators and the unmistakable interest was greater than at its first presentation here. And the reason for all this can be easily traced. In the first place the story, while of a religious and an historical nature, is yet told with so large an amount of human traits, that it appeals strongly to all classes. Love, hate, ambition and other of the passions of man burned as fiercely in the days of Nero as they do today, and while the brutal instincts of mankind were held less in check then, there are the same underlying principles, so that there is no sentiment which is not readily understood and appreciated." Mr. William H. Ferris, the sterling young American actor, is a worthy successor to Charles Dalton in the role of Marcus Superbus, and his company is comprised of players of sterling merit. It will appear at the new Plainfield theatre on Tuesday, August 29.

There is a big, laughing bill at Kieth's this week, including every sort of act calculated to superinduce cheerful cacchination. Leona Bergere, a pretty and talented sister of Valerie Bergere, makes her New York debut with Rudolf Horsky, in a funny one-act farce entitled "He, She and He" while Victor Moore and Emma Littlefield are bidding farewell to vaudeville in their laughable burlesque, "Change Your Act," or "Back to the Woods." Miss Mignonette Kokin, daughter of Prince Kokin and one of the most graceful dancers in the business, reappears after several seasons' absence abroad, and scores with some new songs and steps. By special arrangement with Barnum & Bailey, Galetti's Dog and Monkey Circus is touring the continuous, while the Marvelous Merrills, comedy cyclists, are the acrobatic feature of the bill. May Duryea and W. A. Mortimer appear to advantage in Edmund Day's playlet, "The Impostor," and others on the bill are Dixon & Anger, "The Baron and His Friend," and Barrett Brothers, "the men from Ireland." Comic moving pictures by the Kinetograph add to the fun.

Raritan Italians Celebrate.

A large number of people from Somerville, Bound Brook, Plainfield and New Brunswick were in Raritan Saturday night to witness the fireworks set off by the Italians of that place in celebration of the festival of San Rocco. About $800 worth of pieces were displayed and it was considered very fine by all who attended. A brass band from Brooklyn furnished music.

BERDINE WAXES ANGRY

Will Have Justice Fort Investigate Failure to Serve Auto Warrants.

PIERCE CALLED DOWN

New Market Constable Is Informed By His Superior That He "Winked at the Whole Matter."

Prosecutor Berdine, of Middlesex county, had Constable Pierce and Justice Von Minden at his office in New Brunswick Saturday morning, and asked them to make an explanation as to the failure to serve the warrants upon Oscar Harrison and William Stanbery in the Dunellen auto accident case. The prosecutor will bring the matter to the attention of Justice Fort, who will make an investigation. The prosecutor so told the justice and constable after hearing their stories.

Constable Robert Pierce was the first one concerned who arrived at the office of the prosecutor. He was asked to explain his conduct in the matter, and said he delivered up the warrants a week ago Saturday when Justice Von Minden and the three lawyers for the parties against whom the warrants were issued came to his house in an automobile and demanded them.

The constable said the lawyers told him the parties who had made the complaints had decided to withdraw them. Constable Pierce also said the justice asked for the return of the warrants. He had never had a case like that before and supposed it was all right to give them up under the circumstances. Prosecutor Berdine told the constable he had been in the business long enough to know what was the proper think to do and that the complaint could not be withdrawn after once issued.

"It has been done before, and often," said the constable.

"Well, it should not have been done," replied the prosecutor. "You just winked at the whole matter apparently and you can't do that with this office while I am prosecutor."

The constable intimated that the arrangement to have the warrants not served was fixed up by the lawyers and justice and Detective Mulvey at dinner in Taylor's Hotel at Dunellen last Monday during the noon recess at the trial of the civil suit of Harrison against Stanbery for damages.

Soon after the constable left the office Justice Von Minden arrived, and his side of the story was obtained. He said he did not make any request from Constable Pierce for the warrants and that he only issued one of them, the other having been issued by Justice Warden. He declared that he warned the officer at the time he went to his home with the lawyers that he would have nothing to do with the matter and that the prosecutor would make no agreement to hold up the warrants until after the civil suit.

The warrant was returned by Constable Pierce later to him, the constable stating that he could not serve it, as the man was out of the State. A similar return is said to have been made as to the warrant issued by Justice Warden against Stanbery.

Justice Von Minden said that later on Wednesday the constable returned and got the warrant and had it served. The constable had at that time received a letter from the prosecutor asking him what he was about.

The commitments for the two men arrived at the New Brunswick jail Saturday morning, endorsed on the back by Judge Strong with the statement that bail had been taken. Sheriff Carman endorsed each commitment with the statement that they had not been received until August 19, and that the prisoners were never brought to jail.

APPLIES FOR DIVORCE.

Dunellen Man Charged by Wife with Desertion.

Mrs. Ann T. Moffett, whose maiden name was Voorhees, of Fairfield, Woodbridge township, Middlesex county, has filed a petition in the Court of Chancery for an absolute divorce from her husband, Wilbur H. Moffett, on the ground of desertion.

The petition says the pair were married April 9, 1884, at Fairfield, by the Rev. James G. Mason, of Metuchen. They lived together on the farm of the petitioner's father for four years. In April, 1888, it is claimed Moffett deserted his wife and went to live with his relatives near Dunellen, where the wife says she believes he now is.

She charges that during the two years last past her husband has wilfully deserted her and neglected to provide for her support. The couple have had three children, two of whom are living, John William Moffett, aged 17, and Ernest Cutter Moffett, aged 16. Besides the divorce Mrs. Moffett asks that her husband be compelled to support her.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Olive Bogardus, of Putnam avenue, to Lucius T. Koons, of Sandford avenue. Mr. Koons is the son of T. B. Koons and is the vice-president of the Palmer Lime and Cement Company of New York.

CHILDREN SING AT IRVING HAND'S FUNERAL

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE HELD ON PORCH OF PARENTS' HOME.

Following funeral services that were doubly impressive, the body of Irving Hand, the popular Netherwood young man who died suddenly from malignant diphtheria, was buried in Hillside cemetery, Saturday afternoon. At the same time the form of his brother, David, who met an accidental death at Dunellen five years ago, was taken from its resting place in the Scotch Plains cemetery and placed in an adjoining grave.

A brief service was first held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Irving Hand.

Mrs. David Hand, of Berkeley avenue, the pastor and friends standing upon the porch. It was in charge of Rev. T. Moore-Smith, of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, of which Irving had always been a member, who offered prayer and made a few remarks. One hundred children from Miss Curry's Fresh Air Camp, in which the young man was greatly interested from the time of its establishment, sang "There'll Be No Dark Valley When Jesus Comes" and "Nearer My God to Thee." It was with difficulty that the little tots concluded the last selection because of emotion. Twenty-five mothers from the camp were also present and were visibly affected.

At the grave Pastor Smith again had charge and he spoke further upon the Christian character of the young man and the fact that he was fully prepared to go when the time came. The choir of the Scotch Plains Baptist church sang "Safe In the Arms of Jesus," "Shall We Meet Beyond the River" and "Sweet Peace the Gift of God's Love." The first of these hymns and the Scripture quotation used by the pastor were the same as those at David's funeral. The pall bearers who lowered both caskets were John Doud, Grover Schuck, Percy Gaddis, Joseph Robinson, Fred Dixon and Harry Brokaw.

The floral tributes were exceptionally profuse and numbered many large set pieces from the Scotch Plains church, the Fresh Air Camp and the employes of the brickyard owned by the young man and his brother.

Odd Fellows On an Outing.

Representatives from Plainfield Lodge and Queen City Lodge, I. O. O. F., attended the outing of Odd Fellows at Boynton Beach on Saturday, for members of the tenth district, which includes Plainfield, Westfield, Elizabeth, South Amboy, Carteret, Woodbridge and Rahway. Joseph Sheppard, of Plainfield Lodge, was chairman of the committee in charge of the trip of the local Odd Fellows. The occasion was purely one for pleasure, and there was a large gathering of Odd Felows.

William Selvage a Suicide.

William C. Selvage, fifty years of age, father of William H. Selvage, who is employed in the contracting department of the local office of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, committed suicide at his home in Morristown on Friday. He was one of the best known fire insurance men in the United States. He swallowed some kind of poison, which the coroner has not yet been able to determine.

TEN-YEAR-OLD GOES TRAVELLING BY FREIGHT

ARTHUR MARTIN VISITS GRANDMOTHER IN PENNSYLVANIA—MEETS RUNAWAYS.

Ten-year-old Arthur Martin, son of J. C. Martin, of Duer street, felt a longing to see his grandmother, who lives in Bangor, Pa., Friday morning. Lacking fare on a regular train, Arthur clambered aboard a freight and made the trip. He reached his grandmother's home unharmed Friday night at 9 o'clock. He traveled from Easton by trolley, after a meeting with two Plainfield boys who had been tramping for a week and from whom he got money enough for carfare.

Arthur hadn't bothered to tell his parents of his proposed trip, and they were worried almost sick before a telegram from Bangor apprised them of his arrival there. Arthur has frequently made the trip alone by train, but this is the first time he has tried it without telling of his plans.

In a letter to his father mailed at the time the telegram was sent, Arthur told of meeting Eddie Seader, thirteen years old, son of Peter Seader, and Arthur Van Nest, fourteen years old, son of Charles Van Nest, who disappeared from their home here a week ago. They told Arthur they were going to the hop fields in New York State, where hoboes from all over the country gather every year. They wanted Arthur to accompany them, but he refused. They advised him to make the trip from Easton to Bangor by trolley, and gave him the fare.

Mr. Martin sent word of the information in the letter to the Seader boy's father. The latter has been enxiously seeking traces of the lad ever since his disappearance a week ago. The Van Nest boy is an old traveler. He came home for a day during the past week, and slipped away again to rejoin Seader.

BAD AUTO ACCIDENT.

One Man Has Skull Fractured and Ribs Broken.

Mr. Lake, of New York, accompanied by three friends, whose names could not be learned, had a lively experience on Saturday while automobiling through Scotch Plains. Their trip came to a sudden termination when they ran their machine into a telegraph pole. One had his skull and three ribs fractured, besides receiving general cuts and bruises. Mr. Lake sustained several scalp lacerations.

The accident happened in the morning and the four men were until late in the afternoon reaching Plainfield. They went to Dr. Dundon's office and received temporary treatment. Two of the worst injured were hurried to a New York hospital and the other two returned later. They refused to give their names.

A Zealous Conductor.

The trolley that left this city for Westfield at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, carried some fifteen baseball enthusiasts. It has been customary for patrons to the games to ride to a point opposite the baseball grounds and then cross over one block without paying an additional five cents, the limit being only a few hundred feet to the west of this point. The conductor, who hails from this city, in his anxiousness to collect the extra five cents compelled the motorman to go the short distance at a snail's pace so that he could take it up. For all his trouble no extra fare was taken as the majority were through passengers who occupied the front seats who he mistook for baseball passengers. The fifteen were let off about thirty feet from where they intended to get off and the excited conductor has probably learned a lesson, or should by this time on the "block" system.

Won Canoe Race.

Fred Martin and G. Harold Whitney, of this city, won the canoe races of the water carnival at Ocean Grove Saturday. They represented the Wanamassa Boat Club, of which they are members.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River.

In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46, 9.20, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.02, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.32, 8.25, 9.35, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 2.37, 4.47, 7.47, 8.01, 8.52, 9.24, 9.49, 10.02, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.25, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.20, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.24, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.55, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.32, 5.03, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.32, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.08, 2.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52, a. m., 2.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 2.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49, (4.13 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.13 p. m. Sundays —8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 6.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 8.21 through train.) 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electric Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after July 9, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., f 12.58, f 3.06, and f 6.40 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

f 10.06, 11.43 a. m., 12.40, 1.04, 2.06 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.36, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.06 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.05, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 3.35, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7..., f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.32 a. m. and f 3.36 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 3.36 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—5.44, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.38 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 6.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—4.58, 7.54, 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, f 3.04, f 4.44, f 5.43, and f 7.38 p. m. week-days. Sundays —9.05, 10.03 a. m., and 6.46 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

5.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.27 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shamokin.

4.55 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkes-barre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.11 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.49 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-R.

Harry Scull, Charles and Fred Sebring, who have been spending their vacation at Delaware Water Gap, have returned home.

Mrs. George H. Rockfellow, of West Third street, who has been seriously ill, has taken a turn for the better and her recovery is now assured.

PIRATES STUNG FOR ANOTHER; RIOT AFTER GAME

O'Neil Hurt Making Last Out, and Crowd Howls For Vengeance.

YELLS FRUITLESS.

Excitement Quelled Before Even the Umpire Gets Hit—A Fast, Exciting and Close Game.

Splitting even in a double-header bill, consisting of one ball game and a frenzied fuss, the Daab Commuter Combination put in a busy and profitable afternoon at Recreation Park Saturday. They won the game by a score of 2 to 1, and lost the fuss by one broken head.

The broken head, which adorns the manly form of the Hon. J. O'Neil, was not really a part of the fuss, but it started the tumultuous proceedings and must be figured in with them because no other casualty was discernible when the sounds of strife died away. As the dauntless J. Hopper Wahl, in a mad but futile attempt to pull off his end of a squeeze play, administered the bump, the honors of war must go to the Pirates. As the honors of war do not figure in the pennant chase, we have no hesitancy in according them to the Pirates.

It was a fine afternoon's sport for the assembled beauty and chivalry. Even without the piquant social feature that aroused the Westfield police force to repeated and excited charges on a surging populace, the exhibit was a real lively one for a small town. It took ten agitating innings to wind up the game, and the going was snappy and scrappy all the way. The Pirates were so set on getting the game that grim determination dripped from their spikes and oozed through their bonnets. They grew so peevish under the strain that they assailed the probity and good sense of their own ump, which is a sign of much agitation in the Westfield soul.

Both flingers were in impressive form, and engaged in one of those deadly duels in which the flingers have a fine time, the batsmen suffer much vexation, and the populace hovers on the verge of nervous prostration. Willie had nothing on the vivacious Red, and if it hadn't been for a fool attempt at a squeeze play in the tenth, which ended the game, the Commuters might not be so far in the lead for the champ rag. Willie allowed five hits and the glory-topped twirler was only stung for one more. Each of them gave away four bases. Willie whiffed five and Red four.

Things came our way because the Commuters coupled bunching with hitting. This simple expedient for making sparse swats pay dividends totally escaped the enemy. There was considerable difference in the playing of the cohorts, and we are not proud of the difference. Four punky errors marked the gambols of the Commuters, and the hated rivals proudly hustled through with but one. But only one of our miscues figured in the run getting, and between the yellow streaks our heroes blazed brightly, like real little baseball stars. Two of those crooked plays were painful for the Plainfield beauty and chivalry to behold. They were overthrows to first from the traditionally trusty wings of the Hon. P. Hooligan Kiernan and Dr. Mike Leonard. Happy's chuck opened the way for the Pirates' registry, and it was real poetic justice when he found it was up to him to bat in the winning run in the extra session. Happy, being a conscientious youth, took up the burden and batted it in with the simplicity of true genius. Besides this interesting affair, Happy participated in some lively footwork and handy throwing, so on the whole we will not clamor for his release.

Dan Connolly made one of the other bad things, after struggling with neuralgia and a dull ache in his upper works for an inning and a half. Dan didn't feel like playing, and when he dropped a hoist from Barry he waved the distress signal to Magnate Daab. Tuck Turner went in. Tuck is a great filler of unexpected holes.

The Pirates turned off some brilliant fielding stunts, but they were not resourceful on the alleys. In the first inning G. Mallen, the popular idol, pulled off the catch of the game, after a thrilling run under a long lift from Micky Leonard. Cheers, in which the chivalrous enemy joined, greeted Georgie, and for quite three minutes the Plainfield chivalry forgot to wish he would choke himself to death. In the seventh inning when we had a fighting chance to score run number two, Joe Wahl pulled off a double play unassisted that retired the side. Deegan, after forcing Jack O'Neil, lay off first for a chance to go down on a welt by Wally Cosgrave, who was lunging fiercely at the leather. Wally cracked a liner for the hole between first and second, and things looked thrilling for us for a half a second. Then the busy paw of Mr. Wahl, moving rapidly in front of his flying form, stuck itself to the globule, and our hopes were thumped stiff.

We started to win in the bright, rosy beginning of things. Kiernan, first up in the opening round, worried Red into chucking four wide ones. He stole second, and Wally Cosgrave, continuing his great work of rehabilitation, sacrificed him along with artistic neatness. Then Kid Brogan, just to prove to Red that he couldn't be buffaloed like the flinger says he can, smashed one at Micky Flynn so hot that the shortstop gent had a tough time getting the Kid at first, without trying to head off Happy at the gutta percha. Connolly stung one to left and P. Cincinnatus Cregan punched one rightward, but Mallen's sensational haul of Mike Leonard's fly, hereinbefore sung, shut off the two threatening runs.

In their half of the stanza the Pirates came near tieing up the tallies with two down. McCormack, who had his eye with him and batted 1,000 with a walk and three hits, drew a life from Willie. Brogan muddled Wahl's sharp rap, and Harry reached second. Mallen cracked the round thing for a long single to right, and Harry started for home. Connolly forgot his buzzing wheels long enough to whip the globule to O'Neil, in time to kill Harry an inch and a half from the rubber.

The Pirates registered in the fifth. Cotter turned off the only extra base rap of the game and went to third on Waller's whack to Brogan. Bertwhistle rapped an easy one to Pete Kiernan, and Pete felt so sure of his prey that he heaved the leather into the uncovered beyond back of first base, and Paddy paddled in.

The winning run was scored by Dave Driscoll on a series of fine, honest plays, untainted by errors or gifts. Dave lammed one to left and stole second. Jack O'Neil pasted the ball for a long fly into the same place, and Dave scudded down the alley for the next stop ahead of the throw-in. Pete Kiernan's workmanlike biff to left sent Captain Dave to Joyville.

When the moribund Pirates came up for their try they were on edge, and quivering for a chance to go on living. By that time the beauty and chivalry were likewise some to the nervous, so that it can be readily discerned by the intelligent reader that things were just right for the whoop-up that rounded off the struggle. Waller and Bertwhistle, the first two up, were easy outs, but Flynn worked Deegan for a walk. Westfield heaved a gasp, and the populace sat with bulging eyes. McCormack rapped his third welt, to right, and the beauty and chivalry nearly died when Micky hit third. Joe Wahl faced Willie and was set for a hit when Mickey let out and raced down the line. Nobody signalled him, and why he tried to make a squeeze play with two down baseball dope does not explain, but he came, and it was up to somebody to do something. O'Neil threw a hurry-up signal to Willie, and the ball whipped down. Jack reached for it as close as he could get and Joe, being where he was for a purpose, made a swipe at the globule. He didn't hit the ball, but Jack's head and the bat came together. The head was punctured, but Jack clutched the ball and went at the flying Mickey. Mickey was close, but Jack got him, and the game ended. But the second act of the great double-header was about to begin.

When Jack straightened up he was thoughtfully feeling the new airhole in his konk, and red gore streaked his honest countenance. He turned a reproachful eye on Joe, and immediately everybody from Plainfield decided that Joe was an assassin and had tried to divide Jack's noble head into seventeen parts. Dave Driscoll jumped in from his bag and closed with Joe. Then every bleacher emptied itself on the diamond. There was a fierce looking bunch squirming around the field for a time, and frenzied yells for rope and telegraph poles rippled on the agitated air. But Chief O'Neil and a nice young man who helps him make up the Westfield police force, escorted Joe off the field and shooed the crowd away. And the crowd went without even hitting the ump.

Joe says he never had the slightest idea that Jack's head was going to get in the way of his stick, and put the whole blame on the punctured athlete. He says Jack grabbed a good deal more space out of his box than the rules entitled him to, and laid himself right in line for the crack. Joe actually was aggrieved because he didn't get his base for being interefered with. As a matter of cold and compressed fact, it is not to be suspected for a minute that Joe aimed at Jack's top piece. Joe belongs to the Westfield team, and of course he is a real wicked athlete, but there are probably limits to his devilishness. He may be so depraved as to want his team to win, or even cut a base every chance he gets, but it is not likely that he would deliberately hit a frail human head with a guaranteed hickory bat just to tie a score.

The players didn't carry much of the excitement into their dressing room. The two teams shed their war clothes together in peace, and before departing for the gay whirl of the Bronx, Jack cast an almost forgiving eye on Joseph, the suspected assassin.

Articles agreed on:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss ...... | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Cosgrave, cf ...... | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Brogan, 2b ...... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 1 |
| Connolly, rf ...... | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Turner, rf ...... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf ...... | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b ...... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 1 |
| Driscoll, 1b ...... | 1 | 1 | 11 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neil, c ...... | 0 | 1 | 10 | 1 | 0 |
| Deegan, p ...... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| Totals ........ | 2 | 6 | 30 | 13 | 4 |

WESTFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bertwhistle, lf ... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Flynn, ss ...... | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| McCormick, rf ... | 0 | 3 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Wahl, 1b ...... | 0 | 0 | 15 | 1 | 0 |
| Mallen, cf ...... | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Patience, 2b ...... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 |
| Barry, 3b ...... | 0 | 0 | 2 | 2 | 1 |
| Cotter, c ...... | 1 | 1 | 4 | 1 | 0 |
| Waller, p ...... | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals ........ | 1 | 5 | 30 | 14 | 1 |

Plainfield ....1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2
Westfield .....0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1

Earned run—Driscoll. Two base hit—Cotter. First base on balls—Off Deegan, 4; off Waller, 4. Struck out—By Deegan, 5; by Waller, 4. Left on bases—Plainfield, 6; Westfield, 8. Double play—Wahl (unassisted). First base on errors—Westfield, 4. Stolen bases—Kiernan, 2, Driscoll, 2. Sacrifice hits—Cosgrave, Brogan, Deegan, Mallen, Waller. Time of game—1:45. Umpires—Merity and Henning. Attendance—2,000.

---

Mrs. J. I. Marcley and Miss S. R Webb, of New street, are visiting the formers' son, Robert Marcley, of Asbury Park.

Miss Mildred Erskine, of Pittsburg Pa., has returned home after a two weeks' visit with Miss Bertha Jones of Essex street.

FARMERS WANT SPEED OF AUTOS REGULATED

MIDDLESEX BOARD OF AGRICULTURE DISCUSSES THE QUESTION.

The Middlesex County Board of Agriculture Saturday morning took up the matter of forming a State Road Association for the purpose of protecting the farmers from automobilists. The county boards throughout the State are discussing this matter and the Middlesex board expressed itself as favorable to such an association.

The meeting was presided over by Seward Applegate, the vice-president. There was a large attendance, owing to the fact that in the afternoon the board went on its annual excursion down the river on the launch of Captain George Smith, of South River.

Former Freeholder I. S. Bennett spoke upon the State using up some of the surplus in the treasury on the State roads. He suggested that $150,000 could be spent on the roads and also some of the State money used for the care of lunatics.

David Perrine thought if there were more farmers in the legislature they would get laws enacted for their benefit in a greater abundance than had been the case with recent Legislatures.

The question of having the speed of automobiles regulated on the county highways was discussed. All were in favor of some movement that would tend to give the farmer greater protection. The road association was thought to be a good scheme.

Among those present were James Herbert, of Milltown; Samuel Manning, of South Plainfield; Lewis D. Walker, Jr., and Henry Smalley, of Piscataway; C. S. Boice and Arthur Perrine, of the River road; DeWitt Giles, of New Market; William Rogers, of Prospect Plains; G. Voorhees, of Voorhees Station; George W. Mount, of Monmouth Junction, and W. Fitz Randolph, of New Market.

Election Officers Appointed.

The Somerset County Board of Elections named the following officers today for the borough and township of North Plainfield: Borough—First district, Charles G. Wood and Benjamin Schuck, Democrats; John H. Ross and David C. Allen, Republicans; Second, Lambert B. Bodine and Levi C. Kline, Democrats; Walter Walker and Jacob M. Higgins, Republicans. Township—Alfred Johnson and Francis Bartels, Democrats; Herbert Cleaves and John Mooney, Republicans.

Funeral of Westman Schaefer.

The funeral of John Augustus Westman Schaefer, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Schaefer, was held from the parents' home on East Sixth street Friday afternoon. It was conducted by Father Westman, of Cranford, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends from this city and High Bridge. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Samuel P. Case Engaged.

The friends of Samuel P. Case, of Plainfield avenue, will be interested to learn of his engagement to Miss Martha Thornton Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Dunham, of Far Hills, Somerset county. Miss Dunham is a talented young woman who has made many friends during her visits at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Case, of Duer street.

Mr. Marcley Retained.

Frank Marcley, a former well known Plainfielder, has been appointed physical instructor at the Summit Y. M. C. A. for another year. In the twelve months that he has acted in this capacity the membership of the department has almost doubled and it now ranks among the best in the State.

ENSIGN C.T. WADE BLAMED

Court of Inquiry Names Him as Implicated in Bennington Disaster.

AT SAN DIEGO, CAL.

Suggests That Court Martial Proceedings Be Started—Finds That Wrong Valve Was Closed.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Secretary Bonaparte yesterday received and made public the proceedings and findings of the court of inquiry which investigated the explosion on the gunboat Bennington at San Diego, Cal., on July 21. The findings at once set at rest the stories which had circulated to the effect that the Bennington's boilers and perhaps those of other naval vessels of the same age were defective. As a matter of fact, the court found that the explosion resulted from the closing of a valve which connected the exploded boiler with its steam gauge so that the pressure on that boiler may have been several hundred pounds to the square inch when the accident occurred.

While praise was accorded to the officers and ship's company for their conduct during the harrowing scenes following the accident, the officer and men who were responsible in the opinion of the court, are pointed out, and court martial proceedings suggested in the case of the only one of them surviving, Ensign C. T. Wade.

The court consisted of Commodore Stevenson, retired, and Captains E. J. Moore and Thomas S. Phelps.

FEW CONTESTANTS ON THE GOLF LINKS

VACATION DAYS SERVE TO KEEP ATTENDANCES SMALL.

It was very quiet in local golfing circles on Saturday, the only play being for the golf committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club. There are so many members away from the city on their vacations that the contestants in the weekly competition are naturally limited. However, there was a sufficient number to make the play interesting, and there was a close race for the points.

E. A. Cruikshank, with a net score of 79, won the first three points, while C. W. Abbott, with an 80, secured two points. The one remaining point went to Henry D. Hibbard, who returned a score of 81.

E. B. Shoemaker still leads in the competition, with 13 points, while C. B. Morgan is second with 9 5-6. By winning one point on Saturday, H. D. Hibbard takes third position, with 8 1-2 points, and E. A. Cruikshank takes a big jump, with his three points, having a total of 5 5-6. The competition is a close and exciting one, owing to the new system of handicapping, and from present indications the winner will not be definitely known until nearly the close of the season. Last year this was the reverse, as the player in first position had such a substantial lead that he could not be overtaken.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers increased her lead last week for the Gaston cup by adding three points to her total of 26 1-2. She now has 29 1-2. Her nearest competitor is Miss Daisy Elsberg, who has 14 points.

There was no regular play at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, and in consequence no scores were returned for the president's and Park Golf Club trophies. This makes the third week that the play has gone by default, which is due to the fact that a majority of the members are out of town.

FIRM OF HERZIG & CO. TO BE REORGANIZED

LOCAL FACTORY TO CONTINUE RUNNING WITHOUT INNERRUPTION.

By an arrangement with creditors and others directly interested, the firm of Herzig & Co., which was declared insolvent last week, will be reorganized. Plans are now underway to form a new company and the business will be carried on as heretofore. In the meantime the local factory will continue running as ususal and the financial embarassment revealed by the death of Samuel Herzig will be quickly overcome. The business has always been regarded as a well established one and the remaining members of the firm are confident that it will grow still larger.

The Rink building, in which the factory is located, is owned by Charles H. Hand and he has been informed that the lease will be renewed as soon as it expires. The present one was made for five years and terminates in March, 1906.

---

The Plainfield fans want to see Plainfield and Westfield play every one of the ten contests scheduled, and they do not want Westfield to get another game. "Rub it in good and hard," is the cry.

A NEW $7,500 BRIDGE

Freeholders Decide to Erect it on West End Avenue Over Green Brook.

MEETING TODAY.

County Engineers Instructed to Prepare Plans for the Structure Within the Coming Week.

A committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders met the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at the West End avenue bridge Monday morning, and on a joint ballot it was decided to build a new structure at that point, 70x66, iron beam, concrete roadbed and abutments at a cost not to exceed $7,500.

After the freeholders met, Director Logan, of the Somerset county board, was made chairman, and F. J. Hubbard secretary. It was on a motion offered by Freeholder W. A. Westphal, of this city, that it was voted to build a new bridge as stated. Only one Somerset county member voted in the negative. It was at first the wish of the Somerset county board to spend half of the amount appropriated for the structure, but the Union county board would not agree to this.

The new bridge is to have a fifty foot roadway with two eight foot sidewalks and it will be so constructed that if it is decided to widen the avenue from the bridge to Front street to one hundred feet, the sidewalks can be turned into the roadway and new walks built.

County Engineers Dougherty and F. J. Hubbard, of the two counties, were authorized to draw plans for the new bridge and submit them at a meeting to be held on Monday next for acceptance. Chairman Logan appointed the Union county bridge committee and five members of the Somerset county board as a joint committee to receive and accept the plans on Monday.

After the plans are accepted, another date will be fixed for receiving bids and the awarding of the contract. It is hoped to have the bridge completed before frost arrives.

The Somerset county members originally wanted a single span bridge while Union county held out for a double span, and the latter plan was adopted.

TRENTON WILL NOT DEFEND REWARD SUIT

COURT WILL DECIDE RIGHTFUL OWNERSHIP OF MONEY IN DISPUTE.

The city of Trenton will not fight Franklin Van Nuis in the courts to prove its decision to give Chief Kiely the $250 Long reward right. As soon as it is served with papers in Van Nuis' proposed suit it will pay over the money into the hands of the court and let the latter decide who is entitled to it.

The county authorities, who offered the other $250, will probably follow the city's example. No decision has been arrived at yet by the freeholders.

City Solicitor Bird has already decided, after a careful review of the facts in the case, that Van Nuis is not entitled to the reward, but the council does not desire to engage the municipality in a law suit. Both the city and county feel that the money will have to be paid out, anyway, and there would be no sense or wisdom in adding a law suit to the bill of expenses that has grown out of the chase after Long.

Chief Kiely has no fear of the outcome of the suit.

"The reward was offered for the apprehension of Long," he said. "We apprehended him. That is all there is to the case."

AMUSEMENTS.

Drawn by horses, which have seen service in the New York Fire Department, a real fire engine will play an important part in "The Still Alarm," at Proctor's 58th Street theatre during the week of August 29. The original scenery will be used, and the large cast will include, James Durkin, Miss Adele Bloch, Harold Hartsell, Miss Agnes Scott, Charles Arthur, William Norton, George Howell and the other 58th Street favorites.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY.

UNION COUNTY SURROGATE'S OFFICE.

Application being made to me for letters of administration upon the estate of James H. Southard, by his widow, and it being therein represented that he was a resident of the City of Plainfield, in this county, that he has absented himself from this state for over seven years last past successfully and has not been heard of or from during said period, and that it is believed that he is dead:

It is, on this eighteenth day of August, 1905, ORDERED that cause be shown before me at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Elizabeth, in said County, on the twenty-sixth d y of September next, why letters of administration should not be granted to Anna A. Southard, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided:

And it is further ordered that this order be published once a week for four weeks successively in the Constitutionalist, a paper published at Plainfield in said County.

GEO. T. PARROT,
Surrogate Union County, N. J.

5244

NO MORE RIDING ON THE FRONT PLATFORM

PUBLIC SERVICE MAKES THE RULE FOR PASSENGERS' SAFETY.

The Public Service Corporation has issued a general order that in future no passengers are to be carried on the front platform, even though the cars have front platform seats. There have been a number of accidents recently, at different points along the Public Service Corporation's lines, where it has been proved the motorman was talking to passengers instead of attending to business. Recently, also, there have been several accidents to passengers from electrical flames when fuses have not worked or the controller has got out of order. A woman was burned to death on a Brooklyn Rapid Transit car a few weeks ago.

The orders are positive, and no one is to be permitted to use the front platform. If the car is crowded, the passengers may stand up, or get off and wait for the next car. If a passenger attempts to ride on the front platform he is to be put off.

The first case of putting a man off a car occurred Thursday afternoon. Trolley car No. 256, bound for Boynton Beach, was crowded to such an extent that many passengers were compelled to stand, among them women and children. A man got on the front seat. The motorman told him that he would have to get off. The man refused, and the conductor was called. He took the passenger by the arm and forced him to vacate.

Lieut. Lewis a Range Officer.

Lieut. John M. Lewis, of Co. K, has been appointed as one of the range officers for the National and Inter-State matches scheduled for August 24 to September 11, inclusive. He and Mrs. Lewis will stop at the Beach House, Sea Girt, during the shoot.

Supreme Court Suit.

Herbert Buxton, of this city, has sued Charles B. Squires, of Orange, in the Supreme Court, for $1,500 on contract. The action is to recover money loaned. The hearing is set for next Monday. William Newcorn is counsel for Mr. Buxton.

DIED.

MOSHER—On Tuesday, August 15, 1905, Flora C., wife of John P. Mosher, in her 54th year.

HAND—On Friday, August 18, 1905, Irving W., son of David and Annie Hand, aged 24 years, 10 months, 2 days.

SCHAEFER—In this city, Wednesday, August 16, 1905, at the residence of his parents, 315 East Sixth street, John Alysious Westmend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Schaefer, aged 4 years, 7 months and 17 days.

CADMUS—On Friday, August 18, 1905, Abram V. H., son of Cornelius V. and the late Cornelia A. Cadmus, aged 29 years, 3 months 5 days.

HOLT—On August 18, 1905, Alice, daughter of Frank L. and Florence T. Holt, aged one year, five months.

BURTIS—On Wednesday, August 16, 1905, Laura F., widow of William A. Burtis, in her 77th year.

TAPPEN—On Tuesday, August 15, 1905, Helen Faulks, daughter of Harry and Lennie Tappen, aged 1 year, 10 months and 1 day.

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided. The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 133, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies 141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, } Vice-Pres't
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law.

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life;

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Park Ave.

Plainfield, N. J

HARRISON SURRENDERS

Gives Himself Up to Constable Pierce According to Agreement.

IS QUICKLY BAILED.

Lawyer and Bondsman Accompany Him Directly To Judge's House, and He Is Freed In Jig Time.

Keeping the agreement entered into by his counsel with Constable Robert Pierce, who held the warrant for his arrest, Oscar Harrison surrendered himself Thursday afternoon. He was released under bail after proceedings identical with those followed after the arrest of W. R. Stanbery the day before.

Accompanied by his lawyer, W. L. Hetfield, Jr., and his bondsman, Thomas Rutledge, Harrison drove to Dunellen shortly after 2 o'clock. They were met there by appointment by Constable Pierce, who had the papers in the case, and Justice Von Minden. Harrison formally surrendered; the constable and the justice took seats in the carriage and the party drove immediately to New Brunswick. They went directly to Judge Strong's house, where the jurist, by appointment, awaited them.

Within three minutes after reaching the house the bail proceedings were ended. Harrison, like Stanbery, was held for the Grand Jury under a $1,000 bond. Rutledge qualified as bondsman at once.

This ends the preliminaries to the criminal actions. The next chapter in the prosecution of the accused men will be enacted before the Middlesex County Grand Jury, which meets on September 5. It is the general impression, supported by the opinion of several lawyers, that the chapter will be brief and final. It is not believed that the charge of wilful negligence can be proven against either party, and it is regarded as extremely unlikely that the jury will bring in indictments.

The civil suit brought by Harrison against Stanbery for the value of his horse and carriage, which ended in a disagreement of the jury in Justice Von Minden's court last Monday, will be tried over again in the same court on August 24. Lawyer Hetfield has been busy strengthening his case and is confident of securing a verdict.

NERVOUS ENERGY.

Don't Overdraw Your Account in the Bank of Nature.

You have a deposit of nervous energy placed to your account in the bank of your body. It may be large, in which happy case you are a millionaire in strength and accomplishing power, or it may be so microscopic as to need careful husbanding and little expenditure to keep it from dwindling out altogether.

But many millionaires become paupers, and some "dime savings" swell into millions. It depends upon the way the capital is managed. You may think you have so much that there is no need to be economical. You get up in the morning and feel the blood bounding through your veins like mountain cataracts, and you think you can turn the mill wheels of the world.

You work day and night or you play day and night, which is sometimes more exhausting, and go at the limit of your speed all the time. You are overdrawing your bank account of energy, and that needlessly, for you probably have enough to last a long and useful lifetime. It pays to sit down and sharpen your tools, and it adds cent per cent to your body bank deposit.

Another with not half your brains or bustle will get ahead of you in the end, for he makes every act, every thought, go straight to the mark. He wastes no effort. Everything he does means something. It helps toward some given end. You spend a great deal of ammunition on your quarry because you are overanxious. He keeps cool, takes steady aim and wings his bird.

You get wrinkles and frost tipped temples and become a bankrupt in vitality when you should be in your prime. You have overdrawn the best and most valuable bank account the Lord ever placed on the books of life—the ability "to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars."

Government Wants Carpenters.

Civil Service Examiner William Sharp, of this city, has been notified by the Civil Service Commission that the government needs carpenters for work on the Panama canal. All who apply and are accepted will be transported from New York to Panama free and will be paid fifty-six cents an hour from the time they start. The men will also be boarded and will be paid time and a half for all overtime. Mr. Sharp will furnish civil service blanks upon application.

Married at Flemington.

Richard A. Hahr and Miss Annie May Drake, both of this city, were married in the Hotel Hunterdon, Flemington, last Saturday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Buckle, of Clover Hill, in the presence of a few witnesses. At its conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Hahr returned to Plainfield.

DO YOU?

A professor in Chicago University has asked his students the following questions in examination:

Can you see as much beauty in washing dishes and hoeing corn as in playing golf and the piano?

Do you know the value of time and money?

Are you good friends with yourself?

Do you see anything in life besides dollars and cents?

Can you see sunshine in a mud puddle?

Can you see beyond the stars?

Do you feel an exultation in your pneumogastic nerve
When a yellow automobile comes right at you 'round the curve?

Can you read an evening paper when you're hanging to a strap?
Do you ever drop your h's? Did you ever loop the gap?

Can you look a sainted maiden in her eyes so blue and bright
And declare in mournful accents,
"Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night?"

Would you steal a silk umbrella from a cripple in the rain?
Have you ever lived in Jersey? Have you ever lived in vain?

Do you want to start a mission with the money that you make?
Do you feel at home at Sherry's when you order Hamburg steak?

Do you love your neighbor's chickens
when the harvest moon is right?
Do you like to hear a turnip as it whistles through the night?

And, lastly, would you be surpised at anything you hear
In Chicago University, where things are often queer?

—Wallace Irwin, in New York Globe.

BECAUSE.

He wasn't handsome, hadn't fame,
He bore no proud ancestral name;
Four figures, at the very most,
Could sum the wealth he had to boast.
To culture he made slight pretense,
His wit was rather forced and dense;
His chance for winning her seemed slim,
And yet—she fell in love with him!

By no means, now, was he a fool,
He had a courage calm and cool,
And perseverance of the kind
That shuts its eyes and goes it blind;
But, peace or strife, or sun or snow,
Whate'er occurs, contrives to go!
Not traits that win a heart, you'd say,
And yet—she married him one day.

"He has his faults, as who has not?"
She said when friends her reason sought
For wedding him. "He's plain, 'tis true,
I see all that as well as you!
For while on wedding him, I'm bent,
My love's not blind to such extent
I cannot see his faults and flaws.
And yet, I love him—just because!"

—New York Press.

WHY TRAVEL ABROAD.

An American Should Give His First Study to His Own Land.

When Payne wrote "There's No Place Like Home," he gave poetic expression to the love he bore toward the ingle nook more precious than "temples or palaces." What flowers of rhetoric could approach in power of assertion these five little monosyllabic words, "There's No Place Like Home"—to gainsay which were impossible!

It is the great privileges of Americans to be able without hyperbole to apply them to travel, for what is there in any part of the habitable globe more fraught with interest, instruction, education, refreshment of mind and body and uplifting of soul than nature has provided, with hand so lavish, for the delectation of those having the good fortune to dwell in this goodly land?

Would he see a Riviera? We have several on the shores of the azure waters both of the gulf and the Pacific, far distancing that laved by the Mediterranean.

Does he pine for snow capped mountains? Let him repair to the plains whence Pike's Peak, Mount Logan and our other great elevations rear their hoary summits into cloudland.

Would he witness a majestic cataract? There is but one without a rival, the imperial Niagara—in the chain of our great lakes, most turbulent of links.

Neither Nile, Niger nor Ganges, great rivers though they are, are comparable to our own Mississippi well named "The Father of Waters." Our peerless Hudson excels in picturesque effects the vaunted Rhine.

What of the beauties of the Golden Gate, on whose shores sits enthroned queenly San Francisco, pronounced peerless among cities by a much traveled European prince of imperial blood?

Where is there, even in miniature, anything to vie with the earthly paradise, the valley of the Yosemite; what to compare with the deep and rugged gorge through which passes to the sea the impetuous Colorado river?

The Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, one of the world's wonders, is as yet but partially explored.

Why, then, travel abroad, while all these and vastly more than can be enumerated remain unseen at home?

"Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel?" said Naaman the Syrian of old when ordered by the prophet to betake himself to the Jordan for healing. Who can help admiring his pride of country and robust patriotism? Most worthy are they of emulation.

Be it your health or recreation, there is no grander travel field than that we have at home.—Travel.

JEALOUSY AND LOVE.

When a woman says that she does not know the meaning of the word jealousy I immediately draw one of two conclusions, either that she is not telling the truth or that she is ignorant regarding love rather than jealousy.

Most of us learn the meaning of that hideous word in our babyhood, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

We have seen a tiny girl of three most wretchedly jealous of her new baby brother.

And could we but remember no doubt we have all felt the stings of the green-eyed monster by the time we are five.

It is the most miserably unhappy sensation in the world.

Even animals are not exempt from it.

When a first little nephew was born he was considered by all his admiring family to be the most wonderful scrap of pink humanity that had ever come to earth.

His father was the owner of a fine bull terrier, which had been much petted and noticed by everyone.

Naturally, when the baby came the interest in "Bose" waned.

Such an unhappy puppy you never saw. He sulked and would not come near any of us, and whenever he saw the baby he would growl and snarl as much as he dared.

He was desperately jealous, and it was weeks before he got over it.

In the matter of jealousy human beings are little more than animals.

No matter how much you may love a person, jealousy can creep in and, to a certain extent, poison that love, for in nine cases out of ten jealousy is the stronger of the two.

There are so many kinds of jealousy.

When we are children we are jealous of each other's toys and pretty clothes, and later we are jealous of social or business success.

But, of course, the jealousy that far, far eclipses all others is that which has to do with the love between man and woman.

It can poison the sweetest friendships, arouse the bitterest, most evil feelings the human heart is capable of.

It can descend on one like a blood-red cloud, blinding one to all better instincts.

A woman may love her sister deeply and tenderly, but let a man slip between and, even though it be against her will, the love is turned to gall and bitterness.

If your whole heart is given to a man you see a possible thief in every woman who looks kindly on him.

Should she distract his attention from you in the smallest degree every virtue of which she is possessed becomes, in your jealous eyes, distorted into a vice.

You may be too wise to criticise her yourself, but you love to hear others do so.

One sad thing about jealousy is that it almost invariably destroys all the pride in one's nature.

It leaves room for no other sensation save hate and its miserable self.

Fortunately, jealousy is not the constant companion of love.

It comes but rarely to most of us.

But at some time or other every human being is bound to experience it in a greater or lesser degree.

Some natures are full of it; others have comparatively little of it.

In New Jersey today one poor woman stands in the shadow of the gallows because jealousy was the strongest passion she knew.

She loved well and she hated well, and the jealousy that traveled hand in hand with her hate caused her to kill her rival.

Perhaps love might not be so great a thing if it were freed from the stimulus of jealousy, but I am quite sure that it would be an infinitely more peaceful one.

FASHION TIPS.

Loose little sacks with scalloped and buttonholed edges, under which are set frills of narrow Valenciennes, and with delicate trailing garlands embroidered by hand down the fronts and on yoke and sleeves, are costly trifles for all their misleading air of dainty simplicity, but they are exquisite, and a host of women seem to have money enough to buy them. The popular openwork or eyelet embroidery is also much in evidence, and often one sees heavy, bold, blind embroidery combined with open work or with delicate garlands.

The fine embroidery flouncings and allovers are pressed into service for charming matinees that are, of course, much less expensive than the hand embroidered models, and here again the English open work embroidery comes to the front.

The daintiest of little sacks are fashioned from deep flouncing of such embroidery on fine batiste or lawn, with medallions or insertion bands to match, and a little Valenciennes to soften the effect, and frequently these open work embroidery matinees are made over linings of wash silk in delicate color.

The loose lining is caught to the outside only at the neck and armholes, so that it may be readily removed before tubbin', and especially in pink or creamy yellow the under color gives a delightful tone to the matinee without detracting from its airy freshness and coolness.

Little matinees, without hand embroidery or by the yard embroidery, but trimmed more or less lavishly in fine tucking and lace, are offered in many attractive forms, and there are most lovable matinees very sparingly trimmed and owing their effectiveness chiefly to their lines and to the fineness and charm of their materials.

BRIGHT YOUNG MAN DEAD

Irving Hand Succumbs to Diptheria After Week's Illness.

BUILT UP BUSINESS

Was Half Owner of Netherwood Brickyard Established by His Father—Funeral Private.

After less than a week's illness from malignant diphtheria, Irving Hand, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hand, of Berkeley avenue, died at his parents' home at 5 o'clock Friday morning. His death came as a great shock to his many friends, as until a week ago Tuesday he was enjoying the best of health. At that time he went to Asbury Park to visit his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Hand, and was taken with a sore throat. A local physician declared it would soon pass away, but it continued to grow worse, and he returned home Thursday. Diphtheria soon manifested itself, and he grew rapidly worse despite the efforts of his physician, Dr. Endicott.

The young man was but twenty-four years old, but was known throughout the county as half owner of one of the largest and best equipped brickyards in the State. It was originally started by his father, but in recent years had been conducted by himself and his brother, Ernest T. Hand. Largely through Irving's business ability and knowledge of brick making the plant was the best known in this section.

Through his pleasing personality and modest disposition he had made hosts of friends in the city and borough, by all of whom he will be greatly missed. He was a member of the Fanwood Suburban Club and other social and athletic organizations. Surviving him are one brother, Ernest, and three sisters, Mrs. F. I. Smith, Mrs. William Scriven and Mrs. Herbert Henry, all of this city.

TANGLE DISCOVERED IN ELECTION LAW

ACT ABOLISHING SPRING ELECTIONS MAKES NO NOMINATION PROVISION.

A tangle has been discovered in chapter 3 of the laws passed by the last Legislature and approved by Governor Stokes February 15, abolishing spring elections in townships and boroughs and combining them with the general election in November. The mix-up is giving the county and municipal political committees considerable trouble and the local Democratic committee has referred the matter to Attorney General McCarter for an opinion to set the matter straight.

The bill was Assembly No. 7, introduced by Mr. Gibbs, of Camden county, and affects all officers except members of school boards or school trustees. Under its provisions the terms of all officers except justices of the peace hereafter elected in any township or borough shall commence at noon January 1, succeeding their election, and continue for the respective terms already fixed by law. This law makes it necessary to nominate and elect November 7 all the officers in the townships and boroughs that would have been elected last spring under the old law.

The hitch in the arrangement is that the new law is absolutely silent as to the manner of nominating the candidates outside the cities. This leaves it an open question whether the primary election law as applied to cities should govern and the candidates be chosen September 12, or whether the candidates for township and borough officers be named in caucus, as under the old law.

The situation is complicated by the fact that on or before September 2 all petitions endorsing candidates must be filed with the township or municipal clerk, and the committees have no authority as to how to proceed to meet this requirement.

Makes Souvenir Cards.

Paul F. Collier, a high school boy, is making up a number of picture postal cards with local scenes. He takes the photos, develops them, and prints them on the cards himself. The scenes are all of spots and buildings in and around this city. The work is excellent and the young man has received a number of orders from collectors.

Hangs Out His Shingle.

J. Henry Crane, Esq., son of Rev. Arthur Crane, who was formerly employed by the Equitable Life Assurance Company, has opened law offices in the Jeffery building, 134 Park avenue, where he will practice law. Mr. Crane was admitted to the New Jersey bar two years ago.

Miss Elizabeth McGinnis, of Providence, is visiting Mrs. John Cashman, of Richmond street.

Mrs. John Linbarger, of Brooklyn, is visiting her sister, Mrs. P. A. McVoy, of East Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Myrtle avenue, have returned from a stay in the White Mountains.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES.

She had been married three weeks, and the world was beginning to look terribly and monotonously natural again.

She ran into her father's house one night about 6 o'clock, and as soon as she got a whiff of the coffee preparing in the kitchen she had much ado not to sit down on the steps and weep.

Somehow this was home, after all, and being married a horrid, horrid device to get girls away from their mothers.

However, she heard Sue pounding around upstairs just as she always did, and so she tarried no longer for dismal reflections, but trotted on up.

"I want my old red silk pongee," she said. "I think I will make some curtains for the bookcase out of it."

Sue took the hairpins out of her mouth long enough to say: "Mom gave it to Mary last week," and then clapped them in again.

The bride sat down on the edge of the bed, and her eye glowed with inner fire.

"Where are you going?" said she, looking at Sue's white slippers and gown spread out seductively.

"Out to Willow Grove," said Sue, with Tom. Maud and Bert are going, too."

Just now the bride's eye fastened itself on Sue's corset cover.

"You've got on my corset cover!" she cried.

"Oh," said Sue, airily, "I didn't think you would want it any more."

The bride swallowed hard and said nothing, but somehow right now she loved that corset cover more dearly than any other corset cover on earth. She felt sour and mean, and so concluded to go downstairs.

So in the sitting room she found her mother, and as she kissed her the lump in her throat again grew troublesome. She controlled it and sat down by the desk where she used to write a love letter a day.

"Look at that!" she exclaimed so suddenly that her mother turned in dismay.

"What is it?"

"Why, if Sue hasn't gone and changed every photograph in that case," said she, her face very red.

"Mm, yes," said the mother, apologetically; "Sue said she wanted to look at her own friends now."

"Sue is mean and selfish," said the bride, and flew from the room to hide her emotion, leaving an astonished and shocked old lady.

When the young benedict got home that night he beheld a bride with red cheeks and bright eyes, who laughed loudly at all of his remarks, and then burst into tears when he said the iced tea was too strong.

"Women are certainly queer," he said aloud when she had run up*stairs to wash her face. But the* bride knew what she knew.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

CUPID'S POOR SHOT.

Sixty thousand wives are deserted every year in New York City.

Prodigious must be the number of those annually abandoned throughout the country.

Men are devising new laws to curb this tremendous and growing evil.

The problem is one of the darkest and most complex ever forced upon the American public.

Legislation is only a partial remedy and therefore won't cure the disease.

The only panacea is one slow in compounding, and which can only be administered in a deliberate manner.

There must be inaugurated a radical and thorough system of education in regard to the meaning, responsibilities and duties of marriage.

Unless we can compass this, we shall soon have a nation without homes.

More liberal ideas about marriage prevail in the United States than in any other country.

Praise and blame have been freely visited on America because of this fact.

Both the praise and the blame are deserved.

In giving fair scope to youthful attachment and to natural inclination we are right.

In neglecting to provide romance with pilot or compass we are wrong.

Let it never be forgotten that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty in marriage as of other liberty.

Men marry without understanding that marriage is the most serious contract that can be made.

Women marry without realizing that marriage is a contract at all.

Yet people wonder that marriage so often spells ruin.

The real marvel is that the big majority of American marriages are happy.—Buffalo Inquirer.

TO DEAL IN SECURITIES.

Bond Company Incorporated by David K. Sutphen and Others.

Papers of incorporation were filed at the county clerk's office in Elizabeth yesterday by the American Debenture Company, the principal office of which, according to the papers, is to be located in this city. David K. Sutphen, of this city, heads the list of incorporators.

The object of the company is to deal in stocks and bonds and other securities. The authorized capital is $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares, at $100 each.

The full list of incorporators is as follows: David K. Sutphen, Plainfield; Edwin Gibbs, East Orange; George M. Potter, George S. Mittendorf, New York, and James F. Horan, Yonkers, N. Y.

FIRST KANSAS PAPER.

Leavenworth Man Has Part of First Press Used in Kansas.

It is perhaps only fitting that Leavenworth, which was the scene of so much of the free State trouble in the early days of Kansas, should be the keeper of many relics of that time, says the Topeka Capitol. Some of these old souvenirs are cherished by white-haired men and women whose memories are filled with incidents of the days when the border ruffian rode down on the little Kansas towns and when a man lived close to his gun and his friends.

There are others of the old relics that little is known of. Many are being used daily, while their owners have little knowledge of the part that they played in history.

A piece of printing press that once printed glowing anti-slavery editorials is now used by the Dodsworth Printing Company as an ink plate. The piece is the platen of a Washington hand press which was used in the office of the Herald of Freedom at Lawrence.

In the year 1861 there came to Kansas a man by the name of G. N. Brown who was a strong Union sympathizer. He brought with him the material for a small printing office and settled at Lawrence, where he erected a cabin 18x30 feet of green cottonwood slabs. In this little building which was put into use before the roof was on, was printed the first issue of what was known as a Kansas paper and the first paper printed at Lawrence. Although the first issue of the Kansas Tribune, which appeared later, was antedated January 5, 1855, the Herald of Freedom was really the first and appeared on January 6. Mr. Brown had previously printed 21,000 copies of this paper in Pennsylvania before coming to Kansas and continued sending out issues of it filled with protests against slavery until May 21, 1856, when his office was destroyed by border ruffians and his materials thrown into the river. These were recovered, however, and the faithful old press was again installed for the purpose of sending forth Northern sentiments.

It is not known at just what time the historic remnant of the press came into the possession of the Dodsworths, although it has been in the office for over twenty years.

John Dodsworth, grandfather of the present member of the company, once owned and operated a bookbindery in Lawrence over the office of the Herald of Freedom.

In the office with the platen are some old type cases which were shipped here from Lawrence three years ago, and it is presumed that the piece of the press came with these. They use it now for an ink plate and to make ready small forms on. Like many other things and people, its prominent part in the State's history has been played, and though retired to a more humble position than in the times when it sent forth eloquent appeals for the Union, its day of usefulness are not yet over.

DEEDS ON FILE.

Conveyances of Plainfield Realty Recently Recorded.

These conveyances of Plainfield realty have been recorded in the Union county register of deeds office:

William Birrell to William N. Runyon, southwesterly side Park avenue, 86 feet northwesterly of Randolph road ....................$1

William N. Runyon to John Gregory, same as above ............$1

Stephen O. Sthats et ux to Charles W. McCutchen, West Second street, opposite the southwesterly line of Pruden's alley ............$4,000

B. Frank Coriell, sheriff, to James Armstrong, southwesterly side New street, corner West Fourth street... $1,500

E. Frank Vail et ux. to Preston G. Elliott, lot 24, block 2, "Map of Mary Pound," ....................$1

Nelson Runyon et al. to Edward Maher, Second street, corner Caroline Wright ..................$1,705

Preston G. Elliott to Ernest T. Hand, lot 24, block 2, "Map of Mary D. Pound" ....................$1

Luella R. Dudley et al. to George H. Whitney, West Eighth street, 129 feet northeasterly of Spooner avenue ....................$25

Alvah W. Ten Eyck to Sarah A. McNabb, lot 7, "Map of Front, Richmond and Second streets .......$1

Delphine L. Bowers et al. to Lewis R. Ross, northwesterly side East Seventh street, corner Franklin place ....................$1

Abraham B. Dunlap to Charles M. Wilson, Madison avenue, corner West Fifth street ..................$1

Alonzo G. Conant to Abraham B. Dunlap, same as last .......$3,950

BITS OF STREET WORK.

Commissioner Gavett's Men Busy in Various Parts of the City.

The contract work on macadamizing is not proceeding to the satisfaction of the officials and steps will be taken to hurry this work. Carlton avenue will be the next street to be started, to be followed by New street.

The street department is now repairing the track along Watchung avenue, the cost being charged to the street railway company. The work will be continued along West Front street, where the macadamizing along the track is in bad shape.

Grant avenue from Eighth street to Sherman avenue is being staked out, with the idea of putting the street to the proper grade during the work of resurfacing.

STONY HILL'S LANDMARK

Catholic Church Where Plainfielders Worshipped 50 Years Ago.

FR. SCHWARTZE'S CURE

On Tuesday the Parish Will Hold Its Annual Picnic and Many From This City Will be Present.

Though the fact is known to but few Plainfielders, the St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Roman Catholic parishes in the city and borough include among their older members quite a number who worshipped in the early part of the last century at the little St. Mary's church at Stony Hill, near Berkeley Heights. It was the first parish established in this vicinity, and those who made the trip from the village of Plainfield to attend mass hold a warm spot in their hearts for it. At the present time it has but a few members, but it is still doing a good work despite many obstacles.

A sketch of St. Mary's church published in 1900 contained the following: "Among such little towns was Plainfield half a century ago. Over the mountain, in what we still call 'the second valley,' stood the little Catholic church of Stony Hill, erected for the benefit of the German farmers tilling the pleasant fields of that smiling spot. The chapel was eight miles away, counting the distance in both directions, from the homes of the little band of Catholics then dwelling in Plainfield, a journey delightful to make in the soft air of May, or when the golden haze of October lay broodingly over the mountains, covered with their autumn tapestries. But it was another matter when the fierce sun of July and August burned down on the shut-in Jersey valley, and on the side of the steep hills, or when the icy winds of midwinter whirled the snow through the ravine, and beat back the zealous souls who braved these terrors to hear mass. For brave them they did; what could they do? Elizabeth was twelve miles distant; Stony Hill was eight, and these Irish emigrants were used to enduring for their faith. So they toiled through heat and cold to the chapel built by their German brethren, nor thought the alternative of staying at home worthy to be entertained.

Time went on, and interpid Plainfield Catholics, who were to be seen fighting their way through the snows, over the ice, out through the Notch to hear mass, increased in numbers, and the possibility of building a church for themselves and getting the Archbishop to appoint to them their own pastor was discussed among them. The discussion ripened into action; one of the members of the congregation, appointed delegate for the rest, went to New York to see Archbishop Hughes, and laid before him the facts of the great distance from Plainfield at which the Stony Hill Chapel stood.

The Archbishop, then living in the episcopal residence in Mott street—for this was the New York of half a century ago, as well as the New Jersey of that time, remember—considered, and soon granted the plea of the Plainfield Catholics. This was in 1851, and the day on which the Archbishop granted this request for a priest for Plainfield was the birthday of the Parish of St. Mary's; it ante-dated by two years the erection of the first New Jersey Diocese.

The present pastor of St. Mary's church at Stony Hill is Linus A. Schwartze, who was born in Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 18, 1878. Father Schwartze is one of the youngest priests in New Jersey. Graduating from the parochial school in Pottsville, he entered St. Charles College, Overbrook, Pa., where he studied philosophy. After a course in theology at St. Vincent's he was ordained, June 6, 1903, in St. Vincent's Abbey chapel by Rt. Rev. Canovan, Bishop of Pittsburg, Pa. Being a subject of the Trenton Diocese, Bishop McFaul stationed Father Schwartze at St. Mary's church, Bordentown, N. J., where he was assistant for fourteen months to Rev. D. Duggan. Father Schwartze was made rector of the little Stony Hill parish October 1, 1904, and ever since his assuming charge the parish has rapidly increased.

To show the esteem in which Father Schwartze is held at his former home—Pottsville, Pa., when it became known how poor his charge was, they got up an entertainment and forwarded nearly two hundred dollars as the proceeds to help smooth out some of the numerous difficulties that he had encountered.

On Tuesday next a parish picnic will be held on the hill just above the paper mills, back of Scotch Plains, where it is expected a large party from this city will join in the festirities and help along the undertakings that Father Schwartze has in contemplation.

1904's Unpaid Tax List.

The tax collector is now making up a list of all real estate upon which the taxes of 1904 remain unpaid, and as soon as it is completed it will be published. The law under which the collector is now working compels a sale of all delinquent real estate on the first day of July in the year following the levy itself.

SPORTSMEN MUST OBEY

These New Laws Which Were Revised By Legislature.

SEVERAL CHANGES.

Sportsmen and Fishermen Interested in the Game Laws of the State of New Jersey.

What is and what is not legal this year are fully explained in the new supply of literature that is being sent to the fish and game wardens for distribution. The literature includes a revision of the fish and game laws in pocket form, charts showing the open and closed seasons, and a folder with a small chart, telling when it is always unlawful to do certain things in pursuit of game or fish. Combined, the three make an excellent guide for those interested in game or fish, and should be in the hands of every fresh water fisherman or hunter.

Outside of the chart the things that are unlawful to do constitute perhaps the most interesting of this literature. These are embodied in each of the three different forms of literature and are as follows:

To take or to attempt to take any game except by the use of guns held at arm's length. Fine, $20.

To take or to attempt to take any fish in any manner excepting with hook and line, excepting taking minnows for bait with a seine not more than thirty feet long, excepting in ponds and lakes having an area of over one hundred acres, where seines of fifty feet in length are permitted for bait fishing; taking eels with baskets or weirs between the fifteenth of September and the last of October, and taking eels with wicker baskets anchored on the bottoms of streams and ponds. Fine, $20

To hunt or kill deer at any time. Fine, $20.

To have trapped game in possession. Fine, $100.

To hunt on Sunday or carry firearms in the fields or woods or on the waters on Sunday or to hunt for quail, partridge, pheasant, woodcock or rabbits when there is tracking snow on the ground. Fine, $20.

To pollute streams. Fine, $200.

To use medicated bait or explosives of any kind for taking fish. Fine, $100.

To use set lines in waters inhabited by pickerel, pike, pike-perch, bass or trout, or to use any contrivance in fishing having more than three hooks or one burr of three hooks or to have such contrivances in possession. Fine, $20.

To permit the erection or maintenance of unlawful contrivances for taking game and fish; applies to owners and tenants of lands. Fine, $20.

To use carp for bait or in any other way to put carp in fresh water. Fine, $20.

To capture, kill, injure or to have in possession insectivorous and certain other birds and to rob birds' nests. Fine, $20.

To hunt geese, ducks or any water wild fowl, except between one hour before sunrise and one hour after sunset; to hunt any kind of water wild fowl from boats not propelled by oars or paddles. Fine, $20.

To catch or keep trout less than six inches in length, black or white bass less than nine inches in length, or pike-perch, pickerel and pike less than twelve inches in length. Fine, $20. Does not apply to grass pike, a small pike frequenting brooks.

To take trout, bass, pike, pickerel and pike-perch between 9 a. m. and daylight. Fine, $20.

To permit dogs to run rabbits at night at any time, or to run at large in woods or fields inhabited by rabbits or game birds except between the first day of October and the first of February, or at any time in woods or fields inhabited by deer. Fine, $20.

To remove quail, grouse, woodcock, squirrel, hare, English or ringneck pheasants from the State. Fine, $20.

To kill more than thirty marsh hens or mud hens in one day. Fine, $20.

Farmers and fruit growers have the right to trap rabbits under certain restrictions.

Dealers have fifteen days after the close of the season in which to dispose of game.

To the above may be added the following prohibitions, which, while not the subject of legal enactment, are recognized as binding laws of behavior by all reputable lovers of the pursuit of game and fish:

Never violate the letter or spirit of the game laws.

Never take more fish or game than you have convenient use for.

Never be insolent or impolite to a landowner who orders you off his premises; for although he may not own the game or fish you are after, he has the right to exclusive possession of his property.

Never fail to destroy a net or trap when you find one set.

Never shoot at a game bird except on the wing.

Never kill the last quail in a covey; leave some to breed next year.

Never forget that game laws are intended to improve and increase sport and not to prevent or restrict it.

25 PROVERBS FOR GOD'S FOLLOWERS

LEADER YATMAN GIVES PORTION OF HOLY WRIT THAT WILL BENEFIT ALL.

Evangelist Yatman at Ocean Grove the other day presented 25 proverbs for the righteous. In introducing them he said, "Here are grains of gold and pearls of truth, fit treasures for kings." The proverbs were:

"Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people."

"Better is little with the fear of the Lord than great treasure and trouble therewith."

"A man hath joy for the answer of his mouth: and a word spoken in season, how good is it"

"The preparation of the heart in man, and the answer of the tongue, is from the Lord."

"When a man's way please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him."

"How much better is it to get wisdom than gold: and to get understanding rather to be chosen than silver."

"Better is it to be of an humble spirit with the lowly, than to divide the spoil with the proud."

"Pleasant words are as honeycomb, sweet to the soul, and health to the bones."

"The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it is found in the way of righteousness."

"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

"A friend loveth at all times and a brother is born for adversity."

"A merry heart doeth good like a medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones."

"He that hath pity on the poor lendeth to the Lord: and that which he hath given will pay him again."

"Seeth thou a man diligent in his business, he will stand before kings."

"For by wise counsel thus shalt make thy war: and in multitude of counselors there is safety."

"Ointment and perfume rejoice the body; so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel."

"He that rebuketh a man afterwards shall find more favor than he that flattered with the tongue."

"The rod and reproof give wisdom: but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame."

"The fruit of righteousness is the tree of life: and he that winneth souls is wise."

"A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast: but the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel."

"The lip of truth shall be established forever: but a lying tongue is but for a moment."

"Hope deferred maketh the heart sick: but when desire cometh, it is a tree of life."

"The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wise."

"It is an honor for a man to cease from strife: but every fool will be meddling."

"There is a gold, and a multitude of roches: but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel."

LEARN TO LET GO.

If you want to be healthy, morally, mentally and physically, just let go.

Let go of the little bothers of every-day life, the irritations and the petty vexations that cross your path daily. Don't take them up and nurse them, pet them and brood over them. They are not worth while. Let them go.

That little difference that exists between you and your neighbor, that you argue over every time you meet, drop it, let it go. You cannot afford to lose a good neighbor or a friend by simply hanging on to some difference of opinion and spending your time quarreling over it instead of enjoying each other and talking about things on which you do agree.

That little hurt that you got from a friend, perhaps it wasn't intended, perhaps it was, but never mind, let it go. Refuse to think about it, says E. P. in Medical Talk.

Let go of that feeling of hatred you have for another, the jealousy, the envy, the malice, let go all such thoughts. Sweep them out of your mind and you will be surprised what a cleaning up and rejuvenating effect it will have upon you, both physically and mentally. Let them all go, you house them at deadly risk.

But the big troubles, the bitter disappointments, the deep wrongs and heartbreaking sorrows, the tragedies of life, what about them? Why, just let them go, too. Drop them, softly, may be, but surely. Put away all regret and bitterness and let sorrow be only a softening influence. Yes, let them go, too, and make the most of the future.

Then that little pet ailment that you have been hanging on to and talking about these many years, let it go. It will be a good riddance. You have treated it royally, but abandon it, let it go. Talk about health instead, and health will come. Quit nursing that pet ailment and let it go.

It is not so hard after once you get used to the habit of it—letting go of these things. You will find it such an easy way to get rid of the things that mar and embitter life that you will enjoy letting them go. You will find the world such a beautiful place. You will find it beautiful because you will be free to enjoy it—free in mind and body.

Learn to let go. As you value health of body and peace of mind, let go—just simply let go.

REFORMER LA FOLETTE READY TO TAKE HIS SEAT IN U. S. SENATE IN THE FALL

After an uphill fight for several years, Governor Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, has succeeded in having his reform ideas incorporated in the laws of Wisconsin and is now ready to retire as governor and occupy the seat in the United States Senate to which he was elected in January. He has not said publicly that he intends to leave the governor's office. It is contrary to his policy to announce his plans in advance, but his associates in the capitol understand that he is now preparing to quit the governor's office in time to take his seat in the Senate when Congress meets, either in special session in November or in regular session in December.

The Governor is now dividing his time between Chautauqua assemblies and his office. When he is in Madison he is busy putting the new law into effect.

Much of the new machinery is already in motion, although it is only a month since the most important laws went into effect. By fall the Governor will have things going so smoothing that he can safely turn the State helm over to the lieutenant governor. It is well understood that La Follette will continue to have a hand on State affairs after he becomes a Senator. The State is his first love, and in the enforcement of the reform laws he will continue to be the "power behind the throne" after he goes to Washington. His organization is supreme in the State, and he proposes to see that it holds on.

The man nominated for Governor next year by the "halfbreeds" will be picked by him. District Attorney McGovern, of Milwaukee, will probably be the man. The "stalwarts" are complaining because they are not getting any representation in the La Follette appointments, but their complaint does not move La Follette. He believes in putting friends on guard, and will follow that policy to the end.

The so-called "La Follette laws," enacted at the recent session of the Legislature, form a long list. The most noteworthy are:

1. The railroad commission rate act.
2. The anti-pass act.
3. An act introducing the merit system into the State government.
4. An act strengthening the railroad taxation laws.
5. A new ballot law.
6. Amendments to the primary election law.
7. Bonus acts regarding incorporations.
8. A law to prohibit corporations from influencing elections.
9. A law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes in the State.

DEADLOCK MAY END THE PEACE PARLEY

UNLESS RUSSIA OR JAPAN YIELDS VITAL POINT, CONFERENCE MUST END.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 14.—Unless Russia or Japan yields on a vital point today, the discussion of the peace conditions submitted by Japan will end in disagreement on four points, and the conference will adjourn forever, if war is to continue, or until Monday if outside interference can bring either the Czar or the Mikado to concede sufficient ground for compromise.

That today's meeting will end in a deadlock is frankly admitted by the Russians. The Japanese are saying nothing. The Orientals grow more impassive as the crisis approaches. The Russians make no attempt to conceal their disappointment and irritation that, after yielding to Japan on every point demanded by her before the war was declared, their enemy now persists on punitive terms before agreeing to make peace.

If outside pressure brings instructions today from Tokio to Baron Komura to waive the demand for indemnity and the possession of Russia's interned warships the making of peace will pass into the final stage of treaty drafting, for Russia is willing to let Japan retain Sakhalin as a spoil of war and cede her the fishing rights demanded along the Siberian litoral. But if Japan stands pat on the question of indemnity, there is no possibility of a favorable outcome to the negotiations.

Illegal Form of Advertising.

A common form of trademark graft is that of deceptively employing the phrase "late with" or "successor to." A case of this kind was before Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court recently. A manufacturer in Paris and the United States of perfumery and toilet preparations had adopted, in 1844, a trademark which has become widely known. One who has been in the employ of this manufacturer, began, in this city, to manufacture and sell toilet preparations. On his labels and boxes he arranged his devices and inscriptions in such a manner as to make them almost indistinguishable from those of the original firm. The name of the old firm was displayed in conspicuous letters, while in minute characters over it were the imitator's own name and the inscription "late with." Judge Lacombe decided that it was a clear case of trying to palm off goods as those of the old-established firm, and issued an injunction.—New York Evening Post.

He Must Apologize.

Thomas C. Harding, fifteen years old, arrested early in the week for throwing a stone at the daughter of Joseph Streyer, of Plainfield avenue, was arraigned in the city court this morning. He acknowledged the throwing, but Streyer failed to appear against him and sentence was suspended. Judge Runyon ordered him to apologize to the girl and her father.

Quinn's Reduced Rate Fine.

Peter Quinn, a farm hand employed at Warrenville, who was arrested Thursday night on Somerset street by Marshal Flack, for intoxication, was given a hearing last night before Recorder Doud. As it was the prisoner's first offense, the Recorder gave him the choice of five days in jail or a fine of two dollars. He produced the two-spot.

Plainfielders in Canoe Races.

Fred Martin and G. Harold Whitney, of this city, will represent the Wanamassa Boat Club in the two paddle canoe race this afternoon at Deal Lake. This combination won the race for the club last year.

RAILROADS MAY DODGE PAYMENT OF THEIR TAXES

NEW LAW REQUIRING FULL RATES LIKELY TO BE EVADED.

Commissioner Brock, the Democratic member of the Jersey City Board of Finance, has set the Corporation counsels of all the cities in the State delving into their law books to find out whether the new railroad tax act does not reduce the railroad tax bills which it was designed to double and treble. The roads had been paying local tax on their second class property at the rate of $1.50 per $100. The new tax act requires them to pay on their holdings at the full local rate, which often approximates $3 per $100.

Commissioner Brock says he had been informed by a high railroad official that the act compels the companies to pay at only the municipal tax rate. That means that the companies may cut out the county and school taxes, which are always included in the city's tax bills.

The local rate in Jersey City will be about $28 per $1,000. In Newark it will be about $24 per $1,000. But of Jersey City's $28, $10 is for school and county taxes, and in Newark $8 of the $24. In all the other cities the school and county taxes represent about one-third of the total tax bill. If the companies pay only the municipal bill their local tax bills this year in Jersey City and Newark will be scarcely larger than they were last year, before the new law was passed. In some of the municipalities, where the municipal rate does not reach $1.50 per $100, the railroad tax bills will be even smaller than they were last year.

Mr. Brock's announcement has stirred up the cities all over the State, because they have all prepared their budgets for next year on the assumption that the railroads will pay their city tax bills at the full rate, and their failure to do so will lead to financial embarrassments all around. The deduction in Jersey City alone would amount to nearly $300,000.

DOING GOOD WORK.

Commissioner Gavett Pleased With Progress on Sewer Bed Extension.

The work of enlarging the city sewage disposal works is now being vigorously pushed by Contractors Richards & Gaston. The office of the firm is in New York, but the members are residents of Raritan and Somerville and are favorably known in this vicinity.

Street Commissioner Gavett is well satisfied with their work so far, as it is being well and rapidly done; their plant includes two steam hoisting engines and a steam concrete mixer. The water company has completed the main to the works, and the use of city water is proving of great advantage in expediating the work.

Purchase Bib Peach Crop.

Lovers of fine Jersey peaches will be pleased to know that they will have an opportunity to secure some of the choicest fruit grown in this State. Neuman Brothers, of Watchung avenue, have just purchased the crop of a fine new orchard in Washington Valley, to be delivered as they desire them. The orchard will yield about 5,000 baskets, and the fruit is especially choice.

To Look Up Land Claim.

Counselor William Newcorn has been retained by A. T. Slauson, of East Ninth street, to look up a land claim in Tennessee. The property, which is considerable, is said to have been acquired by his father some years ago. Until the present Mr. Slauson has made no attempt to prove title.

LITERARY.

Tammany and the Odell machine being almost equally corrupt, and the Citizen's Union being as efficient as a perch on land, Mr. Jerome goes over the heads of all of them directly to the voters. If he wins against such odds, the example will be an extending influence for emancipation. It will encourage many a high minded official with the knowledge that not with political grafters alone lies his salvation, and it will occasionally enable some citizen, who is not in office, but is strongly wanted by his fellow men, to enter the public service without the trademark of some Murphy or Odell.—Collier's for August 19, 1905.

Molly Elliott Seawell's novelette, "The Chateau of Montplasir," which opens the September Smart Set, is just the kind of story one wishes to read in the warm weather. It is delightfully humorous from beginning to end, and, while some of the situations are hilariously laughable, the author never oversteps bounds of probability. Those readers who remember Miss Seawell's "Papa Bouchard"—and who does not?—which the same magazine published about four years ago, know what a pleasant hour is in store for them in this last piece of work. Miss Seawell has never given us a more rollicking and genuinely witty story, nor one so full of the very spirit of comedy.

Although the August edition of The Century was largely increased, to meet the anticipated demand for the magazine containing Rudyard Kipling's "'An Habitation Enforced,'" the edition was virtually exhausted in less than a fortnight from the date of issue. Within a week the main office of the American News Co. had not a copy left; and the publishers have not sufficient reserve supply to meet the demands coming from the news companies throughout the country.

Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh River and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly eighteen miles. As one ascends the steep slope the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in a thrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over the hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a halt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on August 20, 1905. Round trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m.

REAL ESTATE DEALS.

Numerous Sales Brought About Through Jeffery's Agency.

The following real estate deals have recently been transacted through the William Jeffery agency:

Plot corner of Park and Woodbine avenues, Bolton Hall to Berkeley Heights Association; large lot adjoining on Park avenue, Katharine S. Totten to Berkeley Heights Association; three lots on Woodbine avenue, John J. Delaney to Berkeley Heights Association; two lots on West Fourth street near Rock avenue, Investors' Realty Company to Harry G. Lucas; house on Rushmore avenue, near Rock avenue, Thomas H. Marsh to Berkeley Heights Association; house on West Fourth street, near Rock avenue, Bolton Hall to Berkeley Heights Association; 659 West Fourth street, Thomas M. Eganey to Berkeley Heights Association; 932 West Third street and lot in the rear on Prescott place, Katharine S. Totten to Berkeley Heights Association; house on Rushmore avenue, Berkeley Heights Association to Thomas M. Eganey; 521 East Second street, Thomas Berkeley to Berkeley Heights Association; 123 East Second street, property recently purchased by Thomas M. Berkeley from F. A. Pope, sold to Investors' Realty Co.; lot on Elk street, Fred W. Dunn to Bolton Hall; lot on West Fourth street, A. Birrell to Joseph Brant.

Engineer Bennett Promoted.

William Bennett, of Park place, the borough, for several years one of the engineers at the Public Service Corporation electric light works on Madison avenue, has been offered a much better position with the same company at its Metuchen plant and has accepted the offer. He will remove his family to the latter place about September 1.

GAS BILLS START SUIT FOR DIVORCE

WIFE SUSPICIOUS WHEN HUSBAND PROPOSED TO PROVIDE LIGHT.

Mrs. Catharine T. Burtt, of 149 New street, Newark, has instituted proceedings in the Court of Chancery for alimony and separate maintenance against her husband, Robert H. Burtt, who is a well known electrical engineer and automobile expert. He, until recently, was chief engineer of the electrical plant of the Public Service Corporation.

In her bill Mrs. Burtt relates that she was married to the defendant at Bloomfield in 1894. They lived together happily, and two children were born to them prior to May, 1904, when trouble entered their home.

Through her counsel, Charles O'Connor, Mrs. Burtt alleges that on May 13, 1904, after she had recovered from a lingering illness, by which she was confined as a patient in St. Michael's Hospital, a representative of the Essex and Hudson Gas Company called at her home to inquire whether her husband possessed real estate. She was informed, she alleges, that the inquiry was made because her husband had agreed to become surety for the gas bills of a woman residing in Grant street, Newark.

When she asked her husband concerning his interest in the Grant street woman, the petitioner avers, he told her he had agreed to become surety for the other woman at the request of a man friend. He asserted, she says, that he was not acquainted with the woman.

The incident of the gas bill caused Mrs. Burtt to become suspicious and to watch her husband's movements. She claims to have interrupted a visit he was making to a woman who, the petitioner believes, was a relative of the one whose gas bills he proposed to guarantee.

A promise on her husband's part to discontinue his conduct, the petitioner relates, was broken by Burtt, and an unhappy period of several months ensued until last December 7, when, Mrs. Burtt declares, her husband deserted her and her two children, eight and two years old, and took his personal effects to No. 15 Marshall street, where he has since resided.

The petitioner claims to be in such poor physical condition that she is unable to support herself and the children. She asserts that her husband's income is at least $250 a month.

STUDY YOUR FACE.

A little judgment used in the selection of hats will often do much in the way of tempering the unkind treatment which nature may have accorded one's face.

The woman who has sharp and prominent features, for instance, should never wear hats that are set back or off her face. Such a woman will do well to arrange her hair in as fluffy a manner as possible, and her hat should be of a shape that may be worn well forward. The same kind of a hat should be adopted by the woman whose hair is scanty, says an exchange.

If the hair is very heavy a larger hat may be worn than when it is thin and sparse.

The woman with irregular features also must beware of choosing her headgear without a very nice regard to its angle from every point in the mirror.

A hat with brim crushed to suit her face will be a suitable setting, and often in trying on a hat its unbecomingness may be altered by simply bending the brim here and there after it is adjusted.

Alas for the woman with a prominent nose! Here is the worst of troubles with which to contend in hat choosing.

Many a charming shape which she covets must be laid by in favor of another of more friendly contour. Her hats must avoid severe outline, and must be worn well forward, so that the prominent feature will seem proportionately insignificant.

She, too, must look at her headgear from every mirrored point and angle, to see that no one side is too frankly unkind in showing up her defect.

Huge picture hats must never be worn by girls with small faces, even if their figures are sufficiently tall and slight to carry them.

Some of the smart milliners declare, however, that the only possible rule for hat buying is to try them on, since many times a woman may be able to wear a hat which looks impossible for her when on the stand.

Hard or careworn features, it should always be remembered, must be softened by not too severe headgear.

A word, too, to the woman who thinks to hide her "near middle age" appearance beneath a too juvenile hat. She deceives no one but herself, and while she, of all women, including her sister with the prominent nose, must select her headgear cautiously, the former will call inevitable attention to the fact that she is passe directly she attempts to wear an ingenious hat. This does not mean that she need adopt the "old" unbecoming style. The softest of effects she must seek to wear, but let her beware of the bebe contour if she would look her best.

LODGE HAS A BIRTHDAY

Benevolent Council Celebrates Anniversary With Reception to Godmother

SUPPER AND SPEECHES

Big Newark Delegation As Guests of Honor—Past Councilor's Jewel Presented to Harry C. Runyon.

On August 14 Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., was four years old. Thursday the lodge celebrated the anniversary with a session devoted to speechmaking followed by a collation.

The feature of the observance was the presence of a large delegation from George H. Adams Council, No. 36, of Newark, which instituted Benevolent on August 14, 1901. Adams Council was represented by fifty members.

Aside from a welcoming speech by Past Councilor H. C. Runyon, the speeches were all made by members of Adams Council. The celebration was a "closed" affair, only members of the order participating.

The address of Past Councilor Runyon was largely a review of the history of Benevolent Council. He sketched the progress of the lodge from its organization four years ago to the present, during which time it has more than doubled in membership. His words of welcome to the visiting brethren were cordial and happily phrased.

The programme of entertainment was wholly composed, with one exception, of short speeches by the members of Adams Council. Among the speakers were Past National Counselor Kibbe, of New Brunswick; Councilor Axtell, and Brothers E. Struble Buchanan, J. B. Campbell, J. D. Conover, a former Plainfielder, and William Umbsheiden, of Adams Council.

All the speakers united in complimenting Benevolent Council upon its progress and the large measure of success that has attended it. Past National Councilor Kibbe was particularly warm in his expressions of commendation.

The collation that followed the speechmaking was a most tempting one. It was catered by Thomas Timbo.

The committee in charge of the affair comprised Horace G. Adams, chairman; J. V. Beekman, J. Henry Adams, Peter Jonas, J. Clark Lowrie, S. C. Terry and Frank Milligan. Councilor Raymond Carver presided.

A feature of the affair was the presentation of a past councilor's jewel to Harry C. Runyon. It took place near the close of the programme and came as a surprise to the recipient. Robert M. Clark, of Adams Council, made the presentation. Mr. Clark is a former Plainfielder and a charter member of Benevolent Council.

Benevolent Council started with forty-seven members. Since its organization two members have died, six have been suspended and one has withdrawn, leaving thirty-eight charter members. Its total membership is now 105. The present officers are as follows:

Past councilor, Harry C. Runyon; councilor, Raymond D. Carver; vice-councilor, Harry Hann; recording secretary, H. G. Adams; assistant recording secretary, J. V. Beekman; treasurer, J. Henry Adams; financial secretary, T. A. Kurzhals, Jr.; conductor, Clarence Pope; warden, Clark Lowrie; chaplain, J. B. Conklin; inside sentinel, Herbert Ayers; outside sentinel, Gilbert Martin.

UNTOLD LOVE.

According to Shakespeare, to love is to "be made of doubts and fears," and most women remember at one time or another taking counsel, like Marguerite, with Nature, and plucking petal after petal from a daisy, repeating, "He loves me, he loves me not," as each one fell to the ground, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Remembering this experience, and finding it supported by the immortal bard, perhaps it is safe to conclude that love, though patent to all the world, may often be unknown to its object.

Women, perhaps, are clearer-sighted than men to detect love inspired by them, but only let them return it, and then at once they must be told in words that they are beloved.

Men are apt to think that their attention to a girl must show her their love, and it sometimes happens that they utterly surprise their girl friends with proposals of marriage, when the girls themselves regarded them merely as pleasant companions, quite oblivious to the fact that they might possibly be suitors.

When this happens a man will sometimes think the girl "ought to have choked him off sooner, for she must have seen what was coming," whereas she did nothing of the kind.

The girls who are best worth winning are not those who think themselves so attractive that they imagine every man who shows them a little attention to be in love with them, so it is not fair always thus to blame them.

Charles Smith spent Thursday with relatives at Picton.

Miss Jennie Vroom, of Stone street, is entertaining Miss Florence Jones, of Bedminster.

CLIMAX OF RATE FIGHT

Royal Arcanum Supreme Council Will Reconsider Present Plans.

AT PUT-IN-BAY, OHIO

Various Council Eagerly Await Results—Complete Back Down Expected.

On August 30, at Put-in-Bay, O., the fight over the Royal Arcanum rates will reach a climax that will be watched with interest all over the country. The Supreme Council, which intended to put the new rates into effect on October 1, has, in compliance with almost unanimous demands, decided to reconvene and reconsider their action. The result can hardly be other than a complete back down on the part of the Supreme Council and the restoring of the old rates, or else an action by which the Supreme Council still maintains that its new scale of assessment must stand.

No plan has been suggested as a substitute for the new rates adopted. The various councils will expect to see the new rates declared unreasonable and void, and great developments will follow if the Supreme Council still holds to its intention to increase the assessments on the first of October. The argument advanced by the Supreme Council is that the increase is necessary to gather in enough money to pay the death benefits. And one member asks why this is necessary when the July report shows the order to be in better financial condition than ever before. The Supreme Council has not explained this to the satisfaction of the majority of the members, and the session at Put-in-Bay on August 30 will be a hummer. In case the action is not rescinded some of the councils will demand that the Supreme representatives be impeached; charged with gross incompetency, and new men selected to carry out the wishes of the members.

Some members, however, are of the opinion that the new rates are just, necessary to the maintenance of the order and should be submitted to by all who care to see the order live. One member of one of the local councils, who said some time ago that he believed the old rates were ridiculously low, had this to say regarding the special meeting of the Supreme Council at the end of this month:

"It is safe to say that no plan has been suggested as a substitute for the rates adopted by the Supreme Council that has not already been considered by the Supreme Council and discarded because it lacked the elements of efficiency and permanency.

"An intimate knowledge of the membership justifies me in saying that the mistaken notions that the old man is being overburdened is rapidly disappearing. Members are beginning to realize that the purpose of the Supreme Council is to lay up a fund to meet the advancing mortality cost due to increasing age, and thereby avoid increasing the rate as the member grows older, or by additional assessments. They are also beginning to realize that the young man, under the new rates, is obliged to contribute toward the cost of carrying the man 65 years or older who is now a member of the order. This is easily understood when I tell you that the cost of carrying the man aged 72 for $3,000 is $203.97, and for the man of 82 it is $483.60, whereas the order collects from these old members only $192.96, the order paying the difference between the mortality cost and the amount collected.

"The using of the larger part of the young man's contributions to pay the mortuary obligations of those at the ages of 50 years and upwards is becoming better understood, and the policy of the Supreme Council requiring each age to bear its own burden of mortality cost, leaving the excess contributions to the younger men to care for the increasing cost when they advance in years, and thus prevent advancing the rate to the now young man when he becomes an old man, is being accepted as equitable and just."

Whatever the outcome of the Supreme Council's action is, it can be stated now that the intention to raise the rates has had a bad effect on the order that will be felt forever. Confidence in the Arcanum has been shaken and there is no telling what the outcome will be. To get down to real facts and figures, as given out by the Supreme Council, it will be seen that members are dropping out of the order by the thousands, while the number of applications for admission have dropped to almost nothing. For instance, during the month of July no less than 6,046 members have withdrawn from the order. This includes councils all over the country. Of this number 424 are from New Jersey.

The number of applications for admission in May were 2,947; June, 1,255, and 405 in July. These figures, also, are compiled from records received from every council in the country. In New Jersey the figures were: May, 168 applications; June, 81, and but 22 in July. There is no telling what the figures will be for August.

The approximate membership of the entire order on July 31 was 310,061. There were but 229 deaths during the month.

FIELD DAY FOR THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

PLAINFIELDERS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE COMPETITIVE DRILL.

An army of Knights of Pythias, 2,500 strong, will invade Newark on Labor Day, when the annual field day of the order will be held at Hillside Pleasure Park, Belleville. Delegations from every part of New Jersey, representing the uniform rank and subordinate lodges, will attend the meet, and extensive preparations are being made by the local lodges to entertain the visitors.

A feature of the big gathering will be the parade in the morning, when everyone of the visitors, in full dress uniform, it is expected will be in line. Brigadier-General William E. Hitchcock, of Newark, who has charge of the military arrangements of the day, has issued orders covering the formation and line of march. On their arrival in Newark the first sergeants of the various delegations will report to Assistant Adjutant-General John I. Main at the pagoda in Military Park. The line will form at 10:30 o'clock in West Park street, whence it will proceed to the junction of Belleville and Bloomfield avenues, where the parade will be dismissed. Trolley cars will be taken from this point to the park, where dinner will be served.

The competitive drill will be the attraction of the afternoon. Prizes of $50, $30 and $20 respectively will be given to the companies making the best showing. The competition will be confined to companies from Freehold, Plainfield, Jersey City, Elizabeth and Paterson. The brigadier-general, grand marshal and his staff will review the drill. Grand Chancellor G. W. Cowgill, of Paulsboro, will be the guest of honor. The various maneuvers, which the competing companies have been practising for some time, will occupy the remainder of the afternoon. The evening will be given over to dancing and other attractions offered by the park.

Word has been received by the local committe that delegations will be present from Jersey City, Trenton, Paterson, Camden, Asbury Park, Atlantic City, Long Branch, Red Bank, Morristown, Dover, Somerville, Newton, Phillipsburg, Hoboken and other cities.

The grand marshal of the parade, who was selected at a meeting of delegates from the several local lodges held at 26 West Park street, Thursday night, will be Arthur O. Smith, of St. Paul's Lodge. He will have as his aides George W. Robertson, James Waller, Frank Brand, Robert Haggerty and William Weinrich, all of Newark. The reception of the delegations and preliminary arrangements of the day are in the hands of George W. Robertson, deputy grand chancellor of district No. 3; Edgar H. Seal, secretary, and C. L. Sayres, treasurer.

OFFENDERS FINED.

Disorderly Quartette Contributes to Borough Treasury.

Joseph Packer, John Taylor, George Woodland and Edward King, the four young men arrested by Chief Marshal Weiss for disorderly conduct and creating a disturbance on Sunday morning, were given a hearing Monday before Recorder Doud. In addition to these men, Fred Drake was arrested on the same charge during the day by the Chief, and he was brought up at the same time with the others. All pleaded guilty as charged.

Each of the men except Taylor was given the choice of paying $5 fine or seven days in jail. Because he had given the borough authorities extra trouble in locating him, Taylor was given the choice of paying $10 or spending time in jail in proportion to the fine. All produced the coin and were released.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Maze Edwards returned home yesterday after spending a very delightful summer at Block Island, Newport and Providence, and they are now enjoying the best of health. Mr. Edwards will begin at once to prepare for a very active social season. During his absence the Casino has been entirely renovated and put in first class condition. Already a number of social affairs are being planned for the approaching fall and winter, and Mr. Edwards predicts that the season will be one of the best.

Crap Games Numerous.

The fondness of those who inhabit the swimming hole for that popular game of crap is becoming well known to the police, and Patrolman McCarthy now makes it a part of his duty to make frequent trips to the pool on Green brook. It is a poor day when he does not find nearly 100 men and boys of all sizes and age playing the game for various amounts.

A $6,500 Residence.

John McNally has been awarded contracts for the erection of a $6,500 house on West Seventh street, near Spooner avenue, for Joseph O'Keefe, and a $1,200 Queen Anne cottage on Rock avenue for Martin Phalen.

Bowlers On An Outing.

The bowling section of the Gesang and Turner association, of the borough, had an outing in the vicinity of Rahway on Sunday. A dinner was served at noon.

A SPECIAL ELECTION

Piscataway Township Officials Hope It Will Solve School Problem.

THE LATEST PLAN

Original Proposition To Erect a $20,000 Building Now Considered Extravagant.

The Board of Education of Piscataway township, at a meeting Monday, drafted a call for a special election to be held on Wednesday night, September 6, at 7 o'clock, at New Market, when propositions to purchase additional land and appropriate money for a new school house will be submitted to a vote of the taxpayers.

The plan is to purchase a lot adjoining that upon which the old school house stood, and known as the Farrier property, for $425, and the sum to be asked for the new building is $12,500. As these propositions are a compromise over former plans, it is confidently expected that they will be ratified by the voters.

While plans for the new building have not yet been drawn, the idea is to erect a four-room school house, which, it is believed, will meet the requirements of the township for some time to come. According to the last census there are 110 children of school age in this district, and the building proposed to be erected will accommodate 160 children. When the building is tested to its fullest capacity arrangements can be made to construct an addition to it, but this would not be necessary in several years.

The original proposition to erect a $20,000 school house at New Market is now considered by the Board of Education as unnecessary and extravagant and will not be discussed at further length.

Now that South Plainfield has arranged for the teaching of the higher grades, many pupils who formerly attended the New Market school will not be obliged to make that trip as heretofore.

NEW JERSEY MAY STOP HANGING MURDERERS

STATE AROUSED BY DR. MEURY'S DISCLOSURES IN THE GENTZ CASE.

As the result of the insistence by the Rev. E. A. Meury, of Jersey City, that Murderer Gentz, while he was swinging on the gibbet in the Hudson County Jail, signaled, by a prearranged movement of his fingers that he was still conscious, New Jersey is having an active agitation for the abolition of capital punishment. Several of the jurors summoned by Sheriff Zeller to witness the hanging of the negro Tapeley, who was to have been hanged in Jersey City last Friday, were so horrified by the minister's revelations that they notified the Sheriff that they would not attend, and declared themselves opposed to the infliction of the death penalty.

Dr. Meury is receiving letters from all over the State urging him to organize anti-capital punishment societies and promising him active support in the movement. Several of the ministers preached Sunday against capital punishment in general and hanging in particular.

This is not the first time, however, that the State has been aroused concerning the use of the gallows. When Mechella, a Russian sailor who in the early '70s killed United States Marshal Stevenson in a Jersey City street, was hanged—the first man to be hanged in Hudson county—his execution disclosed that a man could be conscious after the trap was swung. On that occasion the Sheriff sent invitations to hundreds of persons to attend the hanging. One of those who was present on that occasion said yesterday that after the murderer had been swung up in the air the rope parted over his head and he fell to the stone flagging of the jail yard. The Sheriff and his assistants rushed to him, and as they raised him to his feet he made a desperate effort to free his pinioned arms and pleaded for his life. The rope was readjusted and the man was drawn up and strangled. That execution aroused a storm of indignation throughout the State.

When Gentz was hanged the Rev. Mr. Meury said the dying man signaled to him after the drop. The disclosure attracted little attention at that time, and might not have attracted much now if the public mind had not been stirred by the efforts to save Mrs. Valentina, the Hackensack murderess, from the gallows.

Several members of the Legislature say they will offer bills at the coming session to discontinue the death penalty. A conference of several of them a few days ago considered the lines upon which such an act should be drawn. It was agreed that a life sentence would have no terror for murderers if there was any chance of pardon, and it is probable that the bill will provide that no one shall have power to pardon such prisoners.

SALAAM TEMPLE TO HAVE BIG OUTING

PLAINFIELD SHRINERS WILL ATTEND GATHERING AT NEWARK.

An event of unusual interest in Masonic circles will be the big outing of Salaam Temple, Ancient Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of Newark, and of which there are many Plainfield members, which is to be held at Olympic Park, Newark, on Wednesday, September 6. It is to be an all-day affair, and gives every indication of being equal to those famous outings of Mecca Temple, of New York.

It is expected that in the neighborhood of 1,000 persons will take part. All Masons will be welcome, and there will be many invited guests. Invitations have been accepted by Mecca Temple, of New York; Kismet, of Brooklyn, and Crescent, of Trenton. The arrangements are in general charge of the Arab Patrol of the temple, of which former Freeholder Solomon B. Beldelman is chief. As a special committee of arrangements the following have been chosen: Dr. J. M. Macdonald, chairman; G. O. Groebe, A. P. Pionnie, E. W. Pierson, Henry W. Egner, Jr., and Charles Goldinga. The nobles will wear their fezzes and thus give picturesque color to the occasion.

One of the features of the outing will be a baseball game in the afternoon on a diamond to be specially prepared for the event, between Northern and Oriental lodges, of Newark. At 6 o'clock dinner will be served and in the evening there will be a theatre party. A vaudeville performance which will be specially gotten up for the occasion and in which a number of Shriners will take part will be given in the Park Auditorium. One of the numbers will be the moving pictures taken on the last visit of Mecca Temple to Coney Island. Another feature of the evening will be a special electrical illumination. For the dinner the large upstairs dining room in the pavilion will be reserved, and after the theatrical performance the dance hall will be given over to the exclusive use of the Shriners and their guests. Members of the Patrol are to act as ushers.

This outing will mark the opening of Salaam Temple's season of social activity. Among the events to be held later is a theatre party at the Newark Theatre.

LITERARY.

The present criticism of legal ethics does not show that lawyers are morally below the rest of us. Probably they average higher than most occupations. The point is that a peculiarly high standard is required of them, if we are to be free to secure the laws we wish and their proper execution. We cannot do it while lawyers are led solely by the highest fee. In the last twenty years, Sing Sing has known about four hundred lawyers, and at present the Empire State has 193 in jail, with 16 under indictment in the County of New York. "This is Choate," said Wendell Phillips in 1859, "who made it safe to murder, and of whose health thieves asked before they ventured to steal." Phillips always spoke in violent terms, but the last part of his statement is relevant to too many leading attorneys of our day. We ask a great deal of this profession, by necessity. We ask even as much as Daniel Webster who, with his usual noble weight of style, said, "Tell me a man is dishonest, and I will tell you he is no lawyer."—Collier's for August 26, 1905.

The newspaper man looms big and strong in our vigorous modern life, taking often a man's part on many fields to which duty has sent him. Not too frequently, he is pictured effectively and justly in fiction by a pen that has had its training in actual newspaper work—the modern school of the novelist. We have a fine example of just this sort of intelligently vivid character drawing in a new story of action, "The Fortress," by a young newspaper man, Will Levington Comfort. This strong, human novel appears complete in the September issue of Lippincott's Magazine.

Mr. Comfort won his spurs in the States, and when he left the office of the Pittsburg Despatch to go to Manchuria as war correspondent he was chock-full of energy and bristling with experience. Of course, he succeeded, and all who followed the news columns will read with fascination the spirited tale of love and war that grew out of this young reporter's dash for Port Arthur. It breathes the air of battle. Its descriptions of assault, repulse, conquest, and famine are so faithfully pictorial that they form, really, a contribution to the inner history of the Russo-Japanese struggle.

Some merchants have to call for trade continually. Not Peck. It comes to him. A hint is sufficient to draw a steady stream of eager buyers to the West Front street store. They know the place for honest merchandise and a square deal.

Pure milk is more important in the dietary now than at any other season of the year. One of the likeliest agents for the promulgation of dysentery in child and man is impure or tainted milk. Get Marchant Brothers' milk and be safe.

THE SOMERSET ASPECT

Correspondent Says A. A. Clark May Be a Senatorial Candidate.

FURY TELLS IT.

Declares That Many Prominent Persons Throughout the County Have Asked Him to Stand For Nomination.

The Somerville correspondent of the Newark News sized up the political situation in Somerset county as follows yesterday:

"From a Democratic point of view there are ominous clouds hovering in the political skies of Somerset county, and that the coming campaign will be the hottest ever waged in the old red shale county is no longer considered a matter of doubt.

"Notwithstanding his public announcement, made some months ago at a dinner given by the Young Men's Club of a local church, to the effect that he had decided to abandon politics forever and give the young men a chance to gain some of the honors that politics offered, Alvah A. Clark is talked of as a possible Senatorial candidate this fall.

"This statement was made by Charles J. Fury, a prominent leader and close friend of Mr. Clark, while discussing the political situation with a reporter this morning. Mr. Fury said:

"'The Democratic candidate for State Senator will be Alvah A. Clark. I know this to be true, as many prominent persons throughout the county have asked him to become a candidate.'

"'Who are some of these persons?' Mr. Fury was asked.

"'I do not care,' he said, 'to divulge their names. However, I will say they are prominent in both parties.'

"'Is there any reason why Senator Childs should not be renominated?' he was asked.

"'Senator Childs,' Mr. Fury made answer, 'has many elements opposed to him because of his action on the local option measure which he introduced last fall. Then, again, he was instrumental in the recent county committe fight that almost split the party into factions. The Republicans have already the promise of support from the liquor dealers, and certain Republican leaders have been working up the local option question as a campaign slogan.'

"The foregoing statement is of more than usual significance from the fact that Fury has always been closely identified with Clark in political matters. It is also a well known fact that the Thompson Republicans intend to settle all scores with Colonel Frelinghuysen this fall, for, as they put it, the manner in which he treated former Senator Thompson in the fight last winter for the appointment of a prosecutor. John F. Reger, of Raritan, a follower of Frelinghuysen's, got the appointment, while J. L. Griggs, a Thompson man, was turned down.

"Clark and Thompson are political leaders of the old school. Their friends say they have both been badly used in the past two years by those from whom they had cause to expect better treatment, and it is probable that these two old generals will combine forces in the coming campaign to make their last stand.

"Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, makes no secret of his opposition to Colonel Frelinghuysen, whose defeat he helped to bring about three years ago. With the Thompson faction against him at Somerville and the Reed and Smalley faction here, Colonel Frelinghuysen, it is believed, will have the fight of his life on his hands."

AUTO PARTY BUMPS INTO A "JUNGBORN"

GETS QUITE A SURPRISE WHEN INMATE RUSHES OUT.

Paterson, Aug. 23.—An automobile party traveling through Butler got off the main road and after going some distance over a corduroy country road bumped into a ten foot stockade. The auto had no sooner stopped grunting than several men without shoes and stockings and their trousers rolled up to their knees rushed up to the auto party, and one of them said:

"You can't go in there. Don't you know that there are twenty nude women within taking sun and sand baths?"

Members of the auto party were skeptical until they were told that they had run upon the private grounds of "Jungborn," a settlement of nature lovers who are practising the simple life for the purpose of regaining health.

Benedict Lust, the director of "Jungborn," believes that people would not have to use medicine if they would place themselves in the care of nature when ill.

Many musicians are in the settlement and in the evening there are concerts in the bungalow. Literary and other exercises are also part of nightly amusement.

CANDLE AND BENZINE A BAD COMBINATION

THEIR MEETING RESULT SERIOUSLY FOR GEORGE DUFFORD.

George Dufford, of West Front street, one of the night gang at the Potter Printing Press Works, met with a painful accident last night with a painful accident Monday night several weeks. He was engaged in cleaning up one of the large double-deck web presses prior to painting it. He carried some benzine in one hand and a lighted candle in the other, and in walking from one end of the press to the other his foot slipped on a trap door, pitching him forward. The candle and benzine came together, and as a result Mr. Dufford's right hand was severely burned.

While the hand was enveloped in flames, Mr. Dufford tried to smother them by putting the hand under his left arm. In doing so the waist to his jumper caught fire and only after the greatest difficulty was he able to extinguish the flames. By this time the flesh on the hand was burned to a crisp. Mr. Dufford hastened to the office of Dr. M. B. Long and had the injured hand dressed.

BIG CALENDAR AWAITS THE MIDDLESEX COURT

TWO PLAINFIELD CASES AMONG THOSE TO BE HEARD.

New Brunswick, Aug. 22.—Prosecutor Berdine, of Middlesex county, has more cases of unusual interest to present to the Grand Jury when it meets September 5 than he has had at any time since he has been prosecutor. The cases to be investigated include cruelty to a little girl, killing of the wife of Freeholder Westphal in an automobile crash, shooting to death of a man at South Amboy, stabbing of man at Bonhamtown, attempted elopement of girl at Metuchen and the seduction of another Metuchen young woman by a Plainfield married man.

The first case of importance is that of Mrs. Laura Withington Monteith, of Kingston, the proprietor of a boarding house there and a woman whose acquaintances included the Clevelands and other well known people at Princeton, who was arrested and brought before Justice Sedam on the charge of cruelly beating her adopted daughter, Pearl, seven years old.

About the time this case came before the public an automobile accident happened at Dunellen in which a machine driven by William R. Stanbery and in which Mrs. Westphal was riding, crashed into a wagon driven by Oscar Harrison. Mrs. Westphal was fatally hurt. Both men have been arrested on charges of manslaughter and are now out on bail.

In a saloon at South Amboy Michael Mitchell, also known as Michael Stefal, was shot. The proprietor, Ludwig Goveyca, is charged with the murder. Goveyca alleges the shooting was accidental and Stafel signed a statement exonerating him.

At Bonhamtown Alexander Howarth, of this city, was stabbed by Stephen Klung in a fight near the hotel of Michael Fedak. Klung was arrested and brought to jail here and Howarth was taken to the hospital, where he is recovering.

Metuchen was the next town to attract attention when William Braun tried to elope last Thursday night with Miss Loise Gessler, a girl fifteen years of age. She packed her things, dropped her bag out of an attic window and jumped twenty-two feet to the ground from the cornice of the house. Her spine was injured and her sweetheart sent to jail on the charge of assault.

On Saturday, Lambert Edmonds, a married man with four children, living at Plainfield, planned to go away with Miss Anna Hubbell. He was arrested, charged with seduction by the girl. He is also in jail here.

PREPARING A BOOK ON BIBLE AS LITERATURE

PROF. EDWIN H. LEWIS HARD AT WORK ON IMPORTANT VOLUME.

Prof. Edwin H. Lewis, of the Lewis Institute Chicago, is preparing a volume on the literary aspect of the Bible. It will probably be ready for publication in the fall. Prof. Lewis has been at work on the book for four years. "During the summer," he wrote his father, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, recently, "I have been working fifteen hours a day on the book."

The book is the outgrowth of a course of fifteen lectures which the professor started to arrange for his class. Dr. Harper and other Chicago educators saw the work, and urged Prof. Lewis to put it into permanent form. The volume is to be called "A Sketch of the Bible." Scribners' will probably issue it.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. McVoy, of East Front street, have returned from a two weeks' stay in Atlantic City.

BROOK WIDENING RESTS

Opposition By Property Owners Causes Council To Halt Plans.

QUESTION OF COST

Belief Exists That the City as a Whole Should Be Assessed for the Improvement.

In view of the pronounced opposition by property owners to the proposed plan of the city to widen and deepen Cedar brook, so as to avoid the flooding of adjacent property in heavy rains, it is not likely that the matter will be taken up at present. In fact, definite plans for the improvement are not even prepared. At the last meeting of the Common Council a hearing was granted the interested property owners and many appeared to speak their objections to having the cost assessed on them. They believe that it should be borne equally by all taxpayers, inasmuch as it is an improvement to benefit a large area of the east end.

When Councilman Gloak was chairman of the street committee, it was his purpose to have this improvement made in connection with the building of the Richmond street sewer, proposed to carry off surface water, but the members could not see their way clear to do this. At that time it was proposed to assess taxpayers generally for the work and this met with approval. Now that the city plans to assess only those affected, there is strong opposition to the plan.

Mr. Fenno, one of those interested, offered several knotty problems at the hearing, which the officials had some difficulty in solving. He said that so far as he could learn the city desired to make the improvement so as to drain a much larger area, and if this be true, he thinks that the city at large should stand the expense. He contends that if the brook is properly cared for, its present capacity is large enough for the purpose for which it is intended. He also says that the city has not expended any money in keeping the brook and banks in repair, after it was walled by the abutting property owners. He thinks it should do this the same as in the case of macadamized roads, where property owners pay their proportionate share of the expense.

There is no doubt but that the proposed improvement will be made at some future time, but it is the opinion of many that a more equitable form of assessment will be adopted. Those now affected would not object to paying their share, but do not want to stand the entire expense, as suggested. One of the most important objectors to the present plan is the New Jersey Central, yet it is willing to share with the city in the cost, providing a general assessment is made.

Possibly some report will be made on the matter at the next meeting of the Common Council, and maybe some plan will be suggested that will meet the principal objections presented.

NO CONCERT FRIDAY.

Next Week Leader LaVere Will Have Double Programme.

For the first time since the series started early in the summer there will be no band concert this week. Bandmaster LaVere reached this conclusion today after considering the fact that a play will hold the boards at the new theatre and that there are minor attractions that would tend to make the music fest a side issue. A week from Friday he declares he will have a concert and a display of fireworks doubly as large as the one last week. He is now at work arranging the details with the pyrotechnic company.

The funds for the weekly concert have been exhausted and the probabilities are that the one next week may be the last for the season. It was hoped that they might be continued until the first of October.

TENNIS AT ELIZABETH.

M. H. Long and C. A. Briggs, of This City, to Play in Doubles.

The Bronx Tennis Club, with courts on Albert street, have made entries in the doubles tournament for the East Jersey challenge cup to be held on the courts of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club beginning August 29, and lasting until September 5.

Prizes will be given to the winners of first place and to the runners-up of the tournament. Monroe H. Long and Chester H. Briggs will represent the club in the doubles. While no entries have yet been made by the Bronx Club in the singles, it is probable that Briggs, who is now playing at Newport, will enter for the club.

Mr. Barkalew Improved.

Former Freeholder Lewis E. Barkalew, of Lincoln place, who was quite ill with dysentery, is much improved and is now able to be about the house.

Prof. Maxson Home.

School Superintendent Henry M. Maxson has returned to his home on West Seventh street after a stay at Grove, Hamilton county, N. Y.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1905. NO. 36.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Corner the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison

SALOON LIMITATION PASSED OVER MAYOR'S VETO

Councilman Tyler's "Quarantine" Ordinance Carried Again By Vote of 6 to 4.

MR. TYLER'S IDEA

Chief Executive's Objections to the Measure Met By Answer From Its Sponsor.

Keeping his promise, Mayor James F. Buckle vetoed the "quarantine ordinance," which was recently adopted and provides that the sale of liquor shall be restricted to the business section and at the September meeting of the Common Council last night he presented his objections to the ordinance. Later when Mr. Tyler sought to have the ordinance passed over the Mayor's head, Councilman Gloak moved to amend the motion by having the ordinance referred to the corporation counsel for a written opinion, as suggested by Mr. Buckle. This amendment was lost by a vote of seven to three, Councilmen Bullock, Hibbard, Higham, Murphy, Tyler, Wilson and Daniel voting in the negative, and Councilmen Gloak, Frank DeW. Randolph and Tolles voting in the affirmative.

Then Mr. Tyler's motion to pass the ordinance over the veto was taken and Councilmen Bullock, Hibbard, Higham, Murphy, Tyler and Wilson voted in favor, while Councilmen Gloak, Frank DeW. Randolph, Tolles and Daniel voted against it.

After Mayor Buckle presented his objections, Mr. Tyler moved that the same be spread in full on the journal of the meeting of the Common Council, as prescribed by ordinance, announcing that it was his intention to move that the ordinance be passed over the veto, it being absolutely necessary that some affirmative or negative action only be taken at this meeting. Mr. Tyler took exception to Mr. Gloak's amendment, stating that he had no power to amend, and in regard to obtaining the opinion of the corporation counsel, he said that he had gone over the ordinance with Mr. Marsh, spending many hours with him, and that it was drafted in Mr. Marsh's office and he said that it was unnecessary to refer the ordinance to him.

The full text of Mayor Buckle's objections to the passage of the ordinance follows:

To the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen—Herewith I return, with my objections, the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to amend the ordinance entitled 'An ordinance to license inns and taverns, and to regulate and prohibit the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors,' approved February 16, 1905, as amended," which ordinance was adopted by your honorable body, August 7, 1905, and presented to me August 8.

My objections are as follows:

"First. I am advised that the proposed ordinance would be, to say the least, of doubtful legality, and that it would result in serious legal complications and expensive litigation.

"It has been said that two other cities in other States than New Jersey have adopted such ordinances. But, I am advised that such cities doubtless have charter provisions or statutes from which may legally justify their action.

"Certainly the legality of the proposed ordinance should be passed upon by our corporation counsel and his opinion placed on record before final action is taken.

"Second. Even if it were established that Plainfield has lawful authority to enact such an ordinance, I still think it objectionable for many reasons, a few of which I will mention.

"The proposed ordinance attempts to confine licensed places within extremely narrow limits, and to prevent the Common Council from considering any application for a license outside of that district, which would have always been opposed to granting licenses in residential sections of our city, as many recent years will show, have always been exceedingly conservative on the question of increasing any new place. Yet I firmly believe that it is the duty of the Council to receive every application which reasonably and regularly before it from any part of the city, and to give each application consideration on separately. In my view the Council is bound to exercise its best judgment and sound discretion in every instance, granting such applications as may seem to it should be granted, and refusing all others. The proposed ordinance limits such discretion, except within a single district, which includes only about one-fortieth part of our municipality.

"It is also doubtful if the authority that negotiations for the sale of the Netherwood Hotel property are about concluded. It is further stated that the purchaser intends spending large sums of money on the property and will make it a first-class hotel open all the year. If this be true, the proposed ordinance would not only prevent the granting to that hotel of a license to sell liquor, but would prevent the Common Council from ever granting such a license at all.

"No matter how many nor how good the reasons, nor how unanimous the sentiment in favor of the granting of license, the hands of the Council would be tied and it would not have the legal power or the duty which the Legislature has reposed in it, namely to hear and determine whether the application should be granted under these circumstances be granted or refused.

"Third. A few years ago it was decided by the voters of the city, by a substantial majority, that the present system of licenses was satisfactory. So far as I know there has been no issue on the subject submitted to the people since, and if public sentiment on the subject has undergone any radical change we have no evidence of it.

"Ever since the city charter was granted the Common Council has granted, or refused licenses in its discretion. This body has always been free to exercise the

(Continued on Page 5.)

PETER M. DEMAREST DEAD

One Time Leading Grocer of The City Passes Away at Syracuse, N. Y.

WAS 81 YEARS OLD

Leaves Widow and Three Children —Body to Be Brought Here for Interment.

A telegram received in Plainfield last evening, conveyed to relatives and friends in the city and borough word of the death of Peter M. Demarest, for many years one of the leading local business men and a resident until May, 1903. His demise occurred at the home of his son, Albert W. Demarest, of Syracuse, N. Y., at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, and was due to a third paralytic stroke which affected him Saturday. The body will be brought to Plainfield and interred in the family plot at Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Demarest was born at Passaic eighty-one years ago and when a young man engaged in the grocery business. Retiring from this field he became a ship chandler and later conducted a "Yankee notion" house on Canal street, New York. He disposed of his interests to engage in the grocery business in this city in 1879. He opened a store in the old Stillman block on West Front street and his trade increased so rapidly he was forced to move to larger quarters in what is now the Marsh building on Park avenue. He was a thorough, practical business man and at one time his establishment was the largest and most up-to-date grocery house in the city. He retired from the field five years ago and lived quietly with his daughter, Mrs. P. Newton Drake, of Somerset street. At the request of his son, Albert, he and his wife went to Syracuse to live two years ago and they had been there since that time.

Though a wide-awake citizen, Mr. Demarest never held public office but was an enthusiastic member of the Washington Fire Guard. At the death being a member of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., and Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T. He was also a member of Trinity Reformed church and an exempt fireman, having been connected with Zephyr Company. He and Mrs. Demarest, who survives him, were devoted to each other and their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary was observed quietly last New Year's eve. Their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated at their home in the borough and was a brilliant affair.

Besides his widow there are surviving him, two daughters, Mrs. Frank A. Church, of East Orange, and Mrs. Newton Drake, of the borough, and one son, Albert W. Demarest, of Syracuse. There are also six grandsons and one granddaughter, Miss Elsie Drake, of the borough; a third daughter, Mrs. S. L. Fraser, died at her home in Chicago a year ago last March and the body was brought to Plainfield for interment.

WILL MEET AT CASINO.

Muhlenberg Governors Accepts Offer From Maze Edwards.

Meetings of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held in future at the Casino, instead of the library. The privilege of using the Casino was tendered to the Board at its regular meeting last night, in a communication from Maze Edwards, the lessee.

The Board accepted the offer with thanks. The members expressed high appreciation of Mr. Edwards' action.

The report of the medical staff of the hospital for August was as follows: Remaining from previous month, 30; admitted, 59; total, 89; discharged, cured, 54; improved, 2; not improved, 2; died, 1; remaining, 30; hospital days, 1,010; average, 33; dispensary patients treated, 52; visits of patients, 130; operations, 6.

Entertained Old Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stephany, of Summit avenue, enjoyed a visit from their old time friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. Basch and their son and daughter, of New York and London, last night. Mr. Mortimer, another visitor, entertained with English operatic airs on the piano; Henry Stephany gave phonograph selections and August Stephany rendered mandolin solos. A supper was served in conclusion.

Mrs. Harrison Dead.

Mrs. Anannelis Harrison, wife of George Harrison, aged fifty-four years, died last night at her home near New Dover, from heart trouble. The funeral services will be held from the New Dover church on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

COUNCIL'S ROUTINE WORK

Large Budget of Minor Matters Disposed of at Last Night's Meeting.

SEVERAL PETITIONS

Chairman Bullock Reports Progress in East End Fire House Project—West End Wants Another School.

Besides the several important matters taken up by the Common Council at the September meeting last night, there was a large budget of matters of less importance. Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of twenty-three permits during August. Mayor Buckle appointed S. D. Frazee and F. L. Ingram to vacancies in the call system of the fire department. Corporation Counsel Marsh gave an opinion regarding Mrs. Mary Skillman's request to have Midway avenue graded, stating that the avenue in question was formerly on the line of the New Jersey Central, but that there is no ordinance which will provide for the grading. He advised that the matter rests with the judgment of the Common Council.

A communication was received from the Board of Assessors notifying the Common Council of the death of Daniel S. Pope, an assistant in the office of Tax Collector Lee, and recommending that Frank M. Dunham be appointed to the position, stating that he has knowledge of the work of the office and was willing to accept it at the same salary. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

A communication was received from Margaret A. Burke, who sustained injuries at Grant avenue and West Fourth street, where the streets are being graded, informing the Common Council that she would settle with the city for $32. Later Mr. Tolles offered a resolution accepting the offer and authorizing the drawing of a warrant in payment. The settlement is to be approved by the corporation counsel.

Other resolutions offered by Mr. Tolles, which were adopted, transferred $1,000 from the general to the fire fund, confirmed the report of the sewer commissioners on assessments for benefits and damages and provided for the borrowing of $8,000 in connection with sewer improvements now in progress.

In response to a request from Contractor C. M. Meeker, who is macadamizing certain streets in the west end of the city, an extension of time was granted to him to November 15, to complete the work.

Mr. Bullock, chairman of the fire and buildings committee, reported progress in the proposed matter of securing a fire house in the east end of the city, and in to the petition from Chief Doane, asking for the Common Council's co-operation in the organization of a pension association, he stated that the association had been organized by electing Chief Doane chaigman; Captain James Daly, secretary, and Assistant Andrew B. Jennings as treasurer. Mr. Bullock also reported on the petition of residents for a hydrant at Woodland avenue and Clark street, and moved that the same be granted, adding that the committee had had the matter under consideration.

A resolution by Mr. Bullock rescinded the resolution previously adopted appropriating $150 as expenses for Street Commissioner Gavett for his trip to Toledo, Ohio, which he did not take owing to the illness of an assistant.

For the purpose of considering in private the plans of the Mono Investing Company, which seeks permission to build a storage house on Fillmore avenue, a twenty-five minute recess was taken, but nothing was accomplished. The matter will come up at another meeting.

On motions offered by Mr. Murphy a light was ordered placed at Randolph road and Madison avenue, and another at Leland avenue and East Seventh street.

On motion offered by Mr. Tolles offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for an appropriation of $1,000 on account of sewer work. Mr. Wilson presented the contract between the city and Richardson & Paston, who have the contract for the sewer work at the sewage farm, stating that it has been approved by the corporation counsel, and he moved that the original contract be filed with the city clerk and a copy filed at Elizabeth, which was done.

On motion by Mr. Wilson, the ordinance providing for the Richmond street storm sewer was placed on third reading and adopted. He then introduced the matter relative to the widening of Sycamore street, stating that it had been impossible to make an amicable agreement with the interested property owners. In view of this, George J. Tobin, H. W. Marshall and Armstrong Mulford were appointed commissioners to assess

(Continued on Page 8.)

BURGLAR DISAPPOINTED

Found Nothing He Wanted After Prowling All Through House.

WAS LUCKY, AT THAT

Women of Family Next Door Heard Him Break In, But Were Afraid to Start Investigation.

Sometime about 9 o'clock Monday night the family of Charles W. Eoff, of 113 Crescent avenue, heard the crash of breaking glass from the house of James W. Jackson, next door. The Jackson house has been vacant since June, when the family went to the country. Mrs. Eoff and the servants knew that something was wrong, but Mr. Eoff was not at home and the family feared to investigate. For some reason they failed to notify the police of the occurrence.

Mr. Eoff, who had been out of town, arrived home last night. Mrs. Eoff told him of the noise, and he immediately went over to the Jackson place. He found a cellar window smashed, and plenty of evidence that somebody had forced an entrance. Mr. Eoff telephoned his discovery to the home of L. M. Frends, of Craig place, a friend of Mr. Jackson. It happened that Mr. Jackson had arrived in town yesterday morning and was staying at the Frenchs. He hurried to his house, after notifying the police.

Mr. Jackson, Sergeant Frederickson and Roundsman Flynn went over the house together. They found the trail of the burglar all through the place, but as far as Mr. Jackson could see, not a thing was missing. All the silver was in a safe deposit vault. The thief very evidently searched for things of value in compact form, and held to a determination not to be burdened with clothing, pictures or things of that character. There was considerable clothing in sight.

The thief smashed open two doors, in the kitchen and butler's pantry to make his way upstairs. He seemed to have been a considerate robber, because he broke nothing else and did no further damage, although his disappointment over the absence of valuables of the sort he wanted must have been keen. He opened all the bureau drawers and closets he could reach, strolled in the furniture covers and shifted mantel ornaments, apparently in a search for keys to strong-boxes or desks. He left a new chisel, with which the forcing of the window and locks was done, behind him.

Sergeant Frederickson said this morning that pursuit of the thief was almost hopeless. He left no clues and too much time had elapsed between the crime and the notification of the officers. Mrs. Eoff had telephoned the police when she heard the crash Monday night the thief would have been caught red-handed.

SEEKS BENEFIT OF NEW HOSPITAL TAX

MUHLENBERG ASKS THAT PEOPLE BE ALLOWED TO VOTE ON IT.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, wishing to take advantage of the new State law which gives cities of Plainfield's class an opportunity of deciding whether they want to be taxed a minigum amount each year for the maintenance of the hospital, communicated with the Common Council at the September meeting, last night, requesting that a referendum clause be attached to the ballots at the next election.

Intimation of this action was published in The Daily Press a month ago, it being learned that the Board of Governors proposed to take advantage of the new law with the consent of the city. In order to do so the permission of the Common Council must be obtained first and that body can authorize the referendum clause.

The Common Council now appropriates $1,500 a year for the care of the indigent poor, and it is for this purpose that the Board of Governors seek to secure a revenue from a general tax, which it intimates would amount to one-third of a mill on each taxpayer.

It was decided to refer the matter to the finance committee, with the idea of taking it up at the October meeting. This will give the Common Council time to authorize the referendum if it decides best.

—The canaling season is now at its height, and Neuman Brothers are meeting the demands for peaches with the very best quality of white and yellow fruit. The prices are 65 cents, 75 cents, 85 cents and $1.00.

ORDER NEW QUARANTINE

Cerebro-Spinal Meningitis Classified as Contagious.

HEALTH BOARD'S WORK

House-to-House Sanitary Inspection of 531 Dwellings in August—Record for August.

During the month of August there were but few cases of contagious diseases reported, according to the reports submitted at the September meeting of the Board of Health yesterday, there being seven in all, with one death from diphtheria. The source of infection could not be learned. At present there are but two cases of contagious disease under quarantine.

Recent observations have shown that the bacilli of cerebro-spinal meningitis is found in the nasal secretions of infected persons, and the Board of Health has classified this disease as among those contagious. In the future this disease will be reported by the physician, quarantined and the premises disinfected.

On September 1 the house to house inspection was stopped, but during August 531 houses were inspected, with the following results:

Total number of houses inspected, 531; privy vaults found, 334; cesspools found, 266; privy vaults which required cleaning, 139; cesspools which required cleaning, 41; abandoned privy vaults not properly filled, 29; abandoned cesspools not properly filled, 17; driven wells found, 168; dug wells found, 4; defective plumbing systems found, 16; unsanitary cellars found, 11; chicken yards found, 90; privy vaults too near well, 33; cesspools too near well, 39; houses apparently overcrowded, 1; accumulations of garbage, 15; accumulations of ashes, 9; accumulations of ashes mixed with garbage, 15; accumulations of manure, 12; accumulations of manure mixed with garbage, 1.

The inspection during the month covered the territory bounded by South Second street, Grant avenue, West Fifth street and Clinton avenue, also South avenue, Woodland avenue, Watchung avenue and East Seventh street. Because of the delay of the plumbers in doing their work, we shall be obliged to discontinue any farther house to house inspection during the year.

During August there were reported four marriages, twenty-five births, four still births and thirty-five deaths, a total of sixty-five in all.

QUORUM ELUDED TWO FAITHFUL MEMBERS

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS MAKE FUTILE TELEPHONIC HUNT FOR COLLEAGUES.

Lack of a quorum compelled the postponement of the regular meeting of the Board of Education last night for the second time this month. It was decided to put the meeting off until Monday night on account of the holiday. Last night only two of the members appeared.

They were Charles F. Abbott and R. M. Cave. Superintendent Maxson and Clerk Clark were present also. After waiting for the appearance of one of their colleagues, to complete the quorum, for twenty minutes beyond the regular time for opening, the two faithful members began a telephonic hunt for the absentees. Within five minutes they discovered that all the rest of the board were out of town.

They tried to reach Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the board, first. They learned that he had left for a month's stay in Maine early in the evening. That was the first the members had heard of the president's trip. L. N. Lovell, who has been staying in Northfield, Massachusetts, was unable to get back to town on account of the floods. From F. T. Woodhull's house came the information that he had come down from his cottage at Lake Hoptacong Monday night, under the impression that a meeting was to have been held. He went back to bed after discovering that no session was slated. There is something of a joke on Mr. Woodhull in this, because it was at his suggestion that the meeting was put off from Monday night to last night.

When the last telephone message was received, Mr. Abbott, who ranks Mr. Cave in seniority of service, gave a sigh of resignation.

"I guess we'll have to put the meeting off for another week," he said, and the clerk was so instructed.

Schools Open Tuesday.

The public schools of the city and borough will reopen on Tuesday morning, September 11.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP ELECTION ON SEPT. 26

MR. LEE IS A CANDIDATE

Official Announces That He Will Run Independently For Collectorship.

SUPPORT PROMISED

Says That His Only Offense Is That His Brother-in-law Does as He Likes in Council—Aggressive Fight Ahead.

"I want you to announce for me," said Tax Collector Robert L. Lee to a representative of The Daily Press, "that I am a candidate to succeed myself as collector." Mr. Lee, it is said, will be turned down for nomination by the Republicans because of his having displeased the machine. Consequently his declaration that he will become a candidate independently makes the political situation all the more interesting.

In the interview, Collector Lee said that he will seek an independent nomination and will lay his case before the people. He declared that his only offense had been that he happens to have a brother-in-law, meaning Councilman J. Stephen Higham, who has acted contrary to the machine's wishes. Mr. Lee disclaims any responsibility for Councilman Higham's course and adds that he has not tried to influence him in any way.

It is reliably reported that Thomas Hanna, late supervisor of census statistics, will be the organization's candidate for the office, but this cannot be confirmed. That an aggressive campaign will be waged can be forecasted from the work being done by the Independent clubs in the city.

Last night the Fourth Ward Republican club held a meeting held at the home of Edward Beekman, in Oxford place, passed an important resolution in this connection. It instructed its delegations, if elected, to support Mr. Lee's candidacy both within and without the convention. In addition it pledged the assistance of all its members to the same end.

The club will hold another meeting at Mr. Beekman's tonight to take further steps in the interest of Collector Lee's campaign.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Ben Mumford Gives Phonographic Party.

In celebration of the anniversary of his birthday, yesterday, Benjamin Mumford, of Arlington avenue, assisted by his daughter, Miss Mary Mumford, entertained a few friends, which is his annual custom. This year Mr. Mumford entertained a small company of friends, including Chief and Mrs. T. O. Doane, Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus O. Doane, Jr., and Hervey K. Doane. A feature of the affair was a phonograph concert, given by Mr. Mumford on his fine machine, and a elaborate supper.

During the evening Mr. Mumford related his experiences as a member of the old New York Volunteer Fire Department, which was listened to with a great deal of interest. Mr. Mumford received the congratulations of all for many happy returns of the day.

MARTIN ACT SALE.

Borough Buys in Six of the Properties.

The sale of properties belonging to delinquent taxpayers in North Plainfield was held yesterday, at the office of Tax Collector George F. Brown. Only six properties were left to be sold, and all were bought in by the borough. There were forty names advertised for the delinquent tax list of 1904, and all but six paid up. Following is the list of properties sold yesterday:

Margaret M. Currie, Westervelt avenue, $51.39; E. J. Foard, Grove street, $14.20; O. K. Land Company, Pearl street, $31.32; H. S. Pond, Willow avenue, $85.37; Gustaf Ruppert, Steifler place, $11.75; R. A. Seaman, Rock avenue, $7.12.

Festival Postponed.

Because of the arrangements that have to be made for the special meeting of Mispah Lodge, No. 1, Odd Ladies, on Monday, September 11, the peach festival that was to have been held last night by members of the lodge was indefinitely postponed. Mrs. Mary Simpson, instructor of Odd Ladies, of Boston, will pay an official visit to the local order on Monday night.

Boards of Registry Busy.

The members of the boards of election and registry in the city and borough started yesterday their work of making a house to house canvass of the voters.

—O'Reilly's dancing class reopens tonight. Ladies, 15c.

City Control of Water Plant to Be Decided at Polls.

COMMON COUNCIL ACTS

Polls to Be Open from 11 in the Morning Until 7 at Night —One Dissenting Vote.

Following up previous action relative to the city acquiring its own water works, Councilman Higham, chairman of the Public Affairs committee, offered a resolution at the September meeting of the Common Council last night which provides for a special election to be held on Tuesday, September 26, when the citizens of Plainfield will be given an opportunity to vote in favor or against the proposed plan of having a municipal form of water supply.

The resolution which was adopted does not necessarily pledge the city to purchase the Plainfield Water Company's plant or any other, should the vote favor the plan, but it gives the city the right to acquire by purchase or condemnation proceedings or by establishing its own plant, a water supply.

Mr. Higham made extended remarks concerning the matter, explaining it in detail. The election will be held on September 26, at the usual polling places. The polls will be open from 11 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night, and the resolution provides that notice of the election must be advertised six days prior to the election.

The vote on the resolution all the members present but President Daniel voted in favor.

Three years ago the question of acquiring the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company was before the Common Council in convention. In addition it pledged the assistance of all its members to the same end.

The club will hold another meeting at Mr. Beekman's tonight to take further steps in the interest of Collector Lee's campaign.

CAPT. MARTIN MAKES A PERFECT SCORE

BUT LOSES MATCH AT SEA GIRT ON ANOTHER RANGE.

Capt. W. B. Martin, head of Company K, made a perfect score on the 600-yard range at Sea Girt yesterday morning, in the inspectors' match. He shot fifty out of a possible fifty, the only score of the kind made on the range since it was opened two weeks ago.

Despite this brilliant shooting, however, he lost the match. Lieut. Casey, of the Seventy-first Regiment, New York, who made forty-seven at 600 yards, scored forty-eight at 800 yards, and Capt. Martin was unable to score more than forty at the longer range. He finished even with two others for second place in the totals at ninety. Both the other ninety men scored better than he did, of course, on the 800-yard range.

The inspectors' match is open to inspectors and former inspectors of rifle practice. Capt. Martin is considered one of the best shots in the country. His comparative fluke at the 800-yard range is a surprise and a disappointment to his company.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the rooms on Madison avenue. This will be the last meeting before the annual session.

Plan Lawn Fete.

A number of Plainfield women interested in the Netherwood Fresh Air Home are planning to hold a lawn fete for its benefit on the lawn of O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, on Thursday, September 21.

FINAL CONCERT PLEASES

Big Crowd Enjoys La Vere's Programme of Music. and Fireworks

PARKER MAKES HIT

Vocalist Who Appeared Here for First Time Leaps Into Popular Favor—Pyrotechnics Best Yet.

Band music and fireworks, no matter whether they be of the ten cent or the twenty-five cent variety, are popular with the city and borough people. The fact was demonstrated at Concert Park Friday when Ben LaVere's last big programme of the season was witnessed by just as large a crowd as gathered at any time during the year, though it cost everyone a quarter to go on the stand. The hustling leader of the band had promised that the finale would be a grand affair and it certainly was. The music was "all the goods" and the pyrotechnic display exceeded anything seen locally in years.

The instrumental numbers of the music end of the affair were all new and they were all good. Louis Anderson gathered rounds of applause for his cornet solos and the band as a whole outdid itself in giving the popular descriptive, "Going to the Hunt." Three vocalists had been announced but "Billy" Murray was kept away because of a cold and only Nick Parker and Eddie Weston appeared. Parker is a newcomer locally but no singer who has been here this season made a more instantaneous hit. As a balladist he is a topnotcher and his rendition of "Every Little Bit Helps" showed that he can do coon shouting with any of them. If Ben LaVere has another series next year and doesn't have Parker at every concert he will never be forgiven. Eddie Weston was right on his job too, and beside rendering the numbers allotted him, very obligingly filled in for "Billy" Murray. He gave a new waltz song, "Starlight," that is sure to be whistled for weeks to come.

The fireworks comprised eighteen set pieces, many of them of entirely new designs. An American flag that blazed for several minutes in a wealth of color, roused the crowd's patriotic fervor and the entire stand stood up and cheered while the band played appropriate airs.

There was a wealth of aerial affairs also that revealed lots of pretty designs and emitted not a few terrific explosions. The end came with a grand jamboree, in which bombs burst and rockets and sizzlers flew about to demonstrate the fall of Port Arthur or the seismic disturbance that worried Portsmouth shortly after the peace treaty was agreed upon.

Altogether, Ben LaVere gave the people what they wanted, and everybody went away from Concert Park fully confident that they had gotten their money's worth.

WILLIE TOOK THEATRE TICKET

As Collateral for a Debt, He Alleges, but Judge Doubts.

Willie Peel, fourteen years old, was arrested last night for taking a twenty-five cent ticket to the theatre away from thirteen-year-old Charles Fay. Willie told Judge Runyon this morning that he was only collecting collateral for a debt.

"He owed me fifteen cents, and said he wouldn't pay up, an' I took the ticket away from him."

Charles denied all knowledge of a debt.

"Sure, he owes it to me," insisted Willie. "I lent him a dime at the swimmin' pool an' he promised to gimme fifteen cents."

Charles refused to admit that there was a shadow of a debt, and Judge Runyon decided that there was no palliation at all for Willie's brigandage.

"Willie," he said, "you come here oftener than a boy should, and not for merely boyish pranks. I know that every cent counts at your home, but I'll make this thing cost you a dollar."

Willie was forced to sit in the coop until his mother ransomed him. She took him out by the ear.

WELL TO KNOW.

Boiled cauliflower will be much whiter if placed in the saucepan head down, to insure their submersion.

A good way of cleaning oilcloth is to sponge it well with skim milk, as it brightens and preserves the color, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

A cooking thermometer is nowadays an essential possession of the up-to-date cook, and these handy little registering instruments are to be had in most housefurnishing shops.

Okra may be cooked until it is tender and then be sliced and served with a white sauce and used as a vegetable, or it may be covered with French dressing and do duty as a salad. It also may be added to the vegetable salad mixture.

During the season of autumn house parties it is incumbent on a hostess to perform her duties of hospitality with the utmost urbanity. It is no longer a question of being amiable for a few hours to people invited to dinner, or to an evening party. Every moment must be devoted to promoting the comfort, pleasure and satisfaction of her visitors.

MURDER SUSPECT FREED

Negro Arrested on Suspicion at Pond's Vindicates Himself.

OPPOSITE OF BAD

Henry Pierce, Victim of Suspicious Circumstances and His Own Caution, is Honest Workingman.

Henry Pierce, colored, twenty-five years old, was arrested while at work in the Pond Tool Works foundry yesterday, upon suspicion of being a fugitive murderer from Haverstraw, N. Y. The suspicion faded away by court time Saturday, and Henry was released after a brief hearing before Judge Runyon to cover the formalities of the case.

The murder was that of a police officer, who was taking part in a general disarmament of the big negro colony in Haverstraw. One of the negroes shot his officer dead as he approached him to search for weapons. This was on August 19.

Pierce was working in a Haverstraw brickyard at the time. He has a wife in this city, and has been in the habit of coming to see her every two or three weeks. When he heard of the shooting he decided it was time for all colored men to get out. He feared a general uprising against the blacks.

He reached town the next day. A few days later he got work in the Pond shop. He was known to have come from Haverstraw and made some reference to the murder. Other negroes began to spread the story that he was the murderer, and it reached the ears of the police.

Sergeant Frederickson and Roundsman Flynn went after him yesterday morning. He made no attempt to escape, and told his story simply. The sergeant put him through the third degree and could wring nothing incriminating out of him. Chief Kiely was sent for, and he tried his brand of third degree with no better success.

An attempt to reach Haverstraw by telephone failed on account of some kink in the wire, and the Chief wired the New York officers to communicate with him in regard to the case. They wired back that a telephone message might be looked for today.

Chief Kiely didn't wait for the message. He had been investigating Pierce's story at this end, and he learned enough to convince him that the man was a little more than honest. He was highly spoken of at the foundry and his wife said he was a good deal better as a husband than any other negro she ever heard of.

Pierce was arraigned before Judge Runyon as soon as the city court opened. The magistrate listened to his story without interruption, and told him courteously, after it was ended, that he might go.

"I would jus' like you gentlemen to know one thing," said Pierce as he picked up his hat; "I knows you all have money but I'd be willin' to pay for it. I wishes you would write to Gates county, Carolina, to Sunbury and get some of my recommendations. They sayed I was afraid to go back to Haverstraw, but I'm goin' back tomorrow to see some frien's I lef' there. There's nothin' against me there."

INCENDIARY FIRE AT RIVERSIDE PARK

WELL-KNOWN AMUSEMENT PLACE SUSTAINS $3,800 DAMAGES.

A fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed the refreshment building and damaged the dancing pavilion at Riverside Park early Friday mornin. The early discovery of the fire by a trolley man and the quick work of Edward H. Radel, who lives directly opposite, and a bucket brigade, saved the dancing pavilion from entire ruin and also kept the flames away from the theatre. Charles L. May, of the firm of Glatt & May, the lessees of the park, thinks that someone who is jealous of this firm's success is responsible for the fire, and offers a reward of $100 for the conviction of the firebug.

There was no insurance on any part of the burned buildings. The refreshment building had been erected by Mrs. Rose Bowman, of Burnet street, New Brunswick, and is said to have cost $600. It was well stocked and had a soda fountain in it. The loss to Mrs. Bowman is estimated at $2,000. The dancing pavilion was damaged to the extent of $1,800.

Cannot Expect Too Much.

The Cape May Herald says that Assemblyman Hildreth will be renominated at the coming primaries for a third term. Mr. Hildreth was one of the strong members and his return will be a good thing for Cape May and for the House, but the Herald's idea that he will be a candidate for Speaker is a little off. Camden will get the Presidency of the Senate, and South Jersey cannot expect to get both presiding officers.—Jersey City Journal.

BOROUGH COUNCIL HAS A DULL SESSION

PRACTICALLY NO BUSINESS AT REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING.

Next to nothing happened at the monthly meeting of the Borough Council last night. The body has rarely held a duller session, even in the heart of summer.

To begin with there was barely a quorum present, and the meeting was twenty minutes late in starting. Scarcely more than ten minutes sufficed to transact all the business. Councilmen VanArsdale, Arnold and Krewson and the Mayor were present.

An invitation to attend a fair to be held for the benefit of the building fund was received from the Saengerbund. The organization asked the Mayor and the whole Honorable Council to attend the affair some night, preferably the opening night, October 9, and make some speeches.

Councilman VanArsdale, to whom the communication was referred, made a motion later to accept the invitation, and set the first night as the date of the visit.

"I can go that night," he said, "how about the rest of you?"

"I'll go with you," said the Mayor promptly. "The only thing about it is that I'm a candidate, and candidates aren't supposed to make speeches.

"Is there any objection to this from the Citizens' party? he asked Mr. Krewson.

"I guess not," responded the lone representative of the Cits, after brief consideration.

"Then the motion goes through unanimously."

Brooks Carson was appointed to a vacancy in the fire department as call man. The appointment was confirmed, and Carson was sworn in immediately after the session.

For the street committee, Councilman Arnold reported that general street work had cost the borough $155.80 during the month of August. Fifteen dollars and fifty cents was spent for crushed stone for Somerset street.

Nobody was sent to the county jail from the borough during August. Councilman VanArsdale's report for the police committee disclosed that interesting fact. The other features of the report were: Seventeen arrests; two suspensions of sentence; and $101 in fines.

Adjournment was taken with a hurry-up vote. After the meeting the administration lawmakers went to the theatre. They only missed part of the first act.

DENMAN'S SUGGESTION FOR A PENNANT DESIGN

HAS A VIVID IDEA AS TO HOW THE RAG SHOULD LOOK.

Charlie Denman, otherwise known as "The Dove of Peace," has some rosy ideas regarding the design for the pennant to be presented to the winner of the Plainfield-Westfield series, and this is the way he describes it:

"The body should be of bright red—in fact, the most brilliant hue obtainable—denoting the gory fields on which the victories have been fought. In the centre a large ball surrounded by a broad-band of black, signifying that it is dead, to celebrate victory No. 2. On the side next the halyards should be life size portraits of umpires Merity and Henning standing over home plate, with 'Happy Pete' Kiernan and Micky Flynn sliding for the plate, Henning with his hands outstretched showing Flynn is relegated to the rear, and Merity, standing over Kiernan, who waves a miniature pennant bearing the legend, 'Safe at home, the victory's won.' The tail piece could represent a Chinese dragon, with Wall and his bat and Waller and his lead ball and other foreign devils on the Westfield team floating around in space chasing ten apples, with Captain Mallen holding a bright rosy ripe one in his hand, to denote the victory won.

"In the centre the words, 'Champions 1905,' with the following quotation: 'The team ought to go to Cuba.' Of course there are dissenters who will not agree to this, but suggestions have been made that the phrase ought to refer to Merity, and the country should be a little farther off, so there would be no danger of his returning to inflict the public with his self-made and partisan decisions.

"These hints are all that have occurred to our baseball fiend to date, but as the games progress further embellishments may be added."

Results Would Be Beneficial.

Commissioner of Charities and Corrections Wight made a good suggestion in his address to the Federation of Labor a few days ago when he recommended that convicts in penal institutions be made to work and their earnings turned over to their families. To carry the proposition out so that it would work satisfactorily to everybody concerned, would required considerable thought, but if it could be put into effect the general results would be good.—Trenton State Gazette.

TROLLEY OFFICIALS SEEK MISSING MORTORMAN

DISAPPEARED AFTER WRECK ON THE FAST LINE TUESDAY.

The officials of the Trenton and New Brunswick fast line have detectives searching for William Stoetelmyer, the motorman who had charge of the work car which collided with a New York express trolley at the Dayton trestle Tuesday afternoon, as he has disappeared.

Stoetelmyer, it is claimed, became frightened after he saw the injured and debris of the wreck, and ran away. His whereabouts are not known.

Stoetelmyer received an injury to his left ankle as the result of jumping from his car when he saw that a collision could not be averted. Immediately after the damage had been done the motorman went across the fields to the farm house of Albert Messeroll, and was from there driven to Plainsboro, where he telephoned a report of the accident to the headquarters in Trenton. From Plainsboro, it was believed, Stoetelmyer went to his home.

Officials of the company are of the opinion that he went to New Brunswick, where he took a train.

Stoetelmyer was a green hand in the service of the company, he only having been employed about three weeks as motorman.

COOKING WITHOUT HEAT.

The government has been experimenting with a scheme that every housewife ought to know about, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

This is a process of cooking without fire or any of its substitutes—gas, electricity or oil.

The sole heating process used is that generated by a big box of hay. The article to be cooked is first boiled five or six minutes on the stove, in the ordinary manner, then covered tightly, buried in the hay box, and allowed to remain there two hours, more or less, according to the time found necessary for its thorough cooking.

It takes rice just two hours to cook to a delicious flakey consistency by this method. Macaroni requires an hour and ten minutes. An Irish stew, with meat and potatoes, takes two hours. Beans need the same length of time.

After the five minutes' boiling on the gas stove the latter can be turned off, all the balance being accomplished by the hay box. The saving in heat and expense is at once apparent. Consider also the convenience of this method. The picnic dinner can be cooked in the wagon while on the way to the picnic; the Sunday vegetables in the carriage while on the way to church.

There is no danger of burning or scorching the food cooked by this method, so that for the housewife who wants to put her supper on and then get busy about something else or take a nap or pay a visit, the hay box commends itself as a veritable godsend.

It looks as if the time may come when the family cook stove will cease to be the unholy fetich Charlotte Perkins Gilman says it is—when its place will be taken by the silent, heatless, inconspicuous, laborsaving and economical box of hay. The government's experiments were made with an old trunk filled with hay and kept tightly closed. It is the purpose of the official who has the experiments in charge to make the same trial with powdered cork and corrugated paper instead of hay.

JONES' RELIC FOUND.

Trenton Man Discovers Roster of His Ship's Crew.

John S. Spencer, deputy revenue collector, when he took charge of his new home at 344 South Warren street, Trenton, discovered a relic of John Paul Jones hidden in a cupboard in the rear room of the second floor. It consisted of a copy of the roll of the officers, seamen and marines who served on board the Bon Homme Richard, commanded by Commodore Jones, in her cruise made in 1779, with the volunteer prisoners included.

It was copied in 1843 from the original roll made by Lieutenant James Bayard Stafford by his only daughter, Miss Sarah Smith Stafford. Lieutenant Stafford was a recaptured American prisoner and compiled the roll the next day after an engagement.

The roster shows that John Paul Jones had 229 men under him. Sixty-three of them were officers and petty officers, sixty-seven were seamen, fifty-five seamen, forty-three boys, and seven servants and cooks. It also shows the rank, nativity and nationality of the men. Whether they were wounded or killed during the engagement was also recorded.

Mr. Spencer bought the house on South Warren street from the estate of Samuel Stafford. Until nineteen years ago it was occupied by Asher Coryell. Before then it was the home of Miss Stafford, who was very patriotic and took great pride in collecting Revolutionary relics of all kinds.

Francis Anderson, of East Second street, in company with Fred VanAuken, of the Annapolis Naval Academy, left Friday on a two weeks' stay in Northern New York State.

PHYSICAL TRAINING FOR COPS WILL GO ON

GYM CLASS TO BE PERMANENT FEATURE—CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST.

The local police force will be required to resume regular gymnasium exercises early in the fall. The experimental class of bluecoats drilled at the Y. M. C. A. last spring was found to be so successful in keeping the men in fit physical condition that the classes have been made a permanent feature of the department. The Y. M. C. A. will continue to be the place for the new development of cop muscles, and the new physical director, Charles Boardman, will be in charge of the class.

There is talk of arranging a separate and special contest in gymnastics for the cops. Suitable prizes will be awarded, if the plans go through, and the winner of the departmental championship will receive a silver medal.

Among the other features of the class will be a regular basketball team. There is material enough in the department to turn out a fast combination, and there are some old scores to wipe out against the Business Men and the school teams to keep the cops busy all through the season.

LARGE GATHERING AT PASTOR'S FUNERAL

MANY PASTORS SPEAK OVER BIER OF REV. SCOTT WALLACE.

There was a great outpouring of colored people at the funeral services of the late Rev. Scott Wallace, held at the Calvary Baptist church, of which he was pastor, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and included among those present were colored ministers of the same denomination from all parts of the State, also the other colored churches in this city. The services lasted for over two hours, during which many ministers took part, speaking of the life and character and good work of the departed pastor. Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, was master of ceremonies and introduced the various speakers.

There was a very large display of floral tributes from the various societies in the Calvary Baptist church, the Mt. Olive Baptist church and other colored churches. These comprised pillows, wreaths and cut flowers which covered and surrounded the casket.

All of the societies of the Calvary Baptist church attended the service in a body, and led by Mrs. Lulu Scott and Mrs. Martha Rogers, as staff-bearers, marched to the grave afterward. There were also flower-bearers, selected from among the men of the congregation.

During the services the regular choir sang a number of hymns, favorites of the departed pastor, and several appropriate anthems were sung.

After Rev. Dr. Jackson read the obituary notice and conducted the opening exercises, addresses were made by the following ministers:

Rev. E. D. Samuels, East Orange; Rev. J. W. Mitchell, Plainfield; Rev. Mr. Anderson, Hackensack; Rev. Mr. Elliott, Newark; Rev. Mr. Roberts, New Brunswick; Rev. P. T. Morris, Belmar, and Rev. Mr. Ashley, Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, this city.

Each one dwelt at some length on the earnest labors of Pastor Wallace and referred to the results attained through the purchase of a desirable site and erection of such a commodious house of worship. They spoke of his ability as a preacher to deliver the Gospel, and as a pastor, working zealously among the members of his congregation and always striving to do good.

It was announced that Rev Dr. Graham, of Richmond, Va., Pastor Wallace's former pastor, would at some future time, preach an appropriate sermon. It was impossible for him to attend the services yesterday.

Among other ministers present were Rev. F. D. Tildon, Bethel chapel; Rev. R. A. Bolden, Rev. W. H. Wallace, Asbury Park; Rev. J. W. Hamlin, Red Bank; Rev. Mr. Taylor, Elizabeth; Rev. W. S. Smith, Jersey City; Rev. Mr. Lawrence, Union Baptist church, Elizabeth; Rev. R. W. Winn, Newark; Rev. R. A. Motley, Jersey City; Rev. Mr. Morris, Morristown; Rev. J. H. Bailey, Somerville; Rev. George Cragger, East Orange, and Rev. G. W. Foster, Bloomfield.

At the grave Rev. Dr. Jackson was again in charge and the burial service of the church was followed, in which several ministers took part. Three pall-bearers were selected from the Calvary Baptist church, and five from the Mt. Olive Baptist church, as follows:

Spencer Conway, Patrick Reed, Scipio Wellington, Calvary Baptist church; William Phillips, Nathan Pollard, William Gordon, Daniel Brown, and John Seay, Mt. Olive Baptist church. The interment was in the Baptist cemetery on Plainfield avenue.

F. A. Morse and family, of Garwood, have taken up their residence in the borough. Mr. Morse is identified with the Central N. J. Land Improvement Co.

MET AT HUSBAND'S GRAVE; ENGAGEMENT FOLLOWS

HAPPY ROMANCE THAT READS STRANGER THAN FICTION.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 2.—The marriage tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock of Guisto Farrara, an Italian sculptor, and Mrs. Felicite Arienta, will happily end a romance stranger than fiction. Two weeks ago today for the first time in forty years the two met, at the grave of the husband of Mrs. Arienta. Farrara had agreed to carve in the Arienta monument in bass-relief the likeness of Mr. Arienta, never suspecting that the widow was his playmate in the sunny country district near Leghorn, Italy, where both were born.

Farrara, when nine years old, left Leghorn to go with his older brother Annibal, also a sculptor, to Lyons, France, to study, leaving behind Felicite Arienta, four years old.

Farrara made rapid strides in sculpture, and was soon in the employ of the French government. Later he came to this country. Two of his most popular works are the offering of the State of Pennsylvania to the Gettysburg negroes, an allegorical figure, "The Defence of the Stars and Stripes," a figure surmounted by an eagle eleven feet from tip to tip of the outstretched wings, and the statue of George Washington in Scranton, Pa.

Two months ago Farrara agreed to come to this city to do some work for a local monument dealer. The fact that he was in this city became known among the Italian residents after a short time, and Mrs. Arienta, not recalling the little playmate of her native land, through an agent, negotiated for the work she wished done on her husband's monument.

Two weeks ago today she met Farrara while he was measuring her husband's monument, and after a few moments' conversation was surprised and overjoyed to learn that he was none other than her playmate of forty years ago. The pleasure was mutual. Farrara had not married, and Mrs. Arienta had no relatives in this section. Her home since her husband's death had been in one of the local hotels. After a long conversation beside the grave of her husband Mrs. Arienta and Farrara parted with the understanding that they should meet often during the stay of the artist in this city. Two days after they first met their engagement was announced.

The marriage tomorrow will be celebrated by the Rev. Father Gaetano Ceruti, pastor of the Church of the Holy Rosary, assisted by four visiting priests. The matrons of honor will be Mrs. Louise Mari, wife of a New York importer and real estate dealer, whose summer home is at Stamford, Conn., and Mrs. James J. Sexton, through whose husband the two met. Annibal Farrara, brother of the bridegroom, and Frank Lanza, a banker, of New York City, will attend Mr. Farrara.

Farrara has suspended work on the Arienta monument pending the wedding festivities, but says that on his return from the wedding tour he will resume it at once. He has decided to remain in Bridgeport permanently.

HUNTERS ARE OUT.

Wild Fowl Season Begun at Daybreak Yesterday.

Hunters were out in force yesterday, all over the State, in search of snipe, reedbirds and railbirds, duck, geese, brant and water wild fowl, the open season for which began at daybreak. There is practically no change in the State game laws so far as this game is concerned, and hunting will be permitted for the balance of the year. The open season for upland plover began August 1, and will continue for one month longer. These birds can be legally taken throughout New Jersey only in August and September.

Every indication points to a big hunting season throughout the State this year. Reports from points along the coast show an exceptional large number of fowl, while the marshes are filled with reedbirds and other small game. Woodcock, which were permitted killed during July, cannot legally be taken until October, while the season for hare, rabbit, quail, partridge, grouse, English or ring-necked pheasant, gray, black and fox squirrels does not open until November 10. The season for shore birds, surf or bay snipe opened May 1, and they can be legally taken for the balance of the year.

With the exception of quail, which has been scarce, New Jersey can boast of an abundance of game, and many gunners from neighboring States are afforded much sport. The $10.50 license fee required of nonresidents does not apply to gunning for water wild fowl, snipe, marsh or mud hen.

Much credit is due to State fish and game commissioners for their work in protecting the various game birds, and every effort will be made on the part of the various game wardens and their deputies to see that the laws are not violated.

Miss Edna Yawger, of Bound Brook, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Ethel Webster, of Duer street.

Mrs. Louis B. Coddington, of the borough, is spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Kalloway, at Stelton, N. J.

MISS MABEL LEEK A BRIDE

Made the Wife of William G. Tunison at Home Wedding Yesterday.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck—Floral Decorations Pretty.

Miss Mabel Crane Leek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Leek, of East Fifth street, and William Gaston Tunison, of Somerville, were married at the bride's home at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, in the presence of a large number of guests from Morristown, Somerville, Newark, Hamden, Princeton, Brooklyn, New York, Washington and this city. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which the bride is a member, was the officiating clergyman.

The house was profusely decorated with greens and pink and white flowers. In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, there was a large bower of greens and flowers, beneath which the bridal party stood. The dining room was also attractively decorated, the table being garnished with roses. In the hallway and along the balustrade there was a pleasing arrangement of greens and flowers.

The bride's attendants were Miss Edythe Laura Leek, a sister, as maid of honor; Miss May Marsh Toms, of Morristown, and Miss Elizabeth Tunison, of Somerville, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids. The best man was Philip W. Tunison, of Somerville, brother of the groom, and the ushers were George W. Pope, of this city, and Charles S. Carrell, of Morristown, cousin of the groom.

The bride was gowned in Brussels net with a veil and she carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor's gown was white silk mulle, while the bridesmaids wore gowns of pink silk mulle and carried bouquets of carnation pinks.

While the wedding march was being played by Miss Cornelia Sampson, an intimate friend of the bride, the bridal party descended the staircase and entered the parlor. The ushers led the way, followed by the bridesmaids, maid of honor and the bride escorted by the groom. The party took its position beneath a bower of greens and flowers, where the officiating clergyman stood waiting to receive them. During the ceremony Miss Sampson played the selection "O Promise Me" on the piano.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Tunison received the congratulations of the guests, after which a supper was served. Early in the evening the couple left to enjoy a honeymoon. They will be away about a week. The bride's going away gown was navy blue with hat to match. Upon their return they will reside for the present at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is very popular in a large circle of acquaintances as well as in Trinty Reformed church, where she is a teacher in the Sunday School and a member of the Christian Endeavor Society. She was a former resident of Somerville, and it was there that she and Mr. Tunison became acquainted. The groom is engaged in business as a custom tailor, being associated with M. Weinberger, of West Front street. He has a host of friends both here and in Somerville, and all wish him and his bride many years of happiness.

In the exchange of gifts among those of the bridal party, the bride received a brooch set with pearls from the groom, while the maid of honor received a gold locket and the bridesmaids gold beads from the bride. The groom's gift to his best man and ushers were gold stick pins.

The bride also received many gifts of use and great value, including furniture, silverware, cut glass, bric-a-brac. The gift from the groom's mother was a handsome quartered-oak bed room suit.

When the couple left the house they were showered with confetti, and many of the guests, thinking they were going to take a train from the Netherwood station, hastened there to give them a good send-off. On the contrary, Mr. and Mrs. Tunison took the 6:29 train from the North Avenue station to Newark, from which place they left for Atlantic City.

The Kind They Like.

"People want air the worst way," said a paper not far away. What's the matter with inviting them for a stroll along the Passaic?—Paterson Guardian.

Knew He Had the Coin.

Not only has the river been stolen from Paterson, but New Yorkers have gone so far as to rob a Silk City bartender. The thieves may next time be expected to tackle a brewery. —Newark News.

Go and Rubber!

Hunter Cornell is hustling these days to keep his head above the sea of green truck, peaches, watermelons and cantaloupes coming in continually. He sells great quantities of stuff every day. His advertisement speaks of rubbers. You will have to go to the store to find out what that means.—Vineland Journal.

BAD NEGRO GETS LONG TERM IN COUNTY JAIL

NO ROOM FOR YOUR KIND IN THIS CITY, SAYS JUDGE RUNYON.

Officer Overbaugh, standing at Second street and Park avenue Wednesday afternoon, saw Halstead McElveen, colored, lurching down Second street. The man's face was working and his lips were moving as though he was talking to himself. Overbaugh crossed the street and halted him at the Iroquois.

"What's the matter?" asked the cop.

McElveen jerked his arm loose.

"I'll kill that ———," he said. "So help me God, I'll cut his life out!"

He looked as if he meant what he said. Overbaugh decided that it would be a good thing for whoever the man was talking about to put him behind bars, and placed McElveen under arrest.

At Front street and Park avenue the negro slipped his arm behind him toward a passing colored man. Overbaugh detected the movement and jerked McElveen sharply. A razor dropped from his sleeve to the sidewalk.

"I guess I didn't make any mistake in picking you up," said Overbaugh, as he pocketed the weapon.

When Judge Runyon heard the officer's story he looked sternly at the prisoner.

"You are the brand of colored man we don't want in this city," he said. "There is plenty of room and work for decent colored men, but there is no room for your kind. Fifty dollars and fifty days."

McElveen was arrested early in the year for annoying a white woman and ended a long term in the county jail only a few days ago. The police believe he is morally depraved, and an effort will be made to have him put away for good.

Apple Custard.

Pare and core medium-sized apples and steam them until they are tender, then press through a colander. For the custard allow for each apple one tablespoonful of syrup, one-quarter of a pint of milk, one egg and one-half teaspoonful of butter. While the apple is hot add the butter, the yolks of the eggs, the sugar and the milk, beaten to a custard. Pour this mixture into buttered baking cups and bake in a pan of hot water for twenty minutes. Have ready the beaten whites of the eggs, sweetened. Heap these on top of the custards, dust with powdered sugar and brown for a moment in a hot oven. Serve cold from the cups.

Peach Roll.

Pare and cut up fine half a dozen peaches and sweeten them liberally. Mix together one pint of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one small tablespoonful of butter. Mix with sweet milk until it can be handled just comfortably. Roll out, spread it with the sliced peaches and roll it up, pinching the ends to give it a long, narrow shape. Lay this in a deep baking dish, sift flour over it lightly, dust with pulverized sugar and add a few bits of butter and a cup of boiling water. Cover with a lid and bake for thirty minutes. Remove the lid and brown for five minutes. Serve hot from the pudding dish. The water, flour, sugar and butter, together with the peach juice, will have formed all the sauce necessary.

Mixed Fruit Pudding.

Peel and core enough tart apples to fill a deep baking pan. Fit them in snugly and fill in the holes left by the cores with seedless raisins and bits of shredded citron and lemon peel. Dust them with sugar. Pour over them half a cupful of water and bake in a slow oven until perfectly tender. Remove them from the oven, sprinkle lightly with bread crumbs, dust with sugar and bake ten minutes longer. Serve with the following sauce:

Beat together in a stewpan one tablespoonful of flour and one-half cupful of sugar. Pour over this a cup of boiling water and bring to a boil. Remove from the fire and pour this slowly over one egg well beaten. Flavor with a dash of lemon. Pour over the baked fruit and serve immediately.

ADVICE TO GIRLS.

Be a living example of your preachings.

Have the courage of your convictions.

Have superior and not inferior friends. We are judged by our company.

Your instincts are rarely at fault. If you are instinctively antagonized toward some things don't be persuaded against your will.

Bring an open mind toward all opinions.

Judge for yourself and be certain that your judgment is built on firm ground.

If you have made an error and recognize it, submit graciously. Don't try to convince your listeners in spite of the error.

Be deeply sympathetic and unselfish if you wish to be truly popular.

William Scott, formerly of this city, but now of Canada, is a guest at the home of Raymond McVoy, of East Front street. Mr. Scott left here two years ago to live in Pennsylvania and had not been heard from until his return at this time.

THE FORMATION OF A CHILD'S CHARACTER.

Children are usually more observing than they are given credit for being. They mimic their elders in both speech and actions. They delight to dress and talk like mamma or big sister and many of their musings start, "When I am grown up I shall do ——."

The power of imitation is strong in every child. It is the fundamental basis of their knowledge. It is an instinct and as such needs development.

Therefore great care should be taken by the mother to put such things before her child that are worthy of imitation. If you wish your little girl to grow into an upright, sweet-tempered woman, be sure to be so yourself, for she will invariably model herself after her ideal feminine being—her mother.

There is an old fairy tale of a little girl whose mother was very unfractious. The mother had her old mother living with her. Grandma was queer and garrulous. Her mind was feeble and she had no longer control of her muscles. Mother refused to let grandma sit at the same table with the rest of the family, but placed her in the chimney corner with the cat. Grandma did not have a china cup and saucer, but one made of wood, so that it would not break.

One day the little girl was found by her mother busily shaving a block of wood. When asked what she was doing she replied:

"Why, I am making a wooden cup for you so that when you get old like grandma you may sit in the chimney corner and drink from the cup."

Fairy tales are legends handed down from time immemorial. What was true of the child centuries ago is true of her in the present age. The child will mold her character largely after that of her mother.

A SLEEPING ROOM.

If possible, should be maintained as a sleeping room and not converted into a den or sitting room or parlor, and in choosing its furnishings the thought should be rather one of lasting beauties than selections made in consideration of color or fabric.

The color and design of each part lends a hand in securing the quiet and repose that should distinguish the room used for sleeping and retirement.

The general tone of the room should be settled, and then all things conform to that.

The size and length of each room must be considered for the best use of color. Certain colors produce certain effects. Yellow and red lighten and warm a dark or bare room. Floods of sunshine can be tempered, and the atmosphere cooled by the light tints of green, blue or gray: if the woodwork and furniture can all be in harmony, white is satisfactory for a sleeping room.

Any color, however, must be dealt with carefully. Too much color robs a sleeping room of its motive to produce a subdued atmosphere with a sense of space and complete freedom from crowded effects.

Even the paper on the walls should not convey an atmosphere of crowded designs. A wall covering that shows broad, plain masses of delicate tint or quiet color, relieved with a delicate pattern, is far preferable.

Of course, polished floors and small rugs are the thing for sleeping rooms. These admit of daily cleaning without undue labor.

Do not have too many pieces of furniture or too large ones in the room. This must be regulated by the capacity of the room, which must not be overcrowded even at the price of banishing some fine piece of furniture.

In fact, the true way of decorating a sleeping room is to place therein only that which is necessary.

There is an endless variety of pretty muslins and cretonnes and chintz that may be used for draperies and hold the advantage over other materials in that they may be cleaned with soap and water.

Accessories that are likely to catch and retain dust and impurities should be exiled, and upholstered pieces could be put away with impunity. Closet doors and doors between adjoining rooms may well be replaced with pretty, fresh chintz curtains.

Last, and by far most important, is the bed—the mattress and springs—and this is the real "feature" of the sleeping room. For the sake of comfort, as well as for the sake of economy, have the mattress and springs the best to be had. Let other things go if necessary but have a good bed.

The bed linen should be fine and the supply large.

The bed should be placed so that the head does not touch the wall and all sides are easy of access.

At its foot a low couch draped prettily (although it may be inexpensive drapery), containing the linen, is convenient and practicable.

There is no room in the house more worthy of care and ingenuity than the sleeping room.—Washington Star.

When the War Cloud Rests.

Coincident with peace between Japan and Russia comes the news of harmony among Union county Republicans, as the result of William N. Runyon's withdrawal from the field as a Senatorial candidate. As Hudson county had already been harmonized, the only spot where now rests a war cloud of portentous dimensions is Essex. Why doesn't Major Lentz follow the magnanimous examples set by Dickinson, Runyon and the Mikado?—Newark News.

LITERARY.

Charles Wagner, author of "The Simple Life," is still engaged in "strongly writing his 'American Impressions.'" Realizing this time the importance of copyright he is bound that the new book shall be properly protected; and his vivid use of recently acquired English makes his comment on literary pirates sound like a whisper in melodrama: "The robbers' eyes are always open to steal." In evidence of the spontaneous and straight-from-the-heart way he does his writing, comes the statement that "the book is not symmetric. I say what I have to say, without taking measure." "It is delightful," he goes on, "from the window of my little cell where I work like a monk, I do not see anything but trees and turf. The summer is coming and, as outburst the leaf and flowers, all my American days come back to me. It is the very time to build the book."—McClure's Magazine.

The egg and poultry earnings of the United States for one recent year amounted to $280,000,000. Such an amount is sufficiently amazing as it stands, but you don't get its full significance until you study the relative financial values of other "industrials." We find, for instance, that the total value of the gold, silver, wool and sheep produced in America during the year in question was $272,434,315. The sugar production of the country the same year was but $20,000,000. That part of the wheat crop used at home, which many consider the most valuable of all our agricultural products, was worth $229,000,000. The great American hog, as consumed at home and abroad, brought $186,529,035. The value of the oat crop was $78,984,900. Potatoes grown in the United States were valued at nearly as large a sum as were the oats. The product of tobacco plantations was estimated to be worth $35,579,225. Cotton, the dethroned king of staples, could show only $259,161,640, as against the magnificent earnings of its feathered rival. The crops of flax, timothy, clover, millet and cane seeds, broom corn, castor beans, hay, straw and so forth, couldn't, all told, come within a measureable distance of many millions of the poultry earnings. The hen's eggs produced in this country annually would fill 43,127,000 crates, each of the latter holding 360 eggs; also, a train of refrigerator cars to carry these eggs would be nearly 900 miles long. Furthermore, it would take 107,818 such cars to make up this train.—Franklin Forbes, in Success Magazine.

THE VICE-VERSA IDEA.

If you were the hired girl—

Would you like to serve five breakfasts between 7 and 8 o'clock and be rebuked if they are not all hot and crisp?

Would you like to warm up dinner, after your dishes were all washed, to oblige a careless member of the family who had not been working, but had merely stopped for a little longer chat with a friend?

Would you like to hear your mistress discuss your shortcomings with every stranger within her gates?

Would you feel inclined to handle silverware, cut glass and dainty china with loving care when the room in which you rested and slept looked either like a poorhouse dormitory or an incipient rummage sale?

Would you feel enthusiastic over your work when your faults were painted in rich, glowing colors and your little successes and achievements were passed unnoticed and unappreciated?

Would you feel like stopping in the midst of your regular duties to wash and iron a shirt waist for a thoughtless young girl who forgot to put it in the wash on Monday, and who needed it at once for a picnic?

Would you enjoy being sent to the grocery around the corner two or three times a day, simply because your mistress was slovenly and careless in her ordering?

Would you think that it was quite fair if you were forced to take care of the baby night after night while the parents went to card parties, dances, the theatre, etc., when you were engaged for general housework, with no hint of duties as a night nurse?

Would you not appreciate a rocking chair in your room or in a sunny corner of the kitchen, also the right to entertain an occasional caller on the side porch or in the dining room?

Did you ever stop to consider how a girl waiting on the table must feel when she hears the following conversation day after day: "Mother, is there more of this in the kitchen?" "No, dear, but you take that piece if you want to, Mary can fry herself an egg."

If you had just one afternoon and evening out in the seven days of the week, do you not think that you would feel irritable when your mistress asked you to come back in the evening because she had forgotten it was your day out and invited a few friends in for cards and a rarebit, which you must prepare?

Let the girl go for a fortnight and you will treat her differently when she comes back.—Washington Star.

Borough Polling Places.

Borough Clerk Frank Rowley has arranged for the polling places for the coming election in the borough. The First district polls will be located at 83 Somerset street, Trewin's barber-shop, and the Second district at Jerolomon's pool room, 80 Somerset street.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sept. 10: "What is Practical Christianity?"—Jas. ii. 14-26.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

"As the body apart from the spirit is dead, even so faith apart from works is dead."

There are various views as to what constitutes real religion. Some make the all important thing to be what is believed. The doctrines held must be right or one cannot be saved, they think. Creeds are with them the test of one's religious character.

Another view is from the emotional side of the nature and places emphasis on how one feels toward God and things of righteousness. This runs through all grades from fanatical ecstasy to the depths of purest devotional affection. Stress is laid on the fact that all actions derive moral value not from the outward form of the deed, but from the inner motive or intention of the doer.

Some give scant recognition to either matters of belief or heart devotion and put the whole of religion in the doing of works of mercy to the needy. All grades and shades of helpfulness are recognized in some ways and with varying valuations. Some would not dare pass the tin cup in the hand of a blind beggar without putting a coin in it any more than some others would sit at table with thirteen or see the new moon over the left shoulder.

There is an element of truth in each of these three classes of opinions. But neither one is the whole truth. Overemphasis of either may be dangerous error, since a half truth is often the blackest of lies.

James calls attention to the fact that our doing and saying must correspond to be genuine. Sympathy that is exhausted in weeping and never helps to dry the tears of others is of little use to any one. The charity that covers a multitude of sins is not the kind that is dumb when a wrong should be exposed and punished, but is gentle when an error has been discovered and gives all assistance to get the erring one back into the right way.

It is true that words and feelings which do not pass into acts accomplish no substantial work for others, but it is equally true that no gifts can do the highest good unless they are bestowed with discrimination and accompanied with deep interest in the welfare of the one on whom they are bestowed. Not alms, but a friend, is the great need of nearly every one who is in any need. If thou wilt give me aught that thou hast, give me thyself or else give me naught.

But no one truly gives from the heart desire to benefit another unless he has arrived at some conception of his relation to the one whom he would befriend. He may never have put his belief into the form of words, but he has got hold of a truth that is shaping his life and is in effect the most essential of creeds.

What is practical Christianity? It is to see with the clearest possible vision things as they really are, see them in some sort as God sees them, not so widely and deeply and fully, to be sure—that were impossible to man—but to see them correctly, so far as human sight goes, and with ever increasing clearness of vision, and at the same time to feel the relation of things to oneself and their relations to each other—in fact, to be affected in soul by their varying phases, to feel tears when others suffer and to feel the shouting inside one's own self when they achieve success.

Besides and beyond all this, it is to throw all the strength into the lifting of every weight and carrying every burden that comes by duty to be done, and doing it gladly as the natural thing to do.

Is this all? No, by no means.

All this can be done and the deepest and best still be left out. The real center of all lies in the deep inner consciousness of personal fellowship with Jesus Christ in His age long task of lifting this world into companionship with Himself and God the Father.

The essential thing is the abiding inner comradeship with Him who is the Son of man and is the Son of God. Whoever has this comes to know and feel and do the works of God. The eternal life dwells in him and works out through him.

Such a one does not live so much by rules of morality and outward law as by the ever unfolding inner life. He does not defraud in business and even up things by great gifts to benevolent causes. In all his ways he seeks to know and do God's will, whether it is business, home life, society, church or politics.

Can a man live thus? Many professing Christians do not, but if one will be a true Christian this is the path for him to tread. It is straight, but it is the only true track. Better take it, whether any one else does or not. Christ went this way, and we know it leads home.

Living by God's Will.

The one and only law of life that sets a man free from all the forces that blight and destroy is the will of God. Show me a man who lives for one day wholly in word and thought and deed in the will of God and I will show you a man who is antedating heaven and who for that day reaches the plane of life which is at once broadest, freest and gladdest.—Campbell Morgan.

A Prayer.

Grant us, O Lord, the grace to bear
The little pricking thorn,
The hasty word that seems unfair,
The twang of truth [illegible]
The jest that makes our weakness plain
The darling plan o'erturned.
The [illegible]
[illegible]
The [illegible]
Lest all these [illegible] things
Make us [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 10.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—What is practical Christianity?—Jas. ii, 14-26.

In discussing the topic which we have before us it is well to remember that there is no such thing as practical Christianity separate and apart from doctrinal Christianity. On this point many people have been confused, and many are still so even today. To some Christianity is faith only and to others it is works only. But both of these classes make a serious mistake. There can be no Christian faith unless it inspires Christian work, nor can there be Christian work unless it is based upon faith. Christianity may be said to be composed of two principal parts—faith and work, or doctrine and practice. Practical Christianity is always based upon doctrinal Christianity. We do because we believe. Mere doing is not Christianity, nor is mere believing. Christianity is believing and doing.

Practical Christianity properly understood includes several important factors. (1) It stands for a consistent Christian life. The man who professes to have faith must live in accordance with that confession or he proves thereby that he is not a Christian. He must be honest, upright, sober, virtuous in his dealings with men and faithful to all the duties which he owes to God. Honesty alone does not make a Christian, but the Christian must be honest or his claim to Christianity is a false claim. The moralist is not necessarily a Christian, but the Christian must always be moral. The difference is that Christian morality must be based upon faith in Christ and inspired by Him. (2) Practical Christianity is philanthropic in character. A Christian must not only lead a clean personal life, but he must "love his neighbor as himself." He must be willing to "do unto others as he would have others do unto him." He must have a sympathetic heart for all in need and when able extend to them a helping hand. Christianity in actual practice is never selfish, but always most unselfish. Christ came not "to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many," and the disciple must follow the example of his Master. No matter how much religion a man may claim to have, if he refuses to help the needy he has no religion, doctrinal or any other kind. The man who truly believes will not say to those in want, "Depart in peace; be ye warmed and filled," but instead he will give what is necessary to bring about what he desires. Christ practiced the doctrines of His religion. So must every Christian. Faith without works is dead, and so is work without faith. Faith and works make a Christian.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Deut. xi, 26-28; Prov. vii, 1, 2; Isa. i, 16-28; lviii, 1-8; Matt. v, 14-16; vi, 1-3; x, 42; xxv, 34-46; Rom. xii, 9-21; Gal. vi, 1-10.

A Japanese Endeavorer.

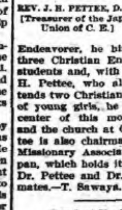
Rev. J. H. Pettee, D. D., is treasurer of the Japan Christian Endeavor Union and English editor of the Endeavor, the official Japanese publication. Christian Endeavorers in Japan owe a large debt to Dr. Pettee by reason of his untiring efforts. He came to Japan twenty-six years ago as an American board missionary and has resided in Okayama for twenty-five years. Besides his two offices as treasurer of the Japan Christian Endeavor Union and English editor of the Endeavor, he himself superintends three Christian Endeavor societies of students and, with the help of Mrs. J. H. Pettee, who also herself superintends two Christian Endeavor societies of young girls, he makes his home a center of this movement for Christ and the church at Okayama. Dr. Pettee is also chairman this year of the Missionary Association of Central Japan, which holds its session at Osaka. Dr. Pettee and Dr. Clark were classmates.—T. Sawaya.



REV. J. H. PETTEE, D. D.
[Treasurer of the Japan Union of C. E.]

Comfort Ye One Another.

Try in your sorrow to comfort another. The sweet, comforting sound will re-echo back to yourself and gladden your own heart when you least expect it. When your Lord seems to call you nearer to Himself by a way that is difficult and painful to flesh and blood ought you not to rejoice in that difficulty, to be glad of that very pain, because it gives you the opportunity of proving to yourself and manifesting to Him that, whatsoever it may cost you, follow Him you will; that you care not how loud the storm is or how heavy if He is but walking on the water; you care not how hard the race is if He be but beckoning to you from the goal?

China's Progress.

The first society is reported in the rapidly growing mission work in Hunan province. A new society is reported at Shansi, the idea of it being brought from Peking by a military office, the head of the governor's bodyguard and a newly baptized convert of the English Baptist mission.—Rev. George W. Hinman.

The Best Sermon.

The best [illegible] which prompts the heart [illegible] the most right thinking [illegible]

HINTS ON BUYING FOOD.

Much trouble will be saved and much time gained by making out the bill of fare on Saturday for the following week. Make two lists, one for perishable and the other for dry materials. Write down under each heading the necessary ingredients to supply these bills of fare. Do your marketing on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Do not live from hand to mouth and order just enough for the day. As soon as the marketing and groceries come home put all the dry materials into receptacles, either glass jars or cans made for the purpose and plainly marked. Put the cheese in a cool place, but not in the refrigerator. Cut the long end from the steak and put it at once through the meat chopper and then in a bowl and set in refrigerator. Put all vegetables in the cellar, if you have one. Trim the outside leaves off and throw them away. Plunge the cabbage into water for a moment and shake it. Put the other vegetables in boxes or baskets, or still better, in bins made purposely for them in the cellar. On the floor or lower shelf of refrigerator place the butter and milk, and put the eggs nearer the top. Wash parsley, put it into a little bag and at once on the ice. Separate the heads of lettuce, wash thoroughly, put them in a cheesecloth bag and then on the ice. This insures cold, crisp salads and saves time. As milk and butter are easily contaminated by odors or flavors, keep them in covered vessel. The air current of a refrigerator usually descends on one side, crosses the bottom and goes up and out the opposite side. Put foods with decided flavor on the upper shelves on the upper current side. This will insure a sweet, clean refrigerator. To ascertain the upper current side, place a candle at one side, close the door to a crack, and observe the direction of the flame.—Boston Globe.

TROUBLE STORIES ABOUT WOMEN.

Harrison county, Kentucky, comes to the front with perhaps the most prolific family in the State. Mrs. E. W. Walden, who recently gave birth to twin girl babies, has three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Haley, Mrs. Eli Miller and Mrs. B. Haley, who are each the proud mothers of twins.

The people of Marion, Ind., are in a panic over a prediction of a woman that the city soon is to be destroyed. Hundreds of families are leaving. Some months ago she predicted there would be a great change in Marion in respect to crime, and since then forty saloons have been closed, all gamblers have been run out of the place, and poolrooms are shut. She says she does not know in what form the disaster will come, but she has been warned by signs in the sky that it may come at any moment.

A woman walking along serenely unconscious of the fact that her fine spring hat was on fire attracted the attention of a brakeman on the Terminal Railroad at Allentown, Pa. He tore the piece of millinery from her head and then apologized. The hat had been set on fire by a spark from a nearby smokestack.

THE MATCHMAKER.

The matchmaking mother is becoming more and more prominent in our Eastern States, to the horror of all marriageable daughters. Nothing is shunned and objected to more strenuously by the modest girl than to see her mother "a-hunting go."

In Europe this practice is customary and is thought nothing of. In fact there are men whole sole business it is to arrange marriages. The girl has little or nothing to say. It is arranged between mother and the would-be suitor. The girl yields graciously, most generally.

In our country this practice has not gained such prominence and is usually an arrangement between the young people. Matchmaking mothers are the horror of all young people, but the tactless matchmaker is a person to flee from. When a man is conscious of being run after, he doubles his pace and runs the harder in the opposite direction. Nothing is so distasteful to him as to know he is sought. One of the tragedies in life is trying to get the things you can't have. As soon as you find the thing you prized most fairly hurled at you, you cease to prize it, and no longer want it.

The girl who is sought for most by men is the one who tempts and then flees. If matchmaking mothers would make their homes attractive and pleasing, treat the man as a friend, and make no apparent attempt at matchmaking, they would accomplish their object more readily. The daughters are usually able to bring about their matrimonial affairs.

TO WASH GLASSES.

Never put heavy, elaborately cut-glass into very hot water. The depth of the cutting makes it dangerous to expose the glass to the sudden expansion caused by the plunge into the hot water. Rinse in tepid water to which has been added a little ammonia, and clean the irregular surfaces with a soft brush. It also is unsafe to turn ice into a cut-glass dish unless it has been gradually chilled in the icebox.

Cracked cut-glass can frequently be preserved to a useful old age by the skillful insertion of a few rivets. These will not be noticeable and can be supplied at any crockery store.

Miss Bertrude Townley, of Grandview avenue, has returned after a visit with relatives in the country.

BRIEF CHRONOLOGY OF THE RUSSIAN-JAP WAR

RUSSIA NEVER WON A VICTORY IN THE CONFLICT.

1904.

Feb. 6—Japan breaks off diplomatic negotiations with Russia.
Feb. 7—Japan occupies Masampo, Korea.
Feb. 8-9—Togo cripples the Russian fleet at Port Arthur. Uriu destroys the Variag and Korietz at Chemulpo.
April 13—Admiral Makaroff goes down with the battleship Petropavlovsk.
May 1—Kuroki crosses the Yalu, defeating Zassalitch.
May 3—Togo reports he has "bottled" the Port Arthur harbor.
May 5—Oku lands at Pitsewo to isolate Port Arthur.
May 26-27—Oku takes Nan Shan Hill, the first of Port Arthur's defenses.
June 14-15—Oku crushingly defeats Stakelberg at Vafangow, and Nogi's army lands about the same time to invest Port Arthur.
July 4—Count Keller loses 1,000 men at Motien Pass.
July 9—Oku occupies Kaiping.
July 26-30—Japanese take Wolf Hill, at Port Arthur, opening the way for a general assault.
July 31—Oku, Nodzu and Kuroki advance, driving the Russians to the outer line of defenses surrounding Liao Yang.
Aug. 10—Rear Admiral Withoft, who makes a sortie with the Port Arthur fleet, is killed, and his fleet is scattered and damaged, most of the vessels returning to Port Arthur.
Aug. 14—Vice-Admiral Kamimura defeats the Vladivostok squadron, sinking the armored cruiser Rurik.
Aug. 19-24—Nogi makes the first general assault on Port Arthur, losing 14,000 men.
Aug. 30-Sept. 5—Battle of Liao-Yang is fought, the Japanese capturing the town.
Sept. 19-21—Nogi makes a terrific assault on Port Arthur, capturing Fort Kuropatkin, which commands the water works.
Oct. 8-17—Battle of the Shakhe River is fought, without decisive result, though the Russians suffer terrific loss.
Oct. 19—Vice Admiral Rojestvensky sails with the Russian Baltic squadron for the far East.
Oct. 21—Rojestvensky fires on British fishing boats in the North Sea, nearly precipitating a war with England.
Nov. 30—The Japanese capture 203-Metre Hill, losing 20,000 men, but sealing the fate of the fortress.

1905.

Dec. 28-Jan. 1—Nogi completes his breach in the main line of the Port Arthur defense, taking all the Kekwan positions and receiving General Stoessel's proposal to surrender.
Jan. 2—Port Arthur surrenders.
Jan. 10-11—General Rennenkampff, with 5,000 Cossacks, sweeps around the Japanese rear to New Chang, burning Japanese stores there.
Jan. 25-29—General Grippenberg attempts to turn the Japanese left flank at Sandepas or Heikoutai, but is badly defeated.
Feb. 19-March 11—Battle of Mukden, Russians retreating northward in disorder after losing from 100,000 to 150,000 men.
May 27-28—Rojestvensky's fleet destroyed by Togo in the Sea of Japan.

IT PAYS TO BE KIND.

Cultivate kindness of heart; think well of your fellowmen; look with charity upon the shortcomings in their lives; do a good turn for them as the opportunity offers; and, finally, don't forget the kind word at the right time.

How much a word of kindness, encouragement or appreciation means to others, sometimes, and how little it costs us to give it.

We do not need to wait for some special occasion. When calamity overtakes a friend, words of sympathy and encouragement are offered sincerely enough, yet in certain respects, as a matter of course. Such an occasion calls for expression on our part, and we naturally respond. But why wait for an occasion? Why not speak the kind word when there is no special occasion?

In the course of our lives there must be many times when thoughtless words are spoken by us which wound the hearts of others. And there are also many little occasions when the word of cheer is needed from us, and we are silent.

There are lives of wearisome monotony which a word of kindness can relieve. There is suffering which words of sympathy can make more endurable. And often, even in the midst of wealth and luxury, there are those who listen and long in vain for some expression of disinterested kindness.

Speak to those while they can hear and be helped by you, for the day may come when all our expressions of love and appreciation may be unheard. Imagine yourself standing beside their last resting place. Think of the things you could have said of them, and to them, while they were yet living. Then go and tell them now.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, ... Proprietor

Thursday, Sept. 6, 1905.

The Dove of Peace must have flown straight from Portsmouth to Union county.

Now look out for the man with the scintillating smile who will wink his eye and give you that chestnut that "Oysters R in season."

New York's famous subway tavern, dedicated by Bishop Potter, has failed for $13,000. No cause for surprise when you strike off the three ciphers.

It is needless to state that the laundrymen's convention, now being held at Philadelphia, has placed itself on record as standing for clean politics.

Elizabeth is sending broadcast the fact that it has a millionaire chief of police in office temporarily. It's not the fault of some of the chiefs elsewhere that they can't measure up to him as they certainly have tried every possible method of getting there.

Atlanta's merchants and manufacturers are organizing with a view to exploiting the advantages of their city as a railroad and commercial centre. Naturally they propose to apply to the movement the same methods by which their individual successes have been attained. Atlanta is to be advertised in the newspapers. Seven full page "ads," one week apart, are to be printed in all the principal papers of the South. Such enterprise speaks for itself. Increased prosperity will follow upon its heels as closely as a train of cars follows the locomotive by which it is pulled.

It would take all day to drive a railroad spike into a tie with an ordinary hammer—as a matter of fact it probably couldn't be done at all. With a sledgehammer the same spike could be driven to the head with half-a-dozen blows. There are advertisers who fail to make the most economical use of the force at their command because they choose the clawhammer to do the sledgehammer's work. The money they expend in light-weight mediums would do the work in a twinkling if applied to the purchase of space in a widely circulated newspaper. The first-class city newspaper is the sledgehammer of publicity.—Philadelphia Record.

Notwithstanding that Plainfield is a city of trees, we print the following from the Trenton State Gazette. There are some long stretches of glare on our streets; let property owners profit by the following suggestion:

"The season of the year for tree planting is here and property owners ought to beautify their lots by setting out shade trees on them. Trees are inexpensive. Any person who is able to own a house can afford to set a tree out in front of it which will grow to be a comfort and a pleasure within a short space of time. Tree planting is encouraged in Newark by a commission appointed by the mayor. Its support costs the city a few thousand dollars a year, but the improvement in the appearance of the streets that the commission has made is worth all that it has cost."

The Elizabeth Daily Journal, which never lost an opportunity to bring out the opposition to Judge Runyon at the county seat discussed his retirement from the Senatorial field as follows, yesterday:

"The retirement of Judge Runyon will be received by the Republicans of the county with great interest. It comes as a clearer of the atmosphere, a remover of incipient dissension that broke out immediately upon the announcement of Runyon's name in connection with the senatorship. It makes it certain the 1905 Union county convention will be a harmonious gathering, disturbed by no other internal trouble than the usual and healthful contests between aspirants for office. It removes from the sphere of probability to that of almost certainty the candidacy and election of Ernest R. Ackerman as senator from Union county. Now that Runyon has withdrawn, the rivalry that sprung up between Elizabeth and Plainfield has disappeared. It no longer possesses a basis for existence. Elizabeth never opposed Plainfield for itself. It stood against Judge Runyon because Runyon made what was looked upon as the unpardonable error of going back on his party two years ago, when he helped defeat the Republican ticket and put in the Democrats. The county leaders in this city have always recognized the right of Plainfield to the senatorship this year. Ackerman, acceptable to Elizabeth, and receiving no opposition from his own city and the townships, will no doubt get the unanimous nomination of the convention. The development of affairs removes the candidacy of former County Chairman Hamilton Fish Kean from the field of possibilities. Mr. Kean stated that the nomination should go to the townships only in the event of Plainfield not being able to agree upon a man. He permitted his name to be hinted at in the sole light of a peace-maker. With Runyon out, a mediator is unnecessary. There is litle doubt but that with Runyon now in line for Ackerman, the latter will be the uncontested choice of Plainfield."

This is the way the Newark News sums up Judge Runyon's withdrawal from the Senatorial fight:

"Peace has been declared in Union county. Let not the universal jubilation over the ending of the war between Russia and Japan cause the Union county imbroglio to be overlooked. City Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, whose many friends claimed for him a mortgage on the Republican nomination for Senator to succeed Judge Cross—because of services rendered to Congressman Fowler in the Kean-Fowler factional fight—has quit. He has abandoned the claim and will not renew it for at least three years. Plainfield, the Port Arthur of Union county politics, and the hitherto impregnable fortress of the Runyon forces, has capitulated and been turned over to Ernest R. Ackerman. The preponderating influence of Senator Kean in Corea—or rather in Elizabeth and Rahway, is acknowledged. Manchuria—or, rather, the several townships—are to be completely evacuated by the Fowler-Runyon forces, but the latter are not to pay a kopec of indemnity for the total destruction of the Republican ticket in 1903. A few minor details are yet to be settled, such as the shrievalty nomination, but all these will doubtless be looked after by those who advised Judge Runyon to withdraw, and who, he declares, are 'best informed as to the county conditions,' and in whose opinions he has learned to have the utmost confidence. The Senatorial question being thus settled, the attention of the Republican leaders will be turned to the choice of a sheriff, and as there are already *two aspirants in Elizabeth, the prob*abilities are that Dr. Lawrence, of Summit, will be given the nomination. And thus peace is assured in Union county once more, and to an outsider it looks as if the organization elements outside of Plainfield, united with the anti-organization forces in Plainfield, had won a notable victory. President Roosevelt settled the war in the East. President Roosevelt's cousin settled the war in Union county."

In summing up the raid on the Goff place by Councilmen Tyler and Bullock there are two sides of the affair to be taken into consideration. It may have been a play to the voters as those not in favor of the independent movement are proclaiming from the housetops and whether it will aid in the planned demolition of the ring remains to be seen. On the other hand it shows the Plainfield people more than has anything else in years the extent of the illegal liquor traffic which heretofore more than one official has belittled, perhaps for reasons best known to themselves. Sixteen men were found in Goff's hotel and residents assert this is a small number in comparison to the crowds that have been flocking there at all times. When this can go on day in and day out, either the police are sadly afflicted with blindness or else, as the raiders assert, they have been giving protection to the place on instructions from "men higher up." The whole occurrence on its face narrows down to the bare fact that an explanation is due from Chief Kiely. He is the head of the department that is maintained by the city to preserve law and order and when two members of the Common Council, who are not in town during the day and who have their personal *affairs to attend to, can discover evi*dence that he knows nothing of or doesn't want to know it, reveals a sad state of affairs. An instance of this nature occurred in connection with the Sunday baseball games at Elizabeth two years ago which went along without police interference, and which finally received attention from the Grand Jury. When this body was charged, Judge VanSyckle declared the officials responsible for allowing the contests to continue to be guilty of misfeasance in office and everyone was open to indictment. Chief Kiely is a servant of the Plainfield people; not of any political boss or bosses and it remains for the Common Council to determine whether or not he has performed the duties he took his oath to do when placed in his present position. Messrs. Tyler and Bullock, irrespective of the cry of "grandstand play," are entitled to credit for what they did and it is the hope of all law-abiding citizens that they continue raiding whenever and wherever they deem it necessary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Gathering to Be Held in Somerset County September 13.

Somerville, Sept. 5.—The forty-sixth annual *convention of the Som*erset County Sunday School Association will be held in the First Reformed church here Wednesday, September 13. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Addresses will be made by Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer, pastor of the church; former Prosecutor James L. Griggs, president of the New Jersey State Sunday School Association; Rev. M. E. Snyder, Ph. D., president *of the State Home Department Coun*cil; Rev. E. N. Crasto, Rev. E. M. Fergusson, Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlburt, Miss Josephine Baldwin, Rev. Isaac W. Gowen and others.

There will be numerous conferences and an election of officers.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Folk-lore and Romance Bulletin.

Baldwin, James.—Story of Roland.

"A continuous narrative made up of legends from all sources."

Baldwin, James.—Story of Siegfried.

"Sometime following the Eddas, sometimes the Nibelungen lay."

Bulfinch, Thomas.—Age of chival*ry; or, Legends of King Arthur* and his Knights of the Round Table, The Mabinegeon, The Crusades, etc.

Clouston, W. A.—Popular tales and fictions, their migrations and transformations.

Curtin, Jeremiah.—Myths and folk-lore of Ireland.

Drake, S. A.—New England legends and folk-lore.

Dyre, T. F. T.—Folk-lore of plants.

Fiske, John.—Myths and myth makers: old tales and superstitions.

Frost, W. H.—Wagner story book: fire-light tales.

"Dramas of Wagner from Tannhauser to Parsifal in form of narra*tives to a child.*"

Gould, Sabine Baring.—Curious myths of the middle ages.

Containing the stories of the Wandering Jew, Prester John, the use of the divining rod, William Tell, Pope Jean, and others.

Groome, F. H.—Gypsy folk-tales.

Guerber, H. A.—Legends of the middle ages.

Harris, J. C.—Uncle Remus and his friends; old plantation stories, songs and ballads, with sketches of negro character and negro folk-lore gathered firsthand.

Higginson, T. W.—Tales of the enchanted islands of the Atlantic.

Contains Legends of Atlantic, the island of perpetual youth, etc.

Lang, Andrew.—Book of romance.

Tales of King Arthur, Poland, Robin Hood, Grettir, and others.

Mac Annally, D. R.—Irish wonders; the ghosts, giants, pookas demons and other marvels of the Emerald isle.

Mac Manus, Seumas.—In chimney corners: merry tales of Irish folk-lore.

Malory, Sir Thomas.—Boy's King Arthur, ed., by Sidney Lanier.

The Arthurian cycle is the best embodiment of chivalry, of romance, of gallantry.

Monteiro, Mariana, comp.—Legends and popular tales of the Basque people.

Middlemore, Mrs. M. T. H.—Spanish legendary tales.

Mitford, A. B. F.—Tales of old Japan.

Owen, M. A.—Voodoo tales, as told among the negroes of the southwest.

Ralston, W. R. S.—Russian folk-tales.

Shahan, T. J., ed.—Myths and legends.

Skinner, C. M.—Myths and legends of our own land.

"Traditions and curious stories very briefly told."

Wagner, William.—Epics and romances of the middle ages.

Yeats, William Butler.—Irish fairy and folk-tales.

"Equally delightful to the bibliophile, the anthropologist, (if given to banshees), and the child."

HOW TO TELL CHARACTER.

The eyes are generally believed to be the windows of the soul, and as such denote our character. A clear, steady eye usually denotes an upright, moral being. A shifting, un*steady glance reveals* the unmoral person. These signs can almost invariably be depended upon.

It is claimed by many that the voice is a more reliable index to character than the eye. An authority upon the matter said that a common face may be found in a cultured person, but a common voice never. Our speech designates our breeding. A fine modulated voice cannot be acquired, but must be inherent. The vulgar usually have loud, coarse voices; they may by training modulate them to some degree, but they can never perfect them. They may try to imitate the voices of others, but by that they only vulgarize themselves. A well bred person is natural; affectation is seen through easily.

The voice, therefore, may be said to be a handicap in the path of the vulgar; something which distinguishes him from his well bred brethren, but which he cannot acquire. Faulty speech, errors in language, society overlooks in this moneyed era, but the articulation will soon denote the character of the individual.

TOM HANNA SLATED.

Regular Republicans Said to Favor Him for Tax Collector.

It is reported today semi-officially that Thomas Hanna, now deputy warden at the county jail, Elizabeth, will be the choice of the "regular" Republicans for the position of tax collector to succeed the present incumbent, Robert L. Lee. He is known to be in harmony with the Republican leaders and to have kept well in touch with local affairs.

It now seems to be well-known that Collector Lee is opposed by the "machine and it is likely to do all in its power to defeat him for the nomination.

William Penwell, of Webster place, left today for a three weeks' stay in the South. While there he will visit Savannah and Augusta, Ga., and Aiken, S. C.

THIERS AGAINST CONROY

Borough Middle-of-the-Road Democrats Oppose Swackhamer's Choice.

GAME MADE PLAIN

Fusionists Expose Their Hands by Leaving Councilmanic Nominations Blank—Straight Ticket Men Fill In.

Two Democratic candidates for the mayoralty nomination were filed with the primary election petitions in North Plainfield, exactly as The Daily Press forecasted Saturday afternoon. The Swackhamer committee named W. J. Conroy, as it was expected to do, and the Democrats who distrusted the action of the Swackhamer body in flirting with the Citizens named Dr. Charles R. Thiers. A hot fight between the middle-of-the-road party men and the fusionists is looked for at the primary as the matter stands. There is a possibility, however, according to some of those interested, that Conroy will vacate the ticket rather than face a fight.

In the Republican camp a contest over the delegates to the county convention was put on the cards. Mayor Smalley is unopposed for the mayoralty nomination.

Charles R. Thiers.

The manner in which the Swack*hamer committee filed its petitions* confirmed the stories of fusion agreements that were published in The Daily Press Friday and Saturday. The petitions named no councilmanic candidates, although two justices of *the peace and a commissioner of ap*peals was named in addition to Mr. Conroy for mayor. From the hour the conference between Swackhamer's committee and the Cits was held last Thursday, the middle-of-the-road Democrats insisted that it was the game to allow the Citizens—that is, the disaffected Republicans—to name the councilmen. They could not get Swackhamer to acknowledge this, and up to the last minute available for filing the petitions he is said to have assured his fellow Democrats of the straight-ticket persuasion that he would "file an absolutely straight ticket."

D. J. Carney and the others who were marshaling the middle-of-the-roadsters refused to take his statement at face value, and steps were completed for placing a complete ticket of undoubted and uncrossed Democracy in the field.

The middle-of-the-road ticket is as follows: For mayor, Charles R. Thiers; for council, First district, Charles E. Emmons; Second district, Frank Mobus; for delegates to county convention, F. V. Conover and W. J. Ricketts.

The Swackhamer committee ticket: For mayor, W. J. Conroy; for justices of the peace, W. E. Mattison and D. D. Smalley; for commissioner of appeal, George Kirch.

The regular Republican ticket is as follows: For mayor, Newton B. Smalley; for council, First district, Clifford A. McGee; Second district, Edward P. T. Smith; for commissioner of appeals, J. P. Emmons; for justices of the peace, Abram B. King, S. Clark Mundy and Thomas H. Snape; for delegates to the county convention, George F. Brown, James K. Arnold, A. H. Dundon, A. G. Hooley, W. Wallace Coriell, L. B. Woolston, Brooks Carson and A. E. Giddis.

The independent Republicans named these eight for the county convention: Charles Place, W. G. Debele, E. A. Overton, Edmund Rushmore, Robert Clark, Jr., J. H. Cooley, J. H. Schenck and W. Edward Cranston.

Mr. Swackhamer will now have to explain to his fellow Democrats why councilmanic candidates were not nominated. Those who have been reading the signs since the conference say the Citizens are now to endorse Conroy and name two Republicans, or "safe," councilmanic nominees. That is, if Conroy sticks. *What the Cits will do if Conroy with*draws is problematical.

John Sullivan a Benedict.

John Sullivan, of the Hotel Iroquois, and Miss Anieda Gepprich, of New York, were married in St. Francis' Xavier church, in Sixteenth street, New York, Sunday afternoon. J. W. Drayton, of this city, was the best man, and Miss Walker, of New York, was the bridesmaid. The couple will live in this city.

DAVID POPE A SUICIDE

Made Despondent By Ill Health Shoots Himself in the Mouth.

LIVED TWENTY MINUTES

Was Sixty Years Old and Had Resided in Plainfield Nearly All His Life—Leaves Widow and Son.

Despondent over continued ill-health, which caused him to become morbid, David Pope, a well known resident, shot and killed himself at his home on North avenue Monday morning about 9 o'clock. He lived about twenty minutes after committing the deed, but never regained consciousness. His deep groans attracted the attention of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. E. R. Pope, who, with her husband, had come from Schenectady, N. Y., to spend Labor Day, and she called Mrs. Pope, saying that she believed that Mr. Pope had shot himself. Mr. Pope's son was summoned and he called Dr. D. C. Adams, but before the physician arrived Mr. Pope expired. He had used a revolver, placing the muzzle in his mouth. The bullet took an upward course and came out of the side of the head.

Soon after Mr. Pope died County Physician F. W. Westcott was summoned. He viewed the body and gave a burial permit. Later when Mr. Westcott was questioned about the case he refused to give any information, stating that he had nothing to say.

The intimate friends of Mr. Pope have noticed of late that he was far from being well, and he was detained at home considerable. He had not been at the tax collector's office, where he was employed, since last week Tuesday, although he had been about the house at times since then. He had been in bed during the past few days, and it was only last Sunday that Dr. Adams attended him. The pistol with which he took his life was in a bureau drawer, and he left his bed, got the firearm and returned to bed before committing the deed.

Mr. Pope was about sixty years of age. He was born at Dunellen, where he spent his boyhood days. When a young man he came to this city and occupied various positions. For several years he was employed in the office of the tax collector, being an assistant to former collectors Elias H. Bird, James Martin, Frank H. Smith and the present incumbent, Robert L. Lee. He would assist with the clerical duties and help the assessors in their work. It was also a part of his duties to deliver the tax bills about the city. He was of a quiet and genial disposition and enjoyed a large acquaintance.

The deceased served in the Confederate army in Georgia during the Civil War, having been conscripted while in business in Atlanta, but deserted before the war was over.

Mr. Pope was for many years a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 28, F. and A. M., and a Masonic service was held at the grave, following the service at the house.

Besides a widow he is survived by a son, E. R. Pope, and three brothers, A. D. Pope, James C. Pope and Howard A. Pope, and several nephews.

Fire Alarm in a Tangle.

The fire alarm and electric light wires became crossed at Madison avenue and West Second street, Saturday night, as a result of the storm, and it caused the frequent tooting of the gong. Until the electricians removed the cause, the neighborhood enjoyed a pyrotechnic display, the electric wires shooting forth balls of fire. As a result of the trouble three electric coils at fire headquarters were burned out.

Mrs. Randolph's Funeral.

The funeral services of Mrs. T. E. F. Randolph were held from the late home in Central avenue, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and were largely attended. Rev. Bergen Stelle, of Philadelphia, conducted the services. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

BURGLAR'S BOLD ACT

Chloroformed Young Woman Who Discovered Him Entering Hillside Avenue House.

SENSELESS 3 HOURS

Intruder Departed Hurriedly Without Securing Any Booty—Police Working on the Case.

By the quick use of chloroform, a burglar who was discovered in the house of Maybury B. Miller, at 202 Hillside avenue, Tuesday morning, made his escape before an alarm could be raised. He left so hurriedly that he didn't have time to gather any swag.

The burglar was detected by Miss Edna Phole, of Passaic, a trained nurse. One of Mr. Maybury's children is ill, and Miss Phole is attending it. Last night, on account of dampness in the plaster of her room upstairs, Miss Phole's bed was made up in the parlor. At 2 o'clock in the morning she was awakened by a noise at the parlor window. She looked up and saw the screen go up slowly. A man's form dropped noiselessly into the room.

Miss Phole sat up affrightedly and opened her mouth to scream. The man caught sight of her in the dim light at the same instant and sprang to the bedside. He clapped a hand over her mouth and nostrils and Miss Phole sank back without a sound. The hand had held a folded cloth soaked with chloroform.

Without waiting to see whether the chloroform was acting or not, the burglar slipped quickly away. As Miss Phole lapsed into unconsciousness she heard the dining room door open. Then her senses left her.

She recovered consciousness at 5 o'clock. Nobody in the house heard the burglar, and she had lain in the grip of the anaesthetic until its effects wore off. She awoke on the floor, although her last recollection was of sinking back in bed. She probably fell from the couch in her struggle against the effects of the drug.

Miss Phole aroused the family and a search for traces of the burglar's work was made. Nothing was missing. The burglar made his escape through the kitchen door. There was a light in the upper part of the house when he entered, and he evidently decided, when he saw Miss Phole in the parlor, that something was wrong in the house and members of the household might come upon him at any minute.

The police were notified this morning. Roundsman Flynn went over the burglar's trail, but could get no inspiration for a chase. The police think the job was attempted by a "hobo gun," one of a gentry that sandwiches burglary and strong-arm work with tramping.

STATE PRISON FOR PASCO.

Italian Boy Who Shot William Stilger Gets Two Years.

John Pasco, aged seventeen years, who entered a plea of guilty to shooting William Stilger, of Dunellen, several weeks ago, as the result of a quarrel over a division of work at Rajotti's brickyard, was sentenced on Saturday by Judge Strong, of New Brunswick, to two years in State Prison.

The boy quarrelled with Stilger and the former alleged that his fellow-workman struck him. Afterward he went to a nearby barn, secured a revolver, and fired when but a few feet away. The lad afterward escaped, and was arrested in North Plainfield. Judge Strong thought the boy intended to kill Stilger and said that there was no provocation for any such display of temper. At the time of the trouble, the boy's father refused to furnish bail.

Chief Weiss' Vacation.

Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police force, started on his two-week annual vacation on Sunday. Marshal Joseph Flack will be acting-chief in his absence.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River. In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.26, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46 9.30, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.32, 8.35, 9.35, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.37, 4.47, 7.47, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 9.49 10.02, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.26, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44 4.13 4.47 5.30 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.34, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.33, 5.03, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.33, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.22, 11.26 p. m., 12.58 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.02, 3.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.02, 8.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.02, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49, (4.13 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.13 p. m. Sundays —8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 8.21 through train,) 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after September 6, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06, 11.43 a m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.25, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.44, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.44, f 8.37 Long Branch R. R., 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, f 3.04, f 5.43, and f 7.38 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.05 10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man. GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations, connects at Depew Junction for Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 212 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

The Real Test.

"Will a lonely dog follow you?" asks a college professor, testing his students' fitness for the higher life. A lonely dog will follow anybody. The real test is, will a dog that is not lonely make friends with you? If he will, there is hope for you.—New Brunswick Times.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Williams, of Westervelt avenue, have returned home from Shawnee, Pa., where they have been registered at the Shawnee House.

IGNORING KIELY, COUNCILMEN RAID GOFF'S HOTEL

Proprietor Arrested For Illegal Liquor Selling and Held For Grand Jury.

WAIVED EXAMINATION

Messrs. Tyler and Bullock Planned the Surprise—Assert Victim Has Been Receiving Police Protection.

Without a hint to Chief Kiely or any of the men at headquarters, Chairman W. S. Tyler, of the police committee, raided John Goff's hotel, West Front street, near Clinton avenue, Sunday night, for evidence of illegal liquor selling. Goff's hotel was built two years ago, under the impression that a license would be easy to secure, and an elaborately fitted barroom takes up one-half of the lower floor. In this barroom the councilman and his raiding party found sixteen men drinking. Evidence enough to hold Goff for the Grand Jury was gathered.

Councilman Bullock, an Elizabeth justice, an Elizabeth constable and Patrolman Vanderweg helped Mr. Tyler make the raid. It hit the place with the unexpectedness of a thunderclap from a cloudless sky, and not a straw impeded the progress of the raiders from start to finish.

Knowing that their intentions to raid were purposely withheld from the police by Mr. Tyler and his fellow councilman and committee member, Evidence was quietly gathered with the aid of a special officer in Mr. Tyler's confidence, and when the councilmen decided that the time for action had come the assistance of Justice Kelly and Constable Terry, of Elizabeth, was enlisted.

The justice, with papers ready for filling in, and the constable came into town Sunday night shortly after 8 o'clock. They were met by Mr. Tyler and Mr. Bullock with two carriages. In one of the carriages were an axe, a crowbar and a sledge hammer. As it turned out, there was no need to use the tools, but had there been no other way of gaining an entrance to the place, force would have been resorted to.

As soon as the Elizabethans were taken in the vehicles the party proceeded to Goff's place. On the way down Officer Vanderweg was picked up from a beat. Mr. Tyler had him remove his helmet and cover his brass buttons, so that no hint of the party's character might be given to chance observers.

The raiders reached Goff's at 9:10. The special officer in the case had given Mr. Bullock the signal ring used by the house, and he stepped to the door and pushed the bell. The door was unlocked, and without waiting for an answer Mr. Bullock stepped inside the hall, followed by the others. The door leading to the barroom from the hall opens outward, and he stepped up close to it on the left side.

Goff himself opened the door. As it swung outward Mr. Bullock shoved his foot inside and flung it open. He sprang inside before the astonished proprietor could collect his wits, and the rest of the party crowded in on his heels. Men were scattered about the tables, card playing and drinking. Mr. Bullock sprang to a table and snatched up a bottle of beer. A man at another table was just putting down a half-emptied glass of whiskey. Mr. Bullock snatched that also. He tasted the contents of both bottle and glass to Foreby himself for testifying in court. The whiskey he poured into a vial brought for the purpose.

The councilmen demanded the names of every man present. The first two approached gave obviously fictitious names, and Mr. Bullock promptly knocked the seriousness of the affair into the heads of those present.

"This is not gallery play, my friends," he said sternly. "This is business. You will either give me your right names or take a ride in the patrol wagon to the station house."

He got the names. Sixteen in all were collected. Goff was the only one arrested under arrest, and the names gathered were not given out.

Justice Kelly made out the papers against Goff, and the hotelkeeper was arraigned at once. He waived examination and was held for the Grand Jury. A bondsman was furnished without delay.

Councilman Bullock was seen in regard to the raid by a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon.

"Was it designed to keep the police entirely in ignorance of the raid?" he was asked.

"What was the use of going to police headquarters?" was the reply. "Goff has been protected right along. The police department does not run the department; Andrew McCardell runs it."

Chief of Police Kiely has been on his vacation for a week, but he was in town over Monday and yesterday. Sergeant Frederickson is acting-chief. Both of them said they were surprised to hear of the raid yesterday.

PLAINFIELDER VICTIM OF MUCH MARRIED WOMAN

MRS. FERREST ADMITS SHE HAS SEVEN HUSBANDS LIVING.

Milton Barnes, formerly of this city, where he is believed to have a wife, is a prominent figure in the case of Mrs. Florence Ferrest, of Paterson, who was arraigned before Justice Abe Cohen, of that city, on Saturday night on a charge of bigamy. Mrs. Ferrest admitted that she has seven husbands living, including Milton Barnes, to whom she was married on August 7, 1904, after a short courtship.

The ceremony took place at the Clinton Street Dutch Reformed church, Paterson, the Rev. William Decker tying the nuptial knot. After four weeks of married life she disappeared and Barnes has not been seen since. She will give no reason for her desertion of Barnes.

Two months later she married Charles Abner, a farmer living near Paterson. Barnes was the son of Gideon Barnes, and lived here for several years. For some time past he was employed as a silk weaver in one of the Paterson mills.

Mrs. Ferrest is about forty years old and is very attractive. She was held in $1,000 bail and committed to jail in default of it.

COUNCIL'S ROUTINE WORK

(Continued From Page 1.)

benefits and damages. Mr. Tolles raised the question as to whether Mr. Tobin could serve on the commission, as he understood he was more or less an interested property owner.

Mr. Wilson stated that Mr. Tobin did not own property within a half-block of the street, but it was decided to lay the matter over until tonight, to which time the Common Council adjourned, on Mr. Tolles' motion, to take up the matter regarding the work of the tax assessors.

Jacob Kriney, of West Front street, presented a petition containing 400 signatures of property owners, asking that a new public school be built on or near West Front street and Clinton avenue. The matter was referred to the public affairs committee.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company informed the Common Council that the water mains in Grandview have been located. One of these has been placed on Park avenue, between North avenue and Fourth street. Harry G. Atwater, who recently purchased a lot on the E. E. Gulick tract of land on Randolph road, asked the Common Council to separate it from the other land, as he desires to pay the taxes on the same. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Negro Hurt in Runaway.

Warren Davis, colored, a driver employed by George Cole, a liveryman, of West Second street, lost control of his horse while driving it down East Fourth street at 7:30 o'clock Monday night, and was painfully hurt in a crash that ended the resulting runaway. The smash-up occurred at Watchung avenue, when the runaway struck a carriage driven by Tucker Johnson, colored, in which Harry Coward was riding. The runaway turned and the carriage crashed against the curb. Davis was thrown out and cut his head in several places. He was taken home in the patrol wagon. The Cole carriage was damaged considerably.

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement, "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mont.

After using Ely's Cream Balm six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh.—Joseph Stewart, Grand Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Balm does not irritate — cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts., or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

Miss Bright a Patroness.

Mrs. Osborne W. Bright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood, is one of the patronesses for a charmingly original entertainment termed "a moonlight banquet" to be given on the evening of Saturday, September 3, at Rock Hall, the residence of Mrs. James A. Hewlett, of Lawrence, L. I. The entertainment is in aid of the Church Charity Foundation.

Local Real Estate Transfers.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded at Elizabeth: John W. Johnson to Sarah J. C. Johnson, lot 13, block A, "Map of Shotwell's property," $1; B. Frank Coriell, sheriff, to Daniel F. Dugan, easterly side Richmond street, corner La Grande avenue, $1,700; John C. Smith et al. to Edwards T. Holland, southwesterly side Spooner avenue, 122 feet of West Sixth street, $500.

F. O. Herring has returned to his home in Park avenue, after spending his vacation at Grand Isle, Vermont.

J. B. Betts has returned from Haines Falls, N. Y., to his home in Washington avenue.

PRIMARY TICKETS FILED

Regular Republicans, Independents and Democrats Hand in Nominees.

CAMPAIGN NOW ON

Contest for Councilmanic Honors in the Third Ward—Fight. Certain in the First.

The Republicans and Democrats filed their primary tickets with City Clerk James T. MacMurray on Saturday night, according to law, and from now on the campaign will be bitterly contested where the "regular" Republicans are to be opposed by independent Democrats. In the First ward four delegates express themselves as being in favor of Ernest R. Ackerman for State Senator and for Dr. A. W. Anderson for councilman at large, while William Starr Bullock will oppose the "machine" nominee, W. L. Gloak, for ward councilman. This is sure to result in a lively fight, for every effort will be made to defeat Mr. Bullock, while the latter's friends will endeavor to keep him in the Common Council. It is probably in the First and Fourth wards that the "machine" is the strongest, and it will do its utmost to win out and regain control of the Common Council. The Democrats make no nominee for Common Council in the First and Second wards, while in the Third ward John W. Connors is nominated, and in the Fourth ward Fred Endress has been chosen for the nomination. In several instances the Democrats have failed to entirely fill out their ticket.

In the Second ward there will be a contest between Theodore D. Wilson, the present councilman, and Daniel F. Ginna, who has been chosen by the "regulars" to oppose him. However, Mr. Wilson and his friends promise to make it interesting. It is the opinion of the "machine" that Mr. Wilson's delegates will not be strong enough to secure his nomination.

In the Third ward J. Stephen Higham has not been mentioned to succeed himself as member of the Common Council at large, and it is understood that Joseph M. Shellabarger will be the choice of the "regulars." The Democrats in the Third ward have selected John W. Connors to stand for the councilmanic nomination, and in the Fourth ward they have selected Fred Endress, the butcher, to make the run.

The only independent opposition to the "regulars" in the Fourth ward is shown in the selection of delegates who favor the nomination of Robert L. Lee for tax collector, but according to the wise ones, Mr. Lee will have the time of his life in securing the plum.

The primaries will be held Tuesday afternoon and night, September 12, from 1 to 9 o'clock, and it is then that the real fight for ward supacy will be made, and in the meantime there is sure to be some hustling on both sides.

The full tickets, Republican and Democratic, as filed at the city clerk's office, are as follows:

Republican Primary Ticket.

First Ward.

Delegates County Convention—Amos Andrews, George A. Ballantyne, Uzal B. Crane, W. E. Dunn, B. Maynard, Caspar Stadele, Seely Edsall, Thomas MacDonald, Charles E. Russell, George W. Taylor (last four named for E. R. Ackerman for State Senator).

Delegates City Convention—Alvah C. Carey, W. J. Douglass, W. E. Dunn, Henry Hansen, Sandford J. Robinson, Herbert Templin, S. P. T. Wilbur, Edward Caldwell, Isaac B. Hill, John H. Rowland, William Symons (last four named for A. W. Anderson for councilman at large).

Member Common Council (vote for one)—William Starr Bullock, William L. Gloak; justice of the peace, John J. Kriney; constable, Peter V. Weaver; members county committee, Amos Andrews, James F. Buckle; members city committee, George G. Adams, James F. Buckle, W. C. Chamberlain, W. E. Dunn, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, Clarence L. Murphy.

Second Ward.

Delegates County Convention—Charles H. Hand, Dr. VanD. Hedges, Robert L. Meeker, Ralph Miner, F. L. Montgomery, William N. Runyon.

Delegates to City Convention—Dr. T. S. Davis, T. M. Day, Jr., Julius E. Erickson, George H. Goddard, F. B. Hanmandi, John C. Hubbard, Fred Kling, Leander N. Lovell, Charles B. Morse, James P. Murray, Edward Willis.

Member Common Council (vote for one)—Daniel F. Ginna, Theodore D. Wilson; justice of the peace, Joseph E. Mosher; constable, no nomination; members county committee, J. Hervey Doane, William R. Townsend; members city committee, J. *Hervey Doane, John E. Keely, Wil*liam R. Townsend.

Third Ward.

Delegates County Convention—Frederick H. Andrews, Leslie M. Daniel, B. Frank Coriell, Alex Muir, Roger F. Murray, David E. Titsworth.

Delegates to City Convention—James W. DeGraff, Alex. Gilbert, James E. Kimball, W. A. Piato, David E. Titsworth, William S. Tyler.

Member Common Council—Leslie M. Daniel; justice of the peace, John Neagle; constable, Amos Moffett; members of county committee, Charles Foster, J. W. Murray, Jr.; members city committee, B. Frank Coriell, Charles Foster, J. W. Murray, Jr.

Fourth Ward.

Delegates County Convention—Elmer D. Cutting, R. B. Dalley, F. H. Firstbrook, George E. Greenleaf, W. L. Hetfield, Jr., W. G. Hutchcroft, Rev. Dr. B. E. Jackson, J. A. Kriney, Frank DeWitt Randolph.

Delegates City Convention—Independents—H. H. Apgar, Juan A. Babcock, E. H. Beekman, Clifford A. Braider, J. A. Green, Henry Liefke, A. R. Martel, Frederick R. Phillips, Stephen H. Tugwell (for Robert L. Lee for tax collector); Regulars—Robert S. Craig, J. H. Cook, Charles H. Dunham, Patrick McNamara, Harry C. Runyon, Charles Sheldon, James Stewart, J. C. Traynor, J. W. Whitehead; Member Common Council, Charles C. Randolph; justice of the peace, Jacob Kriney; constable, no nomination; members county committee, Herbert Buxton, F. H. Smith, William Newcorn; members city committee, Herbert Buxton, F. H. Smith and William Newcorn.

Democratic Primary Ticket.

First Ward.

Delegates County Convention—Vincent L. Frazee, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., John P. Owens.

Delegates to City Convention—Vincent L. Frazee, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., John P. Owens.

Member Common Council—No nomination; justice of the peace, Andrew F. Marsh; constable, Alexander Kane; members county and city committees, no nominations.

Second Ward.

Delegates County Convention—James B. Guttridge, James E. Martine, Charles A. Sturtevant.

Delegates City Convention—Joseph Harrigan, John Hurley, George J. Neilson.

Member Common Council—No nomination; justice of the peace, Hezekiah Hand; constable, members county and city committees, no nominations.

Third Ward.

Delegates County Committee—William H. Harding, Frank J. Shattle.

Delegates City Convention—John W. Connors, Michael D. O'Keefe; member Common Council, John W. Connor; justice of the peace, constable, members county and city committees, no nominations.

Fourth Ward.

Delegates County Convention—George E. Firstbrook, Meyer Leichtentritt, John C. McCarthy, Patrick J. Reville, Stephen H. Schlef.

Delegates City Convention—John F. Casey, George E. Firstbrook, J. C. McCarthy, Patrick J. Reville.

Member Common Council—Fred Endress; justice of the peace, Lucian C. Sheppard; constable, Charles A. Westerfield; members county and city committees, no nominations.

Scotch Plains.

The Republicans and Democrats of Scotch Plains filed their tickets Saturday night and the registry com*menced today.* The Republicans have filed this ticket:

Town committeeman, Edward V. Goodman; town clerk, Edward Hand; member of the executive committee, George Johnston; delegates to county convention, George Johnston, James E. Johnston, Edward V. Goodman, Edward Hand.

The Democrats have selected this ticket:

Town committeeman, George Vanderbilt and Horace Pangborn (vote for one); no nomination for town clerk; tax collector, John Z. Hetfield; delegate to county convention, Theodore Bruehman; member of executive committee, Charles H. French.

Dunellen.

Lists of candidates for Republicans and Democrats were filed on Saturday at Dunellen, the final day of entry. The Republicans entered a full ticket, headed by W. S. Fredericks for mayor; Albert Randolph, councilman for two years; Edward Pencze and J. Nevon Hegy, councilmen for three years. The Democrats had but two candidates' names for entry, Theodore Apgar and William Coons, councilmen for three years.

PRESERVING HINTS.

Jellies are of a finer flavor when the sugar is not boiled long with the juice.

Make not more than a quart at a time, and never, if possible, make it on a damp day.

Roll the tumblers in hot water and let them stand in a pan of hot water one inch deep when filling.

Have the juice perfectly skimmed it is not necessary to strain it just before filling the glasses.

Fill each glass full to the brim.

Set away in a dry place—never carry to a damp cellar.

After making, let stand a few days in a warm place; then cover with a soft paper, cut to fit the inside of the glass, and over that pour melted paraffin.

In all cases where the juice must be pressed, strain it the second time through a finer cloth than the one first used.

Fruit jars may be preserved from cracking if, before filling, they are stood upon a folded towel, soaked in hot water.

Jelly bags for straining the cooked fruit must always be scrupulously clean, with absolutely no flavor of soapsuds remaining in them.

Nearly all jellies are improved in flavor by adding the juice of a lemon to each pint.

If the sugar is heated before being added to the juice it will result in better jelly.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

PASSED OVER MAYOR'S VETO

(Continued From Page 1.)

power and duty devolved upon it by law, without arbitrary restrictions and has been free to consider the welfare, the needs and the desires of all portions of our people and of our territory. Councils of the past have shown that they were worthy of the trust reposed in them. They did not find it desirable to tie their own hands in order to prevent themselves from doing wrong. Nor do I for a moment believe that the present Council needs any such restriction. Who then, does the proposed ordinance seek to bind? Surely Councils of the future should have given credit for equal honesty and intelligence with their own. I consider themselves less worthy than their predecessors.

"At least until our citizens express some desire that such a change should be made it seems to me that no such radical step should be taken.

"(Signed) JAMES F. BUCKLE.
"Mayor."

August 16, 1905.

It was after Mr. Tyler made a move to have the ordinance passed over the Mayor's head, that Mr. Gloak offered his amendment, and at his request, President Daniel allowed Mr. Tyler to address the Common Council relative to the objections offered by the Mayor. Mr. Tyler spoke as follows:

Mr. President:

In advocating the adoption of the ordinance to which the Mayor's message has been sent, notwithstanding the objections of his honor, the Mayor, I desire to say that the committee on ordinance in such simplicity should have aroused so much official comment. The members of committee in recommending the measure had in mind the success of similar measures in other places of the United States, and desired to make trial in Plainfield of that, to us, new plan which has proven to be one of the most helpful methods of regulating the liquor traffic in American cities. The unwillingness of the Mayor that the "experiment" should be tried in Plainfield is difficult for me to account for.

As to the Mayor's first objection to the effect that the ordinance is of doubtful legality and that in the opinion of the corporation counsel, I would merely say that the latter has only carefully gone over with the corporation counsel, but that the form and exact words were approved by him as they stand today. I am very strongly of the impression that this was the case when the members of the Council at the time of the adoption of the ordinance, did not have before them the corporation counsel and I did so much work together in that, changes and corrections and his final approval of the present form of the measure are very vivid in my recollection.

As to the Mayor's objection classed as "second," the statement that the proposed ordinance "attempts to confine the council to places within certain narrow limits," I would merely call attention to the fact that the lines are drawn the same limits, and identically the same as those within which saloons are allowed to continue in business, under the new ordinance as have existed for many years past. To this end I merely desire to avoid a possible interference which might be drawn from the Mayor's way of putting it, that the new ordinance if enacted into law will have the effect of limiting the number or location of saloons any further than they are today or have been substantially for many years past. Saloons not only can remain identically as they are, but special provision is made in the ordinance so as to raise no issue whatever on this point. The object of the ordinance is deeper and more far-reaching than this.

As to the Mayor's statement that the ordinance "attempts to prevent future Councils from considering any application for licenses outside that district," I simply desire to take issue with the Mayor upon this statement as a fact. It does not prevent future Councils from doing anything they please provided they will take the method of procedure which is required by the present ordinances. Any future Council has the same power to repeal this ordinance that they have to pass it. It is only a Council which approves of the present ordinance that the Council that need be guided by the rule which it sets down in the matter of issuance. The impression of the Mayor that the ordinance is an attempt on the part of future Councils in any manner whatever is simply a wrong impression. This Council is believed, in supporting this ordinance, that some definite established rule of procedure or "rule of order" and the very with respect to the granting of liquor licenses would tend to help to meet the question more wisely and beneficially for the interests of the city. A majority of us have been accused that no matter what the character of a particular applicant might be that we were going to grant him a license, but under the present system in this city where there is not only no need of any saloons, but positively a necessity in keeping them out, without injury by so doing to any man, or to the welfare of the city, either that section or any other section; and to put the converse of the proposition, that any man should not be condemned to suffer the injuries of the liquor business, because there was one particular section which had to so suffer. That practically the present number of saloon business in Plainfield has remained substantially unchanged for many years. No years ago there was a movement started which developed increasing sentiment in favor of a movement to upset this established policy that there should be a saloon in each block, and evidence districts. The chief object of the new ordinance is to bring clearly before the people the issue which is involved and to establish permanently the existing rule of order, so to speak, of the Common Council, that the liquor advocates will not be able to come in this long established policy of keeping things where they are, or else, if they are going to upset this policy, and make a new departure, and increase the number of saloons in the outlying portions of our city in search of new territory, that the saloon influence, as it has been their desire for many years during the past two years, they shall not be allowed to do so by merely having an application brought up of an individual, whom they may not know, and whom they can discuss upon the ground of his merits or demerits, and not of the great issue which is involved, namely, whether there are saloons enough as a saloonkeeper to make us willing to keep them out. This is the policy which has worked so well for so many years in keeping things where they are. I desire to call attention again to the falsity of the impression which the opponents of this ordinance seek to create that should prevail in the minds of the people that the new ordinance is aimed at reducing the number of licensed places in any part of the city, either within or without the area named. It is simply an expression of our determination to keep things where they are, and to prevent the liquor advocates from getting the increase and foothold of any hamlet which they so constantly hunger after. We want to put this matter into each established form as an ordinance that the people may understand it, and be familiar with the tricks and methods resorted to by these people to get what they want, with which end in view I am willing that if the liquor advocates don't want any more saloons than they have now, and don't want to spread over any more territory than they occupy at the present, they will never need to repeal this ordinance, and therefore will never hear in the future that an ordinance repealing it has been brought up for the first and second reading, they will be warned that it must mean the desire on the part of the Council to put this as an obstacle standing in his way to do that very thing. I am glad that there is somebody who wants to put aside the barrier which has been established for so many years and this is the only object of this ordinance.

Let us consider the so-called building certificate clause. The fact that the area within which wooden buildings may not be constructed, would not affect the Mayor's argument apply equally to this clause. I shall not be heard, however, that believes that it is the duty of the Council to receive every application which may come regularly before it from any part of the city and to give each application consideration separately. Why if it is wrong for us not to consider the application of John Smith for a saloon license in a residential portion of the city separately by itself, is it not equally wrong for us by a similar ordinance to say that we will not consider the application of a citizen John Smith for the right to construct a wooden building in a similar location? If the public good is advanced by establishing such ordinances that certain portions of the city shall have no wooden buildings in them, how may not the public good be similarly advanced by establishing a similar rule that no saloons shall be located in certain portions of the city?

The real question, gentlemen, is whether or not the public good is conserved by the principle embodied in the ordinance which is before us, and which it has been almost impossible to get our opponents to discuss fairly and squarely with us. The question is do we want more saloons than we have now, or do we want them. Is the precedent of many *years standing with us substantially ex*isting, or shall we have a new departure, of our city a good precedent or not? If it is well and good for the present majority against our placing the principle in the permanent form of an ordinance? We don't limit them any more than they are limited at present.

The Mayor's argument with respect to the pending negotiations for the sale of the Setterwood hotel property are somewhat threadbare. I do not mean to be disrespectful, but it occurs to me that I have heard every time the discussion of this ordinance has been before the Council, now more than a year, that the negotiations for the sale of that property were just about to be consummated. However that may be, I desire to avoid in language that will not differ from the Mayor's message when he says "no matter how many or how good the reasons, not how unanimous the sentiment in favor of some form of action in the hands of the Council would be tied, and it could not be taken away even by the power which the Legislature has reposed in it." Of course the Mayor cannot mean that no further action is required this ordinance by inserting just such a provision as it does in the ordinance to enact. The Council could also repeal it. But by this means it has no power to do so. Is that a safeguard?

As to the remarks of the Mayor under the third title of his message that "a few years ago" it was decided by the voters of the city by a substantial majority that the present system of liquor traffic was satisfactory," if this is so why does His Honor oppose our sincere effort along this line? Why seek to make permanent the most essential and important feature in all the present system, for if I am right in my belief, in regard to public sentiment in Plainfield, to-day the saloon is the liquor business here there is no one point for which the people will stand more strenuously than that the saloons shall not get into the residence districts of our city. As to the fact that the Mayor's remarks earlier in his message would indicate that he was not on the subject admit that the principle of keeping the saloons where they are and not *allowing them to spread into the resi*dence district of the city, is and was quite as close to the hearts of the people as any other for which they voted at the time to which the Mayor refers.

At the conclusion of Mr. Tyler's remarks, the vote on the amendment was taken and lost, and the vote on the passage of the ordinance was taken and carried. The ordinance will be advertised for ten days, according to the city charter, and will then be in effect.

DIED.

WALLACE—In this city, Wednesday, August 30, 1905, Rev. Scott Wallace, in his 54th year.

RANDOLPH—On Thursday, Aug. 31, 1905, Marie Antoinette, widow of Thompson E. F. Randolph, in the 74th year of her age.

HARRISON—On Tuesday, September 5, 1905, Anamelia, wife of George Harrison, aged 54 years.

WINN—On Wednesday, August 30, 1905, Ella N., wife of Charles R. Winn, aged 29 years, 9 months, 13 days.

POPE—Suddenly, on Monday, September 4, 1905, David S. Pope.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY.

UNION COUNTY SURROGATE'S OFFICE.

Application being made to me for letters of administration upon the estate of James H. Southard, late of Elizabeth, the bond therein represented that he was a resident of the City of Plainfield, in this county, and that he has assisted himself from this state for over seven years last past successfully and has not been absent from the state during that period, and that it is believed that he is dead:

It is ordered this day of August, 1905, ORDERED that cause be shown before me at the surrogate's office in the City of Elizabeth, in said County, on the twenty-sixth day of September next, why letters of administration should not be granted to Anna A. Southard, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided:

And it is further ordered that this order be published once a week for four weeks successively in the Plainfield Constitutionalist, a paper published at Plainfield in said County.

GEO. T. PARROT,
Surrogate Union County, N. J.

8 24 4

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided. Use the service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau
Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited
P O Box 132, Dunellen, N J, or ad dress at one of Constitutionalist
Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN D. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters.
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending here. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order, Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres'ts
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, others to remain at home. Others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established reliable house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. Spare moments, brilliant future. Write at once,
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

W. B. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery; Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Aves
Plainfield, N. J

SECOND JURY DISAGREES

Harrison's Suit Against Stanbery Again Fails to Bring About a Verdict.

SENSATION IN COURT

Foreman of Jury Alleges One of Its Members Held Unshakable Opinion Against Plaintiff.

After a three-hour deadlock in the jury room as in the first trial, the case of Oscar Harrison against William R. Stanbery, for the value of the horse and carriage destroyed in the fatal auto accident, ended in a disagreement in Justice VonMinden's court, Dunellen, Friday. This time the preponderance of opinion in the jury room was for the plaintiff. The foreman, in reporting to the justice and counsel, said bluntly that the ballot was ten to two for Harrison.

In making his report the foreman sprung something of a sensation. He declared that one of the two men who held out for Stanbery had perjured himself when he swore he had formed no opinion at the examination of the talesmen, and that he entered the box with an unshakeable opinion against Harrison.

Aside from the jury matter there was little of interest in the suit. The afternoon testimony, but for one thing, was, like the morning's proceedings, pretty much of a reproduction of the first hearing.

One new point was introduced, and a new statement was brought before the jury, although the actual presentation of it as evidence was not allowed by the court.

The new point was a statement from Joseph Rutledge, who rode with Harrison in the runabout at the time of the accident, regarding a conversation held by him with George Stoller, a motorman, who testified to having seen Harrison driving fast at Dealaman's grocery store, just before the accident. Rutledge swore that Stoller told him that Stanbery followed the car from Plainfield avenue to Dunellen, and that he was continually cutting back and forth across the tracks. This testimony was not denied by Stoller.

Only one witness was brought into court by the defense, and his testimony was promptly ruled out. The witness was Freeholder W. A. Westphal, husband of the woman who died as a result of the crash. Mr. Westphal started to give a statement said to have been made by his wife on her deathbed. Lawyer W. L. Hetfield, Jr., for the plaintiff, immediately objected.

"May the court please," broke in Mr. Swackhamer quickly, "we merely wish to present the fact that Mrs. Westphal, as she lay in the shadow of death, affirmed that the accident was not the fault of Mr. Stanbery; that he was on the right side of the road, and was not to be blamed."

"That sort of testimony is utterly inadmissible in this action," said Mr. Hetfield, and the court so ruled. Mr. Swackhamer appeared to be satisfied with the way in which he got the statement before the jury.

An effort was made to impeach the testimony of Mrs. James Boice, who made a strong witness for the plaintiff. She testified at the previous hearing that she had no conversation with counsel before going on the stand. William Sanford, who was Harrison's counsel for a few days after the accident, went on the stand to prove that she did not speak to him. Then Mr. Hetfield brought out the fact that Mrs. Boice's answer was based on the impression that he was the lawyer referred to in the question. The impeachment fell flat.

All the testimony was in at 4:45. Mr. Swackhamer summed up first. He made a sentimental plea, much on the same lines as his address in the first trial. He spoke for twenty-five minutes. Mr. Hetfield reviewed the evidence for twenty minutes.

Mr. Swackhamer requested the court to charge that if Harrison contributed in any way to the accident he was equally liable and no verdict could be found for him. Mr. Hetfield asked the court to charge that if Harrison's contributory negligence was induced by fright, no attention must be paid to such negligence. The justice charged as requested, speaking very briefly.

The jury went out at about 5:30. At 8 o'clock they came in and called for the court and the lawyers. The foreman reported that there was no hope of agreement.

"I will lock you up all night," declared the justice.

The foreman stepped forward.

"Your honor," he said earnestly, "what are we going to do when there is a man who perjured himself on the jury, whose opinion cannot be shaken? We stand ten for damages and two for no cause of action, and one of the two came into the jury box, by his own admission to us, with an opinion formed."

The justice decided that the discharge of the jury was the only action to take under the circumstances.

It is said that the man referred to by the foreman rode on Motorman Stoller's car the day of the accident, and that he claims to have seen Harrison driving fast, as the motorman swore. If he had an opinion formed when he went into the box, he is liable to punishment under the law, but Lawyer Hetfield said last night that no action would be taken. His name is known.

It is known that only one ballot was taken by the jury. The vote went ten to two for the plaintiff from the beginning and stayed that way.

Preparations have been made for another trial. The new hearing is set for September 21.

"We will fight this thing to a finish," said Mr. Hetfield last night.

PASTORS RETURNING.

Local Pulpits Will Soon Be Occupied by Regular Clergymen.

The time is drawing near when many of the Plainfield pastors will return from their summer outings and again resume their pastoral work. The first to return is Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, who will occupy his pulpit on Sunday.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will return in time to be in his pulpit on Sunday, September 10. Next Sunday Rev. George A. Francis will preach morning and night.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie will not return until Sunday, September 17. Next Sunday Rev. Dr. Mott, of Elizabeth, will preach in his pulpit and on September 10 Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union College, will be the preacher.

Among the other pastors who will return early in September are Rev. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational; Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. Dr. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church. Aside from a few short trips, Rev. George Mooney, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, has not been away for any length of time.

POINTS FOR THE PUBLIC FROM THE POSTOFFICE

CARELESSNESS OF SENDERS HINDERS THE EMPLOYES.

There are many things in connection with the postoffice management with which it would be well for the people to become familiar, especially business men and all having large and important correspondence. As a general rule the public seems disposed to be a bit careless regarding tne mail facilities, leaving a large part of the business to the postal authorities in happy-go-lucky fashion. That the government does not do business in any but an iron bound way is daily exemplified at every first class postoffice in the country. In this city there are hundreds of instances where the rules cut off mail matter.

Mailing cards are a source of annoyance to the department. A large portion of the population seems to think they will go without stamps. Mailing cards without stamps affixed in the upper right hand corner will not go further than the postoffice. It is a habit largely prevalent to write a message on the address side of these cards. Such writing is prohibited, and cards with anything but the address, or "if not delivered," etc., in the upper left hand corner, will be held up subject to additional postage. As many as fifty of these mailing cards are held up every day for the above reasons, and senders would confer a favor by remembering the rules of the department.

Another source of trouble is the way some people deposit mail at the local office. The slots are properly lettered, and if the mail is put into the right slot it is promptly handled. If not it is delayed and the sender wonders why he does not receive an answer sooner. This occurs in the morning and at night more than at any other time of the day, because in the morning the city delivery is gotten out of the way before the foreign mail is touched. Mixed in the foreign mail after the city delivery has gone out is often found matter for local delivery, which should have been put into the local slot. At night the reverse is the case. Foreign mail is attended to and sorted out while the local mail is left until the next morning. It is often found that mail intended for foreign delivery has been dumped in with the local mail, and has by that means missed a half day.

Orchestra to Resume.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra will resume rehearsals on September 11. Martin A. Korff will continue to lead the organization.

Miss Elizabeth Day, cashier at Roth & Co.'s market on East Front street, will return next week from her vacation. During her absence her sister has been filling her place.

THE CLEANSING AND HEALING CURE FOR CATARRH

CATARRH

is

Ely's Cream Balm

Easy and pleasant to use. Contains no injurious drug.

It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once.

It Opens and Cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation.

COLD IN HEAD

Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Large Size, 50 cents, at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10 cents, by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York

ROBINSON'S DEPARTURE

It is Regretted By Hotel Keeper Leary and Others Who Trusted Him.

A GLIB TALKER

Claimed to Be Internal Revenue Inspector and Spent Good Part of His Time Sampling Wet Goods.

James Robinson, who claimed Washington as his home, registered at the Hotel Iroquois a week ago, and from all accounts he thoroughly enjoyed himself here among his newly-made friends. He left the hotel yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, and in his room was found a dress suit case with very little in it. His sudden disappearance at once gave rise to many rumors, and there are several Plainfielders who are now looking for him.

Mr. Robinson came here representing himself as an internal revenue inspector, and judging from his actions he was thoroughly posted on the subject of good liquors and the laws governing its sale. He inspected the liquors at the Iroquois and at several other places in the city, and soon after his arrival he found many friends. He made himself solid with Proprietor Jerome W. Leary by telling him that he knew many of his relatives and friends down East, where Mr. Leary formerly lived. He claimed to know Frank Linke, and to a chance acquaintance at the hotel he referred to many of his friends whom he had met abroad. Mr. Robinson talks several languages, and this helped him to gain a good foothold into various circles, and he appeared to be meeting friends every little while, all of which strengthened the belief of others in him.

During the week he got Chris. Glockler to cash a $30 check for him, but there are no funds to meet it, and at his request Mr. Leary gave him one of his own blank checks, which he filled out, but for what amount is not known. Mr. Leary, who later became suspicious, went to his bank and stopped payment on the check should it be presented with his name. Up to yesterday afternoon the check had not been returned to the bank. There was another check which found its way to the bank at Bound Brook, but it was not honored.

While in town Mr. Robinson tried to purchase less than a quart of liquor at a wholesale place, but was not successful. Although it is not believed that Mr. Robinson is an internal revenue inspector, inquiry will be made concerning him and an effort made to find him. Those who met him while here say that he was a delightful talker and polished in his manner. He owes Mr. Leary for a week's board and $3 borrowed money, and the hotel proprietor considers himself lucky that it is not a larger amount.

GIRL'S LONG TRIP.

Made Journey from Russia to Trenton Unaccompanied.

Reabey Marovich, aged fifteen, arrived at Trenton on Wednesday night from Russia, from which place she traveled alone to the residence of her uncle, Max Bernstein, 190 South Broad street.

The long journey was a remarkable one for a person of her age, but she did not mind it in the least and had little difficulty in finding her destination.

The girl left her home in Minsky, Province of Russia, about three weeks ago. The town is situated quite a distance from St. Petersburg.

When she left her home a tag was fastened to the waist she wore, and one, made of muslin, was sewed fast to her clothing, in case the other became lost.

Her father and two brothers, with whom she lived, drove her to a railway station, and then the girl's long journey was begun. After riding on railway trains for several days she arrived at Hamburg, where she was placed on an ocean liner bound for this country.

She traveled second class and carried with her two large packages, which contained her bedding, and a sum of money. She spent twelve days on the sea and arrived in this country last Tuesday. She was seasick for two days.

When she reached New York the steamship officials placed her on a Pennsylvania railroad train bound for Trenton.

Arriving at the Clinton street depot, trainmen read the message written on the tag and placed her in a cab. The cab driver had some little difficulty in understanding where she wanted to go. He notified Patrolman Jacob Walters, who took her to the home of her uncle, Max Bernstein.

The girl is now at the home of her sister, Mrs. Reuben Lavine, 61 Union street, Trenton.

Harold Nelson, of East Fifth street, left Monday for a two weeks' stay at Washington, D. C.

Arthur B. Caleen, of Orchard place, has been visiting at Niagara Falls and Montreal, Canada.

Knights of Columbus' Outing.

The annual outing of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, will be held at Sebring's Mills, on Sunday, September 10.

STATE GEOLOGIST IS LOOKING OVER FORESTS

MAJORITY OF TRACTS OFFERED HIM ARE UNFIT FOR PRESERVES.

State Geologist Henry B. Kummel, acting for the State Forestry Commission, is actively prosecuting the work of preparing for the establishment of State forest preserves under the plan outlined by Governor Stokes in his inaugural address and embodied in the act passed by the Legislature last winter.

Following the organization of the commission several weeks ago, it was announced that the State was ready to purchase tracts of forest lands under an appropriation of $14,000, made by the Legislature, and offers of all sorts of forest lands were made to the commission. Professor Kummel has been busy the past two or three weeks investigating these offers, and has been assisted by Dr. John Gifford, of Princeton, formerly forester at Cornell University, and F. R. Meier, a consulting forester, of Mahwah, Bergen county.

Professor Kummel stated yesterday in an interview that most of the tracts tendered are utterly unfit for the purpose of forest preserves. Most of those offering to sell, he said, seemed to have the idea that they could unload on the State any kind of forest lands at a fancy price. Many of the tracts offered, when investigated, proved to be small detached forests surrounded by improved farm lands.

A few tracts have been found, however, that are adapted to the purpose for which the State wants them, that is, for permanent State forest reservations. One of these is a tract of 1,600 acres in Cumberland county, near the Cape May county line. This is assessed at $3 an acre, but the owner has offered it to the State for $2 an acre.

The tracts that have been found suitable by Professor Kummel and his assistants will be recommended to the State commission, and it is expected the commissioners will arrange to purchase them. Action is likely to be taken in a short time and the work of establishing the preserves will then be undertaken.

Professor Kummel stated that although the law creating the commission empowered it to employ whatever assistants may be needed, it is not likely that a State forester will be appointed for some time. He said the commissioners would employ consulting foresters until the new department is thoroughly established.

APPLE RECIPES.

Apple Fritters.

Cut a dozen large, juicy apples into slices after peeling and coring them. Throw the slices into the batter. Have ready a pan of equal parts of lard and butter, boiling hot. Take the batter up in a ladle, allowing a slice of apple to each fritter, and drop into the hot lard. Fry brown, drain a moment and serve with powdered sugar and nutmeg.

Apple Custard Pie.

Stew the apples with plenty of sugar and let them cool. Mix the yolks of six eggs witn a full pint of the stewed apples; season with nutmeg and cinnamon. Add a quart of milk gradually, stirring well; then add the well-beaten whites of six eggs. This pie can be made with or without top crust, or with a crust in lattice.

Apple Merringue Pie.

Pare and slice tart apples, stew and sweeten them, mash them smooth and flavor with lemon juice and a little nutmeg. Line a pieplate with rich pie crust and fill it with the cooked apples. Put over the top of the apples a thick merringue. This pie is to be eaten cold.

Apple Salad.

Cut small round slices from the top of six nice King apples, hollow them out, making the pieces as large as possible. Do not spoil the shapes of the apples. Cut the scoopings in small squares and put them in a bowl. Cut, also the same size, the same quantity of white celery hearts and English nuts. Have half a pint of mayonnaise. Mix it with the salad, and finish with quarter of a pint of whipped cream. Mix gently and serve in the apples.

Apple Souffle.

Peel and slice six apples, put them in a pan, add a cupful of water and a cupful of sugar and let the apples cook until they become soft enough to pass through a sieve. Dissolve a small teaspoonful of cornstarch in a glassful of milk, set it over the fire and when it becomes thick add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs to it. Remove from the fire, stir into it the apple pulp and beat until it is thoroughly smooth; then stir in the whites of four eggs beaten to a stiff broth. Pour into a souffle tin and put into the oven at once. In fifteen minutes it will be cooked.—Harper's Cook Book.

The New London Day says that "Warry" MacLaughlin, who is pitching for the New London team, has earned his graduation into faster company. "Warry" has been making a great record in the Connecticut State League, this year, despite the wretched support given him.

Miss Goldie Wollenberg and niece, Pauline, of Paterson, were the guests of I. M. Rubenstein, of East Seventh street, over Labor Day.

C. H. SCHERMERHORN, VETERAN OF THE KEY

INTERESTING CAREER OF WELL-KNOWN PLAINFIELD TELEGRAPHER.

In New York City yesterday the convention of the Old Time Telegraphers, Magnetic and Historic Society assembled in convention to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary. This organization is composed of men who have been engaged in the telegraph business for a period of twenty years, or who have been closely identified with the progress and development of telegraphy since its inception. Many of these are today the officials of telegraph and telephone companies and steam and electric railroads, while others are acting in the capacity of managers of local telegraph offices or are still working at the key.

Among this aggregation of men to whom credit is due for the highly developed telegraphic facilities of today, New Jersey has a unique representative at the convention in Charles H. Schermerhorn, of this city, who is ranked as an "old timer of the old times," and to him this rank justly belongs, he having been an operator since 1848, when he started in as a messenger boy and assistant to Joseph Worl, who at that time was in charge of the telegraph office at New Hope, Pa. Mr. Schermerhorn was then a lad of seventeen. One year later he was placed in charge of the office and remained there until 1851, when he was transferred to Princeton.

In those days there were but few telegrams handled, and the offices at New Hope, Pa., and Princeton were used principally as testing stations, from which all wires running north and south were tested, and it was a part of the operator's work to do repair work on the line when necessity required it, after a sleet storm or a high wind.

Mr. Schermerhorn has often walked from New Hope to Philadelphia, carrying a pair of iron climbers, a small coil of wire and other equipment used in repairing broken wires. The Western Union Telegraph Company was practically unknown at that time. The Magnetic Telegraph Company did all business between New York, Philadelphia and the South. In 1853 Mr. Schermerhorn was transferred from the Princeton office to New York City, where he worked in several branch offices as operator, and was later made manager of the office located in Barnum's Museum.

He also worked for some time in the main office, which was then located on Hanover street. The operating force consisted of six operators and the manager at that time. Early in 1856 a cable was laid across the East River and a telegraph office was opened in Brooklyn, with Mr. Schermerhorn as manager. The office was only doing business about two months, when a schooner passing up the river picked up the cable, tore it loose and put the office out of business. Messages were then delivered by boys, who traveled to the City of Churches via the ferry.

Owing to the delay in delivering telegrams in this way the company abandoned its Brooklyn service temporarily. In 1857 an office was opened at Burlington, and Mr. Schermerhorn, then working in the office at New York, was transferred to the new office and made its manager, continuing as such until 1863, when he was transferred to Beverly, where the soldiers were in encampment during the war.

During this period business was very heavy at this office, hundreds of messages being sent by soldiers to their families and sweethearts. While in charge of this office Mr. Schermerhorn was ably assisted by his wife, who acted as receiving clerk, taking in all messages offered for transmission and collecting the money for them. The family of General Grant was living at Beverly at this time and his children attended the Episcopal Sunday school, where Mrs. Schermerhorn was their teacher. General Grant was a personal friend of Mr. Schermerhorn's, who often would sit up all night in the telegraph office handling telegrams for the general.

Mr. Schermerhorn was also personally acquainted with Generals Sherman and Sheridan, to whom he had been introduced by General Grant. The introduction is one, the old man says, he will never forget. When General Grant presented him to the other distinguished generals he said:

"Gentlemen, this man has kept me in close touch with the situation at the front. He has been a great help to me."

After the troops were taken from Beverly, Mr. Schermerhorn was returned to the office at Burlington. In 1870 a number of new offices were opened in the State, among them being the one here, and Mr. Schermerhorn was given his choice of the lot. At this time his wife was in ill health, the doctor having ordered her to a change of climate, where the air was not so damp as along the Jersey coast.

After a month's deliberation he chose Plainfield and has been here ever since. He is respected by every one that has the pleasure of his acquaintance. He is a man of pleasing personality whose kindly ways have won for him the friendship, admiration and respect of his fellow townsmen and business associates. Mr. Schermerhorn is now nearing his seventy-fifth birthday. Notwithstanding his advanced age he attends to business regularly every day and is on duty from 7 o'clock in the morning until the same hour in the evening. He has two assistants and seven messenger boys and handles the major portion of the telegraph business done in this city of 25,000 inhabitants, with the astuteness and agility of a man of thirty years.

He has never been confined to his bed by any illness more serious than a heavy cold, although he has always done the heaviest kind of telegraphic work. His grip on the key is as firm today as it was twenty years ago. To a Daily Press reporter he said that he would attend the old-timers' convention for three days this week, and that he never felt better in his life. When told that he was an open defiance to the theories advanced by Dr. Osler, he said:

"If Osler and his kind would devote some of their time to bettering the conditions of their fellowmen instead of suggesting they be killed at a certain age this would be a much better world. It is men in the doctor's condition of mind that make the struggle in this world a hard one."

CHIDSEY CO'S. EFFECTS DISPOSED OF AT AUCTION

ENTIRE OUTFIT SOLD TO NEW YORK MAN FOR $15,575.

Pursuant to an order issued by Judge William M. Lanning, of the United States District Court, the entire contents of the Chidsey Stables, at Prince street and Irvington avenue, Elizabeth, were sold at auction yesterday morning to A. W. Rade, a horsedealer, of New York city, for $15,575. The property consisted of ninety-one horses, thirty-four vans and wagons, eighteen sets double harness, twelve sets single harness, stable and office fixtures and a complete blacksmithing outfit.

R. W. Lewis, of the Union County Trust Company, the receiver for the property, said that he considered the price a good one.

The bidding started at $14,000, and was raised to the selling figure by $50 and $25 bids.

There was a large attendance, and the scenes in and about the great building resembled a country fair. Many would-be purchasers supposed the horses, wagons, etc., would be sold singly, or in lots to suit, and many were disappointed at the decision of the parties most interested to sell all in one lot.

Representatives from several of the large horse-dealing concerns of Newark, New York and other cities inspected the stock, but only a few of them offered bids. The first bid of $14,000 was made by Frederick L. Heidritter, who is a large creditor. The Rankin delivery concern, which has succeeded to much of Chidsey's business, made no bid, much to the surprise of many.

J. M. C. Marsh, of Westfield, was the auctioneer, and after the bidding was started, made the sale in a short time.

Rade bought in the goods on speculation, and will sell all at auction at the same place on Wednesday. The Chidsey Company operated its wagons in this city, delivering goods for many of the New York dry goods houses.

SCANDALIZED CARFULL.

Angry Negress Loosed Stream of Profanity and Obscenity in Trolley.

On one of the early evening cars between Scotch Plains and this city Thursday a negro woman created a good deal of scandalized excitement among the other women passengers by her profane and obscene tirade against three young men who annoyed her. The woman defied the conductor, and talked herself out without interruption. The young men said something the negress didn't like, and she turned on them like a drunken fishwoman. The stream of cuss words and worse that streamed from her mouth caused the carfull of people to gasp.

The women passengers were outraged, and one of them demanded that the conductor stop the affair. He tried to quiet the negress, but she was thoroughly aroused and refused to stop. She talked on until she reached the end of her passion, and after that she was as silent as the proverbial clam. The young men who started her carefully avoided any reference to things calculated to arouse her again. Her tongue was too much for them to match.

Ye Sleuth at Rest.

Detective F. S. McCarthy, the only plain clothes man on the police force, has started on his two weeks' vacation. He is enjoying the early part of it on a walking tour along the Raritan Canal, McCartny expected to have his share of the Long reward for vacation money, but the Van Nuis suit forced him to depend on the pile he has been carefully nurturing during the past two months.

Sues Sanitarium Owner.

Through their lawyer, Francis J. Blatz, of this city, J. F. Noll & Company have brought suit on contract against J. W. Horter, in Justice Hand's court. Horter conducts the Resthaven Sanitarium, back of Scotch Plains, and the plaintiffs, who are nurserymen, sue for the value of shrubbies and other plants alleged to have been placed there. The hearing is set for September 12.

WORK OF C. E. UNION

Executive Committee Plans For Beginning New Year's Activities.

CONGRESS MEETING

Central Representative Body Will Hold Its First Session at Faith Chapel on September 14.

Preliminary arrangements for the inauguration of the new year's work were made by the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union at a meeting of the executive committee Thursday, held at the home of Miss Mildred Green. Plans were made for the first congress meeting, which is to be held Thursday night, September 14, at Faith chapel. Within a month the union will be engaged in its work with the full vigor of its strength.

The congress of tne union is the central representative body of the organization. It is composed of two representatives from each society, and governs the movements of all the branches. The president of each society is one of the two representatives. The union was formed to argument the effectiveness of C. E. work and to bring the workers together in closer intimacy.

The congress will map out the work of the coming year in detail. It will meet every two months for reports, and missionary work in the city will probably receive a noticeable stimulus from its labors.

The following are the officers of the league: President, Fred C. Lounsbury; vice president, Miss Georgiana Gallaway; secretary, Miss A. M. Greene; treasurer, Clarence B. LaRue.

The churches represented are the First Presbyterian, Congregational, Trinity Reformed, Park Avenue Baptist and Seventh-Day Baptist churches; Faith chapel and Warren chapel, of Plainfield; the First Presbyterian church, of Dunellen; the Seventh and First-Day Baptist churches, of New Market; the South Plainfield Baptist church and Washingtonville chapel.

MARE KICKED SPECIAL TRAINING CART TO BITS

AND FURNISHED AMUSEMENT CROWD ON PLAINFIELD AVENUE.

In his effort to break a kicking mare, Benjamin F. Ruckman, of Plainfield avenue, furnished exciting amusement for a crowd of 200 people Wednesday afternoon. He hitched the mare to a specially built cart, consisting simply of two long shafts and a small boxlike seat set far back out of reach of the mare's heels, climbed into the seat, and turned the mare loose in the yard back of his place on the corner of Second street. The mare got busy right away. She squealed and kicked furiously, and it wasn't long before a small mob gathered. Out of reach of the flying heels, Ruckman sawed on the lines and whipped the mare, talked to her, coaxed her, and advised earnestly to mend her ways and be good. The crowd enjoyed the fun hugely, and added spice to the situation by firing advice at the driver.

Things went well enough for Ruckman, considering everything, until the harness shifted in some way, and allowed the mare to slip back in the shafts. As soon as the straps began to give the mare seemed to divine Ruckman's idea in putting the seat as far to the rear and started to squirm back with all her might. Almost before the driver knew it she was in position to reach his perch and her heels commenced to rattle against it. Ruckman jumped out in a hurry, and started for the mare's head, but before he could get a restraining hand on her she kicked the box in flinders with a triumphant squeal. Then she calmed down and consented to go back to her stall.

Mr. Ruckman has dealings with soap fat people. There is a large chance that that mare will soon repose gracefully, in square chunks, on bathroom and laundry racks.

Real Estate Activity.

The following real estate transactions have recently been consummated through John P. Emmons' agency: Mrs. Julia Peck's property, 35 Grove street, to Alida V. Giles; Andrew H. Wilson's lot on East Front street to Emanuel Schloss; Eugene Pope's house, 176 Duer street, to John H. Johnson; Edward J. Demarest's lot, 810 Park avenue, to C. M. Camp; No's. 85-87 Somerset street, to Moses Bender; Mrs. Julia Peck's property, 19 Prospect place, to Isaac P. Runyon; six lots on George street to Alfonso Colucci; Mrs. L. J. Taylor's property, 829 Park avenue, to Ida J. Fisher; No. 423 West Fourth street to Cormick Caulfield; John E. Stewart's property at West Seventh and John streets, to Sidney L. Perrin; Mrs. Dufficy's property, 328 East Fourth street, to Ernest White; Sinclair Stuart's property, 819 Park avenue, to Dr. Monroe B. Long; R. B. Van Arsdale's lot on West Fifth street, to Henry Lyles; C. H. Rugg's house, 955 West Fifth street, to Charles E. Lyles.

MAY DISREGARD FUSION

There is Possibility of a Straight Borough Democratic Ticket.

ANGER IN RANKS GROWS

Fellow Committeeman Criticises Swackhamer Bitterly—He is Held Responsible for Muddle—Deal Alleged.

Feeling against a hybrid ticket continued to grow among the supporters of a straight slate in the ranks of the borough Democrats yesterday, when the newspapers came out in the afternoon and made the facts of the conference between the Democratic committee and the Honeyman-Armstrong - Runyon - Debele committee became general property, the rank and file of the Democracy developed a strong sentiment against endorsing the action taken by the Swackhamer committee.

So strong had the feeling become by this morning that a prominent Democrat declared the signs pointed to the filing of a straight party ticket tonight in spite of the nominating committee's action.

Several old-line party men have registered their protest against this action to Mr. Conroy, it is said, and it is known that J. V. N. Willis, for one, spoke plainly to the fusion candidate-elect this morning. Mr. Willis is understood to have estimated Mr. Conroy's chances of election on a mixed ticket as about equal to those of a snowball in a place not on the map.

Among the party men the tendency to hold Mr. Swachamer to account for the whole affair increased every hour, until he was generally credited with the whole responsibility.

A member of his own committee —not James Daly, who was supposed yesterday to have been the only committee man at the conference to object to the course adopted—spoke bitterly of Mr. Swackhamer's leadership to a Daily Press reporter last night.

"He is the most vacciliating man I ever had dealings with," he said. "He isn't sure of his own opinions from one minute to another. That man hasn't backbone enough to enjoy good health."

Another prominent Democrat was not so charitable in his estimate of the former assemblyman. He accused him of working a deal.

"The 'little black man' in the borough muddle," he said bluntly, "is that, in the event of the Citizens' movement being successful, S. S. Swackhamer is booked for borough counsel and Isaac P. Runyon for borough clerk."

The Republicans are naturally delighted with the dissension in the camp of the enemy. They are not afraid of anything the Cits may do, and an out-and-out split in the Democratic ranks contains only the promise of complete success for Mayor Smalley and his fellow candidates.

ROCKEFELLER'S SON TO DIRECT HIS GIFTS

OIL KING'S HEIR SUGGESTS SYSTEM FOR MAKING BEQUESTS.

New York, Sept. 2.—Hereafter all gifts from John D. Rockefeller will be given with regard to a system originated by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., from personal European observations made by the latter. Young Mr. Rockefeller has conferred with his father on the matter, and gained the multi-millionaire's consent to his modern ideas.

It is said that Mr. Rockefeller, while in Europe last winter, was greatly impressed by large gifts of money made for the public good by wealthy Europeans. After returning to New York, he spoke to his father about making similar contributions here. The oil king agreed with his son, and will follow the young man's advice in the matter of all future charitable bequests.

It is also hinted that the new contributions of the Rockefellers for educational and other purposes this year will so far surpass those they have heretofore made that the announcement of them will startle the country.

BICYCLE THIEVERY.

Another Wheel Stolen on North Avenue, and Cops Are Worried.

A Crescent bicycle, almost new, belonging to K. V. Koch, was stolen yesterday afternoon from the hallway of the Smalley building, North avenue. Koch is an employe of H. C. Van Emburgh, the civil engineer.

The theft was reported to the police. The notice of it resulted in a general order to the cops to keep a watch out for bike thieves, and the two wheels stolen within as many days in the past week. There is a fear at police headquarters that another outbreak of bike thieving such as swept over the city not long ago is beginning. The police will land heavily on any wheel thief they get into their clutches.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Carroll and daughters, of Westervelt avenue, are home from their summer outing.

A. W. MOORE QUESTIONS LIMITED FRANCHISES

LOCAL PROPERTY OWNER SENDS OPEN LETTER TO ASSEMBLYMAN COLBY.

A. W. Moore, who until recently was the head of an extensive jewelry manufacturing company in Newark, and who is now the president of the Home and Investment Building Company, of the same city, on August 24 wrote the following letter to Assemblyman Everett Colby, who is now making an independent campaign for the nomination for State Senator in Essex county:

"Dear Sir: Your campaign being conducted in such a creditable manner and your frequent invitations to free discussion of the principles involved encourage me to submit the following conditions to you. I own eighty acres of land, with a long front in Plainfield avenue, which runs from Plainfield to South Plainfield. This is a very fine macadamized avenue, but my property is worth no more now than it was fifty years ago. In connection with other interested property owners I have for some time been trying to get Public Service to run the trolley line along Plainfield avenue, but have not been successful. There is a cash price at which I would gladly sell my property, but would refuse three times the amount if trolley service was there. I am not only anxious to give Public Service an unlimited franchise, but would guarantee to build not fewer than ten houses on my land, within one year, if they would run the trolley past it. Now, if we could thrust this "valuable franchise" upon Public Service, my property would be much more valuable, the municipality would be able to collect several times the present amount of taxes, beautiful sites for homes would be made accessible, and I would like to know who, according to your theory, would be injured? In view of the present conditions of our politics, it is not likely that a man of your intelligence would advocate municipal ownership, so what remedy would you suggest in place of unlimited franchise? I am not acquainted with Thomas N. McCarter, have no 'political aspirations,' and have no more interest in Public Service than has the general traveling public or the property owners who desire their service. With much respect, I am, your truly.

"ARTHUR W. MOORE."

Referring to the above letter, to which he had not as yet received a reply, Mr. Moore said:

"My open letter to Mr. Colby states facts that many suburban property owners can appreciate, and the impression is growing that Mr. Colby had pounced upon this temporary cry of 'limited franchises' just to attract the workingman's vote, and that he has no serious confidence in it himself, for his business judgment must show him the fallacy of it, and there is no doubt that when he examines this subject carefully he will change his opinion, as he did regarding the bill that he confesses to having voted for without knowing what it was, though afterward, when he found out its purpose, he voted against it."

FISK ESTATE CHARTERED AS RIVERSIDE COMPANY

AMENDED CERTIFICATE FILED WITH SECRETARY OF STATE.

The Riverside company, which is the incorporation of the Fisk estate, capitalized at $725,000, and having its registered office at "Riverside," the Fisk homestead, Ewing township, Mercer county, filed an amended certificate in the office of the Secretary of State yesterday.

The company was chartered August 12 and the capital was divided into $480,000 preferred stock and $245,000 common stock.

The amendment filed yesterday provides that the preferred stock shall have a preference over the common stock in any distribution of assets other than profits, until the full par value thereof and 5 per centum of the issue shall have been paid thereon by dividends or distribution. The preferred stock is not to receive any dividends from profits in excess of 5 per centum per annum, nor any share in the distribution of assets in excess of said par value and the amount then unpaid of such cumulative dividends, but the common stock alone shall receive all further dividends and shares in distribution.

LAKE EXCURSION.

The beauty spot of New Jersey is Lake Hoptacong, and one who visits the place is charmed with the diversified entertainment afforded. The surroundings are deligatful in every respect and a day spent in the rarified mountain air of the Jersey foothills will do wonders for the tourist. There are ample facilities for fishing and boating and one who enjoys the rambles in wooded paths and the quietness of the natural pines, to him Lake Hoptacong is the gem of places. Tomorrow the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its famous low priced and popular excursions to the Lake. Round trip $1.00, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. The run is made in three hours, and the entire day can be spent in delightful enjoyment.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Entertaining Books on Outdoor Life.

Beard, D. C.—Outdoor games for playground, field and forest.

Baker, Sir S. W.—Wild beasts and their ways: hunting reminiscences in four continents.

Camp, Walter.—Book of college sports: rowing, football, baseball, etc.

Champlin, J. D.—Young folks' cyclopaedia of games and sports.

"Written from American standpoint, for boys and girls."

Dalton, Davis.—How to swim: practical instructions by an expert.

Davies, C. C.—Boat sailing for amateurs.

Edwords, C. E.—Camp fires of a naturalist.

Gillmore, Parker. — Encounters with wild beasts.

Gibson, W. H.—Camp life in the woods and the tricks of trapping and trap making.

Hints on camp shelter, woodland beds and bedding, canoe building, etc.

Grinnell, G. B., and Roosevelt, T. —Trail and campfire.

Henshall, J. A.—Camping and cruising in Florida.

Hill, L. E.—Athletics and outdoor sports for women: a guide to physical development and out-door recreation.

Paret, J. P. Woman's book of sports.

Pennell, H. C.—Fishing: salmon and trout, pike and coarse fish.

Powell, Edward Payson.—Country home: farm life and gardening.

Sears, C. W.—Woodcraft: chapters on camping.

Sullivan, Sir E., and others.—Yachting.

Suffork and Berkshire, Earl of.—Encyclopaedia of sports.

Van Dyke, Henry.—Fisherman's luck and some other uncertain things: reflections on fishing and out-door fires, etc.

Watson, B. A.—Sportsman's paradise; or, the lake lands of Canada.

Wells, H. P.—City boys in the woods; or, a trapping venture in Maine.

White, Stewart Edward.—The forest.

White, Stewart Edward.—Silent places: short stories.

BLOW AT AUTO RACES.

Col. A. A. Pope Withdraws His Cars From Track Contests.

There is a stir in motor circles over the announcement that Col. Albert A. Pope, father of the good roads movement in this country, has withdrawn all his cars from automobile track contests with the hope that racing on circular courses will be discontinued.

"From the outset my judgment has been strongly against track racing for high-power cars," said he. "The great danger to drivers and machines makes me feel that it is an entirely unnecessary risk to life and limb and should therefore be stopped at once.

"I have permanently withdrawn all my cars from track events, and I trust that kind of racing will be so discountenanced by the public as to insure its discontinuance. Racing should be confined to road contests in such events as are free from extraordinary dangers, and which in a rational test, proves something about the valuable points of competing machines."

Among the men who have been driving racing cars for Col. Pope are Herbert H. Lytle, Bert Dingley, both of whom will be in the Vanderbilt Cup race, and the Soules brothers, Charles and George.

FOR BRICK PAVEMENT.

Wish of Mayor Buckle that Something in This Line Be Accomplished.

Regarding the possibilities of the permanent pavement being extended in the business section of the city, Councilman Wilson, chairman of the street committee, says that he has not given the matter any attention of late and that he does not know whether the improvement will be made just now or not. It is known, however, that other members of the Common Council have seriously considered the question, and it is the wish of Mayor Buckle that something along that line be accomplished.

It is realized by several officials that too much money is required to keep macadam pavement in repair, especially in the business section, where the travel is the heaviest, and there is no doubt but that some means will be devised to extend the brick pavement, if that proves satisfactory, to streets in the center of the town. Street Commissioner Gavett is also known to favor a permanent pavement, recognizing its economy. Reference has been made to this matter in Mayor Buckle's message, and it is only a question of time when some action will be taken.

Miss Carson's Birthday Party.

Miss Edna Carson, of the borough, entertained about twenty-five of her friends at a birthday party Thursday night. The evening was spent pleasantly with games and music. At the close a supper was served. Miss Carson received a handsome new piano from her father and many ornamental gifts from her friends.

Purchased Voorhees' Property.

D. F. Dugan has purchased the Voorhees property at East Seventh and Richmond streets for $2,700. It is Mr. Dugan's intention to improve the property.

RAILROAD CLEARING HOUSE PLAN FAVORED

NEW JERSEY PRESIDENTS BELIEVE IT WOULD BE GREAT BENEFIT.

Judging from the attitude of the presidents of the New Jersey railroad, it is quite probable that the next thing that will come to light will be the clearing house for the prompt and economical settlement of business interchanged between the lines.

Buffalo has one for the benefit of the lines comprised in the New York Central system. This clearing house has developed into a most successful institution. The plan for its organization was devised by John Carstensen, vice president in charge of the accounting departments of the New York Central lines, and this fact gives the feature great weight, because Mr. Carstensen is one of the most experienced men in his line of railroad work.

The Pennsylvania favors the scheme because it now maintains a clearing house at Pittsburg on its own account. It is under the management of John T. Denniston and is not only saving much time, but is saving lots of unnecessary detail.

President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna, is so much in favor of the clearing house that he was desirous that one should be established simultaneously with the adoption of the per diem basis, and that it should make the settlements between the various roads. Mr. Truesdale also desired that bills for repairs to cars damaged while away from home should be settled through a clearing house, thereby effecting a great saving of time and labor, which could readily be accomplished.

President Underwood, of the Erie and President E. B. Thomas, of the Lehigh Valley, are each said to be in favor of the establishment of a clearing house for the joint settlement of railway accounts and Vice President and General Manager J. E. Childs, of the New York, Ontario and Western, is outspoken in favor of such an institution.

Two years ago, at the early meetings of the executive offices of the trunk lines, held for the correction of private car abuses, every suggestion of the correction of the abuses contained a provision that the reduced rates proposed should be enforced and settled through a clearing house.

In view of the great favor in which the plan is held by the men whose influence can readily establish one, it need be no surprise to hear that one is to be established in the very near future.

WHEN GIRLS ARE IN LOVE.

Ask any girl who has had half a dozen offers of marriage and she will confess to you that there were at least two over which she wavered—unwilling to say no, and still more unwilling to say yes.

In nine cases out of ten the chances for and against were so even that it was only a mere accident, or what seemed to her like one, that turned the scale and made her cast the die, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Many girls suffer absolute torture in trying to know their own minds in such cases as these. It is perhaps as well for them that men quite fail to understand their hesitation and its reason, or the stronger will would at once bring about a decision, and perhaps there might be even more unhappy marriages than there already are.

How many girls, as it is, fail to know her own mind till the wedding ring is fairly on, and the honeymoon on its wane? How often, alas! she knows it then, and wonders she could have been so deluded as to think a life passed in John's society could ever make her happy.

Sometimes again she gets to know it quite sadly. When she has refused Arthur, and sent him away sorrowing to a distant country, she sometimes discovers that, after all, the world without him is a dreary waste, and nothing but his love is worth desiring. Then, as time goes on, she reads in the papers the notice of his marriage with another woman, she spends her strength in one heart-broken, hopeless cry:

"Oh, why didn't I—didn't I know my mind when I had the chance?"

But does it ever happen that she does know it when the knowledge can do her any good? Oh, yes; fortunately she does. Sometimes she knows it so soon and so certainly that her only agonized apprehension is about him; whether his mind is the same as hers, and whether he means to give her the chance of being the happiest woman in the whole world.

Sometimes the knowledge of her own mind is such a source of pain and anxiety to her that she would gladly be ignorant of it, and able to deceive herself as to what her real feelings are.

She knows it when the right man comes. There is a right man somewhere for every woman, though she doesn't always find him; but when she does she knows her own mind with a certainty that doesn't require her to consult anybody whatsoever upon the subject.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Saunders, of Rockview avenue, who have been abroad this summer, have returned to New York, where they will remain until October. They will then return to their home in the borough.

PENNSY TO BREAK UP 12,000 FREIGHT CARS

OLD STYLE ONES THAT CAUSE WRECKS TO BE REPLACED.

Another important move to reduce train wrecks and increase the safety of transportation, both of passengers and freight, will be made by the Pennsylvania Railroad. All old-type freight cars about 12,000 in all, are to be broken up and the salvage is to be used toward defraying the expense for new, improved steel cars.

These old cars, which are much weaker in construction than the heavy cars now the standard on all first-class railroads, are a constant source of wrecks, in which many are crushed between the heavy steel cars.

Conference on the matter and concerning the new cars, which must be bought to replace the old ones, was held yesterday between Charles E. Pugh, second vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and D. F. Crawford, general superintendent of motive power of the Western lines.

White not yet definitely decided, it is probable that 8,000 cars, costing about $8,000,000, will be ordered now. This year the Pennsylvania has received 11,340 new cars.

LITERARY.

Horrible disasters are seldom missing from our enterprising press. The supply is kept up in generous degree by the railroads. The grade crossing has the distinction of being as perilous as it is avoidable, but there are plenty of devices almost as full of danger and as free from any excusing need. During the first three months of this year there were 1,787 collisions and 1,321 derailments. It is reckoned that in the State of New York, where there is a law for the gradual abolition of grade crossings, an end will come, under this beneficent legislation, when 800 years have passed and 100,000 more individuals have been slain. The block system of signalling, which is in full force in Great Britain and several countries on the continent, is almost universally held to be far safer than any merely human agency, and one of the principal causes of safety abroad. The quality and type of the car used in America is also frequently much below what it would be under efficient supervision by the State, and there are a score of undisputed ways in which the excessive danger accompanying American railway travel could be diminished. The only obstacle is the expense to the roads, which find it cheaper to pay what they must for the lives destroyed, after fighting in the courts and compromising with relatives, who have not time, money, or evidence enough for successful legal controversy. Great Britain and Ireland, transporting over a billion passengers, outside of suburban service, to our 750,000,000, killed 25 persons in 1904 to our 4,000, and injured 769 to our 50,000. Railroads in Great Britain are not so free as they are with us to conduct their own business as they deem best.—Collier's for September 2.

STUFFED CUCUMBERS.

For six or seven persons use four cucumbers of medium size. Pare them and, after removing the end, cut each cucumber in two and take out the seeds with an apple corer. Put a teaspoonful of salt and about four cups of cold water into a basin and then add the cucumbers, and put them in a cool place, where they can remain until the stuffing is made.

Chop enough veal to make a generous half-cupful. About a quarter of a pound of lean veal will be enough. Put a quarter of a cup of milk and one-sixth of a cup of soft stale bread into a saucepan on the stove. Cook the mixture until a smooth paste is formed. It will take about ten minutes. Mix this paste with the veal, and also add half a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of butter, a well-beaten egg, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of thyme.

After removing the cucumbers from the water, wipe them with a soft towel. Fill with the force meat, packing closely. Put them in a stew-pan and pour over them a pint and a half of boiling veal stock. If the stock was not previously seasoned, add salt, pepper and a bay leaf. Cover and simmer them for three-quarters of an hour. Serve them on dainty slices of toast.

A sauce made as follows may also be served with them: Mix a tablespoonful each of butter and flour. Then add a cup and a half of white stock, a tiny piece of carrot, a tiny slice of onion, a sprig of parsley, a clove, a bay leaf, a slight grating of nutmeg, half a teaspoonful of salt and one-fifth of a teaspoonful of white pepper. Simmer for a quarter of an hour. When ready to serve add a teaspoonful of lemon juice; strain and send to the table with the cucumbers.

Orders Handsome House Built.

J. D. Phillips has commissioned H. H. Hoffman, the contracting builder, to erect a handsome, modern residence on Denmark road. The structure will be two-story and attic, containing nine rooms and two bathrooms. It will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. The plans for the house were drawn by F. L. Lancaster.

VETERANS TO GATHER AT RAHWAY NEXT MONTH

FOURTEENTH N.J. VOLS. TO BE GUESTS OF THOMAS POTTER.

The twenty-seventh annual reunion of the Fourteenth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry Association will be held in Rahway on Tuesday, September 19. The veterans and their wives will be entertained by Thomas Potter at his home, on Hazlewood avenue, overlooking the Rahway river. Mr. Potter has fifteen acres, most of which has been transformed into a park, with well-kept lawns, beautiful shade trees, winding paths, artistic flower plantations and a pretty little lake.

A more desirable place could not be found for a day's outing. Mr. Potter's large residence and the grounds will be at the disposal of the visitors. Refreshments will be served in a large tent on one of the lawns. Music will enliven the occasion. There are something over one hundred members of the association, who with their wives and some Rahway guests of Mr. Potter's will bring the total number at the reunion up to 250 or more. The programme for the day will include a short business meeting, at which officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and an address will be made by the Rev. Dr. T. C. Maybaum, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, of Rahway. Daniel G. Urmston, of Union street, Rahway, is now president of the association, and Colonel John C. Patterson, of Ocean Grove, is secretary.

The Fourteenth Regiment was recruited in Union, Monmouth and Middlesex counties. Company E came from Rahway and its first officers were Captain James L. Bodwell, First Lieutenant Isaac S. Tingley and Second Lieutenant James O. Bedell. The last commander of the company was Captain James H. Putnam, of Rahway, who is the only surviving commissioned officer of Company E. Mr. Urmston, the president of the association, was a sergeant at the close of the war.

The regiment was mustered into service on August 26, 1862, and left Freehold for the field on September 2. The regiment was in command of Colonel William S. Truex, who had been major of the Fifth and then Lieutenant-Colonel of the Tenth Regiment. The second in command was Lieutenant-Colonel Caldwell K. Hall. The regiment's activities were confined largely to guard and picket duty and bridge building up to June, 1863, after which it was given more important work, being ordered to the front. On July 9 the Fourteenth having been assigned to the Third army corps, it joined the main army, of which it was a part until the close of the war.

The regiment did not see much fighting, however, until the following November, when for the first time it became actively engaged at Locust Grove. The regiment fought with great steadiness for four hours, at one time gallantly charging and driving the rebels from their position, with the loss of several prisoners. The loss of the regiment was sixteen killed and fifty-eight wounded, its first losses in battle. Previous to this, however, nearly 100 had died of disease.

The next heavy fighting that the regiment experienced was in May, 1864, when General Grant advanced with his entire army against the enemy, which was concentrated in the Wilderness. General Morris having been wounded on May 9, Colonel Truex was placed in command of the First Brigade of the Third division. On June 1, at Cold Harbor, the Fourteenth lost in two hours 240 killed and wounded. The regiment saw some more severe fighting at the battle of Monocacy, where it also had serious losses. A month later found the regiment engaged in the Shenandoah, and in the fighting that ensued continued to display great gallantry, and suffered in the matter of killed, wounded and prisoners.

At no time during the war did the Fourteenth Regiment give better evidence of the splendid calibre of its officers and men tnan in the final contest before Petersburg, in 1865. The regiment assisted in the attack upon the rebel fortifications, sweeping everything before it. When Petersburg was evacuated the Fourteenth joined in the pursuit of the enemy and was on the scene at the surrender of Lieutenant-Colonel Ewell and his command, at Sailor's Creek.

The Fourteenth was formally mustered out of service at Washington on June 19. The regiment had been gone nearly three years, leaving New Jersey with 950 active men, and returning with 230, some of whom were new recruits. During its service the regiment traveled by rail 1,051 miles, by water 628 miles, and marched 2,015 miles.

The storm in its severest form visited Dunellen late Sunday afternoon and did not completely let up until yesterday noon. Everything was flooded and among the losses there was a large number of chickens. All the roads bear evidence to the heavy downfall and it will be many days before the damage will be repaired.

Robert L. Pierce and Adolph Steengrafe have been drawn by Sheriff William Carman to serve at the September term of the Middlesex county courts as petit jurors.

HERE'S FRENZIED FINANCE

Awful Plunging in a Crap Game Stopped by Cop Higgins.

CENT A THROW

Scudder Got Cleaned Out of His Penny and Newcomer Tried to Horse the Play With a Dime.

William Branch, twenty years old; Clarence Thornton, sixteen years old; Richard Scudder, twenty-six years old, and married, all colored; and Frits Nessler, sixteen years old, but who looks twelve, white, were arraigned by Officer Higgins in the city court Thursday, for shooting craps on West Third street, near Liberty street, Wednesday afternoon.

"These big fellows get these boys to shoot with them pretty nearly every afternoon, just to get their pennies," said the officer. "I've been watching for them and caught them at it Wednesday."

Judge Runyon looked over the quartette.

"What about that?" he asked, and his eyes rested on Fritz.

"Well, it was this way," said Fritz with winning candor. "Clarence and me were playin' marbles, and Clarence said 'let's go over there and shoot a cent, and we opened the game. I had four cents and Clarence had six. After we were at it a while Scudder here comes in for a cent. That's all he has, and we takes it away from him.

"'Throw in a feller,' he says, an' we threw him in for a cent. Then Branch comes along and tries to horse the game with ten cents."

At this point Fritz's narrative was interrupted by the laughter of everybody in the court room. Judge Runyon made a heroic attempt to preserve the dignity of the court, but was forced to give way as Officer Higgins' grins exploded into a guffaw that rattled the furniture. When quiet was partly restored, the magistrate asked Fritz for the rest of the story.

"Did he horse the game?" he queried.

"Naw," said Fritz with a grin. "Clarence cleaned him out," and the dignity of the court collapsed again.

"How did you make out?" asked the judge.

"I had a cent left when the cop broke up the game," said Fritz sadly. "I had a rich hand in the beginning and cleaned up two cents, but Clarence made the killing."

The court made a rapid count and figured Clarence's winnings at fourteen cents.

"Fellows," he said, "I'm going to be easy on you, and you can thank your friend Fritz for it. He broke up the dignity of the court, and it is rather hard to get it back. But I want you to cut gambling for high stakes out; it is injurious to morals. You may go.

"Fritz," he added as the quartette started for the door," you're a great pleader."

"Thanks, Judge," said Fritz with a grin, and followed his fellow gamesters out.

EARLY MORNING FIRE CAUSES $250 DAMAGE

OPINION DIVIDED AS TO ORIGIN OF BLAZE ON ORCHARD PLACE.

Mrs. Margaret Bader, of Orchard place, was awakened shortly after 4 o'clock Thursday, the house being filled with smoke. A hurried investigation showed that a fire was in the basement, used as a kitchen. Her calls aroused Thomas Lynch, who lives next door, and he sent in an alarm from Box 46. After the firemen had worked for an hour the fire was extinguished. The damage will not exceed $250.

Opinion as to the fire is divided between spontaneous combustion and mice and matches. It started in a basket of damp clothes which stood beneath a mantelpiece, upon which was a box of matches. It is thought that possibly mice might have started the fire, while the other theory is just as probable.

Who Can Doubt This?

A. A. Cannon, of Somerset street, brought home a thriller in the way of a yarn from his trip to Sewaren Wednesday. He and Hilaire Blatz had been out about two hours when Cannon felt a mighty strike. He started to reel in, but the thing at the end of the line would not have it that way. The handle of the reel was jerked loose from Cannon's fingers and the line began to pay out like a streak. It reached the end almost in a flash, snapped off like a thread, and disappeared beneath the water. "Now, what in the name of all that's piscatorial did I hook?" says Cannon, with awe in his tones.

Goes to California.

F. A. Nittinger, the chief promotor of the company to improve and popularize Washington Rock, left Wednesday night for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will make his home with his mother and brother. His home was at Dunellen but he was employed by a local firm.

OVERFLOWING STREAMS DID MUCH DAMAGE

North Plainfield Was Hit Hard By Sunday's Heavy Downpour.

HOUSE FLOATED OFF

Live Stock Swept Away and Many Chickens Drowned—Herman's Dam Broke—Trolley Service Crippled.

North Plainfield was hit hard by Sunday's heavy rainfall. This side of the brook got its share of trouble and damage, but escaped unscathed in comparison with what happened to the borough and the section about the Notch.

In an hour and a half 3.70 inches of rain fell. As inch an hour is a good, healthy fall, and both Stony brook and Green brook were totally unprepared to handle so much business on short notice. Both of them jumped their banks and tried hard to spread water over everything in the two municipalities. Herman's dam broke while the rush was at its height, and Stony brook was more successful. It floated a house and three bridges away, not to mention a cow, two calves, a pony and uncounted chickens. Practically all the damage done by Green brook was confined to washouts of macadam gutters and top dressing. The surface water did a lot of that damage without the aid of the brook in the Netherwood section.

The trolley service was crippled, and the fire alarm systems on both sides of the brook were kinked. The Central Railroad had some trouble with water in the Fanwood cut. The telephone service escaped.

Pounded by the rushing waters, Herman's dam broke like a thing of straw toward the close of the afternoon, loosing a torrent that flooded the vicinity worse than at any time in many years. A small house on Dr. Cooley's property, tenanted by a colored family, was lifted from its foundations and swept toward the brook. Trees on the bank stopped its progress just as it seemed doomed to slide into the stream. The tenants were scared, but unhurt. The house was totally wrecked, and the contents practically destroyed or carried away.

Three bridges spanning the brook were carried from their foundations, two leading off Somerset street and one on Grove street. They settled not far from the foundations. Herman's bridge and Dr. Cooley's bridge were carried off, and a wooden culvert at Greenbrook road and Grove street was lifted out and smashed. The bridge on upper Grove street was badly wrecked. The water swirled up over the floor of the big iron bridge on Greenbrook road, but the structure was put there to withstand that sort of thing, and held to its foundations.

Looking South of Richmond Street After Sunday's Downpour.
(Photo taken by Wm. Richards.)

Part of Bilyeu's blacksmith shop, on Somerset street, was smashed in by the water, and Dr. Cooley's windmill went by the board. It floated downstream to J. F. Wilson's place, where it lodged over the brook, turning the course of the flow.

The water struck the Washington Park section with scarcely diminished. J. F. Wilson's place was badly damaged, fences and trees falling and sidewalks lifting. Chickens and stock suffered. A. E. Faber alone lost ninety fowls. A pony belonging to E. S. Hooley and one of George Dupee's cows were swept from their feet by the flood and carried down stream. They were rescued with a good deal of difficulty.

All along the course of the brook and in the lowlands streets and cellars suffered severely. Cellars between Grove street and Greenbrook road were converted into interior ponds, with an average depth of two feet. All the roadways in the flood district were badly washed out. Somerset street was so deep under water above Regent street that Stonewall Jackson drove a thriving business carting people over the lakelet that stretched across the street.

Up in Washington Valley Stony brook backed up over its banks and invaded houses along its course. The water struck Hippolyte Texier's house, opposite the brook in the Notch, so suddenly that Leonce Texier, one of the sons, and Joseph Robinson, of this city, a guest, were compelled to carry Mrs. Texier and the girls in the family out on their backs. The lower floor was almost awash before the family could turn around.

On this side of the line there was plenty of water, but comparatively little damage. What damage was done was confined almost wholly to the macadam of the streets, although cellars were invaded and backyards along Green brook disappeared under the muddy overflow. Old-timers say the brook was never higher than it appeared Sunday afternoon.

The stream jumped its banks at about 4:30 o'clock. The rain had ceased a half hour before, and the surface water on the streets was beginning to disappear when the brook, which had been gathering volume steadily, leaped clear of its bounds and did its best to wash the city away. Torrents of water rushed down Farragut road, Netherwood avenue and Richmond street, putting them and the low-lying streets to the south under water knee high. Cedar brook did the same thing else no high in proportion, but the Netherwood section disappeared under water with its usual facility in the face of a heavy rain.

Until late at night communication with Netherwood from the north was cut off except at the expense of much wetting, everywhere below Prospect avenue. Netherwood was badly gutted by the little torrents that swept through it, and Richmond street, between Second and Fifth streets, got its usual dose. Cellars along Richmond street were badly flooded. The water that drained through the Central railroad cut at Fanwood washed down into North avenue and did a good deal of damage to the roadway. Overflow from the brook did damage to the West End streets along the stream.

Water collected in deep pools under all the railroad bridges. Under the Washington street bridge a number of small boys went in swimming, and suffered no discomfort at all as to depth. The waters went down nearly to the streets, although they kept rushing tumultuously down the brook. Crowds gathered on the bridges to see the stream glorying in its new-found strength early in the afternoon and watched until after dark.

Street Commissioner Gavett and his men were out Sunday afternoon as soon as the water threatened to become destructive. They have been setting things right since and expect to be busy at it for at least three days more. Mr. Gavett says a good deal of the top dressing and small stone washed from the roadways will be recovered and the expense attendant on street repairs will not be great.

The trolley service was full of trouble as soon as the "Richmond street cut" filled. There was trouble enough at Grant avenue and Somerset street, but Richmond street's flood blocked the main line and made the cars push around hurriedly and say impolite things to one another. From 4:30 o'clock until nearly 10 o'clock at night the service in the city was practically suspended.

One break in the alarm system bothered the fire department. It was caused by a cross from an electric light wire, pressed down by the weight of wet branches.

The Central railroad was temporarily held up by the torrent that rushed through Fanwood cut. When the waters went down train service was resumed, and a gang of men hustled through repairs where the roadbed was washed out. The P. S. C. service between Bound Brook and Dunellen was shut off by washouts until yesterday morning.

Marsh's iron bridge, within ten feet of the dam near the stone quarry, at Scotch Plains, was almost completely wrecked by the high water. The flood washed away the abutments and allowed the structure to tumble into a huge mash of iron. North of Scotch Plains on the Springfield road there were no signs of a heavy rain.

Edward Bennett has returned from a vacation stay at Asbury Park.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

A Detriment to the Community.

May the fact soon become generally recognized that, not only morally offensive, but also inartistic and gaudy bills are a detriment to the community and an annoyance to beach paraders.—Asbury Park Journal.

Campers Getting Themselves Disliked

There are not a few people discussing the advisability of continuing the custom of permitting campers on the beach front in this city. It may be said in this connection, however, that the campers should not be blamed for all misbehavior.—Ocean City Reporter.

Defensible and Commendable.

The Public Service Corporation, in refusing to sell the advertising space on its cars, advises the onlooker to vote for Colby, on the ground that the advertisements are political and, therefore, objectionable, seems to be in an entirely defensible position. It is possible that the rule may result in considerable loss of revenues, but it certainly is the public gain to be free from adjurations to vote for "Bill" Smith, or "don't vote for John Jones," whenever one sits down to enjoy a ride for which he has paid a nickel.—Trenton True American.

Mercer's Bad Record.

Thirty-five murders within sixteen years is a startling record for Mercer county. Eighteen of the homicides occurred during the last ten years. The increase in the past few years has doubtless been largely due to the great increase in population in the county. There have been five murderers executed out of twenty-eight convictions since Mercer county was organized nearly seventy years ago, and four of the hangings took place since 1894. There is not much to be found in these figures to create a sentiment benevolent in favor of the abolition of capital punishment.—Trenton Times.

A Freak Apple.

Many persons have stopped in front of the Sunbeam office to see a freak apple on exhibition in the front window. It is a large, perfectly formed twin apple, with two distinct blossoms and stems. One is much larger than the other and from the stem of the larger apple the smaller one has grown, both apples showing that two blossoms were formed and developed into fruit. Both hung from the limb by one stem, but there are two stems there, a very unusual fact. The apple was grown and presented to the Sunbeam by Mr. J. H. Ritchie, of Quinton township.—Salem Sunbeam.

Light Pack of Tomatoes.

During the past week about all the canning factories in Salem county have been put in operation, although in several of them very few tomatoes have been packed because of the difficulty experienced in getting the fruit. As was stated in the Standard and Jerseyman last week, the acreage in tomatoes in Salem county this year is not more than half what it was last year. This same condition is said to prevail in Delaware and Maryland, and as those two States, together with New Jersey, pack almost three-fourths of the canned tomatoes in the country, it can be seen that there will be a light pack this year.—Salem Standard and South Jerseyman.

Not a Creditable Showing.

Of the entire number of inhabitants of the city of Elizabeth, 60,509, no less than 17,727, according to the census, are unable to read. These include children under five years of age, but there are only 7,039 in this classification. Allowing that there are 3,000 children between 5 and 8 years, which figure errs in excess, if at all, there still remains 12.5 per cent. of the population above 8 years which cannot read any language. Not altogether a creditable showing for a community.—Hoboken Observer.

New Date for Postponed Game.

Owing to the postponement of the game on Saturday between Plainfield and Westfield, that contest, one of the ten for the county championship, will have to be played on another date. Manager Dash and Denman will get together and decide on that soon. Both teams were at Westfield on Saturday, but the rain and poor condition of the grounds prevented an exhibition.

More Fireworks Coming.

The local Italian Benevolent Association announces that it will give a band concert and fireworks in Concert Park Monday night. Cabesanti's band, which furnished music for the celebration last year, has been engaged for the purpose and a New York concern will have charge of the pyrotechnics. Salve Velarde is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Approaching Nuptials.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Miller, of Watchung avenue, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Cornelia Miller, and William John Tallamy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tallamy, of West Front street, which will occur Tuesday afternoon, September 19, at 5 o'clock, at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Real estate in Plainfield and its suburbs is constantly increasing in price. E. M. French, North avenue, has lots and houses for sale and to let everywhere, and when you intend to buy, he can save you money.

MAN SWEPT A MILE BY ANGRY TORRENT

YOUNG NEARLY DROWNED IN CREEN BROOK, TRYING TO SAVE BOAT.

While the crowd of sightseers were watching the swirling torrent sweep over Tice's dam at Watchung avenue Sunday afternoon a rowboat floated into view in the center of the current. It was a good looking boat and much comment greeted its plunge over the dam.

"It's a shame a rowboat like that should be all smashed up," commiserated the watchers. Lee Young, forty years old, a mason, was one of them.

"I can get that boat," said Young. I'll go in and pull it ashore and paint it up. It'll make a nice boat when I get through with it."

He took off his shoes and stockings and plunged into the eddying stream. Young never reached the boat. The waters seized hold of him and flung him forward as if he was a wooden shaving.

He gave up his salvage scheme right away and tried to get back to shore. He found that it was a good deal easier to get in than to get out. He had a hard struggle to keep his head up, and floating logs and driftwood and things threatened to bump him senseless every minute.

He was swept out of sight of the shouting crowd in a minute. It didn't look as if he could live through it, and reports of his death were immediately circulated. His shoes were taken to police headquarters, and his drowning was entered on the record.

But he did go through it. He held himself up until Giraud avenue was reached, where the current slackened enough to enable him to make the shore, exhausted but unhurt. A little later he went to police headquarters and claimed his shoes. He had been taking something to ward off the effects of the chill and refused to regard his experience as anything but a joke.

The boat was not recovered. It belonged to Mrs. F. G. Mead, of East Front street.

BEAUTY HINTS.

An excellent skin food well commended for removing freckles is compounded from one ounce of clarified mutton tallow, lanolin and cocoanut-oil, heated with two ounces of oil of sweet almonds. Beat until smooth, adding one ounce of extract of witch-hazel and one teaspoonful of benzoin.

The skin of the face can be strengthened and whitened with this lotion, said to be favored by Sarah Bernhardt: Two ounces each of tincture of benzoin and camphor, five ounces of sea salt and half a pint of alcohol added to sufficient boiling water to make a quart. Pour into a bottle and thoroughly shake before using—the bottle, not yourself. This lotion, well rubbed into the skin every day, is said to be very soothing to nerves, and so doubly beautifying.

For a pallid skin apply, daily, equal portions of liquid ammonia and glycerine, mixed with double the quantity of water. Eat good rare beef, drink the native red wine of your country and spend as many hours on horseback in the canons as you possibly can. There's nothing like good air to color the cheeks and give one an appetite for nourishing food.

It is safer to bathe too much than not enough, and there is nothing better for the complexion than a daily bath; that is, an all-over bath taken in the morning. Use cold water if you can stand it, or tepid—never hot—and apply the flesh brush vigorously until the body glows. The warm bath for cleanliness should be taken two or three times a week, using pure soap, and avoiding draughts for at least an hour afterward. Be careful of your diet. Salted nuts, pickles and chocolate creams are all good in their place, but indulgence in them shows very quickly in the complexion. To use all the formulas given for face washes and bleaches, at least not within ten days. Begin with some simple remedy, eat sanely, sleep soundly, and keep out of doors all you can, walking in the sunshine whenever you get a chance and find some vital interest in life.

The following lotion will refine and whiten the skin and is a pleasant change from the benzoin preparations: Four ounces of rose-water, one ounce of pure oxide of zinc, one dram of glycerine and fifteen drops of essence of roses. You will find it essentially the same as one of the expensive lotions. Florida water is composed of one ounce each of oil of bergamot and tincture of benzoin, with one quart of alcohol added to soft water to make any strength desired.—The Pilgrim.

Dog Poisoner Busy.

The wholesale poisoning of dogs in the neighborhood of West Front street and Grant avenue has aroused the owners. During the past week several valuable canines have been put out of the way, and investigation has shown the liberal distribution of poisons in various yards. The police have been notified and will attend to the case.

The freshest fruits and vegetables of the season can always be found at R. W. Barnes' store on Park avenue. Large line of pickled goods and cold cuts always on hand.

A CHILD MONSTROSITY ONLY LIVED A FEW HOURS

BORN TO NEWARK PARENTS RESEMBLED TRADITIONAL IMPS.

With two horns about two and a half inches long, with wide-staring eyes measuring more than one inch and a half in diameter, and, in fact, having all the liniament of the traditional imp, a boy child was born to young parents last week at 107 Hazard street, Newark, and died the same day. Besides the abnormalities mentioned, the child's face was black —not the black of negro blood—but jet black, as though the flesh had been covered with nitrate of silver. The child lived ten hours and was photographed by Dr. B. H. Greenfield, of South Orange avenue, on the day of its birth.

The mother of the child is the wife of a respectable journeyman baker. She is seventeen years old and bears the best of reputation. She is prostrated over the abnormalities of her first-born, but is in a fair way of recovery from her trial.

The photographs of the infant show other abnormal features besides those mentioned above. The hands and feet are of extreme length, the fight hand from the wrist to the finger tip measuring about four inches, but the hands are very slender. The two horns protruded from the front of the head about where the hair line begins. They were about two inches apart, and as described by Jarefa Golinska, the Polish nurse, or midwife, who was in attendance, were soft and of a reddish color. There was no bony structure. The eyebrows of the infant were perhaps its most startling feature. They began at the bridge of the nose and extended upward in a sweeping arch almost to the hair line at the top of the forehead. The eyes of the child practically filled the abnormal occipital cavities on either side of the great arching eyebrows.

The general appearance of the baby's face was that of a mask.

GIRLS WHO DON'T SUCCEED.

The girl who takes up work as a temporary occupation with her mind on the state of matrimony.

The girl who expects to begin at the top instead of slowly climbing there.

The girl who makes excuses for herself when a boy's pride would come to his aid and help him to overcome the difficulty which she tries to evade.

The girl who airs her grievances to others until she makes a nuisance of herself.

The girl who thinks she is entitled to privileges not granted to her brother.

The girl who is not thorough and conscientious about her work.

The girl who keeps her eye on the clock fearful that she may give her employer a moment or two overtime.

The girl who is always doleful and down on her luck.

The girl who spends her nights at parties and arrives at the office in the morning weary and out of humor.

The girl who expects to carry on a flirtation or two coincidentally with her work.

The girl who tells everyone she doesn't have to work, but is only doing it to make extra pocket money.

The girl who talks over her employer's business outside of the office.

The girl who criticises everything and everybody.

The girl who looks upon work as drudgery and has a grudge against fate for forcing her to do it.

The girl who fails to remain womanly and affects mannish qualities.

The girl who spends her money upon clothes instead of good healthbringing food.

The girl who never is on time.

The girl who depends on favoritism to advance her instead of good, honest endeavor.

The girl who constantly "soldiers" and plays sick.

The girl who is indifferent and listless and cannot even assume an interest in her occupation.

The girl who lacks courage and self-respect.

The girl who feels herself above her position and does not even condescend to fill it adequately.

The girl who cannot be honest with herself and expects a greater money compensation than the work would be worth if done by someone else.

The girl who tells you all the wonderful things she can do, but never gets right down to doing anything at all.—New York World.

FASHION WHIMS.

Suspenders now worn so universally have been elaborated by hand embroidery.

The new veils have finished edges, either scalloped, buttonholed or bound with narrow ribbon.

Brown is becoming somewhat passe.

The well shod is a necessity in these times of the prevalent short skirts.

The latest walking skirts are either umbrella or bell shaped.

Most coats have the open neck and vest effect.

Collar, cuffs and revers of striped silk are found on many of the newest coats.

The deep lace collar is still in vogue.

RAILROAD COMPANY FACES A FIRE PROPOSITION

BURNING DEBRIS SERIOUSLY MENACES BIG B. & O. BRIDGE.

Elizabeth, Sept. 6.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has renewed its efforts to extinguish an underground fire along its elevated line from Linden to the Staten Island shore, which is threatening to undermine its tracks. That the situation is critical in the eyes of the railroad is the fact that the company is doing everything in its power to put out the blaze, which has been raging for two months.

For years the company has operated a freight line by way of a cross-country route built on high trestles from its main line, over the Pennsylvania line and across the outskirts of Elizabeth to the shore. This trestle was of wood, and, anticipating the time when the wood would begin to crumble with rot, the company contracted with some large refuse contractors in New York and Philadelphia to convey the refuse to its trestles in this city. Among this refuse was considerable paper. This was set afire by the railroad company, and it was allowed to burn.

Complaints were made by the property owners along the line of the road that the odor from the pile of debris was offensive. So, while the papers and rubbish burned, the company began dumping dirt on the smouldering pile, which is six miles in length. The company believed that the dirt would extinguish the blaze. Apparently it did for a time, but after every rain little columns of smoke arose, and upon investigation it was found that the fire was still burning, and during the past two weeks columns of smoke have been discovered arising from the pile, and finally the dirt was dug away and engineers found that such progress had been made by the fire that it was now almost impossible to extinguish it. Spontaneous combustion has caused that part of the covered over debris to ignite, and now the wooden supports of the huge trestle are in danger.

The company is in a quandary as to what to do. It would be expensive to dig away all this dirt, and it is quite impracticable to dump water upon the surface. It is stated that some of the wooden supports, which are only four feet from each other, are already burning. The surface of the embankment always appears as though it was sun baked, and some of the embankment near the Rosedale and Linden Park cemeteries, is now as hard as rock as a result of the heat beneath it. Realizing its mistake, the railroad company, when it filled in on the Staten Island side of the sound, used all dirt, and there has been no trouble experienced. Engineers say that it is a remarkable condition of affairs, and it is, in many respects, like a mine fire.

A BLAZE OF BEAUTY.

The Valley of the Lehigh is one of the most delightful places of refuge this sweltering time of year. The name alone is enough to conjure up —if not an invigorating mountain breeze—at least a vision of grand mountain scenery. Not only is it an ideal country for a summer vacation, but it repays a hundred-fold the time given to the most fleeting visit. Many points of supreme interest, in fact, are within the reach of a single day's excursion from New York. Notable among these is Mauch Chunk.

Both from historic interest, this being the place where anthracite coal was first discovered and mined in the United States, and on account of the wonders of the natural scenery, Mauch Chunk is one of the most remarkable localities in Eastern America. The whole trip is charming in the highest degree. First one traverses the beautiful rolling country of Western New Jersey, studded with splendid groves and picturesque old farm buildings. Beyond Easton the railroad runs along beside the Lehigh River and the old canal and the scenery becomes more varied and striking. At last Mauch Chunk is reached, where it lies hidden in the heart of the hills.

The feature of greatest interest at Mauch Chunk is the old "Switchback Railroad." Built in early times to bring the product of the mines down to the barges, it has of late years been used solely for the recreation of visitors. It affords a thrilling ride. From the summit of a mountain commanding a view of the wide region bounded by distant mountain ranges, the car starts gradually enough, gaining speed from its own momentum, it rushes along wildly, through the forests, by old mines and mining settlements, across high pasture lands, and along the hillsides, until at last the circuit of eighteen miles is completed and the car has returned safely to the foot of the mountain whence it started.

The New Jersey Central will run a popular Excursion to Mauch Chunk on September 10. Round trip $1.50. Special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. There is ample sufficient time at Mauch Chunk for a day of rare enjoyment. 9-6-4

One of the newest veils has a border of red cherries with two of them on each cheek.

Many of the walking hats this fall will be of felt adorned with a simple velvet bow.

LAWS OF TAXATION ISSUED IN PAMPHLET

ARE NOW BEING DISTRIBUTED BY THE STATE BOARD.

A 28-page pamphlet entitled "Laws Affecting Taxation, Passed by the Legislature During the Session of 1905," has just been issued, and is being circulated among the taxing officials of the State by the State Board of Taxation.

It includes the pamphlet laws as follows: "Chapter 4, approved February 16, 1905, concerning the levying of taxes in certain municipalities; chapter 45, approved March 22, 1905, an act to provide for the appointment, term of office and salary of assessors in certain cities in this State, and prescribing their duties; chapter 67, approved March 29, 1905, abolishing the old State Board of Taxation and creating in lieu thereof a board for the equalization, revision, review and enforcement of tax assessments; chapter 63, approved March 31, 1905, An act to amend the general act and providing a maximum tax rate."

The maximum rate provided is $1.70 per $100 of valuation in cities having a population of over 50,000, and $1.50 per $100 in all other cities and towns and townships. This rate may be exceeded whenever the governing body of a municipality resolves to do so and the resolution is approved by a majority of the legal voters at a general election next preceding the fixing of the tax rate.

Chapter 91, approved April 2, 1905. This was Assembly bill No. 1, introduced by Mr. Duffield, the Republican leader of the House, as a sop to the public demand for a change in the method of taxing the railroads, provides for the taxing of the second class property of the railroads at local rates for the benefit of the respective municipalities in which they are found.

Chapter 107, approved April 6, 1905, concerning the collection of unpaid taxes and assessments; chapter 116, approved April 6, 1905, amending the general tax act; chapter 161, approved April 17, 1905, providing that mortgages on exempted property shall be exempted from taxation; chapter 199, approved April 28, 1905, amending the Martin act for the collection of unpaid taxes; chapter 211, approved April 28, 1905, affecting the taxation of bank stock.

Chapter 234, approved May 11, 1905, a supplement to the general tax act. This is the bill introduced by Assemblyman Buck, of Milliville, the home of Governor Stokes, and provides that the taxation of bank stock shall not be at a greater rate than is levied upon the moneyed capital in this State.

Chapter 243, approved May 17, 1905, repealing certain acts and sections referring to mutual loan and building associations; chapter 251, approved June 2, 1905, and chapter 255, approved the same day, both amending the Martin act.

SCHWAB BUYS WHARTON IRON MINES, MORRIS COUNTY

RUMOR HAS IT THAT THEY COST HIM ABOUT $10,000,000.

Paterson, Sept. 6.—It was announced here yesterday that all the iron interests in this State of Thomas Wharton have been disposed of to Charles M. Schwab, of the Bethlehem Steel Works. The price named in the current stories is $10,000,000. It is considered a conservative figure.

All the property included in the deal is situated in Morris county, near Wharton, the new name for Port Oram. The mining plant gives employment to nearly everybody in the town.

Rumors that the deal was to be made were current in manufacturing circles some time ago. It was stated yesterday as a practical certainty that Mr. Schwab has gained control of the Morris county industry. The railroad connection between Wharton and the Bethlehem plant is direct and convenient. The mines at Wharton are among the best in this part of the country, and their location near the Atlantic seaboard makes them a desirable property.

With the rumors of the closing of the Wharton deal, interests were renewed that the same interests were trying to acquire the Passaic Steel Works, upon whose capital stock an assessment was made recently. Mr. Schwab visited the works here some time ago, and reports have said that he did not consider them necessary for his operations. The Passaic company is the largest steel manufacturing plant near the Atlantic seaboard.

The Eldorado Restaurant.

"Uncle Jesse" Hetfield, who has conducted a lunch counter and fruit store at the trolley station on Watchung avenue, has rented the large store one door east of his present location, No. 113, and will hereafter devote his whole attention to the restaurant business. "Uncle Jesse" has the happy faculty of being able to please everybody who deals with him and his latest venture as a restaurant keeper will no doubt meet with success.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1905. NO. 37.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Carnet the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison.

ORGANIZATION REPUBLICANS MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP

Independent Forces Are Routed At Every Turn After Making a Brave Fight to Capture The Primaries—Councilmen Bullock And Wilson And Collector Lee Defeated

RESULT IS DECISIVE.

Councilman Tyler Slashed in Third Ward — Regulars Will Regain Control of Common Council, Tax Office and Freeholdership.

After general skirmishing all along the line and in some districts a fierce struggle, the regular organization of the Republican party swept all before it at the primaries here Tuesday.

While at no time was the result much in doubt, not until the polls were closed were the organization captains in the Second ward positive that they had made the rout complete. In that ward the Independents had done more effective work and their forces were in much better shape when the combat began. When evening came on they mustered a strong vote, but not sufficient to overcome the strength of the regulars under the generalship of Judge Runyon. Wilson was defeated decisively.

Lee Vanquished.

Another fight of some moment was going on in the Fourth ward, where Tax Collector Robert L. Lee lives, the effort there being to capture the delegates to the city convention in order to help nominate Lee. But there again the organization chiefs and lieutenants were on guard and completely vanquished the opposition.

Bullock Does Down.

In the First ward, Councilman William Starr Bullock, the Independent candidate for renomination, ran ahead of his ticket, but his opponent, Councilman William Gloak, came out with flying colors. As has been related, Councilman Theodore Wilson ran behind, his defeat being marked.

Knifed Tyler.

Over in the Third ward all was serene, except that the organization had its knives out for Councilman William S. Tyler. The head of the anti-organization men in the Common Council was a candidate for delegate to the city convention, and while he was elected, he was badly butchered.

Various Claims.

While the Independents feel that they have administered a rebuke to the organization, the regulars claim that they have been vindicated. The result shows, according to them, that the rank and file of the party is satisfied with the way the city is run and the party managed. The Independents have not given up the fight. They say that this is only the beginning and that they will be heard from in the future.

What Result Means.

The result of the primary means that the regular organization will regain control of the Common Council after January 1. It also means that Freeholder J. F. MacDonald will be succeeded by Samuel P. T. Wilbur. Furthermore, it ensures the election of either John W. Murray, Jr., or Thomas Hanna as collector of taxes. This place is now held by former Councilman Robert L. Lee.

No Third Ticket.

It is not believed that there will be any third ticket in the field at the forthcoming election. Under the provisions of the primary law the Independents could name a ticket at a public meeting. The wisdom of doing this has been questioned, and from what can be gleaned from the leaders of the anti-organization movement the Independents will vote the straight ticket.

Candidate Challenged.

There was no disturbance at the polls in any of the districts. In a few instances the right of challenge was exercised. Over in the Fourth ward Herbert Buxton questioned the right of Clifford Braider to cast a ballot, claiming that he is a resident of North Plainfield. Mr. Braider, who was an Independent candidate for delegate to the city convention, told the election officers that he is a bona-fide resident of the ward. He was allowed to cast his ballot.

Gloak's Big Majority.

In the First ward Councilman Bullock polled 141 votes all told, while his opponent, Councilman Gloak, ran up 342. As can be seen, Gloak's majority is greater than the total vote cast for his opponent. Altogether there were 508 ballots cast in this ward. Of this number 495 were Republican. There was some scratching. Dr. A. W. Anderson got seventeen and Councilman Clarence L. Murphy two votes for city committee.

Wilson Runs Behind.

Daniel F. Ginna, the organization's candidate for Common Council in the Second ward, got 218 votes in the First district and 103 in the Second, making a total of 321. Councilman Wilson, his opponent, received 117 in the First and 53 in the Second, bringing his total up to 169. This gave Ginna 152 majority. The total vote at the primary was 551. The Republicans cast 539. J. P. Mosher, the unopposed candidate for justice of the peace, was high man. It is noticed in the returns that John E. Keely, one of the organization workers in the ward, was badly cut. He was a candidate for delegate to the city convention and for membership on the city committee.

Daniel's Fine Run.

President of Common Council Leslie M. Daniel, a candidate unopposed for renomination, won the honor of the day in the Third ward and, for that matter, in the city. He made an excellent run. But Councilman Tyler, who was an Independent candidate for delegate to the city convention, was up against it, although there was no concerted purpose of making him a scapegoat. He was knifed forty-seven times in the First district and sixty-three times in the Second. He was elected by nineteen votes. George W. V. Moy's name was written on the ticket in place of Tyler in many instances. He got ninety-nine votes.

In Fourth Ward.

Councilman Charles Randolph ran ahead of his ticket in the Second and Third districts of the Fourth ward, although the Independents had it in for him. He received a total of 303 votes. Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, County Register Frank H. Smith and a legion of organization men hustled out the vote in the ward, but the Independents, under Robert L. Lee, were just as active.

Martine Loses Vote.

Farmer Orator James E. Martine, it is said, lost his vote in the Second ward. According to the report, the Democratic warhorse provided himself with a Republican ballot and registered a vote for Councilman Wilson, the Independent councilmanic candidate. This ballot, it is said, he took to the Democratic box. It was not counted.

Regulars Jubilant.

When the night wore on and the result was certain, some of the zealous organization men wanted to hire an Italian band to play "Tammany" in front of the home of Councilman Bullock. Bullock is alleged to have *declared that Plainfield's Republi*can organization is "a little Tammany." James T. MacMurray, one of the chiefs of the organization, urged his friends not to do this. "Don't rub it in that way," said he.

Returns Are Late.

It was nearly 6 o'clock this morning when the complete vote of the primaries was filed with City Clerk MacMurray. Even at that hour there were many regulars around. All were rejoicing over their victory. As a rule the Independents went home as soon as the polls closed at 9 o'clock. By midnight none of them were about, but had they been there would have been no unpleasantness between the factions.

The struggle was bitter, but everyone was good natured. The fight was over and that ended it, for the time being at least.

LEAL'S SCHOOL ELEVEN.

First Practice of Squad Held Yesterday.

Leal's School had its first practice yesterday. Several valuable players have been lost by graduation but there is plenty of material in school for a good team this fall. The following from last year's squad are in school with one or two exceptions will try for the team: Lawrence, Gleaney, Dallas, Howard, Manning, Lyman, Houghey, Vallant, Davidge and Brown. The new men who will try for positions on the team are Earl Wilson, Alpaugh, Brokaw, J. Jewitt and Rushmore.

A good schedule composed of five or six league games has already been arranged and several other games will be added to the schedule, including contests with the Plainfield High School.

Leal's School Opens.

John Leal's school for boys opened yesterday for the fall and winter season with a large enrollment.

—O'Reilly's dancing class will meet tonight.

STRAY HORSE AND BIKE POLICE PRIMARY HARVEST

COP MARTIN, A NEWSMAN, GATHERED IN BOTH OF THEM.

Patrolman Martin, one of the new cops, was resting pensively against the corner of the Marsh building at midnight last night, enjoying the peace that settled on the streets after the excitement of the primaries, when he saw a dim, gray shape move slowly down the center of the roadway. It was large and ghostly, and moved uncertainly from side to side.

Martin clutched his night stick and sallied forth to see what had taken possession of the street. He put the night stick away when he got within close range of the ghostly shape. It was a big bay horse, with great eyes and an undecided air. The cop could see nobody who might have a claim on the animal and pinched it with the aid of a stable halter. The horse was lodged at George Cole's stable. It was unclaimed this morning.

A little later Martin found an abandoned bicycle on Second street in front of the theatre. He lurked around hopefully for an automobile during the rest of the night, but the bubble folk were more scarce than the horse owners and wheelmen.

Martin was the only cop who had anything to show for the primary excitement. Not even a plain drunk and disorderly was turned in at the station house.

COLBY SMASHES THE ESSEX MACHINE

INDEPENDENT LEADER ROUTS CARL LENTZ'S FORCES.

Everett Colby, independent candidate for State senator from Essex county, carried that county yesterday by a handsome majority in the most strenuous work in opposition by the Republican organization.

It was predicted last night that if Colby showed sufficient strength he *would be taken up by the regular or*ganization and put in nomination.

Otherwise another good Republican might be announced today and perhaps it would be Halsey M. Barrett.

Of 477 delegates, Colby secured nearly 240, and had control of the county convention.

Woodbury, Sept. 13.—At an early hour this morning there is every indication that John Boyd Avis will be the Republican nominee for Senator.

IN UNION COUNTY.

In Elizabeth, friends of Robert Kirkland put up a big fight and succeeded in getting forty out of the sixty-one delegates to the county convention. Over 900 votes were polled in the Eleventh ward alone, Kirkland is the opponent of Dr. Lawrence, of Summit, for the shrievalty.

Plainfield is practically solid in support to Dr. Lawrence and from the returns throughout the county it seems that his nomination is certain.

Seymour in Hudson.

Jersey City, Sept. 13. —Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Hudson county, vanquished the opposition at yesterday's primaries. The organization's delegates pledged to nominate ex-Mayor Robert Seymour of Bayonne, for sheriff, were elected in all but a few precincts in Jersey City. Seymour had a walkover in the other municipalities. Under Sheriff John J. Heavey, Seymour's rival, was badly disappointed over the result in Jersey City. Seymour polled 8,666 votes and Heavey 2,852 votes.

Murray for Mayor in Paterson.

Paterson, Sept. 13.—The principal fight here yesterday was for the mayoralty candidates. Samuel Murray, Republican, won from Joseph McDonald, securing not less than two-thirds of the delegates. McDonald is the present alderman from the Fourth ward. Thomas Carless, present freeholder from the Second ward, managed to beat Jacob Gerge. Abram Kemmerling won in the First ward against Adrian Wenting. Kemmerling is custodian of the city hall.

Tenbroeck Beaten by Atkins.

Asbury Park, Sept. 13.—Mayor Frank L. Tenbroeck was defeated for renomination *yesterday at the Re*publican primaries by Charles A. Atkins, proprietor of the Ocean hotel. The vote was the largest ever cast at a primary meeting. Atkins had 27 majority in the First ward, and enough in the Second ward to make his total majority about 100. Both men favor high license.

PLAINFIELD TAX VALUES

Totals, But Not Full Table, Made Public This Morning.

DETAILS NEXT WEEK

Net Taxable Valuation Is Put at $10,167,875—Railroad Property Is Rated at $83,189.

The table of taxable valuations for this city was announced by the County Board of Taxation this morning. The net valuation is put at $10,281,064. The totals in the table are as follows:

Number of lots, 5,253; valuation of real estate, $8,723,225; valuation of personal estate, $1,473,975; dedicated for debt, $27,425; net valuation taxable, $10,167,875.

The valuations include railroad property placed at $83,189.

The figures by wards are as follows:

First—1,178 lots, $1,788,775. Second—1,357 lots, $2,498,400. Third—1,237 lots, $2,298,550. Fourth—1,681 lots, $2,137,500. Total of valuation, $8,723,225. With $83,189 railroad property added, $8,806,414.

Personal estate valuations, by wards—First, $301,950; Second, $420,150; Third, $426,100; Fourth, $323,875. Total, $1,472,075.

The total real estate and personal property, with $83,189 railroad property added, is $10,251,064, an increase of $507,764 over last year.

Property exempt from taxation is as follows:

Public schools—First ward, $30,000; Second ward, $40,000; Third ward, $163,000; Fourth ward, $35,000.

Fire department — First ward, $10,000.

Church and charitable—First ward, $75,100; Second ward, $195,000; Third ward, $146,400; Fourth ward $38,000.

Cemetery—First ward, $3,000; Second ward (Hillside), $3,200; Third ward, $24,000.

Library—Third ward, $61,000.

Municipal property—Fourth ward, $61,000.

Total of exempt property by wards First ward, $115,100; Second ward, $238,200; Third ward, $294,400; Fourth ward, $340,500. Grand total, $1,091,200.

The general Elizabeth totals are as follows:

Number of lots, 26,666; valuation of real estate, $21,025,749; valuation of personal estate, $3,091,950; dedicated for debt, $1,000; net valuation taxable, $24,116,699; number of polls, 13,715.

The Hunterdon County Board of Assessors met in the Court House at Somerville yesterday and effected organization by electing William D. Vanderbeck, of Bedminster, chairman and Frank T. Ross, of Bridgewater, secretary.

The amount of the county ratables this year is $20,343,489, an increase of about $638,097 over last year. Bridgewater township is $5,205,000, an increase of about $86,000. The county rate will be about 63 and the State school rate 17.

The full table of ratables will not be ready for publication until next week.

Adjudged Insane.

The sheriff's jury selected to decide as to the sanity of John G. Cook, of Scotch Plains, who has been in the State Hospital, Morristown, for some time, met yesterday afternoon in Codington & Swackhamer's office before a commission, and after hearing testimony, decided that Mr. Cook is insane. This action was taken to permit Mr. Cook's wife to sell some property at Scotch Plains, which she could not do until after the due process of law was followed.

Teachers' Union Meeting.

The Primary and Junior Sunday School Teachers' Union will observe its tenth anniversary on Monday and in the afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock Mrs. C. Frank French, of Washington avenue, will entertain the members at a lawn party at her home. An attractive programme has been arranged for the occasion.

Deadlock on Cumberland's Sheriff.

Bridgeton, Sept. 13.—Republicans had a fight on sheriff and it looks as though it would be carried into the convention. The candidates voted E. P. Bacon; the anti-machine men backed Daniel Souder. Neither has majority of delegates, because William Bacil has the Vineland delegation solid.

Baird's Machine Victorious.

Camden, Sept. 13.—Republican machine won everything in sight. There were small scraps for council and freeholders in four wards.

Giles Is Recovering.

Lincoln Giles, of East Second street, injured in a gas explosion at Westfield, continues to improve at the hospital.

PRIMARY VOTE COMPLETE

Results in Detail From Every District Of The Four Wards.

THE OFFICIAL FIGURES

Total and Party Votes—Returns Show That There Was Much Cutting.

This is the result of the primary vote in detail:

Republican Ticket.

FIRST WARD.
Delegates County Convention.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| Amos Andrews | 219 | 116 |
| G. A. Ballantyne | 224 | 116 |
| Neal D. Crane | 223 | 119 |
| Edwin B. Maynard | 222 | 119 |
| Percy A. McVoy | 222 | 114 |
| Oscar Stancell | 222 | 116 |

Delegates City Convention.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Alvah L. Carey | 219 | 116 |
| W. J. Douglass | 219 | 116 |
| Henry Hansen | 221 | 115 |
| Sanford Robinson | 221 | 115 |
| Herbert Tompkin | 224 | 116 |
| S. F. T. Wilbur | 224 | 116 |

Member Common Council.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| W. L. Gloak | 226 | 116 |

Justice of the Peace.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| John J. King | 225 | 164 |

Constable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Peter V. Weaver | 225 | 162 |

Members County Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Amos Gibbons | 226 | 153 |
| James F. Buckle | 218 | 152 |

Members City Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| H. G. Gibbons | 226 | 115 |
| James F. Buckle | 220 | 112 |
| Olin L. Jenkins | 229 | 114 |

Independent Ticket.

FIRST WARD
Delegates County Convention.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| W. E. Dunn | 91 | 29 |
| Neely Edsall | 94 | 40 |
| Thomas McDonald | 92 | 40 |
| Charles Randolph | 92 | 40 |
| George W. Taylor | 92 | 29 |
| Charles Tyler | 91 | 37 |

Delegates City Convention.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Edward Caldwell | 94 | 41 |
| W. B. Hill | 90 | 37 |
| H. Rowland | 98 | 40 |
| William Symons | 91 | 29 |
| W. E. Dunn | 93 | 29 |
| Charles W. Griffen | 94 | 36 |

Member Common Council.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| William S. Bullock | 104 | 37 |

Members County Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| A. W. Anderson | 13 | 4 |
| C. L. Murphy | 2 | 2 |

Members City Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| W. C. Chamberlain | 90 | 29 |
| W. E. Dunn | 91 | 29 |
| C. L. Murphy | 92 | 28 |

Total vote—508. Republican, 495; Democratic, 3; Rejected ballots—Republican, 3; Democratic, 4.

Republican Ticket.

SECOND WARD.
Delegates County Convention.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| Charles H. Hand | 249 | 166 |
| Dr. R. Vanb. Hedges | 241 | 165 |
| R. A. Meeker | 247 | 166 |
| Ralph Miner | 241 | 165 |
| F. L. Montgomery | 242 | 165 |
| Wm. Runyon | 247 | 166 |

Delegates to City Convention.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Dr. S. S. Davis | 218 | 101 |
| Francis Hommann | 221 | 103 |
| John E. Keely | 199 | 91 |
| Frank Kling | 205 | 101 |
| Charles B. Morse | 205 | 101 |
| Edward Wylie | 202 | 103 |

Member Common Council.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Daniel F. Ginna | 218 | 103 |

Justice of the Peace.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Joseph E. Mosher | 355 | 179 |

Members County Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| J. Herbert Pinckney | 352 | 169 |
| W. R. Townsend | 352 | 170 |

Members City Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| J. Hervey Doane | 351 | 169 |
| John E. Keely | 352 | 169 |
| W. R. Townsend | 352 | 169 |

Constable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| George Scribner | 1 | |
| William Gahagan | 1 | |

Independents.

Delegates City Convention

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| T. M. Day, Jr. | 136 | 67 |
| J. E. Dunn | 137 | 60 |
| G. H. Goddard | 127 | 60 |
| Alex. Gilchrist | 129 | 67 |
| James P. Murray | 129 | 67 |
| A. Clinton Wilmerding | 129 | 67 |

Member Common Council.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Theodore D. Wilson | 117 | 52 |

Total vote—551. Republican, 539; Democratic, 8. Rejected—Republican ballots, 7; Democratic, 1.

Republican Ticket.

THIRD WARD.
Delegates County Convention.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| F. H. Andrews | 112 | 112 |
| E. Frank Daniel | 114 | 113 |
| Leslie M. Daniel | 114 | 113 |
| Alex. Gilchrist | 114 | 112 |
| R. F. Murray | 112 | 109 |
| Wm. H. Tilsworth | 113 | 112 |
| J. M. Whiton | 1 | 0 |
| George W. Ring | 2 | 0 |

Delegates City Convention.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| J. W. DeGraf | 112 | 111 |
| Alex. Gilchrist | 114 | 112 |
| James E. Kimball | 114 | 113 |
| John Lee | 114 | 111 |
| D. E. Tilsworth | 114 | 113 |
| W. S. Tyler | 114 | 82 |
| G. E. Ott | 46 | 23 |
| J. C. Leonard | 1 | 0 |

Member Common Council.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Leslie M. Daniel | 114 | 114 |

Justice of the Peace.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| John Neagle | 114 | 115 |

Constable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Amos Moffett | 114 | 115 |

Member County Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Charles Foster | 113 | 112 |
| J. M. Whiton | 1 | 0 |
| J. W. Murray, Jr. | 111 | 112 |

Members City Committee.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| B. Frank Coriell | 114 | 114 |
| Charles Foster | 113 | 112 |
| John W. Murray, Jr. | 112 | 112 |
| R. L. Lee | 1 | 0 |

Total vote—229. Republican, 225; Democratic, 4. Rejected ballots—Republican, 3; Democratic, 4.

Republican Ticket.

FOURTH WARD.
Delegates County Convention.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. | 3d. dist. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Elmer D. Cutting | 167 | 206 | 358 |
| F. E. Dailey | 167 | 206 | 359 |
| Dr. R. Vanb. Hedges | 164 | 206 | 359 |
| George K. Drenthaf | 164 | 206 | 359 |
| W. L. Hetfield, Jr. | 166 | 206 | 359 |
| W. G. Hutchcroft | 166 | 206 | 358 |
| C. E. Jackson | 166 | 206 | 359 |
| John J. Kriney | 166 | 205 | 359 |
| F. DeW. Randolph | 166 | 206 | 358 |

(Continued on Page 5.)

CARNEY FORCES ROUTED BY CONROY SUPPORTERS

WHAT LEADERS SAY OF PRIMARY RESULT

MAC MURRAY, RUNYON AND MURPHY EXPRESS OPINIONS.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray—In my opinion the result shows that the taxpayers are satisfied with the way the city government is conducted. Of course, I am pleased over the primaries—more than pleased. I want to say now what I have always contended, that Plainfield is the best city in New Jersey. Nowhere else will you find a municipality so up-to-date and nowhere else will you find a cleaner government.

City Judge William N. Runyon—I believe that the Republican voters gave careful consideration to the issues of the fight. The people paid attention to everything that the gentlemen in the independent movement had to say and weighed issues well.

Councilman Clarence L. Murphy: "While the result of the primary election is a disappointment to the independent Republicans who voted the 'anti-machine' ticket it does not follow that the issues raised by them in this local campaign are finally disposed of. Speaking for myself I would say that the decision made by the voters yesterday should be accepted as the will of the majority and no further contest be made this year. It is the intention of the members of the First Ward-Republican Club to keep their organization together and if the situation warrants to put a ticket in the field for next year's primary. If we have done nothing more than to show the local leaders that there is a good healthy opposition to anything savoring of local bossism, we have not struggled in vain. This little political storm has had a tendency to clear the local atmosphere which lately has been rather overcharged and I think had at least given us better men as candidates of the 'machine' than would have been nominated without the opposition."

TAME IN DUNELLEN.

No contest and a light vote marked the election in Dunellen. The Democrats polled 21 votes and the Republicans 21. The Republicans nominated W. T. Fredericks for mayor, and Albert Randolph, two years, *and Edward Pennock and C. N. Ap*plegate, one year each. The Democrats named Theodore Apgar and William Coons, three years, for Council.

Doubters to Play Giants.

Manager Daab's Hoboken team, which recently defeated the Cincinnati "Reds" and numerous other strong teams, will again tackle the Champion Giants on Sunday next at the St. George Cricket Grounds and are confident of scoring another victory. The Giants and the Hobokens have met twice this season, the league leaders winning both times by the small margin of one run, a lucky double in each instance defeating the home team. Deegan, who allowed the Giants but four hits in the last game, will again twirl for Daab's team, while Manager McGraw, who has a wholesome regard for the ability of Daab's men, will have his regular team on the field and one of his best pitchers in the box.

Rumor About Herbert W. Bowen.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Word comes to the capital all the way from Connecticut, to the effect that a lot of Republicans in the Third Congressional District of that State are so much taken with Herbert W. Bowen, former Minister to Venezuela, that they are proposing to "vindicate" him because of having been removed from his mission, by electing him as the successor of former Representative Brandegee, who has just been elected to the Senate.

One Contest in New Brunswick .

New Brunswick, Sept. 13.—At the primaries yesterday there was but one contest and that was for the nomination of alderman on the Republican ticket in the Second ward. Two candidates were named there by petition, Joseph J. Hansell and Assistant Prosecutor Charles E. Tindell. The latter was supported by the ward leaders. Tindell won by a close vote. Hansell may continue his fight.

Hunterdon Returns Slow.

Flemington, Sept. 13.—The primaries in Hunterdon county passed off quietly yesterday. The only strife was for delegates to the county conventions, which will nominate candidates for sheriff, assembly, three members of the board of freeholders and a county clerk. Returns are slow coming in so that no predictions can be made.

—Tomorrow morning Neuman Brothers will have 150 baskets of fine white and yellow peaches for table and canning purposes. Prices, 75c., 85c. and $1.00.

Thiers Beaten In Contest For Borough Democratic Mayoralty Nomination.

LEADERS IN CLASH

Linbarger and Carney In a Tussle—Republicans Have Quiet Time, After Cit Leaders Are Challenged.

All the excitement at the borough primaries was embodied in the fight between the Carney and Swackhamer-Linbarger factions of the Democratic forces over the selection of a mayoralty candidate—a battle between the middle-of-the-road party men and the fusionists. Carney was badly beaten, W. J. Conroy, the Swackhamer - Linbarger nominee, winning the nomination by a majority of 84 in the two districts. The factions fought stubbornly at the polls, and a good deal of hard feeling between the leaders was openly manifested. Carney and Linbarger had a personal encounter.

Things were flatly one-sided at the Republican election. True to their announced determination, the anti-administration faction stayed away from the polls, after testing the sin*cerity of the regulars' threat to chal*lenge every man who was understood to have voted with the Citizens at the last regular election. The disaffected Republicans had nominated delegates to the county convention for a test of strength, but to all intents and purposes the list of nominations was withdrawn. Not more than seven votes were cast for any one of the anti nominees, and one of them received only four. The regulars had virtually plain sailing.

The polling officers said it was the biggest primary election ever held in the borough. Mayor Smalley and James Daly, a Democratic leader, said the election was not as warm or as large as some others in the past.

The Vote:

Democratic.

Total ballots cast, 242. First district, 108; Second district, 134.

First District.

For Mayor—W. J. Conroy, 59; Charles R. Thiers, 49. For Councilmen (two)—Charles Emmons, 74; Frank Mobus, 89. For Justice of the Peace (two)—W. E. Mattison, 103; David D. Smalley, 103. For Commissioner of Appeal—George Kirch, 103; For Delegates to County Convention (four)—F. V. Conover, 103; William J. Ricketts, 101; William L. Saunders, 92; Robert Trewin, 94.

Second District.

For Mayor—W. J. Conroy, 102; Charles R. Thiers, 28. For Councilmen (two)—Charles Emmons, 113; Frank Mobus, 120. For Justice of the Peace (two)—W. E. Mattison, 128; David D. Smalley, 130. For Commissioner of Appeal—George Kirch, 120. For Delegates to County Convention (eight)—F. V. Conover, 122; William J. Ricketts, 131; William L. Saunders, 122; Robert Trewin, 122.

Republican.

Total ballots cast, 279. First district, 140; Second district, 139. Rejected, 7.

First District.

For Mayor—Newton B. Smalley, 135. For Councilmen (two)—Clifford W. McGee, 138; E. P. T. Smith, 138. For Commissioner of Appeal—John P. Emmons, 136. For Justice of the Peace (three)—Abram B. King, 138; S. Clark Mundy, 137; Thomas H. Snape, 138. For Delegates to the County Convention (eight)—James A. Arnold, 118; George F. Brown, 119; Brooks Carson, 118; Robert Clark, Jr., 120; W. Wallace Coriell, 118; A. Ellsworth Giddes, 116; Abraham G. Hooley, 120; Lemuel B. Woolston, 118; Justus H. Cooley, 117; W. Edward Cranston, 6; William G. Debele, 7; Edwin, A. Overton, 7; Charles Place, 6; Edward Rushmore, 7; John H. Schenck, 6.

Second District.

For Mayor—Newton B. Smalley, 127. For Councilmen (two)—Clifford W. McGee, 136; E. P. T. Smith, 137. For Commissioner of Appeal—John P. Emmons, 137. For Justices of the Peace (three)—Abram B. King, 135; S. Clark Mundy, 133; Thomas H. Snape, 138. For Delegates to County Convention, (eight) —James K. Arnold, 112; George F. Brown, 116; Brooks Carson, 114; Robert Clark, Jr., 118; W. Wallace Coriell, 114; A. Ellsworth Giddes, 114; A. G. Hooley, 115; Lemuel B. Woolston, 116; Justus H. Cooley, 7; W. Edward Cranston, 6; William G. Debele, 5; Charles Place, 6; Edmund Rushmore, 3; John H. Schenck, 4.

(Continued on Page 5.)

BOY CONFIRMED THIEF

Ten-Year-Old David Friedman Natural Crook, Say Police.

REMANDED BY JUDGE

His Latest Robbery Leads to Effort to Have Him Put In Reform School—Companion Released.

David Friedman and Frank Green, both ten years old, were brought before Judge Runyon this morning for stealing five boxes of cigarettes from Fred Becker's cigar store early last night. The boys sneaked into the store and back of the showcase while Mr. Becker was in a rear room. The latter heard them and nabbed both of them by a sudden dash.

Both boys, despite their youth, are known to the police for past offenses of like nature. Green was arrested for stealing when he was scarcely more than five years old. Since that time he has kept out of the way of the police, and Friedman is regarded as much the worst of the two. It is said he is a natural crook, and always looking for an opportunity to take things. He has been under a charge of horse stealing before the juvenile court since two months ago, when he drove off with a rig from West Fourth street. He was caught putting the horse and carriage in his mother's barn on West Third street.

Green was released, but Judge Runyon remanded Friedman to arrange some disposition of the case that will keep the boy straight. An effort will be made to have him sent to the Reform School. If the matter is arranged he will have to be kept at headquarters until the commitment papers are made out, because he is too young to send to the county jail.

In turning Green over to his father, Judge Runyon ordered the latter to give him a thorough and complete thrashing.

"Judge," said Green, pere, "I want the officers told that Frank is to be arrested on sight any night he is caught on the street after 8 o'clock."

"I will do it," said the judge, "but what he needs now is a good whaling." Frank went out sniffling.

DIAMOND DUST.

Beck pitched a winning game for Poughkeepsie against Newburg, last week.

The Daabsters played without an error and every man worked hard for victory.

Mallen made a sensational catch of O'Neill's long drive to deep centre, showing that he is still in the game.

Manager Denman was certainly a crest-fallen man, as he saw the last hope of winning the championship fade away.

It was a heart-breaking contest for Westfield. After having the game by 4 to 2 for seven innings, to lost it by a score of 6 to 4.

McCormick and Robertson, Westfield's two new men, did nothing remarkable at the bat, although their fielding was good.

No one was more pleased with the batting rally in the eighth than Manager Daab. He wore a smile that refused to come off.

Captain Driscoll acted like a two-year-old after the eighth, his joy knowing no bounds. This was true of the rest of the team.

Henning, as usual, was off on balls and strikes, roasting both Waller and Deegan. He gave Deegan scarcely any credit for his drop ball.

More money changed hands over Saturday's contest than in any of the other six contests, and several local fans were caught betting against their team.

"Tuck" Turner officially declares that he has retired from professional baseball for good and hereafter will content himself with playing on independent teams.

Captain Mallen had nothing to say when "Willie" Deegan and Kiernan caught him asleep at second base after making a two bagger. He admitted that he was out.

For the fine article of ball which Manager Daab has given Plainfield this year, it is up to the fans to get together at the close of the season and dine the team in royal fashion.

For five innings Waller was invincible. He used a straight ball and kept it up around the neck of the opposing batsment, but when the locals found him he weakened very much.

"Willie" Deegan pitched a masterly game throughout, but after the eventful eighth inning when Plainfield made four runs, which won the contest, he put on more steam and his opponents were helpless.

"Kid" Dalton appeared for the first time in seven weeks and played a brilliant game. His timely hit in the first brought Kiernan home with the initial run and his fielding was gilt-edge. He is in the game from start to finish.

All honor to Manager Daab, Captain Driscoll and the team. They have given Plainfield the best team in its history, won the county championship from Westfield and proved their right to be called the best independent team in this part of the country.

POSTAL CARDS IN ART AND EDUCATION

THEIR COLLECTION HAS BECOME MORE THAN A FAD.

The postcard is deserving of a place more dignified than in the field of fads. Postcards are more than a fad. Primarily they filled the needs of those desiring views of towns, cities and resorts visited to send home to friends. A mere note—"Have arrived" or "Here today; having a fine time" and a postage stamp sufficed for a message or letter to a folk at home.

Today postcards are published by millions. One concern in Germany last year produced over 30,000,000 Yet, great as Germany is a lithographing center, England is now producing the finest work, and a prominent London house is now exporting millions of cards to Germany.

The variety of subjects covers practically every field, embracing the most picturesque views of this and foreign countries, fac-simile reproductions of the paintings found in the foremost galleries, historical places and subjects, statues, animals, birds, flowers, actresses, actors, public men, Indian chiefs, battleships, and no end of humorous designs by the cleverest artists. Some are real photographs. Some are remarkable reproductions of oil paintings, bearing every mark of brush work, even on very close examinaiton.

It may be said in passing that a well defined prejudice still exists against lithography and the three-color process, now so extensively employed by picture-makers of every class. And this prejudice is by no means justified. When hand work is superior to the work of plates and presses then only does it deserve first place in the hearts of lovers of the beautiful.

All glory to the men who make it possible for the masses to enjoy the beautiful pictures locked up in private palaces or hung in public galleries so far removed from most of us that we cannot hope to see them.

The ramifications of the biggest publishers of these cards in London extend all over the world. Artists and photographers are sent far and wide to secure the most artistic views of various countries.

There are collectors innumerable, more people every day realizing the interest, the beauty and worth in a collection of these artistic cards. Albums of every sort are now made for holding them, some of them accommodating 1,000 cards, and some of them as few as fifty cards for those just starting to accumulate souvenirs. The collections are valuable or otherwise according to the taste of the collector.

There has been a tendency in some quarters to cheapen the souvenir postcard by issuing cheap common prints and unfit subjects. Thus it has become necessary for the postal card authorities to seize and withhold many thousands of cards, and while in their zeal to refuse circulation to the unseemly subjects they may bar out some real works of art, the censorship will unquestionably dignify and help the whole post-card business. It would be fortunate, indeed, if any ruling should be made by which the better cards would be ruled out of the mails altogether, because, as has been pointed out, they are really instrumental in educating and refining the people, and in raising the standard of taste.

While a great many people imagine that the post-card fever is at its height in this country, it is really in its early stage. All over Europe, in Great Britain and in Canada, postcards are far more generally sent and collected than in this country.

KEPT WEDDING SECRET NEARLY THREE YEARS

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM VAN EPS SPRING SURPRISE ON FRIENDS.

After keeping the fact a secret for nearly three years, William Plume Van Eps, of Westervelt avenue, and Miss Emma Louise Droll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Droll, of West Fifth street, have announced that they are man and wife. They were married at Passaic on January 14, 1903, by Rev. W. W. Pratt, pastor of the Baptist church. Only the necessary witnesses were in attendance. The facts were given out by the bride's parents today.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Van Eps are widely known throughout the city, the former especially from the fact that he is a skilled musician and an expert on the mandolin. Mrs. Van Eps has resided in Plainfield all her life and has a large circle of acquaintances. At present the young couple are making their home on Westervelt avenue.

William Wiedenhaupt is entertaining Everett Gowdy, of New York.

W. G. Vance is able to be about, after suffering several days with injuries resulting from a fall from a ladder while picking apples.

George Miller, of Roselle, visited friends in Greenbrook yesterday.

Mrs. Sanford Ramsey is recovering from her illness at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Davis, of Lebanon.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Gambling at Long Branch.

For years it has been an open secret that many local officials have looked with entire complacency upon the operations of the professional gamblers in and around Long Branch and it is to be expected that their apologists should seek to throw the onus for the reported return to former conditions upon the Supreme Court justice, whose illness has prevented him from performing all his duties within the past year. The truth of the matter is, however, that the county's law machinery is sufficient to cope with the gamblers and stamp out the evil as effectually as Judge Fort did several years ago. There is no need of aid from the higher courts, if the officers do their duty and refuse to be hampered in the work of house cleaning by the obstructive efforts of local politicians who have a personal interest in seeing that the gamblers are allowed to run their games without molestation.—Mount Holly Mirror.

Paterson and Its Presidents.

In Paterson if you accost a man who seems consequential do not call him "Judge" or "Colonel," call him "President." With the fecundity of a pike, Paterson spawns presidents. It has John Hardy, president of the Spanish War Veterans; John Stagg, president of the American Firemen; Dr. Lowe, president American Veterinarian Association; Joe Crowell, president of the Congenital Knockers of the Trunk Sewer; Charles Sterret, president of the Beautiful Featherweight Oratorical Rosers; James L. Hand, president of the Pica Club. These are all good presidents in their way. Then it has bad presidents, for instance, Belcher, president of the National Order of Swindlers.—Passaic Herald.

Mr. Colby's "Almost."

"Almost" is a word that plays an important part in Mr. Colby's vocabulary just now. He reports at frequent intervals that he can almost prove that bribery was used in connection with the Morris Canal abandonment bill and confesses that he is unable to prove it. Without furnishing any reason whatever, he has expressed an opinion that is calculated to bring the entire legislative body of the State under suspicion of crookedness. "Almost" proving a thing counts for nothing. The word is one that Mr. Colby likes to use, and he will undoubtedly find occasion to employ it again after the primaries are over and he tells his friends how he "almost" secured the nomination for Senator.—Trenton State Gazette.

Worthy of Celebration.

It was 128 years ago that New Jersey was, by the passage of legislative enactment, changed from a "colony" to a "State." The anniversary of this notable event will occur on September 20. The Legislature sat in a tavern in Haddonfield on September 20, 1777, when the momentous act was passed. If the program had not been arranged it is a little late for Haddonfield's citizens to carry out the suggestion of the Camden Post-Telegram that they should make a notable event of the anniversary. The ancient tavern has been preserved, and is now the property of the State. The room in which the Legislature met has been restored as far as possible to its appearance in Revolutionary times. The event is worthy of a celebration great and dignified in character.—Elizabeth Journal.

The Courage of His Convictions.

Committeeman Thomas B. Hancock is going to be a martyr to the cause of the constitution. "I'll pay no poll tax," says Mr. Hancock, "if I go to jail." So the doughty committeeman will test the dollar tax in the courts and as the champion of the constitution may send defeat and dismay in the ranks of the poll tax collector. Mr. Hancock certainly has the courage of his convictions and if he can upset the ridiculous and obsolete poll tax law he will deserve the thanks not only of Neptune township, but a good many other townships in the State.—Asbury Park Journal.

Hamilton Kean Would Win.

If Hamilton Kean were nominated for State Senator, he would probably succeed without much difficulty at the polls. His friends, social, business and political, are many, and his enemies comparatively few. With one notable exception, he has proven himself quite a political diplomat, and there is no gainsaying that, should he enter the Senatorial contest, the Plainfield faction would be put to rout quite easily, and the chances of both Runyon and Ackerman would assume a slimness quite startling in its character.—Elizabeth Times.

Governor Stokes' Promised Tour.

Governor Stokes promised last winter to make a tour of the State to enlighten the people on the subject of the maximum tax law passed by the last Legislature. The Governor has been occupied since the Legislature adjourned with the many legislative bills left on his hands and also with duties at Sea Girt, and, besides, he could not well command good audiences during the heat of midsummer. September will bring pleasant weather and there will be plenty of time after the vacation season ends for the Governor to make his promised tour before the ides of November.—Newark Advertiser.

Miss Grace Predmore has returned [illegible]

ACCUSE THE CITY CLERK

Independents Charge MacMurray With Unfairness and Fear.

WITHHOLDING BALLOTS

Express Belief that Voters Will Not Approve of His Course —The Resolutions.

In no unmeasured terms City Clerk James T. MacMurray, who is claimed by his political enemies in the Republican party to be a "boss" of the city, was denounced at a meeting of the Independent leaders last Friday. The session was a closed one and only those known to be anti-machine men were admitted. It took place in Central Hall, and all told there were fifty present representing the four wards.

In addition to scoring MacMurray for his refusal to grant the applications of Collector Lee and Councilman Wilson for official ballots and for his failure to have ballots for inspection and delivery within the time limit, other business of moment was transacted.

Candidates for councilmen at large, freeholder and collector were endorsed, all of whom are Independent Republicans arrayed against the regular organization. For councilmen at large, Dr. Anson W. Anderson, in the First; George P. Mellick, in the Second, and J. Stephen Higham, in the Third ward, were enthusiastically approved by the meeting. Endorsement was also given Collector Robert L. Lee and Freeholder J. Fred MacDonald for nomination and election.

Dr. Anderson was in the chair, and many of the prominent Independents made speeches. Some of the candidates absented themselves early to resume their hustle for votes. Notable among these was Councilman Wilson, who was scouring the Second ward until a late hour in the interests of his own candidacy. Mr. Wilson, it is said, feels sanguine of success.

These are the resolutions passed at the meeting:

"While it is freely admitted that Tax Collector Robert L. Lee and Councilman Theodore D. Wilson committed a technical error under the primary law, in delaying their formal request for ballots beyond the seven-day limit, we believe that City Clerk James T. MacMurray has also committed a technical error of the same kind, under the law, in not having the ballots at his office ready for inspection by 1 o'clock Thursday noon, September 7th, in compliance with the five-day provision of the statute, nor were the ballots ready for inspection by applying candidates as late as 9 o'clock of that day.

"The orders for ballots of Messrs. Lee and Wilson were in the hands of City Clerk MacMurray before the first lot of ballots ordered by the latter were ready for delivery by the printer, and their requests could easily have been granted. Therefore it is the belief of the Independent Republican voters of the city of Plainfield, as represented by a majority of the Independent delegates at this meeting on Friday evening, September 8, 1905, that the city clerk should, in all fairness, waive all technicalities and grant the requests for ballots above mentioned, for it should be understood, in this connection, that the type is set and will probably be kept standing until Tuesday evening next, and that the question of running thousands of ballots through the presses is only a matter of three or four hours' mechanical work.

"If City Clerk MacMurray desired to prevent a perfectly free and fair expression of opinion on the part of the voters of this city, he could hardly have taken a more certain course to that end.

"His refusal to deliver ballots upon the request of the Independent candidates is, to say the least, unfair, and indicates that he fears to go before the voters and meet the issue, but is only too glad to take every advantage to ensure the election of his followers to the Common Council. We believe the voters of the Republican party in this city will not endorse his position in the matter, and we desire that our sentiments, as above expressed, be given the widest publicity."

Councilman Clarence L. Murphy said today that City Clerk MacMurray has violated the provisions of the primary law in not having the official ballots ready for inspection on Thursday and again in not having them ready for delivery Friday. "One man can vote only one ballot; why not let us have a bushel of ballots?" he added.

Mrs. Charles Thornton is recovering from her severe illness.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages.

Ely's Cream Balm

cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

LITERARY.

The following story of Walter Pater, the first biography of whom has recently appeared in the Contemporary Men of Letters Series (McClure-Philips), has just reached this country. Pater, it is said, was very much afraid of the dark; and being ashamed of the weakness, tried hard to school himself out of it. Frequently in the middle of the night he would descend to the dark and deserted drawing-room of any house where he happened to be staying, and would sit in the middle of it, his eyes shut, trying to conjure away the fear of the dread shapes and horrors with which he felt himself surrounded. On one occasion, while he was visiting at a country home near London, his friend brought back unexpectedly from town a celebrated woman writer, with whom Pater had been in correspondence, but whom he had not yet met. She arrived late in the day—after Pater had gone to bed. She had not dined and grew hungry about midnight. Slipping on her dressing-gown, the loose folds of which somewhat exaggerated her exceedingly long and angular figure, she descended in search of the cracker jar. As she started to cross the silent, shadowy drawing-room, she was startled by the appearance directly before her, of a white-clad figure. She shrieked; and Pater, for it was he clad in his pajamas, opened his eyes. Panic stricken by the materialization of his worst terror of the night he fled precipitately into the arms of the apparition. What explanation followed, and what effect this nocturnal adventure had upon the writer of "Marius" is not known, but the episode was the beginning of a friendship which proved most profitable to both concerned.—McClure's Magazine.

A little girl who reads nature books, studies natural history, and is devoted to pets was discovered holding bunny in her lap, trying to direct his attention to a book that she had, and ever and anon boxing his long ears vigorously. Auntie was shocked, of course, and inquired what was the moving cause of such cruelty.

"He's so stubborn," replied the little teacher.

"A rabbit stubborn! Why child, I never heard of such a thing. What is he stubborn about?"

"I'm trying to teach him the multiplication-table, and he just won't try to learn, nor even say it over after me. Now, you say, it sir, 'Three times two are six—three times three are nine.'"

But the rabbit didn't say it, and again auntie inquired into her little niece's conduct as two or three more cuffs were administered to the poor creature's all to convenient ears.

"Why, auntie," explained the girl, "the books all say that rabbits multiply faster than any other animal, and this obstinate little creature won't even go through the three times threes with me."—Henry M Wiltse, in September Lippincott's.

The annexation of Texas in 1845 brought peace and happiness to the citizens of the republic of Texas, who had become weary of war with Mexico and the incessant worry of protecting the frontier from Indian raids. The massacres of Texans at the Alamo and Goliad were gruesome reminiscences of the cost of liberty. Texas history for a hundred and thirty years was written in the blood of its pioneers. There was also a touch of romance, happiness and love mingled with the horror. The occupation of the frontier of Texas by the United States troops in 1845 was hailed with delight by the citizens of Texas, and the State was now destined to enjoy the tranquillity of life to which it had been a stranger.—Vinton L. James in Sunset Magazine for September.

Hetty Green, America's richest woman, and Ada Clare, "Queen of Bohemia," are contrasted types treated by brilliant writers in the National Magazine for September. Mayor Dunne's argument for city ownership of Chicago's street railways is forcefully replied to by Allen Ripley Foote. Judge William H. Brawley, of South Carolina, brilliantly analyzes the sources of secession in "Our Civil War in Perspective." Henry Austin's "The Episode of the Spanish Poem" is an odd and amusing sketch on the lighter side of New Orleans life. Lee McCrae writes briefly, but pointedly, of the General Forrest statue in Memphis as a tribute to American bravery. The Nan Pattersons of current yellow newspaper fame, and their admirers, are scathingly dissected by Mrs. E. D. Kendall in a topical poem entitled "The Newer Woman." Michael A. Lane begins publication of a series of six scientific papers under the general heading "Man in Perspective." The first paper is "The Social Idea." Boy and girl readers will be delighted to know that the September National contains the first half of a two-part story for the young folks, entitled "The Little Green Goblin of Gobliaville," by James Ball Naylor, the author of "The Witch-Crow and Barney Bylow." Other stories in this number are by Lewis E. MacBrayne, Jessie M. Whittaker and F. F. D. Albery.

A Slow Village.

Marksboro, a Jersey village up the Susquehanna Railroad, has a new baby, the first born there in seven years. The total population of the place is 357, and it has only six children under ten years old, counting the spell-breaker. Nobody has died there in the past two years, so that the undertaker as well as the stork has had a [illegible].—Paterson Press.

ANNUAL SESSION OF STATE CHARITIES

ARRANGEMENTS ARE BEING MADE FOR A LARGE MEETING.

The annual meeting of the New Jersey Conference of Charities and Correction will be held in Newark the early part of February. It is expected that the session will either take place in the Free Public Library or First Presbyterian church there. Well known speakers of this and other States will be heard. Plainfielders interested in the work will attend. At a meeting of the officers of the conference recently it was suggested that the programme be arranged in sections, and various subjects to come under every head. Under the subject of "Medical Charities" it was suggested that "Visiting Nursing," "Local Camps for Consumptives" and "Babies' Hospitals" should be discussed. "County and Municipal Charities" will include "Almshouse Problems," "County Schools of Detention for Truants and Incorrigibles" and "Abuses of the Justice of Peace System," while the "Social Welfare Work" will take up "The Y. M. C. A. as a Social Center," "Parents' Associations in the Schools," "Recreation Work," "School Playgrounds," "Outdoor Gymnasium," "Fresh Air Camps" and "Industrial Betterment Clubs."

"Organization of Charitable Administration" will be the subject of the section of which Dr. James I. Vance, of Newark, will be in charge. "Friendly Visitors' Work," "Financing of Private Charities," and "Federation of Hebrew Charities," "The Treatment of the Criminal" will be in charge of Decatur M. Sawyer, of Montclair, and under this head "Work for Discharged Prisoners," "Causes of Juvenile Delinquency," "The Test of Reformatory Methods for Boys," and "The Parole System at the Reformatory" will be discussed.

It is also expected that R. Fulton Cutting, president of the Citizens' Union of New York, and the Rev. J. R. Wight, New Jersey State Commissioner of Charities, will be among the speakers of the day. The officers of the conference are: President, Bleecker Van Wagenen, president of the Bureau of Associated Charities, of Orange; treasurer, John A. Cullen, superintendent of the Catholic Children's Aid Society, of Newark; secretary, the Rev. Walter Reid Hunt; vice presidents, the Rt. Rev. Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, and Mrs. C. B. Alexander, of Hoboken.

ABOUT BOOKS.

Never hold a book near a fire.

Never drop a book on the floor.

Never turn leave with the thumb.

Never lean or rest upon an open book.

Never touch a book with damp or soiled hands.

Always keep your place with a thin bookmark.

Always place a large book on a table before opening it.

Always turn leaves from the top with the middle or forefinger.

Never pull a book from the shelf by the binding at the top, but by the back.

Never touch a book with a damp cloth nor with a sponge in any form.

Never place another book, or anything else, upon the leaves of an open book.

Never rub dust from books, but brush it off with a soft dry cloth or duster.

Never close a book with a pencil, a pad of paper or anything else between the leaves.

Never open a book further than to bring both sides of the cover in the same plane.

Always keep books of value out of the reach of children and in a clean, dry place.

Always keep a borrowed book covered with a paper cover while in your possession.

Never cut the leaves of a book or magazine with a sharp knife, as the edge is sure to run into the print.—Cleveland World-News.

Paterson's Village Habit.

Keeping stores open late on Saturday night still survives as a custom in Paterson, because it has been handed down from its village days—when everybody worked in the mills, and the Saturday pay was the great event in the town. In those days the population paraded up and down Main street every night in the week, looking at the things in the stores; on Saturday the pay came and they spent the money at night, and it took the storekeepers until midnight to supply the wants of the community.—Paterson Guardian.

What Shall be Done With Bad Boys?

The most pertinent question is what is to be done with boys not inherently bad and capable of reformation? There is literally no place for them. Judge Strong, of Middlesex county, recently gave one young convict his liberty because there was no room for him at the home; he was too young to send to the reformatory, and the county jail had no provision from older convicts. Some of the judges have been obliged to send first offenders to prison instead of to the reformatory, because the latter was the less crowded of the two.—Newark News.

Miss Hattie Case has returned to her home in Brooklyn after a two weeks' visit to relatives here.

PENNSY TO TOUCH HERE?

Report That Trenton Cutoff Line Will Run Through Plainfield.

MR. RAMSEY'S VISIT

P. R. R.'s Special Real Estate Agent at Work on Plan—Is He Securing Options?

In connection with the building of the new Trenton fast line cutoff from New Brunswick to Elizabeth, all sorts of rumors have been floating about as to what purpose it is to be put when completed, the general opinion being that either the Wabash or Pennsylvania railroads have it in mind for some scheme. Hitherto Plainfield has not been brought into the stories, but the presence in this city of William F. Ramsey, the Pennsy's special real estate agent in this section, has led to the rumor, according to the New Brunswick papers, that the great railroad intends getting a line through here.

Mr. Ramsey's duties are to secure options on real estate intended for rights of way and settle for property so acquired. He has come and gone periodically in his quiet way and has attracted no attention whatver except through a chance acquaintance with a fellow townsman. When the purport of his visit is developed Plainfield will have interesting news to tell.

Mr. Ramsey's special work in Pennsylvania has been in connection with the new freight cutoff from Marysville, above Harrisburg, down through Cumberland, York, Lancaster and Chester counties to Philadelphia. It is possible, so the wise ones are whispering, that he is working on a coal carrying line through Plainfield to reach St. George, S. I.

The new road now being constructed from New Brunswick to Elizabeth has 100-foot private right of way and is being laid with extra heavy steel rails well ballasted. People who have sold land for the line assert that the big railroads have an interest in it and that though it may be continued as a trolley line for some time, it will eventually be turned into an outlet for freight or coal.

THE "WHITE HOUSE."

Seldom Called "Executive Mansion" by Strangers at National Capital.

When President Roosevelt came to the succession after the death of McKinley he ordered that the stationery be headed "White House," instead of the old and meaningless "Executive Mansion," which had been in use from the beginning, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. It has been found necessary for the Secretary of the Treasury to issue another edict to compel those in official life to recognize the fact that the official home of the President is to be called by the popular name.

Washington is fast becoming the most beautiful city in the world. It ought to have no rival a generation hence, and it is fitting that the people know and recognize its landmarks. Every citizen who gets to the national capital immediately insists on seeing a few of the important buildings, and he never thinks of asking a coachman to drive him to the "Executive Mansion." He wants to see the "White House," and the driver knows what he means. In common parlance or in political writing or speaking the latter term is always used. There are some forty-five executive mansions in this country, but there is only one "White House," and though it seems rather bald if one analyses the term, it is sufficiently distinctive for all purposes.

The same notion is current the world over. It used to be that Whitehall was the residence of the King of England until it burned. At present we speak of St. James's and that is sufficiently distinctive, just as the Elysee stands for the home of the French President or the Quirinal for that of the King of Italy. These colloquial names are often more important than any other which can be imposed by statute or executive order.

Let it always be the White House, a palace which has much to recommend it in architecture and which is deserving of the name because it is constantly maintained in a state of purity, so far as paint can make it. The accidents of war in 1814 covered it with soot; since then it has always been kept white, and may it ever remain so in name and in fact as an emblem of the purity of the aspirations of the American people.

Pretty Good Political Sense.

South Jersey Republicans have pretty good political sense. They are going to send their experienced lawmakers back next winter. They cannot secure the Speakership, but they can command influence, and this they are going to secure. Salem and Gloucester must send new men, but Atlantic is going to send Elvins back; Cape May will return Hildreth; Cumberland will return Buck and Miller; Burlington will return Robbins and Shedaker; Camden will return Scovel, Gibbs and Jones. These will make a group of nine capable and experienced members who will be able to care for South Jersey interests as no new members could.—Jersey City Journal.

AUGUSTUS J. WINCKLER, OLD BOROUGHITE, DEAD

WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN SUCCUMBS TO RHEUMATISM.

Augustus J. Winckler, one of the best known residents of the borough and for many years a building contractor, died at his home on Park place at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. He had been in ill health because of rheumatism and other complications and last month gastritis developed. He grew rapidly worse from this cause and it resulted in his death.

Mr. Winckler was seventy-two years old and had lived in North Plainfield the greater part of his life. He was a contracting mason and erected many of the buildings and residences on both sides of the brook. The original Somerset street school was put up by him and he rebuilt it after the destructive fire a few years ago. Many of the houses he built were for himself and he was regarded as the second largest taxpayer in the borough. He was a member of the Congregational church but belonged to no organizations.

Surviving him are one son, T. J. Winckler, of Asbury Park, and five daughters, all of whom reside in the city or borough. They are Mrs. William G. Debele, Mrs. Alonzo Weseman, and the Misses Estelle, Mary and Nellie Winckler.

FASHION WHIMS.

New fall sweaters have collars and cuffs of knitted plaid.

Brown has had a strenuous run in millinery and will not play a large part in the composition of the autumn hat.

Young girls are wearing the dantiest of soft white and mull frocks simply tucked and capped by white mull hats.

Yellow linens have a little vogue, but the color is too trying to take well and is not nearly so popular as pink or blue.

Hunt up all your odds and ends of velvet, for this material is to be more extensively used than ever in adorning the winter gown.

One of the prettiest flower fans contains an ovel mirror on the reverse side, while attached to its ribbon loops are three tiny bags holding sachet, puff and powder.

Skirts haven't made up their minds whether to sweep the ground or disport themselves airily aloft, but the chances are a sensible length will be a la mode for walking.

A good many women now wear all white instead of black for mourning and long, heavy veils are slowly but surely being abandoned, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

It has become almost a necessity that dress accessories should match, and certainly there has been no prettier fashion than that of having snoes, gloves, hat, parasol and bag all of a single hue.

The open-work stocking is numerous and various, but fashion agrees that there is nothing really daintier than the plain silk hose molding the instep to perfect curves.

The first matinee days will probably witness a large crop of lace blouches, so multitudinous and beautiful are the new designs in all-over laces.

Sleeves hesitate to declare themselves openly, but it is at least ordained that all fullness must be above the elbow, and it is apparent that there need not be quite so much fullness as we had at first thought.

A blouse should never look like the top of a gown worn with a stray skirt, and that is exactly what the surplice separate waist looks like and why it does not "take."

One delectable petticoat of strawcloored taffeta is embroidered with flower baskets spilling their pink and blue blossoms among the lace frills at the foot.

The "keepin" hairpin is a boon in the shape of a novel pin with fleur de lis top and curved prongs, so made that is cannot possibly slip out of the hair unbidden.

The smartness of the maline neck ruff depends wholly on the way it is worn, the correct method being to drop it loosely and low on the shoulders as ruffs are worn in old pictures.

Most dainty and charming of all the fichus is a simple little ruffled affair of white net which can be gotten up for a few pennies yet lends indescribale quaintness to the frock it adorns.

DRESS HINTS.

Don't put cost before cut. Corded silk won't cover a poor fit.

It is not so much the hat itself as the angle at which it is worn and the coiffure which it adorns that counts.

No woman who once tries the expedient of making a gown with two waists will ever abandon the practice.

Grosgrain belting ribbon is recommended by a home dressmaker as a foundation for collars. She says it will not break or wrinkle.

When new evening gowns are few and far between nothing is so useful as either black or white, which by change of flowers or trimming may be altered out of all knowledge.

If you wish to make a walking skirt just to clear the ground without looking too short, adopt the following plan: Measure the person from the waist to the ground, then deduct one and a half inches.

CONDUCTOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR.

Isaac T. Parker Who Runs a Penny Train.

Isaac Thomas Parker, a conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad, running from Southern Delaware to Broad Street station, Philadelphia, is probably the most distinguished employe that railroad has.

He is lieutenant-governor of Delaware and former quartermaster-general of the National Guard of that State. He has been in the service of the company thirty-five years and loves railroading far better than he does political preferment.

Lieutenant-Governor Parker is not a politician. He is a railroad man, who believes in his business. He began his career on the old Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad in 1870, running his train to Broad and Prime street, or, as it is known today, Broad street and Washington avenue. The old depot is there yet, but its passenger traffic left it many years ago.

But while time witnessed many changes in railroad equipment and development, Conductor Parker remained the same, every day conducting his train between points to his home State of Delaware and Philadelphia, winning the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

For thirty years General Parker has been actively associated with the Scott Methodist Episcopal church, of Wilmington, and is at the present time superintendent of a Sunday-school, and takes the keenest pleasure in his religious work.

A year ago, when the State ticket was made up by the Republican party, General Parker was unanimously chosen as the nominee for the lieutenant-governorship, and he was elected. In this way did his fellow citizens single him out to show him the regard in which they held him. And the men whose votes made his election possible were those who in thirty-four years had learned to know him.

The lieutenant-governor is modest. He prefers not to talk of his honors.

"I appreciate them," he said, "and am glad to have them simply because they show that I have many sincere friends. But I have no political ambitions, and will remain a railroad man to the end. Why shouldn't I? Men do not give up their business when elected to office, unless the office demands all their time, and mine does not. I am only called upon to serve when the Senate is in session, and then I preside over it." There is no salary attached to the office of lieutenant-governor of Delaware.

TEMPTING DESERTS.

Steamed Fruit Pudding.

Cover the bottom of a butter mold with dices of bread lightly buttered. Over this place a layer of stewed apples or peaches, then another layer of bread and butter, alternating with the fruit until the mold is three-quarters full. Pour over this a custard composed of two eggs, one-half a cup of sugar and a pint of milk. Fasten the cover of the mold tight drop into boiling water and steam one hour. Serve with foamy sauce or sweetened cream.

Fruit Tapioca.

Wash a cup of the fine granulated tapioca in cold water, rinsing several times. Place in a bowl with three cups of cold water and allow this to stand for thirty minutes. Then cook in a double boiler until the tapioca is clear and transparent. In the meantime pare and core half a dozen apples and place them in a deep baking dish. When the tapioca is clear pour it over the apples. Cover the dish tightly and bake in a moderate oven until the apples are tender. This should take from thirty to forty minutes. Remove the lid and brown the surface slightly. Serve cold with whipped cream or hot with foamy sauce. Peaches may be substituted for the green apples, and will take less time to cook. They should be pared, cut in half and the stones removed. When whipped cream is served with peaches pulverized sugar should be passed with them.

Green Gage Jelly

Put half a pound of sugar, with a cup of cold water, into a granite iron stewpan and stir until the sugar has melted. Then, without stirring, let this syrup boil for a few moments, and add two pounds of green gages. Stew gently until they are quite soft. Pass the fruit through a sieve, then measure the pulp and put it back into the stewpan, stirring it until it is hot. More sugar may be required if the green gages are not thoroughly ripe. Allow three-quarters of an ounce of gelatine for each pint of the fruit after it has been run through a sieve. Soak for a few moments in the cold water. Pour over it the hot pulp. Stir until the gelatine is thoroughly dissolved and turn into a china mold which has been rinsed with cold water. Let it stand over night, if possible, or at least from early morning until the evening meal. Serve it with whipped cream or a cold boiled custard flavored with lemon. This must not be cooked in tin nor packed into a tin mold.

Growers are Getting Wise.

The tomato pack in South Jersey, it is said, will not reach over fifty per cent. of the pack for several years past. Some of this decrease can probably be accounted for in the fact that growers are getting wise in the matter of markets and shipping, and larger quantities are sent to distant markets, thus lessening the tonnage for the canneries.—Woodbury Constitution.

TRENTON STATE FAIR.

Preliminary arrangements for the exhibition of the Inter-State Fair which will be held at Trenton, September 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29, are already fully matured, and at recent meetings of the Board of Directors of the Association plans were decided upon for several new features and extensive improvements to the grounds and buildings.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held early in the present month a resolution was passed which is intended to prevent the wholesale scalping of tickets which has been so generally complained of in the past. The scheme to foil the scalpers provides that all tickets for every day of the exhibition, except one section each for Wednesday and Thursday, for the grand stand, shall be disposed of by the mail order method. This sale will open September 9 and will close September 14. No letter for tickets mailed before September 9 will be honored by the agent in charge of the selling, George Bower, to whom the orders are sent. Each letter must be accompanied by cash or its guaranteed equivalent.

Not more than six tickets will be reserved for one person. The choice of seats will be determined according to the priority of the postmark on the letter. If several letters are postmarked at the same time, the seats will be distributed as the letters are opened and without consideration of the writer.

Any tickets which may be left unsold in the mail order system will be placed on sale at the Fair grounds the day for which they are issued.

The sections in the grand stand reserved for Wednesday and Thursday will be placed on sale at the grounds at 9 o'clock Wednesday and Thursday mornings. This plan was adopted that those living outside of Trenton may have an opportunity to get good seats as late as the day they attend the fair.

The Directors also decided to change the price of seats for Big Thursday. On that day only the grand stand chairs will cost $1 each, and those in the club house section will be sold for $2. This rule was also adopted as a check to speculators. The prices other days will be 50 cents for the grand stand and $1 for the club house.

The auction sale of boxes will take place Thursday afternoon, September 14, at 2 o'clock at the grounds. The sale of booth and dining privileges will be held at the grounds the afternoon of Saturday, September 9, at 2 o'clock.

TEACH CHILDREN NEATNESS.

The play cupboard is one of the essential equipments of a well arranged nursery. As its name implies, it is a place for keeping playthings, and it has a useful purpose in helping the child to understand the value of putting things away after they have been finished with. This lesson is so difficult to learn that many people never master it after years of misdirected effort; the play cupboard, therefore, as a means of teaching it has a high ethical value, says an exchange.

A triangular corner cupboard, which may be reached by one or two small steps below it, in themselves useful bases for play, is one form; another is a simple hanging cabinet, placed not too high on the wall; a third is a large built-in closet, which must be especially erected in the nursery, and is provided with several shelves, forming, in a sense, a mimic playhouse, which may be lighted by a window.

These cupboards may be closed with glass doors, although a better form is likely to be wooden doors, gayly decorated with the picturesque designs now so popular for rooms used by children. Colored pictures of birds and flowers are admirable for a play room, and readily awaken a love for natural science.

So soon as there is love for nature there is a desire for the intimate personal knowledge which is of most value to a growing mind. It is living knowledge which books may nourish, but do not always arouse.

It is well to have pictures so framed that they can be changed at will. If there is not much money to spend on frames, pictures may be used freely on the walls of a play room without framing.

STOP THOSE NAUGHTY CARDS.

It developed yesterday that a well to do young woman had been arrested by Postoffice Inspector Cortelyou and arraigned before United States Commissioner Linsly Rowe at Jersey City for sending improper cards through the mail. She had sent them to a friend, who had been married recently, and induced others of her friends to mail them. The bridegroom was indignant, and informed the officials, but the offender was penitent, and he relented, and the complaint was not prosecuted.

Commissioner Rowe said yesterday:

The souvenir postal cards are pretty, as a rule, and they serve a good purpose. They are all right. But there have also been placed on the market thousands of indecent postal cards that cannot be called souvenir cards by any stretch of the imagination. The sending of these cards through the mails has caused much annoyance to many innocent young girls in Jersey City, and we are going to stop the practice. We are also going to make it warm for those who sell these cards.

Miss Florence Grieb, of Elizabeth, has returned home, after visiting her grandfather, Jacob Grieb.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sept. 17: "The Great Surrender"—Acts ix. 1-22; Rom. vi, 16-22.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

Greater contrast it would be difficult to find than that between the condition of Saul of Tarsus as he goes to Damascus and as he returns.

In both cases he is filled with religious zeal. Few men of his times or of any age have been so intensely devoted to the things of religion. With him it was the master passion and ruling force, shaping all his thinking and all his acts.

He is not native of Jerusalem, but in early life was sent there to be taught, by the most eminent teachers, the law of his forefathers. He has been an apt and most diligent pupil. As he goes to Damascus he is the most representative man among the younger ones of the Jews. In him must center the hopes of his people to a great extent, whether or not they fully realize it.

Gamaliel, their most learned and influential teacher, is aging and by nature dislikes controversy. The times are full of agitation and are electric with forces making for change. What shall be the course of events in the next quarter century no one can foresee, but all can discern that the very existence of the Jews as a people is in the balance. Part of the rulers have almost completely forsaken all that was distinctive in their national faith and life and joined politically and socially with the Romans—have, in fact, become almost gentiles in belief and practice. Faith in the spiritual things has with them become extinct, and they are essentially heathen in sentiment rather than Hebrew. But they hold the chief places of power in the temple and in all matters of government. They are the chief priests, but they are Sadducees. They seek not righteousness, but rulership.

Saul has nothing in common with them. He has studied the writings of the great prophets of his nation who in the ages past have from Moses to Malachi stood for religious purity and national integrity. He is saturated through and through with their spirit. He is zealous as was Elijah for Israel and hates with intensest hatred all that is false and contrary to the Jehovah faith of his fathers. He is puritan in principle and practice. He keeps the law with all exactness as the only hope of salvation for himself and his people. He is a Pharisee of the Pharisees. If the nation can be united in right doing and belief, then will come the glory of which all their prophets have spoken. Now is the critical time. He is a God chosen man to do this work. The hope for nation and world lies in getting the people to keep the law rigidly.

Worse than the difficulty with Sadducees is the new danger arising from the followers of the young Galilean carpenter, Jesus of Nazareth, who was executed a few years back, ostensibly as a leader of insurrection, but really because he claimed to be the promised leader and made Himself greater than Moses and taught principles which if followed out would overthrow the whole mass of rabbinic tradition which in practice had come to have even greater authority and importance than the law of Moses.

His followers believed that He had risen from the dead and ascended to heaven, where He ruled as divine and would come to judge all men. Multitudes believed their teachings and were living according to their rules. They called it "the way of the Lord."

Paul saw that if this "way" was right it must eventually do away with all the temple ritual and overthrow the whole fabric of Phariseeism, since it was based on faith in Jesus Christ as Son of God and not on the efficacy of fasting, almsgiving and personal meritorious deeds.

He determined to crush it out. He goes to Damascus for this end. In his zeal for God life itself, theirs or his own, shall not stand in the way. It is a life and death struggle and will be a fight to a finish. It is Phariseeism and "the way" in the wrestle for religious supremacy and world dominion. Jesus of Nazareth represents as no other man ever has done the ethical principles of prophetism. Saul of Tarsus represented as no other man so well had done the principles of Phariseeism.

Outside the gates of Damascus these two met. Luke's report of the encounter thrills us as we read and realise the interests at stake.

Jesus conquers, and the greatest of the Pharisees becomes the first and greatest of the prophets of "the way of the Lord" and is sent specially to the gentiles. Has he turned Sadducee? Has he repudiated all his love of righteousness as a Pharisee?

No. Rather he has found the truth and error in each of these ways and the higher, mightier truth in the way of Jesus and he has become Christian by "the great surrender."

Force of a Child's Remark.

A New Hampshire woman prominent in church affairs stood leaning over her big five-year-old boy, who when he had finished saying his evening prayer with an irreverent drawl and his amen with a yell, asked her, "Mother, why do you make me say my prayers when you never pray at evening or any other time?" Her lips were closed. There are too many Christian women who never pray except in public.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

A Blessed Intercession.

We have the assurance that not in a general way, but in a special manner and degree, Jesus has prayed for a peculiar blessing in the line of our loving labors in behalf of those to whom we are sent in his name. What need have we to doubt or fear as to the result of our labors which have [illegible]

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 17.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The great surrender.—Acts ix. 1-22; Rom. vi, 16-23.

In the ninth chapter of the Acts we have the record of the wonderful conversion of the Apostle Paul. On his way from Jerusalem to Damascus to persecute the disciples of Christ he had a remarkable vision of Christ, and from Saul, the persecutor, he was transformed to Paul, the apostle. Convinced of the sinfulness of his course, accepting the mercy of God in Christ, he cried out, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" and in that exclamation we see the great surrender of Paul unto Christ.

The surrender of Paul to Christ was a great surrender.

1. Paul's surrender was the surrender of a great man to a great cause. Paul, the apostle, is one of the world's greatest men. At the moment when he surrendered himself to Christ he was a great national figure and was already recognized as one of the great leaders of Judaism as against Christianity. He was an educated man, a deep thinker, a leader among men, and had he continued to remain in opposition to Christianity he would probably have written his name high in the annals of his own people, but in Christianity he found an especial field for proving his greatness to the world. No human void has ever been more powerful than his, and no pen of man has wielded a greater influence than his. But the greatness of his surrender was greatly increased by the cause to which he surrendered. Great men have sometimes surrendered themselves to causes anything else than great, but no man ever surrendered himself to a worthier cause than religion, and the vast majority of the world's great men have been religious men. Young men, if they will follow the example of the world's great men, need never be ashamed to surrender themselves to Christ, the greatest of the world's great men.

2. Paul's surrender to Christ was great in its completeness. It was an absolute, entire consecration to Christ. He surrendered self to Christ, in that he surrendered his will, the citadel of self, to Him. "What wilt Thou have me to do?" he asked. And from that moment the will of Christ was his will. He went where Christ would have him go, spoke what Christ would have him speak, did what Christ would have him do, suffered without murmur or complaint what Christ would have him suffer, and, last of all, as the crowning act of his entire surrender to Christ, he died as a martyr for Him. What surrender could have been more complete? He surrendered all—time, talents, life. They were all asked of him, and he gave them. Such a surrender should be an inspiration to all young Christians. Let us not only sing "I surrender all," but, following in the footsteps of the great apostle, do it.

3. Paul's surrender to Christ was great in its results. It brought to him eternal life. Every one of us must surrender ourselves to some supreme influence. Shall it be to sin, the wages of which is eternal death, or shall it be to Christ, the reward of which is eternal life?

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Deut. vi, 1-5; Isa. lv, 1-7; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Matt. vi, 33; xxii, 35-40; xxvi, 36-45; Mark ii, 14; Rom. xii, 1, 2; II Cor. viii, 1-5.

Canadian Missionary's Testimony.

Rev. Egerton R. Young, D. D., the well known Canadian missionary and author, has been making a tour of the world. In a recent letter he makes the following pleasant reference to Christian Endeavor as he saw it on this journey:

"Following, as we did, so closely on Dr. Clark's footsteps in some of the Pacific islands and also in New Zealand and Australia, we heard many cheering words of the blessed results of his visits and of the stimulus given to the Christian Endeavor and other Christly work by his presence and addresses.

"I was so thoroughly monopolized by the churches that had arranged my programme that I did not have the joy of speaking in nearly as many Christian Endeavor societies as I had desired, but with those I did meet and address I was very much pleased. What struck me most decidedly was not only the brightness and spirituality of their gatherings and the brave, decided Christian lives these Endeavorers were leading, but I was deeply impressed by the earnest desires of so many of them to be able to make their lives successful for Christ and humanity."—Christian Endeavor World.

The Name Beautiful.

After quoting Marianne Farningham's description of Christian Endeavorers as "young people of the beautiful name," the Bulletin of the District of Columbia Christian Endeavor Union says: "It is, indeed, a beautiful name. And a beautiful thing about it is that it is appropriate to young people of different denominations. There are Baptist Endeavorers and Presbyterian Endeavorers and Lutheran Endeavorers and Endeavorers of forty or fifty denominations, but all Christian Endeavorers."

Nuggets.

Endeavorers, remember your history as well as your present opportunity.—Dr. Clark.

The more spiritual and earnest our societies are the better will they fulfill the high purpose for which God created this movement.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

Endeavorers, stand by your pastor and your church. Remember that the [illegible] at all times.—[illegible]

CAUSE OF FAMILY DESERTIONS.

It has been proven by statistics that the many family desertions are caused mostly by men. The ease-loving man, who thinks of his own comfort first, and who thinks he is justified in making arrangements to suit his own comfort during hard times, is the cause of most of the desertions, says the New York Tribune in discussing Miss Brandt's essay entitled "Family Desertion."

In almost two-thirds of the 386 cases in which explanations were available the reports of the charity workers indicate that the man was chiefly to blame. In about 12 per cent. the disruption seems to have been chiefly the wife's fault, and in 13 per cent. the man and woman appear to have been equally to blame. In almost 12 per cent. the immediate responsiblity is said to have lain in circumstances outside the control of both. In only three cases were the men found to be genuinely incapacitated for supporting their families—two by serious illness and one by the loss of his sight.

"These," says Miss Brandt, "are the only clear examples among the 574 cases of the 'hundreds and hundreds' of men who are popularly supposed to be driven to the desperate measure of relieving their wives and children of the disadvantage of their presence in order that the public shall see to it that they do not suffer."

The circumstances of desertion were in some cases extremely shocking. Twenty-two men left behind them sickness or death; in one house the baby had just died, in another one was dying; in two the children were ill, in two others both wife and children, and in sixteen the wife was seriously ill. One of these women was left dying of consumption, without food or care, and another, almost dead from abuse inflicted on her return from the hospital, where she had been undergoing a serious operation, was left alone in the house just after a dispossess notice had been served.

One hunderd men, almost a third of the whole number, left a short time before, or just after the birth of a child, and many were in the habit of doing this.

A striking feature of the statistics is the large amount of looseness they reveal in the marriage relation. This was found to be the most prominent element in the breaking up of the family in 110 cases. Fifty-three of the men left their wives for another woman, although one continued to make a weekly contribution to the original family, carrying it to them in person. Only seventeen women were accused of this particular fault, and in four of these cases the evidence was not sufficient to convict them.

Intemperance is not conspicuous among the causes of desertion, although 325 of the men and forty-three of the women were reported as "hard drinkers." This may have been because the intemperance was lost sight of in more serious faults.

Differences of religion are assigned in several cases as contributing causes to the disruption of the family. In one case the wife was a Salvation Army officer, and her husband grew weary of her active interest in his spiritual welfare.

The behavior of the deserted wives sustains the feeling of sympathy for them that is created by the statistics relative to the causes of desertion. Three hundred and twenty out of 574 had contributed something to the support of the family before desertion, and 236 went to work afterward, sometimes completely ruining their health thereby. One woman brought about the arrest and trial of her husband on the charge of bigamy. When he was sentenced to three years she felt square with him for all he had made her suffer. Another secured a divorce and an order for the payment to her of $7 a week alimony. Such vigorous measures were, however, exceptional. Patience and endurance seem to have been the usual role, and in about half the cases the families became more or less dependent on charity. In only forty-nine cases was the man compelled to resume complete or partial support of his family.

Of later history of the men little is known. Thirty-five were reunited to their families, and 200 were known to have had some communication with them after leaving home. Sometimes the children said that their father came to see them when their mother was away. One man returned just long enough to "enjoy the luxury of a fight." Another had the pleasing habit of breaking into the house periodically at night and threatening his wife.

Of a large proportion of the cases Miss Brandt believes that they go to form the floating, dependent population of the cities. "If the truth could be known," she says, "it would be found that many of the apparently unattached men who fill the free lodgings and make up the 'bread lines' are really deserting husbands, who create a double problem by leaving their families dependent at home and casting themselves on charity in some other place."

Now that Plainfield has won the series with Westfield and the county championship, the local fans would like to see Summit and Dover here, if Manager Daab can arrange it. Perhaps the two managers can arrange to sandwich the remaining three contests with Summit and Dover.

The gas mains have not all been laid yet on the south side. The residents are wondering if the P. S. C. is trying to work a "joker" on the franchise agreement.

NEW DIRECTOR CONFERS WITH HIS COMMITTEES

MR. BOARDMAN TALKS OVER Y. M. C. A. GYMNASIUM PLANS—RECEPTION.

Physical Director Charles A. Boardman, the new head of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, held a conference with the physical work committee last night. General plans for advancing the work along all the lines laid down in the general policy of the association were discussed at length. The physical director's field includes spiritual work as well as athletics and gymnastics, and it is always the aim of the Y. M. C. A. to make the gymnasium a part of the work in bettering the moral as well as the physical well-being of young men. Bible classes as well as gymnasium classes were discussed with Mr. Boardman.

It was decided to start the boys' and young men's gym classes on September 19. The boys will begin in the afternoon and the men in the evening. The police class and the business men will resume the next day, the cops in the afternoon and the business men at night.

Mr. Boardman will get the basketball and gymnastic teams in shape as soon as he possibly can. The regular boys', young men's, cops' and business men's teams will be organized for the opening of the basketball season in strong combinations. There is better material at hand for all of them than was available last season, successful as it was.

Before Mr. Boardman was called in to confer with them, the committeemen voted to extend a reception to Mr. Boardman on September 18. The affair will be arranged with the assistance of the social work committee.

WEDDING SUPERSTITIONS.

A bride who finds a spider on her wedding dress may consider herself blessed.

The bride who dreams of fairies the night before her marriage will be thrice blessed.

If the wedding ring is dropped during the ceremony the bride may as well wish herself unborn, for she will always have ill-luck.

If the bridegroom carries a miniature horseshoe in his pocket he will always have good luck.

No bride or bridegroom should be given a telegram on the way to the church. It is positively a sign of evil.

Kiss a bride right after the ceremony and before the newly-made husband has a chance to do so, and you will have excellent luck throughout the year.

Should a bride perchance see a coffin while being driven to the railway station prior to departure upon her wedding tour, she should order the driver to turn back and start over again, or else she will surely meet with bad luck.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

WRINKLES.

Forehead wrinkles are of two varieties, says the Pilgrim. There are wrinkles running from temple to temple, and wrinkles running up and down. There is a third class of creases which seem to cross all the other ones, making a sort of checkerboard of a lady's brow. These last are the constitutional wrinkles.

The worst wrinkles are those that go up and down between the eyes, for there is no hiding them. Glasses only make them more conspicuous, for they give a severe look to the face; the monocle brings them out with startling distinctness; the lorgnette simply calls attention to them, and bangs and frizzes fail to conceal them. They are always there, and they give the face a menacing look.

The temple to temple wrinkles—those long wrinkles which run across the forehead—can be covered up in a way. The pompadour can be pulled down in chorus girl fashion, hiding them on one side, or the hair can be banged and curled in English style, which is heavy and deep in the front. These wrinkles can be, in a great measure, covered up; yet, cover them up as she will, no woman's forehead will ever look youthful if she allows these wrinkles to remain. They, somehow, give her away very quickly.

"I can tell a woman's age," said an expert, "by looking at her forehead. I don't have to see her teeth or her hands. If there are deep wrinkles I know she is old and careless, which is a bad combination for a woman."

In these days of plumping creams she can keep her hands in shape past the age of 40, and if she goes to a cosmetic dentist she can preserve her teeth, but it takes a wise woman to know how to take care of her forehead.

The best wrinkle remedy is cold cream. But there are wrinkles and wrinkles, and there is cold cream and cold cream. "What can I do for a deep furrow in my brow?" asked a woman of a wrinkle specialist. The specialist looked at the deep furrow, which was so heavy that you could lay your finger in it, and said: "You can do a great deal. But will you?" then he added, more soothingly, "Treat it, madame, treat it."

So She Did.

A South Jersey girl gave as an excuse for her marriage that "her mother did the same thing." True, so she did.—Hudson Dispatch.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Ed. and Proprietor

Thursday, Sept. 14, 1905

William Waldorf Astor and Richard Croker each in turn found life abroad better to their liking. And now James Hazen Hyde has forever renounced America to live in France. All of this is very creditable to the "land of the free and home of the brave."

The impression which seems to exist in some quarters that the delegates to the various conventions to be voted for at the primary election next Tuesday are to be elected by districts is erroneous. The primary law as originally enacted called for the election by districts. The language of the section 16 of the original act read as follows:

"The persons receiving the highest number of votes for the position of delegate to any convention on any ticket of any political party at such primary election, to the extent of the number of delegates which the respective election districts are entitled to send to the said convention, shall be the duly elected delegates to such convention."

The Legislature of last year amended the primary law in several particulars, and section 16 was amended so as to substitute for the words "election district" the words "wards and townships and boroughs without wards." The ward is therefore the writ in Plainfield, and the delegates are to be eletced by the vote of the entire ward and not merely by the vote by the district.

The recent census report as to the present population of Plainfield and the numerical membership in the Common Council present a matter of considerable interest if the theory of strictly representative government is carried out to its logical conclusion. The census gives to Plainfield a population of 18,468. The Common Council has eleven members. There is therefore one member of the Common Council for every 1,679 of the population. On the basis of ward representation, the First ward with 3,566 of population would be entitled to 2 1-8 members of the Common Council; the Second ward with 4,291 of population would be entitled to 2 3-5 members; the Third ward with 3,695 of population to 2 1-5 members; the Fourth ward with 6,926 of population to 4 1-8 members. In other words, discarding the fractions under one-half, the First ward on the basis of population is entitled to 2 members; the Second ward to 3 members; the Third ward to 2 members, and the Fourth ward to 4 members. The Fourth ward with the quarantine ordinance aimed directly at it, with the recent raid, and with the various innuendoes indulged in regarding some of its leaders, has been getting more than its share of notoriety of late. Suppose the Fourth ward voters should take it into their heads to demand representation according to population and ask for two councilmen-at-large, in order that the ward could have its fair and rightful share in the discussion of public questions, would fair thinkers in other parts of the city consider them far wrong?

Much misunderstanding exists regarding the purpose of the special election which has been arranged by the Common Council to take place on Tuesday, September 26. It is called under the provisions of a statute of 1876 permitting municipalities to obtain permission to investigate the desirability and feasibility of city ownership of water works. The result of the vote on September 26 will not mean that the people want or do not want to gain control of the water supply. It will simply mean that they approve of a thorough investigation of the subject, incidently permitting the Common Council to make an appropriation for the purpose. The necessary information on such an important question cannot be obtained without some outlay and before this expense can be met the taxpayers must authorize it. Not until all the necessary information is at hand and the Common Council is ready to present a definite proposition will the people be called upon to express their approval or disapproval of municipal ownersnip of the utility. The question will be asked, naturally, why was not this special election merged with the general one in November as provided by the State election law? The reason given by the public affairs committee of the Common Council is that it was deemed too important to be decided at the time an unusually exciting political contest is being fought out. It was deemed that the subject would not be given the mature consideration at an election when partisan and factional spirit is running high. Consequently, the committee decided that it was justified in authorizing the expenditure of approximately $800 to conduct a special election for the purpose.

It was an Elizabeth paper that said Plainfield would control its water supply some months before the people at the county seat would accomplish that end. This may be true, but it is not wise to think that municipal ownership will be put in operation here at any early date. We were a long time in getting municipal street sprinkling, and today we are told that the much-needed and long-desired municipal collection and disposal of garbage system is too expensive to be assumed. Since the two latter propositions were first suggested, Plainfield has added to its heavy obligations on the sewage disposal system and other indebtedness by recently issuing a large amount of bonds to cover the expense of erecting a $100,000 school house. Now, whether the city establishes a municipal water plant by condemnation, purchase or by the construction of a distinctly new and separate system, it is reasonable to believe that the expense incurred will foot up to approximately $1,000,000. It should be stated in this connection that the present Water Supply Company is said to value its plant in the neighborhood of $3,000,000. The expense of a municipal plant would naturally be met by issuing bonds, and anyone can figure out in round figures just about how much interest the city would be obliged to pay annually on such bonds. It should also be taken into consideration that the city's present contract with the Water Supply Company has seven years yet to run, therefore it can be seen that the chances of establishing a municipal system at an early date are slight. We draw attention to this phase of the subject, not in any spirt of opposing the plan of public ownership of water or any other utility which would be a benefit to the people, but that the taxpayers know that the proposition is a serious one.

AMUSEMENTS

One of the most remarkable demonstrations ever witnessed in any theatre was that at the reopening of the New York Hippodrome, when during a brief intermission, a large portrait of President Roosevelt, draped in the National colors and flanked by the flags of Japan and Russia, was lowered from the top of the proscenium, the orchestra in the meantime playing "The Star Spangled Banner." In an instant, the great audience, men, women and children, were on their feet cheering wildly. For ten minutes the ovation continued to be renewed when John W. Gates, from his seat in an upper right hand box, rose and shouted, "What's the matter with Roosevelt?" "He's all right," came the thundering response, which must have found echo in Oyster Bay The "act" was not on the programme. It was the idea of Frederic Thompson, of Thompson & Dundy, the manager of the Hippodrome, and not arranged for until an hour before the doors were opened.

Edna May, the American girl, is at Daly's theatre with a complete company from London and a number of French dancers selected from various Parisian musical companies. This is Charles Frohman's first production this season. She is seen in "The Catch of the Season," a musical play which was produced in London by Charles Frohman over 300 nights ago and which is still a current success at the Vaudeville theatre in the British Capitol. Miss May's English company numbers 70 artists and it includes Farren Soutar, son of Nellie Farren, who has been leading comedienne of the musical plays on the Strand. Fred Wright, Jr., of "The School Girl" success of last season; Fred Kay, who appeared in New York originally in "The Gaiety Girl" and who has since been the leading character comedian at Daly's theatre, London; Talleur Andrews, who was the chief tenor of "The School Girl" company last season; Maud Milton, a representative English actress, who has played with Sir Henry Irving and other legitimate stars; Jane May; the three Gaiety dancers, Margaret Fraser, Bert Sinden and Vivian Vowles, and a number of representative stage beauties. Besides these there is a large number of specially engaged ensemble dancers.

In all its history the New York theatre has never held such audiences as now gather there at every performance to witness Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Ham Tree," in which the great delineators of negro character, McIntyre and Heath, are the center of interest. It is the biggest show at popular prices, ranging from 25 cents to $1, ever staged in America, and by long odds the funniest entertainment on earth. People laugh until they are exhausted and are glad indeed when the end of an act gives them a respite from mirthful convulsions. McIntyre and Heath play minstrels in the first act, standard minstrels in the second and an Indian rajah and ranee in the third. Their "conversation" in the second act would, as Josh Billings used to express it, make a horse laugh. Mr. McIntyre is the doleful one, while Mr. Heath is the hopeful—seeing hams growing on trees, rivers of beer, swamps of schweitzer and flocks of sausage flying through the air. This scene between these veteran comedians is admittedly the most humorous ever presented by any two performers. Seats for "The Ham Tree" may be ordered by mail. Letters should be addressed to Louis F. Werba, manager New York Theatre.

Surpassing the phenomenal success of last season, the New York Hippodrome has reopened with "A Yankee Circus on Mars," "The Raiders" and a score of foreign specialists, most of whom are from the Royal circuses of Europe and appearing for the first time in this country. The features of the mammoth performance are more than ever elaborate with the attendance day and night so large that the immense playhouse has been packed from orchestra to gallery. The gorgeous ballet, in the beautiful "Dance of the Hours," rounds out the great spectacle. The circus is entirely new and the performers will be seen in acts never seen before on this continent. Mlle. Renz, the most famous equestrienne in Europe, who has taught riding to the Princesses of the Austria and German courts, has duplicated the sensation she created in European capitals, and with her magnificent snow-white stallions, Mazeppa and Wanetou, has become the talk of the town, because of her wonderful riding. With the Cottrell-Powells, a trio of bareback riders from England, with a reputation second to none, Mlle. Renz made her American debut at the Hippodrome The same is true of the Kaufman bicycle troupe, a sextette of girls who are seen in a series of intricate and beautiful maneuvers.

For the week of September 18th Keith's announces the engagement of the famous Fadettes Female Orchestra, under direction of Caroline B. Nichols. This unique organization, composed of thirty pretty and talented young ladies, renders classical and popular selections in delightful style, and the management promises special stage settings to suit the performance. A feature of especial interest to little folks is Berzac's Circus, reputed the most marvellous and amusing equine act in the varieties. Clay Clement, the clever German-dialect comedian, will present the one-act comedy, "The Baron's Love Story," while Ann Warrington & Co. will offer the farcical sketch, "The First of May," illustrating the tribulations of moving day. This week will also witness the first American appearance of Miss Daisy Harcourt, the dainty little Australian singing comediene, while popular performers on the bill are George W. Day, the black-face philosopher; Brazil & Brazil, comedy acrobats; Rich & Harvey, refined song-and-dance specialties, and Miss Marie Laurent, in high class ballads. The Kinetograph, with up-to-date moving views, is always a feature of Keith bills.

Sousa and his famous band opened the New York concert season at the New York Hippodrome on Sunday evening with a programme which included classical and popular selections. The compositions of the great bandmaster were also heard. Mr. Sousa was assisted by several soloists, including Miss Ada Chambers, soprano; Miss Jessie Straus, violinist, and Herbert L. Clarke, cornetist. The concert concluded with the "Ride of the Valkyries," from Wagner's "Die Walkure," in which the famous composer depicts vividly and most powerfully the wild ride skyward of those warrior maidens. This is but the first of a series of Sousa concerts at the Hippodrome during the year. On Sunday night, September 17, the second sacred concert will be given.

The marvelous success of the new Hall Caine play, "The Prodigal Son," which had its initial presentation at the New Amsterdam theatre on Monday evening a week ago, has evoked the problem as to whether this play is not destined to prove even a greater popular success than was "The Christian," and for the past decade that, as every one knows, has very properly been regarded as the supreme test. It is very certain that even the luxurious existence of "The Christian" has never been able to boast an interest so intense, an enthusiasm so marked and so prolonged, expressions of satisfaction so boldly and generally expressed, as those witnessed at the New Amsterdam theatre on the evening of Monday, September 4. The vast auditorium was filled in every part, and although the temperature outside was well nigh endurable, and although this, practically the first essay of the massive production, necessarily made a long performance, yet the vast audience remained to the very close—a close long delayed by the enthusiam of the audience which called up the curtain scores of times, and in its entrancement wore out boxes of costly gloves untold in the expression of its approbation. A fascinating plot, most clearly and entertainingly told, a scenic production such as has not before been given a drama on the American stage—certainly not for a decade; a list of interpreters that fairly entitles the long cast to carry the caption "all-star;" a series of incidents and climaxes which follow one another in such rapid succession as to almost bewilder as well as entrance—such is the new Hall Caine play, "The Prodigal Son," now on for a brief run at the New Amsterdam. Seats may be secured by mail by addressing Manager, New Amsterdam theatre.

From present indications the production of "The Bad Samaritan," the new George Ade comedy, will surpass the pictorial display made in that other successful Ade comedy, "The College Widow," which was the hit of the last New York dramatic season. Henry W. Savage, George Marion and George Ade have been busy for several weeks rehearsing the company preparatory to the openings in Washington Monday next. One scene represents a seaside resort which the author has called Nirvana-by-the-Sea, and the stage will be an epitome of the life and hurly-burly seen at a summer resort where people go for rest and are thrown into a very vortex of excitement. Mr. Ade, in his characteristic manner, has burlesqued the airs of the new-born rich and shown the inclination of the average American to bask in the approval of a new celebrity. In this case it is Isaac Gridley, who has made a fortune out of hides and tallow and who goes to the coast resort to spend his money. He is helped along wonderfully by a score of new-found friends only too willing to part him from his wealth. His attempts to do good are all misconstrued, hence the amusing title of "The Bad Samaritan." He finally ceases his philanthropy and starts out to have a good time on his own account. In the seaside act Mr. Savage has employed over a hundred persons, who will lend a color and gayety to the scene, and the effect, it is thought, will be more of a pictorial display than was shown in the third act of "The College Widow," where the finale of the football game was shown. "The Bad Samaritan" will be at the Garden theatre, New York City, tonight.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Creamed cauliflower with a rice border is a delicious vegetable. The two are cooked separately, of course; the rice well washed and boiled in salted water until each flake is separate. Cream the cauliflower in the usual way and serve on a platter with the rice around it. No one who has tried the combination has been known to disapprove it.

Cream cheese in combination with chopped olives or with chopped nuts is recommended for sandwiches. Moisten the cheese with a little thick cream and add a little salt. About ten olives, stoned and chopped, to one cheese is the proper proportion. Mix the two and spread between thin slices of bread and butter. Trim the crusts and, if desired, cut the slices into rounds or triangles. Peanuts, English walnuts, or pecans, or a mixture of these nuts, combines well with the cheese. Prepare exactly as with the olives.

Pimentoes make the daintiest of tea table sandwiches. The pimentoes should be cut in tiny rings and only a few of them spread on bread and butter. The flavor should be delicate, not obtrusive.

Triangular shaped saucepans are new inventions, and will no doubt become very popular. They are made to exactly fit into each other, so that a single burner of a gas stove serves to cook several pans.

A bread toaster for a gas stove is another new device. Four slices of bread can be toasted at once, and clever arrangement prevents any part of the bread from coming in contact with the flame.

FASHION WHIMS.

Fluffy neck ruches of dotted tulle, to match the hat, are shown in the best millinery shops.

The girl who can wear olive green will be quite distingue this fall.

Anything from a full length redingote to an eton jacket "goes."

The braid and button trimming, in millinery effect, will be used to some extent, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Coquettish little hats of bright felt, with the brims pinched high all around, will be worn with the autumn walking suits.

Lingerie waists over a lining will be worn all winter, whereat the economical girl rejoices.

Silk girdles knotted at the side with long fringed ends are a pretty fancy.

A good deal of garnet is shown among the first fall things, and it will undoubtedly be worn more than for several years.

Embroidered lace, whereon either ribbon work or jet is used, is shown among the best trimmings.

Small toques made entirely of iridescent feathers, will be in vogue again, and one or two have already appeared on the street.

Stockings of iridescent coloring, like changeable taffeta, are novel. The clocks are embroidered in the predominating tone.

With a white frock and white shoes the fad is to have the stockings match the bright color of the belt and hat, rather than white.

With a nobby little vest of checked cloth and well lined, the brief bolero may be made to do duty as a coat until well into sharp weather.

A simple finish of two tucks is still used on many very elegant skirts; and where something different, yet equally simple is desired, a single band of trimming around the hem is equally fashionable.

Waists of plaid silk are to be the approved third piece of the tailored coat and skirt suit.

It is prophesied that coleskin is again to be one of the fashionable furs of the winter.

A scarf of dyed Alencon, made fluffy with little ruffles of the same and bordered with baby velvet ribbon, is a valuable possession to the girl who knows how to wear these little accessories.

Rally Day Service.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will observe rally day with a special service at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon of Sunday, September 17. All teachers and pupils are especially urged to be present. Hereafter the sessions of the school will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Chief Kiely Unruffled.

Chief of Police Kiely, who is still on his vacation, was at police headquarters for a few minutes this morning. The chief got three weeks off, and is not due to return to duty until Sunday. He appears to be enjoying himself, unaffected by the consequences of the Tyler raid. He smilingly refuses to discuss the matter.

BANISHED FOR A CRIME AGAINST SUNDAY GOLF

Italian Released From Prison on Promise to Leave the Country.

SACK TO SUNNY ITALY.

Dunellenite's Term of Two Years Rescinded, Provided He Sails Away Before September 26.

John Pasco, the young Italian, of Dunellen, who was sentenced to State prison for two years nine days ago by Judge Strong, was arraigned in court Saturday in the Middlesex County Court at New Brunswick, befor Judge Strong, and the previous sentence was rescinded and the young man was ordered to leave the country on or before September 26. Pasco and his parents, who are respectable Italians, wore serious faces in court Saturday.

A week ago Saturday they were in a merry frame of mind, and considered the shooting of a fellow employe by Pasco a thing that would be passed over lightly. The youth readily pleaded guilty to the charge, and told the court how Stillger, the fellow employe, had tormented him and he had gone to his home, secured his revolver and had returned and shot at Stillger, the bullet passing through the flesh of Stillger's neck.

Pasco cried when Judge Strong failed to see the joke and sentenced him to two years in prison. Saturday morning his parents succeeded in having Judge Strong reopen the case. They showed that John is the older of two children; that neither had ever been in any kind of trouble; that the boy had not realized the seriousness of using a revolver to protect himself, and that the family felt keenly the disgrace of having the older child sent to State prison. They offered to send the boy back to Italy if the court would rescind the sentence.

Judge Strong looked with favor on the application and so ordered. Pasco wsa released on bail furnished by his father, and Probation Officer Buckelew, of New Brunswick, will accompany him on the sailing day and see that he leaves the country, the expenses of the trip being paid by the boy's father.

Protest to be Voiced by Ministers of Denominational Churches.

HOT FIGHT IS ON

Distinguished Citizens Favor Amendment to Club's Constitution—Up Three Years Ago.

Members of the Plainfield Golf Club opposed to Sunday golf have asked the local ministers to preach next Sunday against forms of desecration of the Sabbath. It is said that these members have been successful in their efforts and that from every pulpit will be heard a protest against allowing play on the golf course on Sundays.

A special meeting of the club has been set for Tuesday night, September 19, to take action on proposed amendments presented by members in favor of allowing play on Sunday afternoons, as is the custom of many of the leading organizations of a similar character throughout the country.

The proposed amendments were presented by influential citizens identified with the club. Among the signers were O. T. Waring, T. J. Mumford, J. C. Gilbert, A. E. Barclay, H. M. Stockton, M. S. Ackerman, O. G. Waring, William R. Cock, G. W. Endicott, Walter Gaston, Joseph W. Reinhart, A. F. H. Streuli, John Grierson, Charles A. Reed, Archibald Cox, Henry L. Hall, F. W. Butler, E. B. Shoemaker, Edward A. Cruikshank, Arthur L. Otterson, G. F. Earle, A. G. Hooley, Frederick H. Wills, W. T. Kaufman, Henry D. Hibbard, Edwin S. Hooley and G. G. Davidge.

These members, whose efforts to have a Sunday afternoon golf resolution passed by the club three years ago, argue that the enjoyment of the ancient Scottish game on that day is no more of a desecration than carriage driving, automobiling or similar recreation. They hold that if a professional or business man attends church morning and night on Sunday there is no reason why he should not be permitted to take part in his favorite pastime in the afternoon.

Three years ago the effort to inaugurate Sunday golf was defeated at a club meeting by a vote of 93 to 91.

$300 BARN FIRE.

Small Sunday Afternoon Blaze Stirs Up East Front Street.

Fire did $300 damage to the barn back of P. S. Dayton's residence on East Front street early yesterday afternoon. The blaze was a sharp little one and kept the firemen busy for half an hour.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It discovered itself to several people at once by breaking through the roof. Mr. Dayton was told of the blaze by an excited neighbor and pulled Box 17.

The wagons and horses were taken out unharmed. The flames were confined to the upper loft.

Miss L. A. Smalley owns the place. The loss is fully covered.

Appointed Vocal Instructor.

William Holmes, of the First Baptist church, has been appointed vocal instructor at the Academy of the Sacred Heart, Albany, N. Y. This institution, which is about fifty years old, is for women only and a special feature is made of music. Mr. Holmes has other music interests at Albany. His new duties will commence October 1. During the fall and winter he will be in Albany, Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday of each week, still retaining his vocal interests in this city.

Mrs. Blackford Weds.

Charles J. Skoguist, of Metuchen, and Mrs. Emma Blackford, of South Plainfield, were married by Rev. J. W. Musson, of Faith chapel, yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at Mr. Musson's home. Mrs. Skoguist was the widow of Nathan Blackford, and is well known in Piscataway. Mr. and Mrs. Skoguist will live in Perth Amboy after the honeymoon.

INJUNCTION ON DAM.

E. S. Hooley Obtains Relief in Chancery Court.

Through his counsel, Reed & Coddington, Edwin S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, has obtained an injunction in Chancellor Magie's court, restraining John Hermann, of Somerset street, from rebuilding the dam near his sash and blind factory. The recent heavy rains and flood wrecked the dam, and the water flooded the property of Mr. Hooley, as well as that of other owners, doing considerable damage.

The counsel for Mr. Hooley has applied for a rule to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. Tuesday, September 19, is the date when the rule is returnable.

Attacked a Girl.

Charged with attacking a young woman in South Plainfield, Edward Garry, aged twenty, of that place, was arrested by Constable Brown, of Perth Amboy, last week, on a warrant sworn out before Recorder Pickersgill, of that place. Garry gave bail for his appearance before Justice Sedam, of New Brunswick.

Piano Instruction.

May Vincent Whitney has returned from a few weeks' stay at the shore and will resume piano instruction at her studio in the Babcock building on Monday, September 18. Miss Whitney has just purchased a fine Chickering baby grand piano, which has been placed in the studio.

German Society Dance.

The German Beneficial Society has decided to hold a dance in Saengerbund Hall on November 6.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River. In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 2.37, 5.26, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46 9.20, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 6.42, 7.08, 7.32, 8.35, 9.35, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 2.37, 4.47, 7.47, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 9.49 10.02, 10.22 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.20, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 3.49, 3.44 4.13 4.47 5.30 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.34, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.32, 5.03, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.33, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.22, 11.26 p. m., 12.58 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.03, 2.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For *Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49, (4.13 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.13 p. m. Sundays —8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 8.21 through train,) 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—5.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.25, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after September 12, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.25 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06, 11.43 a m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.22, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.25, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.44, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.25 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, 3.04, f 5.43, and f 7.38 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.05 10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.49 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

Assistant to Tax Collector.

Frank M. Dunham, who formerly was employed in the office of the tax collector at different times, is engaged there as an assistant to Collector Robert L. Lee, pending a permanent appointment by the Common Council, as recommended by the Board of Assessors. His appointment is assured, and as Mr. Lee needs assistance, he was temporarily employed until Councilmanic action.

Ray Fuller, of Arlington avenue, is detained at home by illness.

COUNTY PENNANT WILL COME TO PLAINFIELD

Daab's Men Win the Necessary Sixth Game, the Score 6 to 2.

A THRILLING RALLY

Terrific Assault on Red Waller In One Inning Changes the Tide and Wrests Victory From Defeat.

In an atmosphere of strict business, unmarked by the diversions practiced in the last two games, the Commuters and the Pirates settled the pennant matter at Recreation Park Saturday afternoon. The Commuters cinched the streamer, displayed faultless workmanship, turned off a thrilling and victorious rally, tore Red Waller's delivery to pieces when the skies were darkest, and jammed a sudden and unexpected dose down the thorax of the hopeful and excited Westfield fan; all in one exhibit, score 6 to 2. This seems almost too much to put into one game, but it was a great crowning of a fat year, after three lean and sere seasons, for the faithful and exuberant Plainfield fanatics.

Such a peacefulness as attended the exhibit was never before seen in any ballyard outside of the Epworth League. P. Fergan called a mild kick over a strike-out decision by the Westfield arbiter, and a hurried flow of words followed an incident in which Micky Flynn got home because Jack O'Neill blocked him on the plate, but these things were as nothing, and not a head or a slat was placed in the remotest peril. The umps' decisions were received with smiling courtesy or stoical coolness, and the dove of peace warmed its feet unafraid in the very hair that flamed so fiercely on Mr. Waller's upper works in the midst of alarms and spikes and fists and things on other occasions. The pact of peace was so sternly kept that G. Mallen himself, caught off second base, made no audible protest when he was waved into outness. Greater quietude than this can no game have.

Two more changes were sprung by the Pirates in their battle line. Robertson, of Fordham and other places —once an Alls player—pranced about in right field, and "Dade" Cormick, a celebrated jumper for whom countless big league clubs are said to be yearning, covered short. Neither of them showed up enough to merit an obituary. Deegan had the Indian sign on them both, and neither worked spryly in his territory. James, alias "Kid," Dalton, who was forced out of his new job at second for us early in the season by a sprained ankle, was back in the game. James was all there and helped press the burden on the Pirate shoulders. His ankle bone stood the gaff well, allowing even the liberty of a swipe sprint to second.

What happened through the game is largely a story of the rise and fall of the Hon. John Hallahan Waller. For years stanzas John had our heroes flung to a standstill, and they looked like a vain and weak-shouldered lot at the plate. But they fell on him in sudden fury in the eighth, and hammered him out of the box, thumping as ever a twirler got in one inning.

The striking rally was full of real thrills. Held by Red's artful twirling, the Commuters trailed after the hated rivals, two tallies, then one, then two again, to the bad. Red was pitching in a style that would look good in a boys' baseball story. Twice he retired the side on strike-outs, and whiffed nine men in seven innings. One of the snuffed out trio was made up of Dalton, Connolly and Deegan, as haughty and chaotless a set of sticks as we can dig up in one whole batting order. Paddy Cotter came in ever and anon and sang loud and admiring strains about the other end of the battery—it looked like there was nothing but Red to the whole show. This sort of thing always makes the Commuters mad. They had a particular reason for wanting Saturday's game, so they got madder and madder until the seventh, when Pete Deegan and Mike Leonard were whiffed in succession; then their patience became exhausted. Unconscious of what was seething in the Commuter souls, or reckless to the verge of madness, the unfortunate Mr. Waller thumped in to run in the Pirate half of the session. This aroused their manly fury to a truly terrible pitch, and the way they went at Red in the eighth was something awful to behold.

With the picture of the debonair way in which he had whiffed their mightiest men before them to jog their ears, those Commuters hammered Mr. Waller with merciless fury. In that one inning they rapped five times safely, as many as in all the other innings combined, and luck saved Red from yet another thump. Not one of them struck out, even Deegan making the infield work for his death. They scored four runs, and all the tallies and four of the hits came after two outs—they simply would not be denied revenge.

and bleachers gave all the symptoms of temporary madness. Other people on the seats and one C. Denman were curiously silent and unsmiling during this period. It's funny how the same event has different effects on different people.

Statement by an eyewitness:

PLAINFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, as | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Dalton, 2b | 1 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 0 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 0 | 1 | 8 | 1 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 0 | 0 | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 |
| Totals | 6 | 10 | 27 | 11 | 0 |

WESTFIELD.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Berthwhitle, lf | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Flynn, 2b | 1 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 |
| Wahl, 1b | 1 | 1 | 10 | 1 | 2 |
| Robertson, rf | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| McCormick, ss | 0 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 0 |
| Mallen, cf | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Barry, 3b | 1 | 1 | 4 | 2 | 0 |
| Cotter, c | 0 | 0 | 7 | 3 | 0 |
| Waller, p | 0 | 2 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Totals | 4 | 7 | 27 | 15 | 3 |

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Plainfield | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0 | — | 6 |
| Westfield | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | — | 4 |

Earned runs—Flynn, Barry, Connolly, Cregan. Sacrifice hits—Cosgrave, 2; Cotter. Stolen bases—Kiernan, 2; Dalton, Cregan, Driscoll, Waller. Two base hit—Mallen. First on balls—Off Waller, 1. Struck out—By Deegan, 8; by Waller, 9. Left on bases—Plainfield, 4; Westfield, 4. Double plays—McCormick to Barry to Wall, Flynn to McCormick. First base on errors—Leonard. Hit by pitcher—O'Neill. Time of game—2 hours. Umpires—Henderson and Merity. Attendance—2,000.

ANOTHER ERRORLESS GAME.

Hobokens Play a Fast Game with Royal Giants.

Following up their good work of Saturday in defeating Westfield in a sensational contest, the Hobokens defeated the Royal Giants at St. George Cricket Grounds, Hoboken, yesterday by a score of 4 to 1. "Willie" Deegan was in great form and allowed the visitors but two hits up to the ninth inning, when he let up and allowe dthem to score one run. Tom Hobson played a brilliant game in the field and at the bat. As on Saturday, they played an errorless game. The score:

HOBOKEN.

| | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, as | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Dalton, 2b | 0 | 0 | 2 | 5 | 0 |
| Connolly, rf | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 1 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 1 | 0 | 16 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 0 | 1 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 0 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Totals | 4 | 5 | 27 | 14 | 0 |

ROYAL GIANTS.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| J. Robinson, cf | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Smith, c | 0 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Payne, lf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Wright, ss | 0 | 0 | 6 | 1 | 0 |
| Brown, rf, 3b | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| A. Robinson, 1b | 0 | 0 | 7 | 0 | 0 |
| James, 2b | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Andrews, p | 0 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Johnson, 3b | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 1 |
| Hawk, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals | 1 | 5 | 24 | 5 | 1 |

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hoboken | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | x—4 |
| Royal G'ts | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | —1 |

Two base hits—Connolly, Deegan, O'Neill. Bases on balls—Off Deegan, 2; off Andrews, 3. Left on bases—Hoboken, 5; Royal Giants, 7. Time of game—1 hour and 30 minutes. Umpire—Mr. Merity. Attendance—1,900.

POND MEN WON.

Singer Combination Handily Trounced at the 'Fort 14 to 4.

The Pond Tool Works nine got back at the Singer factory men in Elizabethport Saturday afternoon, winning the 10-inning game of the series by a score of 14 to 4. Ettlinger, the former Dunellen pitcher, twirled for Pond's, and O'Loughlin, of Clinton avenue, caught him.

Ettlinger's pitching was a puzzle to the Fort men. He held them safe at every stage, only four hits being made from his delivery. The Pondville players went at the other man freely and took advantage of every chance. In the eighth Ettlinger made himself the hero of the game by smashing out a three-bagger with two men on bases.

Pond's lined up as follows:

Ettlinger, p; O'Loughlin, c; Daily, 1b; Dodge, 2b; Taylor, 3b; Martin, ss; Barnes, rf; Keefe, cf; O. Dodge, lf.

WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY.

Interclub Team Match Schedule Announced.

The Women's Metropolitan Golf Association will soon resume Interclub team matches, and this schedule has been announced:

First district — September 22.—Apawamis at Brooklawn and Nassau and Richmond County at Dyker Meadow.

September 29.—Brooklawn and Englewood at Apawamis and Apawamis at Richmond County.

October 24.—Brooklawn at Nassau and Apawamis at Englewood.

Second district—September 29.—Plainfield at Morris County and Essex County at Baltusrol.

October 24.—Morris County at Baltusrol and Plainfield at Essex County.

CARNEY FORCES ROUTED

(Continued From Page 1.)

Opinions may differ as to whether the primary was as big as some of former years, but as far as the Democrats were concerned it was warm enough for all practical purposes. Both factions hustled out all the votes they could marshal, and workers labored busily at the polls, while the opposing leaders glowered at one another. After 6 o'clock, when the rush of ballots began, Carney, Swackhamer, Lipbarger and their aides hustled about without cessation, talking, urging, and arguing. Hacks were in constant service, as at a regular election. Both Conroy and Thiers were out at the polls all afternoon. The latter went home early, but the fusionists stayed until the vote was counted.

Leaders Have Clash.

Late in the afternoon Carney and Linbarger came into collision over the canvass books, which the middle-of-the-road leader accuses the fusionists of having kept from him. After the clash Linbarger sought, unavailingly, to have Carney arrested for assault and battery.

Linbarger carried two books beneath his arm all through his work about the polls. Carney thought the books were the open sesame to office, and rushed on Linbarger while the latter was talking to James Daly, one of the Carney men, in the hallway next to the polling place of the Second ward, and snatched them from his grasp. Linbarger turned on Carney and sought to regain possession of the books. A tussle ensued, in which Linbarger was thrown to the floor of the hallway.

A crowd gathered, and a good deal of excitement followed. Carney found the books were not the ones he was after and returned them to the fusionist. Linbarger was not satisfied with that termination of the affair, and turned to Mayor Smalley, who was in the crowd, to demand Carney's arrest. The Mayor referred him to the recorder. Linbarger then commanded Marshal Emmons, who was in citizens' clothes, to arrest Carney. Emmons said he was not on duty. After an unsuccessful attempt to get Justice Smalley to issue a warrant against Carney, Linbarger allowed the matter to drop for the time being.

Linbarger Indignant.

He was very indignant over it, however, and criminal action may yet grow out of the incident.

"I am not through with this thing by any means," he said last night. "I will make Carney suffer for his assault yet."

Swackhamer, as well as Linbarger, had an uncomfortable fifteen minutes in the course of the election. Mayor Smalley halted the ex-Assemblyman early in the evening in front of the Second district polling place, and gave him a liberal piece of his mind, with characteristic force and fluency.

"You are a pretty sort of object to be leading a reform movement against my administration," said the Mayor. "You were in the Council with me for three years, and you know whether or not there was anything wrong with the government of this borough. Why don't you tell what you discovered, if you discovered anything? If you set out to talk about the administration, tell the truth."

The executive belabored the Democ*ratic leader in this strain for ten* minutes, to the unconcealed enjoyment of a large gallery. Swackhamer's reply was feeble, and he seemed glad to get out of range of Smalley's batteries.

Only One Contest.

There was no contest among the Democrats for any other nomination than that for Mayor. The fusionists did not name councilmanic candidates, leaving the nominations open for their allies among the Republicans, but the straight ticket men filled out the ballot. The Conroy adherents, for the most part, appedred to ignore the nominations so made, although a number of them showed a preference for a ful set of Democratic nominees by allowing them to stand.

Early in the polling the anti leaders made a test of the regulars' threat to challenge the votes of their followers. Former Freeholder Lutkins, W. G. Debele and I. P. Runyon appeared at the polling place in the Second district and asked for Republican ballots. William McLaughlin promptly challenged them. They swore in their votes, taking an oath to support the Republican ticket at the next election. In the First district A. E. Case, of Manning avenue, was challenged. He swore in his vote in the same way. After these challenges anti-administration Republicans were about as scarce in the polling places as feathers on a fish. Satisfied that the Smalleyites would do as they said, the Independents gave them no chance to compel an oath of fealty to the party ticket.

Robert Clark, jr., was on both tickets as a delegate. This explains why there were only seven trailers in that list. Edmund Rushmore, one of the anti delegate nominees, sent word to the men who made up the ticket after the names had been filed, that Mayor Smalley admires and wanted his name withdrawn. It was too late, however, to take such action. Mr. Rushmore says he didn't know that he was signing when he affixed his acceptance to the nomination petition.

Miss Ethel King, of Craig place, has returned from a two weeks' stay at Block Island and Bridgehampton, L. I.

PRIMARY VOTE COMPLETE

(Continued From Page 1.)

Delegates City Convention.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Robert Runyon | 133 | 174 | 220 |
| J. Harry Cook | 133 | 174 | 220 |
| C. H. Dunham | 134 | 174 | 220 |
| Jas. Nevins | 134 | 174 | 220 |
| H. C. Runyon | 133 | 174 | 220 |
| Jas. Nicholson | 133 | 174 | 220 |
| James Stewart | 133 | 175 | 220 |
| T. Wyckoff | 133 | 175 | 220 |
| J. W. Whitehead | 133 | 175 | 220 |
| Members Common Council. | | | |
| C. C. Randolph | 161 | 272 | 364 |
| Justice of the Peace. | | | |
| Jacob Kriner | 167 | 267 | 365 |
| Members County Committee. | | | |
| Herbert Buxton | 161 | 233 | 316 |
| William Newcorn | 161 | 222 | 316 |
| F. H. Smith | 161 | 222 | 316 |
| Members City Committee. | | | |
| Herbert Buxton | 161 | 222 | 316 |
| William Newcorn | 158 | 229 | 317 |
| F. H. Smith | 161 | 230 | 316 |

Independent Ticket.

Delegates City Convention.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Henry H. Apgar | 47 | 70 | 120 |
| Juan A. Babcock | 47 | 70 | 120 |
| E. H. Heffield | 48 | 70 | 120 |
| C. A. Bradley | 48 | 71 | 120 |
| Joseph Andersen | 47 | 71 | 120 |
| Henry Leitz | 47 | 71 | 120 |
| Anthony H. Martel | 46 | 70 | 120 |
| S. H. Phillips | 46 | 70 | 120 |
| S. H. Truwell | 46 | 70 | 120 |

Total vote—Republicans, 461. Democrats, 4. Rejected ballots—None. Demo.

Democratic Ticket.

FIRST WARD.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| Delegates County Convention. | | |
| Vincent L. Fraser | 7 | 3 |
| W. L. Hetfield, Sr. | 7 | 3 |
| John F. Owens | 7 | 3 |
| Delegates City Convention. | | |
| Vincent L. Fraser | 7 | 3 |
| W. L. Hetfield, Sr. | 7 | 3 |
| John P. Owens | 7 | 3 |
| Justice of the Peace. | | |
| Andrew F. Mauss | 7 | 3 |
| Constable. | | |
| Alex. Kane | 7 | 3 |
| Total vote—10. | | |

SECOND WARD.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| Delegates County Convention. | | |
| James B. Guttridge | 1 | 10 |
| James F. Mahon | 1 | 10 |
| Charles A. Sturtevant | 1 | 10 |
| Delegates City Convention. | | |
| Joseph Arrigan | 1 | 10 |
| John Hurly | 1 | 10 |
| Joseph J. Nebel | 1 | 10 |
| Justice of the Peace. | | |
| Hezekiah Carman | 1 | 10 |
| Member Common Council. | | |
| Charles A. Sturtevant | | 4 |
| Total vote—11. | | |

THIRD WARD.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| Delegates County Convention. | | |
| W. H. Harding | 3 | 2 |
| Frank J. Shattic | 3 | 2 |
| Delegates City Convention. | | |
| John W. Connors | 3 | 2 |
| Michael D. O'Keefe | 3 | 2 |
| Member Common Council. | | |
| John W. Connors | 3 | 2 |
| Total vote—5. | | |

FOURTH WARD.

| | 1st. dist. | 2d. dist. |
|---|---|---|
| Delegates County Convention. | | |
| George E. Plimpton | 8 | 10 |
| Meyer Leichtentritt | 8 | 10 |
| John C. Carney | 8 | 10 |
| Charley J. Reville | 8 | 10 |
| Stephen H. Schiller | 8 | 10 |
| Delegates City Convention. | | |
| John F. Casey | 8 | 10 |
| George E. Fliethouse | 8 | 10 |
| John C. McCarthy | 8 | 10 |
| Patrick J. Reville | 8 | 10 |
| Member Common Council. | | |
| Fred Endress | 5 | 3 |
| W. H. Daly | 8 | 10 |
| Justice of the Peace. | | |
| Lucien C. Sheppard | 8 | 10 |
| Constable. | | |
| Total vote—29. Rejected ballots—7. | | |

QUARANTINE IN THE SOUTH.

William R. Sweeny Encounters an Odd Experience.

William R. Sweeny, formerly of this city, but now of Trenton, who has been on a business trip South for the Standard Oil Company, and Southwestern Railway Company, of Hopewell, Alabama, has had an interesting experience while away regarding board of health measures to prevent the spread of the yellow fever. He says that a doctor boards all trains and examines each passenger and makes him sign a statement to the effect that he has not been in the fever district for seven days past.

While at Tallapoosa, Mr. Sweeny had dinner with the Hon. O. C. Sexton, Assistant Secretary of State of Alabama. The company which Mr. Sweeny represents has fifteen miles of railway, 30,000 acres of good *Georgia pine land and eighteen saw*mills.

$120 FOR SOMERSET COUNTY.

Twenty-four Italians Fined for Stealing Coal.

Detective Totten, of Somerset county, went to Bound Brook Saturday and arrested twenty-four Italians and Hungarians, old and young, on charges of stealing coal from the New Jersey Central Railroad at that place.

The bunch of prisoners was brought to Somerville and arraigned before Justice Sutphen. He let them off after each one of them paid $5 fine.

Class Reunion.

Fifteen of the seventeen members of the class of '80, New York University, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation with a dinner at the Hotel Chalfonte last week. Those in attendance were the Rev. G. L. Richmond, of Boonton, N. J.; the Rev. E. A. Mason, South Bristol, Me.; the Rev. E. D. Van Dyck, of Verrsville, N. Y.; Herman Kudlich, New York city; Samuel A. Eddy, Canaan, Conn.; L. M. Daniel, Plainfield; De Lagnel Berier, Ridgewood; Harry S. Blake, Clinton, Conn.; M. E. Webber, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Edward C. Phillip, Hoboken; N. C. Hendrickson, Jamaica, Long Island; William K. Gillette, Pelham Manor, N. Y.; Dr. Charles S. Benedict, New York city, and the "class boy," Edwin M. Daniel, jr., of Plainfield.

Mrs. John Brooks is detained at her home in Watchung avenue by illness.

Elmer D. Cutting, of Orchard place, is home from his vacation spent in New Hampshire.

MEMORIAL BUILDING FOR FRESH AIR CAMP

DAVID HAND GIVES MONEY FOR ADDITIONAL MEMORY OF SONS.

Carrying out the dying wish of his son, David Hand, of Berkely avenue, will erect an auditorium for Miss Carry's Netherwood Fresh Air Camp. The building will be a memorial to two dead sons, David and Irving.

David Hand, Jr., died about five years ago, leaving a considerable amount of money that he had saved. This money remained untouched by his parents. A few weeks ago Irving Hand was seized with a fatal illness. When he realized that he was in the valley of the shadow, he asked his father to take a part of his money and combine it with David's money for a gift to the fresh air camp. The entire Hand family has been interested in the camp ever since its inception.

The announcement of the gift was made yesterday afternoon, by Miss Curry, at the last meeting in the camp. Mr. Hand, she said, had decided that an auditorium building was the best form in which the gift could be put.

Plans for the structure are being drawn, and it will be ready in ample time for the opening of next season. At the Hand home this morning it was said that the dimensions and cost of the building had not been decided upon. The cost will be considerably over $1,000, whatever it may be.

John B. Berry, chief engineer of the Union Pacific Railroad, of Omaha, has been appointed a member of the Board of Consulting Engineers to meet in Washington September 1 to discuss the building of the Panama Canal.

DIED.

WOODSON—At the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Archer Jones, 617 West Third street, on Thursday, September 7, 1905, Elizabeth Woodson, widow of Henry Woodson.

MOTTLEY—In this city, September 11, 1905, Mary Helen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mottley.

BROWN—At Brooklyn, N. Y., September 10, 1905, David R. Brown, aged 59 years.

WINCKLER—On Friday, September 8, 1905, Augustus J. Winckler, in his 72d year.

DEMAREST—At Syracuse, N. Y., on Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1905, Peter M. Demarest, aged 81 years.

WOODSON—On Thursday, September 7, 1905, Elizabeth, widow of Henry Woodson.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY.

UNION COUNTY SURROGATE'S OFFICE.

Application being made to me for letters of administration upon the estate of James H. Southard, by his widow, and it being therein represented that he was a resident of the City of Plainfield, in this county, that he has absented himself from this state for over seven years last past successfully and has not been heard of or from during said period, and that it is believed that he is dead:

It is on this eighteenth day of August, 1905, ORDERED that cause be shown before me at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Elizabeth, in said County, on the twenty-sixth day of September next, why letters of administration should not be granted to Anna A. Southard pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided:

And it is further ordered that this order be published once a week for four weeks successively in the Constitutionalist, a paper published at Plainfield in said County.

GEO. T. PARROT,
Surrogate Union County, N. J.

5244

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting. Tin Roofing.
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents; others to look after local work; looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid; rapid advancement; old established house. Grand chance for earnest men or women to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income while learning. Now, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
25 Church St., New York, Conn.

W. B. CODDINGTON
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park Avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life}
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
Corner Front St. and Park Aves
Plainfield, N. J.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited
P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist
Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue

NO OFFICIAL BALLOTS FOR INDEPENDENTS

Excitement in City Clerk's Office When J. T. MacMurray Quotes Law to C. L. Murphy

COUNCILMAN'S IRE UP

Anti-organization Men Fail to Give Notice and Lose Right to Procure Ballots—Candidate Attacks Clerk.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray refused the demand of Independent Republicans Thursday for a supply of official ballots ,and as a result anti-organization men will be seriously handicapped at the primaries on Tuesday. Requests had been made by Councilmen Clarence Murphy and Theodore Wilson, as well as Collector Lee, two of whom are candidates for renomination, running as anti-machine men. According to the election laws, requisitions for official ballots made by any citizen must be honored by the city clerk on payment of the fee, provided they are made seven days before the primaries. Failure to give the notice in the required time robs the Independents of this privilege.

When Councilman Murphy asked City Clerk MacMurray last night for a quota of ballots, the latter declared that he had not received his request within the time limit and that he could not deliver them.

Mr. Murphy called on Councilman Wilson and Dr. A. W. Anderson, who were present, to witness that the ballots were not ready for distribution. The climax of the meeting between the leaders of the opposing forces was reached when Mr. Murphy said: "There is a power higher up who can fire you." Mr. MacMurray quickly retorted, "I know that, but you can't scare me."

At one stage of the discussion Mr. Murphy insinuated that there had been "graft" in the printing of the election ballots, but he apologized later for his remarks. The city clerk had told him that the ballots were $2.50 per thousand. "The newspaper told me that they are doing the work for $2.38 per thousand. Don't that look like graft?" he said.

"Do you mean to insinuate that I get anything out it?" was the quick answer of the city clerk. The apology was forthcoming.

Councilman Wilson had also made a request in writing for ballots, and he was also refused. On advice of his counsel, Charles A. Reed, City Clerk MacMurray answered the Second ward man's request by letter. It appears that the formal demands of Collector Lee and Councilman Murphy for tickets were in the shape of notices shoved in the clerk's desk and found there by him last night. Mr. Murphy claims that he visited the office Tuesday afternoon to deliver his formal request, but that no one was there and that he left his notice with the collector. The city clerk declares that he saw Mr. Murphy at the Common Council meeting Tuesday night, but that the latter did not mention his visit to the office.

When asked by a representative of The Daily Press today what course the independents would pursue to get ballots, Mr. Murphy said: "We don't believe it necessary to seek the aid of the law. All we wish is that the voters know what the city clerk has done. If they think they can defeat us at the polls, why not give us a million ballots? As it is, they want to try and win this election on a technicality."

Collector Lee refused to say anything except that he would put the matter up to the delegates.

Mr. Mac Murray told a representative of The Daily Press today that Corporation Counsel Marsh had advised him that he was justified by the law in taking the position he had in the matter. He said, however, that inasmuch as Mr. Murphy declared he had attempted to file his application on Tuesday, he would supply him with the official ballots desired.

Following is the letter which Mr. MacMurray sent Councilman Wilson, a similar one having been delivered to Collector Lee:

Theodore D. Wilson, Esq.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

I beg to acknowledge your notice dated September 7th, and delivered to me this day, enclosing a five-dollar bill, and requesting me as City Clerk to deliver to you two thousand (2,000) official ballots to be used at the primary election in the Second ward in the City of Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, September 12th, and to be apportioned as follows, viz.:

1,500 for the First district,
500 for the Second district.

I beg to call your attention to section 56 of the election law which provides that the City Clerk shall be notified in writing of demand for tickets, and furnished with the money to pay for the same, at least seven (7) days before the day of election. As your notice was not received until five days before election, I regret my inability to comply with your request.

The same law provides for violation of the provisions of said act, the Clerk shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment for a term of not more than three years, or by a fine of not more than $3,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

You will readily see that I can hardly lay myself open to such economy. I herewith enclose the $5 which accompanied your order, and beg that you acknowledge receipt of same.

Yours truly,
J. T. MacMURRAY.
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 7, 1905.

TROLLEY ATTACKS AUTO OF JUDGE CODINGTON

BUBBLE GETS WORST OF IT—JUDGE AVOIDS FRAY BY JUMPING.

Former City Judge W. A. Coddington's new touring car had its first tilt with a trolley car Thursday afternoon, at Richmond and Second streets. The automobile got the worst of it. Judge Coddington got out of range of hostilities and damage by jumping.

The judge, with his chauffeur, was bowling down Richmond street on his way home from a short spin. He approached the Second street corner just as a trolley car was bearing down on the curve. The car came at the auto stiffened for the fray, and the Judge saw that a meeting was inevitable. He gave the machine his blessing and jumped. He landed safe.

The car crashed into the front of the auto with a whole-souled bump that smashed both lamps, ripped up the hood, and damaged the front springs. The chauffeur, who stuck to his post, was not hurt. The machine was not damaged badly enough to put it out of business, and Judge Coddington, after a courteous interchange of views with the motorman, drove on his way.

The Judge says it was all the motorman's fault. His machine was at a standstill on the curve, he says, and that he warned the trolley man of his presence by tooting his horn.

NETHERWOOD HOME CLOSED.

Offering of $115 Received at Exercises Yesterday.

With an attendance of 300 people the programme rendered at the closing exercises of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon was unusually interesting. After reports were made, letters from Rev. E. R. Rodman, David Hand, J. F. Parker, C. W. McCutchen and Mrs. D. M. Runyon were read.

Solos were rendered by Miss Ada Cumming and a quartette composed of E. D. Crane, Thomas A. Beale, L. L. Loveland and C. H. Titus rendered several selections, assisted by Whitfield Frazee, cornetist. Addresses were made by George A. Chapman, Winfield S. Angleman, David Torrey and Miss Florence G. Hawkins.

Previous to the close Miss Curry made an address, in which she took occasion to thank all those who directly or otherwise helped to maintain the Home during the last year.

An offering of $115 was received, which leaves the Home free and clear from all debt.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, pronounced the benediction, after which the many friends of Miss Curry gathered around to bid her farewell.

BABY CAMP STILL OPEN.

Work to Continue While Weather Continues Favorable.

The closing days at the King's Daughters' Camp on the mountain are very busy ones for those in charge. It is proposed to keep the institution open as long as the weather continues favorable. Only one child has died at the camp this summer, and that case was practically beyond hope when taken there.

The work at the camp has grown to such proportions that the officers of the City Union, King's Daughters, have decided that another year it will have to be established on a more businesslike basis, that is, there will be a commissary department, with some one person in charge. One drawback this season has been that the organization has been obliged to pay practically the retail price for meats, flour, vegetables and other necessaries, very few persons contributing any of these things. The officers see no reason why it should not be possible to get these things at wholesale price, considering the object, which would mean a great saving.

Woodhull & Martin are offering many bargains in the furniture department, a clearing of samples from the floor. A glance through this stock will convince you of the great values. The prices are very low for such a grade of furniture and it is possible for one to furnish their home at a reasonable cost. The firm is also offering specials in carpets and dry goods.

This is the time to think about having your furnace or heater put in order for the winter and A. M. Griffen, of East Front street, is ready to do the work at a reasonable price. Mr. Griffen also installs the best heating systems and plumbing and tinning work.

WHITE RIBBONERS' MEET

W. C. T. U.'s Annual Session to be Held Here on September 21.

THE PROGRAMME.

Meetings to be Held Morning, Afternoon and Night at the Congregational Church

Arrangements are complete fo the twenty-first annual convention of the Union County Women's Christian Temperance Union to be held on Thursday, September 21, in the Congregational church, this city. An unusually attractive programme has been prepared by the county officers, and a large attendance is expected from all parts of the county. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of this city, is the county president and will preside at the morning, afternoon and night sessions.

The morning session will begin at 10 o'clock with devotional exercises, after which there will be the appointment of committees, greeting by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, president of the local union, response by Miss Emma L. Starr, of Westfield; the president's address, annual reports of the corresponding secretary and treasurer, report of the credential committee, noontide prayer, followed by adjournment.

There will be a box luncheon served, and at 1 o'clock there will be a meeting of the executive committee, superintendents' meeting and resolution committee.

The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock with a Bible reading by Mrs. May P. Sparks, of Bridgeport, and the minutes of the executive committee. Then will follow several reports on department of organization, as follows:

Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss May E. Howlett, Plainfield; work among foreigners, Mrs. L. Ussing, of Cranford; superintendents' reports, five minutes each; Preventive—Nonalcoholic Medication, Mrs. A. H. Plummer, of Cranford; Education—Scientific Temperance Instruction, Mrs. D. D. Irving, of Cranford; Sunday School Work, Mrs. F. R. Baker, of Westfield; Temperance Literature, Mrs. W. H. Morse, of Westfield; The Press, Mrs. L. H. Noe, of Elizabeth; Medal Contest Work, Mrs. G. T. Schenck, of Dunellen; Anti-narcotics, Mrs. C. W. Scott, of Elizabeth; Evangelistic—Evangelistic and Almshouse, Mrs. W. B. Daland, of Elizabeth; Systematic Giving, Mrs. J. E. Brewer, of Westfield; Unfermented Wine and Sacrament, Mrs. S. Stoddard, of Elizabeth; Soldiers and Sailors, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, of Plainfield; Prison and Jail, Miss S. J. Kerr, of Elizabeth; Sabbath Observance, Mrs. M. Winter, of Plainfield; Mothers' Meeting, Mrs. S. E. Rainear, of Elizabeth; Work Among Railroad Employes, Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of Plainfield; Social—Flower Mission, Miss M. L. Underhill, of Rahway; Social Meetings and Red Letter Days, Mrs. M. F. Francis, of Elizabeth; Legal—Legislation and Petition, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of Plainfield; Christian Citizenship and Franchise, Mrs. E. R. Fuller, of Rahway.

The afternoon session will close with a memorial service, report of resolution committee, question box, and miscellaneous business. Between the afternoon and night sessions a box luncheon will be served.

The evening session will begin at 8 o'clock with a devotional service. The address will be delivered by Mrs. Anna M. Hammer, of Bayonne, on the subject of "Our National Issue." She is an interesting and talented speaker and is thoroughly conversant with the subject chosen.

These are the officers of the Union County Union: President, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of Plainfield; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. L. Rarick, of Dunellen; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of Plainfield; treasurer, Mrs. Mary T. Cox, of Cranford; honorary vice presidents, Mrs. Scriven-Stoddard, of Elizabeth, and Miss Julia A. Barker, of Rahway.

A WATER MAGNATE.

J. A. Staats the "John Kean" of Stanhope.

J. A. Staats, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, who has during the past few years, been interested in water supplies, and who is prominent in the Watchung Spring Water Company, of this city, is preparing to supply the town of Stanhope, Sussex county, with water, having received the franchise from the Common Council in that place, but not until after a lively fight.

Mr. Staats owns valuable water rights in Sussex county, and he was willing to sell the water for the town consumption providing the people would pipe the town. Two special elections were held, and each time the proposition to bond the town for a few thousand dollars was lost by less than a dozen votes. After each election Mr. Staats appeared before the officials and asked for a franchise to operate a water works there, but each time was unsuccessful. Finally the authorities became exasperated, and gave Mr. Staats the franchise, and he is now getting ready to pipe the town. It is expected that Netcong may receive its water supply from the same source, that town being just over the line in Morris county.

JACOB KRINEY'S WORK

Active in Movement for New School in West End.

IS MUCH NEEDED

Irving School Inconveniently Distant for Many Children—Board Said to Favor Idea.

Jacob Kriney, of West Front street, is heading the movement to secure a new public school in the West End of the city. He is a public spirited citizen and many years ago when a resident of the borough, took an active part in municipal affairs, especially as a member of the school board, where he was instrumental in placing the finances of the school district on a firmer foundation.

Mr. Kriney was active in the early days as a volunteer fireman. After moving to this city he at once showed an interest in public affairs. It was largely through his efforts that the trolley was extended through the West End and the water company was induced to lay its mains. He is known among his friends as a "petitioner," for he has had more success in securing petitions and the desired objects than any other one man in the city.

Jacob Kriney.

Recently, Mr. Kriney was impressed with the idea that a new school is needed on or near West Front street and Clinton avenue to relieve the crowded conditions in the Irving School, and he started a petition. As a result he obtained the signatures of over 400 property-owners, using only the heads of the various homes he visited. When it was understood that two-fifths of the city population is now in the Fourth ward and there is only one public school there, the need of another one became apparent. At present children from various parts of the ward are compelled to travel a considerable distance to the Irving School, and it is especially inconvenient for those living on the west side of the railroad, being obliged to go through Grant or Clinton avenues.

A glance through the petition for the new school shows that a majority of the property-owners in the lower end of the ward favor the new school and they are determined to do all in their power to secure it. It is understood that members of the Board of Education are favorable to the idea, recognizing the crowded condition in the Irving School, which compelled the leasing of Epworth House, connected with Monroe Avenue M. E. church, as a place to take care of the overflow from the Irving School. Mr. Kriney's petition was referred to the public affairs committee and a favorable report is expected soon.

STOLE UNDER ORDERS.

Charles Leonard Says His Employer Had Him Take Railroad's Coal.

Charles Leonard was arrested by Detective Lavalle, of the Central R. R. police force, last night for stealing coal from the cars on South Second street. Leonard was charged with throwing a quarter of a ton off the cars, but he told Judge Runyon this morning that he only got two bagsful.

Leonard said he took the coal under orders from Mrs. Burke, his employer. The railroad officer said he was sorry for the man, having learned that he worked for $4.50 a week and his board.

"Yes," said the magistrate, "the case, as it applies to you, Leonard, is not a bad one, but this coal stealing is too general to be connived at. If Mrs. Burke got you to do this thing, it is up to her to stand by you now. Ten dollars or twenty days."

Leonard's fine was paid.

Halsey Out of Politics.

Charles H. K. Halsey, president of the Union County Trust Company, and a member of the Elizabeth city and county Republican committees, has announced his intention to retire from politics. He is the third member of the Republican city committee of Elizabeth and the county committee to announce his retirement during the past few weeks. The other two are Robert L. Patterson and Harry L. Staples. Everett K. Tucker is mentioned as Mr. Halsey's successor.

WARFARE ON MARRIAGES

Millions to be Spent on Dr. Herron's Colony Near Oak Tree.

HIS OWN DOCTRINES

Marriage Independent of Law—Believes Wedlock Should End When Love Ceases.

Eleven millions of dollars will be used for the promulgation of the doctrine of Professor George D. Herron, who recently established a rallying point for his followers near Oak Tree, one mile from Metuchen.

Professor Herron does not believe in the marriage relation, and came prominently before the public several years ago when he separated from his wife and four children at Grinnell, Iowa, and took as a partner Miss Carrie Rand, the daughter of Mrs. Caroline Rand, who inherited a fortune of more than $10,000,000 from her husband, the lumberman of that name.

The most sensational part of the separation of Professor Herron from his wife was the payment to that lady of $60,000 for her consent to the annulment of the marital bonds between them, against which he had so often preached. In the whole of these startling proceedings there has never been one word against or the slightest reflection made upon the character of Mrs. Herron.

The news of Professor Herron's coming into the possession of this $11,000,000 becomes public in a manner almost as startling as the preceding circumstances. About a fortnight ago when a train on the Pennsylvania Railroad stopped at Metuchen a group of persons alighted, one of whom carried an iron bound box. The party got into an open carriage and a country stage coach and was driven to "Elmwood Farm," where Professor Herron has built the rallying station for his followers.

The iron bound box was carried on the lap of one of the party in the open carriage. It contained the ashes of Mrs. Caroline Rand, who, some eight months ago, left New York with Professor Herron and her daughter for a trip abroad, and through whose death the professor comes into control of the Rand fortune, which, with the accumulations, is said to amount to something like $11,000,000. She had died in Europe, and her body had been cremated.

By her expressed wish her ashes had been brought over for burial at her old home in Burlington, Ia., by her daughter and Professor Herron. The couple were accompanied by the little son born to them about two years after the professor deserted his wife and children in order to make Miss Rand his "companion."

Others in the carriage and the stage were adherents of Professor Herron's doctrine, some of them prospective members of the colony he plans to establish near Metuchen. In the presence of his followers at Elmwood Farm, Professor Herron was to hold what he called the "real service" over the ashes of his benefactress, the final burial at Burlington being only a formality.

At the farm headquarters of the Herron cult the party was received by a large number of adherents, who have become accustomed to gatherings in at that attractive spot since it became known that Mrs. Rand had endowed its chief with her millions.

During the last year more than a hundred people have found various kinds of employment on the expensive improvements laid out by the professor.

At the open air funeral services Mrs. Rand's daughter explained to them what her mother's wishes had been:

"There are flowers everywhere, for she loved beauty. We have made no change from our usual manner of dressing, for she said to me: 'If anything is different in your dress let it be white.'"

Mrs. Herron wore white. The services were held on the lawn, where the Herron followers were grouped around the iron bound box. The professor delivered a short address by Mrs. Rand's last wish, he said. He spoke of the beauty of her soul and the strength of her character and felicitated himself and his followers upon having been permitted to know and love so superb and beautiful a spirit. He touched but lightly upon the practical benefits she had bestowed upon himself, already evidenced by large outlays of money upon the surrounding landscape.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the iron bound box was conveyed to the railway station and placed in a baggage car, and in a parlor car Professor Herron and his companion accompanied it to Burlington, Iowa.

Returning from the West, the couple, accompanied by their son, stopped at the farm before sailing for Europe, bound for Florence, Italy, where Professor Herron expects to complete a book which will set forth his peculiar beliefs and which he hopes to make an effective weapon in the warfare he and his followers are waging upon the present system of marriage and upon present day religion. Thereupon he plans to return to "Elmwood Farm" to build up the colony of believers in his doctrine and to send forth its propaganda throughout the world.

Professor Herron's doctrine is outlined in his own words, as follows:

"I do not believe that the present marriage system is sacred or good.

"I believe that union is made by love alone, and that it is terminable at the termination of love.

"Love marries us, and, as long as our love lasts, love will keep us together.

"I think it wrong to obey a law that would keep us together when love has ended."

PLAINFIELD ELKS IN MINSTREL SHOW

FIRST ANNUAL BLACK FACE SHOW THIS WINTER.

Plans are now being perfected by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., for the production of an "all-star" minstrel show to be given during the coming winter. The organization numbers many members who have talent, and they are to be gotten in shape by experienced artists, with the idea of surpassing anything of its kind seen in years. It is to be given for two nights at the New Plainfield theatre, and though it may not possibly be until January, a committee has already been appointed to arrange the necessary preliminary details. They will be supervised by City Judge William N. Runyon, whose proficiency in this respect is well known to the local public.

It has been the custom of the Elizabeth lodge of Elks to give a minstrel show each year, and they have come to be looked upon as the organization's greatest annual event. The Plainfielders intend to go them two or three better and will provide splendid costumes and effects.

STORIES ABSURD.

Freeholders Refute Charges of Extravagance.

Discussing the attacks recently made against the Board of Freeholders by a local paper, E. K. Adams, a member of the body, and who is at the present time in the field for higher honors in the political world, said to a reporter yesterday:

"The board will simply ignore these attacks. There is no ground for them. It is unnecessary to refute attacks made on a man against whom the finger of reproach was never pointed during his thirty-eight years of service in this board, and now that he is dead the members revere his memory, for every one knows that he was upright and honorable. There are no grounds whatever for these stories.

"To show how the board is economizing in certain quarters, I will give you an example. The lunacy committee saves thousands of dollars every year through the services of N. R. Leavitt, who investigates the financial condition of all patients admitted to Morris Plains. In many cases he finds that they have property left them or money, and he then has a guardian appointed who deducts the cost of maintaining the patient from the amount which the patient may have left him, and pays it over to the county, remitting his bill monthly to the county collector. He visits the asylum and investigates the financial standing of patients from this county, the only cost being his fees, which are light."

Mr. Leavitt said he had recently been in conversation with the State Commissioner of Charities, and had explained to him the system in vogue in Union. The commissioner was highly pleased, and declared Union county was ahead of al. the others in this, and he would confer with Governor Stokes in regard to having the measure introduced in the Legislature so as to get the State to adopt the same plan.

Have you tried Thorp's foot relief? If not get a bottle and you will never regret it.

Have you a carpentering job of importance to be done? Give the order to M. D. O'Keefe, West Fourth street.

A. E. Hoagland, of Park avenue, is an expressman. And he is a good one. His patrons will assure you of that.

A. Levine, the Watchung avenue tailor, does first-class work. Clothes pressed and cleaned to look as good as new.

Laundry work done by Mary A. Brown, West Second street, is always satisfactory. Delicate goods never suffer injury.

When you get ready to have any painting or papering done consult I. N. Wyckoff, of West Front street. Telephone connection.

A man who takes a Turkish bath, say once or twice a month, is a better man physically than he would otherwise be. Get them at Brookside Sanitarium, Somerset street.

William Hand & Sons, of East Second street, do all kinds of trucking, light and heavy, and goods are removed to all parts of the country safely and at a reasonable price.

Isn't it worth while to save up, if your money draws 4 per cent. and is held perfectly safe and subject to your order? Well, then, why don't you start an account at the Plainfield Trust Company?

Peck holds his trade because his goods are the best that money can buy. And the price is not disproportionate either to quality or pocketbook, even if the latter is a modest one. West Front street.

TO SPEND $2,000,000

Jersey Central Road Plans Big Improvements.

AT ELIZABETH WHARFS

Port Avenue Pier Alone Will Cost $300,000—The Structure to be 1,000 Feet Long—Its Description.

"We are going to spend about half a million dollars in Elizabeth in the coming year," said General Manager Huntington, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, with an enthusiastic emphasis that gave promise of speedy action in the development of the great schemes planned for improvements in this vicinage by the Central Railroad Company.

A general outline of what the company intends to do has already been given, but there is much of detail of vast importance to local interests that has not yet been published, nor will it be until the company sees the way clar of all possible obstacles.

One week ago the New Jersey Dock and Bridge Building Company, with offices in the Dix building, Elizabeth, was notified of the acceptance of its plans and specifications for the building of a new pier at the foot of Port avenue and the granting of the contract for its construction to them.

The pier itself will cost $175,000, but other operations in connection with it will bring the total up to about $300,000.

The railroad company has between three and five thousand feet of shore front now at their disposal, and of this the dock company has built up about 3,000 feet, including several coal piers.

The new pier will be 1,000 feet long, with twelve coal chutes on each side for loading coal-carrying vessels, and a large chute to accommodate tugs and other steamers.

The pier will be sixty feet wide and 600 feet of its length will extend inland from the present water line.

The work of digging out the meadows for this distance at the foot of Port avenue is now progressing, and when the dredging is finished there will be slips with twenty-one feet of water at low tide on either side of the entire length of the pier. These slips will be each 125 feet wide. The government is also dredging a channel along Shooters Island to a depth of twenty-two feet. The pier will be built of what is known in the trade as creosote timber, which is practically indestructible by water.

"I wish I could tell you all that I know concerning the extent of the improvements planned," said a gentleman whose knowledge of railroad matters is unquestionable, "but you need not be surprised if $2,000,000 are spent in improvements hereabouts by the Central Railroad. I cannot say further than that just now. It would be a breach of confidence as well as injudicious."

"I'm not surprised," said another, "because the Central is making a great deal of money, and I have expected them to start in spending some of it."

"About thirty years ago Elizabethport was a great coal distributing centre, and the Central is going to bring all that business back here, and more with it. There is no reason in the world why it should not be so, and if the people of Elizabeth will only look ahead and try to see the advantages in store for them they will see the sense of grasping the opportunities opening up for them today."

THREE STORY BUILDING.

Plans for Park Avenue Structure Changed.

It is reported that Charles W. McCutchen, of the borough, has made extensive alterations to his original plans for the structure he proposes to erect on Park avenue, adjoining that of the Plainfield Trust Company, the chief of which is that he now expects to erect a three-story instead of a two-story building. The upper floors will probably be used for offices.

Mr. McCutchen's original intention about the first floor will not be changed. This will be reserved for several stores of good width and depth. It is also his idea to construct the building of stone and brick, which will harmonize with the Plainfield Trust Company building.

A. L. C. Marsh, who has prepared the plans for Mr. McCutchen, expects to have them completed and approved so that the construction work may be started as soon as the debris is cleared away from the property.

It is also understood that negotiations are now underway for a change in the ownership of the property adjoining that of Mr. McCutchen's, which was purchased by John G. McLaughlin, and that a modern structure will be erected there in place of the old dwellings which now stand on that site. Several interested parties have been looking at this property with a view of purchase, and a change is expected soon.

Those who get milk and cream from Marchant Bros., North avenue, get the purest to be obtained. Marchant Bros. pride themselves on the high standard maintained. The customers congratulate themselves.

SCHOOL ELECTION A TIE

New Market Votes South Plainfield to a Standstill.

SURPRISING RESULT

Balloting Was Cut Up On Two Propositions, But a Deadlock Grew Out of the Mix-up.

The school election at New Market to decide for or against the erection of a four-room, $12,500 structure in the village and the purchase of an addition to the old school lot, resulted in a tie vote. One hundred and ninety-six ballots were cast, and ninety-eight for and ninety-eight against each proposition. The voting was cut up, some favoring the school and opposing the purchase of *land, and vice versa, and it was some*what remarkable that the balloting should result in a clean tie, as it did.

The new school proposition has been hanging fire since early in the spring, and the result of the election last night means another delay of at least a month.

Last night's meeting was almost as lively as the one in April, when South Plainfield and East Bound Brook ranged themselves against New Market on the $20,000 schoolhouse proposition. At that time the New Marketers won out, but the attorney general nullified the vote on a technicality. Because of the rancorous opposition to the $20,000 school at that election the school board decided to reduce the appropriation.

The reduction led to a lot of protest and discussion among the New Marketers at the meeting. They voted pretty solidly against the cheaper school, and are rejoicing today because it was blocked.

The meeting opened at 7 o'clock, but voting did not begin until nearly 9. Heated discussion took up the interim.

As soon as the meeting opened for business, C. E. Kelly, one of the leading Democratic politicians of the township, opened the assault on the $12,500 building. The board had told the taxpayers in April that New Market needed a $20,000 building, he said, and he held that the proposition, having been carried by popular vote and being nullified only on a technicality, should be resubmitted to the people along with the new proposition.

Stanley Day immediately presented a resolution to adjourn the meeting and have the proposition for the $20,000 school resubmitted. A yea and nay vote sounded so even that a ballot was called for. The resolution was lost, 108 to 56.

Following this a general discussion raged until 8:50, when voting began. The need of a $20,000 building in New Market was the most hotly contested point, and the South Plainfielders continued to insist that the sum was too high to spend on a school in New Market.

The balloting went on for an hour, the legal time. The announcement of the result astonished the voters, but the New Marketers allowed their surprise to be swallowed up in rejoicing.

*Just as soon as the vote was pre*sented Mr. Kelly notified the trustees that he would prepare and present a petition to them calling for the submission of the $20,000 proposition along with the $12,500 one at the next election.

The proposition to purchase new land will be presented again. It is proposed to buy sixty feet adjoining the present lot to secure necessary width for the new institution. The lot has a depth of 200 feet.

H. J. Piddington was chairman of the meeting, and F. O. Nelson was secretary. P. W. Voorhees and R. L. Pierce were tellers and J. E. Kelly secretary of the count.

FACTORY LAWS.

State Department of Labor Sends Out Pamphlet.

The State Department of Labor has issued a pamphlet containing the laws relating to factories, mills, workshops and bakeries and the employment, safety, health and work hours of persons, employes and operatives in places where goods are manufactured.

There are two laws in the book.

One act regulates the age, employment, safety, health and work hours of persons engaged in mills, factories, workshops and other places where goods are manufactured. This act also creates the department of labor, which is to enforce the law.

The other law is an amendment to the law noted above and refers to bakeries. It defines the hours of employes and requires inspections of bakeries.

---

Peter Weaver, of the borough, is slowly recovering from a severe attack of dysentery.

Miss Edythe Leek, of East Fifth street, has returned from a visit with relatives in Morristown.

Mrs. A. F. Weber and family, of Liberty street, have returned from a week's visit with friends in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Howes, of the "Madison," have returned from their vacation, spent with the latter's parents in Massachusetts.

$3,000 FIRE IN BOROUGH

Home of Harold Hansen on Pearl Street All But Destroyed.

ORIGIN A MYSTERY

Occupant Ascribes It to Mice and Matches—Neighbors Save Furniture.

The home of Harold Hansen at 45 Pearl street was partially destroyed by a mysterious fire which broke out in the attic at 11 a. m. Friday morning. Before the flames were subdued, they had crept down to the second floor and the entire upper part of the structure will have to be rebuilt. The loss to house and furniture will aggregate at least $3,000, according to the estimate of the firemen.

Martin Hansen, a young son of the occupant, first noticed smoke pouring out of an attic window and quickly called his mother and neighbors. The flames were then beginning to burst through parts of the roof and by the time an alarm had been turned in by George Feller, the entire upper part of the building was blazing.

Neighbors set about saving furniture and a great deal of it was gotten out before the arrival of the firemen. The latter did good work and despite the gain the flames had upon them, they soon had them under control. Surrounding property was not injured in anyway.

When Mrs. Hansen was interviewed, she was unable to give any explanation as to how the fire started. She declared a quantity of clothing had been stored in the attic and that some one of the coats had contained matches that mice nibbled. Chief Woolston made an investigation but did not learn anything that would throw any light on the origin.

The house is owned by a Newark man and is covered by insurance.

FOOTBALL FANS ARE BEGINNING TO LIVEN UP

GRIDIRON TALK WILL NOW BE HEARD —PROBABLE TEAMS.

Football talk is beginning to be heard in the city. Although baseball is still lively and scarcely moribund, it is not early for football enthusiasts to begin their annual "look over the field." It takes something over a month and a half to get candidates together and shape up a team, and if the athletes of the gridiron who hope to get teams going by the beginning of the approaching season start preparation for the game within a week or two the middle of October will find them hardly ready for the fray.

Fog envelopes the outlook at this stage and predictions as to teams must be hedged with "ifs" and "maybes." There are good chances that an Alis eleven will again take the field. Roy Phillips is looked to for the rallying cry of the old star combination. There is heavy material enough in sight to encourage him in organization. Clifford Smith and George McVoy are beginning to size up their old mates and some new material for a re-formation of the O. F. C. eleven. They are talking of making the team heavy enough to go up against anything. "We are tired of being called a junior eleven," says George.

All three of the schools, Plainfield High School, North Plainfield High School, and Leal's, will probably have teams in the field. Definite knowledge of their intentions will be obtained when the schools reopen next week. About the first thing the boys will do is to hold football meetings.

WHAT HE IS.

Robert Hart Gets Description of His Make-up From Judge.

Robert Hart, who was arrested for sleeping off a jag in the gutter before Roundsman Flynn's house yesterday, was the mark for a stinging Runyonization in the city court today.

"You are a habitual drunkard," said Judge Runyon, when Hart was arraigned. "You have no more control over your appetite than the lowest drinker."

"I ain't a regular drunkard," protested Hart, "I don't look around for a saloon the first thing in the morning. I——"

"You are," interrupted the magistrate curtly. "But I am not going to punish you. You are not a vicious drunkard; you are just a pitiful old bum. I don't expect you ever to be better; you'll die a drunkard."

The judge devoted several minutes to a vivid and forceful analysis of Hart's moral and mental make-up. When the judge finished Hart was in such a hurry to get out that he forgot his hat.

---

—Eugene O'Reilly, of North avenue, who has been seriously ill with dysentery, is so much improved that he was able to leave his bed yesterday for the first.

Mrs. Henry Hunter, of Bensonhurst, is spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Welsh, of Lee place.

Mrs. Clement Dixon visited friends in Newark yesterday.

REGULARS GET TOGETHER

Borough Good Government Club Reorganizes For the Coming Campaign.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Resolution Passed to Enforce Laws at the Coming Primaries—Many Names Added to Roster.

Preliminary campaign activity was commenced in earnest in the borough, Thursday, when the Good Government Club, the regular Republican organization, met in the headquarters on Somerset street, for the purpose of outlining plans for the coming primaries and election. Reorganization was first brought about by the election of Mayor N. B. Smalley as president; Alfred Tranchand, secretary, and W. W. Rowley, treasurer. A second meeting will be held tomorrow night and a further one Monday night, when an entertainment committee will conduct a smoker and provide for the welfare of the members. The club rooms will not be kept open until just previous to election.

The political situation in the borough was thoroughly discussed and remarks were made by Mayor Smalley, Charles A. Reed, Edwin S. Hooley and Clifford A. McGee, last named a councilmanic candidate from the First district. The gathering was exceptionally enthusiastic and and expressed opinion was that the Democratic and Citizens' dissensions boded good for the regulars. One of the most important matters brought up at the meeting was the determination to enforce the election laws at the coming primaries. A resolution was passed that challengers be appointed for the respective election districts and instructed to see that all persons offering to vote the Republican ticket intend to support the candidates on election day as required by law. The particular aim in this direction is to prevent the members of the Citizens' movement from taking a hand in a convention in which they do not propose to support its nominees.

There were over fifty voters at the meeting last night and the club's roster was afterward signed by the following:

J. R. Wilson, Edwin S. Hooley, George F. Brown, Thomas Doud, H. P. Greenwood, S. C. Mundy, M. C. VanArsdale, B. A. Paroubeck, John P. Emmons, Y. E. Mundy, Frank Schuck, W. W. Warnock, W. F. Williams, J. M. Smalley, A. McDonald, Edward P. T. Smith, Frank Rowley, H. A. Zimmerman, N. B. Smalley, W. M. F. Campbell, George Ball, D. W. King, William B. Emmons, E. H. Terry, H. F. Woolston, C. A. Reed.

CHANGE BRIDGE PLANS TO HURRY THE WORK

WEST END AVENUE STRUCTURE TO BE BUILT BY NOV. 1.

Realizing that the proposed new bridge over Green brook on West End avenue could not be completed by November 1, according to the original plans, Frank J. Hubbard, civil engineer, has been authorized to make some changes in the design, which will not lessen the strength of the structure or change its attractiveness, but will make it possible to finish it on time.

It was originally planned to build an iron girder bridge, but after a conference with the contractors the freeholders were convinced that it would be impossible to get the girders and finish the bridge by the time limit. It was then decided that what is known as a iron plate bridge would answer every purpose, would allow the work to come within the appropriation of $7,500 and could be completed by November 1.

Mr. Hubbard is now engaged in changing the plans to meet the new conditions. This work will be completed in time for the meeting of the joint committee of freeholders on Tuesday afternoon, September 19, at 2:30 o'clock at the Hotel Iroquois.

The bridge will consist of two spans, as originally planned and will be 66-70 feet, and will be so constructed that the roadway can be extended to sixty-six feet, instead of fifty feet, eight feet being allowed at present on each side for walks. At the meeting to be held on September 19, bids will be received and the lowest bidder will receive the contract soon afterward so that the work of construction may be started as early as possible.

Temporary Pastor.

The members of the Calvary Baptist church have arranged with Rev J. W. Mitchell, a retired clergyman, to become acting pastor of the church until a regular pastor is called. As yet no effort has been made to secure a successor to the late Rev. Scott Wallace.

To Prepare for Ministry.

R. V. Brokaw, now in the employ of the Public Service Corporation, has resigned his position to resume his studies at the Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, N. J., in preparation for the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church.

POLICE CHIEF EXPLAINS ON MAYOR'S ORDER

Mr. Buckle Seeks to Know Why Police Did Not Make Raid on John Goff's Place.

AND KIELY TELLS HIM

Head of Department Says That He Was Following Instructions of Prosecutor and Corporation Counsel.

Following the sensational raid by Councilmen Tyler and Bullock on Goff's place Sunday night, Mayor Buckle called on Chief of Police Kiely for an official explanation why he had not raided the establishment himself. The Mayor's letter and Chief Kiely's official reply follows:

Mayor's Office,
Plainfield, N. J.
Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 5, 1905.
Patrick S. Kiely, Esq.,
Chief of Police,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

I am informed that the hotel of John J. Goff, on West Front street, was entered last Sunday evening by Messrs. Tyler and Bullock, of the Police Committee, and that much was discovered therein which seems to point to the fact that Goff was selling liquor illegally.

This mode of procedure is so unusual as to excite wonderment in the minds of many as to why laymen members of the Common Council should have been called upon to do that which properly should have come within the province of yourself and the force under your charge.

I therefore request you to inform me what reasons you can give for your failure to have your officers apprehend the alleged violation of law by Mr. Goff, and hereby notify you that I shall make the same public.

Yours truly,
J. F. BUCKLE,
Mayor.

Hon. James F. Buckle,
Mayor of the City of Plainfield,

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your esteemed favor of this date, inquiring as to the failure of the police of this city to apprehend John J. Goff for selling liquor without a license, and calling attention to the fact that Messrs. Tyler and Bullock unaided, have seemingly done that which the police could not or would not do.

In reply I beg to state that I have been engaged in collecting evidence against Mr. Goff for some months past and have fully expected to present the same before the October Grand Jury. In this case as in every one of like character which I have ever undertaken I have proceeded along lines laid down by Mr. English, the county prosecutor, and Mr. Marsh, the corporation counsel. They have advised me that all work of this character should be carried on with no public mention whatever, and the evidence so collected be given in the first instance to the Grand Jury, their idea as well as my own being that in this way witnesses are in nowise liable to be spirited away before the hearing and the ends of justice thereby defeated, and further that no chance is thus given for wire pulling, political and otherwise, in behalf of the violators of the law. The evidence in cases of this sort is never easy to obtain, and takes much time and careful preparation, as there is a vast difference between evidence which merely seems suspicious and evidence which will absolutely convict. I have been fully confident of obtaining a complete case against Mr. Goff before October and believe my expectations would have been altogether realized had I been allowed to proceed without interruption. The patrolmen under my charge will bear me out when I say that I have at all times ordered them to do their whole duty without fear or favor, and especially in the Goff case have I been anxious to secure complete evidence both because of my suspicions and because I have known that the Police Board considered the place a "speak easy."

If in any way I have failed it is simply in the failure to make public my mode of procedure and I have believed that the advice of Mr. English and Mr. Marsh fully warranted me in acting as I have done.

If you so desire, I shall be willing and glad to tell you everything I have done in the Goff matter from the very beginning, and am confident that I can justify myself in each and every particular.

Trusting that this communication gives you the information you desire, I am,

Yours respectfully,
PATRICK S. KIELY.
Plainfield, N. J., September 6, 1905.

W. D. Hann Dead.

William D. Hann, a well-known resident of Hunterdon county, and father of the late Letter-carrier Edward Hann, of this city, died on Wednesday at his home in Flemington after a long illness. He was eighty-three years old, and was also the father of George R. Hann, of Sergeantsville and Mrs. W. L. Juillard, of this city.

COUNTY CONVENTION CALL

Chairman Smith, of Republican Committee, Issues the Formal Notice For Oct. 5.

JUST 142 DELEGATES

Threatened Disruption Has All Lifted and Only Fight Will be Over the Shrievalty Nomination.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith, of the Union County Republican Committee, has issued the formal call for the county convention which will take place at Elizabeth on October 5. It is to take place at Jacobs' theatre beginning at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the office of State senator, a candidate for the office of sheriff, three candidates for members of Assembly and a candidate for coroner. There are to be 142 delegates, of whom twenty-seven will be Plainfielders.

This convention is the one that was looked forward to with a great deal of interest some months ago when booms for different personages began to be fostered. Then the wise ones told their friends to keep an eye out for some fighting that would make things hum when the county seers gathered together in convention deliberations. It was freely prophesied by the ever-abundant individuals who claim to get things from the inside and to get them right, that the contest within the walls of the convention hall would be truly Homeric, and would send forth to the polls a divided Republican party, while gleeful county Democrats again culled victory from the factionalism of their opponents.

For a time the prophets seemed to be right. There were indications of a split that might promise the war of crimination between Elizabeth and Plainfield which spelled Democratic success. Then the bottom was taken out of this prospetc by the voluntary retirement of City Judge William N. Runyon in favor of Ernest R. Ackerman for State senator. That was the first step in the direction of harmony and it was followed by others in the assembly and shrievalty race that brought complete harmony with but one exception. There are still three men who believe they should succeed Sheriff B. Frank Coriell and their contention may lead to the only ripple on the surface of the convention sea.

The aspirants are Captain Robert Kirkland, of Elizabeth; Emmor K. Adams, of Cranford, and Dr. Lawrence, of Summit. It is understood that the Summit delegation will not be solid for Lawrence and the other two are picking up hope from this dissension. At present the chances seem to be about even. There is a faint rumor to the effect that Rahway has been doing a little quiet work in connection with the shrievalty nomination and may come to the convention primed with a candidate.

The number of delegates to the convention have ben apportioned according to the election districts as follows:

Elizabeth, 62; Plainfield: First ward, 6; Second ward, 6; Third ward, 6; Fourth ward, 9; Rahway, 12; Summit, 8; Westfield, 8; Cranford, 5; Union township, 3; Clark, 1; Fanwood, 2; Linden, 1; New Providence, 1; Springfield, 1; Fanwood borough, 1; Garwood borough, 1; Linden borough, 1; Mountainside, 1; New Providence borough, 1; Roselle borough, 3; Roselle Park borough, 2.

AWARD COURTHOUSE CONTRACT

Somerville Firm's Bid for $23,806 Accepted.

Richards & Gaston, of Somerville, were awarded the contract for the new Somerset county court house at a special meeting of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders yester*day*. The bid of this firm was $23,806, the lowest according to the plans and specifications for the erection and construction of the jail, independent of iron, steel and cell work.

The contract for the cell work was awarded to the Pauly Jail Company, of St. Louis, at $22,000. There will be thirty-two cells in the new jail.

Higham Favors New School.

In speaking of the lengthy petition received from Jacob Kriney, of West Front street, relative to a new public school in the Fourth ward, Councilman J. Stephen Higham, chairman of the public affairs committee, says that he hopes to make substantial progress in the matter this year. He says that the subject is not a new one to him, that he has been cognizant of the over-crowded condition of the Irving School which necessitated the lease of the Epworth House at Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and that there is an absolute need for another public school in the Fourth ward. Mr. Higham expects to report the petition back to the Common Council soon with a recommendation and he hopes that the new building will be a fact in the near future.

Candidate for the Assembly.

W. DeWitt Stanford, of Elizabeth, is a candidate for the Assembly nomination on the Democratic ticket, and he says that he's going to hustle to win out. Mr. Stanford holds a responsible position with the Singer Sewing Machine Company.

WORKING HIS GAME

Bogus Revenue Inspector Turns Up In Newark Now.

HIS SCHEME HERE

Also Heard From In New Brunswick —Warning Served On Liquor Men.

Because of several complaints made by local liquor dealers, who reported to Chief Deputy Collector Newton H. Porter, of the Internal Revenue office, Newark, that a man, passing as an internal revenue inspector, with an office in the Federal building in Manhattan, had succeeded in making a number of "touches," Chief Porter has instructed liquor dealers in the future to demand that men so masquerading shall exhibit credentials and badge of office before having any dealings with them whatever.

The man complained about is James Robinson, who spent a week at the Hotel Iroquois, leaving an unpaid board bill and trying to pass several checks. He was successful in one case, Christian Gloeckler, of Front and Somerset streets, cashing a forged check, bearing the name of a Bound Brook man. The check was for $30. After cashing it Gloeckler, becoming suspicious, went to Bound Brook, and to his great joy received the cash. Before he left the bank, however, he was called back and the cashier demanded the return of the money, as the check was fraudulent.

Robinson has recently been working his schemes in Newark and vicinity, for many saloonkeepers there have also complained. The local police have been unable to get any trace of Robinson.

The man is evidently known in New Brunswick, where the Home News describes him as sailor Okes, and alleged naval hero, who defrauded a woman and robbed a boarder of his money. The News says that altogether, as a revenue inspector, Sailor Okes appears to have surpassed his achievements in New Brunswick as a naval hero.

CLAIMS PARK CLUB WALL ENCROACHES ON BROOK

COMMITTEE OF FREEHOLDERS APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE.

At the September meeting of the Union county Board of Freeholders Thursday Freeholder William A. Westphal, of this city, informed the members that the Park Club is having a stone wall built along its property on Washington avenue, and that it encroaches twenty or twenty-five feet on the bed of Green brook. The stream makes a turn at this point, and there is a large area that is dry except during rain storms. The club's wall of logs has frequently been washed away and the stone wall is being put up with the idea of offering permanent resistance to the water. Director King, of the freeholders, appointed a committee, of which Mr. Westphal is chairman, to investigate the matter and report.

The bridge committee was also in*structed to confer with the Somer*set county Board of Freeholders relative to reconstructing the bridge near the stone quarry at Scotch Plains, which was wrecked during the recent flood.

MR. DEMAREST'S FUNERAL.

Gathering of Relatives and Friends *Attend the Service at Hillside.

In the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends, a funeral service was held Friday afternoon at the graveside in Hillside cemetery over the body of Peter M. Demarest, who died at the home of his son, Albert Demarest, in Syracuse, N. Y. It was conducted by his former pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church. The floral tributes were numerous and included a handsome piece from Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., of which he was a member. Judge Wil*liam N. Runyon was the representa*tive pall bearer from the lodge.

Mrs. Demarest was unable to come to Plainfield to attend the funeral but will return to the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. Newton Drake, of Somerset street, as soon as her health permits.

Contracts Filed.

The following contracts have recently been filed with the county clerk at Elizabeth: James E. Goodwin, of Fanwood, with J. Sherwood & Brother, house at Goodman's Cross, $4,100; Joseph D. Phillips, Plainfield, with Henry H. Hoffman, house on Di[illegible]ark road, $5,000; Roth & Co., Plainfield, with William C. Smith, barn on East Front street, $1,662.50; Mary E. Stutz, Plainfield, with Learing & Hoffman, house on West Third street, $1,350.

—Miss Justina Smith, of Duer street, who recently returned from a sojourn of several weeks in New York State for the benefit of her health, has returned to her former position at I. H. Boehm's dry goods store.

SELLS VALUABLE TRACT

Mrs. D. W. Rogers Disposes of West Second Street Property.

PURCHASER UNKNOWN

Plot of 100 Feet Frontage and 154 Feet Depth—Said to Be Worth $18,000.

An important realty deal in the business section was effected yesterday by Albert Lederer, the real estate broker, when he sold the well-known property at West Second street and Madison avenue, owned by Mrs. David W. Rogers, having a frontage of 100 feet on West Second street and a depth on Madison avenue of 154 feet. The property in*cludes the residence property occu*pied by Mr. and Mrs. David W. Rogers on West Second street and the four story building on the corner, occupied by James Clawson, the gro*cer; Fred Ivamy, the seafood dealer,* and several families on the upper floors, also the barber shop on Madison avenue.

The site is considered one of the best and most valuable in the city. The owner has held the property at $18,000 and it is believed that the consideration was that in the deal. The new owner does not want his name divulged and is withholding it for the present.

It is said to be his intention to improve the corner property within a short time and transform it into a business block. The plans will be prepared soon and operations will then follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have occupied their present home for thirty-seven years, and will remain there for the present.

In connection with this deal another one was made recently by Mr. Lederer whereby Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue, has purchased the property on Madison avenue where the old Alert Hose Company fire-house now stands. This is one of the landmarks of the city. It is Dr. Clawson's plan to make an important change in this property.

It is the opinion of many persons that it is only a question of time when West Second street as far as Madison avenue will become a solid business block and one of the centres of trade.

COMPANY K'S RECORD IN SEA GIRT MATCH

FINISHES TWENTY-FIVE POINTS BEHIND THE WINNING TEAM.

At the company team match at Sea Girt, on the 200 and 500-yard ranges, Company K finished rather far down the list, although not so many points behind the winners. The winning score was 306, made by a Washington company, and Company K scored 281.

The latter score in detail is as follows:

| | 200 | 500 | T'ls. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sgt. Littell ..... | 24 | 31 | 55 |
| Sgt. Hort ..... | 29 | 24 | 53 |
| Sgt. Randolph ... | 29 | 26 | 55 |
| Priv. Bond ..... | 28 | 29 | 57 |
| Capt. Martin .... | 31 | 30 | 61 |
| | 141 | 140 | 281 |

ORPHANS' HOME FUND.

Local Foresters Contribute to Order's Charity.

Court Plainfield, Independent Order Foresters, at its meeting last night, decided to contribute its share toward the support of the orphans' home at Toronto, Can. According to the rules under which this home is supported and maintained each member in the order is to contribute one cent a month, or twelve cents a year, in addition to the regular dues. This small sum is willingly given by every member, and as a result a sufficient amount will be received to support the home, which has already been completed.

Court Plainfield will contribute nearly $40 a year toward this object, as the membership is almost 400. Although Court Watchung is not quite so large in membership, it is expected that between $25 and $30 will be contributed by the Court.

A few changes in Court Plainfield's by-laws were made last night, but nothing of any great importance. It is quite likely that Court Plainfield may have a representative or two in the home at Toronto and this has had a tendency to increase the interest in the project.

---

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS REOPEN

New Building on Somerset Street Thrown Open to Borough Pupils.

AN END TO CROWDING

No Registration Figures Obtainable From City Authorities—Superintendents and Board Members Speak.

School life on both sides of the brook began again Tuesday after a summer long cessation.

Registration figures were impossible to obtain today, but in both municipalities the attendance this year will almost certainly be larger than last year. The new Somerset street school building will put the borough authorities in good position to handle the problem of placing the pupils, and no crowding is expected there, but the city is not likely to be so fortunate until the new High School is completed, offering the Stillman building for pupils of lower grade.

Following the annual custom, Superintendent H. M. Maxson and Principal J. W. Travell spoke to the pupils of the Plainfield High School at the opening Tuesday. Mr. Maxson's subject was "Esprit de Corps."

In the course of his remarks he declared this city offered unusually good educational advantages in its High School, and gave its young people an exceptionally complete preparatory training. Most of the pupils, he said, came back as to return to pleasure; he desired to remind them that they came back to a duty.

Two of the High School faculty were missing at the opening. Miss Lena Bass and Miss Niles, who have been in Europe, are still on the ocean, homeward bound. They are expected to arrive in a day or two. Two new teachers were present: Miss E. M. Howard and Miss Mary Lock. They take the places of Miss Ball and Miss Cunning, who have had a year's leave of absence.

Approximately 900 pupils registered in the North Plainfield schools, about 475 to the Somerset street building and 225 in the Watchung school.

There is no hint of over-crowding, and all the classes started in with full sessions. Every room but one in the new building was put into use, and the exception will be ready for use in a day or two, when the seats for it come.

At the opening of the department this morning, Supt. H. C. Krebs and James R. Joy, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Dr. J. H. Cooley, of the school board, spoke.

BAG HELD ONLY PAPER.

Hotel Man Wants to Find Benevolent Stranger.

Emil Pinaud, manager of the Bellevue Hotel, of Paterson, is looking for a large, benevolent looking stranger who represented himself as a diamond broker and fleeced him out of $475, giving as security a bag of worthless paper, which, the stranger said, contained diamonds to the value of $10,000.

The benevolent looking man had spent three days at the hotel and made himself agreeable to all the patrons. He spent money freely and exhibited to Mr. Pinaud a bag of precious stones. The stranger had two bags that looked alike. When he did not return after cashing a check for $475 and giving Mr. Pinaud the bag of "gems" as security, the hotel manager opened the bag and found a roll of green paper.

The benevolent looking stranger has not been seen in Paterson since he left the hotel.

PERSONAL FLAVOR.

Dr. Darlington's medical commission reports that our mouths are full of pneumonia germs and that fresh air and sunlight are the worst destroyers of the beasts. Well, sun-and-air cocktails are cheap.

The last battalion of the Imperial Finnish Guards left Thursday for St. Petersburg to surrender their colors. That's where they'll see their finish.

We are told that Washington wonders why Mr. Grip, Minister to Sweden and Norway, who has been home, returned there; trying to live up to his name, perhaps.

As there is only $590 a year in it, the position the Cork County Council has voted to O'Donovan Rossa can scarcely be called a living job.

Wonder where President Hadley, of Yale, learned so much about poker hands.

The Czar hasn't yet explained why he didn't dictate those peace terms from his headquarters in Tokio.

There is as yet no sign that the President intends to call a peace convention between Secretary Shaw and Governor Cummins.

That rioting at Tokio is only another evidence of Japanese progress in Western ways.

There seems to be a disposition to consider Professor Pickering's theory of a lunar gnosis a luny notion.

Theatrical managers complain of a shortage of chorus girls, but may really mean their skirts.

Secretary Wilson believes buttermilk can be kept from spoiling by "driving the water out of it." That might also improve unchurned milk.

If the Island of Heligoland continues to sink at the present reported rate it ought to get there soon.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF AUGUSTUS J. WINCKLER

LARGE ATTENDANCE OF RELATIVES AND FRIENDS AT OBSEQUIES.

The funeral services of Augustus J. Winckler, one of the best known citizens of the borough, were held Monday afternoon from the home in Park place, and were very largely attended by relatives, friends and neighbors, Mr. Winckler having been one of the most well known residents of the borough.

The services were in charge of Rev. C. L. Goddrich, pastor of the Congregational church, of which Mr. Winckler was an active member and hearty supporter. The floral tributes were very beautiful and there were many of them, including several large set pieces. During the services E. E. Runyon sang "On Jordan's Shore" and "It Is Well with My Soul."

Mr. Goodrich spoke from the text "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints"—Psalm 116:15. He dwelt at some length on the exemplary Christian life of the departed, referring to his untiring zeal and energy in the cause of Christianity and his great devotion to his home and church. His words were filled with beautiful thoughts and were tenderly expressed. He referred to the fact that Mr. Winckler was one of those who helped to build the famous war boat, the Monitor, and as that boat sailed out into a greater sea of usefulness, so the life of the departed had grown to one of usefulness and devotion and had now passed into that greater life where there is unending rest and joy for those who die in the Lord.

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery and those who served as pall bearers were: Elmer Weseman, Edwin I. Weseman, Warren W. Weseman, E. E. Winckler, Dyckman Winckler and William Smith, all relatives of Mr. Winckler.

FATHER EGAN FLAYS BAYONNE COUNCIL

FORMER PLAINFIELD PRIEST DEPLORES ON SALOON CONDITIONS.

Rev. Father Egan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, Bayonne, and formerly pastor of St. Mary's church here, caused a stir at all the masses at this church on Sunday, when he severely flayed the Common Council and entered into a general denunciation of Bayonne for its condition as to saloons. Without mentioning any names, the priest accused a certain councilman, who, he claimed, unjustly defeated all attempts of the clergy and laity, together with many outside of the church, to have the Board of Aldermen deny the application for a saloon license near the church.

Father Egan spoke plainly and said that he wanted to be understood as to what he thought of the saloon question in that city. The priest's remarks were prompted by the action of the municipal authorities in granting a saloon license place in the opened at Avenue C and Twelfth street, in that city. A petition signed by Father Egan and several members of his congregation, as well as by many residents not members of the church, in the vicinity, to have the saloon is to be opened, was presented at the meeting of the councilmen.

A strong protest was made on the grounds that Bayonne now had too many saloons. For some reason which the priest did not explain in his remarks, the petition was lost sight of when the matter came up for disposal.

"They turned me down," Father Egan told his parishioners, "and I know who was responsible for the defeat of our petition. I could mention the name of the one man who was responsible. They turned me down this time, but I will promise them that they will never do it again. I will know what to do next time. The petitioners were, without question, justified in opposing another saloon. This city has become notorious for its saloons. I cannot go out of town any time but that when I meet my fellow clergymen they do not jestingly tell me that I come from 'a rum-soaked city.' That is certainly a condition of affairs that a city government should be proud of."

Father Egan's action of the Board of Aldermen who attend St. Mary's church, and some of them heard the priest's remarks.

Sole His Choice Melons.

After expending much time and labor in raising about two hundred choice Delaford muskmelons, R. F. R. Huntsman, of East Front street, discovered that his garden has been visited by a gang of boys and young men and almost stripped of the fruit. The melons had about reached that point in growth when they would be ready for eating and Mr. Huntsman was counting on a feast for the next few weeks.

Cop Basketball Teams.

Arrangements for the organization of two basketball teams have been begun by the cops. Patrolman Overbaugh and Detective McCarthy are forming the combinations.

JERSEY ENDEAVORERS MEET AT MORRISTOWN

SESSIONS ARE TO BE HELD ON OCT. 4, 5 AND 6.

Arrangements for the nineteenth annual convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union to be held in the South Street Presbyterian church, Morristown, October 4, 5 and 6 are nearly completed.

The first afternoon Mrs. Dukes, of Camden, will conduct a school of methods and the State executive committee will hold its final session in the evening.

Thursday morning after the usual addresses of welcome and response, Mrs. Peacock will present her report on correspondence work and President John T. Sproull will announce the convention committees. The afternoon session will be devoted to reports on missionary work, by R. A. Alberts, of Jersey City; evangelistic efforts, by the Rev. Abram Duryea, of Cherry Hill; fresh air work, by A. N. Pierson, of Westfield; addresses on missions, probably by J. Willis Baer, of the world's committee of the United Endeavor Society, and an open parliament to be conducted by Treasurer William Shaw, of the united society.

The report of Miss Ida B. Stephens, State secretary, will be given at the Friday session, followed by addresses by Treasurer Shaw and recognition of Baltimore convention delegates. A sunrise meeting will be held Friday morning at 6:30, led by State President Sproull. Reports of the college, press and Sabbath observance departments will be made by Bishop Walters, of Jersey City; A. B. Johnson, of South Orange, and the Rev. Dr. F. W. Johnson, of Washington.

Then the Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, of Newark, will tell of the Bible study work, followed by the State treasurer's report presented by Joseph B. Hottel, of Newark.

The Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tompkins, rector of Holy Trinity, Philadelphia, and one of the most eminent Episcopal divines in the country, will speak Friday afternoon, and Robert E. Speer, of Englewood, will tell of the opportunities for home mission effort. A junior hour conducted by J. Dr. Dukes, of Camden, will conclude the session. The closing meeting Friday evening will include presentation of State banners, reports of committees, closing words by the new State president and consecration service. The music will be under the direction of F. H. Jacobs, of Jersey City. Open-air evangelistic services will be arranged for.

At this session the report of the following nominating committee will be presented: The Rev. A. W. Anderson, Canton; E. M. Dutcher, Newton; the Rev. B. H. Rankin, Elizabeth; Mrs. A. R. Baxter, Trenton; Miss Ruth E. McComb, Haddonfield. The State secretary, Miss Stephens, will also arrange for a conference of all the district secretaries during the convention.

The programme committee have still several addresses to arrange for. The indications are that the convention will be largely attended, and the programme promises a series of meetings of more than usual interest.

SEMI-FINALS NEXT IN TENNIS TOURNEY

CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY ON THE COUNTRY CLUB COURTS.

The first and second rounds of the men's singles, tennis championship, with the exception of one match have been completed at the Plainfield Country Club and the remaining match as well as the semi-finals will be finished this week. The result of the play thus far is as follows: First round—Wylie Brown defeated Owen Fleming, 6—0, 2—6, 6—4; Howard Carter defeated Arthur Lovell, 6—4, 6—4; James Fleming defeated L. L. Tweedy, 6—1, 6—2; Hartley Mellick defeated James Middledith, by default; W. L. Glenney defeated C. Boardman Tyler, 5—7, 6—4, 6—3; John Martin defeated Willard Wadsworth, by default; T. M. Day, Jr., defeated T. M. Day, 3d, 6—1, 6—4; H. J. Cochran won from T. M. Day, Jr., 6—4, 3—6, 6—1. In addition to the semi-finals there yet remains to be played the match between Wylie Brown and Howard Carter in the second round.

Church Reception.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is planning for the first of a series of receptions to be held in the parlors of the church, on Thursday night, September 21, from 8 to 10 o'clock. His idea is to hold one of these receptions every two weeks after communion service during the fall and winter. There will be a programme of vocal and instrumental music and refreshments will be served.

Landlord and Tenant Suit.

Walter Dorlan, of Dog Corner, has brought suit in landlord and tenant action against John Doe. The summons is returnable next Monday morning in Justice Hand's court.

REVISE GOLF AMENDMENT

Advocates of Sunday Play Substitute More Stringent Proposition.

TO BE VOTED ON

No Meals To Be Served At Clubhouse Except To Room Holders—Informal Play in Afternoons.

To meet the objections of those who oppose any seeming desecration of the day, the advocates of Sunday golf in the Plainfield Country Club have substituted a revised proposition for the proposed amendment filed by them with the secretary of the organization a week ago. The matter will be laid before the club at a special meeting to be held Tuesday night, September 19.

The restrictions placed upon the club members on Sundays under the proposed amendment pertain chiefly to the use of the clubhouse. These are the provisions of the amendment:

"The use of alcoholic drinks in the clubhouse or on the grounds of the club is prohibited.

"The clubhouse shall be open on Sunday for persons occupying rooms therein, only such persons may have the service of the kitchen and dining room on Sunday. For all other persons the clubhouse shall be closed on Sunday until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Except as provided above for persons occupying rooms, no meals or refreshments of any kind shall be served on Sunday.

"No card playing or other form of amusement of any kind shall be permitted in the clubhouse on Sunday.

"All play on the grounds of the club is prohibited on Sunday until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. After that hour only informal play shall be permitted, all competitions of every kind or play for cups or prizes being prohibited.

"Caddies shall not be allowed on the grounds of the club on Sunday. The object of this provision is to prohibit the employment of caddy or any person to caddie on Sunday; but it shall not be construed to prohibit members from caddying for each other. The caddie house shall be closed on Sunday."

The revised proposition is signed by the same members whose names appeared on the original petition. It is said that the new proposition will be accepted by the majority of the members.

EAT SLOWLY.

Fast eating is sure to be injurious, because to properly prepare the food for digestion it must be thoroughly masticated.

Rapid eating is still worse when it is caused by the hurry of business, or by the common habit of "bolting" the food. Such eating is sure to produce indigestion or dyspepsia.

The teeth, as well as the stomach, are made for labor, and neither can have their proper work to do if only paps and broths and puddings and hashes and other soft and artificially prepared foods are crowded into the stomach, as though the cook in the kitchen could masticate and digest the food better than the natural grinders and the chemical action and assimilating power of the stomach.

Those people who shovel great vulgar mouthsful of food into their mouths and bolt it down, as though they had put one minute for a meal, are gormandizers instead of polite people.

They know little of the pleasure of deliberate eating, nor the luxury of satisfying hunger, and certainly they are laying the foundation of disease.

Dry, hard food, vigorously chewed, stimulates the flow of saliva, strengthens the teeth and keeps them healthy, and invigorates the digestion.

NEW SCHOOL DEDICATED.

S. St. John McCutchen Attends Exercises at Bernardsville.

Bernardsville, Sept. 12.—The formal dedication of the new $100,000 public school presented to Bernards township, and erected by Frederick P. Olcott, took place Saturday afternoon. There was an interesting programme, which opened with prayer by Rev. C. H. Vos Glahn. The programme also included addresses by R. V. Lindabury, William McElroy, of New York, and Samuel St. John McCutchen, of Plainfield.

The dedicatory ode was read by Rev. J. Lewis Hall, there was also a reading by Miss Edna Moore. Besides the band selections, there was singing. A large crowd was in attendance.

Names Excise Commission.

Judge Woodbridge Strong has announced the appointment of three excise commissioners for the city of New Brunswick under the act of 1901. They are: Mayor William S. Myers, Water Commissioner John E. Elmendorf and Charles Morris. The latter, who is a clerk in the postoffice, serves for three years, Mayor Myers, one year, and Mr. Elmendorf, two years. It is expected that Mayor Myers will be elected chairman. The mere fact that Mr. Myers is Mayor at present is not considered a bar.

CHARLES A. BOARDMAN AN IDEAL DIRECTOR

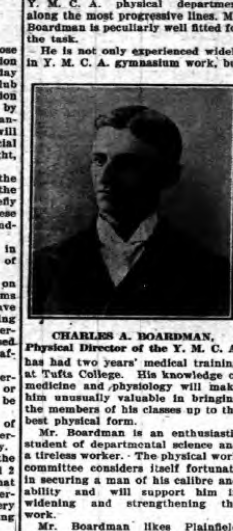
WIDELY EXPERIENCED, HAS HAD MEDICAL TRAINING AND IS A HARD WORKER

Taking up the work where Mr. Henckel left it, Charles A. Boardman, the new physical director of the Y. M. C. A., has started in to advance and enlarge the field of the Y. M. C. A. physical department along the most progressive lines. Mr. Boardman is peculiarly well fitted for the task.

He is not only experienced widely in Y. M. C. A. gymnasium work, but



CHARLES A. BOARDMAN,
Physical Director of the Y. M. C. A.

has had two years' medical training at Tufts College. His knowledge of medicine and physiology will make him unusually valuable in bringing the members of his classes up to the best physical form.

Mr. Boardman is an enthusiastic student of departmental science and a tireless worker. The physical work committee considers itself fortunate in securing a man of his calibre and ability and will support him in widening and strengthening the work.

Mr. Boardman likes Plainfield highly and is well pleased with the field for his activities which it presents.

PLAINFIELD A MEMBER OF BIG BALL LEAGUE

MAY JOIN WITH MORRISTOWN, WESTFIELD, MONTCLAIR AND OTHER TEAMS.

The closing days of the Lackawanna League has brought forth a discussion of plans for next season and the possibilities of the league being continued are now somewhat problematical. According to Charles Stillwell, Jr., president of the Morristown-Chatham Club, the team representing that club will finish the season, no matter what the other teams do. He says that the club has lost money, the same as every other club in the league, but will not quit for that reason.

Mr. Stillwell says that if a league is formed next season it will have to be much more compact than the present one, taking in nearby towns, such as Montclair, Westfield and Plainfield, rather than towns so far away as Stroudsburg. He also says that another year the forfeit for each club will have to be larger than the present amount, $100, which, in case of a club withdrawing from the league, has not been enforced and is of no value.

Summit, with a winning team, is content to continue to the end of the season, and the Dover management denies that it has any intention of withdrawing. Summit has plans for enclosed grounds, and is willing to enter a league next year, but such is not the case with others. It is believed that if Plainfield, Westfield, a Newark team and Trenton should decide to enter the circuit, the league might prove a success. The great distance of the league, from Orange to Stroudsburg, was one of the fatal flaws this season.

The financial support of the clubs in the Lackawanna League has been poor. Orange was forced to withdraw on this account; Madison was driven away from Phillipsburg and its own home for the same reason. Summit has been losing money because its grounds were not enclosed, while Dover and the Morristown club had to rely on other expedients than fast ball to pay for their teams. Stroudsburg also was obliged to solicit funds for their team's support, although the reason for the withdrawal of the Pennsylvania team was the return of its crack players to the South, whence they had been imported.

Somerville's Last Game.

The West End baseball team will close a successful season Saturday afternoon, when the last game will be played with the Hopewell A. C. "Smiling Jimmie" Montross, of this city, will play in right garden in place of Altemus.

Preparing for Active Social Season.

The Park Club has been thoroughly renovated and put in fine condition for the coming season. It is likely that the clubhouse will be open on Saturday night. Arrangements are now being perfected for the opening of the fall season and a programme of attractive events will be presented.

TWO BEST PITCHERS IN THE COUNTRY

MATHEWSON AND CHESBRO ARE THE ONES.

Much talk has been heard regarding the relative merits of various of the well known major league pitchers this season. It is the consensus of opinion that the two New York twirlers—Christy Mathewson, of the Nationals, and Jack Chesbro, of the Americans—have led the leagues in all around efficiency in the box.

Mathewson's greatest exploit thus far has been the no hit, no run game he pitched in Chicago, against Frank Selee's Cubs. Chesbro does not stand out because of any one or two particular feats, but rather because of a steady streak of twirling of the highest class.

Chesbro, by the way, has had a rather varied experience in baseball. He was first signed as a player by Jake Wells, the present theatrical promoter, who at one time was manager of the Richmond, Va., club.

Jack was put into the game immediately by Wells. He had been pitching in small teams up to the time of joining the Richmond club. However, his new honor seemed to unnerve him. His first games were more disastrous than those of his protege, Walter Clarkson, the Harvard star, who was released by the New York Americans and signed by the Jersey City team, of the Eastern League. Jack lost his first five games. He asked for another chance. He was given it, and lost five more consecutive games. Wells thought Chesbro a punctured balloon, but the indomitable begged for still another trial.

"He's got nerve, all right," thought Wells. "I guess I'll let him try again." Chesbro lost four more games and lost every one, a total of fourteen consecutive defeats.

"That will be about all for you, Jack," said Wells. "Pack up the little trunk and try chicken farming."

"Now, look here," was Chesbro's response. "I lost fourteen games straight, everybody knows—in fact, I haven't won a single game for you. But I tell you I can pitch, and if you let me pitch one more game, just one more, I'll prove that I know what I'm talking about."

Wells thought the matter over for a couple of days, and, finally, with many misgivings, sent Jack once more to the slab. Chesbro won the game handily, as he promised, and then won his next sixteen games in which he twirled. Seventeen straight more than wiped out the fourteen defeats, and thereafter Jack pitched phenomenal ball. It was the memory of his hard times at the start of his career that caused him to have faith in young Clarkson, even after the latter evidenced lack of major league caliber.

Chesbro's major league career began at Pittsburg, Colonel Barney Dreyfuss buying him from Richmond.

Many fans in various cities now vote the man who once lost fourteen straight games to be the greatest twirler of the day. Jack has let up on the spit ball to a considerable extent, and his salary wing is now in good shape.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Signor Caruso, the tenor, who has been the unquestioned idol of this past London opera season, is congratulating himself that having brought his collection of fancy waistcoats up to the respectable proportions of 732 choice patterns.

Sir John Tennisl, the famous cartoonist of London Punch, has just passed his eighty-fifth birthday.

Professor Merriam, head of the paleontological department of the University of California, has just issued a new oulletin on a hitherto unknown type of "saber-tooth" tiger found in California fossil beds.

Miss L. Bernie Gallagher, the assistant photographer in the National Museum at Washington, is the only woman in that branch of the government service. She has been a most valuable aid to the veteran in photography, Professor Thomas W. Smillie, who for thirty-five years has been the photographer of the museum, and who has photographed more eclipses, probably, than any other man in the country.

Mr. Edison has but one speech to his credit, it is said. He was to lecture on electricity before a girls' seminary, and was to be assisted by a friend named Adams to work the apparatus. He was so dazed when he rose that he simply said: "Ladies, Mr. Adams will now address you on electricity, and I will demonstrate what he has to say with the apparatus."

Officers of the British fleet which visited Gmuiden a few days ago gave a pathetic account of the sad change which has taken place in Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, whom they met at Loo. In the last three years she appears to have aged fifteen, they declare.

Kubelik, the violinist, rode sixty miles on the footplate of a railroad engine last week, from Llandrindod Wells to Craven Arms. Describing the journey he said: "It was magnificent, interesting, charming. I pulled the throttle, started the engine and took the stoker's place and found I could use the shovel as well as the bow."

BEST BALL FOURSOMES

Thomas Van Boskerck and Howard Huntington Tie in Golf Event.

COUNTRY CLUB CONTEST

Reuben Knox, R. B. Carroll, J. B. Betts and C. L. Goodrich Win Honors on Park Club Course.

One of the events on the Plainfield Country Club course Saturday was the best ball foursome for two cups offered by Roger F. Murray and E. B. Shoemaker. The tournament was a handicap event, the cups to be awarded to those having the lowest net score. The handicap for each pair was on a basis of the lowest handicapped pair, to be substracted from the gross score made by both players.

The tournament resulted in a tie, Thomas Van Boskerck and Howard Huntington and Gordon Abbott and C. W. Abbott each returning a net score of 73. They will play off the tie this week.

The scores were as follows:

Thomas R. Van Boskerck and Howard Huntington, 81, 8—73; Gordon Abbott and C. W. Abbott, 79, 6—73; Edgar T. Serrell and C. A. Stover, 82, 8—76; Frank O. Reinhart and C. B. Morgan, 74, plus 3—77; George F. Earle and J. A. Lane, 92, 12—80.

In the weekly competition for the golf committee cup, Thomas R. Van Boskerck, Sam first 18 holes with a net score of 76, C. A. Stover finished second with a score of 80, and A. H. Atterbury was third with an 85. The leading scores returned were as follows:

Thomas R. Van Boskerck, 84, 8—76; C. A. Stover, 90, 10—80; A. H. Atterbury, 107, 22—85; A. E. Barclay, 105, 17—88.

The game was revived at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, after a cessation of several weeks, the return of many members from their vacations resulted in a large field taking part in the weekly competition for the president's and Park Golf Club cups. For the handicap cup, Reuben Knox, Raymond B. Carroll and J. B. Betts received the honors, the last two named returning a tie score of 88. The scratch cup, the point winners were Raymond B. Carroll, Rev. C. L. Goodrich and Reuben Knox, each scoring four points.

The scores posted for the two cups were as follows:

Reuben Knox, 99, 19—80; Raymond B. Carroll, 86, 2—88; J. B. Betts, 117, 29—88; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 99, 19—80; Alex. Gilbert, 103, 12—91; John L. Watson, 109, 16—93; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 103, 5—98; Charles L. Nichols, 117, 19—98; A. W. Kenworthy, 115, 15—100; Nelson A. Miller, 112, 10—102.

LIVELY FIGHT SURE FOR SENATORSHIP

CONTEST BETWEEN CHILDS AND FRELINGHUYSEN INTERESTING.

The political situation in Somerset county is sure to cause one of the most strenuous campaigns on the part of the two candidates for State Senator that has taken place in Somerville in many years. There seems to be no doubt whatever among the Republican leaders as to the convention selecting Colonel Joseph S. Frelinghuysen as their candidate against the Democratic candidate, who will be Senator Samuel E. Childs.

Though Colonel Frelinghuysen has not been what might be termed a peacemaker, it is believed that he can make an excellent fight against the odds that confront him in his own party. Already many conferences have been held, and it is believed that the delegates to be elected Tuesday will be unanimous for his nomination at the county convention.

Senator Samuel S. Childs, who defeated Colonel Frelinghuysen three years ago by a majority of 325, is believed to be the best vote getting candidate that the Democrats can nominate. His three-year term has been characterized by an honest and careful consideration of the interests of the people of Somerset county, and as the Democratic party are united on him as their candidate, his chances for re-election seem good.

The Republicans will probably nominate Irving Hoagland for the Assembly and the Democrats will place Stewart A. Kenney, a well known merchant of Somerville, on the ticket with Senator Childs.

Recently Colonel Frelinghuysen gave a theatre party, at the opening of the New Plainfield theatre. His guests were the members of the county committee and a few friends from the Thompson faction of the party that were conspicuous for their absence. However, the Colonel expects to have the party all in one big family before election day.

O. F. C. Practice.

If candidates can be gotten together, the O. F. C. football players will go out for first practice before the end of next week. The team is to be stronger and heavier than in past seasons.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1905. NO. 37.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Center of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

CAMPAIGN FOR SUNDAY GOLF MEETS WITH DEFEAT

Opponents of "Opening Wedge" Vote Down Proposed Amendments to Country Club Constitution.

VIGOROUSLY CONTESTED

Total Vote Cast 208 — Majority Favored Scheme But Necessary Two-thirds Was Lacking by Twenty-five Votes.

Unable to marshal the necessary two-thirds vote, the supporters of Sunday golf playing at the Country Club failed to pass the constitutional amendment opening the links on that day at the special meeting in the Casino last night. Although the members in favor of Sunday golf were in the majority by thirty-two votes, they lacked twenty-five of two-thirds. The total vote cast was 248. One hundred and forty favored the amendment and 108 opposed it.

The hall was crowded with members and their friends. At least 400 were in the gathering, nearly half being women. The gallery was filled with the latter. Only active members voted, but associate members and the others present contributed to the spirit of the meeting and helped to swell the applause that greeted the points made for one side or the other. To facilitate the voting the active members were seated together in the front of the hall.

Five speeches were made in the discussion on the question, the speakers being Henry L. Hall, A. H. Atterbury and Thomas B. Day for the amendment, and Craig A. Marsh and George Strong against it. President George P. Mellick was in the chair.

Immediately after Secretary Calkins read the call for the meeting and the amendment was offered, a division of opinion arose over the method of voting. A. G. Hooley moved that the voting be done by ballot. Questions of the constitutionality of the motion were raised, but President Mellick ruled them down. Roger Murray moved an amendment to the resolution, calling for a vote by roll call. After a brief but sharp discussion on the amendment, in which protest was made against an attempt to make the character of the members' ballots known, the amendment was put and lost, 137 to 83. The balloting resolution was then put through. Mr. Hall opened the discussion. So much had been written on the subject in the past six years, and particularly during the past six days, he said, that he did not propose to add either to the literature or the talk. But this he did desire to say: that the proposition offered contained more safeguards than any other ever offered to the club; that it meant exactly what it said; it was not subterfuge, and had nothing masked behind it. He would offer no argument, he wanted to look every one of his fellow members in the face and say, "If you vote for this amendment, you vote for a square deal." (Applause.)

Mr. Marsh followed Mr. Hall. He attacked the amendment as a breach of the law, and assailed Sunday playing as undeniably illegal. Mr. Marsh earnestly warned the members that Sunday playing would hold them open to indictment for misdemeanor punishable by heavy fine and imprisonment, and told them they were to choose whether they were to be law-abiding citizens or law-breakers.

"I am not a golf player," said Mr. Marsh, in opening his speech, "and that has been urged as a reason why I ought not to address this meeting. It seems to me, however, that this fact is a good reason for my speaking, because it insures by impartiality, in that I will not be affected by the action taken on the question. It has also been advanced that I am in the habit of riding horseback on Sunday, as on the other six days in the week. I admit it. I also eat three square meals on Sunday, and I have an undoubted moral right to do both.

"I am here to speak against the amendment because I have three duties: My duty to the club, my duty to the town, and my duty to the bench and bar (laughter) of the State of New Jersey.

"I take it that there is no suggestion of a packed jury here. Every vote cast is to be based on the arguments advanced, and I desire to put a question to the other side of the house: If I prove that the proposed Sunday playing would be a violation of a statute of New Jersey, and prove that habitual violations would make you guilty of indictable misdemeanor (laughter), and prove that the law which gives you the right to pass any amendment forbids you to pass such a one, will you not refuse to do an illegal act? If you give me credit for knowing any law and of being fair-minded, I will convince you of this.

"The law of New Jersey expressly forbids any kind of games or sports or pastimes on Sunday. You may say that this is a blue-law—obsolete. That will be untrue. The law that prevents the passing of deeds or notes on Sunday is in that same vice and morality act; it can hardly be said to be dead. It is true that the penalty imposed for violations is only a fine of $1, but is the size of the penalty to be your size your criterion of obedience to the law as a citizen of the State? It may be urged that other clubs play on Sunday. It is no defence to this club or its members to say that other clubs break the law.

"Habitual violation of the law in any place constitutes that place a disorderly house. This is not technical term, as it may be understood, but the offence is indictable, and is punishable, I believe, with imprisonment for one year and $1,000 fine. Habitual playing of golf on the links on Sunday, therefore, violation of law, will make the club a disorderly house (laughter), and members participating in it will be indictable. Moreover, the act giving you power to incorporate expressly forbids you to pass any law inconsistent or repugnant to the constitution or laws of the United States or this State. Therefore, under your organic law you are forbidden to pass this amendment. Laugh at the crudity of my arguments if you will, but are you citizens who will deliberately violate the law or compel the club to violate it, or are you law-abiding citizens?"

The opponents of the amendment applauded Mr. Marsh very vigorously at the close of his speech.

Mr. Day, who arose after Mr. Marsh, said he had no desire to appear in the position of one answering so eminent an authority as the preceding speaker, but if it was true that the law forbade all pastimes—Mr. Day emphasized this—and diversions on Sunday, it was quite true that the law was obsolete. If it was disorderly for a golf club to indulge in playing, all pastimes were disorderly. The amendment was not illegal; the statute was no longer effective.

George Strong, who is superintendent of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday school, spoke against the amendment on religious grounds, and introduced the question of the honor involved in voting to open the links. He declared the money for the club plant had been paid out by a few men, and that the rank and file, who paid only yearly dues, did not, and could not, by such payments, bear the cost of the equipment. Was it right for them, he asked, to use their numbers to say that the links should be used for a purpose not approved by the men who made the club plant possible?

Mr. Atterbury went at Mr. Strong sharply. He did not think it necessary, he said, to reply to the specious and fallacious argument of Mr. Marsh. Every other golf course in the State was open on Sunday (applause). But he did wish to reply to Mr. Strong, because he was familiar with the facts in connection with the establishment of the club. When Mr. Strong and Mr. Marsh said there was any understanding as to Sunday playing with the men who paid out the original cost of the club (Mr. Marsh made reference similar to Mr. Strong's) they were mistaken.

"I didn't say there was an understanding," interrupted Mr. Strong. He broke in on Mr. Atterbury again a moment later, and the speaker lost patience.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. President," he said, "but I have the floor. Mr. Strong may ask questions or reply when I am through." A vigorous burst of applause followed. Mr. Strong made no further interruptions.

"No money was given to the club as a rich man's bounty," continued Mr. Atterbury. "The members received the money for laying out the plant as a business proposition. Every cent of debt was secured by the mortgage bonds on the property. He did not know how the bonds were distributed at this time, but he knew that last year the majority of the bondholders were in favor of Sunday opening, although there was a small majority, figured on the basis of the amount of money involved, against it. But that had nothing whatever to do with the question. The club is a solvent mortgagor. Mr. Strong had said the club couldn't have existed without the money contributed.

"I say that the great mass of members have had just as much to do with getting up and keeping up the club as the men who gave the money originally. It is the small members who have been contributing mostly to the bond redemption fund."

A tumult of applause followed. The sentiment evoked by Mr. Atterbury's brief remarks for the rank and file of the membership seemed by far

(Continued on Page 4.)

DEFER BRIDGE PLANS

Cost Of Erecting West End Avenue Structure Exceeds Appropriation.

ESTIMATE $9,897.50

There is But $7,500 for the Work—Freeholders to Meet Again on Tuesday at Hotel Kensington.

The joint committee from the Union and Somerset County Boards of Freeholders met yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Iroquois to receive bids for the construction of the new county line bridge on West End avenue over Green brook, but as the estimate approximated $9,897.50, a couple thousand of dollars more than the appropriation, the freeholders adjourned to meet Tuesday afternoon, September 26, at the Hotel Kensington, when definite action will be taken. Some of the members wanted to put off building the bridge until next spring when it was thought materials would be cheaper, while others want to go ahead with the work now.

For the superstructure work, William T. Kirk's bid was the lowest, $5,690. Other bids received for this work were as follows: Bogart Pavilough Company, $6,333; Swears Sutton Company, $5,735; Owego Bridge Company, $5,750; Canton Iron Bridge Company, $5,950.

Two bids were received for the concrete abutment work, one from William Farrier, of New Market, and the other from Joseph Kingston. Mr. Farrier's bid was the lowest, $4,207, divided as follows: Concrete abutments, $5.75 per cubic foot; about 420 cubic feet; side walls, brick arches, etc., $1,685; catch basins, $75 each.

Mr. Kingston's bid for the concrete abutments was $5.75 per cubic foot, and $1,871.55 for the sidewalks, brick arches and $71.25 each for the catch basins.

It was reported that the bids of the lowest bidders might possibly be reduced a little by using cheaper material for concreting, but the freeholders do not want to sacrifice the strength of the bridge in this way if it can possibly be avoided. The matter was discussed at great length yesterday but no conclusion was possible. It was then decided to defer action for one week and in the meantime an effort will be made to adjust matters. An appropriation of $7,500 was made for the bridge by the freeholders and they want to keep near those figures.

MISS CAROLINE BULLMAN NOW MRS. CHAS. PALMER

NUPTIAL CEREMONY AT HOME OF MOTHER, MRS. CARRIE BULLMAN

Miss Caroline LeBreton Bullman, daughter of Mrs. Carrie Bullman, of 19 Craig place, and Charles Henry Palmer, of East Second street, were quietly married at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the home of the bride's mother. Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the bride is a member, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Maud Bullman, who was maid-of-honor, and Leslie Palmer, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride's gown was white gun linen, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The maid-of-honor was gowned in pink dotted mull, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

An informal reception followed the ceremony, which was attended by the relatives and immediate friends of the couple. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will reside at the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Palmer received a number of useful and costly gifts, including cut-glass, furniture and silverware.

Miss Smalley's Wedding Day.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Mills Smalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Sr., and sister of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, and Henry G. Dunbar will take place at the home of the bride's parents in Craig place, Monday, Oct. 2, at 8 o'clock in the evening. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chadbliss, pastor of the First Baptist church. They will spend their honeymoon at Ashville, N. C.

New Strawberry Season.

George Webster, a young son of Conductor F. O. Webster, of Duer street, is picking large ripe second-crop strawberries from his father's patch in the garden and distributing them among his neighbors.

—Neuman Bros. have the choicest grapes of the Niagara, Concord and other leading varieties, the pick of the vineyards, also a large supply of luscious Bartlett pears.

EAGLES' HANDSOME GIFT

Solid Gold Regalia Studded With Diamonds For Dr. Buchanan

A PAST GRAND CHIEF

Freedom Castle Entertaining Knights From Flemington, Trenton, Annandale and Perth Amboy.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, at a regular meeting last night entertained large delegations from Flemington, Trenton, Annandale and Perth Amboy, the members of the last named place coming here by stage. In addition prominent officers of the order, including Grand Chief T. C. Schenck, of Passaic; Grand Master of Records A. L. Clark, of Trenton; Edward Dittmars, representing the Supreme Sir Herald, were present.

A feature of the evening was the presentation to Dr. J. Hervoy Buchanan, the sitting past grand chief of the State, of a solid gold regalia studded with diamonds. The presentation was made by A. L. Clark, representing the supreme chief; T. C. Schenck, representing the supreme past chief and Edward Ditmars, representing the supreme herald.

The initiatory team of Freedom Castle, in full costume, conferred the second degree on two candidates, one from Plainfield and the other from Perth Amboy. After the initiatory work there were excellent addresses by the visiting officers and those of Freedom Castle. Past Grand Chief Buchanan also made a strong address on the progress of the order and Freedom Castle.

Freedom Castle has a membership of 170 with a number of applications awaiting action. It is worth $1,500 in property and invested funds.

MISS CORNELIA MILLER, WM. TALLAMY'S BRIDE

TWO WELL-KNOWN CHURCH SOLOISTS ARE MARRIED.

Miss Cornelia Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller, of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street, and William J. Tallamy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tallamy, of West Front street, were married in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the presence of a large number of guests from this city and other places. It was the first large wedding of the autumn season and it was a brilliant affair. The church was decorated with a profusion of golden rod, smilax and palms, all banked about the pulpit platform.

The bride was attended by Miss Bertha Mitchell, of this city, as maid-of-honor; Miss Helen Tinsman, of South Orange, as flower girl; while Lawrence Miller, brother of the bride, was best man. Herman Tallamy, a nephew of the groom, acted as page, and the ushers were Frederick Tallamy and Louis Tallamy, brothers of the groom.

The bride's gown was of white point d'sprit over white silk. She wore a hat trimmed with white feathers and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The maid-of-honor's gown was of yellow and white organdie and she also wore a hat. Her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums. The flower girl wore a dress of white and carried a basket of flowers.

The officiating minister was Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the church, and he used the Episcopal form of service. Robert Humpston, of this city, organist at the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, and a brother-in-law of the groom, played the Mendelssohn wedding march as the bridal party entered the church. The page bore a silver tray upon which were two rings which were used in the service.

As the party left the church the wedding march from Lohengrin was played. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents and early in the evening the couple left the city on a wedding trip. They will be away for one week and upon their return will reside on East Fifth street, between Park and Watchung avenues. The reception was attended only by the relatives and a few close friends of the couple.

The bride and groom are both talented vocalists. Until a year ago Mrs. Tallamy was the soprano soloist at Grace church, and Mr. Tallamy is now the tenor soloist there. They have been prominent in a number of musical productions, notably comic opera given by William Holmes and it was in this way their friendship ripened into love for one another. Both are very popular in a large circle of acquaintances. Mr. Tallamy holds a responsible position with a large insurance company in New York.

SHOT NEGRO FOR INSULT

Southerner Blazes Away At Man For Using Abusive Language to Him.

CRIME AT METUCHEN

C. E. Napp Now In New Brunswick Jail—How the Trouble Arose —A Deliberate Act.

Charles E. Napp, of 42 South Clinton avenue, Trenton, was jailed at New Brunswick last night on the charge of atrociously assaulting Daniel Coleman, a negro hostler employed at the livery of W. S. Rule, at Metuchen.

Napp arrived at the livery yesterday noon en route to Trenton. He was driving Ben Bolt, a pacer entered in the Trenton Interstate Fair races, and had a Shetland pony for his own family.

Napp, it is said, asked Coleman to assist him in unhitching the pacer, which was standing on his hind feet and giving him some trouble. Coleman told Napp he would do it when he got ready, and when hurried out by Mr. Rule he became abusive and made insulting remarks about Napp, to whom he spoke across the pacer's back.

Napp, who is a Southerner, resented the insult, and went to a hardware store in Metuchen, where he purchased a .32 calibre revolver. He said he feared that Coleman had a razor, as the negro had threatened to cut his head off if he stepped into the stable. Returning to the livery, Napp says Coleman repeated the threat, and made a motion as if to draw a weapon from his pocket. He then fired at him, the bullet going through Coleman's left arm and striking a rib just over the heart, where it glanced off.

Napp telephoned to E. L. Kerns, at Trenton, who went to New Brunswick last night to get bail for him. Napp had to go to jail, however. Mayor Litterest, of Metuchen, gave Napp a hearing yesterday afternoon and held him for the Grand Jury.

ABSENTEES DID NOT AFFECT GOLF RESULT

FIGURES SHOW HOPLESSNESS OF FIGHT SAYS MR. CHAPMAN.

The following letter was received this afternoon from George A. Chapman:

Editor The Daily Press:

An analysis of the vote taken at the meeting of the Plainfield Country Club this evening upon the question of amending the constitution to provide for Sunday golf playing on its links, may be profitable.

There were 140 votes cast in favor of the proposition and 108 opposed to it. A two-thirds majority is required to amend the constitution of that club and as 108 ballots were deposited against the proposition, it would have required 217 affirmative votes for the motion to prevail, or 77 more than were polled.

Further, there are 370 active members in the club, 248 of whom were present and voted at that meeting, leaving 122 absentees to be accounted for. Of all of these 122 members had been present last evening and only seventeen of them had voted against the amendment, still the motion would have been lost, for the vote would then have stood 245 in favor and 125 against.

GEORGE A. CHAPMAN.

O. F. C. ELECTS.

Frank R. Emmons is Chosen Captain of Eleven.

The Orange Field Club held its first football meeting last night to get a line on the material for this year's team. All members of last year's team were present, also a number of new candidates. The average weight will be about 140 pounds. The record the team made last year was exceptionally good, not losing a game and being scored against only twice. This year the eleven will meet heavier teams.

These officers were elected: Captain, Frank R. Emmons; assistant captain, Everitt Sherwin; manager, John McCullough; treasurer, Harry Hook. The first practice will be held tomorrow night at Concert Park at 8:30 sharp. All candidates for the team must be present in uniform. Any teams wishing to arrange games should address John McCullough, 21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

Miss Etta Randolph Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac S. Randolph, of West Front street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Etta Randolph, to Louis V. Tallamy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tallamy, also of West Front street.

WAREHOUSE CONTRACT

Signed By President G. W. V. Moy Of Mono Investment Company Today.

TO START WORK SOON

Structure, Modern and Fire-proof in Every Feature, Will Cost About $35,000—25,000 Feet of Space.

Arrangements for the erection of a large and completely modern storage warehouse were completed this morning by the Mono Investment Company. The contract for its construction was signed with the Commonwealth Roofing Company, of Jersey City, general building contractors.

The structure will be located at Filmore and North avenues. It is to be four stories in heighth, and measure 112x60. About 25,000 square feet of floor space will be available for the storage of goods.

Everything about the structure will be absolutely fire-proof. Except in the office, not a bit of wood will enter into the construction. The building will be built of cement blocks, with concrete floors and partitions of fire-proof terra-cotta brick. It is to cost about $35,000.

Three of the floors will be divided into compartments, each of which will be a fire-proof cell in itself. Should the contents of any one room chance to take fire, the flames would be unable, even if they burned unchecked for hours, to find a way through to any other part of the building. The top floor will be left undivided for the storage of larger things and merchandise of general character. A feature of the warehouse will be a number of rooms designed particularly for the storage of pianos, without taking them to pieces.

Work on the warehouse will begin, it is expected, in ten days. It is estimated that five months will be required to complete it.

The plans for the structure have not yet been approved formally by the building department, but action on them is expected in ample time to enable the contractors to start in ten days.

MRS. LAPSLEY HURT IN LONDON STREET

KNOCKED DOWN BY CAB AND TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

A cablegram to the Evening Sun of yesterday tells of an accident to Mrs. Josephine L. Lapsley, of this city, who, with her son, Howard Lapsley, went abroad early in the spring, intending to remain for a year. Mrs. Lapsley was knocked down by a cab in Cockspur street, London, yesterday, and was taken to the Charing Cross Hospital. She was suffering from a severe shock and injuries to the head and chest.

Gen. and Mrs. Sterling received a letter from Mrs. Lapsley recently, in which she stated that she expected to be in London on September 18 or 19, and she was undoubtedly the one injured yesterday. No further particulars were given in the cablegram.

No further particulars have been received.

KNOWS NOTHING OF THE SITUATION

FOWLER BACK FROM VERMONT, SAYS HE'S NOT FOLLOWING MATTERS.

The Elizabeth Times said yesterday:

"Representative Fowler is back in town after being away all summer. Mr. Fowler said to a reporter yesterday that he had not kept any track of the political situation in Union county during his absence, and really had no idea as to what was being done. He seemed interested to learn that a big fight was in progress for the shrievalty nomination, and spoke highly of Dr. William H. Lawrence, the Summit candidate, who, he declared, was a very fine man.

"Representative Fowler did not say, however, that he would take any part in the contest. He remarked that Summit was deserving of some recognition from the Republican party, but beyond that was non-committal as to who his preference was for sheriff. He made no allusion to the Senatorship. Mr. Fowler and his son left town again yesterday morning."

A meeting of the Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School will be held on Monday morning.

TAX RATE IS THE SAME

Plainfield Will Have No Increase To Pay This Year.

COUNTY VALUATIONS

Board Makes Up List at Meeting in Elizabeth—Fanwood Valuations Put Up $19,400—Linden's Big Boost.

There will be no increase in the tax rate. It was announced this morning by the Board of Assessors that the rate would be 2.52, the same as last year.

Increase in real estate values saves the taxpayers from a jump on the rate. There is a higher county tax and a higher city tax, but values have increased to such an extent that the assessors were enabled to hold the rate at the old figure. The rate has hovered about the 2.50 mark for a number of years. It has never been higher than 2.54; in 1903 it was 2.51.

The division of the rate among the different funds will be decided upon by the finance committee of the Council on Friday night, and become public then. Last year the tax was divided as follows. These figures may be changed in various ways, but the table will serve to show the general scheme of division: County tax, .47; State school tax, .17; fire department tax, .35; library tax, .05; city and city light tax, .65; poor tax, .07; free school and bond tax, .72; principal on sewer bond tax, .06; interest on sewer obligation tax, .08. Total, 2.52.

The total amount of taxable property is $10,251,000, an increase of about $200,000 over last year. The total valuation of Union county, which was announced at a meeting of the county Board of assessors in Elizabeth yesterday, is $55,259,909.

Fanwood borough was increased by the county assessors to the extent of $19,400, making a total valuation of about $250,000. The increase was one of the features of the meeting. William R. Stanbery is the Fanwood assessor. In going over his books the board found a mistake. That in its opinion were too low altogether. Some of the members were in favor of increasing Fanwood $50,000, but it was finally decided that to bring it to the $250,000 mark was enough. Mr. Stanbery did not appear to enjoy the action.

Linden township's assessor also had some explanations to make. He had water front property valued only as high as salt meadow land, and the investigating committee appointed to look into the values was much exercised over the matter. The Linden valuation was increased by $300,000.

The complete list of valuations in the various cities, townships and boroughs of the county is as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Elizabeth | $24,116,699 |
| Plainfield | 10,251,964 |
| Rahway | 3,441,820 |
| Summit | 3,608,000 |
| Westfield | 2,932,300 |
| Union | 1,927,782 |
| Roselle Borough | 1,370,000 |
| Roselle Park | 931,000 |
| Cranford | 2,049,000 |
| Fanwood | 863,200 |
| Fanwood Borough | 255,699 |
| Clark | 324,490 |
| Garwood | 460,275 |
| Linden | 1,366,700 |
| Linden Borough | 246,300 |
| Mountainside Borough | 141,650 |
| New Providence | 152,000 |
| New Prov. Borough | 220,000 |
| Springfield | 402,300 |
| Total | $54,959,989 |

The county tax rate is .6147, which is a decrease of .0229 from last year.

A Novel Social.

A "Comfortable" Social will be given by the Grove Street Rescue Mission at the Christian church Thursday evening, to which all are cordially invited. The feature of the evening will be the knotting of a pink and blue comfortable with blue worsted on the pink side. Admission will be free. Every one present will be expected to tie at least one knot, with the privilege of tieing as many as desired, at one cent each. For the benefit of those persons who cannot tie knots there will be present young men to tie knots at two cents each. For those who can and will not tie knots they will tie them at five cents per knot. After the knotting of the comfortable it will be sold to the highest bidder.

Hope for Others.

The announcement of the approaching marriage of James E. Martine, the famous Farmer Orator, leads one to think that there is yet hope for Governor Stokes, former Governor Voorhees, Senator Kean and Colonel Samuel D. Dickinson. While there is life, not even a confirmed bachelor need despair.—Newark Evening News.

Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tomorrow night.

LOCAL WOMEN SEE NEED FOR A CURFEW LAW

Resolution is Passed at the Annual Meeting of the W. C. T. U.

MEMBERS INTERESTED

Mrs. Parse Resigns As President After Nine Years' Service—200 Members In Organization.

There was a general discussion of a curfew law at the annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union yesterday afternoon. The members became interested in the subject particularly in the enactment and enforcement of it in communities where needed.

The discussion was concluded with the adoption of resolutions which will be presented to the Legislature asking that action be taken looking to the enactment of such a law. This matter has been before the various local unions in the State, it being the purpose to present a number of petitions to the Legislature.

The resolutions are as follows:

"Resolved, That we petition to have the curfew law in New Jersey.

"Whereas, It is a well known fact that street education is demoralizing in the extreme, and if we can save the children from its pernicious influence, we shall lessen crime and pauperism and promote the best interests of the home. Two hundred thousand boys and girls are arrested in the United States every year. The chief purpose of law is to make it as hard as possible to do wrong, and as easy as possible to do right. Surely this applies to laws for the protection of our children.

"The curfew law is as essential to the well-being of the young in a village as in a city. Twenty-eight States have adopted this law, and it has proved an unqualified success. At least seven-eighths of the people of the different cities give it their sincere approval. It increases attendance at schools and raises the standard of the pupils in both deportment and lessons, is a decided improvement morally of the youth, and a pecuniary saving from the decrease of seventy-five per cent. in the arrests of youth."

After a service of nine years as president, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse tendered her resignation at the meeting. While no one was elected to the presidency yesterday, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, the county president, consented to fill the position, with the assistance of Mrs. Parse, until such time as the union is able to secure a head.

The reports presented by the superintendents yesterday were very satisfactory and showed improvement in the various departments of work. The membership of the union is more than 200, an increase over last year. Mrs. Stephen Cahoone, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. George Belcher, active members, died during the year.

The annual address of the former president, Mrs. Parse, was read. It showed that the past year had been one of the best in the history of the union and gave promise of even greater things in the future. Mrs. Parse briefly referred to the work in detail as accomplished by the officers and committees. The report of the treasurer, Miss Jessie Pruden, showed a balance of over $28.

The election of officers was as follows: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. P. H. Bennett; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Rowley; treasurer, Miss Jessie Pruden; honorary presidents, Mrs. J. W. Yates, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse. The vice presidents, comprising representatives from the local churches, were re-elected for the coming year.

CUTTING BREAD.

Cutting bread has ever been a trial to many housewives. It is too easy to get the slices too thick or too thin; besides the danger of cutting oneself instead of the bread. But now a person has come forward with an arrangement that looks very much as though it will do away with the old troubles. To a wooden board about ten inches long and six inches wide is attached a metal frame, perhaps an inch from one end. In this is a slit, through both sides, wide enough to hold a bread knife. The wooden slab has a groove on a line with this slit, to receive the knife when cutting the bread. Next to this groove is the little piece of tin; so bent and arranged that it can be slid back and forth and regulate the thickness of the slice. The end of the loaf rests against this, and is kept in place by it. Quite simple, isn't it? And I'm told it works quite as well as it ought to. At that rate it will not be long before there is one in every home.

W. S. Place to Wed.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. Josephine Eugenie Sproulls, of New York, for the marriage of her daughter, Marion Eugenie, to Walter Swift Place on Thursday evening, September 28, at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Archangel, St. Nicholas avenue, New York. Mr. Place is the son of Charles place, of Grove street, and is engaged in business at Boston, Mass.

FRELINGHUYSEN AND CHILDS TO BE RIVALS

REPUBLICANS TO RUN FORMER AGAINST *PRESENT DEMOCRATIC INCUMBENT.

Somerset county Democrats at the primaries chose delegates favorable to the renomination of Senator Samuel S. Childs. There was no opposition, as expected by some persons, by friends who, it had been said, wanted the nomination to go to Alvah A. Clark.

The Republican voters elected delegates pledged to name for Senator Colonel Joseph Frelinghuysen, a member of the Governor's staff. He was the opponent of Mr. Childs three years ago, and was defeated by a narrow margin, going down because of a Republican dispute.

The county last year elected a Republican Assemblyman.

BOROUGH'S TAX RATE IS FIXED AT $2.54

THIS IS A RAISE OF EIGHT POINTS OVER LAST YEAR.

The tax rate in North Plainfield will be $2.54 for the coming year. This is eight points higher than last year. The borough rate will be two points less. The increase in the total rate is accounted for by the fact that the special school tax is eight points higher and the county rate is four points higher than last year. The Board of Health does not require any money for the coming year.

The county tax for the coming year will be 64 cents on the $100 against 60 cents last year. The State school tax remains the same, 16 cents. The borough tax is 76 cents against 78 cents last year and the special school tax is 98 cents against 90 cents last year. The dog tax of $3 will remain the same as before.

The Somerset County Board of Assessors met at Somerville on Tuesday and Borough Tax Collector George F. Brown received official notification of its action this morning. The Board of Health tax is abolished because of a good sized reserve fund in the treasury which will carry the Board through the coming year.

SOUVENIR POSTAL CARDS.

Popular Misapprehension That Makes Many of Them Unavailable.

A law was enacted by Congress a few years ago which provided that cards of the same size and weight as the ordinary postal cards might be sent through the mails as ordinary postal cards provided a one-cent stamp was affixed.

Many of the printed cards sold as souvenir postal cards meet these requirements, and can be written upon and sent through the mails with a one-cent stamp affixed. The trouble is, however, that not all, or, indeed, most of the souvenir postal cards do meet the government requirement. Many of them are much bigger than the ordinary cards, and they are made of leather and wood and almost everything else.

All of these cards are mailable as merchandise at the rate of one cent an ounce, but if anything is written upon them then they require letter postage, which is two cents an ounce. The leather cards, which are so popular this season, are of about the same size as the ordinary cards and would be mailable if not written upon, and if it were not for the fact that they are much thicker than the ordinary postal cards. This bars them from the mails except as merchandise, and if written upon letter postage must be paid.

The wooden souvenirs are generally much larger and heavier than ordinary postal cards and generally weigh more than an ounce. Upon these, if there is any writing, four cents in stamps must be affixed.

These few facts cover the government regulations, and if everybody were familiar with them and obeyed them they would save much trouble and more souvenirs would reach their destination. But the trouble is that to many people all souvenirs "look alike," and they affix one-cent stamps to big and little, write their messages on the back and dump them into the letter boxes. The great majority of them do not reach their destination, and then there is sorrow and disappointment.—Portland (Me.) Press.

Dr. Gilbert's "L" Road.

The elevated railroad horror in New York recalls the fact that an old-time Plainfielder, Dr. Gilbert, is said to have been the inventor of the elevated railway. He showed a working model of such a road on Park avenue thirty or thirty-five years ago. Dr. Gilbert has been dead a number of years.

Borough Tax Collector and Mrs. George F. Brown, of Grove street, spent Sunday at Asbury Park.

Jacob Williams, of Newark, is visiting his son, W. D. Williams, of East Front street. Mrs. Herbert Scott, of Cadiz, Ohio, is also a visitor at the same home.

WILL BUILD A SCORE OF HOUSES IN THE BOROUGH

NEW YORK INVESTOR AND PROMOTER SAYS HE HAS SO PLANNED.

Twenty houses are to be erected in the vicinity of Somerset street and Codington avenue, if the announced plans of a New York man who says he is a promotor and investor are carried out. He is said to be negotiating for 200,000 bricks and is in earnest.

The investor is Edwin Williams, of 154 West Fourteenth street, who is building a house now on West Seventh street. Mr. Williams says he regards Plainfield as a fine field for building operations, and is anxious to invest his money in houses here. He says he will build other houses on this side of the brook besides the one going up on Seventh street.

The negotiations for brick are going on with Alex. Kane. The latter can furnish them, and the deal is likely to go through. The houses are to have eight rooms and all improvements.

Mr. Williams does work on a large scale, it is said. He draws his own plans, imports the labor necessary and personally supervises all the work.

FIREMEN'S FUNDS MOUNTING HIGHER

STATE ASSOCIATION HAS NOW NEARLY A MILLION DOLLARS INVESTED.

President Bird W. Spencer, in his opening address to the several hundred members of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association, who held their twenty-eighth annual meeting at Atlantic City yesterday, announced that United States Senator Dryden had stated that should any national legislation be enacted to control insurance companies that he would endeavor to preserve the income which the Firemen's Association now derived from a 2 per cent. tax on insurance premiums, which constituted the main income of the association.

The organization is nearing the million marking with its cash on hand, and the money invested in securities. Last year the income was $60,000 more than the outgo. The sum paid for relief to firemen was $52,499. Attorney Cotter, counsel for the association, spoke in favor of the enactment of the bill which was to provide an annual payment to volunteer firemen of $15 or $12 a year in lieu of the exemption in taxes which was formerly allowed by the State and suggested that the members lend their support this year to a bill of the kind.

These officers were elected: President, General Bird W. Spencer, for the twenty-eighth term; vice presidents, John Senft, Moorestown; J. C. Bittler, Hammondton; Edgar H. Cook, Atlantic Highlands; Garrett L. Pear, Frenchtown; Patrick W. Walsh, Phillipsburg; J. E. Stanton, Sussex; Fred A. Williams, Montclair; Andrew Eschenfelder, Vailsburg; Joseph P. Coburn, Harrison; William G. Samler, North Bergen; treasurer, John J. Lane, Summit; financial secretary, George T. Everett, Hackettstown; secretary, William Exall, Newark; first assistant, T. N. Nowell, Bloomfield; second, Evan Benners, Moorestown.

The association was so well pleased with Atlantic City as a meeting place that it was decided to hold next year's session there.

SUCCESS CERTAIN.

It is said that Baron Rothchild had the following alphabetical list of maxims framed on his bank walls:

Attend carefully to details of your business.

Be prompt in all things.

Consider well, then decide positively.

Dare to do right, fear to do wrong.

Endure trials patiently.

Fight life's battles bravely, manfully.

Go not into the society of the vicious.

Hold integrity sacred.

Injure not another's reputation nor business.

Join hands only with the virtuous.

Keep your mind from evil thoughts.

Lie not for any consideration.

Make few acquaintances.

Never try to appear what you are not.

Observe good manners.

Pay your debts promptly.

Question not the veracity of a friend.

Respect the counsel of your principle.

Sacrifice money rather than principle.

Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drinks.

Use your leisure time for improvement.

Venture not upon the threshold of wrong.

Watch carefully over your passions.

'Xtend to everyone a kindly salutation.

Yield not to discouragement.

Zealously labor for the right.

And success is certain.

LOVE COMPULSORY IN THIS CONTRACT

FRENCH PROPOSAL THAT PARTIES SHOULD LOVE ONE ANOTHER.

Cupid, who has never had a show in France, has at last appealed to the law. It is proposed to make love a prerequisite of marriage. Some Frenchmen are greatly alarmed over the prospect of being forced to love their wives.

The French marriage law is the strictest in the world and Frenchmen don't want it made any more severe. It is not only strict, but is enforced strictly, and there is no doubt that the French husbands would have to observe any statute requiring men to love their wives.

Love has never had any part in the marriage law of France. Marriages over there have been business contracts. Of course, husbands and wives have loved each other, occasionally, but that hasn't been a part of the agreement. In most cases it is smply a matter of dollars and cents. A Paris correspondent says that there is a strong movement in favor of making love a part of the marriage agreement. Heretofore the marriage code has confined itself to requiring that the contracting parties owe each mutual esteem, fidelity and succor.

It is interesting to find the French trying to put love into the marriage code, just at a time when Americans are trying to get it out, together with the word obey for the bride.

An eminent playwright, M. Paul Hervieu, however, thinks that people who enter the bonds of wedlock should be required by law to love one another. Mr. Hervieu expressed his views before a parliamentary committee formed to consider certain reforms in the code, and apparently a majority of the members are inclined to share his view, on the ground that it is in the interests of morality for the law to recognize love in matrimony.

French people as a rule marry because it is to their mutual interest. In aristocratic marriages love is seldom even taken into consideration. It is purely a question of convention, of decorum, of mutual convenience.

Among the middle or bourgeoise classes marriage is principally a question of money. A manufacturer, a lawyer, an official, an officer, or a merchant looks forward, in contracting a marriage, to finding in the shape of his wife's dowry value corresponding to the position he holds or the annual income he derives from his profession or business.

One of the first cares of a French father is to provide a dowry for each of his daughters, and according to the value of the dowry he can command a more or less suitable husband for his daughter. The larger the dowry the more exacting will he become as to the status of a possible son-in-law.

Such marriages are nearly always arranged by the parents or near relations on both sides. The young Frenchman who decires it is time to marry seldom fixes his choice on any particular girl. He allows his relatives to look around for him. He manages to obtain by various well known artfices a view of the person who is suggested to him as a suitable "parti," and if she is sufficiently presentable to please him, and the two families can come to terms as regards money matters, the proposal is made in due form.

A few weeks later the marriage takes place. The girl, it will be seen, has scarcely been consulted, but such is the manner of her bringing up that she is generally quite content to leave matrimonial matters in the hands of her father, and to accept the husband he has selected for her.

In France hasty marriages, long engagements and breaches of promise are practically unknown.

The desire to obtain a quid pro quo in marriage extends even to the masses, to peasantry, and the working classes. A small peasant farmer who is the proprietor of five acres of land and ten cows would consider he had made an extremely bad bargain if he were obliged to marry his son to the daughter of a man who owned but three acres and six cows.

Nevertheless it is a remarkable fact that the proportion of unhappy French marriages is comparatively small.

SENSIBILE PHYSICIAN.

A physician whose mode of treatment has been particularly successful in building up children of weak physique advocates a good rich beef stew, with plenty of bone in it, several times a week. The bone furnishes a jelly strengthening to bones and sinews. For this purpose a piece from the shin or lower part of the round is best. Have the butcher saw the bones, in order to get all the marrow. Cover with cold water, then put on a close lid and simmer several hours. Do not let it boil. Vegetables and seasoning may be added to suit.

The same doctor recommends the use of a punching bag for small boys with narrow chests or a tendency to round shoulders. When a real leather punching bag is out of the question, a very good substitute is any stout bag loosely filled with bran. All exercise should be taken in the open air whenever possible.

Mrs. E. W. Conklin, of First place, is home from a sojourn in the White Mountains.

ELKS MAY BUILD SEASHORE HOME

NATIONAL BODY OF B. P. O. E. CONSIDERING ERECTION OF MAMMOTH HALL.

J. J. Tyndall, a prominent Pittsburger, who went to New York city yesterday, after a brief stay at Atlan*tic City and conferences with the offi*cers of the Atlantic City Lodge, No. 276, B. P. O. Elks, advances the proposition that the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, which has nearly one thousand lodges in this country, shall select Atlantic City as its permanent meeting place, erecting a mammoth convention hall.

The plan, which as a matter of course, meets with some opposition, has been under consideration for nearly a year past and Mr. Tyndall, on proposing it to Elks in various parts of the country, finds that in general it is regarded with favor. The idea of selecting Atlantic City is that it would serve the duel purpose of a meeting ground and an outing place. A big convention hall would be erected which would be a paying investment, Mr. Tyndall holds, in view of the fact that it could be leased to the many organizations, fraternal and otherwise that meet there yearly, or that would meet there were there a building of sufficient size to house them comfortably.

Mr. Tyndall also proposes to establish at Atlantic City the National Elks' Home, which was founded in Virginia some years ago, and which has not proved a success, owing, it is said, to the undesirability of its location. These propositions, Mr. Tyndall proposes to put before the order in a series of articles to the "Antlers," one of the official organs of the Elks.

NEW BADGE FOR G. A. R.

Movement for Change in Design of Order's Emblem.

William K. McAllister, general agent in Denver of the Southern Pacific, is at the head of a movement for a change in the design of the badge of the Grand Army of the Republic. According to Mr. McAllister, the badge is imperfect from a heraldic standpoint.

In an open letter to Commander-in-Chief King, Mr. McAllister says:

"Allow me to ask you to place the Grand Army badge upon your left breast, where it rightfully belongs, then glance at the badge and you cannot fail to note that the ribbon or flag suspending the star from the crossed cannon is displayed with the 'Union' at the bottom of the flag. You will also observe that the eagle is looking or flying toward the East instead of toward the West. We all understand that the eagle in its flight represents the 'course of empire,' which is forever westward. If we consider this matter from the standpoint of true heraldry, as well as from the standpoint of proper balance of the emblem which the Grand Army has chosen as its standard, we must realize that there are several important features which have a bearing on the symbol typifying the organization of which you are its commander-in-chief, namely, and reading from top to bottom:

"First—The eagle representing the 'course of empire' taking its flight toward the East.

"Second—The crossed cannon placed out of 'action,' emblematic of peace, and signifying that the war has ceased.

"Third—The flag of our country with the Union at the bottom, a sign of distress.

"Fourth—It has been suggested by Mr. Beath that the flag carried in the right hand, with the arm used as a staff, shows the flag displayed properly, and if we deem this to be true, then the representation of the flag itself in the badge may possibly be correct, but I respectfully submit to you that the carrying of the flag in the right hand is proper only when armies are upon a war footing and engaged in actual warfare. It is the standard leading the troops and inciting them to deeds of valor. But, on the other hand, when peace has been restored and the warring nations have extended to each other the right hand of fellowship, then the flag is borne in the left hand, leaving the right to hold the olive branch of peace.

"Fifth—The star, signifying light, seems in your emblem to be the only feature properly 'set,' and which may be taken as a proper guide."

Getting After Truants.

Superintendent Krebs, of the North Plainfield Public Schools, reports that the school routine has been reached and everything is progressing favorably. He held a conference with Samuel Townsend, chairman of the truancy committee of the Board of Education, and plans are now underway to enforce the law to the letter. Every effort will be made to compel attendance and if persuasion and co-operation with the parents does not accomplish the purpose, more stringent measures will be adopted.

New Shower Baths Ordered.

Arrangements have been completed by the Y. M. C. A. for the installation of two new shower baths to take the place of the present ones. The latter are unsatisfactory in that the flow of cold and hot water cannot be proportioned properly. The new showers will be equipped with a regulator designed to remedy that trouble.

CATHEDRAL TO REOPEN OCT. 15

INTERIOR OF BUILDING UNDERGOING A TRANSFORMATION.

St. Patricks' Cathedral, in Newark, which is being extensively renovated, will be reopened Sunday, October 15, and the event will be marked by fitting ceremonies. It was originally intended to have the opening Sunday, October 1, but the alterations will not be finished in time.

Bishop John J. O'Connor will offer a solemn pontificial high mass, and will preach the sermon at the 10:30 o'clock mass. He will pontificate at night, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Charles J. Kelly, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Grace, Hoboken. Professor William F. Hattersley, the organist of the church, is arranging a special musical programme.

At the 10:30 o'clock service a special collection will be taken, when Rev. Dr. Isaac P. Whelan, the rector, hopes to be able to raise the additional funds needed to pay for the improvements. The $10,000 given by Mrs. Julia D. Shanley, in memory of her husband, the late Bernard M. Shanley, has been expended for the decorations, new stations of the cross and a new altar railing. The entire alterations, Father Whelan thinks, will cost about $23,000.

The decorations of the church are almost completed. The ground colors of the walls are olive and gold, with gold stencil work about the edge to draw out the lines. The capitals of the pillars are of gold leaf. The new stations of the cross are in place. They are in relief form. Electric lights have been also installed.

In a week or two a new floor will be laid and new pews put in. The latter will be of white quartered oak treated to a golden hue.

Dr. Whelan says it will take about a week to take the present floor and seats out, and another week to put in place the new. The new altar railing which is being made will be put up the week before the opening. The pillars will be of marble, with bronze work between.

The outside of the church, as well as the inside, has undergone repairs. The building has been repainted and reappointed, and the steam plant has been repaired.

MOUNTAINEER'S BIG FAMILY.

Kentucky Couple Parents of Twenty-six Children.

Marion Kennard Vanderpool and his good wife, a typical Kentucky mountain couple, who make their home in the hills of Whitley county, are the parents of twenty-six children, twenty-one of whom they reared to the estate of manhood and womanhood, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal. The remaining five died in infancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpool, though both far down on the shady side of life, and despite the hardships of poverty and the cares of rearing their large family of sons and daughters, are still hale and hearty. Their home is one of comfort and convenience, and is still the roof tree of several sons and daughters, while to those of the family who have drifted away the latch string still hangs on the outside. Each year there is a family reunion, when most of them gather about the old Whitley county home and partake of the parental hospitality and spend a time beneath the roof that sheltered them from the cradle to manhood and womanhood.

Mr. Vanderpool, though now past sixty-two years of age, is as hale and hearty as many a man of middle age, and is still dissatisfied with a day's toil unless he has accomplished as great a task as the most industrious *of his sons. His good wife, the moth*er of his phenomenal family, is small of stature, weighing only ninety-eight pounds. She, too, boasts of wondeful health and strength.

Mr. Vanderpool was born and reared in Whitley county, within ten miles of where his present home now nestles in a mountain valley. When sixteen years of age he was married to Cynthia Miles. A year later a child was born to them, and each year thereafter for twenty-six years, until the family became one of the largest known in the history of modern times.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpool are now the grandparents of forty-four grandchildren, most of whom reside in Whitley county and are often at their home.

Interested in Bobbins.

Joseph Loughead, of this city, who went to Charlotte, N. C., early in the year to engage in contract work on cotton mill machinery, is North on a combined business and pleasure trip. Mr. Loughead is at present interested in the manufacture of cotton loom bobbins from paper by a process that may revolutionize the bobbin making industry, driving the old-style bobbin out of the market. The industrial move in which the Plainfielder is engaged is regarded as of the highest importance by the cotton spinners and cotton machinery men of the South.

Boys' Outdoor Affairs.

Several outdoor affairs of a "roughing-it" nature are being planned by the boys of the Y. M. C. A. Besides corn roasts and campfire dinners, hare-and-hound and paper chases will be conducted.

HARRY PAYNE WHITNEY A FAMOUS TURFMAN

HE IS FOLLOWING THE FOOTSTEPS OF HIS FATHER.

When the history of the American turf has been written the narrative will accord a due meed of praise to the late William C. Whitney *and fit*tingly acknowledge the extent to which the turf is indebted to that sportsman. In the years to come breeders and horsemen will learn to appreciate more fully the extent of the influence for good which Mr. Whitney exerted so untiringly in behalf of the sport to which he was so much attached. Carrying into the domain of sport those qualities which had contributed so much to his success in other lines of life, Mr. Whitney exhibited during his all too short turf career the same energy, perseverance and breadth of views which characterized his business and public life. Labor and expense were secondary considerations with him when it became a question of securing the best strains of blood and the most perfect racing material. No man ever took up the sport with more whole souled enthusiasm and actuated by truer sportsmanlike instincts. The example which he set was of inestimable value to the turf world. Of him it may indeed be said, "He should have died hereafter."

His labors resulted in the formation of the great stud which was discovered last October when the magnificent collection of great sires and peerless stud matrons was dispersed. Not altogether, for Harry Payne Whitney, following in the footsteps of his father, bought in many of the choicest of the lots offered, and these are now located at Brookdale Farm, L. I., where the mighty Hamburg and the aristocratic Sandringham are the lords of the harem.

Mr. Whitney has a firm faith in the future of racing, and cites, as a proof of his belief, that it is on an assured footing, the fact that yearlings last spring were sold at higher prices than they have brought under the hammer for many years, and that, too, at a time when there was considerable agitation concerning the loss of revenue derived from bookmaking.

During the Saratoga meeting Mr. Whitney made a trip to Scotland to enjoy a month's shooting on the moor, which was leased for a number of years by his father. This in some places was held to be an instance as showing lukewarmness in his adherence to the sport of racing, but there is absolutely no foundation for belief of this nature. The conduct of the stable was left in the most trustworthy of hands. The same cordial relations which prevailed during the lifetime of William C. Whitney between the owner of the stable and John W. Rogers exist between Harry Payne Whitney and his trainer. Mr. Whitney has absolute confidence in the ability and judgment of the Louisiana horseman, and is quite content to leave his interests in such capable hands.

It is interesting to note that he has faith, which he intends to hold until it is proved to him to the contrary, in the ability to produce thoroughbred stock in this section of the country. It is his intention to give a fair trial to the stallions and mares at Brookdale Farm, and he believes that yearlings can be produced there which will hold their own with the best from the "blue grass" State. He is fortified in his opinion by the fact that three Futurity winners were foaled at Brookdale.

Before succeeding to the possession of the inmates of the magnificent private stable, which stands at the head of the chute at Sheepshead Bay, Harry Payne Whitney figured as an owner. It was not a large stable. In company with Herman B. Duryea he had a half interest in one horse, Irish lad. A race horse of the very highest class, Irish Lad proved a most remarkable remunerative investment for the two partners. He was worth a stable full of horses of ordinary class, and has left for himself a name in turf history.

Thoroughly patriotic, an American to the core, Mr. Whitney believes that the best American horses, such as Sysonby, Artful and Hermis, could fully hold their own with any horses in the world. Closely associated with his father, acquainted with every detail in the breeding of thoroughbreds, and gifted with a natural fondness for horses, Harry Payne Whitney is qualified in every way to take up the position on the turf made vacant by the death of the late William C. Whitney.

SHORT SKIRTS WORN ABROAD.

Many American women are distressed because, judging by their experience in Europe last year, when there was "nothing doing" in the way of short skirts, they decided not to put many such costumes in their trunks this season. Now news comes from Carlsbad and other equally fashionable watering places that short skirts have received fashion's sanction and are much worn during the daytime. The physicians abroad have become rabid on the subject, and there is some talk of a police ordinance against the wearing of trains. It is a good thing for the reformers that fashion stands in with them, for otherwise the talk about cutting off women's skirts would probably not be taken in a serious light, and women would refuse to be deprived of their flounces.

LOVE NEVER DIES.

People talk of love being dead—of the fire being burnt out, and the dream broken through, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"I was over head and ears in love once," they will tell you, "but that's long gone by. It's all past and gone now. My love's dead and buried, and nothing on earth can bring it to life again.

"That's all very well, but sometimes people will take for death what was nothing but a trance."

There is positively no knowing when love has burnt out. You may think it is nothing but white ashes, and the ashes are cold. You congratulate yourself considerably upon the fact that that old love of yours ended as it did, and that you parted before it was too late. Not a mention of her name nor a thought of her has had power to make your heart beat a throb the faster these last six years.

Then, all at once, a sudden meeting—a word, a look, a chance expression, which brings back the past—has power to stir the old romance into life, and to send a spark springing through the ashes till they are all in one red glow.

An old love can and does revive again and again, often in the most unexpected way. How often do we hear of widows and widowers meeting again the loves of their youth, from whom they parted years ago, and marrying them, to the wonder and surprise of all their friends?

There is something in the memory of an old romance that can exercise a wonderful effect upon a heart that might be quite incapable of forming an altogether new attachment.

Most of us, no matter how world-dried and matter-of-fact we may be, have some secret hidden memory of a past romance put away deep down from outside eyes. We may have half forgotten it, but it is there, and indeed it may be debated whether love, if it is the real, genuine article, ever does die at all, or is only in abeyance, waiting to come out if anything should call it.

Perhaps we quarreled with the girl we loved. Perhaps we were too poor to propose, and had to see her carried off by that puppy Jones, whom we longed to kick. Perhaps parents were cruel, or she thought somebody's merits greater than our own. Poor human nature is prone to err!

But one day, when we have been widowed long enough to wear out the patience of our spinster acquaintances, we meet the object of that long-ago romance.

The glow of that old romance that hangs about her has given her a charm to you which no one else finds her to possess, and the old love revives with such alacrity that one can only believe it has been lying in ambush and waiting for the chance for years.

MAKING THE GIRL OF TODAY.

It is not so many years ago that the education of a girl in the United States meant simply mind-crowding as far as the school teacher was concerned. The three R's were drilled into the young idea in company with a half dozen other studies to be increased as womanhood approached, until many a day Miss carried her dozen books to and from school, each a different branch in instruction—all to be acquired from between the pages.

Even ten years ago, if a girl with good, red blood in her body happened to kick at a football or threw a handball, it is a question if the average teacher would not raise her hands in horror at such impropriety. But what a change has come over educators, says Day Allen Willey in the September Pilgrim. Side by side with the advertisements of groups of young soldiers handling rifles, cannon and sabers, or athletes garbed in sweater, are pictures of seminaries and academies, not with views of girls reading or doing other intellectual work, but on the golf field, the tennis court, or pulling away at the sculls in obedience to the commands of the natty coxswain, who, garbed in her tasty white flannels, occupies the stern seat of the pretty cutter. The fact is that pictures of his kind frequently appeal to the up-to-date father and mother far more than the other sort, as they are beginning to realize that education means something more than mind filling, and that the wise teacher gives as much care to the body as to the brain. Yes, such has been the movement in favor of physical training, as it is called, that its growth has been simply wonderful within the last few years. The girls' school which does not provide exercises of some sort for stretching the muscles and quickening the flow of blood, is likely to lose its popularity. Book learning is no longer the main idea in rounding out the character of the girl of today, for she has a chance to get close to nature—to see the real, not the imitation, in becoming acquainted with plant life, the habits of animals and insects—even in the study of geology. In short, it may be said that some of what we call necessary branches have been robbed of much of their monotony and repulsiveness by getting rid of books, at least to a certain extent, in obtaining a knowledge of them.

Helped Colby Win.

Theodore Shortman, a former resident of this city and one of the old Hope Chapel baseball stars, was one of the workers for Everett Colby in the latter's fight against the Essex county ring in the Roseville section of Newark. Mr. Shortman was challenger.

looking nice," said the Plain Person. "I only wish I knew how they manage it. There's Helen Barton, for instance—my brothers always call her 'Her Daintiness'—who's a regular little fraud, for somehow she always makes one think she is pretty, and yet she isn't a bit; she's only well dressed and dainty."

What the Plain Person said was perfectly true. "Her Daintiness" does not possess a shred of real beauty, and yet all her friends admire her, and she generally has the credit of being the best dressed girl in the town.

Perhaps you, like the Plain Person, would like her recipe. So here it is. It consists of nothing more or less than being careful.

Helen Barton has only a small dress allowance, yet she is always smart looking. The fact is that she chooses her clothes well, and takes care of them. She never commits the error of buying anything "because it is so cheap, and is sure to be useful some day," but she makes up her mind before entering a shop exactly what she wants, takes care the she gets it, and she does not waste her money by buying all sorts of tifles, pretty enough in their way, but utterly unsuitable to the rest of her wardrobe, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Helen knows that a girl is well-dressed, however simple, as long as her costume is suitable to the occasion and immaculately fresh.

Accordingly she lately has been wearing, for quite smart occasions, a simple gown of thickish dark blue cotton material with a tiny white stripe. It has a wide embroidery-cov*ered sailor collar, and a pretty* vest of soft-looking tucked cambric.

She made it herself, and the cost was little enough, but what it lacks in richness is made up for in dainty freshness, and she really looks charming in it.

Helen's dainty appearance is not achieved without some trouble. Before she puts away her hats she always removes the dust from them, and pulls out the bows, if they require it. It is the same with her dresses.

Those are not just "poked" into a wardrobe till they are wanted again, but they are first overlooked to see if brushing is needed, or a new skirt braid, or, perhaps, a fresh piece of frilling in the neck.

Helen is never seen wearing anything in the least untidy or soiled. Anyone might think that her pretty chiffon tuckers must cost her a small fortune, but chiffon is really economical wear, for it will iron out beautifully when crumpled, and even bear washing.

She says that the white chiffon trimming of her hat has been washed several times, and that she does it herself quite easily.

Another matter Helen is most particular about is that she should be nicely gloved. She always straightens out her gloves when she takes them off and puts them away neatly in a case. She says that she finds that suede gloves can be kept clean and nice for a long time if she occasionally gives them a goo drubbing with bread-crumbs. She puts on the gloves and goes through the process of a dry wash in the crumbs.

ABOUT HOSIERY.

Tans of an infinite variety of shades share the popularity of the white stocking. The greater number of these are plain, but embroidered ones are also to be found, small all-over figures being more used than vines. Champagne and grays are also popular shades of thte season, with shoes to match.

A rich, deep green stocking has been one that has been in demand this summer, worn with green suede shoes, and a bright blue stockings called a "royal," but hardly as deep a shade, being a little darker than the popular "Alice" shade of blue. Colored hosiery of every imaginable shade is worn to match the pretty little fancy colored leather shoes. These are brought out in silk only, as a rule, the colors being uncertain in any other material.

Exceedingly pretty stockings which come only in pale blue and pink are in alternating openwork and solid stripes, the latter embroidered with a delicate vine pattern. These cost $15.

Fancy black stockings, with openwork lace designs and embroidery, the latter in white, in pale blue or lavender, cost $10.

Very comfortable and serviceable stockings in black silk have the heel and sole of cotton, the latter reinforcing the silk well up on the ankle in the back. They cost $1.50 and $1.75. Whites and tans in the same combination cost $2.26. They wear well.

Openwork clocks at the sides are features of some pretty black silk stockings, and these cost $4.25. With the solid embroidered clock they cost $3 and $3.25. There are clocks to be found on white and colored stockings as well.

Exposure to a sudden climatic change produces cold in the head and catarrh is apt to follow. Provided with Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against nasal catarrh. Price 50 cents at druggists or Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation, cleanses and cures. Cream Balm quickly cures the cold.

F. Pawlik, the Watchung avenue tailor, is an artist in his line and all work is guaranteed.

Patents for Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen September 5, 1905, are as follows:

Automatic winding machine, J. C. Anderson, Jersey City.

Undergarment (two patents), A. H. Benjamin, Newark.

Heel-nailing machine, H. Briggs, Hasbrouck Heights.

Buckle, C. S. Comstock, Bloomfield.

Means of connecting amplifying horns to talking machines, J. H. B. Conger and C. J. Eichhorn, Newark.

Holder, P. F. Denning, Newark.

Governor for dynamo, C. A. Eck, Newark.

Steam boiler, E. F. Edgar Woodbridge.

Car truck, W. O. Frest, Hackensack.

Smoke and gas consumer, D. Goff, Millville.

Molding machine, F. W. Hall Camden.

Ball-bearing, E. Klahn, West Hoboken.

Heddle and heddle frame, W. S. Lackey, Haddonfield.

Furnace, G. Machlet, Elizabeth.

Folding canopy attachment for chairs, W. B. McMahon, Newark.

Tile, W. P. Meeker, Newark.

Fly and mosquito gun, R. Peterson, Asbury Park.

Attachment for phonographs, L. T. Pruden, North Bergen.

Bottle, A. H. Riggs, Asbury Park.

Bottle-capping machine, H. Robinson, Montclair.

Toy, J. G. Sinclair, East Orange.

Portland cement, Alma Cement Company, Jersey City.

Hose (two trade marks), Eureka Hose Co., Jersey City.

Leather belting, Meiers Sons, Newark.

Vegetable butter, Nucoa Butter Co., Belleville.

Coloring and flavoring extracts, Palisade Manufacturing Co., West Hoboken.

Spring shade rollers, Stewart-Hartshorn Co., East Newark.

FOR WOMEN.

The attitude necessary for the use of bow and arrow is an exceedingly graceful one, showing off a fine figure to perfection, and a girl looks a vertible young Diana in her white gown, hatless, and with a wealth of brown or auburn hair glistening in the sun, as she stands ready to shoot her arrow.—Lady Violet Greville in London Graphic.

"If women would spend more time at housework and less time at nonsense," says Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt, aged 105, of Brooklyn, "they'd be better off." If Mrs. Hunt could produce proof that women might keep young by doing housework, the domestic problem would be quickly solved.—Chicago Record-Herald.

There is a certain little dumpy woman in Atchison who is regarded with great respect by other women; four men have committed suicide on her account—Atchison Globe.

When the child's day is done and he is tucked into bed, modern science teaches us that he should go to rest with the kiss of peace and forgiveness upon his lips Whatever his daytime sins may have been, they should not be left as the final impression upon the sensitive brain; for they are trifles, after all, and the small sinner should not be left in the gloom, unshrived and unshriven, to carry this burden with him into sleepland. Children's bedtime memories and thoughts should be pleasant; if they have erred seriously, a little earnest talk with them just then will do worlds of good; but always, at the last, they should be loved and kissed and so left serene and happy.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The girl who leans out of the attic window for two hours every day, holding her bare arms in the sun to get the desirable vacation tan, ought to be delighted with the announcement of a beauty specialist that by rubbing cucumber juice over her arms and holding them in the sun until it dries she can accomplish the same result in a few moments, without running any risk of sunburn.—Boston Globe.

BATHS FOR GOOD HEALTH.

Bathing is a requisite in gaining or retaining good health.

The pores of the skin act as a part of the human sewage system, and all impurities that are not carried off by the bowels and kidneys, and by the exhalations from the lungs, should escape through the skin. If they cannot escape in this way, inflammation sets in somewhere and illness re*sults.*

Everyone needs a good warm scrub twice a week, and should have a cold plunge, or a cool sponge bath every morning. When taking a sponge bath, wash yourself a "piece at a time" and dry as you go. Never use a sponge—use a wash cloth instead. A sponge cannot be boiled without ruining it, and so it is never really clean. In fact, a sponge is a perfect menagerie of microbes after it has been used for a short time. A few microbes, occasionally, do no harm to a healthy human being, but it is not a good plan to overwork one's system, by giving it an unnecessary number of microbes to contend with.

Always get your heart to beating rapidly before taking a cold bath. Physical culture exercises are good for this purpose—or, just as good, "rub" off the whole surface of the body with one's bare hands or with a dry, rough towel.—Boston Traveler.

Miss Ada VanDoren, who recently resigned her position as typewriter and stenographer at the telephone office, has taken a similar position in the law offices of Reed & Codington.

LAWYER'S VIEWS ON DIVORCE.

There is just now an epoch of divorce agitation. This agitation is mostly due to the clergy; and naturally, therefore, takes its trend from the clergyman's point of view. Naturally, also, the public press largely reflects the action of those who make themselves busiest in the movement, falls in with the edge of the strongest current, and floats in its general direction, says Ernest Dale Owen in the August Arena.

The lawyer, however, comes directly in contact with the very living and practical thing itself, and ought to be heard in the general movement toward a solution of the question. The assistance he may be in suggesting what his experience leads him to say is based, not only on cases actually brought and tried, and that become public, but on the scores of instances where men and women lay bare before him their innermost lives for his counsel—instances of which the world, and even the clergy, know little.

The marital relation is the most important thing on earth. It is the very material out of which humanity is forced. Its influence upon the direct parties to the relation is stupendous—its effect upon the children they bear is beyond all calculation. Church, law, the various forms of ethical promulgation, are all puny factors, as formative of society, compared to the characters which the individuals of humanity bring with them into their lives at the start. And the thing that controls such individual characters is the relation of the parents to one another physically, mentally, morally and in their relative and reciprocal actions.

The responsibility of influencing this reciprocal relations, therefore, is so high, its proper adjustment is of such transcendent importance, that we must avoid unripe conclusions, narrow actions, or such as is based on any fundamental except it be the result of all views, all experiences and all natural considerations.

Perhaps we may dam the stream. But may it not overflow into the crea*tion of a pestilential swamp breeding* social and physical disease? The highest skill in sociological engineering should be brought to bear upon the problem—it is receiving, at best, a crude and unscientific empiricism.

That divorce laws are abused in many cases may be assumed. That is only reason for greater persipcacity in their adoption, not cause for their abridgment. Ministers abuse their cloth, but they should not be expurgated. Doctors often kill where they should cure, but they should not be exterminated. The laws for the collection of just debts are often abused—are daily made the means of desperate oppression—but they should not be annulled. Marriage itself is often made a sensuous curse, and yet it is, in its essence, the very keystone to bind into the arch of safety the whole structure of society. Shall we abolish that because it is abused?

A hundredfold more important is the problem of marriage than that of divorce. Let reformers apply themselves to finding a remedy for the "evil" of inconsiderate and unintelligent marriages—let public opinion, advisers and parents cease procipitating ill-boding marriages—and the divorce question will take care of itself. "But that is another story."

FILED AT ELIZABETH.

These property conveyances have been recorded at the county clerk's office, Elizabeth:

Benjamin A. Vail to James C. Walters, Jr., westerly side Pierpont street, 40 feet northerly of Hazelwood avenue, Rahway ..........$1

John W. Johnson et al. to Rachel R. Boice, Park avenue, corner C. V. D. Brown, Plainfield ............$1

Improved Bulding Lot Association of N. J. and Pa. to Mary E. Stutz, 15 feet of easterly part of lot 8, block C, "Map of Rockview Heights," Plainfield ...............$73.80

Same to Mary E. Steetz, lot 7, block C, same map, Plainfield ..$123

Charles L. Moffett et ux. to Mary G. Blackwell, lots 27-28, block C, "Map of J. E. Whittlesey," Plainfield ........................$1

Franklin P. Codington to Norman K. Barnes, northerly side Randolph road, corner Arlington avenue, Plainfield ........................$1

Norman K. Brown et ux. to Franklin P. Codington, northwesterly side West Fifth street, 100 feet of Plainfield Street Railway Co., Plainfield ........................$1

Bridget Newman et al. to Abram Kuntzman, Third street, 322 feet northeasterly of Plainfield avenue, Plainfield ...............$1,950

Luella R. Dudley to Elizabeth E. Lane, West Third street, 501 feet southwesterly of Plainfield avenue, Plainfield ...............$1,275

Clementine Yates Hoiman et al. to Margaret T. Richards, Central avenue, corner A. E. Ivers, Plainfield ........................$9,750

Margaret A. Saxton to Jeanne M. Saxton, Eighth street, corner Catherine L. Randolph, Plainfield ......$1

Auto B[illegible]e Down.

An automobile owned by Mr. Apgar, of Somerville, and in which were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Betts, of the borough, another woman and the owner, broke down yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock on West End avenue, after an extensive run through Somerset county during the day. Mr. Apgar spent nearly three hours trying to repair the machine. He was compelled finally to have it towed to F. L. C. Martin's garage, where the necessary repairs were made.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Sept. 24: "Home Missions in Mountain and Plain"—Matt. ix, 35-38; Luke ix, 1-6.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

"He sent them forth to preach the kingdom of God and to heal the sick."

The very simplicity of the work of Jesus and the naturalness of his message are among the most remarkable things about them.

He lived among men as one with them in work and needs and sympathy. He earned his daily living as an ordinary mechanic. He was one with them.

What other great religious teacher ever did so? What other one ever could have done it? But when we have seen it done we say at once it was the one thing that should have been done. Angels are good enough in their way, doubtless, but they could never save men from sin and get them out of the practice of the wrong and get the love of wrong and the perverse nature out of them.

He who would be messenger of Jesus to men must do as Jesus did in this respect—he must go forth to preach. Where the people are these tellers of the good tidings must go and find them. The early disciples did so. When Jesus would go through Galilee he sent some of his followers ahead of Him to tell the people that he was coming. They prepared the people to receive Him and understand His message. They not only taught the principles of trusting God and living rightly and peaceably, but they also cured those who were sick.

Much the same practices have been followed by the gospel pioneers in all the ages since.

The early Methodist preachers in this country penetrated the wilderness wherever a settler was to be found. The log church went up as soon as the clearing had been made and a few homes built.

In recent times and the present time the same thing is done. Every mining camp of the far west and every ranch on the plains has heard the voice of the evangelist in song and sermon and prayer.

No sooner is the emancipation proclamation issued than the church is ready to take up her God appointed task of evangelizing and teaching the freedmen of the south. Education by books had been forbidden these in the days of slavery and in some states it was a crime punished by imprisonment to teach a negro the alphabet. Who was there now to take up this work? Their former masters had not changed their views as to the rightfulness or expediency of such a thing if they had lost their cause in the war. Nor had they time or money to put into such work even if they had desired it done. They had all they could do to look out for themselves.

The nation had freed the negroes, but it did not undertake to educate or Christianize them, to fit them for citizenship or society in their new relations. Who but the church should and could do this stupendous task? No mission to any foreign land has been so imperative a necessity as this mission in our own borders. No other has presented more difficulties to be overcome, more perils and hardships and prejudices and persecutions. It is too early to write the story of the missions of our church in the mountains and plains of the south to blacks and whites.

The impression is current through the land and in the church, which has so generously given of her money and men for this work in the days past, that there is not now that pressing need for helping this particular work that there was some years back. Those in position to know most accurately affirm that the church in general has not that sympathy for our educational and religious work among the negroes and the willingness to give the needed means that it had fifteen or twenty years since. If this be an accurate representation of the state of affairs, it is most unfortunate that such a condition should have come about. It is impossible here to discuss the cause of this change in sentiment. Whatever has been the cause or causes they should, however, be searched out and a remedy found.

The fact is well known to all who know accurately and adequately the situation that the great mass of the black race have not yet been reached to any large extent by the schools so that they have become educated in any such degree as is almost universal among the common people of the north and west, nor have they been reached by the church in such a degree that the great mass can be said to be thoroughly evangelized. Help is absolutely essential at the present time. It should be given more largely than ever before, perhaps not all in the same places and through the same channels. Some different lines of work should be developed. The higher and highest education should not be neglected for those who can profit by it, but the greater part need more attention to industrial lines, which are receiving care, and to agricultural education, which has had almost no attention.

A Night Prayer.

O God, O perfect love, I pray thee care
For him because it is forbidden me.
Grant that his sleep may soft and hallowed be.
Because these prayer clasped hands may never dare
To smooth nor bless his bed. Close with Thy care.
Caressing peace his weary star eyes. Free
From other ward some angel guard, that he
May keep the dark watch that I may not share.
Greet with Thy new day's joy his waking soul.
Inspire him lest in weariness he slip
Upon the day's ascent. Grant me the bliss
Of praying for him. Lord, take Thou a coal
From out Thy altar fire [illegible]
That I ma[illegible]
—Elizabeth [illegible]

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 24.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The home mission work of our denomination.—Matt. ix, 35-38; x, 1-15.

No matter in what part of the home mission field the denomination to which we belong labors, every Christian Endeavorer should be interested in and actively co-operate in that work. The Christian to whom home missions do not appeal may seriously ask himself the question, "Am I a Christian?" Indeed, this may well be the attitude of any professing Christian not interested in all missions, both home and foreign, for the direct command of Christ is, "Go ye therefore into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," and among His last words to His disciples were these: "Ye shall be witnesses unto Me, both in Jerusalem and in Judaea and in Samaria and unto the uttermost parts of the earth." If to be a Christian is to obey Christ, how can we be Christians if we deliberately disobey His plainly expressed commands?

The need of home mission work today is a very urgent and pressing need. Our country as never before needs to be Christianized and kept Christianized. The history of nations has usually been characterized by poverty and struggle, during which there have been righteousness and virtue, followed by success, prosperity and wealth, which have bred luxury, idleness and vice, and these have been followed by ruin. Babylon, Greece and Rome all passed through these successive periods. Our nation today is at the zenith of its prosperity and power. What will be the result? Shall we follow in the footsteps of other nations that have long since passed into history, or can we still be just, upright, Christian, notwithstanding our success? That we may be so should demand the interest of every true American citizen. Unless we can continue a Christian nation our national life is doomed, but it need not be so if the Christian people of our land will be faithful to their trust. Perplexing questions are before us for settlement. A small per cent of our population owns 97 per cent of our wealth. The feeling between capitalists and laborers is not the best. Thousands of ignorant and often godless and even vicious foreigners are being landed upon our shores. Millions in our land are even now unchristianized, and the great greed to get rich easily and speedily is sapping the moral and spiritual life out of hundreds and thousands of our population. What can save us from the awful consequences of such conditions? Nothing but the gospel of Christ and the principles of Christianity practically applied to our personal, social and political lives. Lying, stealing, impurity, intemperance, must be crushed out of our lives or the land we love so well will be ruined, and every Christian can help win the battle for continued national life and power by doing his part in Christianizing all our people.

That we should do our missionary work through our own denominations should be self evident. Every great denomination in our land has its organized missionary activities, and we should sustain and support them; otherwise we are disloyal to our denominations and not unusually weaken the effects of what we give or do.

BIBLE READINGS.

Neh. ii, 1-5; Ps. ii, 18; cxxii, 6-9; cxxxvii, 1-6; cxlvii, 20; Prov. xiv, 34; Matt. xxii, 15-21; Acts i, 8; Rom. ix, 1-5; x, 14, 15.

The Scotch "Moody."

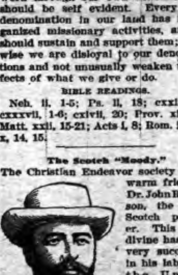
The Christian Endeavor society has a warm friend in Dr. John Robertson, the great Scotch preacher. This noted divine has been very successful in his labors in the United States for the past two years. He was a speaker at the last New York state convention and also at the last Ohio convention. Dr. Robertson's addresses at both conventions were listened to with much interest.



DR. JOHN ROBERTSON.

Conviction of Righteousness.

Undue stress is sometimes laid on what is called the conviction of sin. The conviction of sin comes surely enough and fast enough when you have the perfect ideal before you and are striving to realize it. But I would rather have you aim at the conviction of righteousness—that is, of righteous*ness of a heart right before God.*—Andrew P. Peabody.

Bohemian and German.

Krestanska Snaha is the distinctive name for Christian Endeavor in Bohemia and Moravia. There are seventy-five Endeavorers in Bohemia.

The Endeavor penny collections in Germany realized 834 marks, which will be used toward the building of an Endeavor home for young people in Berlin.

The Junior C. E. Pledge.

In Christ I trust for strength
To do His will each day,
To read my Bible, pray to Him
And follow Him alway.

To all my duties true
I'll ever strive to be,
For He has promised strength
And guidance unto me.

Although I'm but a child—
Yet of His grace and power
To save from sin—with joy
I'll testify each hour.

Lord, grant that in this world
My life may ever be
A helpful, [illegible] clear light,
To [illegible] to Thee!
—Miss E. M. [illegible] in Irish Endeavorer.

HUSBAND NOT A HOUSEMAID.

Are you one of those women who continually request your husband to run get you this, that and the other as long as he is about the house? Do you habitually call him back from the corner to mail a letter or give him a sample of silk to match? Does he no sooner sit down than you ask him to run upstairs and get the baby's pins, or take the small child walking, or run around the corner and get the meat for supper? says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

There are misguided wives who make it a constant practice to keep the man of the house fetching and carrying for themselves and baby from the time he enters the door until bedtime and all day Sunday. It's "Tom, get me this," and "Tom, please bring me that," until in the eyes of a third party Tom's position in the home appears to be that of a well-trained servant.

It is hardly fair, little wife, to let him drop to that, is it? Do you really require that he should go into bondage of this sort to you and baby? He does it patiently, maybe, but it wears on him and hurts his self-respect. Why don't you do your own buying, and mail your own letters and match your own samples? Why don't you have the baby's things handy, so he won't have to wait on you hand and foot when you're busy with the little one?

What would you think if your husband brought home a lot of his office work for you to do at night? Suppose he expected you to spend your spare hours clerking for him and helping him with his bills and accounts? Ridiculous, wouldn't it be? Yet, for some reason, you expect him to act as second housemaid and assistant child's nurse the whole time he is away from the office.

Nine times out of ten it's simply habit that gets you into this practice. Of course, there are exceptional cases of illness which make it necessary for a faithful husband to step into the shoes of a domestic help and assist with the meals and the children. But unless there is this necessity it ought not be expected.

The man's field of labor, little wife, is in his office or factory, where he earns the bread for you. Yours is in the home, where you do every whit as much as he toward earning the living. He doesn't expect you to go down to the office and work. Don't expect him to come home at night and do the housework and mind the baby.

Do your own end as well as you can. Be as independent and self-reliant about it as possible. When he comes home let ...n rest. And if you manage right you can be ready to rest with him.

THE USE OF KEROSENE.

The kerosene can is not a thing of beauty, neither is it suggestive of strength, yet it is one of the most valuable of the housewife's allies. A spoonful of kerosene added to the basin of water in which the windows are to be washed makes them beautifully clear and easy to polish, while at the same time it repels flies and mosquitoes, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. If screen doors and windows are thoroughly brushed and freed from dust, then wiped over with kerosene, they will look as good as new, while mosquitoes, flies and moth millers will give them a wide berth as long as any trace of the odor remains.

If, as is frequently the case even in best regulated families, the beds become infested with occupants that do not belong there they may be exterminated by a free use of kerosene. If one has a careless neighbor, as is apt to be the case in an apartment house, baseboards, window sills and the springs of the beds should be wiped off with oil at least once a week as a preventive.

Applied liberally about the kitchen sink, boiler and pipes, cockroaches and water bugs may be defied, even in an old house.

For wagon grease or tar spots rub well with kerosene while the grease is fresh, then wash out in cold, soft water, using no soap.

Kerosene will remove ink stains and fresh paint, while nothing takes out blood stains better than cold soapsuds to which kerosene has been added.

Irons that have been put away sticky should be well scraped with a thin knife, then rubbed with a rough cloth, moistened in kerosene.

A spoonful of kerosene in boiled starch keeps it from sticking, but do not use enough to make it smell of the oil.

Nothing equals kerosene for cleaning porcelain bath tubs. The ugly black streak around the sides that requires such vigorous rubbing when only soap and water are used disappears as by magic when wiped with a soft cloth, moistened with kerosene.

Common kerosene is excellent in cleaning hardwood or stained floors. Sweep carefully and dust before applying the oil. Use only a small quantity at a time, wiping a small space, then rubbing the oil up with a soft absorbent flannel cloth.

Educational Reception.

The Y. M. C. A. will tender its annual reception to the students of the educational department on October 2. The social work committee will arrange the affair.

In New Brunswick Case.

Lawyer Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, represented Scheerer & Crown, a Newark credit firm, in a suit against a debtor in New Brunswick Thursday.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, ... Proprietor

Thursday, Sept. 20, 1905.

How could the Westfield team expect to win the Union county championship when the Dashers beat the New York Nationals out of their boots?

Over in Essex county the Democrats are bewailing the fact that Colby has stolen their thunder. By compelling the Republicans to espouse equal taxation and other popular ideas, he has robbed them of anything to make a noise over. But even so, they are better off than the Democrats here, who can't get men to run for office.

Eugene Merrill, of Utica, N. Y., has two cork legs and is a shoemaker by trade. He advertised for a wife and received 111 acceptances. If advertising will get a poor man with two cork legs 111 wives, we confess our utter inability to estimate the number of wives advertising would secure a well-to-do man with two good legs.—Asbury Park Press.

When the Newark Evening News said, in commenting on the result of the primaries, that "Between the influence of MacMurray as city clerk and McCardell in his dual capacity as State labor inspector and foreman in the great Pond Tool Works, the other citizens of Plainfield seem to have no show whatever," it stepped far from the truth. A great body of representative Republicans, men who pay big taxes and have considerable property interests, took part in the elections and it would be an insult to say that they did not vote for what they considered the best for the city. Neither MacMurray nor MacCardell is a political dictator and neither could be if he wanted to in this city. The primaries were fair and above-board and the result proved that the Republicans did not believe that the municipality is as boss-ridden as it has been painted. It will be conceded that MacMurray can derive no great benefit from his public office. He is the local head of the largest manufacturing concern and receives the biggest salary paid to any man whose business duties are here at home. McCardell also holds a lucrative position and like MacMurray has no need of holding public office for ulterior purposes. Sober-minded Plainfielders will take issue with some of the State press comment which has pictured this city as being in the depths of political bossism.

The Republican party in Essex county has had the courage to throw off the yoke of bossism and rid itself of other baneful influences for the time being at least. This change of conditions is due to the work of Everett Colby, who, after a great fight, in which the corporations were arraigned against him, aroused the people to the rottenness of the "machine" not only in that county but throughout the State. As a result of Colby's successful campaign the party, or, in other words, the "machine," has been compelled to accept a model platform. Here are some of the planks of this platform which should draw support from the general mass of voters, irrespective of party:

"First—A State law and an amendment to the Constitution of the State, prohibiting municipalities from granting franchises to public utility corporations for a longer period of time than twenty-five years in cities of the first and second class, with a provision permitting the grant of franchises for a period not longer than thirty-five years in localities other than cities of the first and second class, if so decided by a vote of the people in the locality affected.

"Second—A law providing for the annual assessment of the value of the franchises of the public utility companies in the streets, and the taxation of the same at local rates.

"Third—A law taxing all railroad real estate—including the main stem—at local rates, and until that is done we are opposed to the fixing of a maximum tax rate, and favor the suspension of the Hillery tax act.

"Fourth—A law affording the members of each party the opportunity at the general election of expressing their choice for the party candidate for United States Senator, until such time as the Constitution of the United States shall provide for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people."

HURLED CONTROLLER AT BOY.

Angry P. S. C. Motorman Injures Dunellen Lad in Peculiar Manner.

George Apgar, a fifteen-year-old Dunellen boy, made a joking remark to the motorman of a P. S. C. car at the Dunellen loop Sunday afternoon. The trolley man didn't like it and made a sharp reply. The boy retorted in kind. The motorman lost his temper, and snatching the controller from the motor box hurled it at the lad.

The metal part of the contrivance struck the boy on the ankle. Yesterday morning the ankle began to swell, and intense pains began to shoot through it. The boy was compelled to take to his bed and medical aid was summoned. It is feared the ankle bone has been cracked.

AMUSEMENTS

In "The Catch of the Season," by Seymour Hicks and Cosmo Hamilton, at Daly's Edna May figures as a 20th century Cinderella, and has attractive songs and dances. She plays the role of Angela, daughter of Sir John Crystal, who is relegated to the background by two jealous and older step-sisters. The Duchess of St. Jermyns is giving a coming-out ball for her young son, the Duke, and all the Crystal girls are invited, but the step-sisters say that Angela must stay at home, as she has nothing to wear, and for various other good and sufficient reasons. The evening of the ball, while all is preparations in the Crystal mansion, the young Duke drops in, meets Angela, and is promptly smitten with her. Poor Angela has no chance, however, of going to the ball and she is in a state of necessary resignation when the 20th century fair godmother comes along in the person of a kind hearted rich old aunt, who knows how things have been going in the Crystal household and who has made up her mind that Angela shall not be vanquished so easily by her step-sisters. The aunt fixes the young girl up in splendid manner and takes her to the ball. The conquest of the young Duke is renewed and then delightful fairy-like romances is pursued thereafter to a happy conclusion.

Nat. M. Wills, one of the most popular comedians, won new honors at the Majestic theatre, New York, last Monday evening when he appeared at the star in "The Duke of Duluth." This operatic farce by George Broadhurst, with music by Max S. Witt, was given a great welcome, and its merits are such as to insure it a successful run at the home of musical comedy successes. Mr. Wills has taken a long step forward as a comedian in this play. Mr. Broadhurst, whose skill as a writer of farces is well known, has provided Mr. Wills with a novel character and supplied a succession of laughable episodes in which he is the thief, and always funny, figure. The scenes are laid in the wonderful island of Wot, where Mr. Darling Doolittle, of Duluth, arrives by means of a submarine. A deliverer has been looked for by the troubled Wotians; and with the most innocent intentions in the world, and having no desire for work of any kind, Mr. Doolittle is seized upon as the leader, and is forced into affairs of state, compelled to marry a fat princess, and so perplexed that he assumes various different identities in passing from one difficulty to another. He kept the audience laughing every instant he was on the stage. Several of his songs made positive hits, among them being "Strenuous," "If My Man Could Do It For Me," and "Rosita" (an Italian "coon song").

David Warfield's tremendous popularity in Charles Klein's play, "The Music Master," has never been more emphatically demonstrated than Saturday night, September 2, at the Bijou theatre, when, after his summer rest, this Belasco star took up the course of success just where he left it last June. It was his 291st performance in New York as the old musician, and the immense audience were as deftly moved, whether to delighted laughter or quiet tears, as during the ten months of his first season here. After his strong scene in the second act, Mr. Warfield was compelled to make a speech—but as that was a nightly occurrence last season it was only to have been expected last Saturday night. David Belasco was present and the artistic atmosphere of the entire play and the ease and effectiveness with which it moved showed the careful direction of his masterly hand. He, too, was called for after the second act, and received an ovation surpassing even that of the star himself. Each member of Mr. Belasco's popular organization received the warmest greeting. Marie Bates was the same delightful Miss Houston; Minnie Dupree was as charming and effective as ever as the old musician's newly found daughter. Taking it all in all, Saturday night's reopening of the Bijou was an event for Mr. Warfield and the entire Belasco company, giving assurance of the same great prosperity and popularity during the second New York year of "The Music Master."

"Of a.. the plays of the week which came in with all sorts of flourish, this was the one which scored the most legitimate hit," said Acton Davies, the critic of the New York Evening Sun, in his review of "The Prince Chap," the new play which opened the regular season at the Madison Square theatre, New York. "The Prince Chap" is relieved by much good and bright comedy and tears give way to smiles so gently and so frequently do the bits of humor break through the pathos of the play that it resembles an April day with rays of sunshine intermittently breaking through the showers. The story concerns William Peyton, a young American sculptor, a big hearted fellow, "a sort of prince chap," as he described himself to the little girl who had been left in his care by a model whom he had befriended, and he tells her of Princess Alice left behind in America. Three years later, when Claudia, which is the name of the child, is eight years old, the old sweetheart, "Princess Alice," arrives in London with a mind poisoned against Peyton by stories that the ward was in truth the child of the sculptor, she demands as a proof of his innocence that he send little Claudia away. This he refuses to do and Alice Travers marries another man. Ten years later, as a widow, Alice reappears and attempts to renew the old feeling between them. But in the meantime Claudia, the model's daughter, has become eighteen and it is revealed to Peyton and Claudia, who has grown up with "daddy," that the Princess Alice has gone out of their dream.

Klaw & Erlanger's splendid production, "The Pearl and the Pumpkin," has made a sensational hit at the Broadway theatre, its scenery and costumes surpassing in every way anything ever before staged in this country. But scenery and costumes are but an incident to a most interesting fantastic story told by a great company. A pumpkin famine is caused by a malicious sprite known as the Corn Dodger. The only crop has been raised by a Vermont boy, Joe Miller, in some mysterious manner. Ike Cannem, the proprietor of a canning factory in Bermuda, arrives to obtain possession of this crop. At the same time the Ancient Mariner comes from the bottom of the sea on the same quest, being sent by Davy Jones, who keep a boarding house for reformed pirates. The pirates have made the life of Davy unhappy with their demand for pumpkin pie. Both Cannem and the Ancient Mariner are anxious to secure not only Joe Miller's secret, but the pumpkins he has raised. They arrive to learn from the village baker, John Doe, that Joe has cut them up for "jack-o'-lanterns." The Wicked Corn Dodger transforms Joe into a "pumpkin-head," an odd creature with head and body of pumpkins. Then the Ancient Mariner abducts Joe and Doe, the baker, to Davy Jones' locker, conveying them there through a magic spring that communicates with the bottom of the sea. Joe's sweetheart, Pearl Prince, and their companions, Sally Simpkins and Johnny Farnum, follow. The Corn Dodger is made captive by Cannem, the latter's purpose being to can him. At the bottom of the sea the pirates are anxious to convert Joe into pumpkin pie, but he is saved by Mother Carey, a good fairy, who arrives at the proper moment with her band in the guise of a submarine fire brigade. Then the scene shifts to Bermuda, where annem's canning factory is first shown. Here the pumpkin-boy, with the exception of his head, is cut up to serve as filling for pies for the guests of a hotel. The head is thrown overboard, and appears in the moon as it rises on the surface of the waters. With his magic powers the Corn Dodger undoes all his wrong, transforms the pumpkin head into Joe again and all ends happily.

Lew Fields' big company of comedians and singers and show girls continues to thrive at Mr. Fields' sumptuous theatre on West 42d street. "It Happened in Nordland," the marvellously successful musical comedy by Victor Herbert and Glen MacDonough, which enjoyed a run of more than 200 nights last winter, is still proving a powerful magnet with the public. This is indicated by the fact that it will remain in evidence throughout the season now opening. Mr. Fields himself has positively the best part in his extended career in New York in the role of the lost boy, and he plays it with the admirable unction that marks him as a character actor of exceptional ability. Miss Blanche Ring, the well known comedienne, who is the principal newcomer in the organization this season, brings to the role of Queen Elsa in "It Happened in Nordland," a charming personality as well as a delightful talent, and accordingly makes a capital coworker with Mr. Fields. Harry Fisher as Baron Sparta, the Prime Minister, has made an extraordinary comedy hit; Miss Grace Field has all the prettiness and pertness any one could ask for in the soubrette role; and such widely known performers as Harry Davenport, Joseph Herbert, Joseph Carroll, Gertrude Whitty, Julius Steger, Mona Desmond, William Burress and Pauline Frederick are notable figures in what may be termed an all-star cast.

New attractions are being added weekly to the big bill at the New York Hippodrome to round out the production of "A Yankee Circus on Mars" and "The Raiders." During the season, the leading specialists in Europe will be seen on the Hippodrome stage. The circus performance has been acclaimed by the thousands who have seen it to be the most wonderful that has ever been produced in America. Mlle. Therese Renz, on her superb stallion, Mazeppa, presented to her by Emperor Franz Joseph, of Austria, is the talk of the town, because of her high-school riding act. Her Loie Fuller dance on horseback, with the beautiful climax effects, is the most effective climax ever witnessed in a circus ring. No less a sensation are the Cottrell-Powells in their feats of horsemanship on bareback. Riding two spirited horses, one foot on each, Miss Louise Powell balances her daring companion in all sorts of positions; the act concluding with Mr. Cottrell standing unsupported on her shoulders, the horses in the meantime galloping around the ring. The chorus and ballet songs and dances continue to receive the applause which they have merited as leading features of the production, which taken as a whole deserve the praise of critics, who say of it, "all other shows are sideshows in comparison."

Miss Minnie Green, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Miss Edna French, of Craig place. Miss Green was formerly a teacher in the borough public schools.

ROCKEFELLER PUTS UP PRICE OF OIL

WINTER AT HAND AND DIVIDENDS MUST BE INCREASED.

The Standard Oil Company, following its action of last week, again advanced its price of oil yesterday. The new schedules are as follows: Ohio test oil, 8½ cents a gallon; water white Ohio State test oil, 9½ cents; headlight oil, 175 degrees, 10½ cents; Eocene oil, 11½ cents; B. M. & C. naphtha, 11 cents; deodorized stove gasolene, 12 cents; gasolene, 74 to 76 degrees, 14 cents. These prices represent an advance of about ½ cent a gallon all around. Export prices have been similarly increased.

The general Wall street explanation of the increase is that the public is to pay the cost of the great oil fight in Kansas.

At the office of the Standard Oil Company, No. 26 Broadway, a representative of the company said that there is an increased demand for oil abroad, owing to the reduction of the output in the Baku district, the result of the uprising there, where many oil wells have been destroyed.

There has been a great falling off in Pennsylvania production and it is the gradual failure of these fields that led the Standard to invade Kansas. Last month the stock of Pennsylvania oil above ground was reduced about 480,000 barrels. Since the first of the year the reduction has been 2,450,000 barrels.

The Standard always puts up the price of oil when the winter season approaches and the demand for illuminating oil increases. The Standard Oil Company is expected to pay between 42 and 45 per cent. in dividends during the current year. At 45 per cent. Mr. Rockefeller's income from his Standard holdings will be $18,000,000.

"PLAY BALL!" NOT THERE.

Mr. Leader and His Strong Voice Carried Away by Philadelphia Flier.

One of the regular features of the games at Alls Oval was missing Saturday afternoon. Not once throughout the contest did the familiar "one 'Ike!" "two 'Ikes!" "three 'Ikes!" roll in stentorian tones from the left field bleachers, and the game began without the usual booming "play ball!" of other days. Just about the time the game started the voice, which is owned by A. J. Leader, of Duer street, a thirty-third degree fan and past grand commander of the rooter division, was grumbling disconsolately in the Bound Brook waiting room of the Central Railroad.

Mr. Leader cut his work short Saturday in New York and hustled to the depot to get the Philadelphia express that reaches here at 3:45. He was particularly anxious to lend the support of his enthusiasm and lungs to Phil Smith. Mr. Leader heaved a sigh of contentment as he settled himself in his seat and opened a newspaper. When Mr. Leader looked about him again the train was rolling into Bound Brook. A long freight train and an interesting article in the paper had caused him to overlook his own station.

He didn't get to Plainfield until a quarter of five. Saturday's game is now a painful subject with Mr. Leader, and must be broached delicately in his hearing.

Montclair Elks' Fair.

Montclair Lodge of Elks, the youngest lodge in New Jersey, will hold a fair during the week beginning October 16. The fair as planned will be the largest ever held by an Elk Lodge in the United States. Already over $20,000 has been expended toward making the bazaar a success. Nearly $10,000 is to be given in prizes, and it is hoped that enough will be cleared from the fair to warrant the erection of a $50,000 Elk Lodge Building for the Montclair Lodge, next spring. The plans will soon be out for this structure and ground will probably be broken in April. Already much money has been contributed, but it is the wish of the executive committee to have the home entirely free from debt.

TENNIS TOURNEY.

State Championship in Women's Singles This Week.

The championship tournament of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association for women's singles will be held on the courts of the Bergen Point Lawn Tennis Club, West Eighth street, Bayonne, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Play will begin at 2 o'clock on Thursday and Friday afternoons and 10 o'clock on Saturday morning. The committee, however, reserves the right to call matches in the morning by posting notice thereof on the bulletin board the preceding day. First and runner-up prizes will be awarded.

Entries must be received before 9 o'clock tomorrow morning by Sydney L. Smith, chairman, 139 West Eighth street, Bayonne.

Sydney L. Smith will act as referee and the following tournament committee will be in charge: Mrs. Sydney L. Smith, chairman; Mrs. A. H. Church, Mrs. Eads Johnson, Miss Jeannette Hobson, Miss Grace Layman, Emile Frank, Elliott C. Moody and Sydney L. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith and daughters, of Grandview avenue, who attended the G. A. R. Encampment in Denver, Col., have returned home.

JAMES E. MARTINE IS ABOUT TO WED

MISS JULIA E. RODMAN WILL BE HIS BRIDE.

James E. Martine, the "farmer-orator of New Jersey," is about to be married, formal announcement having been made in the nature of wedding invitations issued Monday. His bride will be Miss Julia Edgar Rodman. The ceremony will take place in Grace church on Saturday, October 7.

Miss Rodman is the daughter of Mrs. Bessie Bayard Lorillard Rodman and the late H. Scott Rodman. Her mother was the only daughter of the late Jacob Lorillard, of New York. Miss Rodman is well known in society. She is a member of the Plainfield Country Club and is actively interested in the parish work of Grace church.

Mr. Martine has been a resident of Plainfield for forty years and is about as well liked as any man in the city. He lives with his sisters on the Martine homestead, Cedarbrook farm. Ever since he was eighteen years of age he has been an active figure in the councils of New Jersey's Democracy. Never a campaign has come or gone but that he has taken a prominent part as a speaker. Several times he has been the party's nominee for a high office, but as in the case the last time when he was the opponent of Congressman Fowler, he has met with defeat. In every case the popularity of the man, however, made him run away ahead of his ticket.

The wedding will take place at noon on the day set. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, an uncle of the bride, will officiate, assisted by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson. A reception will follow at Cedarbrook farm.

SHE WANTED THE PATROL WAGON AT THE HOUSE

BUT MRS. HARRISON RANDOLPH WAS MIXED REGARDING ITS FREIGHT.

The telephone bell twinkled at police headquarters Saturday night and a feminine voice vibrated over the wire.

"This is Mrs. Irene Randolph, of West Fourth street," said the voice. "Send the patrol wagon to my house; my husband is drunk and acting something awful. Send down at once—right away. I can't stand it another minute."

Cop Overbaugh and Driver Tom O'Gorman went out on the wagon after Mr. Randolph. They met Mrs. Randolph on the street. She was very wobbly on her feet and full of noise and giggles. Overbaugh put her into the wagon and went in to have a look at Mr. Randolph. He found the accused quiet and steady, and a light broke on him.

"It's you for the coop, my girl, and not your husband," he said to the complainant after investigation had disclosed the fact that Mrs. Randolph was the one who had raised all the fuss.

Judge Runyon gave her short shrift Monday morning.

"It will cost you $5 or twenty days in jail for calling that wagon out," he said. Mrs. Randolph, quiet and contrite, paid the fine.

Fair Closed on Sunday.

The Interstate Fair Association directors have decided to close the fair gates on Sunday at the request of Judge Rellstab, of the Mercer county criminal court.

Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe, of West Fifth street, is detained at home by a slight attack of paralysis.

Mrs. Thurlow and daughter, who have been spending the summer on Putnam avenue, will return to their home in Boston tomorrow and L. R. Thurlow will return to Truell Court.

Wallace Morton, of West Front street, who disabled his hand through an accident at the Pond Machine Tool Works, recently, has returned to work.

REINHART APPEARS ON LOCAL LINKS AGAIN

RESULTS OF PLAY AT THE COUNTRY AND PARK CLUBS.

Despite the fact that there are still many members away on their vacations, there was a large field at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday to take part in the weekly competition. Each week returning members are found enjoying their favorite sport, while the social features at the club house are greatly enjoyed by all. The course is in fine condition and playing is a real pleasure.

Frank O. Reinhart, who has not been prominent at the club this year, figured in the honors for the golf committee cup on Saturday, taking the first three points with a net score of 77. The other three points were divided between Arthur Murphy and Dudley H. Barrows, each returning a net score of 81. These scores do not affect the standing for the cup, E. B. Schoonmaker still holding the lead with 13 points.

The best scores returned on Saturday were as follows:

Frank O. Reinhart, 74, plus 3—77; Arthur Murphy, 86, 5—81; Dudley H. Barrows, 80, plus 1—81; W. P. Boggs, 102, 17—85; C. B. Andrews, 101, 13—88; L. H. Van Buren, 107, 13—94.

Another event of the afternoon was a putting and approaching contest, mixed foursome. Miss May Holly and Frank O. Reinhart were the winners, with a score of 12, while Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and Arthur Murphy and Mrs. Weber and E. T. Barrows were tie for second place, with a score of 13.

Play for the president's and Park Golf Club cups was continued at the Park Golf Club Saturday, there being a large field out. J. B. Betts won first honors for the handicap cup, Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll and Samuel Townsend finishing second and third, respectively. For the scratch cup Raymond B. Carroll won first honors, and Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll finished second and Reuben Knox third.

These scores were posted for the two cups:

J. B. Betts, 114, 27—87; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 96, 8—88; Samuel Townsend, 108, 18—90; Reuben Knox, 106, 13—93; Raymond B. Carroll, 90, plus 4—94; John L. Watson, 110, 16—94; Leon R. Thurlow, 107, 13—94; Alex Gilbert, 108, 12—96.

CHISELED OFF INNER DOOR OF STEEL SAFE

NEGRO WORKMAN ROBS GAYLE HARDWARE CO. OF CASH AND CHECKS.

A strange negro, giving his name as George Smith, was hired as a man of all work by the Gayle Hardware Co., West Front street, last Tuesday. He was put to work on the second floor. On this floor is the company's safe. Saturday afternoon J. P. Laire, the manager, found the inner door of the safe in an empty box on the upper floor.

Mr. Laire hurried over to the safe. The outer door, which is left unlocked, was not injured. The other had been chiseled off. One hundred dollars in cash and checks amounting to about $150 were missing. The negro did not return after leaving for lunch.

None of the men at Gayle's knows anything of Smith. Mr. Laire asked him nothing about himself when he was hired. Nobody heard him at work on the safe.

Fifty Years a Minister.

In his maiden charge at New Market, next Sunday, Rev. George W. Clark, of Hightstown, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination as a minister. A number of old Piscataway residents remember when Rev. Mr. Clark became pastor of the New Market Baptist church a half century ago, and several of them are expected to join in the celebration. An interesting programme has been arranged for the event.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River. In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.20, 8.36, 8.46 9.20, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.02, 12.44, 1.18, 2.21, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.12, 4.47, 5.30, 5.54, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.22, 8.35, 9.35, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.37, 4.47, 7.47, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 9.49 10.02, 10.22 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.20, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44 4.12 4.47 5.30 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.34, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52, 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.22, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.32, 5.03, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.32, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.02, 2.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.02, 8.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove)—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49, (4.12 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., *1.18, 2.49, 4.12 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 8.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 8.21 through train,) 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.02 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and after September 12, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.25 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. St. Louis and Cincinnati Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and f 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p., m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06, 11.43 a m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, f 10.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.40 (Philadelphia only), 7.44, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, 1.01 a. m., 1.04 and f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 1.01, 6.51, a. m.; 1.04 p. m., Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., 12.40 (Saturdays only), f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., 5.52 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, 3.04, f 5.43, and f 7.38 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.05 10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.55 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 212 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112-B.

Old New Marketer Dead.

Hiram H. Kelley, one of the best known and oldest residents of New Market, died at his home there yesterday. Mr. Kelley had been ill for some time. He is survived by a widow and a grown daughter. The funeral will be held from his late residence on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Miss Anna Butler, who has been visiting relatives at Junction, N. J., has returned to her home in this city.

WESTFIELD CHEERS UP

Pirates Manage to Get Another Game With Some Assistance.

HELD FAST BY SMITH

Schoolboy Had Them at His Mercy—Kiernan and Dalton Let In All Pirate Runs With Wild Throws.

Aided by two bum chucks and Mr. Waller's ingenuity at critical junctures, the dismayed Pirates gathered themselves together long enough at Alis Oval Saturday afternoon to hand us a wallop. We were jarred 4 to 2.

P. Smith, the schoolboy phenom, was on the firing line for the Commuters. To relieve the suspense in high school circles and South Plainfield society we will hasten to say that the youthful Mr. Smith had nothing whatever to do with losing the game. Phil worked through the try-out with flying colors on high that C. Denman and his cohorts removed to remarks of rude disparagement. Whenever a Westfield team has its feelings hurt by a twirler, C. Denman and G. Mallen pronounce him a dub and other things like that, although it is never explained why he can't be thumped. Phil deserved the high praise encrusted in the rude and sarcastic comments of the satirical Pirates. He delivered the goods with the package unpunctured, full weight and first quality.

As a cold and frigid matter of fact, the kid outpitched Red. The latter was whanged for twelve hits, several of which came in strings; Phil was thumped only seven times, and every one but two bumps was comfortably scooped from the infield. He fanned Mike Rochford, who was back in the game in right, and Flynn. The latter gent, who is a trusty thumper, wiggled his stick uselessly twice. G. Mallen and Mr. Waller were also whiffed on occasion, but these instances are more interating than instructive. Red whiffed no more, and issued but one less pass—which is one.

But for two very saffron errors by Kiernan and Dalton the kid would have shut the Pirates out so hard they wouldn't have known they were in the game except as a sideshow. In both the innings in which the Pirates tallied wild throws chased in the brace of runs. They were chucks that would pass by the most forgiving saint in Fandom; each of them simply converted an easy out into two tallies. It was a ball hit by the pestiferous Mr. Mallen that did the damage in each case. George didn't get a hit and even whiffed, as insinuated before, but he converted himself into a hoodoo and cunjered us good and plenty. George is nothing if not resoureeful.

Aside from the chucks, though, the Commuters backed Phil up in scintillating fashion. Kiernan made a dazzling stop on the gallop, recovering himself at an angle of forty-five degrees in time to make a great fling. Wally Cosgrave beat a smashing high drive to the edge of the woodland in his junkyard and plucked the rising thing from the edge of Homerville. Pete Cregan went through a breathbating performance at full gallop from deep left almost to mid center. But our heroes were very wasteful of themselves on the lines. It is a tough record when a team gets twelve hits and only two tallies. We had so many chances to pile marks on the enemy and came close to doing it so many times that the crowd felt just as if we had been liberal and gave the game away. This feeling is not so far wrong, no. But let us not repine. We have the pennant, and Phil's glory shone despite the final and ultimate decision.

Talking of the phenom's glittering fame, it was a brilliant and inspiring assemblage of youth and beauty that gathered to do him honor on the bleachers. Pretty young things in fluffy creations and some flutters chirruped encouragingly at the hard-working youth and said he was just too lovely for anything, and did you see how he struck out that big, horrid, rough-looking Westfield pitcher? Other faithful strugglers in the learning mill of the phenom's own sex grew loudly joyous when a Pirates failed to thump safe, and implored their playmate never to forget that he could put it all oyer them; that they, the Pirates, were a bunch of stiffs, and would now discover that they were in the big league real thing. There is no getting away from the fact that institutions of learning are great places for developing chaste and limpid language.

Among the retinue of the infant twirler was Pa Smith. Pa patted the phenom on the head encouragingly whenever he came in, and warned him not to drink too much water in a hurry and said other useful and heartening things. In the fifth, when the Pirates got their first thump, Pa assured Phil that he was still a real good boy and would get an extra cooky when he got home. This cheered Phil considerably and helped him hold the fierce and ravening Pirates in subjection.

Scoring in the first inning having become a habit with the Commuters, Pete Kiernan started matters with a sharp infield hit. Wally pushed him along neatly, and Dan Connolly, after Dalton had popped, proved himself once more the king of timely hitters by singling swiftly to left. Cregan ended it with a whiff. That cap of Dan's was the last bit of real timely hitting the Commuter's turned off. Hit after hit came and man after man galloped madly about the bases, but the welt that was needed to open the way from third to home was a missing quantity. Even the second tally in the ninth came in only after some travail and on a fly-out. Some hard luck mauled us on the alleys. In the Sixth Leonard, with Dalton on third, hit to Wahl, and had to tramp five feet off his bag to get it. Without moving an inch Wahl slung the ball for home to catch Dalton, and Leonard had oodles of time to make the bag. Henning, standing back of short, declared him out. He said Joe played for the bag and touched it before he threw home. Even Joe looked amazed at the decision, but the ump refused to change it. Driscoll made the third out with a right-field fly and another chance to score fell overboard. In the seventh Jack O'Neill started to plug another attack by overrunning second base on a neat bunt by Smith. The out robbed the flinger of a hit, for without Jack's unrestrained gallop neither would have been safe.

McCormick paved the way for the Pirates' first two marks in the seventh with a drive to center for the halfway station. Mallen hit a cinch to Kiernan. Pete had time to nail Mallen at third and did not to Leonard, and thereupon the round thing buried itself in the thickest part of the leftfield bleacher crowd. Everybody was in when it came back. Barry popped and Cotter went out, third to first.

Wahl opened the ninth with a weak sort of double to right. Rochford singled to center, and Wahl kept on coming. Wally Cosgrave closed on the ball in center like a streak and slammed it to the home with a steely wing; exit Joe. McCormick died out to left. Things were looking thus comfortable when the pesky Mallen welted one to Dalton. The Kid could have had Rochford on second, but made to first, a mile wide of Driscoll's clutch. Rochford registered and Mallen went to third. Barry brought him in with a rightfield whizzer. Cotter died, second to first.

Things opened well for us in the winding up. Dave placed one in center, and Jack neatly dittoed in left. To feed further the excitement of a hopeful populace they executed a brilliant dual pilfer. Smith delivered a left field fly and Dave beat the throw home with a soft sprint. Kiernan pushed Jack to third with a welt to first, but McCormick shut the fireworks off with a red hot stop of a sizzling grounder from Wally's bat that looked like a sure thing hit.

| PLAINFIELD. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss | 1 | 2 | 2 | 2 | 1 |
| Cosgrave, cf | 0 | 0 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Dalton, 2b | 0 | 2 | 5 | 1 | 1 |
| Connolly, rf | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 0 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 1 | 2 | 8 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 0 | 3 | 6 | 1 | 0 |
| Smith, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals | 2 | 12 | 27 | 9 | 2 |

| WESTFIELD. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bertwhistle, lf | 0 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Flynn, 2b | 0 | 0 | 4 | 2 | 0 |
| Wahl, 1b | 1 | 1 | 6 | 0 | 1 |
| Rochford, rf | 1 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| McCormick, ss | 1 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Mallen, cf | 2 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Barry, 3b | 0 | 2 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| Cotter, c | 0 | 1 | 8 | 1 | 0 |
| Wallgy, p | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Totals | 4 | 7 | 27 | 8 | 1 |

Plainfield ..1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2
Westfield ..0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 2—4

Earned runs—Kiernan, Driscoll. First base on errors—Mallen, 2. Left on bases—Plainfield, 9; Westfield, 4. Struck out—By Smith, 5; by Waller, 5. First base on balls—Off Smith, 2; off Waller, 1. Two-base hits—Dalton, McCormick, Wahl. Sacrifice hits—Cosgrave, Leonard. Stolen bases—Connolly, Cregan, Driscoll, O'Neill, Barry, Cotter. Double plays—Kiernan to Dalton. Time—1 hour and 50 minutes. Attendance—1,500. Umpires—Merrity and Henning.

EGGS FOR "NAN PATTERSON."

Manager of Show Caused Riot by Presenting Another Woman.

"Nan Patterson" was billed to appear at Freehold Thursday night at the head of a vaudeville troupe, consisting of eleven persons. There was a big audience in the theatre when the curtain was rung up, all anxious to get a glimpse of the woman accused of the murder of Caesar Young.

As the show progressed and "Nan" did not appear, Caesar Young became restless and unruly. There were repeated calls for "Nan Patterson" from them. Finally, the manager introduced a woman he said was "Nan Patterson," but the audience hissed him, and there was a shower of eggs for the woman.

The persons in the audience knew what the real "Nan" looked like from pictures of her published in the newspapers. The shower of eggs broke up the show, and although the police force called in, they were powerless to quell the disturbance. More eggs were thrown at members of the company when they came out of the theatre to go to their hotels.

Her Father Dead.

E. J. Hemming, the father of Mrs. Charles H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, died on Saturday at his home in Knowlton, Quebec, Canada, after a week's illness. He was seventy-six years old.

ARCANUMITES ORGANIZE

Thirty Councils Of New Jersey In Revolt Elect Independent Officers.

CHOOSES NEW NAME

To Discard Title of Royal Arcanum for Association of the State of New Jersey.

Thirty councils of the Royal Arcanum, representating, it is asserted, two-thirds of the entire membership of that order in New Jersey, have combined, through their representatives, to enter a new protest against the rate schedule recently adopted by the Supreme Council, in respect to the benefit funds of the order.

At a meeting held at Sunset Hall, Newark, Saturday night, more than 125 delegates of local councils of various sections of the State agreed to combat, with similar organizations in other States, the decree of the Supreme Council.

Through some oversight neither Plainfield Council, No. 711, nor Greenbrook Council, was invited to attend the session. Consequently there were no delegates from here. A prominent member of the order in this city said after that Plainfield would gladly have joined forces with those in revolt had it been invited to do so.

Within a week after the new rates were announced by the Supreme body of the Arcanum, Plainfield Council made formal protest. A suggestion offered by Treasurer Daniel W. Littell against the new rates was unanimously approved. This was the first protest in this State against the decree of things.

It was charged at this meeting that many more local bodies would have been represented if the circular that had been issued at the direction of the Nutley conference, several weeks ago, had been permitted to come up for discussion at council meetings. It was intimated that hostile officials of some of the councils had refused to bring the conference appeal be*fore their respective bodies.*

The object of the meeting was to effect a permanent organization of representatives of the New Jersey councils that are opposed to the new rates, and who favor either a restoration of the old rates or a modifica*tion of the tables recently adopted,* so that they may be made more favorable for the old members of the order. Newark, Jersey City, Bayonne, Hoboken, Paterson, Elizabeth, Trenton and other important centers of the States were represented.

A constitution and by-laws were adopted, and these officers chosen:

President, David T. Howell, of Newark; first vice-president, H. W. Van Benthuysen, Paterson; second vice-president, Charles Miller, Hoboken; secretary, W. H. Labah, Jersey City; corresponding secretary, Charles Armstrong, Nutley; treasurer, J. E. Nolte, Jersey City.

The committee of fifteen named at the Nutley conference in July was continued as the executive committee of the organization, and because it was not permissable to use the name of the Royal Arcanum without the consent of the Grand Council, it was decided to name the organization the Association of the State of New Jersey.

It was reported that similar organizations had been formed for the purpose of fighting the new rates in the States of New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Rhode Island, Michigan and several others. The representatives of these States are to meet tomorrow morning at the Hotel Manhattan, New York, and a delegation was appointed to attend this conference. The delegation will include David T. Howell, of Newark; H. W. Van Benthuysen and John Farrell, of Paterson; J. T. Callahan, Jersey City, and James Gallagher, Hoboken.

Talk of secession from the order was strong in the conference, and a resolution was offered to the effect that if it should be the sense of the inter-State conference at Manhattan tomorrow to secede, the representatives of the New Jersey movement should pledge its support. After discussion it was concluded that the adoption of such a radical resolution would be premature, and that a wiser plan, for the present, would be to advocate the taking of legal action to enjoin the Supreme Council from enforcing the new rates.

Another meeting of the association will be held at Newark October 7.

C. N. Fowler's Son Weds.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. MacMurray, of Sandford avenue, were guests today at the wedding of Miss Mabel Barker Higgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Higgins, of Chicago, and Charles Newell Fowler, Jr., son of Congressman Charles N. Fowler, which took place at noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Waldo Burton, of Lawrence, L. I. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Burton. The guests made the trip from New York to Lawrence and return in a special car.

Kept Slot Machine.

Jules Mastodinato, an Italian, was arrested this morning by Roundsman Flynn, charged with maintaining a gambling slot machine in his store at 210 Liberty streit. He will be arraigned before Justice Mosher this afternoon.

DAABSTERS DEFEAT M'GRAW'S MIGHTY MEN

N. Y. CHAMPIONS' COLORS LOWERED BY THE HOBOKEN TEAM.

The New York champion Giants were defeated Sunday at St. George Cricket Grounds, by the Hobokens, by a score of 7 to 1. The Jerseymen made three runs in the opening inning, one of them being scored on a close decision over which the Giants kicked vigorously.

In the third inning Connolly hit safely to right. Browne went after the ball leisurely and the crowd hissed him. In the fourth, when Browne went to the bat he was hissed again. He then lost his temper and in striking at the ball hit bat slipped and flew into the diamond. Then Deegan accidentslly hit Browne with the ball and Browne in turn threw his bat at "Willie." An uproar followed, which was quickly quieted by the police.

The Giants then made a determined effort to win the game, but Deegan was in the best of form and they were only able to score one run in each inning. The Hobokens pounded Elliott for eleven hits, including two doubles and two triples, earning all of their runs. The score:

| HOBOKEN. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Kiernan, ss | 1 | 2 | 3 | 2 | 0 |
| Cosgrove, cf | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Dalton, 2b | 1 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 1 |
| Connolly, rf | 0 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 0 |
| Cregan, lf | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Leonard, 3b | 0 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Driscoll, 1b | 1 | 1 | 13 | 0 | 0 |
| O'Neill, c | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Deegan, p | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 |
| Totals | 7 | 11 | 27 | 12 | 1 |

| NEW YORK. | R. | H. | O. | A. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bresnahan, cf | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Browne, rf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| McGann, 1b | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Wiltse, 1b, rf | 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Devlin, 3b | 0 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Strang, ss | 0 | 1 | 3 | 3 | 1 |
| Bowerman, 2b | 0 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| Clarke, c | 1 | 1 | 8 | 2 | 0 |
| Taylor, lf | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Elliott, p | 0 | 2 | 0 | 1 | 1 |
| Totals | 1 | 8 | 24 | 10 | 3 |

Hoboken ...3 0 0 0 0 0 1 3 x—7
New York ..0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1

Two base hits—Cregan, Driscoll, McGann. Three base hits—Connolly, O'Neill. Struck out—By Deegan, 2; by Elliott, 5. Bases on balls—Off Deegan, 1; off Elliott, 3. Left on bases—Hoboken, 7; New York, 7. Double plays—Cosgrave and Kiernan; Connolly and Driscoll. Passed balls—O'Neill, 1; Clarke, 1. Time of game—1 hour and 45 minutes. Umpire—Mr. Merrity. Attendance —3,000.

WATCH FOR FOREMAN.

Jersey Central Engineers and Firemen Honor Head of Roundhouse.

John Krouse, of Elizabeth, was presented with a solid gold Waltham watch and chain, valued at $75, in Mai's Hall, Elizabeth, Saturday night by the engineers and firemen of the Newark and Elizabethport yards of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. There were forty-three engineers present and forty-three firemen. A delegation was present from the Raritan River Railroad Company.

Mr. Krouse has been in the service thirty-eight years. He is the foreman of the engine roundhouse at night, and because he has always shown a disposition to assist the engineers in their locomotives in good order when leaving the shops at night he has won their esteem. The presentation speech was made by Westley Alpaugh, engineer of the fastest train on the road, the Philadelphia and New York Royal Blue flier. George Rowland, of Elizabethport, also made a few remarks, as did William McCloud, who conceived the idea of the presentation to Mr. Krouse. Engineer H. W. Van Benthuysen and John Farrell, of Paterson; J. T. Callahan, Jersey City, and James Gallagher, Hoboken.

Talk of secession from the order was strong in the conference, and a resolution was offered to the effect that if it should be the sense of the inter-State conference at Manhattan tomorrow to secede, the representatives of the New Jersey movement should pledge its support. After discussion it was concluded that the adoption of such a radical resolution would be premature, and that a wiser plan, for the present, would be to advocate the taking of legal action to enjoin the Supreme Council from enforcing the new rates.

Another meeting of the association will be held at Newark October 7.

MRS. TEMPLIN BURIED.

Funeral Services Conducted by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

The funeral services of Mrs. Emily Y. Templin were held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the home of her son, Howard H. Templin, 216 East Second street. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The floral tributes were beautiful, including wreaths and cut flowers.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which Mrs. Templin was a member for several years, officiated. He read appropriate Scripture selections, and spoke at some length regarding the devoted Christian life of the departed, concluding his remarks with a fervent prayer.

The remains were taken on the 8:44 train Monday to Doylestown, Pa., for interment in the family plot.

Miss Emmons' Wedding Day.

The marriage of Miss Grace Emmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Emmons, of Jackson avenue, to Arthur Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, will be celebrated at Trinity Reformed church on Wednesday evening, October 11.

TEMPERANCE WORKER ADVISES BOYCOTT

MISS EMMA BOURNE RECOMMENDS DRASTIC MEASURES.

"Don't patronize stores where liquor is sold and buy wine, whiskey or beer to be entered on the bill as groceries or dry goods," was the advice Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark, State president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, gave to the delegates in attendance upon the annual session of the W. C. T. U. of the county in New Brunswick. Mrs. Bourne made a vigorous address, in which she paid her respects to people whose temperance is all outward show.

Mrs. William Perrine, of Cranbury, called the attention of the delegates to the experience of the Cranbury Association, when it called the attention of the judge of the county to the union's charge that two Cranbury hotels, applicants for licenses, had not the requisite number of license application signers. Mrs. Perrine declared that the judge informed the messenger that to raise the point would only delay the granting of the licenses. It would not prevent it, since the hotels had always been licensed, and as soon as applications in proper form were presented the licenses would be granted.

"What can we do under such conditions?" asked Mrs. Perrine.

"Watch and —pray," was Mrs. Bourne's reply. "That judge can't live forever."

A campaign was planned on the part of the New Brunswick delegates to put a stop to "Mrs. Bo" and her saloons, with children as the pur chasers.

THE ELIZABETH AND RARITAN.

Projected Public Service Trolley Line Results in Controversy.

The Elizabeth Board of Aldermen Friday night, after a long debate, passed in part, on its second reading, an ordinance granting the Elizabeth and Raritan River Street Railway Company, a branch of Public Service, a franchise to operate a double track electric railway along Rahway avenue, in that city, from the new county courthouse to the line of Linden township which shall pave between the tracks and three feet on each side, and sprinkle the avenue from April 15 to September 15 daily from curb to curb. Persons over ten years old shall pay five cents each from Elizabeth to any part of Linden township or borough and persons under ten years three cents. Transfers shall be given to all intersecting lines and school children given thirty-cent tickets for 1, to be good between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. The company also agrees to clean away snow and ice from its tracks.

Public Service will not agree to run cars until 2 a. m. nor to accept the franchise for a shorter period than fifty years. The aldermen want to make the franchise for thirty-five years. There will be no receding, they said, from these two stipulations. These two disputed sections were referred back to the committee on streets and parks to report at a

SUNDAY GOLF MEETS DEFEAT

(Continued From Page 1.)

the most spontaneous evinced at the meeting.

C. E. Burke shut off further debate by moving the previous question. Printed ballots were passed among the members, and the vote was taken in alphabetical order, Secretary Calkins calling the roll. Voters in the same letter were up to the ballot box together, and the balloting went on without confusion or hitch. It took the better part of an hour to receive and count the vote. Reeve Stockton and Henry McGee were the tellers.

Before the balloting commenced, Secretary Calkins presented the letter of the Ministerial Association to the club on the question, published last week, to President Mellick. The communication was out of order at the time, but on a cordially worded motion by Walter Gaston, one of the leaders in the Sunday playing movement, it was read. There was no comment.

As was expected, applause from the winners followed the announcement of the vote, but it was neither very long nor very loud.

The supporters of the amendment were comforted by the fact that they had a clear majority of votes, although short of all they needed for success. It is the first time in the four attempts to inaugurate Sunday playing that the proposition has won a majority. The vote is forty-nine in excess of the total ballots garnered for Sunday playing at the contest over it in 1903.

"If all the people in the club who favor Sunday playing had been here tonight we would have won easily," said Mr. Gaston after the meeting. "We have over 200 undoubted supporters among the members; the other side brought out practically their whole strength. Many of our missing supporters are out of town."

Voting by proxy is forbidden by the Country Club constitution.

Store to Close.

S. Scheuer & Co.'s store will be closed from 12 to 3 o'clock tomorrow owing to the death of the son of Moses Schloss, manager of the store.

SCHOOLS IN FULL SWING

Superintendent Maxson Reports To Board Of Education.

AT WORK PROMPTLY

Teachers Are Commended—Tells How Delays Are Avoided When the Schools Open in the Fall.

An adjourned session from the September meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education was held Monday night, when the chief business was that of passing upon bills and receiving Superintendent of Schools Dr. Henry M. Maxson's report for this year's enrollment of the schools. In his report Dr. Maxson said

"I wish to commend especially the promptness and good spirit with which pupils and teachers have begun the work of the year. Each year efforts are made to systematize matters so that the schools shall open in the fall with a swing and with a vim, with no loss of time or energy. The school supplies are bought in June and distributed to the various buildings. All the promotions are arranged and thep upils assigned to definite rooms in June, so that when the school opens in the fall the pupils know exactly to what rooms they are to go, and the teacher knows the names of the pupils that will belong to her.

"On the day before school opens teachers meet the principal in the building, get the supplies for their room, and make all their plans for the opening day. If anyone had stepped into the school room this year an hour after school opened he would have found the pupils studying and work going on almost as if there had been no vacation. The result is that there is no loss of time and work starts in with a vigor that adds much to the success of the pupils in their new grades."

"Marty" Made $112 at Golf.

"Marty O'Loughlin, the "pro" of the Plainfield Country Club, who made such a fine showing in the Fox Hills tournament, returned home on Saturday well pleased with his work. He has earnings of $112.50 money for the two days' tournament were $112.50. Saturday morning he was paired with Robert Abbott in the pro-amateur tournament, and they returned a score of 77.

After much persuasion Charles F. Abbott has consented to accept a renomination from the Republican City convention for membership on the Board of Education.

DIED.

SMALLEY—Suddenly at Somerville, N. J., Monday, September 11, 1905, Abram Smalley, aged 82 years.

SCHLOSS—On Tuesday, Sept. 19, 1905, Alvin, only son of Moses and Minnie Schloss, aged 1 year, 6 month, 29 days.

VAN ORDEN—On Tuesday, September 19, 1905, Harriet A. Van Orden, aged 61 years, 8 months.

BRIGHTON—In North Plainfield, September 17, 1905, Joy, daughter of Charles and the late Emma Brighton, aged 8 years.

TEMPLIN—On Friday, September 15, 1905, Emily, widow of Hiram W. Templin, in her 74th year.

Wanted Summer Board

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Free Information Bureau, for which purpose a printed blank is provided. The service of the Information Bureau

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands pre-eminently at the head.

An advertisement in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the Eagle Information Bureau is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank, picture of Bureau and Advertising Rate Card. Address

Information Bureau

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer,

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies 141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Workers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary

$900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid for advancement. Old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position; liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master in Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Ave

Plainfield, N. J

MINISTERS JOIN FORCES AGAINST SUNDAY GOLF

In Open Letter To Country Club They Say It Would Be "a Blow To Good Morals."

A STRONG PROTEST

Clergy Declare "Step Would Weaken Their Hands"—Club to Act on Tuesday.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association has taken a stand against Sunday golf. At a meeting Friday at the Y. M. C. A., attended by a large number of the clergy, an open letter was addressed to the Plainfield Country Club, asking that body of representative citizens not to make any amendment to its constitution which will allow play on its links on Sunday.

In all the churches tomorrow the pastors will refer to the contemplated action and will tell their congregations why Sunday golf will have an evil effect. The letter follows:

To the Plainfield Country Club:

The undersigned pastors and other Christian ministers of Plainfield assembled this evening, appeal to their friends, the members of the Country Club, to hold unchanged the present constitution of the club, so far as relates to the use of the links and the club house on Sunday.

We do not fassume to be better citizens or better Christians than those who advocate the proposed change, but we cannot help feeling that the contemplated action, if taken, will be a blow to religion and good morals (far from the thought and purpose of the movers) from which Plainfield will not recover. We urge no personal convictions as to whether this or that form of amusement or bodily exercise on Sunday is or is not a violation of Divine commandment; but we are profoundly convinced that the consequences cannot but be vastly evil, if a large body of prominent citizens deliberately resolve to provide for any use of the Lord's Day which must tend to make it less esteemed as a day of worship and sacred rest. Whatever may have been and may continue to be the individual views and practise of its members, the club in its organic character has hitherto stood for Sabbath observance. We pray you, let not the tremendous weight of your concerted action now be thrown on the other side.

As your servants in religious word and work, we feel that we may appeal to you to take not a step which we believe will sadly weaken our hands. Give still to your ministers, to Sunday school teachers, to Christian parents, the help of your powerful influence against the rising tide of evil which already taxes the strength of the church as never before.

We recognize the caution with which you propose to proceed. We believe that you sincerely intend to guard against wild license of indulgences in the use of the liberty which you claim in the Sunday opening of the club house and grounds. But it remains true that the amendments, if adopted, will constitute a complete change of front on the subject involved, and will transfer the great force of your conspicuous example from the side of defence to the side of assault.

We shall be most glad and thankful if your consideration for the conscientious scruples and deep anxieties of multitudes of your fellow citizens may cause you to stand as you have stood in the past—to maintain as a club "the hedge" of the Lord's Day unbroken.

C. L. GOODRICH,
C. E. HERRING,
EDWARD LOVE,
J. O. M'KELVEY,
GEORGE MOONEY,
E. M. RODMAN,
CORNELIUS SCHENCK,
A. C. M'CREA,
GEORGE H. WHITNEY,
R. VICARS STEVENSON,
J. S. KELLER,
A. E. FINN,
J. A. CHAMBLISS,
C. W. PARSONS,
L. R. HOWARD.

Plainfield, Sept. 15, 1905.

Baptists' State Convention.

Preparations have been begun for the annual Baptist State Convention to be held in Elizabeth in October. It is announced that 250 or 300 delegates will attend, coming from various parts of the State. This will be the first time in the history of the Baptist denomination its State convention has been held in Elizabeth, and a generous welcome will be extended.

G. S. Clay's Purchase.

George S. Clay of East Seventh street, has purchased the property on East Sixth street occupied for several years by Frank Shattle, and he has plans underway for extensive improvements. Alex Kane has purchased the barn on the property from Mr. Clay.

SEASON OF MISSIONS FOR BAPTIST WOMEN

PARK AVENUE CHURCH ANNOUNCES PROGRAMME.

The members of the Woman's Missionary Societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church have arranged an interesting programme of events to be held during the coming year at their various homes. The Foreign Missionary Society will take up the study of "Africa." On October 13 there will be held the semi-annual meeting of the Eastern Association, and commencing November 7 there will be a study of missions in Africa. The subject will be "Geography of Africa," and Mrs. A. E. Finn and Mrs. Thomas A. Cuming will be in charge.

The other subjects, leaders and dates for meetings are as follows:

December 5, "History of Africa," Mrs. C. K. Compton and Mrs. J. C. Morrison; January 2, "Peoples and Religions," Mrs. C. W. Tennant and Mrs. James Laruel; February 6, "Condition of Women," Mrs. Nelson Runyon and Mrs. Von Brakle; March 13, annual meeting; April 3, "Christian Missions," Mrs. J. Wesley Johnson and Mrs. Harry Johnson; May 1, "Slavery and the Liquor Traffic," Mrs. Wyckoff and Mrs. Frederick Dorman; June 5, "Medical Missions," Mrs. Harry Moore and Mrs. Shreve.

The Home Missionary Society has also arranged a programme of meetings for the study of home missions, and they will be held at the homes of the leaders as follows:

September 19, rally and roll call, Mrs. Charles Dayton; October 17, sewing meeting, Mrs. Charles Dayton and Mrs. Udell; November 21, "Settlement Work," Mrs. Walter Freeman and Mrs. Charles Stower; December 19, "Hawaiian Islands," Mrs. Wheaton Lowry and Mrs. Chamberlain; January 16, "Training School in Chicago," Mrs. George E. Hall and Mrs. Peter Wyckoff; February 20, "Rescue Work Among the Indians," Mrs. S. Arthur Krom and Mrs. G. W. V. Moy; March 13, annual meeting; April 17, "Foreigners Within Our Gates," Mrs. Frank T. Ostrom and Mrs. A. D. Thompson; May 15, "Philippine Islands," Mrs. John H. Doane and Mrs. Harry Runyon; June 19, Missionary tea.

EXPLOSION'S VICTIM DIES FROM INJURIES

LINCOLN GILES SUCCUMBS TO TERRIBLE WOUNDS.

Lincoln Giles, of 242 East Second street, died at Muhlenberg Hospital this morning as the result of injuries received in an explosion of gas in the cellar of Patrick Trainor's grocery store, Westfield, Tuesday night, September 5. His death was unexpected as he was believed to be steadily improving. During Friday he had a turn for the worse and he passed away at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

The injured man had been employed as a clerk at Trainor's store and the night of the explosion he went to the cellar to get a tub of butter. He struck a light while still on the stairway and the explosion followed immediately. The side wall appeared to have been holding the gas as it escaped from a pipe and one section of it was demolished, causing a loss of $6,000.

Mr. Giles was born in New Market and was about forty years old. At one time he was in the milk business at Bound Brook. Afterward he moved here and at various times engaged in the bakery business on Park avenue, and in the West End. He also clerked for James Love, the West Front street grocer, and for three years run a bakery wagon for W. W. Warnock.

Mr. Giles is survived by a wife and three children.

Hot After Reynolds.

The police are making a determined effort to run down John Reynolds, the young man who disappeared from the East Fifth street boarding house Thursday evening with $200 worth of his fellow boarders' jewelry. Postal cards describing the stolen stuff will be sent to police departments and pawnshops all over this section. Advances made on the stolen stuff will be repaid.

Sportsmen Protect Game and Fish.

Game Warden G. M. Hawkins, of Elizabeth, is sending out from yesterday calling on friends, and incidentally left copies of the fish and game laws for 1905. Mr. Hawkins says that he finds very few violations of the laws, a majority of the fishermen and hunters being anxious to assist by them and thus help to preserve the sport.

Lectured on "Snakes."

Waldron Miller, of this city, who is engaged in the Natural History Museum in New York, gave an instructive lecture on "Snakes" to the pupils of the Willow Grove school on Wednesday.

WOODS ON PEACE UNION

Fourth District Congressman Tells Of Work Abroad.

IMPORTANT DUTIES

Proposition Made by American Delegates — Roosevelt's Name Applauded.

Congressman Ira W. Wood, of the Fourth New Jersey District, embracing Somerset, Warren and Mercer counties, who has been attending the Interparliamentary Peace Union, which has just closed its sessions at Brussels, tells in a letter of the work of the conference and the reception accorded the delegates. The Interparliamentary Peace Congress was an enthusiastic body. There were 180 delegates present. Every country of Europe, with the exception of Russia and Turkey, was represented. There were also present for the first time delegates from some of the South American republics. The American delegation included nineteen Congressmen—the largest representation that has ever come from the United States to any of the thirteen meetings of the Peace Union that have been held.

The sessions of the congress were held in the chamber of deputies of the Palais de la Nation, the legislative halls of the kingdom of Belgium. The entrances and corridors were tastefully decorated with palms and flowers in honor of the occasion, and all parts of the spacious and luxuriously furnished capitol were placed at the disposal of the congress. The deliberations of the congress covered two days, with morning and afternoon sessions each day. The proceedings of the conference were for the most part in the French language, but some of the more important resolutions and propositions were translated into English for the benefit of the American and English delegations.

The main business of the congress was the consideration of the two propositions submitted by the American group. One of these propositions related to the subject of general arbitration treaties for the settlement of international disputes and embraced a rough draft of such a treaty which had been prepared by President Bartholdt. The other proposition contemplated the establishment of an international congress, to be held periodically for the consideration of all international questions, and the formation of a system of international law which should be binding upon all the nations represented and for the enforcement of which the armed forces of all the signatory powers should be available.

The proposition developed that their congress consist of a senate, in which each nation should be represented by two members, and a chamber of deputies, in which the representation should be proportionate to the number of foreign commerce of the various nations interested. Both of these propositions were referred by a vote of the conference to a special commission to be appointed by the council, with instructions to report upon the same within three months.

It is somewhat remarkable and significant of the trend of public opinion in these modern times that these propositions of such a radical character and that might well be regarded in many quarters as revolutionary, should have received the formal consideration and action that were accorded them. Numerous receptions and excursions were given to the delegates and their families.

The name of President Roosevelt, whenever mentioned, was received with great enthusiasm. The role that he has played as peacemaker in the Japanese and Russian negotiations has not only centered upon him the attention of the world, but has made him one of the world's heroes.

The next meeting of the congress will be held at London in 1907.

Miss Elizabeth Long Weds.

A number of Plainfielders attended the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Long, of Somerville, a niece of Dr. M. B. Long, and Harry Sampson Crouch, of New Brunswick, in the marine room of the Hotel Astor, Thursday. Rev. A. B. Sears, pastor of the Livingston Avenue Baptist church, New Brunswick, performed the ceremony. Miss Clara Long, daughter of Dr. Long, was bridesmaid. The bride is well known here. Mr. and Mrs. Crouch will spend their honeymoon in Old Point Comfort. They will live in New Brunswick.

State Liquor Dealers.

The New Jersey State Liquor Dealers' Association at its annual convention held at Paterson elected these officers: President, Thomas C. Hayes, Newark; vice president, George F. Carroll, Elizabeth; second vice president, Henry D. Reaves, Passaic; secretary, William J. Burke, Orange; financial secretary, Albert Cast, Hoboken; treasurer, C. C. Engle, Trenton; sergeant-at-arms, Robert Mulligan, Bayonne.

Miss Gertrude Huber Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Gertrude Huber, of the New Madison, to Arthur Sanborn, of Cortlandt, N. Y. Miss Huber is a teacher in the Franklin School. Her home is in Van Etten, N. Y.

Fairy Tales for Children, Part I.

Aesop—Fables.

Andersen, Hans Christian—Stories and fairy tales.

"It is out of the question to criticise Hans Christian Andersen—is he not the personal friend of the children of the world?"

Asbjornsen, P. C.—Fairy tales from the far North.

"In Asbjornsen's tales the English reader will find in its quintessence the genius and temper of the Norwegian peasant."

Aulnoy, M. C.—Fairy tales.

"The spirit of the stories is essentially characteristic, as we read them we seem to move and live inside a Watteau picture."

Bain, R. N., comp.—Cossack fairy tales and folk-tales.

Bain, R. N., comp.—Russian fairy tales, from the Skazki of Pelefef.

"Russian folk-tales worked over into fairy tales."

Bain, R. N., comp.—Turkish fairy tales and folk-tales.

Baldwin, James.—Story of the golden age.

"Grecian myths and legends charmingly remolded and woven into a continuous story with the life of Ulysses for the main thread."

Baldwin, James.—Story of Roland.

"The legends of Charlemagne become under Mr. Baldwin's magic touch a fairy tale of romance and chivalry."

Baldwin, James.—Story of Siegfried.

"Mr. Baldwin has given to the Siegfried and other myths the attractive weirdness of the northern light."

Carryl, C. E.—Admiral's caravan.

"Fantastic stories of wooden images and Noah's ark animals come to life in Wonderland."

Carryl, C. E.—Davy and the goblin; or, what followed reading Alice's adventures in Wonderland.

Craik, Mrs. D. M. M.—Fairy book; the best popular fairy stories selected and rendered anew.

Dodgson, C. L. (Lewis Carroll.)—Alice's adventures in Wonderland.

"The most delightful o fall nonsense books and one that has already become a classic. Every child should know it by 'hear.'"

Dodgson, C. L. (Lewis Carroll.)—Through the looking glass, and what Alice found there.

Gibbon, J. M. and Canton, W.—True annals of fairy land.

Grimm and Cole King Cole and the Reign of King Herla.

Griffis, W. E.—Japanese fairy world; stories from the wonder-lore of Japan.

"Told in a simple manner fit for children."

Grimm, J. L. and W. K.—Fairy tales.

"The brothers Grimm, the famous folk-lorists and philologists have given to two generations of children a endless variety of German fireside tales."

Harrison, Mrs. C. C.—Old fashioned fairy book.

Hauff, William. —Fairy tales, from the German.

"A wonderful store of childlike fancy, half dream and half grave truth, delights us in Hauff."

Hawthorne, Nathaniel.—Tanglewood tales for girls and boys; being a second Wonder-book.

Hawthorne, Nathaniel.—Wonder-book for girls and boys.

"No praise can be too high for the purely classical, and simple joyous style in which these old Greek myths are retold."

Two Weeks to Move It.

Harry Johns and Mobus Brothers, building movers, have successfully completed the work of moving C. W. Mordhorst's new building from Park avenue to the lot on West Second street, adjoining the New Plainfield theatre. It required just two weeks for the work and not a single accident occurred during that time. There were considerable expressed as to whether the building could be safely taken that distance, owing to the fact that it is such an old structure. However, the contractors braced the building at the top and bottom and middle and took no chances. As a result of the successful effort, several persons have won wagers made that the building could be moved without falling apart.

Serve for the Honor.

Plainfield is one of the eleven cities where the members of the Board of Aldermen serve without salary. East Orange, which is about the same size as this city, paid $5,690 in salaries to its aldermen last year, the members being paid at the rate of $2 for every board or committee meeting they attend. Now East Orange is considering an ordinance to allow its aldermen on the salary basis, as they do in this city, paying them $300 a year. We pay $200 a year.—New Brunswick Home News.

Attachments Issued.

N. Douglass Drake, counsel for Marchant Brothers, milk dealers, secured a writ of attachment in Justice Mosher's court yesterday on goods belonging to Mrs. William Thiers, of West Seventh street, and Constable Peter W. Weaver served the papers. The action was taken to recover a milk bill of $29.76. Justice Nash also issued another attachment yesterday on the same goods for W. W. Warnock, the baker, who seeks to recover $25 for bread, pastry, etc. Y. W. Nash, jr., represents Mr. Warnock.

TWO WIVES WANT ESTATE

Contest In Orphans' Court Exposes Millstone Man's Infidelity.

WHITMORE MUCH WED

Wife No. 1 Died and Now Father and Brother of Testator Fight Wife No. 2 for His Property.

A remarkable case of conjugal infidelity was exposed in the Somerset County Orphans' Court at Somerville Friday. Stephen W. Whitmore, a well-to-do farmer, died at his home at Millstone about six months ago. He resided with a woman who supposed herself to be his wife. Her maiden name was Bona Koch. After his death she appeared before the Surrogate, claiming the right of administrator on Whitmore's estate.

The father and a brother of the dead man alleged that he was married to another woman at the time he wed Bona and that she was not his widow. Then they claimed they were entitled to the letters of administration. A hearing was given in the Orphans' Court at Somerville yesterday.

The evidence showed that the deceased was married in 1889 to a woman by the name of Hattie C. Green, at Middletown, N. Y. Several years later he married Bona Koch. Hattie C. Green, wife No. 1, died in Philadelphia about eight months after his last marriage.

At the time of her death Hattie Green, wife No. 1, was passing as the wife of another man, and was living with him in Philadelphia. There was other evidence of a spicy nature, indicating, it is said, that Whitmore was a pattern after Hoch, of Chicago, who had forty wives, and, it is said, that Bona Koch was one of Whitmore's innocent victims.

Whitmore's brother was present at his marriage to Bona Koch and, it is alleged, said nothing about the former wedding.

Next Friday the lawyers in the case will argue the matter and Judge Schenck will render his decision as to who is entitled to letters of administration.

H. J. COCHRAN WINS TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

HE DEFEATS GLENNEY AND BROWN IN SEMI-FINAL PLAY.

H. J. Cochran is now the holder of the title of tennis champion of the Plainfield Country Club, winning the honors Saturday in the final play with Wylie Brown, whom he defeated 6—2, 7—5, 6—3. He also won a handsome cut glass cigar jar with a silver top, offered by the president of the club, George P. Mellick.

During the week one remaining match in the second round was played, when Wylie Brown beat Howard Carter, 6—2, 3—6, 6—4. This brought Brown into the finals, as Cochran beat W. T. Glenny on Saturday, 6—7, 7—5, 6—3. Then Cochran beat Brown, 6—2, 7—5, 6—3, winning the championship.

This is an annual event at the club and has always attracted considerable interest, not only among tennis players, but others as well. The winners of the title since 1900 are as follows: 1900 Kenneth Bulkley; 1901, T. M. Day, Jr.; 1902, Kenneth Bulkley; 1903, H. Duncan Bulkley; 1904, Frederick W. Goddard; 1905, Henry J. Cochran.

"Young Couple" Footed 154 Years.

Rev. J. F. Shaw, pastor of the First Met. odist church, New Brunswick, was called to his study Wednesday night by a servant, who told him a "young couple" wished to be married. Dr. Shaw found the party awaiting him to be John Hobens, of Woodbridge, and Mrs. Sarah Dickerson, of Oak Tree, near Metuchen. They had come to New Brunswick by trolley. By no streich of imagination could they be called a young couple, for Treen is seventy-eight and Mrs. Dickerson seventy-six. Both have been married before, and they were attracted by the sympathy growing out of similar bereavement. Treen is fairly well off. The couple were in festal array and the ceremony was performed at once, Dr. Shaw omitting the usual question as to age and consent of parents. Mrs. Shaw and Loren Holdridge, of Los. Angeles, Cal., guests at the parsonage, acted as witnesses.

Schepflin Block Plans.

Emanuel Schloss, owner of the building at West Front and Grove streets, formerly known as the Schepflin block, is making extensive improvements to the structure. He is turning the second floor into modern flats, which will have every improvement. The entrance to the apartments will be on Grove and Front streets. An entirely new heating plant is also being installed.

Dinner to Club.

Theodore Gavett, of Third place, entertained the Sagamore Club at dinner Thursday night. Covers were laid for twelve.

FARMER FIGHTS OFF TWO BOLD ROBBERS

KNOCKS ONE HIGHWAYMAN SENSELESS AND ESCAPES FROM THE OTHER.

John Barrett, a farmer of New Germantown, while driving along the turnpike road between Bound Brook and Somerville last Wednesday night, was held up by two men who attempted to rob him. Barrett, however, had a large hickory club in the bottom of his wagon. He beat off the highwaymen as they attempted to climb into his wagon. The farmer could not recognize the men, who wore masks over their faces. One of them, he says, he knocked senseless into the road.

Seeing his companion fall, the other man, who had been trying to catch hold of the horse's bridle, discharged a pistol and ran into a clump of bushes by the raodside. Fearing that the two robbers had confederates nearby, Barrett whipped up his team and drove into town with the horses in a white heat. Some men about the hotel offered to go back and look for the thugs, but Barrett said he could not do so. He had to be in New York early this morning.

He said the man he knocked off the team with the club was probably badly injured. Barrett is a peach grower, who drives to Newark and New Brunswick almost every night with a load of peaches. It is thought the men who attempted to hold him up last night were from Bound Brook and have been watching the farmer pass through this section nightly.

CHURCH SOCIETY ACTIVE.

Warren Chapel Ladies' Aid Holds First Fall Meeting.

The first fall meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel was held Friday afternoon with forty members present. Plans for the coming season were discussed. It was decided to prepare a Christmas box for colored ministers in Pennsylvania, and to that end sewing meetings will be held at the chapel every Wednesday afternoon to make articles for the box. It was also decided to hold an all-day sewing meeting and luncheon on Wednesday, October 4.

Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett was in charge of the devotional services yesterday. The subject was Japan, and two papers were presented, one by Mrs. J. O. M'Kelvey, on "The Religion of Japan," and another short paper by Mrs. William Demarest. Refreshments were served after the meeting and a social time enjoyed.

Rebuilding Paxinosa Inn.

The work of rebuilding the hotel at Paxinosa, on the mountains near Easton, Pa., is now under way. The hotel was destroyed by fire early in the season.

DEVELOPERS ON THE STAGE

"Meet Me At St. Louis," Sang He And Jeanette Did So.

NUPTIAL KNOT TIED

Parents of Eloping Couple Will Bestow the Blessing—"We're Happy," Write Eloping Couple.

"Meet me at St. Louis, meet me at the fair," sang pretty Jeannette Seaman, who is well known here, as she went about her home, on Suydam street, New Brunswick, where she lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Seaman. True, there was so fair now at St. Louis, but the young woman had received a letter from an absent lover and he wrote asking her to "meet him at St. Louis." That she did meet him has just been revealed in a letter that was discovered in her bedroom by her mother several days after she had suddenly disappeared. The news has lately come to her parents, too, that the young woman is now the bride of the young man, George Bullock, a former resident of New Brunswick.

There were few prettier young girls than Jeannette Seaman. There were still fewer who had greater talent for elocution and amateur theatricals. For several seasons her services were in demand in nearly every amateur production that was given in New Brunswick. The same was true of George Bullock, a promising young man, who, until three months ago, lived in New Brunswick with his parents. Then they went West and he accompanied them.

While the young folks were busy with their amateur productions they found time to fall in love, and they did so with all the ardor of youth. The young woman is hardly seventeen, and the young man has recently celebrated his twenty-first birthday. He corresponded with Jeannette regularly and finally prevailed upon her to come to St. Louis to meet him to be married. The letter giving her the directions, and stating that $40 was enclosed for carfare, was found after the departure of the girl.

The parents of the girl were opposed to the idea of her marriage, principally on account of her youth. This was also true of his parents. They thought that the absence would prove a cure to the love of the young folks, but it was ineffective. When Jeannette met George they immediately sought out a complacent preacher and the nuptial knot was soon tied.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullock are now traveling with a theatrical company with which they both have an engagement for the winter season.

The parents of the young woman, though regretting her haste in getting married, are disposed to make the best of it, and they will bestow the usual parental blessing the next time they have an opportunity, which will be some day when the company stops in New Brunswick on a "one night stand." Meanwhile the bride and bridegroom sent word they are both happy and enjoying themselves.

MISSION STUDY MEETING.

Conferences Only for Training Classes.

Those in charge of the training classes for Bible study at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church want to correct the impression that the meetings to be held and addressed by Don O. Shelton and Rev. Mr. Diefendorfer are open to the public. They are only for class leaders, and both men will endeavor to teach them the use of text books for the study of missions.

Mr. Shelton will talk on home missions on Tuesday night, September 26, and Mr. Diefendorfer will talk on foreign missions on Thursday night, October 5, instead of the 6th, as previously announced. The illustrated lecture to be given at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Friday night, October 13, by Mr. Vickery, will be open to the public.

Mr. Diefendorfer's class will meet at the Y. M. C. A.

Hunting Holdup Tramp.

Investigation of Leo Leek's story of a bold holdup on South avenue, in Fanwood, Thursday afternoon, has convinced the police that he had told the truth. It was not believed probable at first that a tramp would stop the boy where he did in broad daylight, but corroborative facts have been found to support the story. A tramp answering Leek's description of the thief was seen in several places along the Central Railroad, and the officers are on his trail. Although the city police have nothing officially to do with the crime, Acting-Chief Frederickson is hunting the man down.

Barn Destroyed by Fire.

Frank Young's barn at Murray Hill, occupied by John Lovejoy, who kept his horses, harness, wagon and hay there, was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon, causing a loss of $200. The cause of the fire is a mystery. There was no insurance. The neighbors did all in their power to help Mr. Lovejoy, but the barn and contents were destroyed before the flames could be gotten under control.

BRIDE AT SEVENTY-TWO

Mrs. Anna Dobbing Weds Constable Robert Walpole Who is Seventy-three.

SURPRISE FOR PLAINS

Ceremony Suddenly Decided On At Golden Wedding Anniversary of Bride's Sister In Kearny.

Constable Robert Walpole one of Scotch Plains' best known old residenters, and Mrs. Ann Dobbing, of the same place, were married Wednesday night in Kearny. The wedding took place without the knowledge of their relatives or friends at home. The groom is seventy-three and the bride is seventy-two.

Mr. and Mrs. Walpole were regarded as an engaged couple by their families, but it was not expected that the ceremony would be performed without preparations for a big home celebration, with all the features that belong to a nuptial occasion. Mr. Walpole says he didn't have any idea of getting married when he went to Newark, but was led to do it by joking friends.

Mr. Walpole and Mrs. Dobbing went to Newark to attend the golden wedding anniversary of the latter's sister, Mrs. Isaac Oliver. Mrs. Dobbing was bridesmaid at the Oliver wedding a half century ago. The guests at the celebration knew this and that Mrs. Dobbing was engaged to Mr. Walpole. One of the women suggested that it would be too delightfully romantic for anything to have the bridesmaid marry right there, and the idea was hailed with enthusiasm by the rest of the gathering.

Mrs. Dobbing blushingly consented after Mr. Walpole, who is a veteran soldier as well as an officer, stoutly declared he was ready at any time. Rev. William J. Tilly, of Harrison, who was present, performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Walpole returned to Scotch Plains Thursday morning and announced the marriage. Their relatives and the townspeople were amazed but congratulatory. Mr. Walpole is one of the village's most popular citizens, among the young people as well as the older ones, and the event created more talk than anything that has happened in the neighborhood for years.

The bride and groom were serenaded by their friends Thursday. A drum corps and various instruments were used to swell the volume of noise. Mr. and Mrs. Walpole took the serenade good naturedly.

They will reside at the bride's home on Front street. Both of them have lived in Scotch Plains many years and are known to a good many people in this vicinity. The groom is very well known in Plainfield. He served all through the Civil War, and is one of the sheriff's constables at the county court.

THEY GET A CARLOAD OF LUMBER FOR NOTHING

CHARLES HAND AND J. P. HOMAN WIN ACTION BROUGHT BY DEALER.

By a verdict rendered in the Dising of the directors Friday. He Charles H. Hand and J. P. Homan were relieved of the necessity of paying for a carload of lumber used in erecting the new row of buildings at Watchung avenue and Second street. In effect, the result of the suit compels Mason M. Smith, a lumber dealer of North Tonawanda, N. Y., to bear the loss of the carload because his stenographer made a mistake in inditing his acceptance of the Hand and Homan order.

The Plainfielders ordered three carloads of lumber; this was in October, 1904. A short time afterward two cars were delivered. One of them was invoiced according to the order, but the other was not. Through the stenographer's mistake this car was listed as so many pieces instead of feet. Hand and Homan accepted the one carload, but refused the other. They used the accepted load, and Smith brought suit.

Isaac P. Runyon, counsel for the defendants, asked for a jury, an unusual thing in the District Court, and the case went to trial yesterday. Mr. Runyon contended that the shipper could not collect on a contract that was only partly fulfilled. This contention was upheld by the court, who instructed the jury accordingly. The verdict, which was arrived at in a comparatively short time, was no cause of action, a complete victory for the defendants.

The original contract was for $535. The invoice sent out by Smith called for more lumber than the order cited. Although Hand and Homan got a carload for nothing, they really lost on the transaction, because the lumber they were compelled to purchase in order to fill out the necessary amount made the total cost more than that figured on in the first place.

---

John Fritts, of West Fifth street, spent yesterday in Philadelphia.

The members of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., will visit the Elizabethport Lodge, tonight.

LITERARY.

The October Century, which will be issued on the one hundred and twenty-sixth anniversary of the battle of the Serapis and the Bonhomme Richard, will contain the first detailed and authoritative account ever published of the recovery of the body of John Paul Jones, written by General Horace Porter, LL. D. It is to the unselfish zeal and patriotism of General Porter that the United States owes the recovery of the remains of its first naval hero. While ambassador to France, General Porter, on his on initiative and at his own expense, began a personal search for John Paul Jones' body, in June, 1899. The details of this search, its final success, the rigorous verification of identity, are all covered in General Porter's story, which is to be fully illustrated from photographs.

---

It is seldom that a single number of the magazine contains so much material likely to arouse discussion and lead to conclusions of importance as the September number of the Atlantic. President H. S. Pritchett considers the momentous question which is now so much discussed in academic centers, "Shall the University Become a Business Corporation?" W. S. Rossiter, of the Census Bureau, discusses "The Problem of Federal Printing," pointing out the conspicuous costliness and waste of the printing that is now done by the government, with some brief suggestions for reform. In the first of two papers upon "President Roosevelt's Railway Policy," William Z. Ripley discusses "The Problem" with an incisiveness that should interest every American citizen. In his notable series of papers upon "The Tenth Decade of the United States," William Garrott Brown comes in the September installment to the discussion of "Lincoln's Policy of Mercy."

---

The practice of archery as a pastime has been popular in England ever since the days of its greatest glory, when Robin Hood, the bold outlaw and master bowman, and his merry clan roamed through the glades and glens of the king's woods "where the game did most abound," as freebooters and troublers of the realm. Of course archery has never flourished in modern times with that vigor which it displayed when the bow held the supremacy among weapons of warfare, but it has yet, and always will have, many ardent promoters, and when the present popular instruments or recreation are but museum relics, the twang of the bowstring and the swift flight of the feathered shaft will still possess their fascination for the human race.—Albert Rankin Clark, in Recreation for September.

---

McClure's has always something tha compels attention, something immediate and significant that is important to all Americans. The September numebr adds to an unbroken series of "McClure's Articles" an illuminating study of commercial piracy, the first half of Miss Tarbell's study of the Kansas Oil War, and an excursion into the marvels of modern biology, "Prolonging the Prime of Life," which is an authoritative account of the discoveries of a group of scientists who have determined that old age is a disease. Color printing has never achieved more perfect results than in the eight full-page reproductions of Lungren's paintings of the Grand Canon of the Colorado, which accompany William Allen White's description of the wonders "On Bright Angel Trail," a bit of descriptive writing which may well take place with the classics of our language. Eugene Wood, George Randolph Chester, Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, Jean Webster, Arthur Train and Norvell Harrison supply a round of short storias stirring, humorous, light or serious to fit every mood.

---

This story is told for the encouragement of the young. Among the thousand and one questions that United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge has been asked in regard to his book, "The Young Man and the World," which the Appletons publish this month, was the query:

"Senator, how did you learn all those things you tell young men in your book?"

The Senator's eyes twinkled. "What is the best way to learn?" he asked.

"Experience," hazarded his questioner.

"Exactly," replied the Senator.

"But, Senator, you point out all sorts of mistakes that it is wise for a young man to avoid."

"Yes?"

"How did you learn about those mistakes?"

"Well," replied the Senator thoughtfully and conservatively, "it was not by observation."

---

"To Account Conscience." This account was opened by the United States Government in 1811. It would not be fair to infer from this fact that the American conscience had its awakening at so late a date in the country's history, but that year witnessed the first return to the Government, as the result of the "still small voice," of money of which it had been defrauded some time before. President Madison found on his desk one morning an unsigned letter in which the writer confessed to defrauding the Government of two dollars, for which his conscience had made him suffer sorely. This amount was enclosed with the request that it be turned into the National Treasury, the writer expressing the hope that this full restitution and repentance would restore a clear and easy conscience. Up to date the amount received from those who have defrauded the Government and become conscience stricken is $400,000.—Lippincott's Magazine.

---

The newspaper man looms big and strong in our vigorous modern life, taking often a man's part on many fields to which duty has sent him. Not frequently, he is pictured effectively and justly in fiction by a pen that has had itst raining in actual newspaper work—the modern school of the novelist. We have a fine example of just this sort of intelligently vivid character drawing in a new story of action, "The Fortress," by a young newspaper man, Will Levington Comfort. This strong, human novel appears complete in the September issue of Lippincott's Magazine. Mr. Comfort won his spurs in the States, and when he left the office of the Pittsburg Despatch to go to Manchuria as war correspondent he was chock full of energy and bristling with experience. Of course he succeeded, and all who follow the news columns will read with fascination the spirited tale of love and war that grew out of this young reporter's dash for Port Arthur. It breathes the air of battle.

AUTOISTS PLAN NEW SPEED LAW

CONSERVATIVE DRIVERS HOPE TO PLACE DRASTIC CURB ON SCORCHERS.

Trenton, Sept. 12.—Prominent automobilists from different parts of the State will meet in a short time to plan for the enactment, by the coming Legislature, of new regulations for the governing of horseless vehicles on the public thoroughfares. The desire is to take the initiative in order to break the hostile storm which is gathering because of speed violations by reckless drivers.

It is recognized that New Jersey with her fine roads is a paradise for autoists and that it would be a decided loss to them, as well as to the State, to have the sport seriously hampered by unfriendly legislation. It is the intention, therefore, of the auto owners who are conservative in their methods of driving to place some drastic curb on those who are less considerate of the rights of the public.

It is believed, first of all, that the right plan is to insist on the licensing of all drivers, with the proviso that licenses be revoked for violations of the law. This would keep incompetent persons from obtaining them.

Governor Stokes will be invited to participate in the conference of the auto owners and the advice of prominent lawyers will be secured. It is likely that Judge Dill, of the Court of Errors and Appeals, will be asked to aid in the forming of the proposed bill.

Judge Dill is an enthusiastic autoist of the better sort. He took part in the securing last winter of restrictive legislation, at the same time helping to bring about the defeat of the legislation so radical as to almost prohibit the use of autos in the State.

Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees has this to say concerning the proposed new law:

"I am strongly in favor of restricting the right to run automobiles to persons who are competent to handle the machines and to persons who have sense enough to handle them in a careful manner. Did it ever occur to you that it requires more skill, presence of mind and watchfulness to run one of these powerful and dangerous machines than it does to run the Chicago flyer on the Pennsylvania Railroad?

"The locomotive of the flyer has simply to keep on the rails and the engineer is not compelled to dodge in and out among other vehicles, as is the driver of an auto on the public roads. And yet, what would be thought of the company that would place that or any other train in charge of any save a competent and trustworthy engineer?

"How reckless and absurd it is to allow a powerful and speedy automobile on the public highways in charge of inexperienced or incompetent persons."

Omelet Celestine.

Whip three tablespoons of quince jelly and one tablespoon of whipped cream to a froth and lightly stir in six macaroons crushed to a powder. Make a plain omelet, faintly sweetened and flavored with almond extract. Cook to the folding point, spread with the jelly mixture, fold as directed in preceding recipes and slip to a heated plate. Garnish the top with whipped cream and crystalized cherries.

Pepper Catsup.

Cut into small pieces four dozen red peppers, adding a quart each of cider vinegar and cold water, two grated roots of horse radish, six chopped onions, two tablespoons of mustard seed and one of salt. Allow the catsup to boil gently for about ten minutes and then stir in one cup of brown sugar, letting it cook for one hour longer. Thin slightly with taragon vinegar and bottle cold.

Peach Marmalade.

If you have a quantity of poor peaches among the good ones, use thes for marmalade. Cut them up, and, if ripe enough, press through a potato ricer or mash fine with a silver spoon. Add an equal amount of sugar to the pulp, the juice of one lemon, and a dozen peach kernels. Cook very slowly half an hour, stirring frequently to prevent burning.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

A kitchen table covered with zinc is a great labor saver. It is easily cleaned, and it not injured by cutting meat or vegetables, but it will last a lifetime, and, considering the labor it saves, the cost is an insignificant matter.

A candle may be made to fit any candlestick if it be dipped into very hot water. This softens the wax, and it may then be easily pushed into a candlestick which otherwise would be too small, and it will be neatly and firmly held.

If you wish to stick anything and have no glue in the house, try the following recipe: Take a small piece of cold potato which has been boiled, and rub it up and down a piece of paper with your fingers for about five minutes. It will become the right consistency, and stick as well as the strongest glue.

A few spoonsful of a borax solution added to the hot soapy water in which silver, glass and china are washed will give these articles additional luster. It may also be employed for cleaning hairbrushes in the proportion of three or four spoonfuls to a quart of water, and it should be remembered that the water for this purpose should be only tepid, and there should be sufficient to wet the bristles, but not the back of the brush. The brushes should then be rinsed well in several waters, and be finished with quite cold water.

NEED OF FRESH AIR.

Air is a life preserver. It is the particular friend of man, and he who barricades the doors and windows against this lifesaving friend gives a cordial invitation to disease and death to enter.

Open the doors and windows and let the sunshine in and let the wind blow through the rooms every morning, for they are disinfectants performing labor of a sanitary nature.

Breathe long and deep. Fill the lungs to their utmost capacity with pure air several times each day and keep the home well ventilated night and day and remember that when night comes on all the air you have in or out of the house till the next morning is "night air" and you cannot bottle day air enough within the sleeping room to last through the night, so by all means let the air circulate through the room and thus keep a fresh supply of this life-giving element constantly with you.

More fresh air is required during sleep than when awake, for increased quantities of poisonous products are given off from the lungs and skin at this time, so each respiration renders the air in an unventilated room more unfit to be breathed again.

Keep the windows sufficiently open so the fresh "night air" can come in from one side and the impure air can go out through the other.

The upper sash should be down one inch and the lower sash up one inch for each person sleeping in the room.

CUSTOM.

Custom may lead a man into many errors, but it justifies none.

Custom, though never so ancient, without truth is but an old error.

Custom is the tyranny of the lower human faculties over the higher.

It is hard to abolish a custom once introduced, however foolish or effeminate.

There is no tyrant like custom and no freedom where its edicts are not resisted.

If you are determined to live and die a slave to custom, see that it is at least a good one.

It is of great advantage when the customs of a nation are such as are likely to lead to good habits among the people.

Custom is the sovereign of mortals and of gods. With its powerful hand it regulates things the most violent.

Custom governs the world. It is the tyrant of our feelings and our manners and rules with the hand of a tyrant.

ETIQUETTE.

Invitations—Should be sent a week or more in advance of an entertainment.

The Introduction—A younger woman or a younger man is always presented to an older one.

At a Dinner—The hostess rises first; this notifies the guests that the dinner is finished.

Women Bow—As a rule when introduced to each other.

The Gentleman Rises—If seated, when introduced to either a lady or a gentleman.

A Written Reply—To the hostess is required to a written invitation to a dinner, luncheon, or card party.

First Invitation—From a new acquaintance should always, where it is possible, be accepted.

When Rising from Ttable—At a dinner, luncheon, etc., it is not necessary to replace one's chair.

At the leavetaking—It is permissible, and an act of friendship and courtesy, to shake hands with your hostess.—Exchange.

Sooty Chimney.

Residents in the vicinity of the house at 316 East Seventh street, occupied by Mrs. Lena Helstrom, saw smoke pouring out of the windows Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Helstrom was not home, and fire headquarters was telephoned that there was business for it in the house. Chief Doane hustled down with a hose company to discover that a lot of soot prevented a chimney from doing its duty.

---

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Whiton, of Central avenue, sailed on Saturday for an extended trip abroad.

LOOKS LIKE LAWRENCE

Summit Man Likely to Defeat Kirkland For Shrievalty.

PLAINFIELD'S POSITION

Elizabeth's Candidate Can't Count a Majority—Fourth Ward Here Pledged to Him.

Without Plainfield, politicians say, Robert Kirkland cannot hope to win the Republican shrievalty nomination. He has no chance of getting Plainfield's support. Consequently, it is argued that Dr. Lawrence, of Summit, will defeat the Elizabeth man at the county convention.

Andrew McCardell, leader of the Fourth ward organization, assured Kirkland some months ago that he would throw his strength his way. McCardell has the reputation of meaning what he says. Therefore, Kirkland will get nine votes from this city. On the other hand Lawrence will find eighteen votes coming his way from Plainfield. These eighteen represent the total of the First, Second and Third wards.

It can be taken for granted that unless the trick is done on the first ballot, Plainfield's solid vote, twenty-seven, will go to Lawrence. As it stands, with the Fourth ward for him, Kirkland will have about fifty-seven votes at the convention. Lawrence will have the bulk of the other seventy-three which go to make up the total for the county. Rahway has a candidate of its own, Postmaster Wright. But that is only complimentary and before the ballot is announced it will go over to the Elizabeth man.

An Elizabeth paper, which is somewhat off in its calculations, summed the situation up Thursday in this way:

"Unless some of the county delegates outside of this city come to the support of the Elizabeth candidate for sheriff, Captain Robert Kirkland's chances for the shrievalty honor will be by no means as bright as his friends present them to be. Elizabeth delegates cannot carry the convention by several votes, and from reports of other cities and the townships through the county, few Kirkland men can be found outside of this city. Here, according to the estimate of one G. O. P. politician, Kirkland has 48 delegates. If Plainfield goes solid for Lawrence, as it is believed it will, Kirkland will be beaten.

"Summit has eight delegates for Lawrence, and it is thought that Rahway, Westfield and Cranford delegates will eventually rally to Summit's side. There are 68 votes in the county convention, not including Elizabeth. With the 14 anti-Kirkland men who are reported to have been elected Tuesday from this city, it makes 82 probable votes against Kirkland's 48. Therefore, Kirkland would have to carry Westfield, Cranford, Union, Roselle and part of the scattered vote in order to win. That is considering the fact that all of Plainfield's twenty-seven votes are cast for Lawrence, as a prominent Plainfielder affirmed yesterday would be the case."

LOUIS K. HYDE HEAD OF CITY NATIONAL

CHOSEN PRESIDENT AT DIRECTORS MEETING TODAY.

Louis K. Hyde, a son of the late Charles Hyde, was elected president of the City National Bank at a meet- trict Court at Elizabeth Thursday was chosen after J. T. Closson, the vice president, declined the honor. Mr. Hyde's selection was unanimous.

The vacancy in the presidency was caused by the death of Captain J. Frank Hubbard. Out of respect to the latter's memory the election of a successor was postponed until today.

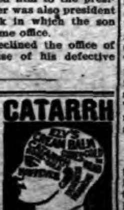
The new president is now a resident of Titusville, Pa., but he will remove here shortly. At present he is making plans to build a handsome residence near Hydewood Hall, the home of his brother, Frank DeLacey Hyde, on the mountainside.

Mr. Hyde was vice president of the Second National Bank, of Titusville, of which his father was the head. The son succeeded him to the presidency. The father was also president of the local bank in which the son now holds the same office.

Mr. Closson declined the office of president because of his defective hearing.

THIS REMEDY IS SURE TO GIVE SATISFACTION.

CATARRH



Ely's Cream Balm

Gives relief at once. It cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly. It is absorbed. Heals and protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size 50c., at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10c. by mail.

HAY FEVER

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York

ROASTS ORGANIZATION

Plainfield in Depth of Intolerant Bossism, Says Newark Evening News.

SAYS KEEP UP FIGHT

Attack on James T. MacMurray and Andrew McCardell—Lauds L. V. F. Randolph.

The Newark Evening News Thursday editorially reviewed the result of Tuesday's primaries here in this fashion:

"Plainfield has not yet had enough of bosses and bossism. On Tuesday last it repudiated reform, stamped independence under foot and bowed its neck to the yoke of the twin Republican bosses, City Clerk MacMurray and State Labor Inspector McCardell. Plainfield is not the only place that has supinely yielded to the further rule of bosses and bossism, but it is conspicuous in its self-imposed disgrace, because a reform movement was started there under auspices which gave promise of real independence and geunine reform. The people had a grand opportunity, but they do not seem to have had quite strength enough to succeed.

"A number of elements combined to bring about the defeat of the Plainfield reformers. In the first place, the bosses were thoroughly organized. They controlled a great proportion of the factory vote in the city, of which there is enough to turn the majority from Republican to Democratic, at their dictation. This latter was actually done three years ago. Between the influence of MacMurray as city clerk and McCardell in his dual capacity as State labor inspector and foreman in the great Pond Tool Works, the other citizens of Plainfield seem to have no show whatever.

"Add to this situation the further fact that the reformers of Plainfield who are in favor of honest, independent, economical local government belong almost exclusively to the commuting class; men of wealth and intelligence, but who go to New York to business every day. Almost invariably these men are defeated in any effort to effect local independence. Still further, the bosses had the saloon influence with them. Recently the Plainfield City Council, to which the reformers have been able to send some of their best men, raised the license fee to $1,000, and also passed an ordinance, over the Mayor's veto, restricting all saloons to a certain limited district within the city. City Clerk MacMurray denounced the councilmen who did this, and delared that they would never be returned to Council. The bosses are now in position to enforce this threat and to undo everything good that has been done in the past few years.

"There is not the slightest doubt that the Plainfield bosses would have forced one of their constituents on the county ticket for State Senator, but they feared the voters outside of Plainfield's limits. Their high-handed work of three years ago had not been forgotten, and while they could command their own cohorts in Plainfield, and throttle reform there, they dared not attempt it a second time in the county at large. And so Plainfield, from which much was expected at last Tuesday's primaries, has fallen back into the depths of intolerant bossism. It is in worse plight now than ever before, for its best elements have been overwhelmingly defeated by its worst, and its bosses are more defiant than ever. Nevertheless, the independent voters and property owners of Plainfield must not give up in despair. What Essex has done, Plainfield can do. The enormous power wielded by the bosses may be their undoing, and Plainfield may yet be what former Mayor Randolph and other of its best citizens would make it."

MRS. TEMPLIN DEAD.

Taken Ill Thursday With Heart Disease.

enty-four years, died at 5 Friday enty-four years, died at 5 o'clock this morning at her home on North avenue, following a short attack of heart trouble. She was taken ill yesterday, and the family physician, D. P. J. Zeglio, was summoned. She did not respond to the treatment owing to advanced age.

Mrs. Templin was born in Easton, Pa., and moved to this city ten years ago, where she continued her residence. Since coming here her husband and one son died. She was living with her daughter, Mrs. Anna Gunagan, when she died. Mrs. Templin was a member of Trinity Reformed church, being a regular attendant. She is survived by three sons, Howard B. Templin, Frank S. Templin and Herbert D. Templin, and one daughter, Mrs. Anna Gunagan, all of this city.

Partnership Formed.

E. S. Daudt, of Philadelphia, has formed a partnership with Titus H. Laury, the mason and contractor, of this city, under the firm name of Laury & Daudt. They will open a store within a short time and will also engage in the mantel business. Mr. Daudt is thoroughly experienced in the business and will add strength to the large business already built up by Mr. Laury. Mr. Daudt will reside at 94 Grove street, the borough.

ROBBER MAKES APOLOGIES

"Sorry I Got To Do This" He Wrote After Making Haul.

A TRAMP THE THIEF

Mrs. William Baker Gave Food to the Man Who Later Returned to Steal—His Description.

The house of William Baker, who lives on Park avenue, over the city line, was robbed in broad daylight Wednesday, by an ungrateful tramp. $200 worth of silver, jewelry and clothing was taken.

Mrs. Baker and her daughter were left alone in the house early Wednesday morning, Mr. Baker and his man going to New York. Not long after that Miss Baker, who was not feeling well, went back to bed. Shortly after 9 o'clock a ragged looking tramp came to the door and asked Mrs. Baker for something to eat. He acknowledged frankly that he was a rover, but said with every appearance of sincerity that he hadn't been able to get anything to eat for two days excepting some apples, and was actually suffering from semi-starvation. His face bore out his story, and Mrs. Baker's sympathies were touched.

She gave the tramp a hearty meal, which he ate ravenously. Then she put up a snack for him to take along. Just as soon as he started on his way again Mrs. Baker left the house to do some work in the barn. When she returned a half-hour later, she found drawers and closets open and their contents scattered around. Several pieces of silver, two watches, three pins, some jewelled trinklets and other small valuables, together with a pair of trousers, a tan waistcoat, a coat, a light raincoat and a small sum of money were missing.

On the dining room table cloth Mrs. Baker found this note, scrawled in big letters on a piece of her own note paper: "Am sorry I Got to do This but must Look out for Myself. The Kid is a sound Sleeper."

This last is a reference to Miss Baker. She heard no sound to disturb her slumber, although the thief rifled her room pretty thoroughly. She took a medicine in which there was a narcotic before she lay down, which accounts for her uninterrupted sleep.

There is no doubt that the tramp was the thief. He probably saw Mrs. Baker go to the barn and sneaked back at once. It is likely he was under the impression she was alone in the house and was prepared to silence her if she had come back from the barn while he was engaged in going through the place.

Mrs. Baker describes him as a young man of 25 or 26, light-haired and slimly built, with a slouching gait. He was smooth-faced and wore a bicycle cap. When Mrs. Baker saw him start from the house he went in the direction of this city. He probably jumped on the first freight train he could get.

COLORED MAN PASSED A WORTHLESS CHECK

POLICE ARE LOOKING FOR EDWARD GREEN.

Edward Green, colored, residence unknown, is wanted by the borough police on a charge of passing a worthless check on Bartender VanArdale at Boyce's Hotel in Somerset street, on September 6. Green, who is a stranger here, came to Plainfield Tuesday night, September 5, and engaged Moses Carey, the hackman, to drive him to Scotch Plains. While there he attempted to pass a check on William Lee, but the latter was too wise.

Early the next morning he walked into the barroom at Boyce's Hotel, and asked Mr. VanArsdale is he could accommodate him by cashing a $6 check. F. W. Koolburg's name was signed to thte paper, but this is believed to be a forgery. VanArsdale took the check to the City National Bank, where he was informed that it was no good. Chief Marshal Weiss has been at work on the case, and he has asked the Plainfield police to help him. Green disappeared the day he gave the check and has not been seen since.

Campers' Reunion.

A reunion of the boys who went to the Y. M. C. A. camp this summer is to be held at the association on September 26. Final arrangements for the affair will be made this afternoon by Howard Freeman, Stuart Freeman, Walter Caldwell and Sidney Mackey.

Hearing for Tax Protests.

The date fixed for the first session of the Commissioners of Appeal to treat with taxpayers is Tuesday, October 24, in the Common Council rooms.

---

John Carney, of Lincoln place, is visiting relatives at Monticello, N. Y.

Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, will meet tonight. There will be a special programme.

CITS ENDORSE DEMOCRATS' MAYORALTY NOMINEE

Much Enthusiasm At Borough Meeting Which Selects William J. Conroy.

MR. HONEYMAN SPEAKS

Arraigns Mayor Smalley and the Present Administration—Mr. Swackhamer Also Makes Address.

In an atmosphere surcharged with enthusiasm, and antagonism to the present administration, the borough Citizens' enunciated their principles and named their standard bearers Monday. The meeting, held in the Somerset street schoolhouse, was attended by about 150 voters, and men prominent in borough affairs lent their weight to the gathering, on the platform as well as on the floor.

W. J. Conroy, the Democratic candidate, was endorsed for mayor; Charles E. Ball and T. E. Currin, Republicans, were placed in nomination for Council; W. E. Mattison, D. D. Smalley and C. D. McNabb were named for justices of the peace; and George Kirch for commissioner of appeals. The primary law, particularly that section of it which requires an oath of allegiance to the party candidates, was bitterly denounced, in the speeches and in the platform adopted. Marked enthusiasm for Mr. Conroy and implacable opposition to Mayor Smalley were manifested.

From first to last, the meeting was a hot and fierce attack on the borough executive. Smalley was the burden of all the denunciations and every statement that was launched at him and his administration evoked plaudits.

Even the denunciation of the primary law seemed to have been conceived solely in anger over the plan of the present administration to use wholesale challenges at the recent primary under the new law.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. H. K. Carroll. Seated on the platform were S. S. Swackhamer, former Mayor H. E. Needham, Assessor J. H. Cooley, Rev. W. E. Honeyman and E. A. Overton. Ex-Mayor Charles Place, Councilman Van Winkle, former Freeholder Andrew Lutkins and Mr. Conroy were on the floor.

Mr. Honeyman and Mr. Swackhamer made the principal addresses. The former reviewed the Mayor's official acts and conduct in strong language and opened the assault on the primary law. He painted Mayor Smalley as all that is bad in official life, short of actual financial corruption. His speech is printed in full below.

Charles Harden asked for the floor when Mr. Honeyman finished and spoke briefly in support of a united assault on the Mayor. He was a Republican, he said, but refused to recognize Mayor Smalley as such.

Ex-Mayor Place arose and moved the appointment of a nomination and platform committee. Dr. Carroll appointed Mr. Place, Andrew Love, Sr., former Mayor Needham, Councilman Van Winkle, Alburtus Swalm, Councilman Krewson, Dr. J. H. Buchanan, J. T. Case, Horace Conover and Edward Hutchinson. The committee retired to a room downstairs for conference.

When the committee filed out Mr. Swackhamer was introduced. He delivered a vigorous speech, along lines similar to those followed by Mr. Honeyman. He was unusually eloquent and caught the spirit of the audience with the skill of a naturally endowed orator. His periods were wildly cheered, and his stories were rewarded with laughter that shook the building.

He caused some dubious looks by starting his speech with a declaration of personal friendship for the Mayor, but the guns he opened on Mr. Smalley when he had made it clear that he hated the Mayor's acts and not the Mayor himself delighted his auditors and caused them to forget that he could find it in him to wish any good to Smalley at all. He made a point on perpetual candidacy count by reading Smalley's open letter to The Daily Press last January declaring his unalterable determination to decline a renomination.

He referred to the attacks made on him after the choice of W. J. Conroy for Mayor had been announced by the Democratic committee. Conroy was chosen, he said, simply because it was discovered that a "large body of independent Republicans were ready to support the Democratic nominee if that nominee was Conroy," and they felt that the best interests of the party and the public good would be conserved by the union. There was no thought of personal gain, and scorned to reply to the attacks of those who hid behind the anonymity of the newspaper columns. Like Mr. Honeyman, the Democratic leader reviewed the charges against the administration. In touching on the Goodwin case, he intimated that the docket of Recorder Doud's court was doctored to meet the necessities of the certiorari action.

After Mr. Swackhamer's speech, the resolution and nomination committee reported through Mr. Place. Platform and nominations were adopted by acclaim. The former was as follows:

1. National and State politics to be so far divorced from borough business affairs, that good men only shall be nominated and elected to borough offices.

2. Opposition to the perpetual candidacy of one man for the mayoralty.

3. A Borough Council, independent in its conduct, acting only for the public interests, and not to be under the personal control of the mayor.

4. The imprisonment of private citizens without warrant, when not guilty of a crime, not to be tolerated.

5. The preservation of our excellent school system without interference by any political boss.

6. Free speech and free action, on the part of all our citizens, without boycotting in business.

7. Appointments not to be made on the Board of Health for any reason except efficiency.

8. The Borough Recorder to be one who will endeavor to do justice and practice equity in the disposition of business, instead of exercising arbitrary authority.

9. Useful public improvements to be undertaken by the Borough Council, when the whole public will be benefitted, but not otherwise.

10. The good name of the borough not to be further soiled by permits for prize-fights, or by any exhibition which tends to degrade public morals.

11. The repeal of the obnoxious provisions of the primary election act of 1898 and its supplements, which forbids a voter to cast his ballot at such primary, if challenged, unless he enters into an oath of allegiance to a party ticket. To accomplish this we call upon all candidates who are nominated from this county for the Legislature to pledge themselves to endeavor to secure such repeal at the next legislative session.

The eleventh plank was submitted separately, to give possible dissenters an opportunity to register their objections. There were none. Mr. Place, in moving the addition of the plank, spoke strongly against the law. He declared that neither Tweed nor Croker, in their palmiest days, "would have dared to put so iniquitous a law on the statutes of New York or the ordinances of New York City."

As soon as the plank went through a resolution authorizing the executive committee of the party to sound legislative candidates on it was passed with a rush. The chairman of the committee was instructed to ascertain if the Assembly and Senate nominees will accept the plank and work for the repealer.

The nominees were presented after the following preamble was read by Mr. Place:

"Inasmuch as W. J. Conroy, who has been put regularly in nomination by the Democratic party, is a man of integrity, sound business judgment and abundant capability to become Mayor, to put into operation needed reforms and to re-establish the good name of the borough, and inasmuch as it is inadvisable to place three tickets in the field, we cordially endorse W. J. Conroy as candidate for Mayor."

The mention of Mr. Conroy's name was received with sustained cheers.

Mr. Place reported the choice of the following executive committee: T. S. Armstrong, David Bodine, J. J. Stahl, Charles Harden and A. V. D. Honeyman. The committee was accepted as named.

When the nominations were disposed of, Dr. Carroll called Mr. Conroy to the platform. The candidate was accorded a fervent reception. He spoke briefly in a level tone.

"I do not know whether this is the happiest moment of my life, but it certainly is one of the most interesting. This is not an ordinary primary gathering; men of influence and culture are here, of high and known reputations. As for myself, I am an unknown quantity to you. I have a record still to make. If I am elected I will give you a thorough business administration. Every man in office will have to account for every dollar expended. This administration has been called progressive. I promise you a better one. In this fight you will find me with you on the firing line. And we will use smokeless powder. The issues will not be befogged. But my campaign will be clean, no mud will be thrown."

The cheering that followed Mr. Conroy's speech recalled old-time party conventions. It was fully a minute before quiet was restored.

Dr. Carroll begged for a moment before adjournment and paid a high tribute to the personal character of the candidate.

"He is a true man in every fibre of his being," he said. "There is no fear that the votes of his fellow citizens will cause his head to swell or fill it with schemes of bossism."

Dr. Carroll made an earnest plea for non-partisan municipal elections. He denied that there was any reason whatever for party lines except on State and National issues.

The meeting adjourned at 10:05 o'clock. Before the chairman's gavel fell Mr. Honeyman announced that Spencer's Hall had been hired as headquarters and would be open every Thursday night for rallies and campaign cheer.

This was the speech delivered by A. V. D. Honeyman:

"Fellow-Citizens of the Borough:

"Theodore Guyler, in his charming 'Talk' on 'Webster and Lincoln,' tells a good story about Abraham Lincoln's first political speech. He was running for an office, and in beginning his campaign he went to the village where his opponent lived. As he entered the town he saw his opponent's house had a lightning-rod on it, something Lincoln had never seen before, and was told it was put up to prevent the house from being struck by lightning. No other house in the town was thus protected. Lincoln knew his opponent did not bear the best moral character among his neighbors, and when, at the joint debate that was held that night, his opponent asked his hearers, plaintively, 'if they were going to throw him overboard for an unheard-of man,' Lincoln quietly listened, and when he arose said: 'Neighbors, friends, I acknowledge that you don't know much about me here. I have never had many opportunities, and I am not much known to the people of this section, but I thank God that I've never led such a life in this community that I have got to put lightning-rods on my house to protect me from the righteous vengeance of the Almighty!'

"When a 'perpetual candidate' for mayor is up for the fourth term, and needs to put up on his house the lightning-rod of an oath-clad primary election, and, to get keen pointers on top of the rod, has to challenge the votes of men who have grown grey in the Republican party, lest about seven votes might topple over his rod, I begin to suspect he knows he is a pretty bad sort of a mayor! Or, if he does not know it, it is high time he is told. And I intend to do it for one tonight, whether anybody else has the hardihood to do the same thing or not.

"The surprising and gratifying result of the contest in Essex county of 'Independence against Ring-rule' ought to fill us with hope, even for our own unhappy municipality. Let us take courage. Let us have heart, for the signs are in the sky that we, too, may emerge from our fetish-worship of a pure autocracy.

"Is it a chimerical idea, or is it within the range of possibility, that here, in this borough, politics can be put upon so high a plane that men of good standing and influence no longer be controlled by those who make up such a 'machine?' Are our best men willing to disclaim hidebound partisanship in local affairs? Will the majority of the voters love their borough and its good name, their homes, and their home government, better than Baal, or are they still to bow the knee to Baal? If the prostration is to continue, we have need, as citizens, to put on mourning and go about our business softly, as prisoners of despair. If otherwise, then I should like to give you, now, two watchwords as a rallying cry: The first is, 'Partisanship subordinated to the public interests in borough offices and business.' The second is, 'The borough to be ruled by all its citizens, and not ONE citizen to rule all the borough.'

"I make tonight one strong, clear, clarion call to citizens of every party to act no longer as 'slaves whipped to their dungeons,' but as free men, in whose veins still runs uncurdled the blood of our Revolutionary ancestors! But, should might still make right, and should the polls again decide that we are to be slaves, let us go to our dungeons with the consciousness of not being afraid to speak our minds nor ashamed to vote our true sentiments.

Justification of Non-Partisan Movements.

"The Citizens' Party, whose record in this borough has already justified its existence, can well afford to stand upon the impregnable rock of a fair distribution of public offices among all parties if only first-class men are put up in strictly local elections. This is the Gibraltar of my own faith, and I hope it may be yours. This is the basis upon which city, borough, town and township business should be conducted and will be in some near or remote future, as soon as the people of this country arise to the importance of electing men to public offices in local municipalities, not with regard to partisanship, much less to the money they will pay out to bribe the voters, but solely with a view to business efficiency.

"Years ago, when this borough was first organized, such was the will of the sovereign people. I am informed that the first two mayors, at least, each of whom was given two official terms, were nominated at primaries of all the citizens, and were elected without the dissent of opposing partisan nominations.

"In South Orange this has been the case for thirty years, although now in 1905, for the first time in the history of that municipality, an endeavor is being made by the dominant political element, which is Republican, to force that community to vote between a Republican ticket and a Citizens' ticket. In a circular sent out recently by the Citizens' committee of that village—for it still has a village government although with a population as large as North Plainfield—the committee says:

"'The Citizens' committee believes that the business of the village can best be conducted by men selected as representatives for the whole community, and for their individual ability to transact all its business affairs in such a way as to conserve the welfare of South Orange. If the attempt to foist National parties into local politics is overwhelmingly defeated this year, it is not likely to be made again for a long time.' Surely it is to be hoped that the 'machine' will not overturn once and for all the good, old-fashioned way of selecting officials in South Orange.

"The leading newspaper of Freehold, in its issue of two weeks ago, stated that now, for the first time since that town received its charter, the time-honored custom which had prevailed, 'of the voters prior to the election agreeing upon and nominating a ticket composed of members of the different political parties,' was about to be departed from, and it earnestly deprecated this new state of affairs.

"In the borough of Pennington the citizens have agreed upon local candidates, regardless of party afficiation, although whether done this year for the first time or in previous years I am not informed.

"In Somerville, our county seat, where politics is supposed to be dominant all the years round, there never has been a time within my recollection when there was not a plain Citizens' ticket in the field for town commissioners, without recourse being had to the primaries of political parties. They have successfully managed that town and kept it out of any debt except for the public schools and for sewers.

"In other places throughout the State, where the same proper practice does not prevail, the subject is being discussed, and the time is coming—must come sooner or later, if we are to preserve our institutions in their integrity—when a Citizens' ticket shall be as much a matter of course as that the best man, irrespective of his political bias, shall be engaged as the pastor of a church, or to run a department store, or to be called in as family physician. There is no more reason why partisanship in national matters should be considered the sole qualification for a borough mayor, or for members of the Borough Council, than in the case of carrying on the business of a store, a workshop, or a farm. If there is any single reason against this proposition which does not savor of selfishness or personal graft, I should like to have some one present in this audience rise upon his feet and state it.

The Dangers of Partisanship.

"This, then, is what I hope you will place in your platform tonight, as its first plank: The equal right of all parties to hold public office, if only they are fitted for it; and no right in any one man to hold any one office forever.

"In facing our own peculiar situation in this borough, I confess at times to considerable despondency as to anyone's ability to convince the majority of his friends and neighbors that the Citizens' plan is the true one upon which to conduct this coming election. The threads of political antagonisms engendered by national and State campaigns, and the bitterness left through previous contests on various borough questions, run through all the warp and woof of our social and civic life. Some men still want to talk about issues that are dead; others desire the prizes that follow from training with the dominant political party.

"I daresay that twenty per cent. of those who vote in November in this borough to perpetuate the present Smalley regeme will do so with a view to their being benefitted in office, patronage, business, or some other personal thing. Unselfishness is not yet a predominant trait in the minds of all those who walk up to the ballot-machine. Probably twice twenty per cent. will vote according to their prejudices as to individuals on the ticket, and not from the higher consciousness of doing the right thing in the right way, for the Right's sake.

"So, for one I deeply regret that there is so much indifference among many good men in this borough—men to whom we look up with respect and honor—to the present really appalling situation. It is not alone that we have been, and are controlled by an absolute one-man power, which they do not seem to comprehend nor decry, but that so many excellent citizens in both parties are willing that candidates for office shall be nominated by a few, who meet at a private house or office, and then, under our present primary laws (since any ten men have the power to force that ticket upon the ballots laid before the voters), to say that these are 'party' nominations, and ought to be stood by 'for the party's sake.'

"The renomination of the present Republican candidate for mayor was proposed, and the machinery for it all set in action, at a meeting, not of the Republicans of North Plainfield, but of a small coterie of political friends of the Mayor, privately held in the law office of the counsel of the borough in an adjoining city. That such a conference is lawful in itself I will not dispute. Men are permitted to associate themselves together in private ways to discuss what may be advisable to do in the making of nominations, and it is often a convenient method by which to aim toward the achievement of a proper end. But that such a conference can bind Republicans or Democrats, much less independent voters, to any definite political action; that you and I are to be made absolute slaves by such a caucus, I emphatically deny.

Primary Laws Perpetuate the Boss System.

"Under our primary laws, unfortunately, a conference, like that held in ex-Senator Reed's office, has almost the weight of a nominating primary. It puts its self-ordained appointees on the primary ticket, and it requires that other members of the party, who are not satisfied with such a wholly one-sided affair, shall hunt up opposing candidates, and secure the oath of such candidates in advance that they are competent for the respective offices and will absolutely accept nominations to it, if they can succeed at the primaries. It compels a two months' canvass for the office, and, in the meantime, has for its intendment that there shall be a large expenditure of time and money for a candidate to be elected.

"In other words, a man is obliged to come out and announce himself as a candidate for a certain office, and, in effect, swear that he wants and will accept that office.

"Furthermore, it is decreed by this same primary law—a law now to be enforced in towns, townships, boroughs and villages for a first time in the history of our State—that no voter shall appear at the primary and cast his vote against any of the individuals who may be made candidates by such a self-ordained caucus, unless, in the language of the act, he will swear, if challenged, not only that he 'voted for a majority of the candidates whose names were printed upon the party ticket of the said party,' at the last general election (for which oath there is possibly some ground in reason, but none in righteousness, as a man's life-long advocacy of certain party principles should be his shield), but, what is both abominable, and I believe, unconstitutional, that he 'intends to support the candidates of the said party at the ensuing election.'

"That is to say, in order to defeat an improper candidate, he can only vote at the primary, if challenged, by taking his oath that he will support that unfit candidate should he be nominated!

"I call upon any man within the sound of my voice; I call upon any honest citizen who has self-respect to tell me if good morals require citizens to take an oath that, if they vote against an unfit candidate, and their votes are unsuccessful, they must do their best afterwards to secure that candidate's election.

"William M. Tweed in all his glory never proposed such a preposterous gag-law as this. It is a law that must be wiped off the statute books. We want back our freedom as citizens in place of this slavery.

"I care not what party put such a statute upon the law books of the State. I care not whether it was done at the behest of a so-called statesman of Hudson county, as has been reported, or by an honest mistake as to the rights and duties owed by the State to men who are still free; it is an outrage upon free men. You and I have, therefore, one duty to perform in the matter; it is to resolve, and put it in our platform that we do resolve, to require the candidates on our county tickets for the Legislature to agree that they will use their influence to repeal this iniquitous law; and we should further declare that, if they will not so pledge themselves, we shall not support them at the polls in November.

"I am a Republican in national politics with all my heart. I glory in the party that has produced a Lincoln, a McKinley and a Roosevelt. But I yield allegiance to no politician, State or local, who will deprive me of the right to a free, unfearing, uncensored ballot, for the man of my choice. I demand the exercise of that right as an American citizen, and I will fight for it with all the vigor that within me lies, until the time when that just right is no longer denied.

Annexation No Longer An Issue.

"In this community, unhappily, there have been and are now divisions along lines that should have no weight at this election in the selection of proper officials. There is a greater or less line of cleavage between those who, a few years ago, considered and acted upon with finality the proposition then made to disrupt the county by carrying a portion of it away ao an adjoining county, which did not need and had not asked for the territory. But that question was settled. The Legislature repealed the act under which power was given to our citizens to vote upon the subject, and, until some further action shall be taken to renew such a question in a legal way, it ought to be buried out of sight, if not out of mind. Probably it would be buried out of sight, if in every conceivable local matter that arises, in the Health Board, in the School Board, in the Fire Department, in the domain of boycotting, and in every other relation and condition, one personality did not thrust itself forward as Emperor.

"There is no occasion to enter, formally, into any long discussion of the public career of the Republican candidate for mayor, who is again foisted upon that party by a self-constituted caucus, and voted for at a primary where Republicans who feel as I do could not consistently antagonize that caucus decree because of the primary laws of this State. That career is known to everybody. No man here, unless he is born in idiocy, can close his eyes to the situation which he has created.

Perpetual Candidacy of One Man.

"And on the subject of the perpetual candidacy of any one individual, you know as well as I the dangers of such a principle being set in operation, aside from the actual issues at stake. You know there is no reason to give any fourth consecutive term of office in this borough to any one mayor, unless he comes pretty near to being an angel from another world. You know that the Republican party has other 'fit' men within its ranks to grace the mayor's chair.

"I am sorry for the party which declares that it has no 'fit' man save one, to occupy that chair. I am ashamed as a citizen that any number of people should meet in a by-place and declare that Washington Park and other sections of this borough have only just one 'available' candidate, or, to quote the language of the caucus as published in the newspapers, 'the only available candidate of sufficient weight to size up to the office' of mayor. If this be so, may a kind Heaven help the rest of our citizens to get a little 'weight!'

"No one man in a community has a monopoly of all the virtues of that community. On no one man does the industrial, or business, interests of this particular borough depend. Nor has any one man the right to monopolize public office, term after term, unless his qualifications are altogether extraordinary, and sizes up with a Folk, a Weaver or a Roosevelt.

"Holding this view, I should not vote for Mayor Smalley for a fourth term under any circumstances whatever. And I certainly shall not, when some other man, be he Republican or Democrat, can be found, who, by strict attention to the business of his office, may give back to the borough the good name which has been filched from it. We have among us not one, but a score of men, whose names are synonyms for business ability and unstained personal integrity, and they are the ones for whom you and I have the right to cast one unbought ballot.

"Nor should I, as a Republican, if I proposed to vote my local party ticket in this particular election, vote for this man as a Republican, when I believe—and that belief is founded partly upon my own knowledge, but also upon information from those poll-workers of both parties who are in the situation to know—that during the past fourteen years, beginning with the time when Hon. Charles Place ran for mayor for a second term in 1891, until now, there has rarely been an election, spring or fall, when, for purely personal reasons, he has not openly knifed some portion of the regular Republican ticket, to accomplish personal ends. It is a fact, notorious and never denied. The universal question after each primary of the Republican party, 'What is 'Newt' going to do about it?' has been as persistent and vexing as that everyday question in India: 'Who's wife is to go next on the funeral suttee?' Is it not time such a political condition came to a pause?

Mayoralty Nominations Once on Higher Levels.

"There was a time, within the memory of everybody, when the proposition that only first-class men should be nominated for the office of mayor, in Plainfield and North Plainfield, so permeated the minds of the people that there was no thought of dropping below any high-level even in party nominations. Our sister city has had on its roll of mayors such men as Dr. Charles H. Stillman, Dr. John C. Sutphen, Job Male, L. V. F. Randolph, William R. Maxson, George W. Rockfellow, Charles J. Fisk, Alexander Gilbert and Dr. Olin L. Jenkins; an honored roll. North Plainfield has also had upon its rolls of mayors men of the same general class: John H. Van Winkle, Dr. Jutus H. Cooley, Charles Place, William L. Saunders, Henry E. Needham and John F. Wilson.

"Neither of these men while they held public office were ever held up to scorn by the press of this State. They were men above a suspicion of carrying out selfish ends while they acted as mayor.

"Not one of them, according to any information that we are possessed of, ever gave permission for a prize-fight, and then took no steps to have the participants arrested and put under indictment.

"Not one of them ever crushed out of existence an active and efficient volunteer fire department from mere spite, in order to create a department which he should rule, notwithstanding that the cost for the maintenance of such a department was thereby increased three hundred per cent.

"Not one of them ever put his hand upon the public school, and threatened its superintending head that if he supported a particular local ticket he would be 'bounced' from his office; and subsequently laid plans to drive him from a community where he was performing a grand work for the education of the children.

"Not one of them ever selected solely his personal friends to distribute to them the borough's loaves and fishes, whether connected with law or printing, or for any other necessary expenditures.

"Not one of them ever imprisoned a private citizen without warrant, when he was guilty of no crime, except that of protection by his presence and words the real estate belonging to the church of which he was trustee.

"Not one or them ever refused to direct the arrest of men who, in his presence, were guilty of assault and battery, or other breaches of the peace.

"Not one of them fostered the boycotting of the honest business of citizens who thought differently from himself upon local public questions.

"Not one of them used the Board of Health as a football by deposing from office an official in it who performed his full duty, and securing an appointment of a health deputy to carry forward his own private ends.

"Not one of them ever thought it right to take the money raised by public taxation for streets and repairs and apply it to a wholly different purpose.

"Not one of them ever asked or compelled a municipal treasurer, and the treasurer of the school funds, to withdraw the public monies from a strong and secure National bank, because some of that bank's subordinates refused to vote the personal ticket of such a mayor.

"Not one of them ever resigned his position as a director of a bank, because everyone in the directorate was not in harmony with his polititcal measures.

"Not one of them ever took upon himself the functions of the committees of the Council and directed public work to be performed or stopped, or a fire deparmtent to be suspended or newly constituted, by reason of which any conscientious member of Council found it necessary to resign his office.

"Not one of them ever went to the polls during election day, entering the polling place, and showed voters how to 'cut' their party ticket, when the law requires that any such manipulation should be performed outside of the polling-place.

"Not one of them ever arranged for a wholesale challenge of men who had voted party tickets all their lives, some of whom were veterans in their party's service, on the ground that they might not vote to continue that mayor perpetually in office.

"Not one of them ever confronted fellow-citizens on the street and demanded of them reasons for exercising their free right to vote at elections as they pleased, or their right of free speech in regard to matters of public welfare.

"No one of these Mayors was ever guilty of making a statement in a speech at a public dinner, where the gathering was of some of the most substantial citizens of our neighboring city and of this borough—I quote from the report, the accuracy of which was unchallenged, in The Daily Press of January 29, 1904: 'If I haven't accomplished anything else for the development of the borough, I have done at least three things to be satisfied about. I have put Adam on a diet; I have put the paid fire department on a paid basis; and I have put John Goodwin on the bum.'

"Not one of them ever soiled the good name of his own political party in his immediate bailiwick, by using at a dinner in a public place, and in the presence of reporters, language of which the following is a part: 'The normal Republican majority in North Plainfield is from 250 to 300, depending in great measure upon the amount of funds that are put at their disposal. I do not intend this as a hint to the candidates, but it is nevertheless a fact.'

"Not one of them first made himself an official obnoxious to a large proportion of his constituents, and then proposed to hold on to office with that grim grip which, for all we know, is a grip until death."

In concluding his remarks Mr. Honeyman suggested the name of W. J. Conroy as a fit nominee.

PETITION FOR NEW LAKE.

Dam at Morristown Would Make Pond Fifteen Miles Long.

The citizens of Essex, Passaic, Union and Morris counties are discussing the probability of a new lake to be made by inundating the great meadows lying in the Passaic Valley from Morristown to Little Falls. A lake covering the meadows and marshes named would be fifteen miles long and six miles wide. The surrounding country is the most picturesque in the State. Petitions are being circulated and have been signed by many wealthy and influential residents of the four counties, urging the State to supply the water. One of the greatest advantages of the new project would be to cover a large tract of land that is now nothing more than a mosquito breeder. On 2,200 acres of this land the farmers are able to harvest the hay crop only in very dry seasons, which has happened but once in four years.

The subject has been brought before the State officials who have jurisdiction in the premises, and the promoters say that a way will be found to enable the State to help the great enterprise along. A dam at Little Falls and some smaller dams elsewhere will impound enough of the overflow waters of New Jersey's almost inexhaustible watershed to keep the water of the new lake always fresh and sweet.

STATE OUTLOOK WORRIES BOSSES

MAJOR LENTZ TOO SURE OF COMBINE'S STRENGTH IN ESSEX.

That there are breakers ahead for the Republican party in New Jersey is the opinion of several State officials and G. O. P. leaders in Trenton. They already give evidence of being greatly worried over the tremendous success of the Colby uprising in Essex county. The success of Colby and eleven Assemblymen who are a unit with him came like a bombshell in State Republican councils.

The situation had seemed very serene. Lentz was boss of Essex and could deliver a Senator and eleven Assemblymen; Baird was boss of South Jersey and had as many members and five or six Senators at command; Asa Francis ruled Monmouth; Strong controlled Middlesex, and Wakelee owned Bergen. All that was necessary was to divide the spoils among these bosses, not forgetting Secretary of State Sam Dickinson, of Hudson, although he would have no legislative representation. All the fat is now in the fire. There will be votes enough to carry equal taxation through the Assembly anyway, and there are signs that the Senate will yield. The anti-boss sentiment is felt everywhere.

Governor Stokes was led to believe that Colby had no hopes whatever. In fact, Major Lentz assured everybody that Colby's candidacy was a bubble he would prick whenever he found a spare moment. Governor Stokes told him to beware, and above all things to put up a candidate against Colby. The reply was that better results could be obtained by having half a dozen candidates in the field to find the right man to run. The Governor was reassured and supposed Lentz would win.

Just how sorry he is nobody knows. There are men in Trenton who say his grief is not at all heart-rending. He has not had much personal affection for Major Lentz at any time, and he has regarded Senator Dryden and the McCarters with doubt more than once. Like other Pennsylvania railroad men, he would prefer to see less power in Essex and more in South Jersey. And like all the State officials, he is bitter in his private criticism of the folly which has lost the county to the combine and thrown a firebrand into State councils.

Senator Dryden is to come up for renomination in the Legislature a year from next January. Instead of having twelve votes sure in the Republican caucus, he is now without a single one that can be counted upon. The eleven Assemblymen elected this year will be re-elected next year, sure as anything that can be predicted in politics, and they and Mr. Colby are under pledges to vote only for a man as Senator who is the choice of the whole party.

The taxation question also worries them. And so does Colby's investigation and crusade against the lobby. And many other things. Altogether, there is a scared lot of statesmen in Trenton.

A Blaze of Beauty.

The Valley of the Lehigh is one of the most delightful places of refuge at this sweltering time of year. The name alone is enough to conjure up—if not an invigorating mountain breeze—at least a vision of grand mountain scenery. Not only is it an ideal country for a summer vacation, but it repays a hundred-fold the time given to the most fleeting visit. Many points of supreme interest, in fact, are within the reach of a single day's excursion from New York. Notable among these is Mauch Chunk. Both from historic interest, this being the place where anthracite coal was first discovered and mined in the United States, and on account of the wonders of the natural scenery, Mauch Chunk is one of the most remarkable localities in Eastern America. The whole trip is charming in the highest degree. First one traverses the beautiful rolling country of Western New Jersey, studded with splendid groves and picturesque old farm buildings. Beyond Easton the railroad runs along beside the Lehigh River and the old canal and the scenery becomes more varied and striking. At last Mauch Chunk is reached where it lies hidden in the heart of the hills. The feature of greatest interest at Mauch Chunk is the old "Switch-back Railroad." Built in early times to bring the product of the mines down to the barges, it has of late years been used solely for the recreation of visitors. It affords a thrilling ride. From the summit of a mountain commanding a view of the wide region bounded by distant mountain ranges, the car starts gradually until, gaining speed from its own momentum, it rushes along wildly, through the forests, by old mines and mining settlements, across high pasture-lands, and along the hillsides until at last the circuit of eighteen miles is completed and the car has returned safely to the foot of the mountain whence it started. The New Jersey Central will run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk on September 24, 1905. Round trip $1.50. Special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m., and there is sufficient time at Mauch Chunk for a day of rare enjoyment. 9 20 4

Mrs. John Aister, of East Sixth street, has returned from a month's visit in Connecticut.

SAYS CLERIC WAS CRUEL

Mr. Lane Accuses Rev. Mr. Francis Of Ill-Treating Canine.

STOPPED DOG FIGHT

And Owner of One Says Minister Went Too Far with Peace Measures—Sues for Damages.

Because, it is alleged, he used cruel and unusual means to separate fighting dogs, Rev. George A. Francis, of East Fifth street, must face a suit for damages, brought by John Lane, a neighbor, who owns one of the dogs.

According to the plaintiff's allegations, his dog, a valuable bull, became engaged in a battle with another dog of the neighborhood in Rev. Mr. Francis' sight. The clergyman separated the animals. Mr. Lane declares he used a poker and a cane on the bull to accomplish the separation, and for the damage alleged to have been done by these drastic instruments of peace he seeks compensation.

The case is to be tried before Justice Mosher on Thursday. William Newcorn will represent the plaintiff. Reed & Coddington will represent the defendant.

Rev. Mr. Francis paid no attention to Mr. Lane's strictures on his conduct in connection with the dog fight at first, but was moved to vigorous action by the institution of the suit. He is preparing a strong defense and will contest the suit stubbornly.

Both sides are warm over the matter and a lot of interesting testimony is expected to develop at the hearing. The hearing will be before a twelve-man jury.

RECEPTION TO NEW Y. M. C. A. DIRECTOR

MEMBERS GATHER IN HONOR OF C. A. BOARDMAN—OFFICERS SPEAK.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. gathered in the small hall of the association Monday night to greet Charles Boardman, the new physical director.

President J. W. Gavett introduced Mr. Boardman in a brief speech, and the latter responded to the introduction with an outline of the work it is hoped to do in the department during the coming year. He emphasized the increase of efficiency and membership it is aimed to accomplish.

Mr. Gavett spoke a second time on the departmental work. It was the aim, he said, to increase the membership to 1,000, which is 400 more than at present. Under present conditions and with Mr. Boardman at the head of the department, he said, there was every reason to look for a great advance in the work.

Boys' Secretary Robbie also spoke. He dwelt on the relationship of the physical director to the association work in general. E. K. Smith, of Orange, a parlor vaudeville performer, and the Y. M. C. A. orchestra furnished entertainment. Refreshments were served.

BOLD FLAT THIEF.

Frightened from One Apartment, He Goes Upstairs and Tries Another.

While Mrs. John Schorb, of Somerset street, was sitting in her flat early Sunday night she heard a noise in the parlor. She went into the room and thought she heard somebody move down the hall as she entered. A few minutes later she heard steps from the flat above; occupied by Harry Zimmerman. Thinking Mr. Zimmerman was at home, she paid no attention to them.

Later, when the Zimmerman's, who had been out, returned they found their apartment had been ransacked. Only some small change was missing.

Schorb and a companion saw a stranger enter the house from across the street, but the former thought nothing of it. The man evidently had been in Mrs. Schorb's parlor when she heard the noise, and slipped out and upstairs as she came into the room. There is no clue to the bold thief's identity.

PARTITION PROCEEDINGS.

Special Master Van Winkle Takes Testimony in Coon Case.

The testimony of witnesses in the partition proceedings in Chancery, in which David E. Coon is complainant and Maggie M. Coon and others are defendants, has been taken for several days past before John H. Van Winkle, special master in chancery, to whom the matter was referred by the Chancellor.

This action partition is sought of two tracts of land owned by Israel J. Coon in his life time, situated in Warren township in Somerset county.

Codington & Swackhamer, of this city, represent the complainant.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place, have returned from Oriskany Falls, N. Y.

Joseph Bogart, of East Sixth street, has returned from Denver, Col., where he attended the annual encampment of the G. A. R.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1905. NO. 49

"Support the Constitution Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

INSPECTED 53 DAIRIES

Board of Health Found That About One-half of Them Need Attention.

PERMITS ARE GRANTED

General Inspections in November—Thirty-seven Births—General Health Good.

Reports presented at the December meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health yesterday show that the city is comparatively free from contagious diseases at present. During November but seven cases were reported, six on account of scarlet fever and one on account of diphtheria. During the month there was reported six cases of scarlet fever, one of diphtehria, one of tuberculosis and three of chicken pox. Three deaths resulted from tuberculosis.

During November fifty-three dairies were inspected and forty-one samples of milk analyzed. Of the fifty-three dairies inspected, twenty-five complied with the city ordinances absolutely; the remaining twenty-three needed a few changes, the majority of them being of small consequence. The samples of milk analyzed were all of good quality.

Permits were granted to the following persons: To collect garbage, Charles Myers, Peter Robinson and Fernando Brown; to collect offal, Theodore Glazer; to sell milk, Harry Holland.

These general inspections were made during November: Visits to houses with contagious disease, 40; inspections on complaint, 11; inspections of vaults and cesspools, 6; house to house inspections, 12; reinspection on nuisance notices, 60; dairy inspections, 53. Total, 182. These plumbing inspections were made: Water tests, 15; smoke tests, 4; sewer connections, 13; cesspool connections, 4; cellar water closets, 14; completed plumbing systems, 3; additions to plumbing systems, 5; alterations to plumbing systems, 5; defective plumbing systems, 4. Total, 68.

The results of the house to house inspections are as follows: Total number of houses inspected during November, 12; privy vaults found, 6; cesspools found, 3; driven wells found, 2; wells too near vaults, 1; wells too near cesspools, 1; houses not connected with sewer, 3; defective plumbing systems, 1.

There was also reported thirteen marriages, thirty-seven births and twenty-seven deaths.

The board adjourned to meet on Thursday, December 28, when the annual reports for the year will be presented.

JR. C. E. ENTERTAINMENT.

Successful Affair Held by Young People of Trinity Church.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity church held a successful entertainment in the church lecture room last night. It was much enjoyed by a good-sized audience.

The feature of the programme was the appearance of Miss Augusta Acken, of Metuchen, a professional reciter. Her numbers were warmly applauded. The programme included a solo by Edna Cole; piano duet by Ernest and Raymond Stevens; motion song by Anna Boss, Madeline Strader, Helen Roberts and Helen Wooly; and a song in Syrian by Miss Amelia Saleeby, of Syria, who is staying in this city for a time. Harold Storr also played a piano solo.

The committee in charge was made up of Mrs. G. W. Righton, Miss Bessie Reighton, Miss Anna Boss and Lawrence French.

Unusual Council Proceeding.

A somewhat unusual proceeding at the December meeting of the Common Council Monday night was the reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting by President Daniel. This work usually devolves on the city clerk, but Mr. Daniel undertook the task for a change. In the absence of Clerk MacMurray, George B. Wean acted in his place. It is a habit common with Mr. Daniel to read resolutions and ordinances so that he may become better acquainted with the wording and intent of the official papers.

Address by H. C. Krebs.

"Across the Alps and Through Italy," will be the subject of an address to be delivered by H. C. Krebs, principal of the North Plainfield Public Schools, at Vincent chapel on Friday night. The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church. Refreshments and a social will follow the address.

First McIntyre Chamber Concert.

At the Casino tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets for sale at Armstrong's drug store, or at the door.

FR. BOGAN TO RESIGN C.Y.M.D.U. OFFICE

UNABLE TO REMAIN SPIRITUAL DIRECTOR OF DIOCESAN UNION.

Announcement was made at the session of the Catholic Young Men's Diocesan Union, held in the rooms of the Father Matthew T. A. B. Society at Newark Sunday, that Rev. Bernard Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, here, would resign as spiritual director of the union, to take effect at the January meeting. Father Bogan, who has been the spiritual head of the organization since it was formed sixteen years ago, it is understood, finds that his other duties impose so many calls on his time that he is unable to give the attention to the union that the need requires.

There were delegates to the meeting from many societies, and when President B. J. Owens announced the resignation of Father Bogan there were many expressions of regret.

The literary committee, of which E. J. Flynn, of the Elizabeth Lyceum, is chairman, reported that arrangements had been made to issue an eight-page paper quarterly, which would be devoted to the interests of the union.

The bowling tournament committee stated that arrangements would be completed this week for a women's auxiliary, the games for which would begin about January 1. Five teams have already entered.

A committee was appointed to arrange for the annual reception of the union. The Elizabeth members requested that the reception take place in that city, and it is expected this will be arranged for.

MISS RUNYON'S FUNERAL.

Service in First Presbyterian Church Conducted to the Pastor.

Before a large gathering which included the majority of the city school teachers and many of her former pupils the funeral of Miss Carrie B. Runyon, for so many years a member of the High School faculty, was held in the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Charles E. Herring and was extremely simple. In his discourse the cleryman took the text, "She being dead, yet speaketh," and spoke of the influence she wielded over hundreds of lives and of the respect she held of men and women who had left their schooldays behind. He declared her to be a remarkable teacher in many respects and that it was a whim of hers to watch over former pupils and keep in correspondence with many who went far away, often giving them advice and words of cheer. Miss Jessie Utter presided at the organ and rendered a passage from "The Messiah."

The floral tributes were profuse and included a set piece from the teachers of the local schools and another from the pupils.

Interment was made at Hillside cemetery, the casket being borne to the grave by Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, of the city schools; Principal I. W. Travell, of the High School; Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett and F. E. Smith.

CRITERIONS ENTERTAIN.

Pouplar Club Gives the First of the Season's Series of Dances.

The Criterion Club conducted the first of the present winter's series of dances in the Casino last night. It was attended by 125 young people from this city, New York, Elizabeth, Staten Island and New Brunswick. It was as highly successful as the other dances the club has conducted and was greatly enjoyed by the gathering.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of Harry Blimm, Harry DeMeza, Albert Clark, George Pope, George Graves, Willard Martin, Edward Bennett, William Doud, William Townsend, Walter Emmons and Clarence Brokaw. The club will hold the second dance in January.

Benevolent Council Goes to Newark.

Twenty-eight members of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., paid a fraternal visit to George H. Adams Council, of Newark, last night. The Newark council provided a good entertainment and supper for the visitors. The trip was made to and from Newark by train.

Entertained at Bridge Whist.

Mrs. Walter Gaston, of East Seventh street, gave a bridge whist party at her home, yesterday afternoon. There were four tables and a pleasant social time was enjoyed between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock. At the close of the play, refreshments were served.

—It's a waste of time to experiment in buying butter when everyone knows the market affords no better than Rockdale print and creamery or Elgin creamery. Place your orders for either with Neuman Brothers.

MEN'S CLUBS AS GUESTS

Rich Musical Entertainment Given By First Baptist Organization

DR. RHEES SPEAKS

Gaul's Holy City Rendered—College President Dwells on Value of Men's Clubs.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church all of the men's clubs of the city, together with their friends, enjoyed a rare musical treat last night. The programme was given by the chorus choir of the church, under the direction of Edward J. Fitzhugh, conductor, and assisted by the Schill string quartette, of Newark. In addition to the musical numbers, which included part songs and "The Holy City," by Alfred R. Gaul, there was a short address by Rush Rhees, Ph. D., president of Rochester University. The large audience present thoroughly enjoyed the entire programme and accorded the work of the singers and instrumentalists deserving applause.

The numbers comprising part first were of a light character. The first selection, "The Evening Wind," by Fred J. Harper, was rendered by the entire choir, showing the full strength and quality of the voices. This was followed wit htwo numbers, "Andante Moderator," Rauchenecker, and "Moment Musical," Schubert, by the string quartette. The perfect rendition and delightful harmony was fully appreciated.

The third number was "The Night is Calm and Cloudless," from Golden Legend, by Sir Arthur Sullivan. This was given by Miss Louella C. Harris, soprano soloist, and the choir. Not only in this rendition, but in all of her solo parts, Miss Harris sang delightfully. Her voice, especially in the higher notes, was rich and full of expression.

The next selection was "Daybreak," part song, Alfred R. Gaul, given by the choir. Longfellow's beautiful worrds set to this charming composition was greatly enjoyed. The musical numbers of part first were concluded with two selections by the string quartette—"Proposal," and "The Mill," by Raff, and an encore to which they responded.

Before giving the last part of the programme, Dr. Rhees was introduced and made a short and appropriate address. He spoke of the value and importance of men's clubs in the church, affording the opportunity for a development of interest and energy on the part of men in spiritual matters. He referred to the fact that a large part of the church membership is usually made up of women, whose activities are well known in all departments.

Dr. Rhees advanced the thought that while it is true that the church cannot get along without men, it is equally true that men cannot get along without those principles for which the church stands.

Referring to the recent investigation into a certain department of business activity, the speaker said that it was enough to make a man stop and take a personal account of stock. He urged that men accept the true and living Spirit and devote their energies to the better things of life. He said that he thought sometimes that the church is the scene of too much bustle and that there is a lack of that spirit which led Christ to the mountain tops and the quiet places to seek strength in prayer and meditation.

After the address the choir sang "The Holy City." The string quartette rendered the introductory portion of the musical work, which was followed with the singing by the chorus and soloists. The many beautiful parts in this composition were perfectly given. Not only to the chorus, but to Miss Harris, soprano; Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto; William Holmes, baritone; George Smith, tenor, and Mrs. Robert Giddes, mezzo-soprano, and Miss Miner, alto, is deserving praise due. There was harmony throughout in the quartette and sql parts, while the string quartette assisted largely in giving a finished production. There was also the assistance of Miss Jessie Utter at the piano, and Howard M. Case at the organ, and their work called forth the highest praise. Credit is due also in a large measure to Charles W. McCutchen, who made such a delightful programme possible, and both he and those taking part in other ways were congratulated for their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Buxton Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Buxton, of West Front street, entertained the whist club, of which they are members, last night. There were the usual four tables. Mrs. Theodore Mantz won the prize for the women and Herbert Buxton the one for the men. After the play refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Smith will entertain the club two weeks from last night.

CIVIL SUIT LIKELY TO EFFECT CRIMINIAL CASES

STANBERY'S APPEAL FROM JUSTICE'S COURT VERDICT BEING HEARD TODAY.

In the trial of the appeal case of Oscar Harrison against William R. Stanbery, called this morning in the Middlesex County Court before Judge Strong, the jury was called and sworn in, after which an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock. The court stenographer did not arrive this morning and this caused the adjournment until afternoon.

At the first trial before Justice von Minden at Dunellen, Mr. Harrison was given a verdict in his suit for the loss of his horse and other damages resulting from a collision with Mr. Stanbery's automobile at Dunellen. The case was then appealed.

The plaintiff, represented by W. L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, and George S. Silzer, of New Brunswick, is suing for $200 damages. The defendant is represented by S. S. Swackhamer, of this city, and Allan H. Strong, of New Brunswick.

After the completion of the civil suit, it is expected that the charges of manslaughter against W. R. Stanbery and Oscar Harrison will be tried on the indictments found by the last Grand Jury. Mrs. William A. Westphal lost her life as a result of the collision.

The witnesses to be called are Firman Gise, John B. Coriell and Anton Marienchek, of Dunellen; Morris C. Ballentine, Chauncey Martin, John P. Fenner, Walter Vail, Walter Craig and George Staller, of Plainfield.

PLAINFIELD DONATED $789 TO RUSSIAN FUND

LOCAL BRANCH HOLDS MEETING AND RECEIVES COMMITTEES' REPORT.

Meeting for the first time since the organization was perfected, the Plainfield branch of the Russion Hebrew Relief Association, last night, received reports of the work accomplished by the various committeer appointed three weeks ago. It was made known that a total of $789 had been forwarded to Banker Schiff, of New York, who is treasurer for the fund. In comparison with other cities, Plainfield's share in aiding the sufferers is quite large. The congregation of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church contributed over $100 of the amount.

The local branch will be continued but there is slight possibility of its holding any further meetings unless for some urgent reason. All the members worked heartily in securing the funds and the movement was one of genuine sympathy. In New York subscriptions are still being solicited and the total fund this morning had reached $1,029,600.

I. O. F. ELECTION.

Court Watchung Chooses C. S. Hayes Chief Ranger.

Officers were elected at the meeting of Court Watchung, No. 3871, Independent Order Foresters, held last night in Columbus Hall in East Front street, and other business of a routine nature considered. These officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

Chief ranger, Charles S. Hayes; past chief ranger, John Knight, Jr.; vice chief ranger, Charles A. Haring; recording secretary, Clarence Brouard; financial secretary, James D. Macnab; treasurer, George E. Volk; orator, Frank E. Woodruff; organist, Allen F. Squier; senior woodward, Charles Leighs; junior woodward, Arthur C. Beekman; senior beadle, Dr. W. Kempton Browning; junior beadle, Dr. Marcus L. Clawson; trustees, John J. Praed, Asa F. Randolph; press agent, James D. Macnab; finance committee, Charles A. Haring, Allen F. Squier; court deputy, John J. Praed; court physicians, Dr. Marcus L. Clawson; Dr. W. Kempton Browning; court druggists, Peter B. Hodge, Dudley S. Miller.

Minstrel Show at Westfield.

The S. T. Dramatic Club, of Westfield, which numbers several Plainfielders, will give a minstrel show in the Westfield clubhouse Friday night for the benefit of the Children's Country Home. The promoters have spent many weeks in preparation and the affair promises to be out of the ordinary.

Am. Missionary Society Session.

Plainfield clergymen attended the annual meeting of the American Missionary Society held yesterday in St. Michael's Episcopal church, Trenton. In the morning the sacrament of communion was celebrated by Bishop John Scarborough.

ENGINE WRECKED ITSELF

Driving Rod Broke Loose, Ripped Cab and Tore Off Wheel

GOING AT 90-MILE GAIT

Boy on Street Hurt by Flying Wreckage—Brakes Work Badly and Smashed Engine Travels Half a Mile.

With the cab wrecked and splintered, one of its big driving wheels missing, and a loose driving rod whirling like a giant's flail, the engine drawing a Philadelphia flier traveled a half of a mile in this city shortly before 9 o'clock this morning. The rod broke from the cylinder at Richmond street, tore the cab to pieces and jerked the wheel from the axle. The wreckage of the cab was flung into the street and flying bits knocked fourteen-year-old Paul Mullener, of Raritan, who was walking on East Fourth street, senseless.

The brakes, which were set by the engineer when the crash came, did not work properly, and it was not until the wrecked engine reached Madison avenue that the train stopped.

The engine was in charge of Engineer Tice, of Jersey City. John Burns, of Bayonne, was his fireman. It started with the train from Jersey City at 8:11, due here at 8:44. The engine is one of the new type, with the sides of the cab overhanging the driving rods. The run to Plainfield was steady and on schedule, and the train shot by Netherwood at ninety miles an hour.

Just before Richmond street was reached, Burns, the fireman, stepped down from his side of the cab and went back to the firebox. The action saved his life. He had been out of the cab less than half a minute when the driving rod on his side of the engine tore loose and whirled up at the cab. It tore through the wood and iron as if they were paper, and sections of the cab flew in all directions. The roof and all of the fireman's side were tore away, and just about enough flooring for Tice to stand upon was left. A blinding volume of steam rolled up and about the engineer's head and the next instant a wrench and a bump shivered the engine from pilot to tender. That was the driving wheel, loosened by the rod, flying off. The steam shut off everything outside the cab from Tice's view, and he didn't know what had happened or what to expect. Clinging to the levers of his engine, he clapped on everything in the way of brakes and waited tensely for developments.

For some reason the brakes did not grip the wheels as they should have, and the engine tore on with speed only partially diminished, the flying rod pounding the roadbed at every revolution of the wheel to which it was attached, shaking the cab like a crazy thing, tearing big holes in the roadbed and scattering a fusilade of stones at the houses and streets along the road. Tice kept at the brakes and finally the pounding engine halted at Madison avenue.

In the meanwhile, Paul Mullener lay senseless in the roadway of East Fourth street, in front of Joseph Harrigan's house, near Richmond street. Mullener, who is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Mullener, at 725 East Sixth street, was walking along Fourth street, when the rod tore loose. A big piece of wreckage struck him across the forehead and stretched him in the roadway as if he had been shot. Mrs. Harrigan, hearing the crash as the rod struck the cab, came out to see what it meant and saw the boy. She carried him into the house and telephoned to police headquarters for the patrol wagon, in which he was carried to the hospital. He recovered consciousness before he was taken from the house and the hospital doctors say his injuries are not serious or even severe. He is painfully bruised, they say, but the bruises are only superficial.

The pieces of cab flew in all directions. The biggest section, the roof, landed in Cottage place, tearing down a lot of telephone wires in its flight. Stones gouged out of the roadway by the whirling rod struck several people and broke some windows. One of them crashed into the window of Undertaker E. E. Runyon's carriage, which stood in front of 335 Cottage place. Mr. Runyon was in the house and the carriage had no occupants.

The accident blocked traffic on two tracks. The driving wheel, split in two, was found on the inside eastbound track. A long freight was held for fifteen minutes until Station Agent Haynes had the wheel removed. The train was uncoupled from the wrecked engine and shifted to Dunellen, where another engine carried it on to Philadelphia. The engine was patched for the journey by the wrecking crew and taken to the Elizabethport shops within an hour.

CARRIER BOY INJURED HIS ROUTE SOON COVERED

KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO, OWNER AIDS IN DELIVERY OF PAPERS.

When Raymond Force, of Mercer avenue, a Daily Press carrier boy, was run into and knocked down by an automobile on Dyer street, yesterday afternoon, he did not realize that the accident would result in residents of the Netherwood section getting newspaper delivery service in the most up-to-date manner. The machine was driven by Mrs. Sidney Schuyler, of Belvidere avenue, and when Raymond had been taken home in it, suffering only from a slight cut on the head and a shaking up, the question of how his paper route was to be covered confronted the anxious mother.

When Mrs. Schuyler learned that he was about due to begin serving patrons, she quickly volunteered to attend to the matter and ran the auto to The Daily Press office. The circulation manager secured a substitute and with his bundle of papers he was placed in the machine. It was sent speeding to Netherwood and the carrier was taken from house to house until the last Daily Press had been delivered, half an hour ahead of the usual time. It was a new experience for Mrs. Schuyler but she rather enjoyed it and when the substitute's work had been completed he was given a ride back to the starting point.

Raymond was playing in the road when the auto came upon him before he noticed it. He was bewildered for the moment and Mrs. Schuyler, thinking he would jump to one side, kept straight on. He stood still and was knocked down. The machine was not running fast, which accounts for his not being badly hurt.

EAGLES ELECT.

Those Who Will Serve Plainfield Aerie for One Year.

Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, Fraternal Order of Eagles, met last evening in Eagles' Hall, in the New Plainfield theatre building on West Second street, and, besides transacting routine business, elected the following officers to serve for one year from January 1, 1906: Worthy past president, S. C. Terry; worthy president, M. J. Higgins; worthy vice president, Thomas Fa[illegible]; worthy chaplain, Edward McCann; worthy conductor, William McConnell; worthy secretary, Horace G. Adams; worthy treasurer, Arthur G. Adams; worthy inside guardian, Charles Rice; worthy outside guardian, J. H. Adams; worthy trustees, Rudolph Kampf, H. Reilley, Thomas Kane; worthy physician, Dr. A. H. Dundon. The installation will take place next Tuesday night.

Memorial for Miss Runyon.

A movement has been placed on foot by members of the High School faculty to place a memorial in the chapel of the building for the late Miss Carrie B. Runyon, for thirty-four years one of the teachers. The idea is to procure a sufficient amount and purchase a picture, affixing a suitably inscribed tablet. It is thought that many of Miss Runyon's former pupils may wish to aid the plan and if so, contributions may be sent to Superintendent H. M. Maxson.

Elks in New Rooms Tonight.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., will enter its new quarters in the New Plainfield theatre building tonight. In celebration of the event a special programme has been prepared and ample time will be allowed the members to inspect the rooms. In the business session Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon will appoint the committee that is to arrange for the lodge's minstrel show.

Small Boy Injured.

John Nicholson, aged six years, fell from a telephone pole near his home on Summit avenue, Saturday, fracturing his collar-bone and dislocating his shoulder. The lad was assisted to his home by companions and is now under the care of a physician.

A Good Time Assured.

Walter and Annie Louise David will give an entertainment at the Congregational church tonight for the benefit of the music fund of the church. A fine programme has been prepared and a good time assured.

Mr. Starr's Funeral.

Private funeral services were held over the remains of Benjamin A. Starr, Jr., yesterday afternoon at the home of his father-in-law, Joseph Collings, in Camden. The interment was in Camden.

For the Music Lovers.

The VanEps Brothers and William E. MacClymont will give their annual banjo and mandolin concert tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A. The performance promises to be of a high order.

TAKE ONE OF IDES' GANG

Capture of a Bound Brook Burglar in South Plainfield.

BOOTY IS RECOVERED

Clue to Fugitive Also Obtained—Trip of Young Woman Across Field Leads to Discovery.

Some of the loot secured by the burglars who robbed the Bound Brook stores Monday night, trace of Frank Ides, for whom the Rahway Reformatory authorities are searching, and one of the thieves who committed the Bound Brook robbery, were found in South Plainfield last night as a result of a young woman's short-cut through an apple orchard on her way to a neighbor's house.

The girl was Miss Edna VanNest, daughter of Thomas VanNest. On her way to visit a friend, Miss VanNest crossed her father's orchard. Half-way through it she was startled to see a man lying on the ground. She ran back to the house and told what she had seen. NanVest and his son, Harry, armed with shotguns, wen to the orchard, and drove the man away. They found a dark lantern on the ground where he had lain, and carried the lantern and their story to citizens who were holding a borough meeting in Washington Hall. A posse was organized and went o the orchard.

They discovered another man hiding under a pile of clothing and started to surround him. He sprang to his feet and fled, discarding a heavy overcoat to facilitate his flight. There was only one revolver in the crowd and the two cartridges in it were discharged at him without effect. He escaped by fording a brook and climbing fences on the other side.

In the overcoat he dropped a number of watches, chains, bracelets, diamond rings and three revolvers were found. This morning Constable Riley found John McMillan, of Bound Brook, hanging suspiciously about the Lehigh Valley railroad track, and arrested him. He confessed to being the man discovered by Miss VanNest, and said his companion was Frank Ides. The jewelry and guns, he said, were the result of the Bound Brook robbery. He charges Ides with being the instigator of the robbery.

Ides is supposed to be hiding in Dismal Swamp. A posse is searching for him.

JAMES MERRITT DEAD.

Well Known Plainfielder Passes Away After Long Illness.

James Merritt, for many years a well known resident of the city, died this morning at his home on Watchung avenue, after a long illness. He was born at Peekskill, N. Y., in 1820, and came to Plainfield when middelaged. He was at one time a stove merchant in New York, but retired a long time ago.

Several years ago, while on a visit to New York, he was knocked down by a United States mail wagon and received injuries from which he never recovered. He entered a suit for damages which is still pending. He was a member of the Plainfield Social Club, formerly the Asbestos, and was at its rooms every day until his health failed him. Pleurisy was the direct cause of death.

He was married twice, his second wife, who was a Miss Lafetra, surviving him. By his first marriage he had two sons, one of whom, the late Richard Merritt, was at one time city clerk. The body will be taken to Peekskill for interment.

Perkins for Floor Leader.

The chief outcome of the struggle of the morning at the State House at Trenton yesterday was an added certainty that Samuel K. Robbins, of Burlington county, will be made speaker of the House, and Randolph Perkins, of Union, floor leader of the majority. These are the candidates of the machine.

All Good Elks to be There.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., meets for the first time tonight in its handsomely appointed rooms in the New Plainfield theatre building. To mark the occasion a more elaborate "spread" than customary will be had after the business session.

Boroughites in Horse Race.

Herman Klinsman has made a bet of $10 with Harry Dunham that he can drive his trotter from Summit avenue and Somerset street to Scotch Plains in less time than he. The race will come off Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Death of an Infant.

An infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flynn, of Division street, died Monday. The funeral and interment took place yesterday afternoon.

Y.M.C.A. 38 YEARS OLD

J. D. Spicer Talks Interestingly of Institution's Early History.

REMARKABLE GROWTH

Men Prominent Today Were Identified With Association At Its Inception—List of Officers in 1869.

Thirty-six years ago Saturday the second anniversary of the institution was held in what was then the Second, now the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Dr. Bliss was then pastor. The church was located at that time on East Front street, near Park avenue.

Those who were identified with the association then, and who are still living, will be interested in its steady growth under wise and careful management. J. D. Spicer, who was a director of the association in the early days and who worked with many others for the success of it, has contributed some interesting facts in connection with the anniversary.

At the second anniversary, he says, a large choir furnished music to a crowded house. Several addresses were made, the principal one being by the president, A. F. Campbell. The annual report was presented by former president, Alexander Gilbert.

The bulletin, which Mr. Spicer still has on file, shows the following as the official workers of the association at that time. Board of Directors:

President, A. F. Campbell; vice president, Charles W. McCutchen; recording secretary, William Raymond; corresponding secretary, James W. Jackson; treasurer, H. O. Newman; J. D. Spicer, Isaac E. Parker, S. H. Stevenson, J. K. Myers, J. R. Perine, Alexander Gilbert, Philip Swain.

Committees: Devotional, Philip Swain, F. E. Marsh, G. W. Wendell; library, J. D. Spicer, I. E. Parker, S. H. Stevenson; lectures and entertainment, James W. Jackson, H. O. Newman, J. K. Myers; charity, H. P. Reynolds, T. C. Aldrich, J. R. Perine; ways and means, Alexander Gilbert, H. O. Newman, Charles W. McCutchen; membership, J. D. Sipcer, J. K. Myers, J. W. Jackson.

Since that time the remarkable growth of the association and the grand work it is doing is well-known to all interested. The members now occupy a commodious and well-appointed building at East Front street and Watchung avenue, where Christian work for men and boys is successfully carried on under the direction of a board of directors and J. H. Manning, general secretary, who has been at the head of this work for many years. Kenneth Robbie is now the secretary of the boys' department and F. A. Henckel is the physical director. By many the association is considered one of the strongest influences for good in the city, reaching as it does so many men and boys

ALIS WINS FROM WESTFIELD.

Defeats Stubborn Rivals on Hope Common by 5 to 0.

Alis broke the deadlock with the Westfield A. A. on Hope Common yesterday. After two ties, the Plainfield youngsters won by 5 to 0.

The game was as close as the score indicates, the fortunes of the struggle swinging back and forth from team to team, but Alis had a shade the better of it always. Echart scored the touchdown early in the first half on a mass play. The wind balked Phillips' attempt to kick the goal. Manning made a spectacular run of half the field. He could have scored a touchdown but for an unfortunate trip-up by one of his own mates.

The line-up:

| Westfield. | | Alis. |
|---|---|---|
| A. Cox | right end. | J. Manning |
| E. Taylor | right tackle. | R. Echart |
| C. Taggart | right guard. | H. Douglas |
| Schaefer | centre. | D. Bogart |
| E. Erbect | left guard. | T. Miller |
| H. Moffett | left tackle. | G. Bentley |
| H. Tice | left end. | J. Miller |
| H. Johnson (capt.) | quarterback. | Phillips (capt.) |
| S. Pool | right halfback. | H. Marsh |
| J. Fayle | left halfback. | E. Taylor |
| Embleton | fullback. | R. Taylor |

Hoboken Called New York.

George Firstbrook, of New York, a former Dunellen representative of the Plainfield Courier-News, was a visitor in town on Saturday, and called on many of his friends. Mr. Firstbrook is now connected with the New York World.—Dunellen Call.

Turn Verein Ball.

The annual Thanksgiving eve ball of the Gesang and Turn Verein was held in Saengerbund Hall, Wednesday night. The attendance was large and the affair was as successful as those of former years.

COMMON COUNCIL IN 1906

L. M. Daniel and R. I. Tolles Both Mentioned For Presiding Officer.

HANDING OUT PLUMS

Chairmanship of Committees Much in Doubt—New Ones for Streets and Fire Committees Must Be Chosen.

Although there has been no definite plans discussed as to the makeup of the various committees and the president of the 1906 Common Council, it is rumored that there is a desire on the part of the friends of Councilman R. I. Tolles, now chairman of the finance committee, to see him in the chair next year. On the other hand, the friends of President Daniel say that he is entitled to another year as presiding officer.

The complexion of the incoming Common Council is somewhat problematical at present. It is claimed by both the "organization" and the independents that they will control matters, and until the body is organized and some measure calling for a division of votes is up for consideration it will be impossible to tell how the members will stand.

It is generally conceded that Councilman Daniel has made one of the best presiding officers of recent years. He is thoroughly trained in parliamentary practice and is very particular in having the business of the city conducted in strict accordance with recognized rules. Several times during the period he has been in the chair he has been able to prevent irregularities which might have caused more or less annoyance if allowed to pass. It is not known whether Mr. Daniel will accept the presidency next year, but his friends are making a strong effort to persuade him to do so.

As for the makeup of the committees, no one can tell at this early day. There is sure to be a general change in all of the committees. Mr. Murphy, as chairman of the lights and trees committee, will retire, as will also Mr. Bullock, chairman of the fire committee; Mr. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, and Mr. Higham, chairman of the public affairs committee. These are among the most important committees of the Common Council and will mean the distribution of some good plums by the president of the incoming body.

Of those who remain, Mr. Tyler is chairman of the police committee, and it is now a question as to whether he will hold that chairmanship next year. The only other important committee is that of the finance, of which Mr. Tolles is the chairman. He holds over next year, and just where he will serve is hard to tell.

Of the incoming members, they are all well trained business men and will be able to serve on any committee with ability. Mr. Mellick, when a member of the Common Council before, was chairman of the finance committee, and made a most efficient head. He is well posted in city affairs and will make a valuable member. Mr. Ginna is also well fitted for membership on any committee, as is also F. L. Montgomery and Herbert Buxton, two new members. As for Charles C. Randolph, he has had a good part of the year in service and will do better work next year, and as for Mr. Gloak, he has had enough experience to be valuable in any place he is put. It will be a matter of considerable interest to those who follow councilmanic affairs to know who will be chosen for president and how the committees will be made up.

GOT STOLEN SILVER BACK.

Burglar Insurance Co. Locates John Huntsman's Plate in New York.

Through the burglar insurance company which covered his property, John Huntsman, of Watchung avenue, has recovered a number of the silver pieces stolen from his house by second story men last week. As soon as Mr. Huntsman reported the theft the company received descriptions of all the missing articles and started tracers after them.

Fourteen pieces were located in New York pawnshops and returned to Mr. Hunstman, and the company is hopeful of getting more of the stuff back. From the location of the goods clues to the identity of the thieves have been obtained and the police are hard at work on them.

Sewing School at Work.

Under the direction of the superintendent, Miss Laura Lovell, assisted by Miss Edith H. Tracy, the winter work of the sewing school of Warren chapel has begun. There are sixteen teachers and seventy-nine pupils. The school meets every Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. A class in cooking has been started by Miss Tracy, and soon instruction in dressmaking is to be given.

Lodge to Observe Christmas.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, is planning to have an elaborate Christmas tree celebration, similar to those it enjoyed two and three years ago. It will take place the Friday night after Christmas and the plans are in the hands of a committee composed of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., chairman; Philip Jahn, Elmer D. Cutting, J. E. Flannery and George W. Clark.

"CHRISTY" SPURNS OFFER TO BECOME AN ACTOR

$5,000 FOR TEN WEEKS' ENGAGEMENT FAILS TO TEMPT HIM.

An offer of $5,000 for a ten weeks' engagement on the stage is enough to tempt a saint, but "Christy" Mathewson, far-famed as the best baseball pitcher in the business, refused such an offer from Klaw & Erlanger recently. The theatrical firm had a play written especially to allow Mr. Mathewson an opportunity to display his athletic ability, but the greatest influence would not secure the twirler's consent to appear on the stage.

A similar offer was made to Manager McGraw, of the New York Nations, but he, too, declined to join the "profession," preferring to win his laurels on the baseball diamond. Soon after the baseball season closed there were newspaper rumors that Mathewson and McGraw had intentions of going on the stage. Klaw & Erlanger personally devoted their efforts toward securing these famous ball players to take part in a special production, but after careful consideration the offers were turned down.

In the proposed play, Mathewson was to do a fifteen minute turn, showing how he warms up in practice for a league game. He was also scheduled for another small part. "Matty" in declining said that he preferred to devote the winter to rest and recreation for next season's work.

WHAT TO WEAR.

Ready-to-wear models betray a variety of styles. When choosing it is wisest to take the plainest, putting all money in the cloth, and then if your heart leans toward frippery to adorn it later with oriental strips, fur, silk folds or lace. Thus you will have an individual garment after all.

The ready-to-wear suits come in the colero cuts, the blouses, the half length and long shapes. The princess gown, which is striving to make an impression because of the class of willowy women to whom it is most becoming, is best remembered among the ready-to-wear productions. There seems to be no limit to materials. The shopper can begin at a modest $5 suit and study models all the way to the $1,000 mark.

Combinations of material are endless and distracting to one on the lookout for something novel. So bewildering are many of these problems of gowns that one might readily accept the statement that a whole gown had been evolved from a grandmother's patchwork bag. This idea was illustrated by a pretty evening frock combined of a violet chiffon, mauve velvet, Alice blue, a touch of Irish green, a strap of rajah embroidery, an inch or two of gold lace, tulle ruching and a V of Honiton in the enigma of a waist.

Morning gowns reflect the same tendency to gayety. Bright colors lead and stunning blues, reds and violets together with soft pale half tones trimmed with vivid bands in cashmere, challis and albatross and the soft woolens and striped and flower-bespangled flannels. Negligees of transparent tissues and lawns over solid color linings are popular. As a rule the thin materials are liked because they give good service and may be freshened in the tub or the gasoline tank.

The shirtwaist frock is a delight to the woman who is busy about the house. Right glad was everybody when it was discovered that these could be made of light-weight woolens with the omnipresent color note. When of plain serviceable serges, neck scarfs and glints of bright hues or the fetching chemisette keep these handy little frocks a joy in the household. With them plain collars and cuffs of embroidered stocks and bands are very good style.

"Rube" Oldring to Be a Quaker.

"Rube" Oldring, who will be remembered as the star second baseman for the Plainfield baseball team during the early part of last season, will play with the Philadelphia Athletics next year. He will be with the Quakers through a draft or purchase. Clark Griffith, of the New York Americans, tried Oldring out last fa' and would have added him to the New York team if Connie Mack had not beaten him out. Big league managers say that Oldring looks lige a coming hitter. He with several other candidates will be given a tryout at short-stop.

2,114,143 Souls in State.

According to the official promulgation of the census of New Jersey, according to the last enumeration, the population of the State announced this morning by the office of the secretary of State is 2,114,143, a gain of 269,474. The population of Essex county is 469,928, a gain of 50,875. The population of Hudson county is 449,879, a gain of 63,831.

Mrs. C. C. Brown's Father Dead.

Frederick G. Casey, the father of Mrs. Carleton C. Brown, of West Front street, died suddenly at his home in Brooklyn Thursday. He was fifty years old and had been connected with Tiffany's for a long time. Mr. Brown, his son-in-law, is connected with the Manganese Steel Safe Company.

COLUMBIA LODGE OPPOSE NEW RATES

A. O. U. W. MEN HOLD THEIR ANNUAL MEETING.

Before retiring from the office of master workman Friday night, John Bicknell, of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., appointed a committee of past masters, comprising R. V. Kenney, Henry Leifke and W. A. Woodruff to attend the Grand Lodge meeting to be held in Atlantic City in March and continue to fight against the new assessment plan, which proposes an increase of rates similar to those of the Royal Arcanum.

The lodges of other States have adopted the increased rates, but the Grand Lodge in this State has been successful in its efforts to prevent its adoption here. It seems to be the opinion of many that the new rates will eventually be adopted in New Jersey as a majority of the past masters favor it.

These officers were elected by Columbia Lodge for the coming year:

Past master workman, John Bicknell; master workman, Clarence Leland; foreman, Peter Doeringer; overseer, Peter VanFleet; guide, John Calder; recorder, Robert Loughlin; financier, Frank Putnam; inside watchman, J. W. A. Bauersachs; outside watchman, Michael Kohler; receiver, Henry Leifke; trustee, three years, Henry Nitschwitz; representatives to Grand Lodge, J. W. A. Bauersachs, Henry Nitschwitz; alternates, R. V. Kenney, Henry Leifke.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the lodge to send Past Master Workman John Bicknell to Atlantic City in March for the Grand Lodge degree. The newly-elected officers of Columbia Lodge will be installed on January 5.

BUSINESS MEN'S TEAM LOSES.

Y. M. C. A. Runs Away From Them in Annual Thanksgiving Contest.

Two lively games of basketball were played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Thursday afternoon. The Business Men lost the annual match with the first team, 33 to 19, and the High School five defeated the Plainfield Consolidated combination, 34 to 28.

The Business Men lacked shiftiness and accuracy. Team work and the mathematical certainty of Leary's and Scull's shooting did for them. The line-up and summary:

| Y. M. C. A. | | Business Men. |
|---|---|---|
| Gavett | | Haynes |
| Thompson | forwards. | Spicer |
| Scull | centre. | Lott |
| Leary | | Clark |
| Neal | guards. | Miner |

Goals from the field, Thompson, 4; Scull, 6; Leary, 5; Neal, Haynes, 2; Spicer, 3; Miner, 3. Goals from fouls, Leary, Spicer.

High School had some trouble defeating the Consolidateds, but managed to hold them safely in check at every stage of the game. Smith and Collier made a feature of their shooting. The line-up and summary:

| High School. | | Consolidated. |
|---|---|---|
| Smith, Line | | Manning |
| Caldwell | forwards. | Phillips |
| Collier | centre. | McNaughton |
| Gavett, Templin | | Cullingsworth |
| Line, Freeman | | Douglas |

Goals from the field, Smith, 5; Line, 4; Caldwell, Collier, 5; Templin, Freeman, Manning, 2; Phillips, 3; McNaughton, 5; Douglas. Goals from fouls, Smith, Collier.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Harriett V. Guest Becomes Wife of William J. O'Blenis.

Miss Harriett Vail Guest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Guest, of Scotch Plains, and William J. O'Blenis, of Westfield, were quietly married Thursday. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents and was performed by Rev. C. M. Anderson, of Jersey City.

Miss Gertrude O'Blenis, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and William Guest, brother of the bride, was best man. Mrs. M. A. Webster rendered the wedding march. The bride wore white and carried bridal roses while her attendant was gowned in pink and carried roses of the same hue.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held and Mr. and Mrs. O'Blenis departed on a trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. Both were the recipients of numerous pretty presents, while the groom's gift to the bride was an emerald ring.

Prof. Smith Home.

Prof. George Smith has returned to his home on Craig place after four years of study in violin playing in Germany. Prof. Smith has become a player of unusual finish and style. While abroad he made an extended tour of the Continent.

Dog Killed 17 Chicks.

B. F. Franks, of Clinton avenue, lost seventeen chickens through the depredations of a dog Thursday night. His own dog showed the marks of a fight and had evidently been thoroughly whipped in an effort to drive the killer off.

CARNIVAL COMMITTEE FIXING UPON PLANS

WILL RECOMMEND THAT THE AFFAIR BE HELD FOR TWO WEEKS

The committee recently appointed by the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital to arrange details for the proposed carnival next spring met in the Casino Friday and discussed plans at some length. Though nothing has practically been decided upon yet, it is understood that the committee will recommend to the board that the affair be held for two weeks, beginning May 19 and extending to June 2, inclusive. This will give it the benefit of three Saturdays and one holiday.

It is also understood that the committee will suggest that W. S. Miller, of the Excelsior Carnival Company, be engaged in the same capacity as last year, when he did so much to make the initial effort such a great success. There is no doubt but what the board will accept the recommendations.

From the enthusiasm already evinced, Plainfield people will be treated to another period of novel amusement when the carnival gets in full swing, and the returns for the hospital will be even greater than those of last spring. The committee which is preparing the plans for submission to the Board of Governors consists of Charles J. Fisk, DeWitt C. Ivins and Henry L. Hall.

GRADS TO FEAST.

Jersey Alumni of Columbia to Hold Banquet.

The Plainfield members of the New Jersey Alumni Association, Columbia University, will attend the annual reunion and dinner of the association to be held at the Continental Hotel, Newark, Thursday night, December 14, at 7 o'clock. Rutherford Franklin, of Summit, will act as toastmaster, and speeches will be made by Dean Van Amringe, Prof. Kichwey, daan of the Law School; Francis S. Bangs and John B. Pine, of the Board of Trustees; Dr. Lucius W. Hotchkiss, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and the Hon. William Fellowes Morgan. It is also hoped to have William Barclay Parsons, of the Panama Canal Commission, present.

A quartette from the college glee club will sing throughout the evening, and in addition Issler's orchestra will furnish music.

The association officers are as follows: President, Charles M. Lum, '81; vice president, William Meikleham, '86; secretary, Arthur Y. Meeker, '00; treasurer, George James Bayles, '96; standing committee, Robert Arrowsmith, '82; John K. Gore, '83; Henry G. Atha, '89; William O. Wiley, '82; William Fellowes Morgan, '80; Rev. Claudius M. Roome, '80; Ruford Franklin, '86; Edward C. Sage, '77; William Wiener, '88.

DINNER TO YOUNG MEN.

Y. M. C. A. Entertains a Somewhat Cosmopolitan Gathering.

The annual dinner of the Y. M. C. A. to young men away from home was given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Johnson, Washington avenue. Covers were laid for seventeen. The affair was very informal, and correspondingly delightful. There was nothing condescending or eleemosynary in the atmosphere of the feast and the young men enjoyed themselves as they would had they been the guests of a common friend and bountiful host.

It was almost a cosmopolitan gathering. Included in the diners were Sergius Hosanna, a Persian; Edward Stockberg and Elirls Stockberg Danes; John Rumanis, E. Hannush, Armenians; J. W. B. Pierce, Canadian, and H. B. Farrell, Englishman. As a matter of fact, Secretary Farry C. Manning was the only nativ Jerseyman at the board.

The dinner was served at 1 o'clock. There were no speeches. Anecdote and reminiscences of "back home" filled in the black coffee period. The dinner was arranged by the Women's Auxiliary.

A Thanksgiving Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Rowland, of West Seventh street, gave a delightful dance on Thanksgiving Eve. The affair was in honor of their daughter, Miss Ursula Rowland, the invitation list being confined to those in their particular set. There were one hundred guests, more than half of them being from out of town. The home was lavishly decorated with orchids, roses and greens, and these with the varied colored lights in the large rooms opening into each other was very effective. Music for dancing was furnished by Austin. During the evening refreshments were served.

Organ Recital.

An organ recital of unusual character will be given at Grace P. E. church December 13. The artist will be S. Haxington Harker, of Jersey City. Mr. Harker is an organist of note.

Senator Ackerman to Lecture.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman will give his superbly illustrated lecture, "Above, Below and Between the Magic Circles," under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday, December 19, at 8 o'clock.

WHERE IS MAIR'S HOUSE

Borough, Looking For Tax Money, Hires Surveyor to Find Out.

TOWNSHIP CLAIMS IT

Borough Has Collected on It For Years—Councilman-elect McGee Looks Over His Future Colleagues at Work.

Just about business enough to make it seem like a real meeting was transacted by the borough Council at its monthly session Friday. Reports from the standing committees took up most of the session.

There was a big bill for stone for street work last month. Chairman Arnold, of the street committee, reported the stone expenditure at $640.55. General street work cost $280.05.

The police court did a profitable business for the borough. Chairman Van Arsdale's report for the police committee included an item of $43 in fines. There were seven arrests and one commitment to jail.

On Chairman Arnold's motion the Council voted to accept Dupont street, from Somerset to Grove street. It has been satisfactorily laid out and graded.

The street committee was authorized to employ a surveyor to decide whether John Mair's house on Mountain avenue is in the borough or the township. The house is very close to the line, whatever municipality it is in. For several years the borough has taxed it without question from the township, but this year the township collector put it on his books. Mr. Mair objected vigorously in both directions when he received two tax bills.

The Mayor instructed Chief of Police Weiss to have his men watch carefully for extinguished street lights, and report every one in a book to be kept for the purpose at police headquarters. The borough officials have noticed that a certain percentage of lights is always dark, and the Council wants to know how to figure the reductions when the light bills come in. Chief Weiss said he had instructed the officers himself to watch for darkened globes, but they were lax in executing the order. He promised to jack his men up and keep them sleuthing after idle lights all over the borough.

On Councilman Arnold's motion the Council voted to meet on December 22 to receive the annual reports of all borough departments. The fiscal year ends on December 31 now, instead of in the spring, so the annual meeting must be held before that date. It was voted to have 500 copies of the annual report printed.

Among the occupants of the "gallery" was Councilman-elect Clifford W. McGee. He will take his seat after the first of the year, and watched the routine of the meeting with an eye for points on procedure.

"It was very interesting," he said after the session. "After seeing it all, I think you may say that I have no regrets."

Edward P. T. Smith, the other councilman-elect, was not at the meeting. He is a captain in the fire department, and has been almost as regular in his attendance at meetings as the members of the body. There is nothing about methods of procedure he needs to learn.

COMMISSIONERS HOLD FINAL PUBLIC MEETING

TAXPAYERS STILL HAVE PRIVILEGE HOWEVER TO GO BEFORE THEM.

An adjourned meeting of the Commissioners of Appeal was held last night in the Common Council rooms to further consider the large number of complaints made in cases of taxation. While the commissioners will not hold any more public meetings, any taxpayer has the right to go before them at any time before December 20 and state his or her complaint to the assessment made.

There appears to be a large number of complaints this year and the commissioners will be obliged to hold a number of sessions to complete their task. As usual, the ever-present dog tax seems to be one of the chief "kicks" and the commissioners have found it necessary to comply with many requests to have this tax crossed off the bill. No real serious complaints have thus far been reached, the appeals all being of the usual kind. The commissioners fully expect to finish their work before December 20, which is the last day for the payment of taxes before the tax collector adds interest.

Dr. Buchanan's Leave of Absence.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan, pastor of the Baptist church at Pemberton, and father of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, has been disabled from work for many months. In October he tendered his resignation, but the church declined to accept it and gave him a full year for leave of absence from the time of his breakdown. Dr. Buchanan expects to spend the winter in Plainfield with his son.

RECKLESS WITH RIFLES

List of Accidents Caused By Small Boys' Use of Toy Weapons Increased.

BARRY BADLY HURT

Mishap in North Plainfield This Morning—Many Protests Made to the Police.

The dangerous pastime of using Flobert rifles, which has been prevalent with borough boys since the hunting season began, all but resulted fatally for George Barry, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barry, of Howard St., Friday morning. A bullet from a weapon in the hands of Frank O'Donnell, a neighbor's bay, glanced from a stone and struck him squarely in the nose, lodging inside the nostril. Screaming with fright and bleeding profusely, young Barry ran to his home and telling his mother what had happened, she extracted the leaden missile with a hairpin. The boy's nose was cut where the bullet went through, but a physician who examined him afterward found no ill effects.

Many young men and boys in the borough are the owners of these rifles, and at times some of them become reckless in their use. Young O'Donnell and another boy were on Howard street shooting at targets this morning and other children were playing about, unconscious of the danger they were in. O'Donnell aimed at a stone and the piece of lead struck it, then glanced upward and hit the Barry boy. But for the fact that the force of the bullet had been all but spent, another tragedy would have been added to the list credited to the so-called "harmless" weapon.

Charles Barry, the father of the lad, reported the occurrence to Chief Weiss, and though he would not prefer a complaint against O'Donnell, it will probably mean the confiscation of his rifle and all others found by the borough police in the hands of boys.

The city police have received numerous protests from residents in the outlying districts against allowing boys to handle Floberts, and the Barry accident will lead to a crusade on this side of the brook as well.

TWENTY-FOUR LAWYERS IN THE LEGISLATURE

PERSONNEL OF THE NEXT SENATE AND HOUSE OF NEW JERSEY.

If one may judge by the make-up of the one hundred and thirtieth Legislature, which will be organized for business Tuesday, January 9, 1906, there should be a few legislative enactments resulting from the session that will bear the closest scrutiny of the courts, for of the eighty-one members composing the two branches, twenty-four are lawyears. The Senate, with twenty-one members, will have eight lawyers—Senators Avis, Colby, Horner, Hutchipson, Hillery, McKee, Minturn, Wakelee. The House, with sixty members, will have sixteen lawyers—Assemblymen Mabie, Robbins, Scovel, Jones, Hildreth, Miller, Mills, Marelli, Hoagland, Perkins, Martin, Everett, Arrowsmith, Berg, Dippel, Morris.

The new Senate will be somewhat of an old affair, because of the fact that there will be but five new faces. Two of the new men have merely stepped across the corridor from the House to the Senate. The new members are Avis, Colby, Plummer, Frelinghuysen and Ackerman.

The youngest Senator is Mr. Avis, who escaped the constitutional limit of thirty years by six months. Mr. Colby is one year older than the age provided as the minimum. The oldest member of the Senate is Price, who is fifty-five. Senator Bradley is fifty-three.

Senators Brown and Shinn are merchants; Cornish and Ackerman and Johnson are manufacturers; Cresse and Minch are bankers; Price is a physician; Lee is a contractor; Bradley is a civil engineer and Frelinghuysen is an insurance broker.

In the Assembly there will be twenty-two old faces and thirty-eight new ones. The youngest member is James E. Wooley, of Hudson, who is twenty-two, and still a law student. Assemblyman Irick is the oldest, with sixty years to his credit.

Nine new members of the Assembly are merchants—Roeber, Hines, Underwood, Kayser, Morgan and Colgate, of Essex; Holcombe, of Hunterdon; Chaplain, of Morris, and Smethurst, of Passaic. The other occupations range from clerk to insurance agents. The old members who are merchants are Elvins, Heck, Gibbs, Vanderveer, Henry, Hunt and Tillman.

Star Course Entertainment.

The Lincoln Travelogue Alaska with song and superior motion pictures; also the VanEps Brothers and MacClymont will furnish the programme at the entertainment to be given in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course on Monday, December 11.

N. J. IN 59TH CONGRESS

There Will Be Two New Faces in Delegaiion This Session.

POSSIBLE CHAIRMAN.

Memberships on Various Committees Held by State's Representatives in Last Congress and What They Accomplished.

Washington, Dec. 4.—With the convening of the fifty-ninth Congress today the New Jersey members of the House of Representatives, in common with others, will anxiosuly await the announcement of the committees by the Speaker, who will presumably be Hon. Joseph G. Cannon, better known as "Uncle Joe." New Jersey will have two new faces in the Congressional delegation this winter. They will be Henry Cersby Allen in the Sixth district and Marshall Van Winkle in the Ninth district.

In the fifty-eighth Congress New Jersey had four chairmanships. According to precedent the State may be expected to retain as many chairmanships in the new Congress. To some extent this may operate against the new members, because the increased membership on the Republican side of the House of Representatives will make a problem for the Speaker in making up the committee assignments.

Commencing his seventh term Representative R. Wayne Parker, of Newark, has had long experience on two of the most important committees of the House. He will probably be reappointed on judiciary and military affairs, two committees whose work is in line with his tastes. Representative William H. Wiley served on the District of Columbia committee, and his long experience as a civil engineer made him a valuable member. That he will be appointed again on this committee is probable, and he may also get some other assignment.

The chairmanships New Jersey had in the last Congress were those of pensions, banking and currency, labor and immigration and naturalization. As chairman of the committee on pensions, Representative Loudenslager, from the First district, has done some good work, and he has also served on the committee on naval affairs, one of the most important of the House. Representative Gardner, of the Second district, has long been recognized as an authority on all labor matters. He has filled the chairmanship of the committee on labor for several Congresses and the committee would not seem the same without him. Mr. Gardner is also a member of the committee on postoffices and post roads.

Representative Howell, of the Third district, has done more work for New Jersey as a member of the committee on public buildings and grounds, where he was in a position to aid every New Jersey bill. He was also chairman of the committee on immigration and naturalization in the fifty-eighth Congress, and he will probably get the same appointment this year. Representative Fowler, of the Fifth district, was chairman of the committee on banking and currency last year, and he will probably have that committee again, as well as his place on reform in the civil service.

Representative Wood, of the Fourth district, served on the committee on coinage, weights and measures, and he will probably get this assignment as well as one on some other committee. Allan L. McDermott, who will be the lone Democrat in the new Congress, has been on merchant marine and fisheries. Mr. Hughes, of the Sixth district, will be missed on the Democratic side this winter.

It is not known what changes may be made in the makeup of the Senate committees. However, it is not expected that Senators Kean or Dryden will be changed in the rearrangement. Senator Kean has been chairman of the committee on contingent expenses, one of the most difficult committee assignments of the Senate, and so admirably has he administered its affairs that there is no doubt about his continuance in that capacity. Senator Kean is also a member of the committees on foreign relations, claims, territories, interstate commerce and private land claims.

As chairman of the committee on enrolled bills, Senator Dryden took up the position once held by the late Senator William J. Sewell. It is an important committee with plenty of work attached to it. The Senator is also a member of the committee on Canadian relations, immigration, interoceanic canals, and Library and University of the United States.

While the Representatives will all have new seats with the usual drawing for seats, Senators Kean and Dryden will probably retain their same seats. Senator Kean has seat No. 17, the second in the front row to the right of the Vice President; while Senator Dryden will occupy seat No. 40, the third seat in the second row, not far from that of Senator Kean.

---

John DeMeza, of West Second street, who has been enjoying a vacation of two weeks, returned to the local office of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, today. He is now in the special contract department.

TABLE LINENS.

The custom of employing the centrepieces with doilies to match is a revival of the old style of several years ago. Some new ones show doilies in several sizes, but most of them are in only two sizes, one for the plate, the other for finger bowls or bread and butter plates. Among the most expensive centrepiece sets shown is that of sheer linen and burano lace. This is a new handmade lace from Italy of firm, though fine fibre. It is worked upon net which is also handmade.

Pretty linen sets may be bought at all prices to meet all tastes. For the woman who has time and talent very pleasant occupation is to be found in making one. Fine, firm linen is the best for this purpose, and the embroidery should be in white linen thread. White silk floss is very handsome for embroidery, but unless laundered with exceptional care it soon turns yellow. Favorite patterns for stamping are the chrysanthemums, carnation and rose.

Care should be taken that centrepieces of embroidered linen are always ironed right side down on a thick piece of flannel. This will "throw out" the pattern. Starch should never be used, but the linen should be ironed while very damp until perfectly dry.

Table covers with wide lace insertions are very much liked. Those in the shops fetch big prices, but may also bee imitated in home work very successfully.

Very wide linen, such as is sold for sheeting, is bought and crocheted or torchon lace insertion and edging four to six inches in width used for trimming. The insertion may be run across the cloth six inches above the hem—that is, in four strips, two for the length, two for the width. These strips should cross each other and extend to the edges.—What To Eat.

THE FAIR VOYAGER.

For the friend who is to take a voyage, or for one's own outfit, there is a host of small contrivances that add to the traveler's comfort. A compact little medicine case, filled with remedies, may be had, with four or six bottles.

A small air cushion to chink in behind one or under one's arm in the steamer chair is pretty sure to be a welcome gift, if it is enclosed in a sightly, washable cover.

A stateroom bag, with pockets for small traps, is a necessity. If it be mtde of thin stuff, so as to fold compactly, it will be a convenience later at hotels on the route of railroad travel. It should have six or eight pockets and be fitted at the top with loops, by which to suspend it, and should be accompanied by brass screw hooks from which to hang it. Natural colored linen, bound with red, is always a useful material for such a bag, because it may be washed. Sometimes these bags have pockets of flowered chintz, which is pretty against a linen background.

Another very useful little convenience is the celluloid case into which to slip the brush end of the tooth brush when one is traveling. A tooth brush bottle is apt to require too much room, and this little device adds to neither bulk nor weight. It may be found on any toilet goods counter.

A litle case in which to carry sewing utensils is another needful thing. The most practical kind is made of linen bound with braid, and it is just big enough for thread-winders, needles, little scissors, a small roll of tape, a string of shoe buttons, some buttons for underclothing, a few shirt waist buttons for emergencies, thimble, darning cotton and glovemender.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

On the Track of the Fuzes.—Ezra La Fuze and family entertained Taylor George and family Sunday.

Lelah Hamilton, of College Corner, and Stella La Fuze visited Delpha Shendler Monday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Irving La Fuze, June 23, a baby girl.

Mrs. Mary Ross entertained Mrs. Dess Hunt, Mrs. Ethel La Fuze and Mrs. May Ross last Thursday.

Elma Stevens spent Saturday night and Sunday with Stella La Fuze.

Mrs. Ed. Shendler and daughter and Mrs. Mary Foreman called on Mrs. Joe La Fuze and daughter Tuesday afternoon.

Edith La Fuze spent part of the week with her sister, Mrs. Everett Gardner.—La Fuze cor. Lake City (Minn.) Advocate.

The One Thing Needful in Maine.—That Maine farmer, charged with robbing a postoffice, has shown that he had no connection with the affair. Now let him prove that he doesn't put all the little apples at the bottom of the barrel and his vindication will be complete.—Portland (Me.) Advertiser.

A Quick Lunch.—(Sent to this department by a Columbia University man with request to print.) Dr. and Mrs. Quick gave a dinner Saturday night in honor of the seventy-seventh birthday of Dr. Quick's father, Mr. J. V. Quick. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Quick, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Quick, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Quick, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt Quick, J. W. Quick and mother, Mrs. Clara Quick, Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Quick, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bubb, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hawxhurst, and Mrs. M. E. Thorne.—Falls Church (Va.) Village Press.

---

Mrs. William Buell, of Atlantic City, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Josephs, of Willow avenue.

ADVICE TO BUSINESS WOMEN.

It is an astonishing fact, but a true one, nevertheless, that some girls have framed a habit of calling on men at the latter's place of business and remaining after hours in the office where they are employed in order to talk to the men. Such conduct shows a lack of pride and dignity and is a serious mistake.

A girl should never be tempted to call upon a man at his place of business, nor at his house, either, for that matter. Of course, if his mother or sister invite her to the house it is quite another matter.

If a man thinks enough of you to care to see you often, he will find a way to do so without asking you to call on him. When you go to see him you are simply saving him the trouble of coming to see you.

The habit of lingering after business hours to chat with the young men in the office is also a bad one. When you are through with attending to your duties, leave the office. A business office is not the place for fun and social conversation. If the young men wish to talk to you they should seek you in your own home. This chattering will not raise you in your employer's estimation.

From the moment you enter the office until wou leave it attend solely to your duty. No matter how great your friendship with one of your fellow wokers, treat him during office hours as you would treat a comparative stranger. Dignity is an invaluable asset to the business woman.

TESTING SILK, WOOL AND LINEN.

It is often difficult to tell, certainly, whether a fabric is all wool, or a mixture of wool and cotton. An infallible test is as follows: Take the bolt of goods at the cut end and examine closely the crosswise thread, slowly pulling apart. If it breaks almost evenly and comes apart slowly, then one is safe in judging it to be all wool; but if it breaks in short, uneven strands and falls apart easily, it is undeniably cotton. It is much more satisfactory to get either all wool or all cotton.

Silk may be judged by its thickness, if for street costumes, as it must have "body" to it. Avoid flimsy silk as you would a plague, for it will drag from the seams, hang limpy and be altogether unsatisfactory. Silk may also be judged by the thread. Pull the thread from the end, as in testing cottons and woolens. If the thread is well rounded and firm, and does not split apart at the touch, it is safe to conclude that it will stand service. Or, make a crease with the finger nail; if the crease dents deeply, and does not soon come out the silk is substantial and worth a good price. If the crease disappears immediately and leaves a torn or cut thread in its place, it is inferior and not to be purchased.

For testing linens, simply take up the corner of the cloth and stretch it over a dampened finger. Should it spot immediately, it is undoubtedly pure linen. Cotton will not absorb water quickly, and linen takes water like a blotter takes ink. A silk shirt waist and light weight broadcloth skirt will outwear two linen dresses, and save laundry expenses.

No merchant is foolish enough to guarantee a glove which costs less than $1.50, an dto buy them is only presenting him with the money for which he guarantees you absolutely nothing. There are no bargains in cheap goods, for no merchant will sell his goods, even on the "bargain counter" unless he gets at least the cost and a little profit over for them. —Men and Women.

MISTAKEN FOR BURGLAR.

Apparently Demented Man Pursued and Captured at Somerville.

Somerville, Dec. 4—An apparently demented man, who was mistaken for a burglar, was captured by Constable John Bunn and a posse of farmers at North Branch Thursday night and landed in the county jail here at midnight. The man led his pursuers a wild chase across country and was run down on the meadows near the North Branch Hotel. The stranger had been acting in a mysterious manner about the village Thursday. He was caught in the act of hiding a set of tools in a doghouse in the rear of the village hotel. The loungers at the hotel were sure that the tools were for house-breaking purposes and that the man was a burglar.

A posse was formed at the hotel, which caught up with the man as he was leaving the village. The man started on a run and drew a package from his pocket, which he threw in the bushes by the road side. When he was captured he was in great terror of the posse and talked incoherently. When arraigned before Justice of the Peace Kitchen here his condition was improved. He said that he was Harry Oxton, of Jersey City, but refused to give his street address.

He claimed to be an iron molder who was traveling from High Bridge to Jersey City, when, for some reason which he could not explain, he was impelled to jump from the train when it stopped at a country station. The tools found in the doghouse are like those used by iron molders. The man's story was further verified by a memorandum book found in his pocket bearing the name of Henry Oxton, ironworker. He also had a railroad ticket reading from Whitehouse to Jersey City in his pocket. He will be held for a further hearing.

SOME RECIPES.

Apple Sauce Cake.

Stir to a cream one-half cup butter and one cup sugar. Add one cup apple sauce, into which a teaspoonful of soda has been stirred, one cup raisins, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful each cloves and nutmeg, one-half cup butternut meats, and a cup and three-quarters of flour.

Nut Cake.

Cream together two cups of sugar and a half cup butter. Add the yolks of two eggs well beaten and a cup rich milk. Sift together in another bowl three cups pastry flour and two teaspoonfuls baking powder or a teaspoonful soda. Sift three times, then add to the other ingredients together with two cups chopped butternuts or hickory nuts, and a teaspoonful salt. Add also two cups seeded raisins, dredged with flour, and if desired a little grated nutmeg or other spice. Lastly fold in the beaten whites of two eggs, without stirring any more than necessary, and bake in a moderate oven about an hour.

Crullers.

Beat to a cream one tablespoonful of butter and a cup of sugar. Add one whole egg and the yolk of another beaten light, one cup rich, sweet milk, one scant teaspoonful salt and three cups flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls baking powder. Mix lightly, turn on to a floured board, and cut into rings. Fry in deep, hot fat, taking care not to put too many in tae kettle at once. As soon as they come to the surface turn by putting the tines of a large fork through the hole of the doughnut so as not to pierce the cake itself. As soon as done lift out in the same way, shake thoroughly, and drain on butcher's paper. When almost dry roll in powdered sugar.

To Slice Pineapples.

The toughness of pineapples is almost entirely eliminated by slicing the fruit up and down, from stem to blossom end, instead of through the core, as is usually done. Thrust a fork into the blossom end to hold the apple steady, and slice until you come to the hard, pithy core, which can then be discarded. The trick was taught me by an old pineapple grower and makes all the difference in the world in the tenderness of this fruit, which is usually hard and chippy when sliced with instead of against the grain.—National Magazine.

Somerset Croquettes.

Among cheese dishes that hold a high place for the epicure, and are often passed with dressed lettuce for a salad course, melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, and one-fourth bup of flour and pour on, gradually, while stirring constantly, two-thirds of a cup of milk. When the boiling point is reached add one-half cup of grated Gruyere cheese and the yolks of two eggs unbeaten. As soon as the cheese melts, remove from the range, fold in one cup of mild cheese, cut in very small cubes and season with salt and cayenne. Spread in a shallow pan and cool. Shake in round croquettes, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again, fry in deep fat and drai non brown paper. These are attractively served on a folded napkin.—Newark Advertiser.

Banana Fritters.

Remove the skin from four bananas, scrape them and slice into thin, round pieces. Sprinkle with a little powdered sugar and a tablespoonful of lemon juice and stand aside while making the batter. Mix and sift together a cupful of flour, a pinch of salt, one tablspoonful of baking powder. Beat the yolk of an egg, with half cupful of milk, stir gradually into the dry ingredients and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten white of an egg. Add the bananas, drop by the spoonful and fry in deep fat. These are especially delicious when served with currant jelly sauce.

A TAME EEL.

A recent article on this interested me much. In the rotunda of a hospital in Cincinnati is a large granite basin supplied with clear and cold well water from a bronze figure of a boy standing on top of a large granite block and holding in an uplifted hand a leaking boot. About the base of the large block, which is supported by iron standards, so that it is about six inches above the bottom of the basin, are piled loose fragments of granite, with interstices for the passage of fish. In the basin are a number of bass, sunfish, smaly carp, minnows and goldfish. There were also two eels, one very large, and two turtles. I fed them two or three time a week on meat finely cut, bread crumbs, etc., and during the summer occasional grasshoppers and moths from about the arc lights. The became quite tame, and would come with a rush to take their food, and many of the bass and sunfish would take it from the hand, as would one turtle and the larger eel. This eel grew remarkably tame. It would not only take meat from the hand, but allow rubbing with a stick or the hand and would seem to enjoy it and turn over on its side for more, and finally could be lifted out of the water and would not attempt to get away. Many of the fish seemed to have regular habitats in some nook among the rocks. It was an interesting study.—Correspondence a Forest and Stream.

---

Miss Addie Harrison, of the borough, be returned from a visit with relatives at Warrenville.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Dec. 10: "The City of God"—Rev. xxii, 1-8.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Our race began its earthly course in a garden and ends in a city. It began in social isolation and closes in complex society of highest development.

In all the thinking the race has done regarding the future no literature in any language has preserved anything more soberly real, more poetically thrilling, than this insight of the Apostle John into the coming world.

It scarcely need be said that the deep truth in this passage has to do with the life of men more than with the changes of the physical world. Pearl gates as a spiritual figure are wondrously valuable and beautiful, but as a mere material thing would give too much care for keeping them clean. And far better material for traffic purposes can be found than pavements of gold. But no better illustration of the worth of righteousness can be found than these same expressions of the sacred book. How dear and precious they have become to us by familiarity and association, and how restful they are to the weary soul when, pressed and hungry in the strife of earth, we long for a land of pure delight!

Did you ever sit down and carefully think over this selection item by item? If not, then do so now.

A river of pure water—how much that means! Water of life! It is not stagnant. It is clear, cool, sparkling, refreshing. What will not that mean to me! Soul thirst and weariness satisfied, the aches of heart, the sore disappointments and spirit wounds all cured!

Coming out of the throne, the throne of God; never failing source of all that is desirable; sure as God's nature, enduring as His eternity; part of His own divine satisfaction given for me. We are partakers of the same nature and share in the same enjoyments.

Trees are there—not far away, but in the street and bordering it—trees for shade, trees for fruit. How much that means here on earth! How much more it must mean in heaven—enough for all soul cravings and all soul capacities; beauty as well as benefit in growth; healing trees there, for all sickness must be banished in our new home of the soul.

No curse there. What a city that will be—no slums, no night scenes, no dark side, no heartrending crimes and poverty, no misery shrinking from publicity, no rottenness of rulership, no greed, no grime, no pollution! God's throne is there, the throne of the Lamb. How much that will mean to us who have grown heartsick and homesick for peace and purity! His servants shall serve Him. Blessed privilege! No fear of men and no dread of consequences if we do the right thing. Blessed relief and consolation, freedom to be good and do justly.

See His face. We have longed for that. The child away from home, at school or in the far city at work, when the night comes and the homesickness will steal over one in spite of all that can be done, then, as the great tears overflow, how the heart longs for the sight of mother's face, just to see her a little hour! Oh, for the sight of my Father's face to give me courage in the hard struggle of life!

Over all of us there comes an unutterable, almost an unbearable, longing for the sight of faces which have faded from our sight and can no longer greet us evermore on this earth. What would we not give just for one little momentary glimpse of those features which appear to us only in infrequent dreams! Stronger than all this yearning of heart comes the soul cry for the face of my God, my Saviour. I shall see Him, and I shall be satisfied.

Bishop Gilbert Haven is reported to have said when nearing his end, "The first thing I want to do when I get to heaven is to see Jesus and fall at His feet and worship Him, and then I want to find her," mentioning the name of the loved wife who had preceded him there many years, "and then to rest."

That expresses it all. We shall reign forever and ever.

Faith's Real Victory.

Faith's real office and faith's real victory is in trusting the helm to Jesus in the fogs and through the dark hours. Everybody can trust God in the sunshine and over smooth water. It is easy to commit our way to the Lord when that way is as clear as the noonday. Faith's inspiring command is: Commit the helm to the Pilot when you cannot see your hand before your face, when the clouds have extinguished every star and no lighthouse of human guidance is in sight. Jesus can see in the dark if we cannot. That is a cheering truth to many a minister who is laboring under numerous discouragements. Take the Pilot on board, brother. Call all hands in the church to the oars, commit the helm to Him, and may the Holy Spirit send you "favoring gales" of blessing. The winds and the waves obey the Son of God. He who has promised, "Lo, I am with you alway," never forgets His disciples now any more than He forgot His disciples on that tempestuous night when He came to them walking on the billows. John Newton recalled his own experiences as a sailor when he wrote the cheering lines:

> By prayer let me wrestle,
> And he will ...
> With Christ in the vessel
> I smile at the storm.

—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

Patience.

"Let patience have her perfect work" and bring forth celestial fruits. Trust God to weave your little thread into a web, though the pattern show not yet. —George MacDonald.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 10.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The city of God.—Rev. xxii, 1-4.

The character of life in the future is a subject that has a deep interest for every one who sincerely believes in a future existence, and the evidences in its favor are so many and so strong that no one should doubt it. God has fully recognized this attitude of man toward the future and has given us many revelations concerning the future in the Bible. Moreover, the conditions of the future are described in a way that we can understand them, and we may also believe that our life here is similar in many respects to the future life, with the exception that while sin has made earthly life imperfect there will be no imperfection in the heavenly life. As an illustration of the fact that heavenly things are intelligibly described we find heaven itself symbolized as a home, a country and a city. Such descriptions are readily understood. We know what a city is, and when heaven is described as the city of God we have some conception of what it will be and are filled with longings to make it our eternal abode.

The city of God is the dwelling place of God, of his Son, the angels and the redeemed of earth. We often hear the question, "Where is heaven?" and can only answer, It is where God dwells. To the dying repentant thief Jesus said, "Today shalt thou be with Me in paradise." Heaven is where Christ is, and Christ is with God. The exact locality is unknown. The earth transformed may be the final abode of God and His people. But, wherever it is, it is the city of God, the place where God dwells, and if we are the faithful children of God in this life it will also be our eternal home. More than this we do not need to know, and more than this God in His wisdom has not seen fit to reveal. Being satisfied with this, we should make it the supreme business of life here to make it our abiding place in the future regardless of its actual locality.

The city of God is a most attractive city. The descriptions of it in the Bible may be figurative and typical, but if they fall short in portraying it as it actually is the lack is on the side of incompleteness rather than of exaggeration. The type is inferior to the reality. The picture is underdrawn rather than overdrawn, for "eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him." In the city of God there shall be no impurities, no unfruitfulness, "no more curse," for there shall be no sin. "There shall be no night there, and they need no candle, neither light of the sun, for the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign forever and ever." We shall see Him face to face, and His name shall be in our foreheads. We shall be everlastingly saved and redeemed. If such descriptions are short of the reality, what must the reality be? Can you afford to lose the opportunity of becoming an inhabitant of the city of God?

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xlvi, 1-11; Ezek. xlvii, 1-12; John xiv, 1-3; I Cor. ii, 9; Phil. iii, 20, 21; Heb. xi, 8-16; xii, 18-29; I Pet. i, 3-9; Rev. xxi, 1-4, 10-27.

Thoughtful For Youth Today.

Life is glorious. It is good to be young today. Let us not be behind our times. Let us know our country and study her welfare. Let us believe in the church and eagerly uphold her honor and her labors. And while we ask the church to be thoughtful for the youth today we may not forget that even tomorrow we shall be that older membership charged to turn and help on those that will follow us.—Von Ogden Vogt.

A Pen Point Thought.

No society is doing its whole duty that is not a stepping stone to full membership in the church of Christ.—Francis E. Clark.

At Baltimore.

This witty bit of verse, an epitome of the Baltimore convention by Amos R. Wells, was read at the dinner given to the Baltimore committee by the United society trustees:

> Not a crank and not a bore
> Worked his grind at Baltimore.
>
> Showers of rain and blessings pour
> Easily at Baltimore.
>
> No mosquitoes dive for gore
> In the halls of Baltimore.
>
> Lovely ladies by the score
> Fluster hearts at Baltimore.
>
> Beautiful the Chesapeake shore
> And the bay at Baltimore.
>
> True and loyal to the core
> Is C. E. at Baltimore.
>
> Not the angels' voices soar
> Sweeter than at Baltimore.
>
> Till the sounds of earth are o'er
> No more choirs like Baltimore.
>
> Till I die and travel lower,
> No more heat like Baltimore.
>
> Till I be a second Noah,
> No more rain like Baltimore.
>
> Crabs and terrapin galore
> Tickled tongues at Baltimore.
>
> Streets amazing to explore
> In the maze of Baltimore.
>
> Everywhere an open door
> In men's hearts at Baltimore.
>
> Optimism to the core
> Everywhere at Baltimore.
>
> Youth and merriment galore
> And good cheer at Baltimore.
>
> Best of all this bounteous store,
> Atwood's band at Baltimore.
>
> Hail in one applauding roar
> Thy committee, Baltimore.
>
> When my auburn hair is hoar
> I'll remember Baltimore.
>
> And we will exclaim: "Encore!
> We'll come again to Baltimore!"

GOFF SENTENCE ABSURD

State's Leading Newspaper Tells Why Plainfield is Surprised at Court's Action.

TOTALLY INADEQUATE

If Judge Vail Had Followed Judge Foster's Rule Man Indicted for Running Speak-easy Would Have Paid $2,000.

In the following editorial, the Newark Evening News reviews the history of the Goff case and declares that if "anybody with a grain of common sense supposes that the $50 fine imposed would put an end to the scandal" they will find how grievously they were mistaken:

"The scandal over the operation of a speak-easy in Plainfield by one John Goff has not been silenced by the fining of that individual for selling liquor without a license, but has rather been increased. Plainfield has the most progressive license system in the State of New Jersey. The cost of a license to sell liquor is $1,000 per annum, and in addition there is a 'saloon zone,' outside of which no person can secure the privilege of selling liquor. Goff applied for a license but was refused. Nevertheless he continued to sell. The police did not attempt to close him up, but the members of the Police Committee of the Common Council, going over the head of the chief, raided the place on a Sunday night, found the bar-room crowded with drinkers, and brought about the indictment of the proprietor. As a consequence, Mayor Buckle took a hand in the matter, appointed a Police Commission, and thus attempted to take from the councilmen the power of interfering with the police. The law under which this action was taken was, however, declared unconstitutional, with the result that the old order of things was established, and this was followed by the announcement that the chief of police would be tried on charges of not performing his duty. In the mean time, Goff, who had originally pleaded not guilty to the indictment against him, retracted his plea and entered one of non vult, thus avoiding a trial that was expected to prove sensational. It was announced that he would be sentenced today, but unexpectedly he was brought before the court last Friday morning, when there was no one present except the judge and jury, and was fined $50, which he paid.

"These are the facts in the case that have stirred up the people of Plainfield afresh. Goff's attorney has tried to make it appear that there were no unusual features regarding the arraignment of his client or the amount of the fine imposed. He has announced to the public that the penalty inflicted was the maximum for the offense charged. But Plainfielders will not forget that in Monmouth County recently Judge Foster fined illegal liquor sellers as high as $1,000, and in Camden last week the same class of offenders were forced to pay as high as $125 and costs. In the Asbury Park cases, the rule laid down by Judge Foster was to make the fine twice the amount he would have charged for a license. Had the same method been adopted in the Plainfield case Goff would have been forced to pay $2,000 for selling liquor without a license, to say nothing of the fact that he was doing business on Sunday when discovered.

"Is it any wonder, therefore, that the people of Plainfield are scandalized by what they call a miscarriage of justice? They remember, too, the allegations that Goff had a 'pull' because he patronized the Rising Sun Brewery, of Elizabeth, which is controlled by leading Republican politicians of Union County, including a former Governor. It also remains in their memory that there had been an attempt to secure a license for Goff by the chairman of the Republican county committee on the ground that the liquor seller had always been a liberal contributor to campaign funds. Would anybody with a grain of common sense, therefore, suppose that the $50 fine imposed would put an end to the scandal? If there be any such, they will find how grievously they were mistaken."

"SYMPOSIUM" DOOMED.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Public Printer Stillings, who has just assumed office, has stamped his disapproval of the "symposium business," or money lending associations in the big public printery, and hereafter under no circumstances will the symposiums be again permitted to flourish here.

Mr. Stillings plans to clean up the whole business of money lending in a short but effective manner. Not only does he propose forcing the payment of exisiting "symposium" debt, but legitimate debts of every kind. He does not believe that a man or woman can do a fair day's work if harrassed with debts.

It has been shown conclusively that the borrowers of money at 2 per cent. per week cannot hold up long, and it has also been made public that several of the managers and treasurers of these money lending concerns have mismanaged affairs, and their friends and families, to say nothing of the stockholders, have suffered.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, DEC. 7, 1905

County seat papers report that a Union county lawyer has been robbed. Turn about is fair play.

Lest we forget—what has become of that proposed building ordinance which will put an end to spite-houses?

Newark newspaper man has resigned his membership on a State commission. Couldn't have been any money in the job.

As Sam Bernard would say, the Army and Navy people got a "sufficiency" of Princeton on Saturday—in one respect if not in another.

Mr. Carnegie's hero fund commission will please note the fact that an insurance director has quit his position because he experienced pangs of conscience in drawing $300 a week for doing nothing.

At any rate the Elizabeth minister who says that he is in entire sympathy with the movement yet cannot conscientiously take part in a union revival campaign certainly cast his logic to the winds in writing his declination.

The Civil Service Commission declares that the great defect in the federal service today is the lack of opportunity for ambitious, well educated young men.—New Item.

James M. Beck, now counsel for the Standard Oil Company, is but one example to prove the fallacy of this contention.

There's nothing stingy about the religious people of New Brunswick when it comes to furnishing means to fight Satan with. Over $1,400 was donated for the expenses incident to the revival movement, and that amount could easily have been doubled, were it needed.—New Brunswick Home News.

Don't you think it's needed, brother?

Certainly the Elizabeth Journal has a queer idea of college spirit and athletics when it argues that because Harvard's football receipts have fallen off, the public will decide the fate of that enjoyable sport. There is not one penny of income from varsity oarsmen's contests. In fact there is a very heavy expense incurred in maintaining a crew, but what institution would abandon the sport for that reason? The same is generally true of college baseball, hockey, and track and field sports. Fortunately college spirit has not got a pecuniary basis.

RECORDER DOUD BREAKS ALL FINING RECORDS

COLLECTS A TOTAL OF $127 FROM TEN PRISONERS.

In disposing of ten prisoners who came before him Monday, Recorder Doud broke all records for enriching the borough treasury through his department. He collected a total of $127, divided in fines ranging from $5 to $27.

Of the seven Italians arrested by Chief Weiss and Marshall Emmons Sunday night, but two got off luckily. They willingly paid $5 each to gain their freedom, while their five compatriots had to hand up $15 each. The penalty in the latter cases was made more severe because their pockets yielded up two pistols and several wicked looking knives. J. Caneparo, keeper of the French delicatessen store on Somerset street, who sold the Italians part of the wine and whiskey that made them drunk, was arraigned on a charge of illegal selling and was fined $20 and seven days. He paid $27 to keep out of jail.

William Calloway, arrested for disorderly conduct, contributed $5, while Theodore Wilson, taken in custody at the same time, failed to appear. A friend had deposited $10 bail for him and the court made this the amount of the fine and appropriated the money.

Detective Totten, of Somerville, viewed the proceedings, and it is said he will prefer a county charge of illegal liquor selling against Caneparo. The borough police had been watching his place for a long time, but did not get sufficient evidence to arrest him until the Italians told where they had gotten their wet goods.

Auto Supply to be Low.

F. L. C. Martin has returned from a three weeks' business trip through the West having visited automobile factories in St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Lansing, Jackson, Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton, Indianapolis, Buffalo and Syracuse. He reports that most of the leading factories have sold their entire next year's output to their agents and that consequently it looks like a shortage in good cars for next season.

AMUSEMENTS.

Richard Carle, the player-playwright, who scored so decided a hit with his new farcical opera, "The Mayor of Tokio," in Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, will open his New York engagement on Monday, December 4, at the New York theatre. Mr. Carle is probably the most versatile musical comedian in the United States, inasmuch as he is a librettist, composer, producer, star and manager. Mr. Carle plays the character of Marcus Orlando Kidder, a comic opera impressario, who has gone broke with his luckless company thousands of miles from Broadway. By a peculiar chain of circumstances Kidder and his Komiques, as the troupe is called, become entangled with the destinies of the Mayor of Tokio. This entaglement results in a series of humorous misunderstandings and complications, which keep the audience interested and laughing during the course of two acts. Aside from the personal hit scored by Mr. Carle, a splendid impression has been made by the "Peanut Ballet," nine little girls whose dancing borders on the sensational. They were selected by Mr. Carle from a number of Western musical productions and are probably the youngest ballet on the stage, as their average age is between sixteen and seventeen years. Among the members of Mr. Carle's excellent supporting company are Fred Frear, William Rock, John Wallerstedt, Jo Smith Marba, Jess Caine, William H. Platt, Hortense Mazurette, Emma Janvier, Adele Rowland, Minerva Courtney, Madge Vincent, Ethel Lloyd and Ada Mitchell. In addition there is a large ensemble which was christened by a Boston dramatic writer, "The Blue Ribbon Chorus of America."

The phenomenal success that is rewarding the limited coster engagement of James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering in Alfred Sutro's wonderful play, "The Walls of Jericho," at the Savoy theatre, New York, speaks louder than words the appreciation that the public holds for this great drama, which has been proclaimed the play of the year. In New York "The Walls of Jericho" is only repeating the same story of success it enjoyed in London, where it is still being played, a fact which also serves to demonstrate that when it comes to a drama of strong, human interest, a play which deals with life as it really exists today, and one that touches the heart, the opinion of its merits, no matter how widely at variance the audiences of England and America may have been about other plays, their appreciation of "The Walls of Jericho" are one and the same. In its appeal, which is direct, the Sutro play possesses untold value in its forceful endeavor to put the stage to its legitimate and almost forgotten purpose, in a word, acting as a moral agent, it enforces a salutary lesson by administering its teachings in the form of interesting entertainment. During this engagement two matinees are given weekly, on Thursdays and Saturdays.

Charles Dillingham will present Thomas W. Ross in a new comedy called "A Fair Exchange" at the Liberty theatre this evening. This piece is by Henry Blossom, the author of "Checkers," and was written especially for Mr. Ross, who has been fitted with a glovelike nicety in this production. The new play comes to New York with the enthusiastic endorsement of the critics of Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis and other large cities. The plot of the comedy deals with the adventures of a young ranchman, Cliffe Austin, played by Mr. Ross, who has made a fortune in Arizona and comes East to visit his sister. At first he finds it hard to conform to the manners and habits of the Easterner. He is a typical Westerner, clear-headed and long-sighted, and he soon discovers the scheme of a broker who is preying upon his sister's property. The main thread of the plot, however, hinges on the result of a yacht race which is to be sailed between this broker and a friend of Cliffe's. The broker plies his rival with wine until he is in no condition to command his boat. Cliffe, who has only a theoretic knowledge of yachting, takes his place, and though outsailed and beaten at every point, he manages to have the race declared a draw on a technicality. The hero gets himself in no end of trouble trying to right his sister's affairs and makes countless enemies, at one time coming dangerously near losing the love of the girl whom he subsequently marries. This comedy is one of the cleverest seen on the American stage in years, and fairly bristles with bright up-to-date repartee and scintillates with good-natured satire. Mr. Dillingham has engaged a very strong supporting cast, among whom are Lizzie Hudson Collier, Bijou Fernandez, Claire Kulp, Channez Olney, Gertrude Doremus, John Flood, George Parsons, Percy F. Ames and Forrest Robinson.

Julian Mitchell has become famous as a producer of magnificent musical plays, but none that he has done in the past equals in harmony of pictures and novelty of features his latest piece, "Wonderland," at the Majestic theatre, New York. The house is filled every evening, and so freshly has it appealed to the discriminating theatre-goer of the city and its environs that the boxes are all engaged for a long time in advance by the best known people in society. Miss Alice Roosevelt's recent visit to the Majestic has been followed by the appearance there of many leaders of the swell sets. There are several things in "Wonderland" that would, any one of them, be sufficient to make an ordinary musical comedy success. The "Nature Class" song is even more popular than "I Can't Do That Sum" was in a former success at this theatre. Miss Lotta Faust's "Pauline" makes nightly hits. Miss Bessie Wynn has another of her splendid boy parts. Miss Aimee Angeles justifies her reputation as the best dancer ever seen on Broadway. In the matter of stage pictures Mr. Mitchell is known as the Belasco of musical comedy, has distanced all his previous efforts. The transformation scene, in which a flood descends upon a department store and carries the actors into the land of enchantment is regarded as a wonderful piece of stage magic. The costuming of "Wonderland" is exquisite. It is a quality of Mr. Mitchell's work in this direction that his colors never clash, but blend delicately into alluring combinations. As for the music, Victor Herbert is at his best in this piece.

What a New York Hippodrome spectacle means in expense may be casually estimated by any visitor to the big playhouse this week by an inspection of one item, the costumes, of the coming production, "A Society Circus," which are now in view in the promenade. It was to offset the popular idea that all that glitters behind the footlights is the cheapest of tinsel that Thompson & Dundy are showing the dresses to be worn in the flower ballets, and a few of the court costumes which will illuminate the stage on December 11. These are merely a small percentage of the whole, but a vision of gorgeous fabric and artistic design which enthralls the senses. The designs are by Archie Gunn and Alfredo Edel, and Parisian modistes have brought them out in velvet and satin. There are 175 out of a total of 982 costumes on exhibition, the approximate cost of the whole being $160,000, the largest amount ever expended for theatrical properties.

Charles Dillingham presents Thomas W. Ross in a new comedy called "A Fair Exchange" at the Liberty theatre. This piece is by Henry Blossom, the author of "Checkers," and was written especially for Mr. Ross, who has been fitted with glovelike nicety in this production. The new play has the enthusiastic endorsement of the critics of Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis and other large cities. The plot of the comedy deals with the adventures of a young ranchman, Cliffe Austin, played by Mr. Ross, who has made a fortune in Arizona and comes East to visit his sister. At first he finds it hard to conform to the manners and habits of the Easterner. He is a typical Westerner, clear-headed and long-sighted, and soon discovers the scheme of a broker who is preying upon his sister's property. The main thread of the plot, however, hinges on the result of a yacht race which is to be sailed between this broker and a friend of Cliffe's. The broker plies his rival with wine until he is in no condition to command his boat. Cliffe, who has only a theoretic knowledge of yachting, takes his place, and though outsailed and beaten at every point, he manages to have the race declared a draw on a technicality. The hero gets himself in no end of trouble trying to right his sister's affairs and makes countless enemies, at one time coming dangerously near losing the love of the girl whom he subsequently marries. This comedy is one of the cleverest seen on the American stage in years, and fairly bristles with bright up-to-date repartee and scintillates with good-natured satire. Mr. Dillingham has engaged a very strong supporting cast, among whom are Lizzie Hudson Collier, Bijou Bernandez, Claire Kulp, Channey Olney, Gertrude Doremus, John Flood, George Parsons, Percy F. Ames and Forrest Robinson.

George Edwardes' great company in "Veronique" continues to draw capacity audiences to the Broadway theatre and will score one of the most successful runs made on the Rialto in many years. This piece is an entirely new departure in musical entertainment and one seeing it does not wonder that it made a run of over 500 nights at the Apollo theatre in London. Ruth Vincent proves a most captivating personality in the title role.

George M. Cohan's engagement in "Little Johnny Jones" at the New York theatre ended last Saturday evening, and he was followed on Monday evening by Richard Carle in his new musical play, "The Mayor of Tokio."

Monday Bowling Club's Meeting.

The Monday Night Bowling Club, comprised of society men and women, met at the Casino last night and spent a delightful time bowling and playing bridge whist. The new restaurant, recently opened by Mrs. Lena Heilstrom, was used for the first time, and all expressed great satisfaction over the service and menu.

Miss Florence Wohlfert, formerly of this city, but now of Westfield, was the guest of friends here yesterday.

Mrs. George Dufford, of West Front street, has returned from a visit with relatives at Whitehouse.

NEW RECTOR'S SERMON

Rev. George A. Warner Preaches From Holy Cross Church Pulpit.

NO PERSONALITIES

"No True Priest," He Says, "Ever Preaches Them"—Urges His Parishioners to Forget Old Sores in Church Life.

Rev. George A. Warner, the new rector of Holy Cross P. E. church, preached his first sermon since he accepted the rectorate at the church Sunday morning. In spite of the drenching rain there was a large congregation to welcome the new pastor. He was well received. The sermon, including personal reference, was much more than merely interesting, the manner in which it was delivered producing a strong and favorable impression. Mr. Warner's delivery was quiet and simple, but the earnestness back of the level tone gave his discourse a force and directness that held the close attention of all his hearers.

"It is hard for a new rector to master all the details of his charge in the beginning," said Mr. Warner, in part. "Be patient with your rector and lenient in your judgments. Remember that whatever I do, I am working only, and with the singleness of purpose, for your best interests.

"Some strong things may be said from this pulpit—straightforward, direct truths; but I want you to believe that there never will be anything of a personal nature in them. No true priest of God ever preaches personalities. Some of the things that are said may seem to strike you with a personal meaning, may cause you to look upon your own life in a new way—that is what the preachment of the truth is for—but nothing will be said with a personal bias. I do not know you well nor your personal lives, nor do I want to study your lives simply to build personal sermons.

"I want to be your pastor and your friend. I come here at the beginning of a new church year to make a new start in the parish life with you. I do not know much of your past history; I do not want to know much. I know what the future can be, and on that I fix my gaze and all my hopes. If there are any old sores, any old heartburnings, forget them. Be generous, and let not that which is past mar that which is to come in the future."

The keynote of Mr. Warner's sermon was the larger Christian life, greater generosity in giving both of the spirit and of the substance to the Lord.

"Be watchful and vigilant over your tongues," he said. "Criticism is so easy. Watch over the spirit of envy and jealousy which often mars the work of the churches. In the different organizations of the church—the guilds, the societies and circles—there is apt to be so much meanness and pettiness of spite. I have seen it. The petty, small, mean sins too often hurt the Church, and nullify the efforts of her faithful servants.

"Let us be generous in our giving. The church that spends but for itself; spends but to enlarge its own plant, is not the church that grows spiritually and is a good force in the community. We can make this church one of the leading ones in the diocese, and I pray that we will. I have written so to the bishop. Yes, let us give generously. I want to see the money of this church go freely to the diocesan and general missionary funds."

The service was a long one. The full litany was said, and to mark the occasion the choir sang special music. After the service Mr. Warner received warm greetings from the members of the parish who had not yet met him.

PREPARE FOR TURKEY SUPPER.

Trinity Reformed Organization Getting Ready for Annual Feast.

Several matters of interest were considered at the meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, held in the parlors of the church Monday afternoon. Mrs. A. L. Force and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, who attended the anniversary meeting of the Women's Executive Board of Domestic Missions, held in New York in November, presented reports of that meeting which were greatly enjoyed.

There was a discussion regarding the annual turkey supper, which will be held during the latter part of January or the first of February. Those in charge of the arrangements are Mrs. Emma Gillem, Mrs. A. E. Leggett and Mrs. Edward T. Van Winkle. There will be a more extended report at the January meeting. It was also proposed that a missionary tea be held next month, when it is hoped to have Mrs. Duryea present to make an address.

Informal Dance at Park Club.

Under the auspices of the entertainment committee an informal dance was held at the Park Club on Saturday night. There were about two hundred guests, including many from out-of-town. Music for dancing was furnished by vonDerHeid, of Newark.

AFTER THE SLOW PAYERS

Local Coal Dealers Formed Credit Association Saturday Night.

NO PRICE CONTROL

Combination, Dealers Say, Simply Designed to Realize on Bad Bills and Check Chronic Beats.

The Coal Merchants' Credit Association, organized to collect bad bills and prevent poor payers from getting any more coal until they reform, was formally launched Saturday night. All the local dealers are in the association, and Eugene Van Court, of Oak Tree, and J. D. Ten Eyck, of South Plainfield, are also members.

The sole and only object of the organization, the coal dealers say, is to realize as much as possible on their bad bills and to prevent people who aim to defraud them from obtaining coal. There is said to be an unusually large number of apparently worthless accounts on the books of the local dealers, and they are tired of furnishing coal for nothing to men who have all the symptoms of chronic dead beats.

It is emphatically denied that any move to boost or control the price of coal is behind the organization. Price control, it is said, is a matter wholly governed by the operators, and the dealers have no say in it.

The association will keep a list of poor payers and they will have a hard job getting coal without putting up the price. Slow payers who show a disposition to pay up, however, will not be reported.

The association elected these officers: President, H. O. Newman; vice-president, E. H. Holmes; secretary, W. D. Manning; treasurer, V. W. Nash, Sr.; board of trustees, Peter McDonough, John Johnston, Joseph Harrigan, J. Y. TenEyck and George O. Stevens.

ILL-TIMED COMPLIMENT.

One of the two was a ticket scalper. The other dabbles in various things, including mining stocks. "I heard a man, in fact, I have heard several men, pay you a very flattering compliment," said the man of the mining stocks, when the two met on Market street. "I don't tell you this to make you swell up with pride, but one of them declared that you were absolutely the smartest man in San Francisco, and the others all agreed with him."

"What's coming now?" queried the scalper.

"Oh, nothing. I thought maybe you would be interested in hearing yourself so highly complimented."

"Well, that's very flattering, of course."

"By the way, you know those mining stocks of mine?"

"Well?"

"Well, I need a little ready money. Could you let me have $3,000 or $4,000 on them."

"Say, look here! A moment ago you were telling me that I was the smartest man in San Francisco, and now you're trying to make me out a blithering idiot."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Leaves the Bench.

Judge Alfred F. Skinner, of the Essex County Court of Common Pleas, resigned his office last week, and will leave the bench on December 12. Governor Stokes formally acknowledged the receipt of the resignation, accepting it. Judge Skinner had notified him verbally of his intention a few days previously, and sent in the formal letter on Friday.

Fire in Minister's Home.

A bureau at the home of Rev. Mr. Creut, colored, on West Fourth street, caught fire in some way early Saturday afternoon and caused a lively blaze. An alarm was turned in from box 34 and the department responding used the chemical engine with good effect. The damage will reach $50. Mrs. Rosie Stout owns the house.

SCHOOL TO MOVE HERE

Head of Freehold Military Academy Buys Big Plot of Land

PLANS $40,000 BUILDING

Site at Prospect Avenue and Rahway Road, 800 Feet by 500 Feet —Grounds Will Be Handsome.

Authoritative announcement was made Monday a. m. of the sale of a plot of land at Prospect avenue, adjoining Rahway road, to Major Duncan, head of a military boarding school at Freehold, for a new site for his institution. The school will be moved to this city very shortly.

The plot measures 800 by 500 feet. The sale was made by Thompson & Manning, through the agency of Charles H. Lyman. The consid*eration was not named.*

The proposed removal of the school has been brought about by the necessity for more room. Major Duncan could not find a location to suit him in Freehold, and after looking about several sections of the State he settled upon Plainfield. The beauty and advantages of the city appealed to him, and when, a week ago, Mr. Lyman showed him the Prospect avenue site his decision was made. So much was Major Duncan taken up with Plainfield that he refused a free site and building on the Erie railroad rather than forego location here.

Plans for the new school building are being drawn. The structure will measure 100 feet wide by sixty feet deep. The grounds will be handsomely laid out, with campus and athletic field. The building will cost at least $40,000.

Major Duncan's school is exclusive. The new building will have accommodations for 100 pupils.

AROUND THE GLOBE.

Never before has there been so much personal intercourse between the monarchs of Europe. Within the last twelve months the Kaiser has met the rulers of all important European countries. King Edward is the only one with whom the Kai*ser did not shake hands this year.*—Konigsberger Zeitung.

The experiments that are being made in the Madras Presidency with the curing of tobacco grown there are of a most encouraging nature, and there is no reason why Indian-grown tobacco, if it gets fair play, should not cut out American in the English market.—Englishman, Calcutta.

The government intends shortly to distribute spoils taken in the war for exhibition at the Shinto shrines. Some time ago the London County Council rejected the offer of the British Government to present some guns taken in the Boer War, saying that things calculated to arouse warlike feelings should not be displayed in a public place. The sentiment is worthy of a great civilized nation. We hope that Japan, the ally of Great Britain, will show a similar love of peace.—Yorodzu, Tokio.

When the extent of the damage in the recent Suifu flood was realized, the officials of the city, going in solemn procession to the water's edge, and kneeling with their heads touching the ground, besought the river to desist. They even threw in their buttons, and the fu [illegible] official hat.—North China Herald, Shanghai.

There are no good and up-to-date novels dealing with school life. The only person we could possibly expect to be a successful writer of school novels would be an Oxford or Cambridge man endowed with the good taste of Thackeray, the sympathy of Dickens, the judgment of George Eliot, and the humor of Mark Twain.—Eton College Chronicle.

A Quiet Wedding.

Miss Evelyn May Arthur, of Grandview avenue, and Leonard C. Martenis, of Stebbins place, were quietly married Saturday night at the home of the bride by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. The couple will live in this city.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River. In effect June 25, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.26, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46 9.30, 9.53, 10.23, 11.00 a. m., 12.08, 12.44, 1.18, 2.21, 2.42, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 6.42, 7.08, 7.32, 8.35, 9.25, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.37, 4.47, 7.47, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 9.49 10.02, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.26, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44 4.13 4.47 5.30 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.52, 9.34, 10.06, 11.10 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 6.52 8.13, 8.36, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville 5.19, 7.12, 8.21, 9.22, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 2.11, 3.32, 4.52, 5.03, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.33, 8.08, 8.21, 9.27, 10.24, 11.26 p. m., 12.58 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.47 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.06 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 8.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55, a. m., 2.11, 5.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) —8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 4.13, 4.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52, a. m., 3.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.34, 1.18, 2.49; (4.13 p. m. Lakewood only.)

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.13 p. m. Sundays —8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 10.51, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.39, 2.45, 3.44, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.55, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.47, 9.47, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.12, 7.44, 8.44, 9.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.01, 1.39, 3.44 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.55, 10.51, a. m., 2.45, 4.15, 5.37, 6.45, 9.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, (10.51 Reading only), a. m., 2.45, (6.45, 8.21 through train.) 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m. 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and After November 26, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.37 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.10, 11.43 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.41, f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays —1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.41, 7.44, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.23 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., f 2.35 and f 6.41 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., f 6.41 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, and f 5.43 p. m., 12.51 night, week-days. Sundays—10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Ralroad

Time Table in Effect June 18, 1905.
LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 113-B.

Funeral of William I. Brower.

The funeral of William I. Brower was held from the home of his brother, John L. Brower, of East Fifth street, Saturday, with a gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was in charge. Interment was at Hillside cemetery, a delegation from Pacific Lodge, F. and A. M., of New York, acting as escort.

A business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

SATAN AND HIS IMPS

Rev. E. E. Roberson Believes They Exist and Tells Why.

ARGUES FROM PARASITE

Evil Influences Are Always at Work In Physical World, Why Not In Spiritual Realm?

Rev. E. E. Roberson, of Bound Brook, declared his belief in the existence of a devil and an attendant group of imps, in a talk at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. "The Devil—Is There One?" was Mr. Roberson's subject. In part, he said:

"I believe there is a devil, and evil spirits co-operating with him. The Bible teaches there is one and gives him a personality. People ask if there is any evidence outside of the Bible that there is a devil, and certainly we should be prepared to make plain to people the great revelation, outside of the Bible, so I will call upon other sources to substantiate to you that there is a devil.

"You might gather along the line of natural history evidence from all over the physical world. Take for instance in vegetable life; there are parasites of almost every variety and description, enemies of vegetable life that attack and make it difficult for the plant to reach its ultimate stage of maturity. Sum from the vegetable to the animal kingdom and we find a multitude of enemies that make life miserable and almost impossible to attain perfect development. Recently there have been issued on this subject some little tracts by the greatest scientists in this country and the old. One treated on the enemies of the fish. I said to myself, after reading it, 'It is a wonder there is one of the finny tribe left.' Another pamphlet referred to the enemies of the birds, and I said to myself that 'since there are so many enemies of the birds, it is a wonder there is a single feathered songster left,' and so it is from the lowest to the highest in the animal kingdom.

"The very air is filled with little insects and parasites and disease germs that attack and destroy life in many instances. What do these things suggest? I am going to ask you in all seriousness, do they not suggest to us that in the spiritual realm there are influences that try to drag us into corruption and everlasting death? These malignant influences and powers, the Bible tells us, are demons co-operating with Satan their chief, who is trying to destroy the power and spiritual aspirations.

"Now for a little actual experience. Take the drunkard. He reaches the point where he sees friends leaving him, property gone, his loves ones suffering and his love for them, which was once warm and pure grows cold, and he loves the public house better than his home, and stands there with the little nobility he has left and curses himself that he ever indulged in these things that have brought about such ruin. At one moment he curses himself and the next moment is at it again. He drinks and curses himself and curses himself and drinks again. By and by he gets worse, and the doctor tells him 'if you have another drunken sickness you will surely die; nothing can save you.' So he resolves he will not drink again. By and by he takes the cup again and then the drunken sickness comes again; his soul is in torment; he sees the demons about him, not only demons but hobgoblins of every kind while he is in the throes of delirium tremens. Can you explain it friends? I can only account for it in one way. Liquor bums nerves and tissues and destroys the will power of man. Can you account for it in any better way than by saying it is something connected with the prince of darkness?

"Take the gambler. The man comes into the city with a pure life, possibly from a rural district. After he takes the first step, something burns in his soul. What is that strange influence that makes him do what he does even though he does not desire to do so? As I look back over my own experience in Christ Jesus, I have made resolutions not to do this thing and that, as the Man on the Cross has been held up before me, with His pure life and noble character, he has won my heart and I have started to walk in his footsteps, but sometime in my life there has come up before me something that fascinated me and all before I knew it, I fell, transgressed and I remember that moment with remorse. If I did not do that myself, what made me lose my balance?

"Now friends in your lives as well as mine there has been something like that, why was it? There was somewhere a strong spiritual power that overpowered our better natures and tempted you to transgress. Now then take the history of the drunkard; the man who when temptation came did that which brought calamity and degradation upon him; take the suicide; as the idea first presents itself to him it is repulsive, but it burns within him until he puts the revolver to his brain, pulls the trigger and falls dead; take the man who gambles and spends not only his own but his employer's money. He keeps at it and at it until in a moment of desperation he takes his life. So all along throught the great catalogue of experience."

A. R. FISK ENGAGED TO AN OHIO BELLE

SON OF FORMER MAYOR FISK TO WED MISS EDITH COLLINGS.

The Cincinnati Tribune Sunday stated that Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Collings, of that city, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Collings, to Augustus R. Fisk, of this city. The engagement was made known at a dinner given by the parents of the fiancee at their mansion there on Saturday. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Collings is considered one of the most charming young women in exclusive society there and her family is socially prominent throughout Ohio. Her father is a vice-president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio and very wealthy.

Mr. Fisk is a son of former Mayor and Mrs. Charles Joel Fisk, of West Seventh street. He is a graduate of Yale and belongs to several clubs. On leaving college he was placed in the Boston office of the famous New York banking house of Harvey Fisk & Sons, of which his father is a member.

WITH SHOTGUN, HE HELD 50 MEN AT BAY

FARMER ARMED HIMSELF AND TELEPHONE-POLE HAD TO QUIT.

With a double-barrelled shotgun and his pockets bulging with ammunition, Abraham Garrabrant, a farmer at Brookdale, three miles from Bloomfield, held fifty men, employes of the Coast Line Telephone Company, at bay on his farm Saturday afternoon to prevent them from erecting telephone poles on his property.

The men had torn down several lengths of fence and dug several holes before they were discovered. When Garrabrant was told of what was going on he hastened to the scene, and when he ordered the men to stop work they laughed at him.

Richard Garrabrant, a son, who was with his father, told the latter to go back to the house and get his gun. After he had gone Richard seated himself on the fence. The elder Garrabrant had just got out of sight when the telephone men resumed their work of destroying the fence, in spite of the son's efforts to stop them. While Richard was perched on the fence it was cut down from under him and caused him to roll in the street.

The elder Garrabrant returned with his gun and commanded the men to get off his property or he would shoot. All obeyed and for an hour Garrabrant held the fort until Chief of Police Collins arrived with Policeman Smith. The telephone employes were ordered off the premises as trespassers who had no right there.

Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City, counsel for the telephone company, was communicated with and he advised that the men cease their efforts to put up the poles and said the case would be fought in the courts. Before the men went away Chief Collins compelled them to replace the fence and fill up the holes that had been dug for the poles.

JERSEY CENTRAL FILLING IN.

Important Work at Communipaw to Reclaim Swamp Land.

The Jersey Central has been doing a great and important work at Communipaw that will ultimately much improve and increase its facilities at that point. Swamp land estimated to bea mile square is to be reclaimed. The tract is between the present freight yards and the track leading to the National Docks and Storage Company, on the west, and between the main line tracks and New York Bay. About eighteen months' time and an enormous amount of filling will be required.

On the river front a new open pier 1,100 feet long will be built, and later more piers and coal trestles on both the river and bay fronts. At the western end of this yeard a new twenty-stall roundhouse will be erected. The cost of the work now being done will be $1,500,000.

Fresh Air Meeting.

The third annual meeting of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Association will be held at the Crescent Avenue church chapel on Monday, December 11, at 8 o'clock in the evening. Founder Morgan, Rev. E. M. Rodman, and Miss Sara Curry, the matron, will speak. Harold Willard, a boy singer, of this city, will appear.

Talk on the Alps.

H. C. Krebs, principal of the North Plainfield Public Schools, will give a talk on "Across the Alps and Through Italy," in Vincent chapel on Friday night, under the auspices of the Brotherhood. Refreshments will be served during the social hour.

ELKS LODGE OF SORROW

Annual Memorial Service Conducted in New Plainfield Theatre Sunday

PROGRAM ELABORATE

Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon Delivers the Customary Eulogy —Musical Features on High Order of Excellence.

In commemoration of departed brothers of the Order of Elks, Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, conducted its second annual lodge of sorrow in the New Plainfield theatre, Sunday afternoon. Though the local organization has been fortunate, in that it has lost no members by death, the programme was an elaborate one and was heard by a gathering that filled the auditorium. The main body of the lodge was seated in the center of the orchestra while the officers and special guests were upon the stage. It was graced by a pretty interior setting that was greatly enhanced by a row of potted plants and ferns that paralleled the footlights.

It has been intended that Rev. Otis A. Glazebrook, D. D., of Elizabeth, should give the customary memorial eulogy but he was taken ill Saturday and was unable to attend. The short notice gave no opportunity to secure another speaker and the task devolved upon Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon. To those who heard his address there were no regrets, for seldom has he ever spoken in a more convincing manner or held closer the attention of so large an audience. There were no flights of oratory but his remarks were rich in quotations and addressed as much to the living as of the dead.

Through it all, the Exalted Ruler sought to impress upon the Elks and their guests before him that death should not be looked upon with apprehension, as it is but the awakening of a new life and one that has beauties not possessed by earthly being.

"You remember that babe that bore your name some twenty, thirty or forty years ago," he said, "yet it is all a thing of the past and you have no regrets. Babyhood passed into youth; youth has succeeded by manhood and there was no sorrow. The changes meant the beginning of a new life and so it shall be with us when we are called to the Great Beyond.

"But while we are living, let us remember that we are carving our own memorials and so conduct ourselves that death may have charms for us. Memory is the golden bridge that spans the chasm between the present and the past and those of us living think of departed brothers but to write their faults upon the sands, their virtues upon tablets of love. The order of Elks today is a synonym for one who loves his neighbor and it embodies the spirit of the Good Samaritan. Let each member strive to do his share for his neighbor and by so doing, live the life that prepares the way for better things."

The musical features of the service were on a high order of excellence and were provided by Townsend H. Fellows, baritone; Henry Conrad, violinist; William Paulding DeNike, violincello, and Charles L. VanBaar, pianist. The programme in detail was as follows: Trio, "Prelude," Rachmaninoff, violin, 'cello and piano; opening ceremonies conducted by Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon; baritone solo, "The Lost Chord," Mr. Fellows; prayer, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman; hymn, "Nearer, My God to Thee;" violincello solo, "Berceuse," Godard, Mr. DeNike; memorial eulogy, Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon; baritone solo, "Heaven Is My Home," Mr. Fellows; closing exercises; trio, "Angel's Serenade," Braga, violin, 'cello and piano; hymn, "Abide With Me;" benediction, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman.

The officers of the lodge who were upon the platform were Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon; esteemed leading knight, Alexander D. Findlay; esteemed loyal knight, George O. Stevens; esteemed lecturing knight, Frank Rowley; secretary, Walter Freeman; treasurer, Lemuel B. Woolston; chaplain, B. Frank Coriell; esquire, Thomas Hanna; inner guard, John Bowman; tiler, E. C. Searing; trustees, James F. Buckle, Charles A. Reed and Herbert W. Stover.

The memorial committee consisted of L. A. Bellis, Charles J. Fisk, James Dodd, Charles A. Reed, George F. Schoonmaker, Charles J. Ward and S. P. T. Wilbur.

K. O. M. E. Dance.

The K. O. M. E. Club, of Netherwood, will hold a dance at the Fanwood fire house December 21. Christmas decorations will mark the affair.

Move for Memorial Hall.

An effort to raise a fund for a memorial hall to be dedicated to veterans of the Civil War has been started by the members of the John J. H. Love Camp, Sons of Veterans, in Bloomfield and Montclair. With this end in view a carnival and fair is to be held on December 18 in Tegakwita Hall.

VALUE OF THE COLLEGE

Mr. Randolph's Topic at University of Rochester Alumni Banquet.

SOME GOOD SPEAKERS

President Rush Rhees and Charles E. Hughes Among the Other After-Dinner Talkers.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, president of the New York Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange, was one of the principal speakers at the annual dinner of the University of Rochester's alumni in New York Monday night. Dr. Rush Rhees, president of the university, a nephew of Charles W. McCutchen and Samuel St. John McCutchen, of this city, was another prominent speaker. The others were former Lieutenant Governor Stewart L. Woodford, Dr. John F. Finley, president of the College of the City of New York; Charles E. Hughes, the insurance prober; Senator Armstrong, chairman of the insurance investigating committee; J. Sloat Fassett, Justice John M. Day, Willis S. Paine and William R. Willcox.

Mr. Randolph spoke at some length on the advantage of a college education in the business world and he also dwelt upon the self-sacrificing work of the educator. He said in part:

"The burning question with not a few business-men (even outside of the insurance profession) is—How much can I take and still stay out of purgatory and the penitentiary? If the limit were but clearly and certainly marked, a large percentage of men would live up to that limit. Neither the shortness of life nor the sense of personal responsibility serves to restrain the appetite for greed.

"It is refreshing to turn from a picture so saddening to such a one as we may contemplate in a noble university. Here the question always is —not how much can be got out of it for selfish satisfaction, but how much can be done for the world's benefit? Who ever knew the president, or any professor or instructor, of a university to go into the service in order to make money by it, or from any base motive whatever?

"To the sordid mind, President Rhees, your noble profession and your devoted life can have no attraction. For this reason, if for no other, the exalted ideal presented by the very inception of the university, and by its every effort and step of progress and by the life of every one of its ill-compensated and faithful officers and directors and workers, is of inestimable value to a world too much given over to the worship of Mammon.

"And yet it would be no welcome task of mine to decry or berate the world as we know it. Half a dozen centuries ago learning was hiding in monastic seclusion. Today our students and our seers work in the sunlight of a latter-day revelation. Even so with religious and ethical culture. It may yet be a far cry to the realization of the millenium of lofty faith and ideal behavior; but, as it was more than a Sabbath-day's journey from the state of degraded and wilful wickedness to that of the narrow and self-conscious but decent Pharisee, so it has been the journey of many days of intelligent self-abnegation from the Pharisee's admiration of the breadth of his own phylacteries to the unnumbered self-forgetting heroic lives of the prophets, who, today, make glad proclamation from the watch-towers of Zion.

"The cloister no longer imprisons the world's culture; and even the honored but limited institutions of learning of our own grandfathers' days have developed into magnificent universities in which all noble science and art and ethics are generously disseminated for the uplifting of a receptive humanity.

"The true value of a progressive and many-sided education is better understood than at any time in the past. Herbert Spencer justly rebuked those who 'assume that the goodness of education is to be tested by the quantity of knowledge acquired;— whereas it is to be much more truly tested by the capacity for using knowledge—by the extent to which the knowledge gained has been turned into faculty so as to be available both for the purposes of life and for the purposes of independent inquiry.'

"It is clear that Spencer viewed knowledge and culture as constituting capital capable, not only of reproduction and growth, but actually capable of evolution;—that is, having the power of self-transmutation into something always better in kind and quality. All this and more is involved in the function and mission of the modern higher education.

"Permit me as a man of business —one who has spent more than half a century in touch with the financial district of this metropolis—to take to the business life and world some slight credit for the enlarge outlook of our great educational institutions. I do not here refer to splendid endowments generously made by wealthy men of affairs. I refer rather to the attrition of thought and the reciprocation of idea and purpose between the man of affairs and the man of learning and the increasing value of the modern college-graduate in the business-life of today. The university is learning—has learned— what the world of today wants, and is furnishing that very desideratum. The world is learning what the university needs and is rushing enthusiasticaly to supply those needs.

"Marry then the university to the world's aspiration. Harness the deep thought of the scholar to the worthy ambition of the secular worker. Unite the serene, star-eyed ideal to the mighty practical purpose of humanity's strenuous life. Kindle with the flame fresh from your divine altar the ever spontaneous activities of human endeavor; and the splendor and power of the result shall outrank the sun in its magnificence, and its transcendent glories shall rise to mingle with those of sublimer spheres."

JOHN HISCOX BURIED.

Funeral Services Over Remains of Recorder Manager.

The funeral services of John Hiscox, formerly manager for the Sabbath Recorder office here, were held from the home of his father in Westerly, R. I., yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends, including many young persons, former associates of the departed when he resided at Westerly.

Rev. Clayton Burdick, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, of Westerly, assisted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city, were in charge of the services. There was a beautiful display of floral tributes, attesting the high esteem in which Mr. Hiscox was held.

The interment was at Westerly, and the pall bearers were Frank J. Hubbard and Dr. O. B. Whitford, of this city; W. H. Browning and Laclead Woodmansee, of Westerly.

HAD A FAST RUN.

Good Sport for Members of the Watchung Hunt Club.

The Watchung Hunt Club had a fast run after the hounds Saturday afternoon. Fifteen members were out, and they had one of the best afternoon's sport the riders have had in two seasons. The going was very fast, and the hounds behaved unusually well.

The dogs were thrown in at the kennels. They ran toward Westfield, circled and ran to Alton, where there was a ten-minute check. Thrown in again, they went to Mt. Pleasant, circled toward the Country Club, and ended the chase at the kennels. Next Saturday the club members will be the guests of L. E. Waring and C. J. Fisk at a hunt dinner at the Casino, after the weekly run.

A PRESCRIPTION COMPANY.

Principal Office of New Concern to be Located in This City.

Certificate of incorporation has been filed in the office of the county clerk by the Dr. George Place Clements Prescription Company, the incorporators of which are: Dr. George Place Clements, New Milford, Pa.; George C. Edson, William Dimon Conklin, Frank B. Barnes, William W. Griffin, Harold Griffin, Wilson M. Griffin, Joseph C. Cozzens, Charles S. Hand, of Amagansett, L. I.; Charles R. Staats, Plainfield.

The object for which the corporation is formed is the manufacture, purchase and sale of drugs and goods of every description for the carrying on of such business. The principal office is in Plainfield. The total authorized capital stock is $100,000 divided into 100,000 shares at a par value of $1 each. The company begins business with a capital of $62,700.

To Remove P. S. C. Offices.

While definite announcement of the fact has not been made, it is stated on reliable authority that the Public Service Corporation will soon move their offices from West Second street, near the electric light plant, to the store in the Babcock building now occupied by Shirley & Johnson. This firm has leased the store formerly occupied by Woodhull & Martin and will move there this month. For a long time the Public Service Corporation has been desirous of securing offices on Front street, near the business center, it being realized that its present location is away from the principal traffic and not as accessible as on a main thoroughfare. It is understood that arrangements are about complete for the change and that it will be made during the month.

Cannon on Court House Lawn.

The Revolutionary cannon which was stationed at Stony Point during the Revolution and which has been in possession of the Drake Veteran Zouaves, of Elizabeth, being used for National salutes, has been placed on the lawn in front of the Couht House, Elizabeth. It will be unveiled Saturday afternoon with appropriate exercises. The affair will be under the auspices of the Sons of the American Revolution.

"Jack" Burke Home From France.

"Jack" Burke, the former Dunellenite who has been in France with Buffalo Bill's Wild West show, returned home last week. He has been spending the past few days in Plainfield previous to leaving for the West, where he is to buy horses for use in the show next season. It is now in winter quarters in France.

STRICKEN BLIND WHILE SHE DANCED

NEWARK GIRL VICTIM OF A STRANGE MALADY.

Miss Anna Schaub, twenty-three years old, of Kinney and Livingston strerets, Newark, was stricken blind while dancing early yesterday morning at the ball of the Unknown Pleasure Club, in Boeger's Hall, Morris avenue, Newark. This is the third time in about a year that she has been thus affected.

Miss Schaub was waltzing. Suddenly she stopped, complained of dizziness, and soon collapsed. When she opened her eyes she began to stare vacantly into space. When Miss Schaub put her hands to her face she exclaimed:

"Oh, mother, I am blind again!"

The stricken girl was taken home by her cousin and placed in a room without light. Her condition did not improve, apparently, and her mother arranged to take her to New York today for treatment by physicians who twice before restored her sight after similar affliction.

Mrs. Schaub lives with her widowed mother an dyounger brother. She is an experienced jewelry worker. A little more than a year ago she suffered her first attack of blindness. It was then determined that paralysis of the nerves of one of her eyes had resulted from intense strain. She was three months under the care of specialists.

Again, early this year, while enjoying a play at the Newark theatre one evening, she lost her sight. This time she remained blind fifteen days.

The specialists who have been treating Miss Schaub consider her case one of the most remarkable in their practice.

CHAIRMAN DRAKE EXPLAINS.

Piscataway Lights May Be Missing, But P. S. C. Won't Get Money.

Complaints by property owners about Lincoln over what they regard as the unjustness of the road lighting item in their tax bills, to which reference was made in The Daily Press last week, were answered this morning by Silas Dewey Drake, chairman of the lighting committee. The complaint is based on the ground that the lights for which the tax is levied have not been installed; the taxpayers say they should not be taxed for an improvement that has not been made.

"At a meeting of the legal voters held last June, at Lincoln," said Mr. Drake, "it was voted to raise a tax to pay for electric light in this lighting district. The lighting committee entered into a contract with the Public Service Corporation, in which they agreed to have lights in operation by August 1, 1905. They have been placing poles through the district, and I, as chairman of the committee, have many times urged the P. S. C. to hasten the work. They say they are doing the best they can. While the taxpayers have been assessed for the light, the money is in the hands of the township treasurer, and none of it will be used until the light has been furnished, and it will be just that much less to raise next year. In the mean time Ralph P. Bache, superintendent of the P. S. C., can verify this statement."

DIED.

PARRY—In this city, Nov. 30, 1905, Mrs. Agens Parry, aged 25 years.

BROWER—On Wednesday, November 29, 1905, William I. Brower.

RUNYON—On Saturday, December 2, 1905, Carrie B., daughter of the late Ephraim and Eliza Runyon.

HUFF—On Sunday, November 26, 1905, William, son of Helen and the late William Huff, aged 19 years, 8 months, 1 day.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

TO FRANK C. COOK.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Asa F. Randolph is complainant and you and James Armstrong, Mrs. James Armstrong and Frank M. Bacon are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant on or before the twenty-second day of December next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The names of all the defendants therein are you, the said Frank C. Cook and the said James Armstrong, Mrs. James Armstrong and Frank M. Bacon.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by you the said Frank C. Cook to one Isaac W. Rushmore, dated June 8, 1904, on lands in the city of Plainfield, county of Union and State of New Jersey, and you the said Frank C. Cook are made a party defendant because it is alleged in complainant's bill that you may claim some interest or title in said mortgaged premises or some portion thereof, or in the mortgage moneys or some part thereof.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM M. STILLMAN,
212 West Front Street,
Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dated October 21, 1905. c 10 26 4 oaw
Fees $5.25.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited P O Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers. Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, } Vice-Pres
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary, guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
CO [illegible] Front St. and Park Av
Plainfield, N.J

WANT FEE BILL REVISED

State Charities' Aid Association Makes Plans at Annual Meeting.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

Hugh F. Fox Elected Treasurer; Mrs. Tiffany and J. Doull Miller Also Chosen Directors.

The annual meeting of the board of managers and members of the State Charities Aid Association took place Friday noon in Elizabeth, at the home of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson. Among those present from Plainfield were Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, Hugh F. Fox, J. Doull Miller.

At the meeting of the association the following were elected members of the board:

Mrs. R. E. Williamson, Elizabeth; Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, Plainfield; Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Hoboken; J. C. Pumpelly, New York; the Rev. Albert Erdmann, Morristown; Dr. William M. Hughes, Morristown; the Rev. George C. Maddock, Trenton; Dr. J. B. Richmond, Newark; Professor Harry Garfield, Princeton; Mrs. F. A. Jacobson, Newark; Mrs. Anna G. Reed, Somerville; Austin Scott, New Brunswick; the Rev. E. G. Reed, Somerville; Francis B. Lee, Treonton; Howard Carrow, Camden; Hugh F. Fox, Plainfield; the Rev. J. R. Atkinson, Elizabeth; Wilson Farrand, East Orange; Miss Anna Van Meter, Salem; Bleecker Van Wagenen, Orange; Decatur M. Sawyer, Montclair; the Rev. Stuart Hamilton, Paterson; J. Doull Miller, Plainfield; Miss Cornelia Bradford, Jersey City; A. W. McDougall, Newark; Richard Stevens, Hoboken; Mrs. William H. Abbey, Mount Holly; J. E. Taylor, Morristown; the Rev. William Aikman, Atlantic City; the Rev. Francis A. Foy, Avondale; Byron C. Matthews, Newark; the Rev. Walter Reid Hunt, East Orange; Miss Mary R. Tooker, East Orange; Miss Mary Philbrook, Newark; Mrs. Fred B. Carter, Morristown.

The board selected these officers to serve during 1906: President, Mrs. E. E. Williamson, Elizabeth; vice president, the Rev. Albert Erdmann, D. D., Morristown; treasurer, Hugh F. Fox, Plainfield; secretary, the Rev. Francis A. Foy, Avondale.

After an extended conference the board recommended to the association a course of action concerning sheriffs' fees. It was determined not to take up any portion of the fee-bill except that part relating to [illegible] care and keep of jail prisoners. [illegible]der instructions, the law committee of the association is directed to prepare a bill relating to this subject, which shall embody the spirit of Massachusetts legislation upon this subject. The Massachusetts act, so far as it shall be modified to affect local conditions, contains these provisions:

A sheriff who personally performs addition to his salary as sheriff, the compensation established by law for such services, but not more than one thousand dollars per year. The sheriff shall have the custody and control of the jails in his county, and houses of correction therein, and of all prisoners committed thereto, and shall keep the same himself or by his deputy as jailer, master or keeper, and shall be responsible for them. The jailer, master or keeper shall appoint subordinate assistants, employes or officers, and shall be responsible for them.

Commissioner Wight was later introduced to the association. He discussed the subject of jail and prison reform and commented favorably upon the physical administration of State institutions.

CHOOSING A HUNTER.

There is no question in my mind that thoroughbreds make the best hunters. The outcry against them has been raised more by those who could not afford or would not buy the best, and then condemned the type because they had secured bad horses. For middle weight there is nothing better, and plenty of thoroughbreds up to 200 pounds can be had if search is made for them. Take Good and Plenty, for instance. There is a horse 17.1 hands, weighing 1,200 pounds, and fully up to carrying 200 pounds.

Jouac King is a good example of the thoroughbred hunter. He was bred in the purple and as a two-year-old worked five furlongs in 1.04¼. He would have made a good horse on the flat, but I wanted him for a hunter. As a two-year-old he beat a lot of older horses, did the same thing in 1903 as a three-year-old in the Garden, and again carried off the championship last year. Foxhunter is another good example. He was a crack last year on the racetrack, but he could not have won this year; the class was much higher. I sent him to the field for that reason, certain that he would make a good horse across country. He justified the opinion, for he is up to carrying 200 pounds and is kind and gentle. He had a lot of spirit on the turf, and has it yet, but his temper is the best, and he takes kindly to the Long Island hunting country.—Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., in Harper's Weekly.

MENTAL BREAKDOWN ENDS IN HER DEATH

MISS CARRIE RUNYON, VETERAN TEACHER, PASSES AWAY.

Miss Carrie Runyon, for thirty years a teacher in the Plainfield Public Schools, died Saturday in the State Hospital, Trenton, following an illness of several years. She gave up teaching in the High School in 1900 because of poor health, and the State Retirement Fund Organization of Teachers pensioned her on half salary.

There was probably no more successful teacher in Plainfield than Miss Runyon, especially among the boys. A large percentage of the last generation in this city were taught by Miss Runyon and many of her pupils have risen to distinction and fame in various walks of life.

Miss Runyon began teaching in 1866 in the local public schools and during her early career she taught all grades, from the primary up. In later years she taught the highest grammar grade, preparing pupils for the High School course. She was highly esteemed and well thought of by her associate teachers and all the pupils who knew her.

After retiring from her position in 1900 her health did not improve, and the subsequent death of her brother, Albert Runyon, greatly affected her. It was then decided to remove her to the State Hospital at Trenton, where she received every attention and care. The news of her death will be a great shock to her many friends here.

Miss Runyon was the daughter of the late Ephraim and Eliza Runyon, and she spent her entire life here. She had three brothers, John, Albert and David Runyon, and two sisters, Sarah M., and Eliza A. Runyon, all of whom are dead.

LITERARY.

"Success Magazine" for December contains a very timely and interesting article on "How Roosevelt is Regarded Abroad." Vance Thompson, who has gained repute as the greatest American interviewer, has found everywhere on the Continent the warmest admiration for our strenuous President. Mr. Roosevelt's books can be found in the library of every French home, and the people quote his political teachings as a goad to keep their erring politicians in line. In short, the Continent is almost as proud of Mr. Roosevelt as we are. "Turning Children into Dollars," by Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, is an extremely enlightening description by this well-known writer of the way in which the child-labor law is evaded in the New York tenements, with the inevitable result of the stunting of mental and moral growth and the placing of a tremendous handicap on the coming generation. This is only the first of a series of articles on child-slavery. David Belasco contributes a sketch of "The Beginnings of the Drama in America," and Mme. Schumann-Heink, in "Studying for Grand Opera," gives some suggestions, drawn from her own experience, for those whose aspirations lead toward the operatic stage. Richard Le Gallienne in a light and fanciful vein depicts the efficacy of "Books as Doctors," and foretells the final displacement of drugs by sedatives for the mind. "The Romance of News-gathering," by Remsen Crawford, gives the lay mind a glimpse into the varied and adventurous life of the reporter. The fiction is the strongest this magazine has ever presented. "How Coleman Got Home for Christmas" is a deep-set story by James B. Connolly. It contains all the subtle characterizations and powerful touches that distinguish this master of stories of the sea. Ellis Parker Butler's "A Blue-Label Saint" is a delightfully humorous story of the complications caused in a Sunday school entertainment by an inopportune janitors' strike. Frederick Upham Adams' "Wanted—A Desperado" and Jennie Betts Hartswick's "A Busy Morning" are excellent pieces of up-to-date fiction. A poem by Wallace Irwin, "The Skipper and the Cabin Boy," recounts the adventures of two castaways in the Arctic regions and a meeting with Santa Claus. Other verse is contributed by Mildred I. McNeal Sweeney, Roy Farrel Greene, Strickland W. Gillilan, Henry Coyle, Alfred J. Waterhouse, and Agnes M. Matthews. This issue is the most attractive number that this magazine has ever published. The cover design is a beautiful piece of work by J. C. Leyendecker, representing an episode under the mistle-nished name.—O. S. Marden in "Success Magazine."

Army Officers to Cook.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Under a new policy of the War Department officers of the commissary department are to be taught to bake bread, and will be given practical instructions in cooking. Officers will be sent, two at a time, to the school of application for cavalry and field artillery at Fort Riley, Kan., for a course in the school for cooks and bakers. As they complete the course they will be sent out among the troops to instruct the soldiers.

—Bound Brook will receive a franchise tax this year of $635.02, an increase of $70 over last year.

BROADCLOTH IS WORN.

It is decisively a fact that the fine broadcloths hold regal sway; and though authorities are urging a season of silk and velvet, there seems no doubt that broadcloth will have phenomenal popularity.

Not only is it chosen for a majority of the dressy street frocks and dark visiting frocks, but in the exquisite light tints it is a prime favorite for frocks intended for theatres, restaurant dinner and other demi-toilette evening wear. White cloth has entirely regained the prestige it lost last year, and disputes supremacy with the indescribably delicate shades of pink, apricot, mauve, blue, green, etc., which the manufacturers have brought out in the finest and most supple of broadcloth, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

Princess frocks in these light broadcloths, trimmed in heavy lace, relieved by softer lace, and in handsome embroideries or applique, are appealing forcibly to fastidious women, and numbers of such frocks, differing widely in detail, are being made in all of the most fashionable dressmaking establishments. Often a coat or picturesque cloak of some kind, fashioned of the same broadcloth and trimmed in harmony with the frock, is a part of the order, and such a costume as this will be the height of modishness, though some women will prefer separate wraps of fur or lace.

The same delicate cloths are made up in three-piece costumes, with blouse or bodice of chiffon, lace or other sheer stuff matching the cloth in color and trimmed with cloth or with trimming similar to that used upon skirt and coat. These costumes, too, will be immensely chic for restaurant and theatre, and for afternoon functions as well.

The more picturesque types of coat are usually chosen for such costumes the long or short Empire, the Directoire, the Louis, etc.; but one sees, too, conventional tailored models, with their only elaboration in the perfection of quality and color of the cloth, and in the charm of bodice and elegance of furs accompanying the coat and skirt.

HER RIGHTS VS. HER DUTIES.

There isn't so much talk as there used to be about woman's "rights;" here isn't so much need of such talk, for the rights of woman are pretty well established. Most men are ready to admit woman's right to do most of the things that men do. The main question now is whether it is always wise for every person to insist on exercising all his rights; whether woman and man should not each be content to do the work he or she can do best. Should not a good bread maker, for example, make bread instead of becoming a bad stenographer?

Woman has proved herself smarter than man. She has shown aptness for man's work, and, without necessarily taking advantage of the fact that business men naturally treat business women better than they treat other business men, she has often beaten him at his own game. Man, on the other hand, has not successfully invaded woman's sphere. He has not shown capacity in staying at home and running the kitchen and doing fancy work; he is not, as a rule, good at taking care of the baby unless the baby is behaving well—when it cries he turns it over to its mother; he has not mastered the intricacies of the afternoon-call sytem; nor has he learned how to keep the cook cheerful. His activities are more or less limited, by his own innate stupidity, to the easy routine of business; to the simple life of Wall street and the sinecurse of office work. He can sit at a desk and dictate letters, but he can't cook a ten-course dinner. Since this is unfortunately true, and since everyone should be content to do the work he can do best, we respectfully submit that, willingly and gladly, with full appreciation of the blessing of her superior endowment, woman should do the work of the home. When the home jobs are all filled then it will be time for her to devote herself to business.—Public Opinion.

WARNING TO WIVES.

What a pity it is that women neglect their music after marriage. Nearly every young girl of today has had musical training of one sort or another. She may not be a great musician, but then the average man is not a very severe critic. Yet no sooner has she a house of her own and a husband that she forgets all her pretty little pieces, and as for getting up new ones, the idea never occurs to her.

She used to be proud and happy to accompany a song, but now she cannot, she "has no time," to keep up her practicing, and when she attempts to she finds, to her dismay perhaps, that she is forgetting all she once knew.

In time her little girls may take her place, and she, fond, unselfish mother, will be quite content maybe, but the husband misses something. Deep down in his heart there is perhaps a picture of a sweet girlish figure playing his accompaniments so much in harmony with his song. What happy, bright days there were for them both, and why are they no more?—Newark Advertiser.

James Cuzen, of West End avenue, is entertaining his brother from Scotland, who arrived a few days ago. He intends to remain in this country for the present.

PYTHIANS' GALA NIGHT

Perserverance Lodge, No. 74, Celebrates in Honor of Its 1800 Meeting

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

Address by Supreme Representative G. Frank Shanley a Feature of the Programme—Collation in Conclusion.

When the members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., assembled in their rooms in Odd Fellows' Hall, Babcock building, Friday night for the regular meeting it marked the eighteen hundredth time the organization had met, and in honor of the event the business was followed by a social affair. More than 125 Knights were in attendance and the gathering was one of the pleasantest the lodge has held in a long time.

Disposing of the customary secret work, friends of the order were admitted and an address of welcome was made by Past Chancellor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., by which he made visitors from New York, Newark, Elizabeth, Somerville and other places feel distinctly at home. He was followed by Elmore D. Cutting, who rendered a solo in such acceptable fashion that he was obliged to respond with an encore. Other solos were given by Alex Muir and Asa D. Pope, both being loudly applauded.

Supreme Representative P. Frank Shanley, of Jersey City, who has alway manifested great interest in Perseverance's welfare, was present and made a very encouraging address. He warmly complimented the members on the success of the organization and predicted for them continued prosperity and longevity as a lodge. Colonel Shanley is one of the best known members of the order in the State and his visits are eagerly sought, yet Plainfield always gets the preference. Other addresses were made by William D. Quick, of Somerville, candidate for grand outer guard, and Freeholder Joseph Fitzga, also of Somerville.

Instrumental music for the occasion was supplied by the Perseverance jewsharp orchestra, composed of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., pianist, and Frank Putnam, Asa D. Pope, Ephraim Compton, W. W. Warnock and S. H. Clouston, harmonists. In conclusion the members adjourned to the banquet hall, where a splendid collation was served by Caterer W. W. Warnock.

The celebration was arranged by a committee composed of Asa D. Pope, William Mills and Joseph C. Blimm.

DELTA UPSILON CLUB IN STATE OF FORMATION

PLAINFIELD MEMBERS OF GREEK LETTER SOCIETY PLAN ORGANIZATION.

Members of the fraternity met at Rev. L. R. Howard's home Friday to discuss a Delta Upsilon Club in this city. The general plans for bringing the club into existence were formed and steps for bringing the proposed organization to the attention of Delta Upsilon men in this section were taken.

The conferees were Rev. L. R. Howard, a Williams College man; L. M. Booth, of Swarthmore; Lindsey Best, Hamilton College; Fred M. Crossett, of New York University, secretary of the Delta Upsilon Association of New York, and R. V. Hoffman, New York University.

An effort is to be made to make the proposed club a central New Jersey organization. The conferees decided to hold a dinner in this city, to which Delta Upsilon members from all over this section will be invited, for the purpose of launching the proposed club. Invitations to the dinner will be sent to all members of the fraternity, undergraduates as well as graduate, in Bound Brook, Flemington, Roselle, Westfield, Elizabeth and vicinity.

Delta Upsilon is one of the largest and strongest college Greek letter societies. It was organized in 1834 and has 9,000 members. District Attorney Jerome and Charles E. Hughes, insurance inquisitor, are D. U. members.

Following the meeting last night, Mr. and Mrs. Howard entertained the D. U. men, their wives and a few friends at a supper.

To Revive Wilted Roses.

Wilted roses, seemingly fit only for the rubbish heap, may be completely revived and freshened. Put the stems of the roses in a tumbler of water, and then place the tumbler and roses in a vessel of sufficient size to allow the entire bouquet to be covered. Cover the vessel tightly and leave undisturbed for twenty-four hours. By that time the roses will be found all fresh and invigorated as if just plucked from the bushes, with every petal covered with artificial dew. Wilted lettuce may also be freshened and kept in excellent condition for weeks if treated in the same way.—National Magazine.

A. F. Naylor, of 918 East Front street, left this morning for Somerville, S. C., where he will spend the winter. He will return here April 1, to resume his business.

SUGGESTIONS FOR UNTRAINED NURSE.

Obliterate yourself.

Obey the physician unquestioningly.

Don't talk about the patient's condition in her hearing.

Never give medicine without the advice of the doctor.

Do not talk to the patient, nor to any one else, of what she talks of in a delirium.

Move around the room in a light, gentle way, letting your very step bespeak the cheer of your heart.

Show your confidence in the swift recovery of your patient.

Act as if it were a pleasure to do the task before you.

If you have not naturally a low, firm, pleasant voice, cultivate one. It can be done. Recoveries have been retarded by a hoarse, rasping voice or a shrill high one that grated on the nerves of the patient.

Don't fuss and fidget about the room. Calmness, an air of knowing what you are about to do, will inspire confidence and respect in the patient.

If you are inclined to be fidgety, provide yourself with sewing or embroidery, and sit quietly. Don't talk to the patient unless her recovery is so far progressed that you are expected to entertain her.

Don't seem to be in a hurry at anything. Nothing so composes the patient as a composed nurse.

Never trust to your eye in giving medicine. Always measure accurately with a dropper or marked glass.

Never give anything inwardly or outwardly without carefully reading the label twice. Fatal mistakes have been made by nurses who "thought" they knew.

Don't arrange your hair, work over your nails, or fuss over any part of your toilet in the presence of the patient.

Don't wear squeaky shoes, or clothing that rustles and rattles. Rubber heels are necessary in a sick room. A pair of white canvas shoes, such as were worn in the summer, are nice for this purpose.

Never sit down on the bed, nor lean upon it. An inexperienced nurse will do this without dreaming of the extent to which it irritates the patient. Have a chair handy, or stoop over.

Do not touch with your hands anything the patient is to put in her mouth. In offering her a pill place it first upon a teaspoon.

Don't taste the food you offer her. Don't bring more than she can eat. And never let it stand around in the hope that she may eat it later. Every vestige of the meal must be removed as soon as the patient has finished.

Whispering must not be permitted in the sick room. Have all talking done in low, distinct tones. And do not permit the members of the family to come in and murmur together in such manner that the patient is made curious, yet cannot hear what they say.

Don't allow rapping at the door. Have a code of signals, or leave the door ajar.

Husband your strength. Make every step count. When it comes time for your exercise, outing or rest—for all of these you must have, to keep in good trim—make the most of every moment, so that you can go back to the sick room refreshed and cheerful.

Much of the above may sound like platitudes, but it is perfectly true that many home nurses whose conscientiousness would not permit any great oversight, may yet with the best intention in the world be guilty of many of these little annoyances which set the nerves of a sensitive patient on edge.

It seems hardly needful to add that everything presented to a sick person must be served on the daintiest china and silver available.—Newark Advertiser.

HOW TO SLEEP.

During childhood and exhaustive states too much sleep is rarely possible. For those in full tide of vigor too much sleep is often distinctly hurtful, says Dr. Madison Taylor, in the Popular Science Monthly.

The action of narcotics presents none of the characteristics of normal sleep except the temporary arrest of consciousness, hence narcosis is not true sleep.

The best position to assume in sleep to invite the least disturbance of the functions of the great organs is on the abdomen, or nearly so.

Many obscure forms of digestive or circulatory disorders may have been initiated in infancy through lying too long upon the back.

To secure the most perfect repose the temperature of all parts should be equalized before retiring. Cold feet induce delay in securing sleep, and it is then shallow when attained.

It is most unwise to overfill the stomach before retiring; this disturbs sleep almost as much as hunger, but moderate eating before sleeping is not hurtful and is often salutary.

Body clothing at night should be loose, not dense, permitting the ready passage of air, never of wool next to the skin.

Bed clothing should not be of too close of texture, blankets being preferable to dense "comfortables" and not "tucked in" too closely. Air should be allowed to pass occasionally under the sides, at least as one turns about more or less freely.

Early rising is a salutary custom, especially when the day comes early, not otherwise.

More sleep is required in winter than in summer. The best sleep is had during the hours of darkness.

MISS CHAPLIN TELLS OF MISSIONARY EFFORTS

ADDRESSES TRINITY'S YOUNG WOMEN'S MISSION BAND.

For the purpose of arousing a deeper interest in the home mission enterprise of the Reformed Church in America, and especially among the young people, Miss Chaplin, of New York, who is engaged in the young people's branch of the Board of Domestic Missions, addressed the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed Church Friday afternoon.

The band is one of the most active missionary organizations among the young people and accomplishes a great deal during the year. Miss Chaplin recently undertook her work and at present her knowledge of home missions is more as to what she has heard rather than a personal knowledge.

The speaker is gifted and earnest and her talk was along the line of the work being done for the Indians, the mountain whites and the student volunteer movement, as well as the work among the Holland families of the West, where students are being supported. The work seems to lack the support of the young people in the Reformed church and it is Miss Chaplin's purpose to enlist the interest and help of them in home mission work. She is very enthusiastic about the work and is much encouraged by hopeful signs of renewed activity in this work.

The only other matter considered at the meeting of the band was the report of the committee on the recent "Every Day Af-fair" held in the church.

Like a Fairy Palace

is Hahne & Co.'s store, Newark, at Christmas—at least, the children think so; and we, too, believe it to be the nearest to fairyland of any store in the country. It is an excellent plan to take the children through our store and watch their interest in various things. In that way you will easily learn what the little ones most desire that Santa Claus shall bring them. It would be a good plan, also, to induce the older ones to come with you, and then that ever-perplexing quandary, "What shall I give them?" will not linger in your mind and cause you so much unrest. Books, handkerchiefs, gloves and umbrellas always prove acceptable presents, and you have them to fall back upon; but we have such a mammoth stock in every line that it will be well worth while to come in frequently and walk through the various departments. Every time you come you'll see something new, for we add fresh arrivals every hour of the day. Everybody can purchase all their presents here, for we cover the whole Christmas field. We have one of the most brilliantly illuminated stores in the world, within and without. Daylight is very good to us and even weak-sighted persons can purchase to their entire satisfaction. At night the store lights up as with the noonday sun, and at Christmastide, now here, the effect is one of royal splendor and fascinatingly beautiful. The electrical flash advertisements on our Broad street front are the wonder of the town. Don't fail to see them. In our grand court, main entrance, will be seen a gigantic Santa Claus, twenty-five feet high. His head, with cap, measures nearly six feet, and his boots are six feet long. His coat contains 170 yards of cloth. He will bid you welcome with a pleasant bow. All through the store will be found various kinds of entertainment; in fact, you will be so pleased with our holiday attractions that you may spend a whole day with us and be unconscious of the flight of time. Mail orders promptly filled. It is delightful shopping here, because we have broad aisles, perfect ventilation, various attractions, many resting places, correspondence and other conveniences for ladies, a fine restaurant, a smoking room for gentlemen, prompt and satisfactory service, many demonstrations of new goods, mechanical and electrical exhibitions, musical treats and a superb picture salon. No other firm in the world has accomplished so much in the entertainment and for the pleasure of its guests. We extend a hearty welcome to everybody, young and old. Hahne & Co.

BUSH WILL SOJOURN.

Bloomfieldite Arrested in the Borough Gets Fifty-four Days.

Charles Bush, the Bloomfield man who was arrested by Chief Weiss Thursday night, received severe punishment when arraigned before Recorder Doud last night. He was given twenty-seven days on two counts, or a total of fifty-four in the Somerville jail.

A charge of disorderly conduct was preferred against him by a Washington avenue resident and another of resisting an officer was made by Chief Weiss. In addition his wife was in court and declared that Bush has a bad record in Bloomfield, where he has frequently been arrested for small offenses.

Durling Succeeds Captain Day.

Walter Durling has been assigned to the run formerly held by the late Captain O. H. Day, who died at his home in Dunellen last week, after a long and honored career as conductor on the New Jersey Central.

MR. ANGLEMAN'S RETORT

Answering Corporation Counsel Says People Should Not Get a Lawsuit

MAINTAINS POSITION

Declares Section 185 of General Election Law Has No Effect on Act of 1876—An Interview.

In reply to Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, who declared that the procedure in the recent municipal ownership election was strictly according to the law, Lawyer W. S. Angleman said to a Daily Press representative today that if the people want municipal ownership they should get it and not a law suit. For that reason, he stated, he pointed out some alleged defects in the manner the special election was conducted. He adheres to his statement that a majority was not obtained for the public water supply ownership scheme and adds that a section of the election law quoted by Mr. Marsh has no effect.

Mr. Angleman said:

"The corporation counsel begs the question. The very fact that the attorney general and a bond expert (unnamed) were consulted shows a weakness in the position taken by the city. Unfortunately neither the attorney general nor the unnamed bond expert will stand in the breach if an expensive law suit is thrust on the city, nor will they come to the city's aid if municipal ownership is delayed while the question is slowly working its way through the courts.

"That the provisions of the 1876 act were not followed at the recent election is practically acknowledged, and the dangerous ground that, because the election was held on the same date as the general election, the general election law's provisions prevailed over those contained in the act under which the election was supposedly being held, is taken, irrespective of warrant authorizing such procedure. In other words, drive as close to the precipice as you think you can.

"Section 185 of the general election law quoted by the corporation counsel was not referred to by me simply because it has no bearing on he question. That section merely attempts to define, in the language of the section, 'the intent and meaning . . . of the words "legal voters"' when used in other laws. Those words do not occur in the section (Section 16) of the 1876 act which relates to the submission of the water proposition to the people. The words used in that section are 'legal electors,' and the section is so clear that any one can understand its meaning. It says that 'this act shall remain inoperative . . . until assented to by a majority of the legal electors thereof at an election, to be held . . .' The number of 'legal electors voting' at the recent general election was 2,996 and a majority of that number is 1,499. The 'legal electors voting' at that election and who 'assented' (in the language of the statute) to the water proposition was 1,141, or 357 less than a majority.

"Moreover, Section 185 of the general election law is of exceedingly doubtful validity. If that section is to be taken literally, according to its terms, as a declaration of the 'intent and meaning' of laws enacted by previous Legislatures, it is clearly void, as interpretation and construction of such laws are judicial and not legislative functions. If it is to be taken as an amendment or as a supplement to laws enacted by previous Legislatures, then it is also void, because such object is not expressed in the title of the act.

"It would be a very easy and a very simple thing to hold an election under the 1876 act and to follow its provisions both in spirit and in letter. There could then be no question about the result. If the people of Plainfield want municipal ownership they should have municipal ownership and not a law suit."

FINE HOME FOR NEWSBOYS.

J. D. Rockefeller Backing a $150,000 Project in Cleveland.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—John D. Rockefeller is back of a project to build in Cleveland a newsboys' home to cost $150,000. The plan grows out of the work being done for newsboys by the Rev. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, of which Mr. Rockefeller is a member, and by H. M. Briggs, a merchant.

The newsboys' institution will be unlike other newsboys' homes. A canvass will be made to find newsboys who are homeless or who are living in homes under immoral or destitute conditions. Only such boys can get lodging at the home. The rest can have the other advantages. All homeless lads under a certain age will be cared for at the home for nothing.

The rooms will not be of the conventional institution kind. There will be soft rugs, low easy chairs and drop lights. The latest magazines will be there, games will be played, meetings of the union will be held in the committee room, and there will be a debating club, and rehearsals for "shows."

DR. PARSONS DELIVERS THE THANKSGIVING SERMON

Scholarly Divine Preaches at Union Service of Denominational Churches.

OTHERS TAKE PART

Rev. Dr. Schenck, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. A. E. Finn and Rev. George Mooney Have Places on the Programme.

The union Thanksgiving service held at the First Baptist church last Thursday was largely attended. The churches uniting included the First and Park Avenue Baptist, Trinity Reformed, Congregational, Monroe Avenue, Grace and First M. E., the Seventh-Day Baptist and Christian churches. The pastors of these churches excepting Rev. A. C. McCrea took part some in the service. A quartette choir, comprising Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto; Mrs. Robert Giddes, soprano; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, sang special music.

In the opening exercises, Rev. A. E. Finn made the opening prayer, Rev. Phil. A. Parson conducted the responsive reading, Rev. C. L. Goodrich read the Scripture lesson, Rev. George B. Shaw offered prayer and Rev. George Mooney read the President's Thanksgiving proclamation.

The sermon was then delivered by Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church. His subject was: "And What One Nation in the Earth is Like Thy People?" 2d Samuel 7—23. Dr. Parsons spoke in part as follows:

"The institution of an annual national festival of prayer and praise to Almighty God is pre-eminently an American institution. The first Thanksgiving proclamation in this western world was issued by Governor Bradford, of the Plymouth colony in 1623, three years after the landing. It has been preceded by a special day of fasting and prayer on account of drought, in the midst of which, while the people prayed, it is said, the clouds gathered and rain fell copiously. Whereupon the Governor issued the first Thanksgiving proclamation. The Dutch Governor of New York soon followed the lead of the Massachusetts colony. But the institution of a National Thanksgiving was not widely observed until after the struggle for independence. The Thanksgiving proclamation issued by President Roosevelt appoints for this nation-wide celebration this 30th day of November, A. D., 1905.

"Never has the bosom of earth borne a greater harvest—surely never was there such an acreage of cultivation and such a wealth of golden grain. Never were steamboat lines and railroad corporations so embarrassed for means of transportation. From Maine to California, from the St. Lawrence to the Rio Grande, for months there has been a constant hum of implements and steady stream of wealth flowing into our storehouses.

"Four millions of square miles—more than all Europe—a shore line exceeding the circumference of the earth—29,000 miles. A system of river navigation twice the circumference of the earth. A domain greater than that of Alexander's, when he thought he had conquered a world—equal to, and perhaps greater than that of Rome, when the Caesars sat on the throne, and that imperial power swayed scepter from the Persian Gulf to the western ocean, from the wall of Antonius to the mountains of the moon.' But our inheritance is a yet grander one. Our resources, our extent, our variety of climates, our unparalleled California's skies are brighter than Italy's—there are no more healthful breezes than Florida's.

"Mr. Gladstone once said, 'about the year 2,000 you will have 600 or 500 millions of people on your continent speaking the English language.' Well I suggest that at about that time it would be a good idea to change the name of the language and call it the American language, for if 800 millions are speaking it here and 200 millions are speaking it elsewhere, that honor ought to be ours. The German language here, the French language here, the Italian and Spanish and Scandinavian languages here! Yes, they will come with the men and women who come across the seas, but they'll only stay through the life time of those men and women. Their children and their children's children will speak the American language.

"We want no other language here for general inter-communication, spoken, written, printed or taught. And our German fellow-citizens in Milwaukee and Chicago and Cincinnati and elsewhere seriously mistake the temper of this people, if they think that any foreign language is to be exclusively used and taught in any of our public schools. It is not to be so. A political party in Wisconsin promised that a few years ago and rode into power by the 10,000 votes thrown in its way by the promise, but it rode out of power as quickly as it rode in on that very issue.

"I apostrophize and say-come, come from everywhere, men and women of the world if old things pass away with you and all things become new—but stay, stay where you are, everyone of you, if you do not intend to become as we are, and conform to our modes and customs and language and institutions. There is no room on this American continent for anybody but Americans—to visit, but not to reside. And the sooner we get that thought thoroughly inwrought into every fibre of our being the better it will be for this nation.

"Our natural increase with restricted immigration will be all we need in this land for the next fifty years. It is time to call a halt in this matter.

"A few years ago our Government began to place a restraint upon the hordes flocking to this land from the Italian ports. Commissioners were assigned and stood upon every wharf at the sailing time of every ship. They were to ascertain of every emigrant that there was an actual point of destination and means sufficient to carry him there and support him a reasonable time after arrival. One of these came along the wharf at Naples and sought to board the ship. The commissioner stopped him and asked 'where are you going?' 'I am going to America,' was the reply. What are you going to do when you get to America?' 'Going to farm it.' 'And where are you going to farm it?' 'In Mulberry street, New York.' We have too many of that kind of farmers here now."

"Western supremacy is sure to come, nay, western supremacy is here. The centre of population in 1800 was on a line running north and south through Washington, D. C. Now the centre of population is on a line running north and south near Indianapolis. If this is to be so, and there isn't a shadow of doubt of it, the kind and character of the population in those vast regions is a matter of the deepest concern to us all. It ought certainly to be distinctively American if it is to govern this American land, but I am afraid it is not.

"I felt like throwing my hat and cheering for brave old Abraham Hewitt, when Mayor of New York, when he declared that no green flag could be displayed from the public buildings on St. Patrick's Day, and John A. Wise, of Virginia, when he said that the Confederate flag was out of place in any parade of loyal soldiers and citizens, and the police of Chicago when they swooped down on the Anarchist assemblages and confiscated the red flag of wreck and ruin flaunting itself in the face of our people.

"Ah yes. One language and one flag—one speech and old glory—these are good enough for us and they must be for all who come here."

After the sermon an offering was received for the Plainfield Relief Association, during which Mrs. Ward and Mr. Holmes sang a beautiful selection. At the close, Rev. Dr. Schenck offered a brief prayer and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Parsons.

JOHN HISCOX DEAD.

Recorder Office Manager Succumbs to Bright's Disease.

John Hiscox, business manager of the Sabbath Recorder printing house, died at his home in Westerly, R. I., at 7:30 Friday morning. He had been ill for some months and until ten days ago was under treatment in the West for Bright's disease. For the last thirty-six hours he was unconscious.

Mr. Hiscox was a genial, popular and able man and was invaluable to the Recorder office. He made friends rapidly and much of the success of the printing establishment with which he was connected was due to his untiring efforts. After being graduated from Amherst College Mr. Hiscox became identified with the Westerly Sun, of which George H. Utter, formerly of this city, Governor of Rohde Island, is proprietor. About two years ago he came here to assume the business management of the Sabbath Recorder. He was about thirty years of age.

Surviving him are a wife and little daughter. Funeral services were held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at his father's home in Westerly.

Col. Frelinghuysen Married.

The wedding of Colonel and State Senator-elect Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerville, and Miss Emily Macy Brewster, of Rochester, N. Y., took place in St. Luke's church, Rochester, Wednesday noon. It was witnessed by a large gathering and was made notable by Governor E. C. Stokes acting as usher. The Governor and his staff made the trip to Rochester in a private car. The only Plainfielders in attendance were Miss Edith Smalley and Miss Georgiana Smith, of Netherwood.

An Illustrated Lecture.

Miss Josephine Petrie, of this city, young people's secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian church, will give an illustrated lecture in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Thursday night, December 14, telling about the Indians, Alaskans, Mexicans, mountaineers and Mormons.

WILLIAM HUFF BURIED.

Young Man's Funeral Attended by Large Gathering.

The funeral services of William Huff were held from the late home, 16 West End avenue, Wednesday afternoon at 2:15. There was a very large gathering of relatives and friends, including many young friends of the departed. There were many floral tributes from relatives and friends, comprising wreaths, pillows and cut flowers, completely covering the casket. There were also tributes from associates in the New Jersey Central office and the pallbearers.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, where Mr. Huff was an attendant, conducted the services. He spoke of the beautiful life and character of the departed and of his patience during suffering. E. E. Runyon sang "The Homeland," a favorite selection of Mr. Huff.

The interment was in the family plot at Somerville and pall-bearers being Lloyd VanMiddlesworth, George Wyckoff, Chester Decker, Henry Wyman, Frank Quaas and Walter Hand.

DR. ZELIE ON THANKSGIVING.

Sermon on its Significance at Crescent Avenue Church.

The Thanksgiving service at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church attracted a large congregation. The service was not a union one, although a number of members from the three chapels attended.

Dr. Zelie preached the sermon. Taking his text from Cor. 1:3:7, he spoke of the proper attitude of Thanksgiving observance. He sketched the establishment of the observance from the fast day of Colonial times, and spoke earnestly of the beauty of the custom. As to the spirit in which the day should be observed, Dr. Zelie said it was much better to give way to undivided feelings of gratitude for the blessings enjoyed, rather than to think over, or yearn for, what the future might bring. He reminded his hearers whatever they did enjoy came by virtue of God's goodness, and not through any power of their own.

The special music was noteworthy. The choir sang three anthems.

MRS. REICHARD A BRIDE.

Mother of Mrs. D. F. Updike Becomes Mrs. Charles Chipman.

Mrs. Alexander B. Reichard, of Park avenue, and Charles Chipman, of Germantown, Pa., were quietly married yesterday at noon, in the presence of fifty guests from Germantown, Easton, Trenton, Great Meadows, Morris county, Westfield and this city. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, performed the ceremony. The only attendant was Master Donald Updike, grandson of the bride.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony Paul Cummings Updike, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Foster Updike, was baptized by Rev. Mr. Goodrich. A wedding dinner was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Chipman left on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will live at Germantown.

Mrs. Chipman is the mother of Mrs. D. Foster Updike, of Park avenue, and has been a resident of this city for some time. Mr. Chipman is a large manufacturer of hosiery. The bride received many handsome and unseful gifts from relatives and friends.

MISS MARSH'S FUNERAL.

Private Service Held at Her Late Home Wednesday Afternoon.

The funeral services of Miss Florence Ida Marsh were held from the late home, 915 Madison avenue, Wednesday afternoon. They were private, only the immediate relatives attending. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Miss Marsh was an active member for many year,s conducted the services. He spoke of the beautiful and earnest Christian life of Miss Marsh and of her devotion to her church and home.

There was a wealth of floral ributes from the various societies in the First Baptist church, of which Miss Marsh was a member, also from relatives and friends. Violets, the favorite flower of the departed, were in profusion.

The interment wash in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery in Plainfield avenue.

PLAY AS BOYS DO.

Girls' Basketball Team Abdicate from the Plane of Special Privileges.

The basketball playing girls of the High School have resolved themselves into two teams, first and second. They have secured the Hope Y. M. A. gymnasium for practice purposes and practice two afternoons a week. Amended rules have been discarded and boys' rules govern their play.

The first team is composed of Madeline Durar and Barbara Fleming, forwards; Harriet Knox, center; Bessie Alpaugh and Marion Snyder, guards; Stella Rink, substitute. The girls have not been challenged by any team yet, and they are thirsting for combat. Manager Roy Woodhull is anxious to hear from the Westfield Grammar School.

Miss Manning, of Grant avenue, has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Luther Anthony, of Kingston.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Tammany organization, dominated by Mr. Murphy, had arranged an ambitious programme for its gentlemanly protege, Mayor McClellan. It was expected that he would be elected by a large majority, and that next year he would become the Democratic candidate for governor of the State of New York, with a view to making him a Presidential candidate in 1908. But Mr. McClellan's political future would seem to lie behind him, to quote a current politicr phrase. He has made the fatal mistake all his life of following the line of resistance. He has been a recipient of favors at the hands of Tammany bosses, and has never fought his own square fight in public life. He possesses ability and intelligence of no mean order, and in this lies his condemnation. Men of his parts cannot serve to give Tammany an air of respectability without a full perception of the role they are playing; and when for a long and unbroken series of years they have fed comfortably at the Tammany crib, they have rendered themselves incapable of a really independent and self-directed public career. There is a great deal to be said for a certain class of men prominent in the Tammany organization. The district leaders, for example, are men who fought their way up from the ranks, and hold their own among their fellows, as a general rule, through sheer manly strength and largeness of heart, and born gifts of leadership and command. Their political ethics may not be refined, but they are men of strong characters, and they must stand or fall upon their own merits when judged by certain established standards. But this sort of praise cannot be meted out to a group of "gilded youths" who have allowed themselves to be used as stool pigeons by the Tammany organization; who have never lifted their fingers in the real struggle of politics, who have never for a day fought openly for their convictions in the presence of the community, and who have been willing to help clothe Tammany with an air of respectability in return for offices and emoluments. This is not the sort of stuff out of which Presidents of the United States are made. Mr. Jerome could have moved as smoothly as Mr. McClellan along that well-lubricated political track, but he is of a different fibre, and he would not sell his independence of speech and action for any sort of public job. It as barely possible that Mr. Jerome's extreme independence may prevent his filling high offices in the future. But he has already made his name a household word from Maine to California, and he has made the quality of his political thought and action an inspiration to thousands of young men destined to fill important places in the nation. Thus, if Mr. Jerome never serves in any other public position than the New York district-attorneyship, he is, nevertheless, a marked man before the nation.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for December.

Edward S. Jordan completes his series of article on "Buying Football Victories" in Collier's in the issue of December 2. This last article treats of the University of Minnesota, where football is commercialized by the gambling spirit of citizens of the twin cities. Yet in spite of this demoralizing tendency Dr. Cyrus Northrup, of the University of Minnesota, declares that he can see no reason to change present conditions. In a recent inquiry as to whether or not football methods as now pursued should be changed or not, President Northrup stood alone in defence of present methods. Yet in his own university we find installed a coach who was practically told to get victories or get out.

A distinct Christmas flavor found in Lippincott's Magazine for December adds to the general interest which is never lacking. This is a season of happiness and Lippincott's is happy too. Jolliness, humor, and pathos are there, but the deeper tragedies of life have no place in this issue. The opening novelette, "Of the Lion's Breed," is by Grace MacGowan Cooke in collaboration with Vond Reed; and it is good enough to indicate the quality of the seven shorter stories which follow. It is a picturesque romance of the coal fields, strongly dramatic, yet treated with the utmost simplicity. "Josiah Allen's Wife" calls her amusing contribution "The Last Straw." This may prove illuminative to husbands. Mrs. I. Zangwill, who still writes under her maiden name, E. Ayrton, is the author of "Don Cupid," a sweet child sketch with a grown-up love interest. An automobile racing story by Ralph Henry Barbour, called "Victory With Honor," abounds in humorous situations and lively dialogue. "A Studio Mouse," is a clever tale of artistic life among the "cliff dwellers." In it the Mouse (Georgia Knox) describes a courtship which threatens to cut off its source of supplies. Seumas MacManus, the Irish humorist, tells "How Condy Dhu Raised the Devil," and makes it superlatively funny. Ella Middleton Tybout's story, "A Moment of Confidence," shows two pictures of the fireside,—which cynics try to make us believe is obsolete,—very real human pictures, complete in contrast. "The Wildwood Limited" is a story of a locomotive engineer, by Cy Warman, whose name in the line he has chosen has few equals. This tale will be especially enjoyed by railroad men. Marion Harland once spent Christmas in Bethlehem of Judea. She describes the Christmas ceremonies in the church, which is built on the site of the manger where Christ was born, and gives much interesting news of the town, in her paper in the Christmas Lippincott's. A paper on "The Modern Lyceum," by Paul M. Pearson supplies up-to-date information on this live subject; and Wimer Bedford, a veteran, writes an anecdotic article on "Some Generals of the Civil War." This will be followed by a second paper of further reminiscences. Christmas poems by Charles Hanson Towne and Clinton Scollard mark the glad season. "Walnuts and Wine" have caught the prevailing happiness and reflect its spirit in joke and verselet.

Without overdoing it, the editors have made the Atlantic for December a notable Christmas number. It opens with a Christmas essay upon the timely topic of "Riches" by that delightful and telling essayist, E. S. Martin, and in the five stories by such favorite writers as W. J. Hopkins, author of "The Clammer," Alice Brown, Caroline Duer, Clare Benedict, and Rose Young, much of the happiness of the season is reflected. There are likewise three fine and distinctively Christmas poems, by John B. Tabb, Laura Spencer Portor, and "H." Notwithstanding this delightful wealth of reading in the Christmas vein, the number, like all numbers of the Atlantic, is rich in varied articles or interest and importance. Particularly notable are two papers upon dramatic subjects. James S. Metclafe, the well known dramatic critic of Life, who has recently come into such an admirable notoriety for his fight against the syndicate, contributes a paper, "Is the Theatre Worth While?" while Talcott Williams has a fine reminiscent and critical paper on the late Sir Henry Irving. "Woman Suffrage in the Tenements," by Elizabeth McCracken, author of "The Play and the Gallery" and many other first-hand studies of American life, is an uncommonly instructive and amusing contribution to a vexatious question. Among the other articles of broad interest are "German Ideals of Today," by Professor Kuno Francke, "A French Critic of Old Imperialism," by Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., and "Johnson and 'My Policy,'" the fifth in William Garrott Brown's great historical series upon "The Tenth Decade of the United States."

WHITE STRIPE, NOT OLD LIGHT BLUE

STATE MILITARY BOARD MAKES IMPORTANT CHANGE IN UNIFORMS.

The State Military Board has adopted the recommendation made several weeks ago that the stripe on the blue uniforms down the trousers and around coat sleeve bands should be of white instead of the ordinary light blue.

The change was suggested for the purpose of giving the uniforms of the National Guard a nattier appearance and making the stripe more distinctive. It will make the blue uniforms neat looking in appearance and add materially to the dress of the men.

Orders changing the stripes from light blue to white will be issued at once by the adjutant general.

BREAKFAST AND RUN.

Hunt Club Members and Guests Have a Very Sporty Thanksgiving.

Following a hunt breakfast, of the sort characteristic of old-country clubs, but not very common on this side of the water, the Watchung Hunt Club had a great run from the Baltusrol Golf Club to the kennels here Thursday afternoon. The breakfast was served at noon at the golf club. C. D. Freeman, president of the Hunt Club, and Louis Keller were the hosts.

The run was magnificent. The hounds behaved splendidly and stiff jumps proved the mettle of the fourteen riders out of a field of thifty who were in at the kill. There were several falls, but no serious accident. Mr. Wildey had a fall seldom seen in the field, his horse hitting a green fence in such a way as to stand on the fence straight up and down on his forefeet before toppling over to the far side.

Besides Dr. M. O'M. Knott, the master, and C. E. S. Bellows and R. A. Seibeare, the whips, the following rode: Charles D. Freeman, G. P. Mellick, Lewis Waring, C. G. Sayre, H. W. Bourne, C. W. Fiske, George C. White, Jr., Mrs. W. S. Brown, the Misses Mary Holly, Gertrude Noe, Friend, Messrs. Simpson, Peters, Wildey and Alpers, H. S. Freeman, E. E. Schmidt, L. S. Freeman, H. Schmidt, C. W. Jefferies, Paul Harrison, L. S. Treadwell, C. W. Lentz and R. R. Howard.

Ordained a Deacon.

Bryant Gray Harman, formerly a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was ordained as a deacon in St. Stephen's Episcopal church, Colorado Springs, Sunday, November 19, where he will be the assistant minister. The presentation was made by the rector, Rev. Arthur N. Taft, and the reception of the candidate and the laying on of hands by Bishop Olmstead, of Colorado.

Miss Craig, of Vevay, Ind., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Zook.

POTASH MAY BE FOUND NEAR HERE

INDICATIONS THAT POTASH EXISTS NEAR BOUND BROOK

Professor E. B. Voorhees, of the New Jersey Experiment Station at the meeting of the New Jersey Microscopical Society held last week reported that the United States Geological Bureau had discovered evidence of possible deposits of potash in the vicinity of Bound Brook as the result of surveys made of the entire country.

Professor Voorhees said the world's main supply is now obtained in Germany at Stassfurt, and that hardly any money is spent in this country trying to locate deposits, while Germany is constantly doing this. There was a possibility that a sufficient quantity might be found in the beds believed to be at Bound Brook, which would justify the working of this section and produce much wealth.

Professor Neilson, for the biological section reported that his oyster culture researches last summer at Barnegat, in which his efforts were directed toward discovering how through the spawning there could be introduced a process of preservation of the young oyster, were not successful, but he will continue the work next summer.

The process of spawning was illustrated and also that of how the eggs form. The cells, he said, which fill the tubes to form the eggs are quite numerous, but in the struggle for existence only a tenth survive of the original number as eggs, the others having been eaten up by the survivors. He likened the process to the struggle in commercial organizations by which a few stockholders eat up thesmaller, only the oyster throws out its millionaires with the capital to develop a new oyster society. The professor exhibited a piece of tile, some china, a piece of spile bark, a whiskey bottle and clam and oyster shells on which baby oysters had fastened, some as mere specks and others the size of a dime.

Fred B. Kilmer gave a short talk on the use of catgut in surgery, and exhibited some put up for the trade. Professor Smith reported upon the cotton moth which attacked the maple trees last summer. Prof. Prentiss described the process of measuring the distance between the sun and earth by means of the spectrum. Prof. Van Dyck described a new enlarging lamp and John A. Manley exhibited geological specimens.

Dr. F. J. Warren, Prof. J. Volney Lewis, Dr. Caroline Marsh and William S. Vallant were transferred from the active to the honorary roll.

ADMITTED TO THE BAR.

List of Successful Applicants for Admission.

The list of successful applicants for attorneys and counselors' sheepskins, announced by the Supreme Court yesterday, is as follows:

Counselors—Harry H. Koehler, Herman B. Lehlbach, Edward Schoen, John A. Bernhard, Newark; William J. Fermier, Dennis B. Ryan, Jersey City; Lawrence McGinnis, Jr., Joel Barnett, Paterson; Andrew Foulds, Jr., Lewis A. Allen, Passaic; Oliver T. Rogers, Atlantic City; William B. Stites, Hoboken; Joseph Coult, Jr., Newton; Conover English, Elizabeth; Arthur H. Bissell, Montclair.

Attorneys—Edward L. Katzenbach, Trenton; Joseph G. Wolber, Samuel Roessler, Frederic W. Smith, Adam J. Rossbach, James Guest, Arthur F. Egner, Newark; Andrew J. Steelman, Jr., John F. Gough, Thomas R. Armstrong, Charles H. Burtis, Jersey City; Charles L. Hoff, George A. McCall, East Orange; Nathan Bilder, Paterson; Joseph O. Skinner, Hoboken; George H. Gleason, East Newark; Joseph C. Haines, Camden; John O. Vanatta, Brainards; Howard F. Morgan, Haddonfield; LeRoy W. Loder, Bridgeton; Budd M. Rigg, Burlington; E. C. Vannaman, Jr., Mauricetown; Lloyd Thompson, Westfield; Abel R. Corbin, Jersey City; Archibald F. Slingerland, Irvington; Kingsly Twining, Morristown; Max A. Sturm, Union Hill; Arthur A. Palmer, Montclair; Lloyd C. Riddle, Point Pleasant.

Jeffrey Agency Sales.

Through the William Jeffery Park avenue real estate agency the following properties have been sold: A farm of about thirty acres at Berkeley Heights, Julia B. Townley to Berkeley Hights Association; 541 West Front street, Emeline C. McNaughton to Miss Lucy Wooley; a farm in Washington Valley known as the Ackor farm, a little over sixty acres, Philip H. Ackor to Berkeley Heights Association; twelve acres of choice land on top of the first mountain adjoining recent purchases by David T. Kenney, William Blair to Berkeley Heights Association; 671 West Front street, Robert W. Meeker to Miss Mary Muldoon and Catharine Brady.

Exercises at Whittier.

The Thanksgiving exercises at the Whittier School on Wednesday, consisted of songs by the school, readings, Miss Muriel Collins and Miss Kate Sminck, and an excellent address by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck. The exercise were concluded with the singing of "America."

HOTEL PROPRIETOR FINED

Pleading Guilty to Permiting Gambling in His Place J. H. Schnediker Pays $27

IN BOROUGH COURT

Complaint Against Him Preferred by Colored Man Who Had Lost in Dice Throwing. — Arrest Spreads Consternation.

On complaint of Walter Barnardo, colored, the borough police, Wednesday night, arrested J. H. Schnediker, proprietor of the Manhattan Hotel on Somerset street, charged with an infraction of the local ordinance in permitting gambling to be carried on in his place. He was given an immediate hearing and pleading guilty was fined $20 and given seven days in jail additional. He escaped imprisonment by paying $27.

Schnediker recently bought the Manhattan Hotel from J. H. Gracely, coming to the borough from New Brunswick. Almost from the time his ownership began, the police received complaints as to the manner in which the place was conducted but no direct evidence was secured and nothing could be done. Bernardo went into the barroom Wednesday night and was evidently inveigled into some kind of gambling scheme. The usual method is to throw dice for drinks or play pool for the same kind of refreshment. From all accounts he must have lost and being a hard loser, entered a protest.

It wasn't received with very good grace and Bernardo was rather badly worsted in backing it up. When he appeared at police headquarters his face looked as though a mule had kicked him and he confessed to feeling that way. He preferred a charge of permitting gambling against Schnediker and the warrant was immediately served. When the complaint was read to him he said "guilty" without another word, not even asking that Bernardo be sworn. The amount of the fine staggered him somewhat but the cash was soon produced.

In some of the city saloons as well as those in the borough, throwing dice for drinks has been a part of the regular routine and Schnediker's arrest and fine caused no little consternation. The rattle of the bones in the leather box has been a scarce article since.

COLEMAN—HOLMES.

Wedding at Home of Bride's Sister, Mrs. J. J. Martin.

Miss Henrietta Holmes, of Somerville, and Clarence Coleman, of New York, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph J. Martin, 915 West Third street. Rev. George Mooney, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Sallie Holmes, of New York, as bridesmaid, and Frank McGuire, of New York, was the best man. After the ceremony a collation was served. Early in the evening the bridal couple departed on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will live in New York. The bride was the recipient of a large collection of gifts.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Smith, D. H. Coleman, of Raritan; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thompson, of New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. Robert Holmes, Mrs. George Holmes and Miss Sadie Holmes, of Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Martin, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barrett, Miss Sallie Holmes and Miss Sadie Coleman, of New York; Miss Lillie Holmes, of Hoboken; Mr. and Mrs. James Coleman, of Newark, and Miss Dena Miller, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Camp Bowser, 17; O. F. C., 0.

The Orange Field Club football team met its second defeat of the season yesterday morning on Crescent Oval, when Camp Bowser won a lively gridiron battle by a score of 17 to 0. Camp Bowser outweighed its opponents, and displayed the advantage of training. William Schoonmaker and Peterson, of Camp Bowser team, each made a touchdown in the first half, on long runs. The score at the end of the first half was 12 to 0. In the second half a feature was a touchdown by Peterson on a thirty yard run through the line, with his team behind him.

Thanksgiving Eve Dance.

Under the auspices of the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Charles A. Reed is the chairman, a formal dance was given at the Park Club, Thanksgiving Eve. The entertainment committee received the guests, many of whom were from out of town and included a number home from college for the Thanksgiving vacation. An orchestra rendered a popular programme.

Miss Dayton a Bride.

Miss Lizzie N. Dayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Dayton, of South Plainfield, and C. Frank Breece, of Metuchen, were married Wednesday night at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. H. N. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market. They will reside at Metuchen.

CONTRACTOR'S PENALTY

Street Committee is to Say Whether Meeker Must Pay.

COUNCIL IS UNDECIDED

Plainfield's Share of County and State Tax Ordered Paid to Collector—Routine Work of City Fathers.

In reporting the street bills at the December meeting of the Common Council Monday Chairman Wilson kept his promise and moved that C. M. Meeker's bill for macadamizing certain streets be returned to him for correction. Mr. Meeker did not complete his work on time, November 15, and he was informed that a penalty of $10 for each day after that date would be exacted until his work was finished. Mr. Wilson said that his action was in accordance with instructions from Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh.

Mr. Tolles declared that while he did not thoroughly understand the matter, he thought such an exaction would prove a hardship. Mr. Wilson further exlained that Mr. Meeker had not yet completed his contract. After further discussion Mr. Wilson moved that the bill be returned to the street committee for further consideration and settlement with Mr. Meeker.

A resolution was adopted authoring City Treasurer W. F. Arnold to pay to the county collector $66,013.-28, this being Plainfield's share of the county and State tax.

Mr. Tyler, chairman of the police committee, reported adversely on one police bill for the services of a special patrolman appointed by the former police commission, and it was referred to the corporation counsel for adjustment.

On motion of Mr. Murphy, chairman of the lights and trees committee, a light was ordered placed on Madison avenue, between Stelle avenue and Randolph road, and two lights were ordered placed on Leland avenue, between North avenue and East Second street.

Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of twenty-two permits durirng November.

Mr. Tolles reported back the petition of Robert Bellchambers and J. P. Emmons, executors for the estate of Ellen Gill, asking for an adjustment of taxes, and on the advice of the corporation counsel recommended that the petition be denied, which was done.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution providing for the apportionment of back tax moneys received from the enforcement of the Martin act, after the expense for the enforcement is met. This money will be distributed to the various departments of the city. Another resolution offered by Mr. Tolles, and adopted, provided for the borrowing of $10,000 for sewer improvements, the same to be secured by notes in the usual way.

DILATORY PLUMBER ANGERS SCHOOL BOARD

TRUSTEES MAY TAKE HIGH SCHOOL CONTRACT OUT OF HIS HANDS

The city Board of Education departed from its usual serenity Monday and besides saying some very uncomplimentary things about the methods of D. J. Galbraith, the plumber, passed a resolution calculated to make him hurry along his part of the work on the new High School. It was made known to the members of the board by Supervising Architect Morse that several of the contractors are behind, but none so much as Mr. Galbraith, and there is a possibility that his laxity will cause a serious delay in the completion of the building. As a result, the following resolution, offered by Mr. Abbott, was adopted:

"Resolved, That if the plumber has not finished his work in the new High School by December 20, the architect acting under the provisions of the contract, shall take the work out of his hands and employ a sufficient number of men to complete it by December 31 and deduct the same from his contract price."

The clerk was instructed to serve a copy of the resolution on Mr. Galbraith today, while Architect Morse was told to hurry the other contractors along as well. The board was informed that it will be fully two months before the building is entirely completed, but that it will be in condition to hold the New Year's reception as planned. According to the general contract it should be entirely finished by December 20.

Want Men in Central at Night.

An effort is being made by the Town Improvement Association, of Montclair, to induce the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to employ men as night operators instead of girls. The women of the Town Improvement Association are of the opinion that girls should not be employed throughout the night at telephone switchboards, although they admit the conditions there are the best possible.

HOSPITAL LETS CITY IN

Municipality Given Representation on Muhlenberg's Board.

MAYOR IS A MEMBER

Arrangements Also Made at Last Night's Session for Annual Carnival—Committee Is Appointed.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at its December meeting Monday, agreed that the mayor of the city shall be ex-officio a member of that body. The action is taken so that the municipality may have some voice in the management of hospital affairs.

When the question of requesting the taxpayers to vote money for the support of the institution came up before the Common Council a short time ago, one strong objection to it was that the city was not represented on the Board of Governors. It was subsequently announced that a representative of the city would be named to take his place on the board.

Charles J. Fisk, DeWitt C. Ivins and Henry L. Hall were appointed an executive committee with full power to make all arrangements for a carnival and fair to be held for the benefit of the hospital. The show will take place between May 19 and June 2, 1906, inclusive. The work of arranging the details for this affair will be earnestly prosecuted.

Paul Taylor Brown was elected secretary of the board of succeed Charles E. Brooks, who resigned.

A contract has been made for an elevator for carrying patients between the basement and upper floors of the administration building, and it will be installed at once. The cost of the improvement will be about $600. The funds were raised by a subscription among a few friends of the institution.

The report of the medical staff showed that there were thirty-three patients remaining at the hospital at the beginning of the month. During the month forty-nine patients were admitted, forty discharged cured, seven improved, two not improved, four died, remaining twenty-nine. The total number of patients treated was eighty-two, hospital days 874. In the dispensary there were twenty-five patients, 102 visits and five operations.

A communication was received from the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors, informing the board that Mrs. F. H. Andrews, Mrs. J. B. Dumont and Miss Tracy have been appointed to co-operate with the carnival committee and assist in any way possible.

STATE CHARITIES MEETING.

Plans Arranged for Conference of Executive Committee.

Notices have been issued by the Rev. Walter Reid Hunt, of Orange, for the fifth annual meeting of the executive committee of the New Jersey State Association of Charities and Corrections, which it has been decided to hold at the Public Library, Newark, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 15, 16 and 17, 1906.

The chairman of the several departments are: Medical charities, Hugh F. Fox; treatment of the criminal, Decatur M. Sawyer; county and municipal charities, J. J. Mulvaney; social welfare work, the Rev. Stanley White; organization of charitable administration, the Rev. Dr. James I. Vance.

The topics suggested for discussion at the meeting are: "Visiting Nurses," "Local Provision and Treatment of Consumptives," "Babies' Hospitals," "The Parole System," "Care of Discharged Prisoners," "Reformatory for Women," "Cases of Juvenile Delinquency," "Almshouse Problem," "Abuses of Justice of the Peace System," "County School for Detention of Truants," "Federation of Charities," "Friendly Visitors," "Civic Sanitation Hygiene," "Recreation Work," "Parents' Association," "Y. M. C. A. as a Social Centre," and "Settlement Work." Bleecker Van Wagenen is president and Rev. Walter Reid Hunt, secretary.

Woman Enveloped in Flames.

Mrs. David Smith, wife of the manager of the Duke estate, at Raritan, was severely burned Saturday. Her dress caught fire from some live coals that had been thrown out in a driveway where she was walking. In a moment her garments were aflame. She ran into the house and a servant threw a bucket of water over her, putting out the flames, but she was horribly burned. Her condition is critical.

Gift for John O'Keefe.

John O'Keefe was presented with a handsome diamond ring, weighing two carats, at the annual meeting and banquet of "The Homeless Twenty-six," held in Cincinnati on Thanksgiving Day. This society, composed of travelling men, was organized a year ago at Pittsburg, and the membership today is ten thousand. Mr. O'Keefe is president of the organization.

The Misses McIntosh, of College place, have been entertaining company from out of town.

GRACE CHURCH ANNUAL

Wardens, Vestrymen and Deputies to Diocesan Convention Elected.

A SPECIAL COMMISSION

Advistory Body That Will Study and Recommend Sunday-school Methods—Story of the Year's Finances.

The annual parish meeting of Grace P. E. church was held in the parish house Monday. Wardens, vestrymen and deputies to the coming diocesan convention were elected.

The two wardens chosen are E. H. Booth and M. S. Ackerman. The vestrymen elected, seven in number, were Howard Fleming, S. D. Lounsbury, L. G. Timpson, J. E. Erickson, W. T. Gough, W. T. Pelletier and O. G. Waring. The two first named are new members. The deputies are W. E. Low, J. B. Dumont and G. S. Clay. Their alternates are R. L. Finch, Howard Fleming and R. H. Depew.

E. H. Booth read the treasurer's report and gave an interesting resume of the figures. The receipts of the parish during the past year, exclusive of $10,000 on a mortgage on the new parish house, were $18,767, of this sum $941 being given for missions. Pew rents, amounting in total to $6,278, decreased $6, and collections, amounting to $3,732, increased $400. $6,057 was raised for the new parish house fund during the year, which added to the balance from the year before, made a total of $10,541 raised for the fund. The house has cost to date $19,379, and there are bills unpaid amounting to $1,349, making the grand total of cost $20,728, a trifle over the receipts. The record on the financing of the parish house construction is an unusually good one, and the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, referred to it when the report was read. There is a total of $877 in a special fund for memorial windows.

An old mortgage of $8,800 is on the church. The assured revenue of the church, embodied in the pew rents and collections, is $10,714. The expenditures this year exceeded the receipts by about $50. During the year $559 was spent on repairs, an unusually large sum. So much money for repairs has not been spent in one year in some time. The exterior of the church was completely overhauled and made much more attractive.

It was voted to submit seven names to the rector, from which he will choose a Sunday school commission, the duties of which will be to study Sunday school methods and curriculums and advise the rector and superintendent from time to time. In effect the commission will be a Sunday school board of education for the parish. The names submitted, named by various members of the parish present, are G. S. Clay, Miss Hartridge, Mrs. S. B. Herrick, H. S. Huse, Miss Tweedy, D. H. Rowland and Richard Stevens.

It was voted to close the fiscal year of the parish hereafter on September 30, in order to enable the treasurer to have a full statement of the church finances at the annual meeting.

The session was a long one, but very little besides routine business was transacted. The rector presided and M. S. Ackerman was elected secretary. He has been secretary of the vestry for seven years.

MRS. SCHENCK RESIGNS.

Her Health Prompts Her to Give up Superintendency of Chapel.

Mrs. J. W. Schenck, for the past year superintendent of Marconnier chapel, has sent her resignation to the consistory of Trinity Reformed church, and the resignation will be acted upon at the next regular meeting of that body, Thursday night, December 14. Mrs. Schenck has endeared herself to many at Oak Tree during the time she has been superintendent and the ending of her visitations among the members of the chapel will be a source of regret to many.

Living nearly a mile from the chapel and the approaching winter season causes Mrs. Schenck to feel that her health would not permit her to do the work expected of her during the bad weather soon to come. She therefore asks the consistory to relieve her of her position as superintendent.

Dryden's Turn Next.

Senator Dryden expects to appear before the insurance investigators on December 13, and a number of questions have been put to the Prudential Company, so that he will be prepared to answer them. This, of course, does not preclude the investigators from asking any other question. The counsel of the committee, Charles E. Hughes, has a large corps of assistants, many of them insurance experts and all the work is conducted systematically, every question being asked with a purpose and a knowledge of what the answer will probably be.

Boys' Club Opens December 11.

The Boys' Club building of the Y. M. C. A., in Sycamore street, will not be opened until December 11, because of a delay in the plumbing work.

HER FEET ROPED, GIRL DRAGGED AFTER WAGON

REMARKABLE ACCIDENT IN WHICH MISS MARY PIERSON FIGURES ON PARK AVE.

Passersbys on Park avenue near Front street at 5:15 o'clock Monday day afternoon stared in amazement at one of Woodhull & Martin's delivery wagons that was bowling rapidly along in the direction of Second street. That which attracted their attention was a young woman was trailing along the roadway on her back, about twelve feet behind the wagon, attached to it by a long rope. She was gliding very smoothly, and for all the excitement that came from her she might have been having a pleasant, if eccentric, time.

The horrified yells of the people on the sidewalk caused the negro driver of the wagon to pull up suddenly at Antony Seidel's barber shop. When he saw what his wagon had been dragging he was so scared he nearly fell off the seat. The young woman was Miss Mary L. Pierson, of West Front street. When the wagon started from the store a long length of doubled rope trailed behind, with the loop end out. Miss Pierson stepped into the loop as it slipped over the crosswalk at Park avenue, and the next instant she was jerked prone and her unusual journey down Park avenue began. She made several ineffectual attempts to free herself, and, finding them useless, lay quietly and waited whatever fate had in store at the end of the ride.

The half a dozen men who picked her up and freed her from the rope were smitten with increased amazement to find her unhurt and not even fainting. She was a bit frightened and her dress was very mussy, but the trip had left no bruises. Miss Pierson took her experience with a great degree of coolness, everything considered.

"If he hadn't stopped when he did, I guess my ankle would have stretched some," was her only comment. She expects Woodhull & Martin to pay for the dress.

NEWARK FIVE WINS A CLOSE, SPIRITED GAME

PLAINFIELDERS GIVE STATE CHAMPIONS A HARD TUSSLE FOR SUPREMACY

The Newark Y. M. C. A. five, champion basketball team of the New Jersey associations, defeated the local Y. Y. M. C. A. combination Monday, in the latter's gymnasium. Plainfield, however, put up a great fight, and contested every stage of the game with brilliancy. The score was 14 to 10.

Plainfield showed a great improvement in form over the showing of the last game. All the Plainfielders played fast and accurately. In the first half they more than held their own, making six points to the Newarkers' five.

In the second half the Newarkers put on steam and played to the limit of their science and stamina. The contest gave the large gallery a lively twenty minutes of high class sport.

The playing of Leary, Plainfield's guard, was a feature. He was all over his territory and shot three of the goals his side scored. The line up and summary:

| Y. M. C. A. | | Newark. |
|---|---|---|
| Smith | | Long |
| Thompson | | Eggerting, Kerr |
| | forwards. | |
| Scull | | Vreeland |
| | centre. | |
| Leary | | Spalding |
| Lister | | Poland |
| | guards. | |

Goals from field—Smith, Thompson, Scull, Leary, 3; Vreeland, Spalding, Poland, 3. Goals from fouls—Vreeland, 5.

In the second half Smith, of Plainfield, was dazed by a fall, but continued in the game after a rest with unabated speed and dash.

The "curtain-raiser" between North Plainfield High School and the Consolidated five was won by the latter, 18 to 9. The contest seemed slow in the shadow of the big game. Lineup and summary:

| N. P. H. S. | | Consolidated. |
|---|---|---|
| A. VanArsdale | | Phillips, P. |
| M. VanArsdale | | Douglas |
| | guards. | |
| Fisher | | Burlow Allholm |
| | céntre. | |
| Burtus | | Manning, J. |
| Webster | | Cullingsworth |
| | guards. | |

Goals from field—VanArsdale, 2; Phillips, 3; Allholm, 4; Cullingsworth, 2. Goals from fouls—VanArsdale, 3; Burtus, Webster.

Prof. Smith Talks to Farmers.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture was held Saturday afternoon in the Court House at Somerville. There was a large attendance of farmers from all over the county. The chief speaker was Prof. John B. Smith, of New Brunswick, the State entomologist, who had for his subject "Up-to-date Methods for Sprays." His remarks were both interesting and instructive.

E. B. Maynard, the North avenue barber, is detained at his home with a severe cold.

A $55,000 IMPROVEMENT

Common Council Acts Favorably on Proposed Sanitary Sewer Extension.

A PUMPING STATION

To Be In Portions of City Where Gravity System Cannot Be Used —In Three Distinct Branches.

The attempt of Councilman Wilson, chairman of the streets and sewers committee, to secure the adoption of an ordinance providing an extension of the sanitary sewers in portions of the city not possible to sewer by gravity, caused a lively discussion at the December meeting of the Common Council Monday. The matter has been under discussion during the past two years, and a few months ago Mr. Wilson secured an appropriation to investigate the subject and have plans prepared for the improvement, which calls for pumping stations.

It was arranged to have a public hearing on the proposition last night, and no one appearing to speak for or against the improvement, Mr. Wilson called up the ordinance. After a lengthy argument the ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. The improvement will call for an expenditure of about $55,000, of which amount the affected property owners will pay about $11,000 and the city the balance.

Mr. Bullock started the argument by asking Mr. Wilson if the proposed extension included all that section which cannot be sewered by gravity. He was informed that it did not.

Mr. Tolles stated that he thought it unwise at this time to pass the ordinance. The work could not be done this year, and he thought it best to let the 1906 Common Council take up the matter. He made a motion to that effect, but it was lost by a vote of seven to three. The members voting against the motion were President Daniel, Councilmen Bullock, Hibbard, Higham, C. C. Randolph, Tyler and Wilson, while those voting in favor were Councilmen Tolles, Gloak and Frank Randolph. By the same vote the ordinance was adopted on its first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Mr. Hibbard wanted to know something of the history of the movement to make the proposed extension to the sewer system, and at Mr. Wilson's request Mr. Higham made a brief statement. He said that primarily the urgent need for sewer connection at Muhlenberg Hospital was the means of agitating the matter, and besides a large section of the West End of the city was found to be in need of the system. He could see no reason why residents in that end of the city should be compelled to help pay the interest on the sewer bonds and not have the use of the system.

Street Commissioner Gavett was present and he was asked to make a few remarks on the subject. He explained the plan, which is to provide three pumping stations to sewer the easterly, westerly and southwesterly portions of the city. In reply to a question he said that three distinct branches of the system were planned and they could be built separately or together. He said that the total cost of the extension would be about $55,000, and that about $11,000 would be the property owners' share and the balance would be paid by the city.

In further explaining the need for this extension Mr. Higham said that, in his opinion, the city should assume the care and cleaning of cesspools in the unsewered part of the city where taxpayers are obliged to help pay the interest on the sewer obligations, and where they cannot get into the sewer by gravity.

Mr. Higham took exceptions to Mr. Tolles' desire to lay the matter over until next year, stating that the latter member was well versed in the provisions of the ordinance and knows how urgent the extension is. In reply to Mr. Tolles' remarks that the ordinance should be considered by the incoming members, he said that it would be unwise to overburden the 1906 Common Council.

Mr. Tolles did not think that anything would be lost by laying the ordinance over and the preliminary cost would be just as valuable to the 1906 Common Council in making the improvement, which he believed would surely be made next year.

After the question had been thoroughly discussed, the vote was called for by Mr. Wilson, and his motion to adopt the ordinance on first and second readings was passed as stated.

The portion of the city to be sewered by the new system includes these and adjoining streets: Randolph road, Park avenue, Arlington avenue, Arlington place, Grove street, Clinton avenue, Morris street, McDowell street, Manson place, Monroe avenue West Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth streets and Hobart avenue.

Juniors to Attend Service.

The members of Franklin, Somerset and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., will attend services at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Roberson, of Bound Brook, a member of the order, will make the address.

BOARD ANSWERS PETITION

School Trustees Acknowledge Need of Increased Facilities in Lower West End.

NO ACTION AT PRESENT

Feeling That Plainfield Alumni Association Has Overstepped Bounds in Arranging Opening of New High School.

At its regular meeting Monday the city Board of Education considered the petition for increased school facilities in the vicinity of West Front street and Clinton avenue, presented last month and signed by Jacob Kriney and 212 other property owners, and apsssed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the clerk of the Board of Education he and hereby is instructed to acknowledge the receipt of the petition of residents of the Fourth ward and to say that the board fully recognizes the need for greater accommodations for the children of that ward and will respond to the need as promptly and completely as possible. The use of the new High School building will result in such changes as to partially relieve the pressure for the immediate future, but the growth of the city will no doubt before long oblige the board to take other measures to furnish greater accommodations, and the matter of providing for future needs has been the subject of frequent informal discussions between the trustees and the officers of the schools."

The board was in receipt of a communication from M. C. Parker, chairman of a meeting of the Plainfield Alumni Association held recently, in which part of the organization's plans for the opening of the new High School New Year's afternoon and night was outlined. It was stated that a reception would be held in the afternoon and a "jollification" at night, to which the members and ex-members of the board, the graduates and students of the old High School and present and past teachers would be invited. Mr. Parker's letter was read by the secretary, and immediately Mr. Lovell offered a resolution that "the Alumni Association consult with the board before it makes any further plans for the opening of the school." The feeling seemed to be that the organization had overstepped its bounds and was getting into territory over which it had no control.

The school calendar for the coming year was fixed by Superintendent Maxson as follows: Winter term, from Wednesday, January 3, to April 13; Spring term, April 22 to June 21; Fall term, September 11 to December 21. Mr. Maxson also stated the school law demands a committee to examine teachers who have not State certificates, and as an occasion has arisen locally where this is necessary, he asked that the board serve in connection with Principal Travell, of the High School, and Principal Day, of the Whittier School.

A communication was received from Benjamin Evans giving his formal acceptance of the appointment as engineer and janitor of the new High School.

ROUTINE MATTERS AT COMMON COUNCIL

PETITIONS CONSIDERED BY CITY FATHERS AT REGULAR SESSION.

Objecting to a sewer assessment made on one side of his property on the northeast corner of East Seventh and Richmond streets, having previously been assessed for the sewer which runs in front of his property, Peter Neuman communicated with the Common Council at the December meeting Monday, asking that the one assessment be set aside. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company informed the Common Council that it had located one two-way hydrant at Hunter and Evona avenues, as ordered.

Morris Abrams and M. Weinberger petitioned the Common Council to apportion the taxes on several properties on South Second street, a portion of which had been sold to various persons. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The Home Real Estate Company petitioned to have a tax paid on the property at 1424 West Fourth street returned, as it had been paid twice. The finance committee will adjust the matter.

A communication was received from Charles A. Reed, Esq., in which he asked the Common Council to adopt a resolution cancelling the bonds of the former police commissioners and return the same to him. The action was asked, as the act under which the commission was appointed was declared unconstitutional. The matter was referred to the police committee.

Mrs. William VanDuyne, of the borough, who has been visiting relatives at Somerville, has returned home.

DEFER KIELY CHARGES

Accusations Against Police Chief Kiely to be Presented Friday Night.

ON MR. TYLER'S REQUEST

Chairman of Police Committee Asks for Postponement Because Corporation Counsel Desires Time to Frame Charges.

Greatly to the disappointment of a large and interested lobby, the much talked-of charges against Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely were not presented by the councilmanic police committee at the December meeting of the Common Council Monday. Mr. Tyler, chairman of the committee, moved that the regular order of business be suspended to receive the report of the police committee. This being done, Mr. Tyler stated that Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh had not had sufficient time to prepare the charges to be presented, and he asked that when the Common Council meeting adjourned it be to meet on Friday night to receive the charges of the committee. The Common Council concurred in the motion, after which Mr. Tyler stated that no further report of the committee would be made until Friday night.

The disappointment of those in the lobby was quickly shown after Mr. Tyler's announcement. Nearly all the spectators retired before other business was taken up. Prior to the meeting it was whispered that the charges would not be presented for the reasons stated by the chairman of the police committee. Mr. Marsh informed Mr. Tyler of his inability to prepare the charges in time and he thought it best to ask for an adjourned session on Friday night.

Mr. Marsh did not appear at the meeting of the Common Council, neither was Charles A. Reed, counsel for Chief Kiely, the latter evidently being informed that nothing would be done at this session. As the Friday night meeting is called especially for the purpose of hearing the charges, the members will be able to devote their entire time and attention to the police committee report.

CITY TO PRESERVE ITS BEAUTIFUL TREES

WAR ON MAPLE AND SAN JOSE SCALES TO BEGIN AT ONCE.

George T. Powell, an expert in agricultural problems and president of the Agricultural Experts' Association, of New York, who has been conferring with Street Commission A. J. Gavett with a view to exterminating the insect known as the cottony maple scale, will soon begin the work of spraying trees.

Announcement of this fact was made by Chairman Murphy, of the lights and trees committee, at the Common Council meeting Monday. Percy Nelson, of New York, has been studying the insects injurious to trees in and about Plainfield and has found the San Jose scale doing considerable damage. Some trees are nearly ruined from the ravages of the scale.

Mr. Murphy stated last night that plans are complete for systematically spraying affected trees along the streets with materials that will effectively keep in check the scale and other injurious insects. It is the desire of the chairman of the lights and threes committee that persons knowing of trees affected by these injurious insects will communicate that information to him or Street Commission Gavett as soon as possible, so that they may be treated with others now on the list. Trees on private property will not be sprayed at public expense.

COMIC OPERA FOR CHARITY.

Pirates of Penzance to Be Given for Day Nursery.

Following a conference between officers of the City Union of King's Daughters and William Holmes, it has been decided that Mr. Holmes give the comic opera, "The Pirates of Penzance," for the benefit of the Day Nursery, which is to be opened in this city January 1. The opera will be given probably at the New Plainfield theatre early in February. The rehearsals will be started on Monday night.

Mr. Holmes hopes to have practically the same cast that gave the original performance of this opera with such success at the Casino a few years ago. Several well-known persons who are interested in the King's Daughters' work and who are socially prominent are behind the movement to give the benefit performance and its success is assured already.

Rev. Dr. Richards to Make Address.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, former pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, now pastor of the Brick church, New York, will make an address at the union meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the Crescent Avenue church to be held in the chapel Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Thank offerings for both societies will be received.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1905. NO. 50

"Support the Constitution Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison

POLICE KIDNAP ZELAYA

Son of Nicaraguan President, Who Studied Here, Has Romance.

TORN FROM FIANCEE

Nicaragua's Minister, Acting As His Guardian, Has Police of National Capitol Block Marriage With Washington Girl.

On the eve of his marriage to a pretty Washington girl whom he had been courting for two years, Alphonso Zelaya, the nineteen-year-old son of the President of Nicaragua, who prepared for his entrance into the West Point Military Academy as a special student, under agreement between the United States and his government, at Cedarcroft School, Park avenue, was kidnapped Friday night while visiting his sweetheart. He was forced into a waiting cab, and driven to a prominent Washington hotel, where detectives kept him a close prisoner until Sunday night, when he was started for Central America under guard. The kidnapping was at the request of Minister Corea, of Nicaragua, the guardian of the young man.

Zelaya left Cedarcroft last year after a two years' residence here. He was well known to many Plainfielders. His lively temperament and accomplishments made him highly popular.

Zelaya, after a short time at West Point, resigned last year and returned to Washington, where he had studied. He had met Miss Marguerite Baker, daughter of Dr. W. W. Baker, employed in one of the Government departments, and had fallen in love with her. Zelaya was much in her company. It was known to all the boarders that they were soon to be married.

The wedding was set for Saturday, and all of Friday was spent by Zelaya and Miss Baker flat-hunting. Minister Corea heard of the contemplated marriage and asked Major Sylvester, Chief of Police, to aid him in preventing it as the young man was only nineteen years old. Sylvester consented and detailed two detectives, McNamee and Helan, to accompany a personal representative of the Nicaraguan Minister in a search for the young man.

They first went to his apartments, and not finding him there, proceeded to the home of Miss Baker. The young man and his sweetheart were in the parlor discussing plans for housekeeping when the detectives and Mercurie forced their way in.

"You're wanted to answer a very serious charge," Mercurie said to Zelaya. "Get your coat and come with us."

Zelaya went to the door, protesting that he had done no wrong and asking for what he was wanted. He was bundled into a carriage and the detectives piled in on top of him. At the Cairo Apartment Hotel, in Q street, near Sixteenth, the young man was escorted to a suit on the top floor. He threatened to commit suicide unless released. When Minister Corea heard of this he was greatly worried and the detectives were directed not to leave Zelaya alone for an instant.

Zelaya was so closely guarded that escape was impossible. It was under the charge of a trusted employe of the Nicaraguan Legation that he was started for Central America. Before the departure, Miss Baker, with several of her friends, appeared, and her tearful appeals resulted in the Minister's consenting that she see Zelaya a few moments.

Miss Baker, through a friend, made this statement: "Nothing can happen which will cause me to break my faith in Alphonso. I have every confidence in him and know he has been greatly wronged. It will not be long until he will return, and then we will be happy again."

The Washington Police Department justified its course by the plea that it was bound to protect the ward of a foreign Minister.

Funeral of Louis Kline.

The funeral of Louis A. Kline, who died last week at Boston, was held at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. Willett, of Craig place, yesterday afternoon. It was in charge of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck and was very simple. The body was afterward taken to Bound Brook for interment.

—During the month of December, in order to demonstrate the value of its service, The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company will arrange to give a free trial of telephone exchange service in residences in the Plainfield exchange. A free trial of extension station service in residences or business places is also offered. Application may be made for this service to District Manager C. W. Runyon, 323 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. 12 eod 2 *

SHEPARD-LOWE WEDDING TO BE BRILLIANT AFFAIR

CEREMONY WILL BE WITNESSED BY 1,500 SOCIETY FOLK.

An event of social importance this winter will be the wedding of Miss Charlotte Frances Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe, of 1024 Park avenue, and Frederick Mead Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, of "The Gables," East Front street. The ceremony will be performed at Grace church on Wednesday afternoon, January 10, at 12:30 o'clock, and will be followed with a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents at 1 o'clock.

Owing to the social prominence of both families, guests at the wedding breakfast will include many well known society folk from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Chicago, Brooklyn and this city, as well as abroad. The invitations, which will be issued soon, will number about 1,500 to the ceremony and about 600 to the wedding breakfast.

A special car will be attached to the train leaving New York at 11 o'clock the morning of the wedding, to bring the guests from New York and nearby points, and it will return to New York on the train leaving this city at 2:42 in the afternoon.

Both Miss Lowe and Mr. Shepard have been prominent in society here and in New York, where they are favorites among the younger set, and their wedding promises to be one of the most brilliant witnessed here in some time.

MISS VANSICKEL A DECEMBER BRIDE

JOHN HAROLD SCHMIDT, OF HARTFORD, THE GROOM.

Miss Eva Louise VanSickel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. VanSickel, of Madison avenue, and John Harold Schmidt, of Hartford, Conn., were married last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the two families and a few intimate friends. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, formerly pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and an intimate friend of the bride's family, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Grave VanSickel, as bridesmaid, and the best man was Egbert Jurgensen, of New York. The other attendants were Reginald Schmidt, of New York, brother of the groom; Walter Struthers, of New York; W. J. Worcester, of Montclair, and Harold Wills, of this city, who acted as ribbon bearers. The bridesmaid preceded the bride, who was escorted by her father. He gave her in marriage. The Mendelssohn wedding march was rendered by vonBar's orchestra as the bridal party entered the parlor.

The house was decorated with Southern smilax and roses, and in the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, there was a bower of greens and flowers. The table in the dining room was garnished with choice roses and smilax.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon, trimmed with point lace and she carried lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids. She also wore a veil. The bridesmaid's gown was of pale green and she carried white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held. Supper was served by Maresi. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt left for a wedding trip, and upon their return will live at Hartford, Conn., where the groom is engaged as a bond broker.

The bride was the recipient of a large and costly array of gifts from relatives and friends.

An Illustrated Missionary Lecture.

In the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock there will be a stereopticon lecture given by Miss Josephine Petrie, of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian church. Her subject will be the Indians, Alaskans, Mexicans and other people in America among whom this board is working. Invitations to this meeting have been sent to the other Presbyterian churches in the city and all others who are interested will be welcome. There will be no offering.

Miss Fisk Operated On.

Miss Dorothy Fisk, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, underwent a successful operation for appendicitis at their home on West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon. There is every promise of an early recovery.

—If you have not used White Label canned goods, you should do so at once. You are missing a treat. Neuman Brothers sell them.

BLACKMAILING LETTERS

Anonymous Grafter Seeks to Prey on Miss Van-Artsdale's Father.

GIRL VICTIM OF ERROR

Her Name Dragged Into Scandalous Case Through Similarity in Names of Her Employer and His Cousin.

Through a similarity in name between two cousins, Miss Margaret Van Artsdale, of Dunellen, has been given a lot of unenviable notoriety in the New York papers, and her father, Paxton Van Artsdale, has received the attention of some unknown blackmailer. The story of the affair reads like a chapter from a novel.

The cousins are A. H. Blackmar, a Wall street broker, and H. Blackmar, Jr., of 78 Wall street. Miss Van Artsdale works for the latter. For a year or more A. H. Blackmar has been in the habit of making his cousin's office his headquarters, receiving letters and sending out his correspondence there. What typewriting he had to do, Miss Van Artsdale, being in the office, naturally did.

Mr. Blackmar—A. H.—had had some trouble with his wife, being divorced, and joined the great army of alimony-payers. He grew slack in his payments, and in the course of time found himself in the throes of supplementary proceedings. His testimony was interesting, and the long ears of the New York reporters quivered with joy at the nature of it.

When they reported the affair they made Miss Van Artsdale the bankrupt young man's typewriter. Their reports made him testify that he had not paid her any salary for a year. She was not on his salary list, so this fact is not strange, but the papers did not make that point clear. They had side features to their stories devoted to Miss Van Artsdale's "stylish gowns," so that her part in Blackmar's domestic troubles seemed sufficiently plain to warrant raised eyebrows and sniffs from the feminine part of Dunellen.

The Van Artsdale family, at first, were not very much concerned over the occurrence. They believed the mistake could be rectified by the explanation, and accepted the annoyance that grew from it philosophically. But a new aspect was put on the affair last week when anonymous letters began to reach Mr. Van Artsdale.

They were threatening in tone, and bluntly demanded money. The writer hinted knowledge of the affair that was worth suppressing, and wanted pay for suppressing it. Mr. Van Artsdale's indignation over the blackmailing attempt makes up for any lack of heat over the wrong done his daughter by the papers.

He called the attention of Miss Van Artsdale's employer to the letters, and the latter shared his feelings. Mr. Blackmar felt keen regret over the original incident, and the new development moved him to deeper indignation than even Mr. Van Artsdale felt.

Mr. Blackmar has placed the blackmailing letters in the hands of a detective, and every effort will be made to run down the writer. The letters were unsigned, and give no clue to the author. Mr. Blackmar is determined to trace the writer out, if that can possibly be accomplished. A reward will be paid for information leading to his discovery.

Mr. Van Artsdale was seen by a Daily Press reporter in regard to the affair yesterday afternoon, but beyond acknowledging the receipt of the letters and his knowledge of the circumstances surrounding the original incident he would say nothing for publication. He refused to show the letters.

St. Stephen's New Vestry.

At the annual parish meeting of St. Stephen's church these vestrymen and wardens were elected for the ensuing year: Senior warden, Dr. George Dupuy; junior warden, Adam C. Hill; vestrymen, Albert J. Beale, Robert McCready, Fred L. Herbert, Clarence H. Weekes, Alfred Lacey, J. Fred Christiansen. By a vote the rector has been given the power to nominate and elect any man or men to the vestry during the coming year.

May Save Sight of One Eye.

It was reported today that the chances of saving the sight in V. W. Nash's left eye were very good. He is under the care of Dr. Ard, who is doing everything possible. The outcome of the injury to the right optic is still in doubt.

W. C. T. U. Praise Service.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union tomorrow afternoon will be in the form of a praise service and will be led by Mrs. G. N. VanNest. All are welcome.

SETTLE $25,000 SUIT

Allen and Harkins Get Together, Ignoring Their Lawyers.

HUSBAND WILL GO WEST

Willingness to Settle Said to Come From His Need of Money of a Health Trip.

The suit for $25,000 damages brought by Joseph Harkins against F. K. Allen, of the Hotel Iroquois, for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections will not be brought to trial. Settlement of the action was effected yesterday. Mr. Allen himself acknowledged that the settlement had been made, to a reporter, this morning.

Counsel on both sides knew nothing of the abrupt termination of the case, until the details had been arranged. Allen and Harkins met quietly and agreed on the sum that was to secure the former's release from legal proceedings. The first intimation that Craig A. Marsh, counsel for the defendant, had of the action was when his client came to his office yesterday afternoon and asked him to draw up a receipt for the money paid to Harkins. Isaac P. Runyon, Harkins' lawyer, learned of it still later.

"The settlement cost me between $500 and $600," said Mr. Allen this morning. Nobody else connected with the case would make any statement as to the basis of it.

Mr. Allen still vigorously maintains his innocence of the charge on which Harkins founded the suit. Not one of the allegations is true, he says, and the only explanation of the settlement is to be found in his desire to help an unfortunate young man and a natural disinclination to the notoriety that would attend a trial. Harkins, it is said, is in ill-health and was hard pushed for money with which to take a trip to the West, where he hopes to grow stronger. Mr. Allen intimated that Harkins offered to settle for money enough to take the trip, and he gave it to him more through compassion for his condition than for any other reason.

GOODFELLOW CHOSEN POST'S COMMANDER

WINFIELD SCOTT, NO. 73, G. A. R. HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., at a regular encampment held last night elected these officers for the coming year:

Commander, Preston B. Goodfellow; senior vice-commander, Andrew Cox; junior vice-commander, Fred Wenzel; quartermaster, John R. Naylor; surgeon, Israel Compton; chaplain, Nathan C. Pennington; officer of the day, J. W. Coddington; officer of the guard, Edward Vanderweg; trustees, Captain William Hand, W. C. Smith, M. C. Dobbins; delegates to Department encampment, Andrew Cox, W. H. Day, J. W. Coddington and John R. Naylor.

The appointive officers will be announced by the commander-elect on the night of installation, Tuesday, January 2, at which time there will be a joint installation with the Women's Relief Corps.

Bishop's Visitation.

The Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey, will visit St. Stephen's church on St. Stephen's day to administer the sacrament of confirmation. The service will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening. On St. John's day, at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, the bishop will be the celebrant at the early eucharist.

In Honor of His Birthday.

In celebration of his birthday, John Vroom, of West Third street, gave a dance at his home last night. Thirty friends were in attendance from this city, Oak Tree, Metuchen and other places. Features of the gathering were banjo and violin selections by John and Louis Vroom and a supper in conclusion.

Miss Jackson a Bride.

Miss Gertrude Jackson, a former resident of this city, was married in Brooklyn yesterday to Frederick Randolph Morse. The bride's family is well known here and several Plainfielders attended the wedding. Others received cards announcing the marriage this mornink.

Elks to Observe Christmas.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., will meet tonight and make preliminary preparations for the annual Christmas celebration for members and the entertainment and tree for the children.

PERKINS TO BE LEADER

Union County Assemblyman Chosen by House After Colbyites Bolt.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

Tucker Joins the Anti-organization Men in Leaving the Caucus—Martin Attacks Robbins.

The caucus of the Republican members of the House of Assembly for the purpose of electing a Speaker and officers of the House was held yesterday at Trenton without the Colbyites, of Essex and Hudson counties, who made good their threat to bolt.

Among the Plainfielders present were former Mayor C. J. Fisk, County Register F. H. Smith, George J. Tobin and Winfield S. Angleman.

The regular caucus selected Mr. Robbins for Speaker, Randolph Perkins, of Union, as leader; William Lutz, of Atlantic, sergeant-at-arms; George A. Grover, of Essex, supervisor of bills; Jacob Russ, of Hudson, bill clerk; Frank Tantum, Monmouth, assistant bill clerk; Charles H. Angleman, of Union, journal clerk; assistant journal clerk, Howard Keasby, of Salem.

The bolters did not wait for the caucus to express itself one way or the other about the selection of House officials. At the first opportunity Assemblyman Martin of Essex, read a prepared statement announcing the reasons for the Colby forces retiring from the caucus. The Essex and Hudson men took out with them Assemblyman-elect Tucker, of Union county.

Assemblyman-elect Dipple, of Hudson county, was deputized by Colby to remain in the caucus to report the transactions of the caucus.

Mr. Martin's statement, signed by the Essex and Hudson men, together with Tucker, said the signers declined to be bound by the caucus, and declared that it seemed certain that Assemblyman Samuel K. Robbins, of Burlington, was to be made Speaker. They therefore felt that they should retire. Mr. Martin declared that Robbins was being backed by the "agents of corporations" and that influences against limited franchises and equal taxation were actively supporting Robbins.

Robbins made a brief speech. He vigorously declared that he would not accept the office either as the tool of any man or of any corporation. He emphatically declared that he made no pledges as to the make-up of the committees or as to his action with regard to the conduct of the business of the House.

A steering committee was appointed for the distribution of the minor offices. It reported a cutting down of the usual list so that $5,950 in salaries would be saved.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

Adam Blair's House on Park Avenue Entered by Second Story Man.

Adam Blair's house on Park avenue was added to the list of those at which second story men have operated, last night. A watch and some small pieces of jewelry were taken.

The robbery was committed while the family were away from home. Mrs. Blair discovered it when she come in at 9 o'clock. She notified the police and ocers were sent to the house at once. The usual lack of clues baffled them.

Entrance was gained by means of the porch and a second-story window. The police believe the theft was committed by one man.

Song and Piano Recital.

A delightful song and piano recital was given Monday night at the residence of Miss F. May Grant, 320 East Seventh street, by her youngest pupils, Misses Mabel Perrine, Fannie Herkowitz, Nellie Craiger, Bessie Adelberg, Ethel Vail, Adeline Lusardi and Valborg Steuer and James Vail. They were kindly assisted by Miss Campbell, Miss Perrine and Miss L. May Pruden. Each pupil acquitted herself in a manner pleasing to their teacher, winning hearty applause from all present. During the evening, Miss Helen Wooley gave several pleasing recitations.

Settled the Fight.

Catherine Hill's charge of assault against Sarah Scott, whom she accused of slapping her face at a funeral, was not heard before Justice Mosher this morning. Before court opened a friend of the women brought word that the women, both of whom are colored, had settled the quarrel and the complainant would not press the charge.

Criterions Socially Active.

The Criterion Club, which recently gave a successful dance at the Casino, has planned to conduct another at the same place on Thursday evening, January 1. The invitations will be issued within a week or more.

FIRE RECORD BROKEN IN PAST TWELVE MONTHS

TOTAL NUMBER OF ALARMS OF ALL KINDS REACHED 107.

When Chief T. O. Doane presents his annual report to the Common Council at the next regular meeting, it will show that for the second time in the history of the department the number of fires in twelve months has exceeded 100. Since January 1 of the present year there have been a total of 107, six more than ever known before. These include box and still alarms, with the number about equally divided.

Though the year has been a record breaker, the fire loss has been lower than in many other reports. Because of prompt work on the part of the department, there were no large conflagration, many that threatened very heavy losses getting checked. A notable instance of this was the blaze at the Lounsbury embossing plant on West Second street, which caught fire early in the morning and seemed beyond saving when Chief Doane and his men arrived. By dint of hard work and well planned fighting they extinguished the flames with a loss of about $20,000 and left the building in such shape that it could be quickly repaired. There were other fires that threatened losses of from five to ten thousand dollars but which were kept to one or two. On the whole a perusal of the report is interesting and demonstrates as much as anything the efficiency of the local fire fighters.

CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB ENTERTAINMENT

MEMBERS AND FRIENDS ENJOY A VARIED PROGRAMME.

With vocal and instrumental music and story telling, the Men's Club of the Congregational church was entertained in a pleasant manner last night. There was a good attendance of members and friends and the informal programme in charge of Alexander Millar was very enjoyable.

Elmer D. Cutting, accompanied by Clifford A. Baalder on the piano, gave several vocal selections which elicited hearty applause. He also favored the club with several of his best stories related in the Irish, Italian and Hebrew dialect.

Interspersing Mr. Cutting's selections and while refreshments were being served, the Amsterdam Club, instrumental trio, of New York, rendered a number of popular selections. The artists were given a cordial reception and their work was highly appreciated.

Mr. Millar had charge of the entertainment, while Henry Newman, J. A. Powlison, W. D. Dunning, assisted by other members of the club, served the refreshments. During the evening the club received an invitation from the Men's Club of Grace church to attend a lecture to be given early in January by Andrew McClean Parker on the Panama Canal. It was accepted, and as many of the members as possible will attend.

MISS ANDERSON A BRIDE.

Daughter of W. W. Anderson Becomes Mrs. Wyckoff.

A very pretty wedding was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Anderson, at Somerville, when their daughter, Miss Jennie May Anderson, well known in this city, and William Franklin Wyckoff, of Frankfort, were made husband and wife. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. B. A. Woods, of the First Baptist church, of that place, in the presence of 150 guests from this city and other places. Miss Lottie May Lissenden, of Hamilton Square, was bridesmaid, and Roscoe J. Cubberly, of Hamilton Square, best man. The ushers were Abram Cox, of Flagstown, and Nelson O. Natter, of Frankfort.

The bride was attired in white silk mull, trimmed with Valencia lace and white satin ribbon, and carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore white Swiss, trimmed with lace and satin ribbon, and carried pink and white carnations.

The parlors were elaborately decorated by a florist from Trenton. White and green were the prevailing colors. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Louanna Pietersen, of Finderne. An elaborate course of refreshments was served.

The gifts were very pretty, consisting of cut glass, dinner set, fruit dishes, berry dishes, silverware, pictures, etc., etc.

After the congratulations and refreshments the couple left for an extended wedding trip. The bride wore a traveling dress of blue broadcloth and hat to match, with a trimming of Alice blue.

NOW "WHAT'S IN A NAME"

Fight Renewed Against Wm. H. Rogers by International Company.

IN CHANCERY TODAY

Mr. Mark As Counsel for Defendant Subpoenaes Many Plainfielders—What the Contention is About.

Before Vice Chancellor Stevens in the Chancery chambers at Newark, this morning, action was commenced by the International Silver Company to restrain W. H. Rogers, of this city, from using his name in the manufacture of silverware. The proceedings are conducted against Mr. Rogers as an individual and are similar to those recently concluded in which the William H. Rogers Corporation was made defendant and was forced to alter its dies.

The William H. Rogers Corporation, composed mostly of Plainfielders, was organized several years ago to make silverware and soon built up a large business. All the output was stamped "The W. H. Rogers Corporation" and exception was taken to it by the International Silver Company, which maintained that it infringed upon its trade mark. Suit was instituted and after a long drawn-out contest, the Plainfield corporation was compelled to abandon its style of marking.

Since then William H. Rogers has continued in the business and his goods have been stamped "W. H. Rogers, of Plainfield, N. J." The International Company still objected and again began proceedings, virtually contending that William H. Rogers has no right to use his own name in connection with silverware that he manufactures. Mr. Rogers is made the defendant alone and has prepared to defend his right to continue marking in the way has has been doing. He is represented by Craig A. Marsh, who acted for the Rogers Corporation, while the International Silver Company has retained Edward A. & William T. Day, the well known firm of Newark lawyers.

Mr. Marsh has subpoenaed a large number of Plainfielders in the case but for what point in the case was not made known.

THIS MATINEE IDOL CAPTURED HER HEART

COMEDIAN JOHNNY GALVIN WON A PRETTY CANADIAN GIRL.

By special delivery letters and half a dozen or more telegrams, the word was conveyed to Plainfield today that "Johnny" Galvin, this city's popular comedian, had at last succumbed to the charms of womankind and is now a happy benedict. For the past year he has been starring in his father's production of "A Bell Boy," and he met his fate while appearing in St. Catherines, Ont., where the show made a week stand. At the opening matinee Miss Evelyn St. Cyr, the daughter of one of the city's well known residents, was included in the audience and the funny antics of the clever "Johnny" so amused the pretty Canadian girl that she expressed a wish to meet him.

An introduction was arranged by friends and it was a case of "love at first sight." When the Galvin company left for other parts the principal comedian had exchanged pledges with Miss St. Cyr, and he returned to St. Catherines last week to make her his bride. The ceremony was witnessed by a gathering of theatrical people and the young woman's friends, after which a reception was held at her home. Mr. and Mrs. Galvin are now traveling through western Ontario and they expect to come to Plainfield at the close of the present season.

When the news of the wedding reached town today the telegraph wires were kept hot for a little while with congratulatory messages sent to Brantford, Ont., where the happy groom is billed to appear tonight.

Plainfield Youths Rang Doorbells.

Walter Vail and Robert Reid, of Plainfield, and Michael Novisky, of Somerville, were arrested on Albany street at 4:30 o'clock this morning by Patrolmen Wilcox and McCann for disorderly conduct on complaint of William Schlesinger. All are young men and went through George street ringing doorbells at that early hour. They were given a reprimand and discharged.—New Brunswick Times.

Contract Case Settled.

The contract case of George W. Scribner against Herbert Guinn, in Justice Hand's court, was settled this morning. J. Henry Crane was counsel for the plaintiff.

JERSEY ASSEMBLYMEN FEARED THE PENNSY

THATS WHY EQUAL TAX MEASURE WAS NOT PASSED.

Responding to a call issued by Mayor Fagan, the New Jersey Mayors' Equal Tax League met in the City Hall in Jersey City Thursday and adopted plans for influencing the Legislature to pass an equal taxation bill and a measure limiting the franchises of public utilities corporations. Those present included Mayors Kenny, of East Newark; Reed, of Morristown; Garecke, of Carlstadt; Goldberg, of Kearny; Berry, of Elizabeth; Mayor-elect A. J. Lockwood, of Glen Ridge; Senator-elect Colby, of Essex county; Assemblymen Perkins, of Westfield, and Morelli, of Passaic, and most of the Assemblymen from Essex and Hudson. Mayor Fagan presided.

"When I went into the Republican caucus to try and get our equal taxation bill through the Legislature," said Mr. Colby, "I asked the Assemblymen if there was any good reason why the bill should not be passed. They would not tell me then, but when we went out into the corridor they said that the reason they did not pass the bill was because the Pennsylvania Railroad would raise a rumpus. On the question of equal taxation there is an absolute conflict of opinion in our party. If there are Democrats here let them get into the fight. The only thing that will influence the Legislature is public sentiment."

The league decided to continue the agitation and hold public meetings throughout the State to awaken public sentiment and influence the legislators. The Mayors also will urge the Assemblymen to elect a speaker pledged to favor the enactment of equal taxation and limited franchise laws.

SHERIFF NOT TO HANG LONG.

Will Deputize Some One Else to Spring Trap.

If the sentence of the court is carried out and Charles Long, the condemned murderer, hangs on January 12, Sheriff Wilbur, of Mercer county, will not actually spring the trap which will send Long into eternity. If Long hangs a person not yet selected by the sheriff will operate the mechanism of the gallows from a recess concealed from the scaffold and frome all the witnesses of the execution. This person will not be known to any one save the sheriff.

As there is still a possibility that Long may secure a stay of sentence, Sheriff Wilbur has made no arrangements whatsoever. Not until it is positive that Long will be executed will the sheriq make the arrangements. He will attend to all the plans personally and will direct the execution.

Sheriff Wilbur has decided that if the sentence is carried out that only the court and sheriff juries, newspaper men and the necessary officials shall see the execution.

FASTING A HEALTH HELP.

Science Approves Religious Injunction of Abstinence from Food.

Dr. Richard C. Newton gave an address on "The True Education of Body and Mind" at the Woman's Club at Montclair on Thursday afternoon. He said nothing was more beneficial to the bodily health of the average man or woman than the fasts which are more or less enjoined in many forms of religion. He said:

"It is often of the utmost benefit to man's bodily health to refrain from food to a greater or less extent for considerable periods of time. It is in a majority of cases absolutely essential to promote mental development.

"It well has been said, 'There are as many persons today digging their graves with their teeth as they are drowning their souls in alcohol.' Physical, moral and mental education must proceed simultaneously and with equal steps to produce a vigorous, normal, well proportioned and active body."

P. R. R. Does Not Own Fast Line.

It was stated yesterday morning that the Pennsylvania Railroad does not own the Trenton and New Brunswick Fast Line, as has been stated. A local lawyer who has been buying up rights of way for the Fast Line to continue the road to Elizabeth declared the two were not connected in any way. The Pennsylvania Railroad has men at work surveying a line a short distance below the Fast Line and it is thought they will lay their new freight tracks from Trenton to Waverly over this route now being surveyed. This will mean another bridge across the Raritan River below the Fast Line bridge.

New Use for Cans.

Baking powder or cocoa cans make excellent potato choppers. Place your cold potatoes in the spider and chop fine with one of the empty tins. When the edge becomes dull discard it for a fresh one. Then turn your potatoes into the serving dish so as to enable you to heat the spider hot, using some scraps of salt pork, before warming the chopped potatoes. Let the potatoes crisp on the bottom, turn like an omelet before serving. You can readily see you have saved the bother of washing chopping tray and knife.

FLIES AND RELIGION LEAD TO DIVORCE SUIT

SO MANY ARGUMENTS ENSUE, THAT WIFE FILES A BILL.

The difference of their religious faith and the fact that the wife let flies into the dining room while the husband was eating his dinner, have caused Mrs. Hattie W. O'Brien, of Sayreville, Middlesex county, through her counsel, Theodore B. Booraem, to file a bill for divorce inthe Court of Chancery against her husband, Thomas J. O'Brien. The difference in religion, according to Mrs. O'Brien, has been the cause of trouble between the two since their marriage on June 21 last, and the fly incident, she says, occurred on July 3, two weeks after their marriage.

On that occasion, she says, O'Brien charged her with allowing the flies to enter the room for the purpose of annoying him and he retaliated by throwing plates and dishes at her, and when she stooped to pick them up and put them back on the table, she says, he kicked and beat her.

Mrs. O'Brien says in her bill that ever since their marriage her husband has treated her cruelly, beating and kicking her. Once, she says, he threw her down stairs, and another time he threatened to shoot her and turned her out of the house. She says that constantly since their marriage her husband has tried to persuade her to change her religious belief and become a Catholic. She says he has threatened to do her injury unless she complied with his wishes.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

House Cleaning Needed.

Atlantic City is going to clean house. There has certainly been enough smell about the resort's city government recently to warrant something more than chloride of lime.—Trenton True American.

Loan Sharks.

It is stated that in Trenton as well as in other large industrial centers of this State there are men who pursue wage earners, offering to lend money to their victims and charging usurious rates. A strong novel of purpose could be written on these creatures of prey that catch the weak and unsophisticated in their nets, and open the road to crime, with disgrace visited upon innocent relations. The attention of the authorities should be directed to these sharks who violate the laws regulating the rates of interest.—Trenton State Gazette.

Will Hit Them Hard.

It seems like a shame that the city officials should be hit coming and going, as is the rule today. First the citizens want an investigation, and now the Pennsylvania Railroad Company issues an order to do away with free passes so long enjoyed by the legislators. It was quite handy for the Councilmen and others to hop on a train, take a run to Philadelphia and New York, or ask for trip passes to Florida and the West for their families or friends. All this ends with the first of the year. No more passes is the order, and the officials will have to pay or stay at home. The reasons given by President Cassatt are, that the pass privilege has been abused. "Heelers", and their friends shoved paying passengers out of seats, and he sees no reason why the politicians should enjoy this privilege. The new order will have a wholesome effect and politicians will be the hardest hit of all, because they are the people who abused the privilege and who stirred up the ire and opposition of the president of the railroad.—Atlantic City Press.

Theatre Censorship a Puzzle.

The City Fathers of Elizabeth are seriously concerned over the prevailing immoral tendency of plays in the theatres of that place, and have instructed a committee to take steps if possible to put a stop to the future production of such as may come under the ban. Such shows are regarded by the Aldermen as especially demoralizing to children. One of them characterized mothers who accompanied children to these plays as "matinee fiends," who would be better off at home attending to their household duties. How a censorship can be established is somewhat puzzling to these conservators of the public morals, but that some means shall be discovered to that end is their firm determination.—Hoboken Observer.

Home for Schumann-Heink.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, the prima donna, has bought William Ryle's summer home, "Will-Sue," located on the top of the Caldwell Mountains, near Paterson. The price paid for the property has not been made public. "Will-Sue" was so named by Mr. Ryle after he acquired the property fourteen years ago. His wife's name was Susan, and he combined her name with his own, coining the title "Will-Sue." The property comprises ninety acres of fine woodlands.

Mrs. William L. Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, is detained at home with an attack of gastritis.

D. E. Titsworth, of the Potter Printing Press Company, is in the West on a business trip.

Miss Vic Martin, of New York, is visiting her sister, Mrs. George Morton, of Mountain avenue.

14TH ANNIVERSARY OF A C. E. SOCIETY

REV. MR. HERRING ADDRESSES 7TH-DAY BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE.

Reports of the past year's work, together with an able address by Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, were the features of the fourteenth anniversary exercises of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-day Baptist church held Saturday morning.

Charles Neagle, president of the Senior Society, presided, and was in charge of the programme. Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the church, conducted the opening exercises, after which the reports of the Senior, Junior and Intermediate societies were read by Miss Bertha Mitchell, of the Senior Society. During the past year considerable money has been raised for missionary and tract work. It was reported that the student supported by the societies at Alfred University was graduated and that another is now being provided for at Salem College, Salem, West Virginia.

Following the reports, Mr. Herring gave an address on the subject "Ought, Can and Will," his line of thought being that Endeavorers ought to do all possible for their society. They can do much and they will accomplish considerable for the advancement of Christianity.

A young people's choir rendered special music during the services under the direction of Miss Jessie Utter, organist.

NEW JERSEY'S RIGHT TO ITS OWN WATERS

ARGUMENT IN ERRORS COURT OVER HUDSON COUNTY COMPANY.

Trenton, Dec. 1[illegible].—Argument began Thursday before the Court of Appeals on the appeal of the Hudson County Water Company from the final decree of the Court of Chancery enjoining the company from diverting the waters of the Passaic River at Little Falls for supplying Staten Island, was continued Friday.

Robert H. McCarter, who, as attorney general, brought the suit, based his argument for the affirmation of the Chancery Court decision on three propositions. He held that the State, as a lower owner, is entitled to preserve the integrity of the stream so that it will come to it unimpaired in quantity. His next point was that the State, without regard to its lower proprietorship, is entitled to an injunction as successor to the English crown and as representative of the public.

Finally, he held that the Legislature being valid, there is no doubt of the jurisdiction of the court to enjoin, and of the validity of the act giving to the court the right to do so.

Counsel for the company, former Justice Gilbert Collins and Richard V. Lindabury, claimed that the State has no general power to prohibit the transportation of the fresh waters of the State into any other State for use therein, and its attempted exercise of such a power through the act passed last winter is altogether ineffectual. It was further held that the decree of the Court of Chancery cannot be sustained upon the theory that the State has a personal right as riparian, or lower owner, to prevent the diversion from the Passaic River of water which, but for such subdivision, would flow to and upon the lands of the State under tide water.

The State, it was contended, has no property in the waters of the Passaic River before they reach the tidal lands. It was also claimed that the decree cannot be an enforcement of the police power of the State.

P. H. S. VICTORIOUS.

Its Basketball Team Wins from Hasbrouck Institute.

The basketball team from the Plainfield High School defeated the Hasbrouck Institute team at Jersey City on Saturday by a score of 60 to 16, in the first regular schedule game in the Scholastic Tournament. The star playing for the local team was done by Paul Collier, who scored thirty-two points for his team. The home five was simply outclassed in the play and had no show from the start.

In the latter part of the second half, Line and Doane, subs, were given an opportunity to play as right guards. The Plainfield team lined up as follows: Stuart Freeman, centre; Collier, right forward; Smith, left forward; Howard Freeman, left guard; Caldwell, right guard.

Opens Night School for Negroes.

Long Branch, Dec. 11—A. J. Clark, who until a few years ago was a teacher in the colored schools in the South, has opened a night school for boys and girls of his race. Between thirty-five and forty pupils are enrolled. Mr. Clark's scholars will tonight discuss the following resolution: "Resolved, That the new charter and the changing of Long Branch from a commission to a Board of Councilmen has been a benefit."

LITERARY NOTES.

"Chicago's Street Railway Deadlock" is vigorously discussed in the National Magazine for December by Mayor Dunne, who charges that the banks, newspapers and city council majority are in league to discredit his programme and defeat the desire of the people for municipal ownership of the cars lines. Joe Mitchell Chapple's "Affairs at Washington" presents many new and attractive portraits of men and women prominent at the capital. Frank Putnam has a spicy review of "The November Elections." "Stevenson's Monterey" is the title of a fascinating literary paper by Charles Warren Stoddard, recalling a little-known chapter in the life of the famous poet and storyteller. In "The Tribulations of Newville," Paul Tafel has a quaint and picturesque parable portraying the whole economic development of the United States and foreshadowing our future. "Old Bar A," by Jessie M. Whittaker, is a jolly and rollicking ballad of life on the Texas plains. Of equal merit is "The Christmas Backlog," a story-poem by John Brown Jewett, that will win every heart. "The Salt of the Earth," a two-part novelette begun in this number, is a vigorous and beautiful story of country life in Kentucky, by E. C. Litsey. Michael A. Lane's science paper is "Capital and Its Rights," in which he offers some shrewdly original suggestions and punctures some age-old falacies.

The new decorative magazine, Interior Decoration, issues a December number almost entirely devoted to American Colonial and English Georgian decoration. A fully illustrated article entitled "The Colonial Guest Chamber" is followed by an article on "The Colonial Parlor"; a third illustrated article is devoted to "The Five Phases of Colonial," and a fourth to "Colonial Wall Papers." There is an article on "The Collecting of Colonial Pieces" and one on the "Colonial Living Room." The famous Eighteenth Century architects, the Adam Brothers, are treated of in an illustrated article; "Chippendale and Sheraton," the furniture makers, are included in an article illustrated with glimpses of a Sheraton bedchamber. A special division of Colonial, known as "French Colonial," is illustrated, and the treatment of the "Colonial Hall" includes a full page reproduction of the hall in the "Hermitage" in Tennessee, the home of Andrew Jackson. There is an article on "Dining Room Wall Papers," "Modern Furniture Made in Colonial Style" and one on "Decorative Lighting." The three latter pages of the number are illustrated profusely with the nice things to be had for Christmas in the New York shops, as well as in shops all over the country. The number costs ten cents, and may be had from all newsdealers. It is published at 19 Union Square, New York. Subscription, $1 a year.

The December American Boy is replete with all the enjoyable reading matter that the boys demand at this season. There are the concluding chapters of Mr. Hawkes' splendid animal story, The Tripod Fox, and of My Four Years at West Point, the latter of which has fired many boys with patriotic fervor. Mr. Lisenbee's story, The Joy Claim, is continued, and the editor gives another of his boyhood experiences in Hank and the Walnuts. A Boy's Christmas Gift tells how one boy brought Christmas joy to a friendless little girl. When the Dyke Went Down is the story of a Canadian boy's rescue from drowning by a cow. In The Prize Offer Frank H. Sweet tells of how a boy, altho' confined to his bed by sickness, won a prize. On the Wings of the Wind is a story of the frozen North and relates the pluck and courage of a boy in order to bring assistance to famine-stricken and sick villagers. Goosie is a story of the American soldiers in the Philippines and tells how a pet mongoose saved the life of one of Uncle Sam's boys from the bite of a cobra serpent. How Jerry Beat the Hunters is a fine story of how a boy killed a bear which a large party of hunters were searching for. Of the larger articles there are: Boys, Take Care of Your Teeth, containing sound advice on this important matter; The Misfit Boy, warning boys against putting their efforts into what they are not fitted for; American Toy Makers Are Beating the World; The Freshman-Sophomore Class Rush at the University of Pennsylvania: The King of the Fairies, and No. 2 of Boyhood of Great Americans, telling of the youth of Admiral Farragut.

What Every Wife Needs.

She needs a good temper, a cheerful disposition, and a knowledge of how her husband should be treated. She needs a capability of looking on the bright side of life and refusing to be worried by small things. She needs a secure grasp by such subjects as are of interest to men, and should not be above studying even politics in order to understand should her husband speak of them. She needs a sympathetic nature in order that, should sorrow fall upon them, she may be able to give comfort to her husband. She needs to understand something of sick nursing; a wife with no notion of what to do in cases of illness is but a useless thing. She needs considerable tact and patience—the one to enable her to know when to remain silent, and vica versa, and the other to put up with him when his temper is ruffled.—McCall's Magazine.

SHE DID NOT INTEND TO IGNORE SUBPOENA

MISS WESTPHAL SAYS SHE DID NOT KNOW TIME OF TRIAL.

All unaware that she had committed a serious offense against the majesty of the law and against the dignity of the Middlesex County Court, Miss Ada Westphal, daughter of Freeholder William Westphal, of this city, was very much surprised when arrested by Constable Robert L. Pierce, who had been sent to Newark by Judge Strong to bring the girl, who was an important witness in the Stanbery-Harrison damage case, which terminated so suddenly Thursday afternoon, to New Brunswick.

When confronted by the grim featured officer of the law she had carelessly defied, the school girl, instead of becoming hysterical with fright, greeted the constable with a smiling face and seemed to think the whole matter a huge joke. When questioned as to the papers which her aunt threw out of the window when presented by a messenger boy, but which were later served on her at school, Miss Westphal frankly admitted having received some papers with a legal notice, but pleaded in excuse of her later action that she did not know when she was wanted, and that she did not want to sit in a stuffy old court room anyway.

When told that she would have to come to New Brunswick, the girl at once prepared for her journey, but in the meantime Harrison and his case had been dismissed by Judge Strong, who in throwing the case out found Harrison guilty of having been negligent and party responsible for the accident. Nothing more will be done in the matter of the bench warrant served on the young lady, as her presence turned out to be unnecessary.

DEPTH OF BEAUTY.

"Beauty is but skin deep." Beauty is simply nothing of the sort, and that is the plain truth. Real beauty goes down to the bone, lies in the bones themselves, just as beauty in dress is not merely confined to the gown itself, writes Mrs. Eva Nepean in the Queen. I am not harking back to that venerable chestnut, the Frenchwoman's expensive petticoat under a twopenny-half-penney frock. But no dress ever looked good over bodily made and badly worn dessous; no dress ever "succeeded" as it should over a bad, cheap lining (for there are decent cheap linings, but they are meant to line cheap materials, you know); no expensive material ever disguised inferior art or shoddy trimmings. Just as in the old simile we are told that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump of dough, so one touch of inferiority will ruin one's whole appearance—a horrid sort of truth which, like murder, will out, in spite of me. One sees the funniest things. People in distinctly superior garments will sometimes stick on an imitation jewel, "with intent to deceive," outrageously dyed fur, obviously machine-made lace, people who ought to know better, and who in some cases literally do not know what offence they are committing. Women have told me that for the life of them they cannot tell faked fur from real; I do not mean the more subtly faked furs, but those over which one instinctively quotes Yellow-dog Dingo, and murmurs: "What, that cat-rabbit!"—women who seem to have no idea that the ill-blown sphere or roughly cut lump of glass is not a pearl of finest "skin," or a diamond of purest water; women who will be perfectly happy in letting their maids put a bertha of eighteen-penny "lampshade lace" on a forty-guinea velvet gown by way of "doing it up." The forty-guinea velvet looks cotton-backed—that is the tragedy; the common mock pearls and paste cheapen the good dress they are worn with; the cat-rabbit, if trimming a splendid sealskin, would make it look the most inferior "electric seal" at once.

To look well one must begin at the very beginning. Just as one's hair (unless it be of the delightful sort that looks best bundled up anyhow and secured with one pin) never will "go up" properly if the finishing touches are expected to do all the worg; so one must take pains with one's appearance all the way through. You will knew perfectly well what I mean if you think of the hurriedly tied ribbon or the carelessly draped fichu upon which no amount of endeavor to get them right after a bad start has any effect. (It is always quicker to take them off and begin again, is it not?)

It is extraordinary how soon the habit of doing the hair well from the first, of putting on every garment properly, and of devising the right type of underclothes and the correct method of arranging one's tresses, can be acquired. These things want doing well always, and in a short time they almost do themselves.—Newark Advertiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Terry are registered at the Chalfonte, Atlantic City.

E. W. Mills, of East Second street, who has been to Washington on a business trip, returned home on Saturday.

SUPT. KREBS DELIGHTS METHODIST BROTHERHOOD

HIS TALK ON A JOURNEY OVER THE ALPS MUCH ENJOYED.

H. C. Krebs, the borough school superintendent, afforded an hour of unusual pleasure to the members of the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church Friday, with a talk on his travels across the Alps and through Italy. Mr. Krebs took the trip in 1902, but his recollections of the journey are vivid, and he has the happy faculty of bringing his hearers into his recollection.

The story of the journey was not a "lecture." It was not so stiff; it was much more full of color and very much more interesting. When Mr. Krebs had finished every man in his audience had a vague feeling as if he had been through all that the speaker described. That was the influence of an absolutely convincing manner and description, not alone of places, but of people, virile enough to form mental pictures in the minds of the hearers that seemed very like recollections of their own. The bounds of a news report make it impossible to give an adequate resume of so delightful a travel talk.

There was an hour of informal sociability after Mr. Kreb's finished. Refreshments were served, and Mr. Krebs filled that period with enjoyment by recounting detached anecdotes of his continental wanderings.

The Brotherhood committee in charge of the affair was made up of Nelson A. Miller, Dr. Frank French, and William Symons.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

List of books added to the Library during October and November, 1905:

Allmers, H.—Romische schlendertage.

Atlantic Monthly, v. 15-24, 26, 29-30.

Blue Book of Missions, 1905.

Brandes, G., ed.—Plays of Shakespeare: Romeo and Juliet, Macbeth, As You Like It, Merchant of Venice, Midsummer-night's Dream.

Canterbury, Eng., Prerogative Court.—Abstract of wills.

Carpentry and building, v. 1-12.

Decorator and furnisher, v. 7-22.

Dopp, K. E.—Place of industries in elementary education.

Eggleston, G. C.—Our first century.

Fraser, Mrs. M. C.—Maid of Japan.

Gavitt, H. E.—Etiquette of correspondence.

Good housekeeping, v. 4-24.

Heath, L. M., and others.—Eighty pleasant evenings.

Henderson, O. H.—Children of good fortune.

Hichens, R.—Garden of Allah.

Howells, W. D.—Miss Bellard's inspiration.

Lewis, A. J.—Card and table games.

Lewes, G. H.—Goethe's leben und schriften. 2v.

Littell's living age, v. 112-115.

London, J.—The game.

New England, Historical Genealogical Society. Vital records of Alford, Becket, Hinsdale, Montgomery, Pelham, Peru, Tyringham, Walpole, Mass. 8v.

Osgood, H. L.—American colonies in the 17th century. 2v.

Palleske, E.—Schiller's leben und werke. 2v.

Parsons, E. C.—Christus Liberator.

Perry, B.—Amateur spirit.

Plainfield, N. J., Public Schools.—Hand-book, subject and method.

Ross, R.—Malarial fever.

Royal Society of Canada.—Proceedings and transactions, 1904.

Scientific American, Building edition, v. 1-18.

Scribner's Magazine, v. 1-4.

Scribner's Monthly, v. 7-22.

Shurtleff, N. B., ed.—Records of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay. 1628-1686.

Smith, L., and others—English and French dictionary. 2v.

Sturgis, R.—Appreciation of pictures.

Wedmore, F.—Fine prints.

Wharton, Mrs. E.—House of mirth.

Wharton, Mrs. E.—Italian villas, and their gardens.

Whitcomb, R. P.—First history of Bayonne.

White, Mary.—Book of a hundred games.

White, M.—How to do beadwork.

Wilcox, D. F.—The American city.

Wiggin, K. D.—Rose o'the river.

Everton Toffee.

This palatable sweet is made of one pound of powdered loaf sugar, one teacupful of water, one-quarter pound of butter, and six drops essence of lemon. Put the water and sugar into a new saucepan, and beat the butter to a cream; when the sugar is quite dissolved, add the butter and keep stirring the mixture over the fire until it sets. When a little is poured on a buttered dish to try, just before the toffee is done, add the essence of lemon. Pour into a buttered platter and when cool it will easily separate from the dish. This same sweet may be made into spicy butter- scotch by using brown sugar instead of white, and one-half ounce of ginger for flavoring instead of lemon.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM'S RECORD FOR SEASON

ONLY ONE TOUCHDOWN MADE BY OPPONENTS—UNDEFEATED.

The football team of the Plainfield High School has a record this year of which it may be proud, and the eleven rightfully claims the Union county championship, not having lost a game. The team averages about 140 pounds. Twelve games were played, and only once was the P. H. S. goal line crossed. The eleven scored 192 points to its opponents' 19. Rutgers Prep. team was the one that crossed the local team's goal line, and then only after the hardest struggle.

The eleven enjoys another distinction, that of having won the city championship for the first time in ten years, defeating Leal's School team decisively in two games, the first by a score of 23 to 0, and the second by a score of 11 to 0. The other great achievement of the season was the defeat of Rutgers Prep., for the first time since these teams have been rivals. The score was 12 to 11. Rutgers Prep. outweighed the local team forty pounds to the man and the victory was one of which P. H. S. justly feels proud.

Among the teams P. H. S. defeated were Leal's School, North Plainfield High School, Westfield, Cranford and Somerville High Schools. William Douglas was captain, Lindsay coach, and Joseph Gavett, manager, and Hudson Burr, assistant manager. The team was comprised of the following players: Mahaffey, right end; Todd, left tackle; Douglas, right halfback and captain; Martin, sub.; Jones, left end; Stewart Freeman, fullback; Lyness, left half; Gideon Fountain, left guard; Leggett, center; Osgood, right guard; Guyon Fountain, sub.; Rittenhouse, right tackle; Howard Freeman, sub.; Flanders, quarterback.

AGED SUMMIT MAN DEAD.

Richard Urann Clark a Victim of Stomach Trouble.

One of Summit's oldest residents died when Richard Urann Clark passed away at his home Thursday, after a long illness of stomach trouble. He had been a resident of Summit for thirty-four years and twenty-three years ago located at Hentley, and it was mainly through his efforts that a railroad station was located there. He had been connected with the New York Life Insurance Company for many years and occupied a high position in that company at the time of his death.

In his leisure hours he devoted much time to literary work and was the author of two or three books of poems that met with favor. He was born in Poughkeepsie on June 21, 1839, and in Summit's early days was an active and powerful factor in its local affairs. He had served as warden and vestryman of Calvary church for several years. The funeral was conducted in St. Stephen's church, Millburn, Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock, and the interment was in St. Stephen's cemetery. He leaves a widow and eight children.

MERSHON WANTS NEW TRIAL.

Orders of Affiliation Held Up Until This is Argued.

Judge Schenck sat Friday to consider the question of making an order of affiliation in the township of Franklin, Somerset county, against Irving Mershon, of Princeton.

On November 21 a jury found Mershon guilty to be the father of a child of Hattie Dock, daughter of Abram Dock, of Griggstown, and the case yesterday was a continuation of that proceeding, so that Mershon, who is a bookkeeper in the First National Bank, of Princeton, could provide for the support of the child.

But the defendant has filed a rule to show cause with the court why a new trial should not be granted and this stayed the proceedings set down for yesterday.

The hearing on the rule was set down for next Friday. The proceeding is an unusual one and the right to grant a new trial under the law will be questioned. Irving Hoadland, of New Brunswick, and George E. Pace, of Millstone, represented the township yesterday, and ex-Prosecutor Dungan, of Somerville, and Bayard Stockton, of Trenton, were counsel for Mershon.

U. S. Senatorship Aspirant?

A Hackensack newspaper is informed that Colonel William Barbour has declared his intention of transferring his citizenship from Bergen county to Monmouth county. He has a bona-fide residence at Monmouth Beach in the colony established there many years ago, while in Bergen county his home has been only technical, although he was considered legally a citizen because he never changed his voting place. According to the Hackensack paper there is a possibility that Colonel Barbour will appear in the next contest for United States Senator.

Miss Emma Ulmer, of Bound Brook, is spending several weeks with relatives in this city.

Mrs. James Merritt, of Mountain avenue, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is reported to be slightly improved. It is expected that when she recovers she will make her home with relatives in New York.

Business Bulletin, No. 2.

General Works.

Cromwell, J. H.—American business woman. 1900.

"An endeavor to teach women in a serious but readable way how to handle bank accounts and to deal with real and personal property, with cautious advowal of general principles of investment." Nation 71:191.

Eaton, S.—How to do business. 1896.

Lorimer, G. H.—Letters from a self-made merchant to his son. 1902.

"Offers as admirable opportunity for the bestowal of good advice to young men from the time they go to college until they have established for themselves a business footing."

Occupations for Women, and their compensation. 1899.

Parsons, T.—Laws of business for all the states and territories of the Union and the Dominion of Canada. 1904.

"A popular handbook, giving forms and directions for all transactions and abstracts of the laws of all the states and territories on various topics."

Parton, James.—Captains of industry. 2v. 1884-'91.

"Short studies of over 70 men, presenting chief points of interest in each man's career." N. Y. State Library.

Sloddard, J. S.—What shall I do? Fifty profitable occupations for boys and girls.

Sloddard, W. O.—Men of business. 1893.

"Character sketches of eminently successful men, each emphasizing some dominant trait." N. Y. State Library.

Wanamaker, John.—Evolution of mercantile business. Annals of American academy 15:12.

Articles on Qualifications for Success in Business, and on Business Methods.

Biddle, H. L.—True business education. Chautauquan 27:517.

Biddle, H. L.—Beginning a business life. Chautauquan 24:452.

Brownell, A.—Business reduced to a science. World's work 9:5596.

Carnegie, Andrew.—The secret of business is the management of men. World's work 6:3520.

Dryadale, W.—Helps for ambitious boys. 1899.

Dryadale, W.—Helps for ambitious girls.

Elliot, C. W., (President of Harvard).—Content in work. World's work 8:4959.

Jones, E. D.—Education and industry. Popular science 64:433.

Manners and business. Outlook 79:161.

Page, W. H.—The cultivated man in an industrial era. World's work 8:4980.

Person, H. S., (Acting Secretary of the Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance, Dartmouth).—Professional training for business. World's work 8:4767.

Series on the conduct of great businesses. Scribner vol. 21. Contents.—The great department store, by S. H. Adams; A great hotel, by J. L. Williams; Business of a factory, P. G. Hubert, Jr.; Working of a bank, by C. D. Lanier; Modern business building, by J. L. Steffens; Business of a newspaper, by J. L. Steffens; Business of a wheat farm, by W. A. Stevens, Raymond.—The business "engineer," the scientific methods of reorganizing industries to make them most efficient. World's work 6:3445.

The new science of business.—Department in the World's work, August 1905. Contents—Arranging a model office; Experience of a salesman; Fine art of buying; Value of frequent statements.

Woodlock, T.F., (Editor of the Wall Street Journal).—The uplift in business, a lecture public sensitiveness. World's work 8:4955.

The reader is also referred to the files of "Success" and "World's Work," which contain much of direct suggestive value on this subject.

Christmas Donations for the Relief.

In making your plans for Christmas don't forget to put the Relief Association near the head of the list. Contributions of dolls, games, toys of all kinds, new and second hand, are asked for, and money is always needed. These should be sent early, by the 16th, to the rooms, 544 West Front street.

DeWitt Brokaw, who has been spending a week at his home in the borough, has returned to Princeton College.

Mrs. Rogers, of Bensonhurst, L. I., who has been visiting at the home of Louis VanAlstyne, of East Fifth street, has returned home.

Leslie Hallock, of Swarthmore College, who has been spending a short time at his home in the borough, has returned to his studies.

Fred G. Sherman, of Westervelt avenue, superintendent of telegraph for the New Jersey Central, has returned from a western business trip.

Arthur L. Denton, of Washington avenue, who has just recovered from an attack of typhoid fever, will not return to Brown University until after the holidays.

Mrs. M. P. Cobb and son, Charles Cobb, of Parkside avenue, have gone to North Carolina, where they will remain for some time with Mr. Cobb, who is engaged in business in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Walling and sons, Ritner and Junior, of Philadelphia, were guests over Sunday of Miss Eva Rapplaje, at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. M. VanEmburgh, 44 Westervelt avenue, the borough.

GIRLS' SCHOOL OF ECONOMY

University of Nebraska Gives Instruction as to How to Spend Money.

A good many schools have departments where girls are taught domestic science in a more or less theoretical way, but it remains for Nebraska to establish at its state university a course in which young women may be instructed in the art of spending money to advantage. Every woman, of course, knows how to spend money, but the sense of paying it out for something, but it is the belief of a good many men that she is so anxious to get rid of any funds she may have in her possession that she does not receive their value. It is to show her how to make her money help and judiciously that the new department is to be established.

It will require a fund of $3,000, and some cynical persons aver that this is to be used in furnishing a miniature department store, where lessons may be taken as to how this is practically not true, but however the task is to be performed, whether with or without object lessons in the shape of actual goods, it is proposed to equip the girls with a knowledge of values in meats, groceries and dry goods, how to distinguish between cotton and wool fabrics; in short, to teach them that large share of the science of housekeeping which consists of judicious buying.

Possibly this art may be taught in schools. Perhaps the professors—those of them who are married now to distinguish between the students the secret of the value of money, even if they have not been able properly to convince their wives that they (the professors) know all that is to be learned on the subject. It may be that girls in large numbers will flock to this school for the purpose of finding how to make a little money go a long way, but there is reason to suspect that this will not be the case, but that the majority will continue to follow the old-fashioned method of learning how to economize—namely, by marrying men of small incomes.

UNFORTUNATE OFFSPRING.

Dangers That Beset the Child That Has to Live at Hotels.

It is not, however, the material side to existence which are the bane of the hotel child; it is the mental and spiritual attitude accompanying this life which is to be deprecated, writes Martha S. Bensley, in Everybody's. It destroys a democratic spirit through emphasizing the differences in rank and wealth and the creed; it exaggerates the power of money, fosters a spirit of dependence and unfits the pampered individual for any other kind of life; and, worst of all, in a child so brought up, there can be no understanding or love of home. The may be some future for the child who knows nothing of art—some function for the one to whom literature makes no appeal and who is not sensitive to music; but there is no place in the state for the man or woman who has had initiative, self-reliance, patriotism, nor love of home. He is a social menace, a disease. The community is better off without this satellite of the manager, parasite of the bell-boy, and source of supply for the waiters.

If there is one child in our community who is superfluous, it is the hotel child. As places for temporary occupation by homeless and childless adults, hotels are to be tolerated; but as residences for children, they are without the possibility of excuse.

UNAPPRECIATED COURAGE.

Hiram Was Brave Enough, But His Father Thought He Was a Fool as Well.

In the Tennessee mountains lived a little hunter named Hiram Gates. Although small in size, Hiram was noted for his bravery for miles around in that section of the country, where courage is a common asset. Once while hunting he tracked a bear to a small cave. Now a man hasn't one chance in a million in killing a bear in these quarters, but this fact didn't deter Hiram for a minute. Throwing down his gun he put his knife between his teeth and crawled into the dark hole after the animal.

With the greatest good fortune he succeeded in killing it, for the reason that the cave was so small that the bear couldn't turn around to defend himself. Otherwise there probably would have been a different story.

Hiram skinned the bear, and then went home, where he explained the manner of the killing to his father. The old man listened quietly until the tale came to an end, and then, in a high-pitched, quavering voice, said:

"Well, Hiram, I like a brave man as well as anybody, but you're a fool!"

Classes in England.

The reshuffling of the classes in England is the most curious feature of the moment. An "upper class" that no longer has land and the influence which property gives; no longer has the finest houses in town and the most luxurious establishments; that has lost its family portraits, art treasures, its parks and libraries, and that has nothing left but its titles, is much like a knife that has lost its blades.

A Question of Taste.

"I wouldn't marry that old man for his money."

"Well, you've got a poor opinion of my taste if you think I would marry him for love."—Houston Post.

Pretty Tales a Back Seat.

The pious girl who designs on the preacher has to take a back seat when her pretty sister comes along.—New Orleans Picayune.

THE GROWTH OF LONDON.

Not Very Different from That of Many of Our American Cities.

The London builder has certain [illegible] notions. To begin with, as a speculator, he greatly dislikes a tree. A well-grown tree is too large for him; so long as it is left standing it makes it impossible for him to utilize every square inch of the ground he has acquires on which to build houses. His first step, therefore, in dealing with the large pieces of ground which come into the market from time to time in a growing neighborhood, and which originally formed the park or woods of what was once a single country estate, is to cut down the trees. The older and grander trees perhaps cannot be removed merely with an ax and a spade; these he just blasts out of the ground.

Next, everything must be like everything else. All the roads must be of the same width and run in uniform direction, and each house must resemble its neighbor as far as possible, except that here is a certain latitude allowed in the pattern picked out in yellow bricks on the background of red; or there may be several different styles in white wooden balconies. Each plot, small, must measure so much by so much; there must be so many feet in front of the house and so many behind; and after the garden is measured out. It has to be inclosed with a wooden fence, of which the black line is the worst, and on the square black boardings announcing that "this eligible residence is to be let or sold" disappear as the newly married city clerk and his bride come into occupation; scarcely a year has gone by since the first house was built into the corner of the hay field, and another hideous addition has been made to the London suburbs.

PAID BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Interesting Particulars Concerning Salaries of Senators and Representatives.

The salaries of officials of the United States government have been increased several times since its foundation, and necessarily, for the relative value of money has declined. For instance, in 1789, the salaries of senators and representatives were fixed at six dollars a day and eight dollars for every 20 miles of travel. In 1795 these sums were increased to seven dollars each. In 1816 the salary was made $1,500 per annum. In 1818 it was raised to eight dollars a day and eight dollars for every 20 miles of travel. In 1856 the pay was put at $3,000 and mileage as before, and in 1865 the salary was raised to $5,000 and of the speaker to $8,000, as these are now.

The salary grab act of 1872, which increased the pay to $7,500 for senators and representatives, aroused an indignant protest, not because of the increase in itself, but because the raise was made retroactive only in the case of congress, and that feature was concealed under a subsequent act of March 3, which made it $7,500 to $50 000 a year, and of the chief justice from $8 500 to $10.500, and of the vice president, cabinet officers and associate justices from $8,000 to $10,000, none of them retroactive. This salary grab bill passed at the short year end and all the salaries, except those of the president and justices reverted to the old standard.

These salaries should be now increased moderately, and the bill for that purpose introduced into the next congress ought to be passed; but no increase which would justify extravagant expenditures commensurate with those of many very rich men is suggested, nor would it be defensible.

SWIMMING POOL REMEDIES.

How the Boy with His Head Full If Water Was Suddenly Relieved.

"Golly, my head's full of water," said a boy at the public bath as he stood on the side of the pool and pounded his temples with his open hands.

"Put a rock on your ear," yelled a country lad who was treading water in the middle of the pool. "That'll draw out the water."

The city youth tried a piece of brick that was lying in the corner of a dressing room, but it did no good. Recipes for drawing off the water were hurled from all parts of the room.

"Here, I'll show you how to get it out, said a boy who had been making spectacular dives and was therefore competent to prescribe. "Here, now stand on your right leg and put your left foot on your knee. Now hold your nose in your left hand and your left ear with your right hand. Shut your eyes and hop."

The boy with the water in his ears followed directions and began to hop dangerously near the side of the pool. The boy who was trying to cure the patient suddenly pushed the hopping boy into the pool. He fell sprawling and hit the water with a big splash.

He came to the surface smiling. "It's out," he said, "but it's a bum way to get rid of the water."

She Loves Fiction.

Young Husband—I shall be away two whole days, and, really, Isabel, you seem to be rather glad I'm going.

Young Wife—Oh, no, dear, I can't help it, Jack? This is the first chance I've had to get a letter from you since we've been married.—Chicago Journal.

Sultan's Dog Guards.

According to report the sultan of Turkey is to have a bodyguard of dogs. He has lost faith in men and women, who conspire against him. A pack of man-tracking dogs has been ordered in England for service at the royal palace at Constantinople.

CONSUMERS' QUEER WHIMS

Purchasers of Commodities Have Some Singular and Senseless Notions.

There is no use trying to make people eat anything that does not conform to their ideas of what viands should be. A government pamphlet on "Consumers' Fancies," emanating from the omniscient department of agriculture and credited to Professor E. Holmes, chief of the division of foreign markets in the bureau of statistics, eloquently enforces this lesson. Here are rapidly run over most of the commoner whims relating to the appearance of articles for the table. Thus brown eggs sell for a higher price than pure white ones in Boston, while New York and San Francisco prefer the white; butter colored to suit Chicago's taste would be too pale for that of Washington, and not nearly dark enough for New Orleans. And, in a long list of the most familiar articles the consumer demands a color or appearances which is not only no indication of quality, but is actually absent in the pure natural product.

Catsup made from tomatoes is not a vivid red, and must be made so, in very many cases by dyeing. Cider as it dripe from the modern mill is almost colorless, but the buyer remembers that the old-time cider and vinegar were brown, demands that the new wear the same color. The maker meets the demand in caramel. White ice is in similar case. As it comes from the still it is white, and the darker color results only after it has been stored in a charred barrel. This tone can be given to white or undercolored whisky by means of burnt sugar. Prunes are dipped in glycerine and lorwood, walnuts bleached with sulphite, because people believe that they ought to look as nature intended they should, obviously, the reversal of the rule to buy the West Indian fruit as it comes is the greatest imaginable incentive to adulteration and fraud.

WHEN THE DAY WAS WARM

Pretty Girl Came Near Telling How Hot It Was and Young Man Helped.

It was on one of those hot days lately. The cashier of a big downtown office felt very hot and testy in her iron cage. She is a very pretty girl relates the Chicago Record-Herald with fluffy brown hair, which was being blown about in a most tantalizing manner by an electric fan near by. A saintly dressed young fellow stepped to the window to pay a bill. He had a handsome, mischievous face, as one could easily judge that he saw the funny side of life. The cashier heard him a receipt, and as he folded it he looked up to the pretty cashier: "This is a very hot day."

"Oh, yes, it is hotter than ——," and before she could supply a strong enough superlative with which to climax her sentence, the young man said: "You are right, I thought so, too," with a hearty ha, ha, ha!" he was gone.

The girl straightened up in her chair and mused with rising indignation. "What did he mean? Did the brute think I would have mentioned that in public? Oh, well, it is almost as hot as there, I guess." And she settled down in her chair again and sighed complacently as she daintily tucked a stray lock of hair back to its proper position.

With the Minstrels.

Mr. Tambo—Do you mean to tell me, Mr. Bones, that that ignorant gentleman to whom we were talking is a friend of yours?

Mr. Bones—Yes, sah. Appearances am mighty deceivin', sah.

Mr. Tambo—But what did he ever do? Why is he a host in himself?

Mr. Bones—Dat gemman am a host in his mind, sah. He has been de am de landlord of de leadin' hotel in Pucker Brush.

Mr. Tambo—Ladies and gentlemen with your kind permission Mr. High collah will now sing, "My Girl's Name Is Miss Toober and She's My Sweet Potato."—Detroit Tribune.

Little-Known Earl.

The twelfth earl of Derby is unknown to the readers of the ordinary history book. Lovers of art know him as the peer who married the pretty and popular actress, Eliza Farren, whom the young Lawrence painted so brilliantly. But the earl had his revenge when all the world and his wife flocked to Epsom to see the race for the derby stakes. For that race, its institution in 1780, was named after the jovial young peer who was one of the leading patrons of the Georgian turf.—London Chronicle.

Castle of Russian Dukes.

The 33 Russian grand dukes own 250 castles and palaces in Russia and abroad and support an army of about 20,000 servants. One-fortieth of the best lands in European Russia belongs to these grand dukes. Of the 33 six, it is stated, have little education that they can hardly read and write.

Poor Looker.

"Seen Edwin's new horse?" asked one villager of another.

"I have," was the reply.

"Well, what does it look like?" asked the questioner.

"Well, it looks," said the other man, slowly, "as if Edwin had taken it for an old debt."—Tit-Bits.

Fine Flower Display.

At the gondola dinner given at a New York hotel, flowers as follows were used in the decoration: 12,000 choice carnations, 6,000 Mexican carnations, 17,000 roses, 2,500 cattleyas and also 5,000 yards of smilax.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic Free the Week Beginning Dec. 17.

BY REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—What our denomination stands for.—2 Tim. iii, 14-16; 1 Pet. ii, 2.

Christian Endeavor has always been interdenominational in character, yet it has always emphasized loyalty to one's own denomination. At the origin of the movement one of the most frequent criticisms against it was that it would lead the young people from their denominational bearings, but history has proved how baseless those charges were. Denominational loyalty has increased among the young people of our churches in the last twenty-five years. The young people have become more thoroughly informed concerning their denominations and more directly interested in their work, and the fact that the best of interdenominational co-operation along many lines of work has been developed in our denominations is a splendid proof that denominations are a good thing, and they are. Organic denominational union is an impossible thing, and hence we all need to know what our denominations believe and to be interested in their activities.

The ignorance of many people concerning their denominations is inexcusable. We should be ashamed to belong to an organization and not know what it stands for in belief, in government, in worship and what it has stood for in history. It is a matter of more thorough investigation upon the part of church members as to what their denominations stand for, there would be more denominational loyalty and a more widespread interest in denominational work. But thousands of people unite with Christian denominations who never think or care about what they stand for and have no interest in their work. They are fairly loyal to the local church to which they belong, but pay little attention to the wider interests of the denomination to which the local church belongs. But this is a mistake. Every great Christian denomination has its work, and every member of that denomination should be interested in it. He is a poor soldier, indeed, who does not know the principles of the government for which he fights. American soldiers owe their supremacy largely to their intelligent understanding of the principles of our government. They fight well because they know what they are fighting for and what a calamity it would be if government "of the people, by the people and for the people" were to perish from off the earth. Christian soldiers will do their best under similar circumstances. Ignorance undermines loyalty and activity. Knowledge promotes them. "Knowledge is power," not only in the world, but also in the church.

While there were no distinctive denominations in Paul's day, such as we have now, the apostle emphasized the importance of knowledge of the church of God. To Timothy he says, "Those things I write unto thee * * * that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." If Timothy needed to know these things, so do we. Let us therefore know what our denomination stands for that we may love it more and serve it better and thereby do more for the extension of Christ's kingdom on the earth.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. i, 1; Ps. cxix. 105; John xiv, 1-3; xvii. 17-26; Acts iv, 11, 12; xvi, 25-31; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. v, 1; vi, 1-10; Rev. xxii, 17.

Baltimore's Last Word.

In the absence by sickness of Dr. Clark the "last word" of the Baltimore convention was spoken by the former and much loved secretary of the movement, John Willis Baer. The Christian Endeavor World gives the thrilling message thus:

"Alongside Dr. Clark's message to you and to me," he began, "will you please put this other sentence from President Roosevelt, the one which presently we'll sing is the opportunity coupled with the capacity to do a thing worthily and well, the doing of which is its final import touches all humankind? While this convention will technically adjourn it will only begin when we carry its spirit out in your own lives. Let us take with us in our hearts these four purposes of Dr. Clark's. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link, and this chain of purpose betting the globe will be strong as you make yours. It will break with your lack of purpose. A million new Endeavorers for our societies! Can you say, 'We will?'"

"We will!" the Endeavorers shouted.

"A million new church members for our churches!"

"We will!"

"A million new churchgoers for our churches!"

"We will!"

"A million new dollars for the cause of missions at home and abroad!"

"We will!"

"And now as we leave these doors to go from the best convention that Christian Endeavor has ever had let us remember that the power of it will largely depend upon our work and our spirit. Let us wait upon God in silence for His benediction, and let the last word be His."

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Baltimore | the same Master | Upward |
| Birmingham | the same Holy Ghost | Inward |
| Berlin | the same principles | Outward |
| | the same pledge | |
| | the same motto | |
| | the same victory | |

REV. FRIEDRICH BLECHER,
Secretary of the German Christian Endeavor union.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Dec. 17: "What Methodism Stands For"—2 Tim. iii, 14-17; 1 Pet. ii, 2.

BY REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

It was well remarked years since, by one who was not himself a Methodist, that Methodism is Christianity in earnest.

It is not claimed that any new doctrinal truth has been discovered by us. We make no assumption of superiority to others in the regularity of our descent, or in the ministry. Our mode of government is not supposed to be superior to all others. But what we do and have from the first emphasized, is the necessity for indwelling piety and an outward life that corresponds. We aim to live after the New Testament model.

It has come to pass in the process of time that we have naturally been led to put emphasis on those truths that are most vitally important to the inner experience of salvation. We have pressed home on men the necessity for choosing the right way, and that, in the very nature of the case has led us to make much of the freedom of the will. But there are whole denominations of Methodists who are Calvinistic in their views of the human will. It was on this point that the Wesleys and George Whitefield separated. Yet Whitefield was as ardent a Methodist as the world ever possessed. We have not laid stress on the mode of baptism. Insisting on the supreme necessity for heart purity, we have let the outward symbol and the mode of application be largely matters of minor consideration.

The historic continuity of the church and the tracing our ministry in unbroken succession to the apostles have given us much less concern than the question of our possessing the apostolic spirit and the approval of the Lord on our work.

Our fellowship has been and is as broad as the church of Jesus Christ.

John Wesley said, "I desire a league offensive and defensive with every soldier of Jesus Christ."

We are not so broad and colorless in our views as to hold nothing distinctive in Christianity as separate from the other great religions of the world. We are exclusively and pronouncedly followers of the Man of Nazareth. We follow Him in His teachings and work, and our hope of the future is through Him. We are aggressive to spread this gospel wherever man is found. Our commission is to the whole world. If the providence of God has led us to any place, we cannot consent to stay away because others may dislike our presence there. We will be courteous, but we will not compromise on anything less than the right and the truth.

We live to make our church a power in the land, while we live to love every other church that exalts our Christ." This sentiment, given the league at the start by the beloved Matthew Simpson, is still our motto and should be the inner feeling of every member.

All this being true, it follows with logical precision that each should earnestly seek for himself and do what he can to help others to attain to the highest Christian experience and standard of experience and life. Where there is such an earnest purpose formed in the soul it will soon be found that there is neither time nor relish for the questionable amusements and dissipations of the fashionable world. And more than this there will be an instinctive avoidance of them, and the taste will in time grow so far away from them that they will have absolutely no attractiveness.

We are set to be leaders in this work of bringing the world to know and love Christ. Let us devote all our energies to the task and be people of one work. The world will not be smaller and less attractive, but will become more beautiful, and our lives will be happier and more helpful.

The Best Loved.

Who are the best loved people in the community? I answer unhesitatingly: They are the unselfish. They are those who have drunk deepest of the spirit of Jesus Christ. They are those who have the most effectually cut that cursed cancer of self out of their hearts and filled its place with that love that "seeketh not its own." This beautiful grace sometimes blooms out in most unexpected places. It was illustrated by the poor lad in the coal mine when a fatal accident occurred and a man came down to relieve the sufferers and the brave boy said to him: "Don't mind me. Joe Brown is a little lower down, and he's most gone. Save him first." There are enough Joe Browns who are lower down in poverty and ignorance, in weakness and in want than we are, and Christianity's first duty is to save them. It was Jesus who sinners from sinking into the deeper pit of hell that Jesus died on Calvary. He who stoops the lowest to rescue lost souls will have the highest place in heaven. Will it not be these unselfish spirits who will have John's place up there on the Savior's breast and be "the disciples whom Jesus loves?"—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

Points to Progress.

That sin spells doom.

That only fools fail to learn from observation.

That struggle against sin is one's own strength is folly.

That God uses bad men to achieve some of His purposes.

That God never adopts harsh measures till nothing else will do.

That wicked men are entirely responsible for their wickedness.

That the loss of a national conscience means loss of national character.

That though sin may run away from punishment it always overtakes us, sooner or later.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

INTERESTING OLD DEEDS.

Contain Signatures of Owners' Great-Great-Great-Grandfathers.

Through the death of his aunt, Miss Sarah Amanda Lindsley, who resided in the old Lindsley homestead at New Vernon, Morris county, Foster H. Lindsley, a merchant at East High Bridge, has come into possession of two old deeds conveying lands at Hanover, Hunterdon county, later the first year of the reign of George III of Great Britain, October 3, 1727, and October 3, 1737. The deeds are plainly written on either side of parchment and are in good condition.

The indentures are made by John Alford, of Milford, county of Middlesex and province of Massachusetts Bay, in New England, of the first part, and Stephen Tuttle, of Newark, now of Hanover, in the county of Hunterdon, and western division of the province of New Jersey, of the second part. The first deed conveys 250 acres of land in Hanover between the Whippany and Passaic rivers, and the other, 154 acres adjoining. For these lands Tuttle is named as the consideration in the first case, and £82 in the other. By power of attorney both deeds were executed by John Reading and witnessed by John Hayward, James Gobel and John Lindsley. The village of New Vernon now occupies a part of these parcels.

Mr. Lindsley prizes the parchments not only as being the oldest known deeds hereabouts, but because of his direct connection with John Lindsley, a witness, and Stephen Tuttle, party of the second part to the instruments, they being great-great-great-grandfathers on both his paternal and maternal sides.

The Lindsleys came to America from the northern part of Scotland, and settled in Hanover in the early part of the seventeenth century. The family was large and there are many descendants scattered throughout the State.

ABOUT PASTRY.

In proper combination nothing produces better results than sour cream. Sweet milk and baking powder rarely bring out cakes and biscuits of such light and delicate texture as may be made with sour cream or milk with soda. In the following recipes the cream has reached the thickened stage, and the soda, measured with punctilious care, is stirred into the cream until it is perfectly in solution, the whole not foaming much.

Layer Cake.—Two eggs, one cup granulated sugar, one-half cup rich sour cream, two cups flour measured before sifting, one-half teaspoon soda, one level teaspoon baking powder, pinch salt. Beat the eggs well, and yolks are well blended and add sugar. Dissolve the soda in cream, stirring it then into the eggs and sugar. Sift into the mixture the flour, baking powder and salt, and beat well together. Bake in two layers in quick time.

Filling.—One cup pecan or walnut meats run through meat chopper or crushed with rolling pin on bread board, one small egg, three-quarters cup confectioner's sugar, one-half cup sour cream, one teaspoon vanilla. Beat the egg well, white and yolk together; add the sugar and nut meats, and last of all the cream and vanilla, stirring it then only enough to mix all together. Spread between the layers and top of cake when cold.

Gingerbread.—Three-fourths of a cup of thick, sour cream, one-half cup molasses, one-half cup granulated sugar, two cups flour measured before sifting, two eggs, rounded teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon ginger, one and a half teaspoon cinnamon. Beat together eggs, sugar and molasses, add half the cream, and dissolve soda in the remainder, after which beat all lightly together. Sift into the mixture flour, ginger and cinnamon, and add the last cream. Bake in a moderate oven about half an hour.

Biscuits.—One cup flour measured before sifting, one-half cup sour cream, one-half cup sweet milk, one level teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon, one-third teaspoon salt. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together in a mixing bowl. Add the cream, in which the soda has been perfectly dissolved, and, when well mixed, add the milk. Mix smooth and soft, and enter as little flour on the bread board as may be possible. Roll about an inch thick, and bake ten minutes in a hot oven.

Black Costumes.

It is understood that black cloth costumes are to be greatly in vogue once more. There is nothing that quite comes up to them whenever a quiet elegance is required, and a certain becoming freshness about. But while black suits appeal to matrons especially, and of all ages, it cannot be denied that the younger set once out of their teens sometimes look best in them. But on the other hand, they are not so likely to form a good background for flowered clothes, which in point of fact represent their youth and beauty to perfection, and give so animated an expression of color to winter day assemblages.

Mrs. W. A. Nye, of New York, has been spending several days with Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, of North Plainfield.

Miss Alice Wall, of Bound Brook, who has been spending several days with Plainfield friends, has returned home.

Beardsley T. Brown, formerly of this city, but now of Wilmington, Del., has been visiting friends in town. He is now engaged in the lumber business.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, DEC. 14, 1905.

Why should a policeman be a collector of license fees?

Canadians hurled eggs at French actress the other day. Eggs must be cheap in the Dominion.

What's the use of being a political boss since the railroads have put an end to the free pass graft?

Small wonder that those steel trust magnates do not wish to oust Corey. Their own glass houses may be struck.

Secretary of the Treasury wants an elastic currency. For method of getting easy money he should consult life insurance officers.

Some people had better get from under while they have the chance. The Kiely charges are to be taken up by Common Council on the 13th of the month.

Minister in a Pennsylvania hamlet says all the place needs to make it abreast of the times are good roads, good water and good drainage. Good citizenship would bring all these things.

Before the New Jersey Mayors' League set itself on record regarding equal taxation, it should have consulted State Chairman Briggs, the self-constituted official expounder of Republican dogma.

Republican State Chairman Briggs has addressed a letter to the various county chairmen defining the policy of the party on important issues. Little use of holding a convention when you have such an obliging man at the head of the State committee.

Senate declined to pay honor to Senator Mitchell's memory by draping his desk. What a big amount of cloth would have to be wasted if the seats of all rascals in the Upper House of Congress would have to be thus adorned.

TRACT FOR FOREST PRESERVE.

Commission Considering the Purchase of 25,000 Acres.

The New Jersey State Forest Preserve Commission is considering the purchase of 25,000 acres of woodland in Atlantic county, with a view of still further prosecuting the work it has commenced in the saving of the forests of the Commonwealth. The land is particularly well adapted for the purpose. It is covered with forest and contains an abundant supply of water. The board is considering two offers from the owners, one to purchase the land in its entirety and the other to purchase it without the water power. The price, of course, would be less under the latter proposition. An investigation has been made of the tract by the State Geological Survey, which has reported to the Forest Commissioners that the water on the property could be developed to produce 500 horsepower and that with comparatively small expense.

The commissioners have already secured considerable property. A tract of 104 acres of Atlantic county land has ben presented to the board by Professor John Gifford, of Princeton, and a tract of 268 acres has been purchased adjoining the Gifford property.

The commissioners have also purchased in Burlington county a tract of considerable size from Charles W. Matthews, of Tuckerton. It is hoped to be able within a few years to make the improved forest land of the State one of the Commonwealth's most valuable assets.

SHAKESPEAREAN RECITALS.

To Be Given by C. Abbott at Truell Inn.

A series of Shakespearean Lecture-Recitals will be given at Truell Inn by Dr. Edgar C. Abbott on the afternoons of the following dates: "Othello," Tuesday, December 19; "The Merchant of Venice," Thursday, December 28; "Hamlet," Wednesday, January 3. The lectures will begin at 3 o'clock.

The recitals will be given under the patronage of Mrs. M. S. Ackerman, Mrs. George H. Babcock, Mrs. George A. Beaton, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, Mrs. C. H. Detwiller, Mrs. Freudenthal, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, Mrs. George H. Higbee, Mrs. G. M. Holstein, Rev. and Mrs. Hubbell, Mrs. Rufus P. Lincoln, Mrs. David M. Moore, Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, Mrs. William Palmer Smith, Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Stevens, Mrs. J. R. Truell and Mrs. O. T. Waring.

Borough Taxes Soon Due.

But eight days more remain for the payment of taxes in the borough before the ten per cent. interest is added. Collector Brown has secured the greater portion of the money, but there are still a large number of property owners holding back, and the notice is given for their benefit.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Babes in Toyland," Hamlin and Mitchell's musical extravaganza, is meeting with prosperity at the Academy of Music, the big playhouse on Fourteenth street being nightly crowded with enthusiastic audiences. Victor Herbert's music in this fairy play is characteristic and is by many of his admirers considered to be the best work of his career, while Glen MacDonough has supplied an amusing tale, and it goes without saying that Julian Mitchell's arrangement of the figures and evolutions of the chorus is artistic and harmonious. Nothing better has been seen on the New York stage than the Toy March in the second act of "Babes in Toyland," in which each member of the company impersonates an automaton. The organization is an exceptionally large one, filling up the big stage of the Academy perfectly, and the principals are all clever in their various roles. Ignacio Martinetti is Alan, and proves himself a capable singer and dancer as well as a comedian of worth, while Katherine Bell, who is the other "babe," Jane, is dainty and sweet and has an infantile personality that is positively refreshing. Miss Albertine Benson is Tom Tom, and sings the Toyland solo quite as well as it has ever been rendered. Others are Gus Pixley, Gene Luneska, Walter Schrode, Maud Campbell, E. P. Sullivan, John Ward, Robert Burns and James Wilson. The chorus is made up of a bevy of pretty girls who in addition to their charming appearances have voices which are heard to advantage in the different musical numbers. As "Babes in Toyland" is particularly attractive to children, the management is making a feature of the matinees which are given on Wednesdays, Saturdays and holidays.

Julian Mitchell has become famous as a producer of magnificent musical plays, but none that he has done in the past equals in harmony of pictures and novelty of features his latest piece, "Wonderland," at the Majestic theatre, New York. The house is filled every evening, and so freshly has it appealed to the discriminating theatregoer of the city and its environs that the boxes are all engaged for a long time in advance by the best known people in society. Miss Alice Roosevelt's recent visit to the Majestic has been followed by the appearance there of many leaders of the swell sets. There are several things in "Wonderland" that would, any one of them, be sufficent to make an ordinary musical comedy success. "The Nature Class" song is even more popular than "I Can't Do That Sum" was in a former success at this theatre. Miss Lotta Faust's "Pauline" makes nightly hits. Miss Bessie Wynn has another of her splendid boy parts. Miss Aimee Angeles justifies her reputation as the best dancer ever seen on Broadway. Then there is the laughing horse, which is the funniest animal performer ever contrived. The chorus is already famous for its beauty, and the fronts rows of seats are in great demand.

"A Society Circus" will have its premier at the New York Hippodrome on Wednesday evening, December 13, succeeding "A Yankee Circus on Mars." Thompson & Dundy are confident that the new extravaganza will be the triumph of modern theatricals. "A Society Circus" has three acts and five scenes. It is replete with novel creations and a fortune has been expended for costumes, scenery and accessories. The story of "A Society Circus" relates of Lady Volumnia, whose "tainted" millions are spurned by charity, society and commerce. She seeks diversion in a gypsy camp where Paul Pasky, stranded circus performer, is revealed to her. He is her affinity, she is sure and she decides to utilize some of her ill-reputed in organizing a circus whose magnificence will be a revelation. The entertainment is provided at her castle, following what was to have been her marriage to the young gallant of the arena. But her designing secretary and major domo had abducted him, and he is not restored until there has ensued a remarkable series of incidents, a show of gowns in which American and France meet in contest for gorgeous supremacy; a diversified display of histrionic talent and a demonstration of the possibilities of the art of stagecraft at the Hippodrome. Mr. Thompson's crowning sensation is a water tableau which concludes his performance. The spectacle is described as one of transcending beauty. It is allegorical and pageantric in character and in magnitude tests the great proportions of the Hippodrome stage. More than four thousand gallons of water spout from hundreds of fountains each minute and the electric light effects are dazzling.

Adele Ritchie, in selections from her most recent successes, will head the all-star vaudeville bill at Proctor's 58th Street theatre, this week. Miss Ritchie's sojourn in vaudeville has demonstrated a wonderful versatility that was never really called into play in the more conventional environs of comic opera. Paul Conchas, Kaiser Wilhelm's Military Hercules, will be another offering of equal importance on this same bill, giving an extremely interesting performance introducing all the weapons of modern warfare, followed by Girard and Gardner, as funny as ever, in a comedy sketch of more than usual merit, entitled, "Dooley and the Diamond." Later on the bill comes Greene and Werner in their original creation, "Babes in the Jungle," a distinct singing and dancing novelty, replete with beautiful scenery, costumes, etc. The remainder of this all-star show includes Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barry, in a new farcical absurdity; Four Milons, marvelous equilibrists; Trovollo, ventriloquist; Ed. Estus and others. Mr. Proctor has inaugurated a novelty in souvenirs, establishing a precedent by giving the souvenirs to the men and they were distributed to all the gentlemen in the orchestra and in the new smoking balcony on Monday evening On Saturday afternoon the matinee Santa Claus will distribute Christmas gifts to all the children in the house.

Grace George has achieved a veritable triumph in "The Marriage of William Ashe," at the Garrick theatre. The play is magnificently, even sumptuously, mounted, and as a production is conceded to be the most elaborate and beautiful series of stage pictures seen in New York this season. New York is not very favorable soil to plant the dramatization of any novel, yet the New York Herald said of the play made from Mrs. Humphry Ward's novel by Margaret Mayo, that "in a reason of somewhat wabbly dramas, 'The Marriage of William Ashe' stands out as a piece portraying intense emotion and realism," and the New York Sun declared it to be "an able dramatization, ably staged and acted." There are no complex ethical or social questions in "The Marriage of William Ashe" as there were in Mrs. Humphry Ward's earlier works. The motive is rather the wrestling of temperaments and the clash between accepted forms in high society and the audacity of the unconventional. The play keeps close to the story. The New York papers are unanimous in their praise of the brilliance and the charm of Grace George's achievement in the role of Lady Kitty.

A theatrical event of unusual importance is the presentation at the Grand Opera House for one week, beginning Monday, Dec. 11, by the distinguished English actor, Kyrle Bellew, of "Raffles, The Amateur Cracksman," the fascinating play which had a record breaking run of 200 nights at the Princess and Savoy theatres, in New York, season before last. As is well known, the story of the play differs essentially from the story of the two books by E. W. Hornung, "Raffles" and "The Amateur Cracksman," from which it was taken. The book is made up of sketches, whereas the play must, necessarily, hold together. The new character introduced in the person of Captain Bedford, the detective, a foil for Raffles, is still interpreted by E. M. Holland, whose impersonation of the character of Captain Redwood, the detective in "Jim the Penman," added largely to his own personal fame. The dramatizing of "Raffles," was done by the late James A. Herne—"Read your book, then throw it away and write your play." As the burglar, Mr. Bellew has a part that permits him for the first time in years to wear modern clothes and the change is refreshing.

Major Edward Anderson is Ill.

Major Edward J. Anderson supervisor of the State Prison at Trenton is seriously ill at his home in Somerville. Major Anderson has been suffering some time with Bright's disease and his condition became serious about three weeks ago. Now gangrene has developed in one of his legs, causing alarming complications. Major Anderson has been supervisor at the prison since 1894, at a salary of $3,000 a year, and his present term will expire June 11, 1906.

$3,000 for Being Good.

For being good for a decade, Frank T. Rice, a popular citizen of Warren township, is about to receive $3,000 through Reed & Codington, of this city. Ten years ago when Rice's grandmother died, she left him this sum of money providing he led a sober and industrious life for the period stated. At that time Rice was proprietor of a hotel at Mt. Bethel, but in later days he has been a teamster. He bears an excellent reputation for sobriety and industriousness and it is said the lawyers are experiencing no difficulty in securing the necessary affidavits to entitle him to the money.

Funeral of Mrs. Stafford.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Mrs. John T. Stafford was held from her late home on Essex street, yesterday afternoon. Rev. George Mooney, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, was in charge. During the service, the entire gathering, at the request of the family, sang "Abide With Me." The floral tributes were numerous and included a set piece from the Monroe Avenue Ladies' Aid Society. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being John Praed, Michael Rimmer, Frederick Pearce, Francis Whitley, Paul Symons and Thomas W. Jacobs.

Mrs. David J. Smith, wife of the manager of the Duke estate, died Saturday at her home in South Somerville as the result of the burns she sustained a week previously. While carrying a pan of ashes from the house a number of live coals dropped out, igniting her clothing. She ran into the house, where a member of the family succeeded in extinguishing the flames with a pail of water, but Mrs. Smith's clothes had been almost entirely burned from her body.

DESPERADO LURKING AT VALENTINE'S BRIDGE?

SLINKING FIGURE, SUPPOSED TO BE IDES, SEEN THERE SEVERAL TIMES.

Householders in the neighborhood of Valentine's bridge, half way between this city and South Plainfield, have been worried by the appearance of a mysterious figure about the bridge in the early morning hours, for the past few days. It appears to be that of a stockily built man, who seems to shrink from observance. The residents believe it is either "Dutch" Ides himself, or one of his gang. The last seen of Ides was in the neighborhood of South Plainfield, and it is figured that he would be apt to pick a hiding place somewhere in the neighborhood of the bridge, far enough from the railroads to throw off searchers who are looking for him about hobo camps, yet near enough to enable him to reach a favoring freight when the time for flight should come.

The man has been seen by several milkmen. He appears to have come out into the open at about the same time—between 3 and 4 o'clock—every morning for nearly a week. Descriptions of him vary some, but those who have seen him agree that he shrunk out of sight every time they came toward him in a way that always aroused suspicion. One milkman saw him with a catchel that seemed to be filled with weighty goods, and another saw him carrying a paper bundle. So far he has not attempted to interfere with anyone on the road or in the neighborhood, but if it is Ides, the residents say, this peaceful state of affairs is not likely to continue.

TO QUIT BERTH.

Assistant Commissioner General Early to Resign.

Colonel William H. Early will shortly hand to Quartermaster General C. Edward Murray his resignation as Assistant Commissary General of New Jersey. This will likely be done within the coming two weeks. This act on the part of Colonel Early is entirely a voluntary one and the decision to resign was reached by him because he has concluded he has held the office long enough and because his ambition of having served in the militia of the State for a quarter of a century will have been realized January 21.

Colonel Early has held his present office twenty-five years and he is today one of the most popular officers of the board.

When Quartermaster General Murray was appointed he at once renominated Colonel Early as his assistant, and when General Murray was seen yesterday and asked as to Colonel Early's probable successor he said:

"I know nothing of the resignation of Colonel Early and when it is handed in I will not accept it unless some very strong reason is given."

SPOKE IN DUNELLEN.

Miss Josephine Petrie Tells Presbyterian Sunday-school of Work.

Miss Josephine Petrie, of this city, secretary of the Young People's Society Board of Home Missions, delivered an address before the Sunday-school and congregation of the Dunellen Presbyterian church Sunday morning. The occasion was the annual missionary exercises of the Sunday-school, which took the place of the regular morning service.

Miss Petrie is thoroughly conversant with missionary conditions in the western and southern fields and it was on these that she spoke. She described the nature and needs of the work among the unconverted people there, dwelling on the effort to bring the Montana Indians into the fold. She said more money was needed in the work, and the contributions were generous, in response to the appeal.

CELEBRATE WEDDING DAY.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kinney Fifteen Years Married.

In honor of the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Kinney, of Arlington avenue, entertained a few friends at dinner on Saturday night. The event was attended by many pleasant features, not the least being the handsome remembrances of the guests.

Those participating in the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joel Fisk, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Miss Elizabeth Cock, Mr. and Mrs. Roger F. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hovey, William H. Cock, G. Harry Squires and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Kinney.

Why a $300,000 Postoffice?

Congressman William H. Wiley has introduced in Congress a resolution appropriating $300,000 for a new postoffice building for East Orange. People are asking why a little city like East Orange, with its limited postal requirements, needs a $300,000 postoffice. The city has no large manufacturing plants or business houses.

Famous Actor Coming.

John Drew will be the guest of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk on the occasion of his appearance here on Wednesday night, December 22. He will play "De Lancey," a Frohman production.

P. H. S. MUSICAL CLUBS FOURTH ANNUAL CONCERT

ENJOYED BY LARGE GATHERING IN CAMERA CLUB ROOMS.

The fourth annual concert by the Plainfield High School Musical Clubs was given in the Camera Club rooms Saturday night for the benefit of the P. H. S. Athletic Association. The hall was crowded with members and friends of the school who enjoyed the excellent programme greatly. Much credit is due S. B. Howe, Jr., instructor of the musical clubs, for the good work.

In part first the orchestra rendered "Moonlight," Miss Marguerite Ostrom gave two recitations, "Our Hired Girl," and "The Raggety Man," Percy Mygrant gave a cornet solo and the glee club sang "Where Are You Going," and "Maiden of the Fleur-de-lis," each number receiving hearty applause.

Part second was entitled "Miss Beauty and Mr. Briggs," and was a feature of the programme. William Briggs introduced his trick dog, "Miss Beauty," who performed several remarkable stunts.

The mandolin and banjo clubs opened part third with "Yankee Boy," and "Kalocia," which was followed with a recitation, "The Tramp Musician," by Miss Edith Hanaford, assisted by Miss Florence Dickerson. There was a violin solo, "Barcarolle," by Clarence Heaume and the orchestra concluded the programme with the rendition of "Cupid's Garden." Several of these numbers were encored and the response was generous. After the entertainment the floor was cleared and dancing was enjoyed until nearly midnight. The athletic association will realize a substantial sum as profit from the concert.

HUNT CLUB CHASE.

Members Afterward Entertained by Charles W. Fisk and L. E. Waring.

Despite the disagreeable weather on Saturday afternoon, the Watchung Hunt Club to the number of twenty-three had a pleasant chase after the hounds. Starting at the Plainfield Country Club, the riders went to Metuchen, where there was a check. From that point the run was continued to Mt. Pleasant and thence to the kennels on Rahway road, where it was concluded.

After the run the club was entertained at the Casino by Lewis E. Waring and Charles W. Fisk. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. The club had for its guest on the run, William McClure, of Montclair. Next Saturday the club will have another run, starting from Mt. Pleasant and going in the direction of Rahway.

ESCAPES JAIL THROUGH HIS SISTER'S PLEA

"WACKY" DRAKE, REARRESTED TWICE ON SATURDAY, GETS ANOTHER CHANCE

Frank Drake, arrested on Saturday for breaking his agreement to remain out of the city for six months, and released by Judge Runyon after proving that illness drove him back and making a new promise to remain in exile for half a year, was re-arrested twice within three hours of his release. One charge was soliciting money on the streets and the other was drunkenness. In spite of everything Drake escaped from court this morning with the sentence of fifty days and fifty dollars that hung over him still suspended. A plea made by his sister saved him.

When Drake left the courtroom Saturday he promised to be out of the city by today; he understood that if he returned before next June or gave the police any trouble in the interim he was to go to jail fifty days and pay $50. This was made very plain, so Officer Overbaugh, who had arrested Drake in the first place, was astonished to see him soliciting on Park avenue. He placed the youth under arrest and took him to headquarters. The magistrate gave Drake a sharp talking to, and allowed him to go. Within an hour Overbaugh saw Drake sagging about the streets, very drunk. This time Drake was cooped up.

When he was arraigned before Judge Runyon Monday morning, the magistrate was in no mood for leniency. He was on the point of ordering the young man to jail when Miss Drake, who is a young girl, appledged her word to the court that half. She said he was the victim of his associations, and a chance to get out of town and away from them would set him on the right path. She pleaded her word to the court that she would see her brother left town today. The magistrate was touched by the plea, and showed it. He gave Drake into the girl's charge, and brother and sister left the court together. Drake looked ashamed of himself, and the police think they have seen the last of him for at least six months.

Funeral of Mrs. Nischwitz.

The funeral of Mrs. C. Frank Nischwitz was held Sunday afternoon, services being at her late home on Grandview avenue and the Methodist church at Springdale. At the former, Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons was in charge, assisted by Rev. A. C. McCrea, while at the church Rev. Mr. Stout officiated. The interment was made at Springdale. The pall bearers were Winfield S. Angleman, Charles Angleman, Frank Quaas and John Mundy.

Why Buy McClure's?

McClure's Magazine is bought and read in homes not because it is a magazine, but because it is the magazine. Why?

FIRST—THE PRICE. It costs but one dollar a year, or less than ten cents a number, for over thirteen hundred two-column pages of reading matter. This amounts in actual bulk to twenty or twenty-five books costing anywhere from a dollar to two dollars a volume.

SECOND—QUALITY. The reading matter is written by America's leading writers—the best short story writers, the best writers on timely articles, the best writers of important serials, such as Schurz's Reminiscences or Baker's Railroad articles.

THIRD—TIMELINESS. The reading matter in McClure's is not only good; it is not only entertaining, amusing, instructive and inspiring—it is also about the subjects in which you and all Americans are most interested at the time. No subjects in the next twelve months are going to be so important as the question of railroad rates and rebates and the question of life insurance. Both of these questions will be discussed by authorities in an impartial, careful, interesting way.

FOURTH—ITS CHARACTER. McClure's Magazine is not edited for children, but at the same time, there is never a line in it that any young girl might not read. Its advertising pages are as clean as its editorial pages.

McClure's Magazine

in your home is intended to work only for good. Send $1.00 today for one year's subscription, or leave an order at your book store. November and December free with new subscriptions for 1906.

S. S. McCLURE COMPANY, 47 East 23d Street, NEW YORK.

You can earn a good income by taking up the business of securing subscribers for McClure's. It is clean and self-respecting—a publication any man or woman would like to represent. The pay is 25 cents for each $1.00 subscription, in addition to big cash prizes for the best work. Write today for full particulars.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River. In effect December 3, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.29, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.20, 8.26, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.30, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.32, 8.27, 8.27, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.37, 4.47, 7.40, 8.01, 8.52, 9.24, 9.49, 10.02, 10.22 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.27, 8.35, 9.43, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.26, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.26, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.40, 8.52, 9.24, 10.22 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.19, 7.11, 8.21, 9.17, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 1.41, 2.02, 2.11, 3.30, 4.23, 5.02, 5.29, 5.57, 6.04, 6.19, 6.28, 7.12, 7.23, 8.08, 9.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.03, 2.40, 5.27, 6.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.11, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sunday—8.42 a. m., 5.27 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.28 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.05 p. m.

For Bethelem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.47 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 12.44 (Saturdays only), 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove)—8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 12.44 (Saturdays only), 1.18, 4.13, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.30, 1.18, 2.49, (4.13 p. m., Lakewood only).

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, 4.13 p. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.11, 7.44, 8.51, 9.39, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.39, 1.01, 1.39, 2.45, 3.42, 3.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.53, 10.39, 10.44, 11.42 a. m., 12.39, 2.45, 3.42, 4.55, 6.45*, 5.37, 7.46, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.11, 7.44, 8.51, 9.39, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.01, 3.42, 6.45, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 5.45, 9.53, 11.42 a. m., 4.55, 5.37, 6.45, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.25, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.47 a. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.25, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sunday—2.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.35, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m., 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electric Automatic Block Signal System.

On and After November 26, 1905. Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.55 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.27 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.20 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.28, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.29, 9.06, f 10.10, 11.43 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.41, f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.27, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.41, 7.44, f 8.27 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 2.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars, and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.23 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.29, and 11.43 a. m., f 2.35 and f 6.41 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., f 6.41 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, and f 5.43 p. m., 12.51 night, week-days. Sundays—10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man. GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Ralroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 3, 1905. LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo, and principal intermediate stations.

10.28 a. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Detroit, and Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J., Telephone 112.

Eastern "Pros." Incorporate.

The Eastern Golfers Association was incorporated yesterday at Albany, with objects to foster the game of golf. The directors are: Charles Kirchner, of this city; George Low, Philadelphia; Alex. Campbell, of Brookline, Mass.; Walter Stoddart, of Noroton, Conn.; William Norton, of Lakewood; William Anderson, of Rye, N. Y.; Alexander Smith, of Glen Cove, L. I., and James Laing, of Brooklyn.

DOUBLE MORAL STANDARD

Rev. Frederick Lynch Says It is Responsible For Commercial Graft.

FINANCIERS' RELIGION

They Shed It When They Go Into Business and Don't Recognize Difference Between Right and Wrong.

Rev. Frederick Lynch, of the Pilgrim Congregational church, New York, preached the sermon of the last service in the special course at the Unitarian church, Sunday night. His theme was the message of religion for the men of today.

Mr. Lynch's idea of modern religion is of a force that knows neither creed nor cessation; a force that is to work as strongly in business, in politics, in every act of each man and each set of men, and not merely in church life, so-called.

Mr. Lynch denounced what he called the double-standard of morality—the thing that allows men like Rockefeller to regard himself as a Christian in the Baptist church with which he is affiliated, and like a soulless, unfeeling, untouchable servant of Business in directors' meetings. Mr. Lynch ascribed the state of affairs exposed by the insurance revelations to this double standard.

"I am not so sure," he said, speaking in this connection, "but that some of the men who have been on the stand did not actually realize that they were doing anything ethically wrong or Unchristian-like. The double standard of morality works that way. It must be destroyed."

He believes that it will be. In the very revelations that have been made he sees signs that the great lesson of one all-active religion is being learned. He believes the people are awakening to the need for universal adherence to high ethical standards in every field of endeavor. The recent reform victories in several states he regards as a sign of the great change.

The appeal of religion, Mr. Lynch held, must not be made to moderns on the old selfish basis of personal salvation. The plea for religion must be based on the partnership of man with God in the effort to make the world permanently better, to bring about "the kingdom of God."

The world, according to Mr. Lynch, cares no more for what churches claim, cares nothing for what they call their theology. It rates the church for what it does for the betterment of man and the conditions in which he is forced to live.

"Religion is one, creeds may be many," said Mr. Lynch. "Religion is alike in all pure hearts of whatever denomination. The day of ecclesiastical labels is fast going by—we are becoming better known for what truths we are seeking rather than by the tags we bear. Religion is being measured, not by the claims made, but by the work the church is doing."

CHARMING DINNER DANCE.

First of a Series to be Given by Country Club.

The first of the series of dinner dances arranged by the members of the Plainfield Country Club for this winter, was given at the Casino, Saturday night, and was a success. There were about sixty-five subscribers. Prior to the dance about twenty subscribers had dinner.

During the evening the programme was of a most informal character, the guests spending the time dancing, playing bridge whist, pool and otherwise enjoying themselves as they desired. The committee in charge of the dinner dances, including Lewis E. Waring, Louis G. Timpson and T. R. Van Boskerck, was pleased with the opening affair and it is predicted that the succeeding ones will be even more successful. A local orchestra furnished music for the dinner and dance and this was a feature.

GEN. HOWARD SPOKE.

Made Address at Congregational Church on Mission Work.

Gen. O. O. Howard, uncle of Rev. L. R. Howard, of this city spoke at the Congregational church yesterday morning relative to mission work in which he is interested. The well known veteran of the Civil War has appeared here several times on similar errands and has always been greeted by large audiences.

He told of the work that has been accomplished during the past year in the mission fields at home and abroad and pictured the future for mission enterprise as very encouraging.

Little Girl's Funeral.

Funeral services over the body of Elizabeth McNee the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McNee, of Madison avenue, were held at the parents' home Sunday afternoon. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, had charge. Interment was at Hillside cemetery.

To Play Trenton Five.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball five of this city has signed a game with the Trenton Y. M. C. A. The players from the capital are hard to beat and a great game is expected.

PLAINFIELDER GIVES A HORSE FOR SECURITY

BUT IT WASN'T HIS AND NEWARK POLICE WERE STUNG.

P. S. Dayton, the local flour and feed merchant, brought a horse back to the city, Saturday, which he sold on trial to a New York man and while away passed through experiences enough to nettle the most patient and submissive equine. The purchaser did not want the animal after he had used it awhile and Irenus Allen, of East Front street, was sent over to bring it back. He came by way of Newark and stopping in one of the wet goods establishments there, took a drink that put him out of business. He remounted the horse but fell off and when the police picked him up, the animal had strayed away. Allen insisted that the glass of German Joy he drank was drugged but the court thought it was a case of too many and imposed a fine. He didn't have the money but claimed the horse he was riding was his and that if the police could find it, they could hold it until he came home and got the necessary. The animal was finally located and Allen was let go.

He hurried to Plainfield and told Dayton where the horse was and that if he wanted it he could go after it. Dayton went to Newark expecting to have no trouble in getting his property but he had a great deal of it and the Newark police finally let him have it after an argument as to who was to pay Allen's fine. They now have no security and as Allen is in Plainfield and not likely to go back it looks as though the cops had been "stung."

AT REVOLVER'S POINT BURGLARS DRIVEN OFF

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY'S COURAGE SAVES FAMILY'S BELONGINGS.

Two second-story men entered the house of F. H. Bowe, 1302 South avenue, at 6 o'clock Monday while the family was at supper, and were about to make a good haul when discovered by Mr. Bowe's son George. The lad, who is seventeen years old, with the nerve of a veteran detective, went from the bathroom to his mother's room, where he secured a revolver from a bureau drawer.

The boy returned to his sister's room, where he found one of the thieves operating and the other one about entering the room through the window. Save for a small light in another nearby room it was very dark in Miss Bowe's room, but the boy drew his revolver and backed both men out of the room.

The thieves stepped out on the tin roof, and before the boy could get downstairs and tell the members of the family what had happened they made their escape. So far as can be learned they did not take anything.

George Bowe describes the thieves as wearing slouch hats and black silk handkerchiefs about their neck and face. One was short and stout and wore a pea jacket, while the other was tall and slender and wore a long overcoat. The handkerchiefs covered their faces so that it was impossible to tell whether they had moustaches or whiskers. The lad says that he is sure he could identify the men if he should see them again.

Mrs. Bowe is loud in her praise of her son's brave act. Her husband has been detained at home several weeks by illness, and even though he had known what was going on upstairs would have been unable to assist in the capture of the burglars.

HARRISON JUROR INDIGNANT.

Where Will Usurpations of the Road End, He Asks.

The non-suiting of the Harrison damage suit against William Stanbery, which suit grew out of the Dunellen auto tragedy, has caused a good deal of comment. Lawyer George Silzer, who was one of Harrison's counsel, is more than ever convinced that the victory in the trial should have been his, and as predicted in the Press, yesterday definitely announced that he would appeal the case to the next term of the Supreme Court.

According to remarks made by jurymen on the case after it had ended in non-suit, the jury would likely have given Harrison a verdict. They were greatly disappointed that the case did not reach them. One member remarked to a Press representative:

"We can't get any rights on the roads anymore. The automobiles seem to own them. Where is it going to end? They can run us down and over us and kill us just as they please."—New Brunswick Press.

Funeral of Mrs. Greve.

A large gathering of relatives and friends, including fifty members of the local Painters' Union, with which Mr. Greve is connected, attended the funeral of Mrs. Fredricka Greve, held at her late home on North avenue, Saturday afternoon. Rev. J. W. Mussen, pastor of Faith chapel, officiated, and interment was at Hillside cemetery. There were numerous handsome floral tributes.

TOLLES, CAUCUS CHOICE

Incoming Common Council Agrees on Him for Next Presiding Officer.

MR. DANIEL DECLINES

Limit of Committee Memberships Agreed Upon—No Mention of City Clerkship—A Full Attendance.

While there is no binding agreement, there was a tacit understanding at a caucus of the members of the 1906 Common Council, held in the office of Mayor James F. Buckle last night, that Ralph L. Tolles, present chairman of the finance committee, is to be the president of the incoming body. Mr. Tolles was president of the Common Council for 1904 and retired in favor of Councilman Leslie M. Daniel, the present presiding officer.

Intimation of this action was given in The Daily Press recently, it being stated then that the friends of Mr. Tolles were urging his candidacy for the presidency. Inasmuch as President Daniel has definitely decided that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself, Mr. Tolles is considered the logical successor to the present incumbent. There was no opposition, expressed or otherwise, at the caucus, and harmony prevailed throughout.

There was also a discussion as to the makeup of next year's committees. The present plan is to separate the police and license committees, as formerly, and have each committee composed of three members. In the case of the police committee, the three members, together with the Mayor and president of the Common Council, will constitute the police board, as at present.

It is also planned to have the street, fire and finance committees comprised of five members each, as formerly, and the chances are that the remaining committees will continue as at present so far as number of members is concerned. There was no discussion as to who would comprise these various committees, but as there is good material to draw from, Mr. Tolles does not anticipate any trouble in securing efficiency in committee work for next year.

The entire membership of the 1906 Common Council attended the caucus as follows:

Ralph L. Tolles, Leslie M. Daniel, Frank De Witt Randolph, Charles C. Randolph, Henry D. Hibbard, William L. Gloak, William S. Tyler, of the present Common Council, and George P. Mellick, Daniel F. Ginna, Francis L. Montgomery and Herbert Buxton, councilmen-elect.

When questioned as to whether there was any consideration of the city clerkship for next year, one of the members declared that the matter was not mentioned during the caucus, neither was there any talk as to other appointments to be made. This will probably come up in the regular way at the proper.

Y.M.C.A. FIVE WINS FROM BROOKLYN PLAYERS

26TH WARD TEAM EASY FOR LOCALS—BUSINESS MEN DEFEAT LEALS.

In a game marked by fast plays, the Brooklyn Twenty-sixth Ward Y. M. C. A. basketball five fell before the prowess of the local association's combination Saturday night. The score was 33 to 19.

Plainfield held the visitors safely throughout the contest. The locals played rapidly, and excelled in team work. Leary and Scull did especially good work. The line up:

| Brooklyn. | | Plainfield. |
|---|---|---|
| Meyr | | Smith |
| Losee | | Thompson |
| | forwards. | |
| Kiendl | | Scull |
| | center. | |
| Penny | | Leary |
| Hurd | | Neal |
| | guards. | |

The "curtain raiser" was between the Business Men and Leal's School. Leal's was no match for the opposing combination, losing by a score of 28 to 9. The game, however, was snappy and interesting. The line up:

| Business Men. | | Leal's. |
|---|---|---|
| Hucke | | Howard |
| Miner | | Alpaugh |
| | forwards. | |
| Lott | | Endicott |
| | center. | |
| Browning | | Brokaw |
| Clarke | | Valiant |
| | guards. | |

There was a very large attendance. The spectators were frankly partisan and the contestants were enthusiastically cheered and applauded by their supporters.

Crushed by a Falling Tree.

While in the act of cutting down a large tree Saturday evening on the property of Mr. Coyne, on Dehart place in Elizabeth, John Serkels, a German, was crushed by the sudden collapse of the tree, which fell the wrong way from what he anticipated. His leg was badly fractured and he was also hurt internally. The injured man is 45 years old and is married, and was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital.

COURTEOUS PICKPOCKET RETURNS PLUCKED WALLET

INTERESTING AND ILLUMINATING EXPERIENCE OF A NETHERWOOD MAN.

Whatever there may be of honor among thieves, the craft has some glimmerings of courtesy and consideration. This is illustrated by the experience of A. J. Beal, of Netherwood.

On Thanksgiving Day, in New York, Mr. Beal's pocket was very neatly picked, the operator getting away with a flat wallet. In the wallet was $10 in money, a commutation ticket and some cards with Mr. Beal's address. Mr. Beal, knowing nothing of the many sides to the grafter's nature, regarded the incident as closed, put another wallet into commission and got a new commutation ticket.

Saturday morning his mail contained a flat package. Is there any need to say that the package contained the lost wallet? No, the money was not in it, but the commutation ticket and the cards were. This pickpocket is a real person and not a character in fiction. He took the wallet to get the money and not for a gallery play. He returned the wallet, not because he was conscience stricken, but because he was courteous. Mr. Beal says he has no hard feelings against that thief. It is worth $10, he feels, to learn that the similarity between pickpockets and insurance presidents extends even to the practice of social amenities.

DOCTOR MAY SAVE MR. NASH'S EYESIGHT

SULPHURIC ACID VICTIM SUFFERING INTENSE PAIN.

Justice V. W. Nash, who was terribly burned Monday by sulphuric acid used in a fire extinguisher, while visiting fire headquarters, in company with friends, is suffering intensely today and is unable to see anything from either eye. It will be some days before Dr. Ard, the attending physician, will be able to determine whether the eyesight will be permanently injured or not.

Justice Nash, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William Dyos, of Cold Spring, N. Y., went to fire headquarters at noon Monday to see the horses come up to the apparatus. While waiting for the sound of the 12 o'clock gong, the party was being shown about the house. Captain William Townley was about to show and explain how a hand extinguisher is used, when the bottle fell out of the holder on the floor.

The acid struck Mr. Nash in the face, terribly burning the flesh and the eyes. Mrs. Dyos, who stood nearby, had her dress ruined, but her eyes were saved by a pair of glasses which she wore.

Dr. Albert Pittis was summoned at once and temporarily treated Justice Nash's injuries, after which he was removed to Dr. Ard's office on Park avenue. Upon the advice of the physician he was taken home, where he is now under Dr. Ard's treatment.

BOYS STONE A TRAIN.

Lads Dressed as Indians Caught by Central Railroad Detectives.

A number of small boys dressed as Indians with feathers in their hats and red ink upon their faces, for war paint, were playing Wild West Saturday in the vicinity of Lincoln avenue, near Garwood, two of the boys in the party having pop guns. After shooting at birds and breaking the windows in a number of dwellings the youngsters turned their attention to the passenger trains on the Central Railroad. Several trains were stoned with little damage, beyond the indentions made in the side of the cars by the missiles.

As the game progressed, the boys became bolder, and took up a position on the bank beside the railroad tracks. Soon a passenger train came along, west bound, and the would-be Indians showered a fusillade of stones at the windows of the cars. Several panes of glass were broken and a number of passengers narrowly escaped serious injury. The train crew reported the matter to headquarters at Jersey City, and detectives were sent to Cranford on the case.

They had no difficulty in locating the guilty parties, but owing to their youth no arrests were made. The boys were given a good talking to by the detectives and were penitent. Their parents were warned against allowing their boys to participate in a recurrence of the incident.

Voting Machine Got Busy.

The voting machine in the west district of Chester township, near Moorestown, which registered ninety-two more votes for township committee than the total number cast, was opened Saturday afternoon by Charles O. Fuller, representing the Voting Machine Commission. The machine was carefully examined and tested, but it failed to cut any such capers as shown by the result of the voting on election day, and it is generally conceded that the machine must have been incorrectly set.

DR. VAN DE WATER AT GRACE CHURCH

NEW YORK PREACHER SAYS CONSOLATION IS TO BE FOUND IN THE BIBLE.

"My Word Shall Not Pass Away," was the subject of an interesting sermon preached at Grace church, Sunday, by Rev. G. R. Van De Water, of New York. The well-known preacher gave an earnest and helpful exposition of the value of the Scriptures, which, he said were being studied more scientifically today than ever.

"There has been revision, but never has the Bible been so highly esteemed as today," said the preacher. "During the past year there have been many 'finds,' but everything certifies to the truth of the Bible and it has stood the test of time.

"Ask the wisest man you know to write a book of Proverbs and see what a mess he will make of it. The Bible has been and is an encouragement to the oppressed and bereaved and it will always be a help and source of strength. It is said that the Bible is read less today than formerly, but it should be remembered that the Sunday-schools, colleges and universities and a multitude of people are studiously reading the Scriptures. It is the 'Book of all Books' and no library is complete without it. It may contain some chronological errors, but that is nothing serious. Until something better is offered Genesis will still continue to illustrate the story of original sin and the doctrine of the Resurrection, one of the most important, and which was good enough for our Lord will still be a blessing and comfort.

"Some parts of the Bible are more important than others, but it is all a divine inspiration and if you read it you will hear God speaking to you. Follow its injunctions and absorb its teachings. When man sinned God provided a remedy. Live up to the best of God's teachings and living will be divine. That dear old Book holds its own in the world, proving itself a message from Heaven. In the best sense it is the Word of God. It is prescious, life giving. Make it your daily food. Life is too short to spend it in contention. If divine consolation is to be found anywhere it is in the Bible.

"God helps everyone to search the Scriptures. It has been kissed by many a dying man, and embraced by many a brave soldier on the battlefield, and it will be a source of help and comfort to all who will study it."

UNVEIL A CANNON.

Strasburg Piece Placed on Court House Lawn.

Impressive as well as instructive were the services Saturday upon the occasion of the unveiling of the old Strasburg gun on the Court House green by prominent citizens of Elizabeth. The Supreme Court room in the building, where the ceremonies were held, was filled with Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, and a big crowd braved the elements when the flag covering the cannon was removed by James C. Ogden.

The address of the afternoon, delivered eloquently and with a strong, clear voice by General J. Madison Drake, who, as the commander of the Veteran Zouaves, has had the gun in his care for many years, reviewed the history of the gun as far back as it is recorded on history's pages. This address followed a programme arranged by Surrogate George T. Parrot, vice president of the Sons of the Revolution.

Architects Protest.

The New Jersey Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, at its regular meeting held in Newark on Thursday, criticised the methods about to be employed by the Board of Education of that city to procure plans for a new Technical High School. It has prepared a statement, in which it urges the board to abandon its scheme for a so-called open competition in favor of a limited competition, of the kind employed by the Essex County Court House Commission.

Celebrated Their Silver Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Rawson, of Bloomfield, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home in Williamson avenue, Saturday night. Nearly 500 guests from all parts of the State and Manhattan were present. Mr. Rawson is one of the best known volunteer firemen in New Jersey and is a member of the Essex County Republican Committee. The couple received many beautiful gifts.

Cockran Elected.

W. Bourke Cockran has been elected grand sachem of the Tammany Society to succeed Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman, who resigned last June. The election took place at a special meeting of the society, which was attended by John Fox, Timothy D. Sullivan, Col. Asa Bird Gardiner, George W. Plunkitt, Daniel F. McMahon, Randolph Guggenheimer, Thomas J. Dunn and Louis Haffen.

Returns from Lecture Trip.

Miss Florence Howe Hall has returned from Washington, D. C., where she gave a course of three lectures at the National Seminary at Forest Glen, Md. Two were on women and social customs, and one "Personal Reminiscences of Distinguished People."

MAYOR RESCUES A BOY

N. B. Smalley Stops a Runaway at the Risk of His Own Life.

SPRANG AT ITS NECK

Dragged for Some Distance But Saves Scared Boy From Probable Injury—Cool-headed Executive.

At the risk of personal injury, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, seated in his own runabout, followed up a runaway horse in the borough Tuesday and directed a terrified boy driving how to guide the animal until the executive could stop it. The horse belongs to C. L. Stanley, the North avenue florist, and took fright on Watchung avenue, starting at full speed along that thoroughfare.

The ever-ready Mayor was a witness to its bolting and whipping up his own horse started in pursuit. The Smalley brothers have always been noted for keeping animals that could reel off a mile with the best of them and the one in the chase is no exception to the rule. It soon pulled along side the Stanley rig and the Mayor was enabled to tell the young man driving what to do. Acting on this advice the runaway was turned into Mountain avenue, which is wide and at that time was practically free from vehicles. The Mayor then pulled ahead and jumping from his own rig awaited the coming of the frightened animal.

With a well planned spring he jumped from its head and got a firm hold. He was dragged for a considerable distance but clung on and in the end brought the horse to a walk. The rig had sustained no damage of any kind and the boy driving was all right beyond a scare. He started back for town after the Mayor, who can stop runaways as well as win elections and wield the municipal gavel, had given him some instructions on the proper handling of the reins when your horse tried to get away.

DIED.

KULLY—On Tuesday, December 5, 1905, Laura Elizabeth, daughter of Ellen and the late John H. Kully.

PARSON—In this city, Friday, December 8, 1905, Helen Parson, wife of Andrew Parson, aged 30 years.

KELLY—At Plainfield, N. J., Monday, December 11, James R. F. Kelly, aged 61 years.

McNEE—In this city, December 7, 1905, Elizabeth, daughter of James and Libbie McNee, aged 9 years, 10 months and 24 days.

NISCHWITZ—On Thursday, December 7, 1905, Agnes Tingley, wife of C. Frank Nischwitz, in her 30th year.

STAFFORD—On Friday, December 8, 1905, Annie, wife of John T. Stafford, aged 67 years, 3 months, 14 days.

DRAKE—On Wednesday, December 6, 1905, Sarah C., widow of Jesse Drake, in her 81st year.

MERRITT—On Wednesday, December 6, 1905, James Merritt, in his 85th year.

McDOUGALL—At South Plainfield, December 6, 1905, Mrs. Virginia A. McDougall, widow of Thomas McDougall, aged 66 years.

GREVE—In this city, December 6, 1905, Fredricka, wife of Nils Greve, aged 30 years.

MOORE—On Wednesday, December 6, 1905, Eugene Moore, aged 67 years.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

TO FRANK C. COOK.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Asa F. Randolph is complainant and you and James Armstrong, Mrs. James Armstrong and Frank M. Bacon are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant on or before the twenty-second day of December next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The names of all the defendants therein are you, the said Frank C. Cook and the said James Armstrong, Mrs. James Armstrong and Frank M. Bacon.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by you the said Frank C. Cook to one Isaac W. Rushmore, dated June 4, 1904, on lands in the city of Plainfield, county of Union and State of New Jersey, and you the said Frank C. Cook are made a party defendant because it is alleged in complainant's bill that you may claim some interest or title in said mortgaged premises or some portion thereof, or in the mortgage moneys or some part thereof.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM M. STILLMAN,
111 West Front Street,
Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dated October 23, 1905. c 30 28 4 oaw
Fees $5.25

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 113 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Park Av

Plainfield, N J

EGYPT THEN AND NOW

Land of the Pharoahs Vividly Portrayed by Charles W. McCutchen.

A TRIP UP THE NILE

Silent Marks of Former Greatness—The Temples and the Peoples of That Ancient Country.

Before the members of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church and many others, Charles W. McCutchen, on Thursday night, delivered an entertaining talk on a trip "Up the Nile." Owing to lack of space it was impossible to reproduce any extended account of his lecture, and for that reason the main part of the speech is given herewith:

"The first impression a Plainfielder would get as he journeyed through Egypt and up the Nile is that he was in the presence of that which is old, and after coming from such a new place as Plainfield to such ancient surroundings as are found on every side in Egypt, the contrast becomes unusually strong; and as you dwell a few weeks in Egypt you come 'under the spell of the old;' you feel the charm of antiquity and become profoundly interested, and before you are aware of it you have committed yourself to come back and dig for tombs, temples and ruins that lie hidden under sand on both sides of the Nile.

"Egypt has an area of about 400,000 square miles, most of which is irreclaimable desert; on the left bank coming down the Nile is the Lybian Desert and on the right is the great Arabian Desert, which stretches out like the sea. In the centre runs this marvelous river, and when one has been 1,000 miles up the Nile, we cease to wonder that the ancients worshipped it. It is shallow, broad and sluggish most of the time, but not green. Nile green can be found at McCreery's, but you cannot find it in Egypt. That river furnishes all the wealth, fertility and has been the foundation of all the glory of Egypt, so it became a saying that 'Egypt was the Nile, and the Nile was Egypt.' The white and the blue Nile join at Lakes Victoria and Albert Nyanza, near Khartoum, the scene of the great tragedy where Gen. Gordon gave up his life for the poor Sandanese on account of the indifference and a blunder of the English Government. The blue or black Nile carries with it a deposit of rich alluvial soil, which it spreads out on both banks in strips varying from five-eighths to fourteen miles in width, which produce the wealth of Egypt. Just think of it: over 400,000 square miles of country and yet only 10,500 square miles is tillable.

"The population of Egypt is about 10,000,000 people, most of whom are native Egyptians, 'Nilocks,' as they are called, or Arabs, and only 112,000 others, a large number of whom are Greeks, Russians, Austrians, Germans, French and English, and last census there were about 200 Americans, most of whom were missionaries.

"Egypt was like Athens, and I think if St. Paul had gone to Egypt instead of Athens, he would have said the very same thing, 'I perceive you are very religious.' Of the ten millions, ninety per cent. are Mohammedans, and about 800,000 Christians. Of these Christians, about 650,000 are Copts. The legend is that St. Mark went to Alexandria and selected twelve patriarchs, and they administered the Christian religion, which spread as far as Khartoum. We met the patriarch of the Coptic church, who was nearly ninety-three years old. He landed close to our dahbeea and was received with great ceremony. The Copts have been greatly persecuted by the Mohammedans. The Roman Catholics are represented there; also the Church of England and the Presbyterians in large numbers.

"These pictures were taken by members of my family and I bossed the job, and the most enthusiastic photographer and profound Egyptologist is my small son, Bronson, who will do something in throwing the pictures on the screen. On arriving at Alexandria one is strongly impressed that the people have not changed their nightgowns for ordinary street dress. Alexandria is the chief commercial city and some one has described it as being the Liverpool of Egypt. There are twenty regular lines of steamers carrying the produce of Egypt to all parts of the world. You are practically in an European city when you arrive in Alexandria, which was 1,200 years old when Cairo was founded.

"Ismail Pasha, that great spendthrift, who had so many qualities of the able and astute sovereign, the man who got Egypt involved in inextricable debt and after skilfully bringing about the completion of the Suez Canal, spent $20,000,000 of the poor Egyptians' money in building a palace for himself and his guests at the inauguration of the Suez Canal. The principal guest at the palace at the inaugural was the Empress Eugenie. This palace is now a hotel, and we occupied one of the suites occupied by the Empress Eugenie at the Gazeera Palace. The Mohammedans oblige the Copts to wear blue, as a badge of inferiority, while an Arab wears either a black or white gown.

"The old citadel, Cairo, was built by Saladin in 1136, and has been the scene of many an enterprise, good, bad and indifferent, on the part of the rulers. In the neighborhood of the Shepherd's Hotel, Mohammed Ali had massacred 800 Mamalukes. The mosque of Mohammed Ali is remarkable for its carpets and most exquisite rugs, which are great in size and deep in color. The mosque of Hassan Pasha is considered by many to be more beautiful than the mosque of St. Sophia at Constantinople. Cairo's population is between 570,000 and 600,000.

"She is about 110 feet long and 18 feet across and draws less than two feet of water. The light draught is necessary owing to the Nile being so shallow. We found her a most comfortable houseboat and her crew consisted of seventeen. We had to have a cook, an assistant cook, a waiter and a waiter to assist him and a valet dijon. Our party consisted of twenty-two or twenty-three all told.

"There are two great personages who have impressed themselves on Egypt; one is Moses and the other Ramses II. the Great, who never lost an opportunity to put up a statue or portrait of himself. If he had lived in these days, I think his name would have been Chauncey Depew. The "step" pyramid is older than the pyramid of Cheops, which was erected 4,000 years before Christ.

"The chief pleasure an Egyptian takes is in visiting the tombs or cemetery. You frequently see a little "gyassa" (work boat) crossing the river with a party, who take with them their day's provender and visit the tombs. There they enjoy themselves, thinking, I suppose, how pleasant it is to be dead.

"On the columns of the temples of Abidus and also on the seventy-two columns of the temple at Luxor, there are large numbers of bas-reliefs of Phtha and hieroglyphics, which have been reduced to record and go to complete the history of all these centuries. The breaks and disfigurements in the walls were made by Cambyses, who hated the Egyptian religion.

"The Egyptians are very musical; they cannot get along without music. All our crew were singers, and gave us a concert almost every evening. They could not work without singing. When they furled a sail, whenever the boat 'went about,' they would use some weird, strange intonation, as it were. We had to have and paid one man who was precentor for the crew. (The sailors call them 'shanty-men.') He was perhaps the best singer on the Nile. He would lead the solo with his fine tenor voice and the crew would join in the chorus. People would stop their camel trains in order to hear him sing, and applauded him enthusiastically.

"The temple of Luxor is on the site of the ancient city of Thebes, 450 miles up the river from Cairo. It is of great antiquity. It bears the marks of not only the original king who erected it, but of his successors who added to it. A king would establish a temple to commemorate himself, and as years passed by it would be restored and repaired and beautified by his successors. This temple has seventy-two columns fifty feet high and eleven feet in diameter, with the Lotos buds closed. Ramses erected these columns, and on each one of the Lotos leaves that appear on the top is a portrait of himself. Only a few years ago the rubbish in which this temple was buried was cleared away, and Lady Duff Gordon had her house on the top of the ruins of this temple. At its entrance there are two massive black granite portraits of Ramses II. in sitting posture. All of the obelisks were taken from the quarries at Assouan.

"A mile and a half from the temple of Luxor is the temple of Kamak, which was originally connected with the temple of Luxor by an avenue, and on each side of the road, facing the centre, was a line of Sphinxes to guard the passageway from one temple to the other. Thebes was on both sides of the river, which ran directly through it.

"The Collosi of Memnon were built by Amonocus III. about 1600 B. C. There has been a good deal of confusion about names. They were named after kings who built them, Amon, instead of Agamemnon. Ramses III. built the temple of Mednia in the form of a palace. It is an imitation of Assyrian architecture and it is said many of the kings lived in palaces attached to various temples. There are various hieroglyphic inscriptions, one of which depicts a couple of men playing chess. Ramses, the Greek, erected a temple to commemorate himself, and he is supposed to be the king who oppressed the Hebrews. Directly opposite Thebes is the Valley of the Tombs of the Kings. We counted forty or forty-two tombs. We went into the tomb of Ramses III. I think it was 500 feet in extent under the mountain. In these tombs are inscriptions and mural decorations, well preserved paintings which depict the history of the dead, and their expectations to the life beyond. Sometimes we see him making obeisance and sacrifices to his god; and sometimes we see the soul of the king appearing before his judges, and a scale, in which his soul is being weighed, on one side, and the good things he has done, and his sins, in the other side of the balance. This is of great interest of archaeologists. We met a Mr. Davis, of Newport. If anyone reads the Century Magazine, you will see his very interesting discovery of sarcophagi, mummy cases and various implements. The temple of Queen Hatasu, daughter of Thotmes I., sister of Thotmes II., and co-ruler with Thotmes III. She was a wonderful woman and this temple was erected by her. It is one of the most interesting temples at Luxor.

Quarries of Assouan.

"All the obelisks and statues came from this quarry, as also the stones for the great dam at the first cataract. We discovered an obelisk of one piece nearly ninety feet long, carved from the solid rock, but not as yet separated from the rock itself. It was covered with sand. These monoliths were cut loose and carried to wherever they were to be set up, and it is simply a marvel how it was ever done. At Assouan also are the tombs of men of renown, wealth and position, but not of kings, and upon the walls of these tombs are inscribed in bas-relief and colors the history of the men and what they did.

"The Great Dam of the First Cataract is a wonderful piece of engineering, undertaken by the English, whereby the waters of the Nile are stored up, so that when the river is too low the water can be distributed to the country below and be irrigated and by this means the fertility along the banks of the Nile can be increased. The locks are about thirty-two feet wide and 100 feet long, up to date in every respect, and the perfect machinery for opening and closing the gates can hardly be conceived. The dam is one and one-half miles long and runs across the river about six miles above Assouan. This place was selected on account of the location of the granite quarries. The masonry is of solid granite, eighty-two feet thick at the base and twenty-three feet wide at the top, on which is a driveway sufficient for two or three teams abreast. There are 160 sluice gates and the head of water is sixty-five feet, and over a billion tons of water can be stored up behind this dam. It is estimated it will increase the fertility and aggregate yield twenty per cent., so that there will be one-fifth more yield for the fellaheen farmers. It cost about thirteen millions and yields about $1,500,000 per annum."

FAIR OF MISSION CLUB.

Congregational Young Women Conduct a Successful Sale.

The Girls' Mission Club of the Congregational church, West Seventh street, held a successful Christmas sale in the church parlors last night. The booths and tables were prettily decorated, and the attendance was large.

The attendants were as follows: Candy, Miss Marjory Phillips, Miss Maud Emmons and Miss Carrie Fuller; fancy goods, Miss Ethel McIntosh, Miss Edith Bentley, Miss Jennie clintosh, Miss Eleanor Bold, and Miss Ethel Bowman; ice cream Miss Myra Emmons, Miss Edith Robinson, and Miss Marion Winant; cake, Miss Ethel Van Zandt, Miss Laura Baker, and Miss Lillian Whitall.

The visitors at the fair were entertained by phonograph selections, presented under the direction of William Briggs.

PROF. SHEARER HONORED.

Some of His Ideas to be Adopted in New York Schools.

Superintendent of Schools William J. Shearer, of Elizabeth, made an address at a meeting of the school teachers of the Borough of Manhattan, yesterday. The meeting was called for the purpose of learning something of the system introduced at Elizabeth by Mr. Shearer.

The New York teachers were much impressed with the excellence of Mr. Shearer's ides, and it is belived that his system will be adopted not only in Manhattan Borough, but Brooklyn as well. Andrew W. Epson, superintendent of the Public Schools of Manhattan, presided at the meeting yesterday.

RELIEF CORPS' OFFICERS.

Winfield Scott Post Auxiliary Holds Annual Meeting.

Winfield Scott Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, No. 72, G. A. R., met Friday and elected these officers for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. John Manley; senior vice president, Mrs. Charles Westphal; junior vice president, Mrs. Sarah Mattox; treasurer, Mrs. Caspar Bolsterll; chaplain, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins; conductor, Mrs. Sadie Baglin; guard, Mrs. John R. Naylor; delegate-at-large to department encampment, Mrs. Frederick Wenzel; first delegate, Mrs. V. W. Nash; second delegate, Mrs. Mary Smalley; first alternate delegate, Mrs. Harry Gibbons; second alternate delegate, Miss Devine; third alternate delegate, Miss May E. Howlett.

The other officers, appointive, will be announced at the installation, the first meeting in January. After the election the rest of the evening was spent in a social way. There were remarks by the various members and Mrs. Harry Gibbons gave a reading, "The Turkish Bath."

"Santa Claus in Japan."

The children of the Monroe Avenue M. E. Sunday school and the Junior Epworth League are preparing to give a Christmas entertainment in the church on Thursday night, December 28. The cantata "Santa Claus in Japan" will be presented.

MR. KEAN INTRODUCES P. O. BUILDING BILL

Asks Congress For $100,000 Appropriation For Federal Structure.

TEXT OF MEASURE

Bill Presented a Year Ago Died in Committe But Senator Determined to be Successful This Time.

United States Senator John Kean introduced a bill in Congress Thursday for a Federal building for Plainfield. The cost of the land and structure must not exceed $100,000, according to the provisions of the measure read to the Senate.

On March 25, 1904, Senator Kean introduced a similar bill. After being read twice it was referred to the committee on buildings and grounds of the Senate. Soon afterwards it was announced that a policy of retrenchment had been decided upon in postoffice department appropriations. As a result the bill died in committee.

Along the same lines as the bill for a postoffice building here, Senator Kean also fathered one for Elizabeth. The Federal building there is to cost $250,000, and it is likely that more than $100,000 will be needed for the proposed structure here.

The full text of Senator Kean's bill follows:

"A bill for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon in the city of Plainfield, New Jersey.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to acquire, by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, a site and cause to be erected thereon a suitable building, including fireproof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, and approaches, for the use and accommodation of the United States postoffice and other governmental offices in the city of Plainfield and State of New Jersey, the cost of said site and building, including said vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, and approaches, not to exceed the sum of one hundred thousand dollars.

"Proposals for the sale of land suitable for said site shall be invited by public advertisement in one or more of the newspapers of said city of largest circulation for at least twenty days prior to the date specified in said advertisement for the opening of said proposals.

"Proposals made in response to said advertisement shall be addressed and mailed to the Secretary of Treasury, who shall then cause the said proposed sites, and such others as he may think proper to designate, to be examined in person by an agent of the Treasury Department, who shall make written report to said Secretary of the results of said examination and of his recommendation thereon, and the reasons therefor, which shall be accompanied by the original proposals and all maps, plats, and statements which shall have come into his possession relating to the said proposed sites.

"If, upon consideration of said report and accompanying papers, the Secretary of Treasury shall deem further investigation necessary, he may appoint a commission of not more than three persons, one of whom shall be an officer of the Treasury Department, which commission shall also examine the said proposed sites, and such others as the Secretary of the Treasury may designate, and grant such hearings in relation thereto as they shall deem necessary; and said commission shall within thirty days after such examination make to the Secretary of the Treasury written report of their conclusion in the premises, accompanied by all statements, maps, plats, or documents taken by or submitted to them, in like manner as hereinbefore provided in regard to the proceedings of said agent of the Treasury Department; and the Secretary of the Treasury shall thereupon finally determine the location of the building to be erected.

"The compensation of said commissioners shall be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury, but the same shall not exceed six dollars per day and actual traveling expenses: Provided, however, That the member of said commission appointed from the Treasury Department shall be paid only his actual traveling expenses.

"The building shall be unexposed to danger from fire by an open space of at least forty feet on each side, including streets and alleys."

Fire on the Fleischmann Estate.

The coach barn and other outbuildings on the estate of Uda Fleischmann in Millstone were destroyed by fire Thursday morning. A defective flue in the barn is said to have started the blaze. The horses and carriages were saved. The loss is $15,000.

NESTOR OF BAR HONORED

Eminent Lawyers of Two States Gather at Parker Dinner.

MEMORABLE OCCASION

Chancellor Magie and Ex-Ambassador Joseph H. Choate Pay Venerable Pleader Great Tribute.

Eminent members of the New Jersey and New York bars gathered at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Friday, to honor the venerable Cortlandt Parker, of Newark, dean of the New Jersey lawyers, with a dinner. The affair marked the completion of his sixty-sixth year as a practicing lawyer.

It was in every way a memorable event in the legal world. Covers for 199 were laid, and the diners included the men who rank highest in the two states as lawyers and intellectual giants. Probably never before have so many great lawyers of New York and New Jersey gathered for such an event. The dinner was gotten up by the bench and bar of this State, through a committee of twelve well known judges and counsellors. Among the committeemen was Craig A. Marsh, of this city, who, of course, attended the dinner. It was, in effect, a public farewell to Mr. Parker as a lawyer; he himself seemed to regard it as such in his speech.

Attorney General McCarter was toastmaster. The speakers were Chancellor Magie, Supreme Court Judge Dixon, Joseph H. Choate, E. S. Savage, John E. Parsons, W. H. Hornblower, Vice Chancellor Pitney, and Francis Rawle, of Philadelphia.

When the toastmaster introduced Mr. Parker legal dignity was cast under the table, and the room rang and rang again with cheers. The guest of honor was plainly moved, and it was some minutes before he gained control of his voice.

Mr. Parker began his speech by saying he had never held office, having been all his life "only a lawyer." He spoke of the changes materialism had brought about and added: "We have a new word very lately introduced, its original and etymological meaning perfectly obscure, but which characters a peculiar iniquity. The word is 'graft.' What concealed perfidy does it not denote, and how universal? Some of its illustrations are very old. Legislatures have long been elected with contributions, the consideration of which is votes for candidates for the United States senate, and this system has been increasing in expense so much that elections have often cost, it is said, many thousands of dollars.

"I believe that the bar of New Jersey as a body—and I know of no other bar—is clean. As to its judges, no one has ever to my knowledge whispered a word against the innocence of any judge of any court in New Jersey, and woe to the man—candidate for any such post—who would offer money for the nomination.

"A crime of any sort seldom escapes and our State prosecution is not overwrought, either."

Mr. Parker declared that the jurisprudence of New Jersey, in his opinion, was superior to that of any other State, and because it adhered more closely to the forms of the old common law.

Joseph H. Choate eulogized Mr. Parker, and said:

"We honor Mr. Parker also for his splendid professional career. In his career there is no flaw, no stain, nothing but unsullied purity and honor from beginning to end. His character has been pure."

When Mr. Choate sat down Mr. Parker arose and went over to him with tears in his eyes to shake his hand. The two men arose and then the entire assemblage got up and joined in felicitations.

Chancellor Magie also paid a great tribute to Mr. Parker. After extolling the legal ability and profound learning of the guest of honor, the chancellor added that whatever measure of success he had won was due more largely to the influence and counsel of Mr. Parker than to any other factor.

The dinner souvenirs were very odd. They were in the form of exact reproductions of a volume of Blackstone, in miniature, in which the ice cream was served.

AFTER PATENT MEDICINES.

Whiskey Tax Ordered on Various "Compounds."

John W. Yerkes, commissioner of internal revenue, has issued a circular commanding his deputies to collect from all druggists and storekeepers special whiskei tax on the following patent medicines: Atwood's La Grippe Specific, Cuban Gingerie, De Witt's Stomach Bitters, Du Bouvier's Meat and Malt, Duffy's Malt Whiskey, Gilbert's Rejuvenating Iron and Herb Juice, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, Kudros, Peruna, Rockcandy Cough Cure.

This action of the commissioner will be followed later by another list of patent medicines suspected of containing alcohol, and its in pursuance of a circular to all collectors of internal revenue.

WIGHTMAN IN DISFAVOR

His Conduct as Head of Altoona Schools Denounced at Institute.

CAUSES OF TROUBLE

In Their Allegations Pedagogues Assert His Rules Are Almost Inhuman—Was Signed Last Spring.

Assembled at their annual institute, several hundred school teachers of Altoona, Pa., and vicinity, Friday openly denounced the methods of Homer J. Wightman, head of the Altoona schools and former principal in North Plainfield. Resolutions were passed objecting to his almost inhuman rules, as was alleged, and today the entire teaching force of the city is in open revolt. The institute is still in session and it is thought the school commissioners will be called upon to remove him from office.

Mr. Wightman has been at Altoona only since September, having moved from the borough but a few days before the term began. He was greatly liked by the city officials, but almost from the start the faculties of the various schools objected to his innovations and general conduct. At the meeting yesterday the matter was taken up and the following complaints were made:

"First—That his general manner is haughty and obnoxious and not calculated to promote harmony between himself and teachers for the betterment of the schools.

"Second—That he is too strict a disciplinarian and that some of his rules practically amount to physical torture for those beneath him; one instance being that he will not allow chairs in the class rooms and the teachers are compelled to stand all day, sometimes causing the younger women to drop from exhaustion.

"Third—That all his orders are given in an overbearing way and, as a rule, seemingly with the intent of humiliating his subordinates; also that he wants all refractory pupils referred to him for punishment when frequently he is not at all familiar with facts as are teachers and principals."

The complaints are the talk of Altoona and surrounding districts today, although they did not come as a surprise. The teachers who have been in contact with Mr. Wightman have frequently made complaints, and when the institute assembled yesterday it was practically known that some form of protest would be made.

Altoona is a city of about 50,000 inhabitants and its teaching force numbers 150. When Mr. Wightman resigned the North Plainfield principalship he gave it out that he had been appointed superintendent of the Altoona schools and that his salary would be $6,000 yearly. While in the borough he was regarded as being rather strict, but there were no complaints against him and he did a great deal to improve the educational system.

FUNERAL OF B. M. DAY.

Services in New York and Interment Made at Hillside.

The funeral services of the late Benjamin M. Day, formerly a resident of this city, were held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock from the home, Graham Court, New York. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, where Mr. Day was an attendant, officiated. The interment was in Hillside cemetery, this city.

Mr. Day was the son of the late Rev. Mulford and Sarah Day, and was a resident of this city for a number of years, where he endeared himself to a large circle of friends. He is survived by his wife, who is the daughter of the late Judge Hanna, of Philadelphia; a son, Benjamin Day; two sisters, the Misses Rachel and Bessie Day, and a brother, a resident in the West.

Fault of a Driver.

One of the U. S. Express Company horses attached to a truck started to run away from the express delivery platform near the station last night, and narrowly run down a young man on a bicycle who was passing through North avenue at the time. These horses are seldom if ever tied while standing near the station, and while left alone they frequently make an attempt to get away. North avenue being a busy thoroughfare at train time, there is more or less danger from accident by the driving in and out of the express wagons.

Freeholders Receive Report.

County Road Inspector James W. Fink presented his report at the December meeting of the Board of Freeholders Thursday. It showed that during the year the cost of repairing roads amounted to $18,029.27. The new board will meet at the usual time in May for reorganization, when it is expected that Benjamin King, who is now filling the late Director Hubbard's unexpired term, will be chosen for the coming year. Contrary to the usual thing, not a single application was received at the meeting for the building or repair of any bridge in the county.

Mrs. Edward Long, of Bound Brook, is visiting relatives in Plainfield for a time.

CITY FLAG POLE GOES

Council Decrees No More Will Old Glory Wave at Head of Park Avenue.

SOME COMMUNICATIONS

Petition for Return of Police Commissioners' Bonds Granted—Street Work Contract Provisions Changed.

All that remains of the city flagpole is to be removed. This action was decided upon at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last Friday. Mr. Tolles, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the pole had been examined by an expert and declared to be unsafe. On his motion the committee was authorized to take it down and make such disposition of it as was thought best.

Mr. Hibbard asked Mr. Tolles what disposition the committee proposed to make of the pole, and in reply the chairman of the finance committee said that it could be cut off and spliced and made of some use at one of the public schools, if so desired, but it was thought unwise to rest it at its present place.

The Board of Education, through Clerk F. E. Clark, acknowledged the receipt of a petition from the Common Council presented by residents of the West End asking for a public school building on or near West Front street and Clinton avenue, and that the matter would be attended to as soon as possible. The communication stated that with the opening of the new High School building changes would be made tending to relieve the overcrowded condition in the schools, but it was recognized that another school would be a necessity in the near future.

A communication was received from Mrs. Eugene A. Gross, of West Seventh street, asking that the proper grading be established on West Fourth street, near McDowell street, so that in heavy rains water would not overflow property owned by her. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Mr. Tyler reported back the petition of Charles A. Reed, Esq., asking for the return of the former police commissioners' bonds for cancellation, and he recommended, on the advice of Corporation Counsel Marsh, that the request be granted. The petition acknowledged the unconstitutionality of the act under which the commission was appointed by the Mayor and desired the return of the bonds given after the appointment, so that the matter may be set right with the sureties. The bonds were ordered returned through the adoption of a resolution suggested by Mr. Reed.

Mr. Tyler also reported back the police bills held up at the last meeting of the Common Council for the services of a patrolman appointed by the former police commission. Since that time the bills were signed by Chief Kiely and presented in the regular way. The bills were referred to the auditing committee on Mr. Tyler's motion and later ordered paid.

Mr. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, offered a resolution, which was adopted, allowing C. M. Meeker, who holds contracts for macadamizing certain streets, to use trap rock in his work on Monrroe avenue, instead of slag. At present there seems to be a scarcity of slag, and by allowing Mr. Meeker to use stone the contract can be completed at an earlier date. It was Mr. Meeker's complaint in the first place that he was unable to secure slag to complete the job, and maintained that this caused a delay in the work on Monroe avenue. The substitution of stone for slag will make just as good a roadbed and will last as long as though slag was used.

LOUIS A. KLINE DEAD.

Former Well-known Plainfielder Passes Away in Boston.

Louis A. Kline, a resident of Craig place, the borough, several years ago, died at his home in Boston, Mass., on Thursday. He had been ill about two months with a form of paralysis. The remains were brought here and interred in the Bound Brook cemetery.

Mr. Kline had been a resident of Boston about twelve years. Prior to that time he was engaged here in the manufacture of extracts and corn cure, having built up a good business. He was fifty-six years old and a native of New York.

Mr. Kline is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Alexander Willett, Mrs. Alburtus Swalm and Mrs. T. S. Armstrong, of the borough, and Mrs. J. H. Startup, of Middletown, N. Y.

Borough Real Estate Changes.

The following real estate sales have recently been made through the George F. Brown agency: Smalley & Apgar to Mrs. L. C. Ely, lot on Westervelt avenue; Mrs. Catherine Dunlap to Frank Mobus, three lots on Westervelt avenue; S. F. Chappell to George Schlereth, house on Manning avenue; Robert Barnes to James Fraser, house on Grove street; L. M. Codington to Frank Mobus, lot on Regent street; Smalley & Apgar to Philip Ackor, lot Westervelt avenue; Smalley & Apgar to Hiram P. Stewart, lot Westervelt avenue.

HELD UP CHURCH PLAY

Policeman Compels Mt. Zion Deacon to Pay $2 For License.

MAYOR ACTS PROMPTLY

Church Official Quickly Receives His Money Back When Executive Hears of the Case—Disapproves of Action.

The officials of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church are indignant over what they describe as a high handed action of the police. It is alleged that one of the officers, acting under instructions from Chief Kiely, compelled them, illegally and without any warrant, to pay a license fee for holding a church entertainment.

The entertainment took place at T. A. B. Hall Thursday night. It was in the form of a drama, in which amateurs from the church membership took part. None of the church officers had ever heard that an affair of the sort required the approval of the police department before it could be presented, so Chief Kiely's permission was not sought.

Shortly after the entertainment began Patrolman Messler entered the hall. He asked for the one in charge, and Deacon Edward Maynard saw him. Messler told the deacon that he wanted $2 for an entertainment license. Mr. Maynard alleges he said the affair could not go on until he received it. The deacon questioned the officer's right to demand the money.

"I am acting under the chief's instructions," Messler said.

Mr. Maynard paid the money rather than have the entertainment interfered with, but he went to Mayor Buckle yesterday and vigorously protested against the whole proceeding. The Mayor promptly returned the $2. The latter says the Mayor expressed his disapproval of the way in which the police acted.

"They had no right to proceed as they did," he is said to have informed Mr. Maynard.

Rev. Robert Walker Called.

Rev. Robert Walker, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, has received and accepted a call to become curate of Christ church, New Brunswick. He will enter upon his duties December 24. Since graduation he has been connected with the Episcopal Mission at Trenton. He was ordained on October 20 at the church of which he is now rector.

Will Build Auto Shop.

Sigmund Frucht, who purchased Dr. M. B. Long's property on Park avenue, is preparing plans for the erection of an automobile repair and storage building on the property. It will be one story high, 27x80 and will be built between the house and L. E. Hart's brick building. Mr. Frucht expects to have the building completed by February 1.

WE ALL HAVE TROUBLES.

There is no person who hasn't troubles.

No matter how smooth and calm a life may appear to a casual observer, rest assured if you come in close touch with that person you would find trouble in one form or another.

Troubles of the heart are the most common, and still the lover is a much misunderstood person and gets little sympathy from the cold, cold world.

This seems altogether strange, for at one time or another most persons have dabbled in love. This of itself should create a broad and deep sympathy.

A person, for instance, who has had the measles, chicken pox or dyspepsia is always willing to discuss all the various symptoms of these diseases.

But love, alas! is different.

One who has been through it, instead of being willing to discuss the symptoms with a fellow sufferer, is rather ashamed of having suffered.

It is such a selfish ailment that the sufferer is never interested in any case but his own, and a person once having recovered is apt to look at a fellow sufferer with a smile of kindly superiority.

So don't tell any of your troubles, but most particularly, unless you pine to be an object of ridicule and dislike, don't tell your sentimental woes.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

---

A large number of people from this city witnessed the minstrel show given by the S. T. Dramatic Club in the Westfield Club Hall for the benefit of the Children's Home. It was well staged and the performers were generously applauded. A big hit was made by William Bennett, of Newark, well known here, who gave his monologue, "The Boy With the Goods." Among the Plainfielders in the cast were Harry Hook, Will Kenyon, Luther Hampton and Donald Bechtle.

A Tour to Japan.

Mr. Honeyman's "Tour to Japan in the Cherry Blossom Season" is now fully planned and half of his party is made up. It includes some Plainfielders. It starts February 12, and is to occupy three and one-half months. Besides two days at Honolulu and a week in China, over a month will be spent in going through interior Japan. Itinerary may be procured at office of Honeyman's Private Tours, 181 North avenue.

NEW JERSEY'S MAYORS UNITE.

Their League in Fight for Equal Taxation.

In response to invitations sent out by Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, as President of the Mayors' League of New Jersey, a number of the chief magistrates of the cities of the State, including Westfield but not Plainfield, as well as members of the Legislature, met Thursday in the Mayor's office in the City Hall, Jersey City, for the purpose of discussing equal taxation and other remedial legislation. In order to define the position of the league Mayor Edward Kenny, of East Newark, presented these resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That this association favors the enactment of laws by the incoming Legislature as follows:

"1. A law providing for the taxation of railroad main-stem real estate at local rates.

"2. A law prohibiting any municipality from granting any public utility franchise for a longer period than twenty-five years in cities of the first class, with the privilege to other municipalities to make such grants for a period of not exceeding 35 years, if approved by a vote of the people.

"3. A law providing for the annual assessment of the franchises of public utility companies and the taxation thereof at local rates.

"4. A law repealing the Hillery tax law.

"5. That this association urge the members of the Legislature to use their influence toward the election of a Speaker pledged to favor the enactment of these laws.

"Resolved, That the Executive Committee be authorized to arrange for public meetings in aid of the cause of equal taxation at such times and places as it may be determined on."

The committee (all Mayors or Mayors-elect) appointed by Mayor Fagan is as follows: Edward Kenny, of East Newark; A. J. Lockwood, of Glen Ridge; August Goreche, Carlstadt; C. A. Reed, Morristown; W. Goldberg, Kearny, and Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, ex-officio.

WANT LOVE RECIPROCATED?

An ancient manuscript gives Casanova's following love charm:

"A young man desirous of inspiring love in a girl that looks upon his suit with indifference will surely succeed in his quest if he obeys the following tried and approved instructions:

"On a Friday morning, before sunrise, go into an orchard and pluck an apple, one of pale color if the girl is pale, one with red cheeks if your lady love is distinguished for such beauty. While in the act turn your face toward the east and say not a word ere it's accomplished, no matter how many people you run across. After securing the apple, cause a little blood to flow in the breast, nearest your heart, and with this lover's ink write your own and your girl's name on a piece of thin tissue paper. This should be made into a roll and wound with a rope made of hair from the head of your girl and your own. Three hairs entwined of each will suffice.

"Now divide the apple into two equal parts, remove the pits and place into the hollow the bit of paper with the names. Then close up the apple again with splinters cut from the wood of twigs of a myrtle bush. The myrtle, according to mythology, has been a symbol of love and marriage since time immemorial, and all lovers should give it high place in their estimation.

"Wait until full moon, and during the night, with the light shining upon the stove, bake the apple in the oven until it's dry and hard, pronouncing from time to time the name of the beloved one. The apple you must manage to place under your lady love's pillow before she goes to bed; a girl friend, sister or cousin, or perhaps a servant, will do as much for you. Such will be the consequences:

"During the first night the beloved one will be unable to sleep; heartaches, her little head is tortured by uncertainties, yet at intervals she will dream pleasant dreams with her eyes wide open.

"During the second night the girl will become cognizant of the fact that she is in love, that someone is thinking of her, wants her, wants no one else.

"And on the third night the god of love will tell the girl that you are the man whose soul is craving for her, that you will make her happy and that no one else can make her happy but you.

"The same methods may be employed by a girl, or woman, toward the male person she loves."

State Nurses' Association Election.

The New Jersey State Nurses' Association has just elected these officers: President, Mrs. d'Arcy Stevens, Orange; first vice president, Miss Mary F. Mason, Newark City Hospital; second vice president, Miss Laura MacHale, St. Joseph's Hospital, Paterson; secretary, Miss Emma Young, St. Barnabas' Hospital, Newark; treasurer, Miss Catherine Neafsy, Newark German Hospital.

Foreclosing a Mortgage.

Through her attorney, J. Henry Crane, Mrs. Olive J. Haviland Chesebro, of New Rochelle, N. Y., has filed a bill in chancery to foreclose a mortgage against the Ione E. Upson estate, of this city.

MONUMENT TO ENEMY WAS KILLED IN BATTLE

SLAB MARKS BRITISH SOLDIER'S GRAVE IN PLUCKEMIN.

The village of Pluckemin, which nestles among the hills of Somerset county, midway between Somerville and Bernardsville, has been the scene of many historical events. Christopher Eoff's tavern, in Revolutionary days, was a famous hostelry, and it was here that General Knox's division of Washington's army camped for the winter, and it was in the old academy in the village where the French ball, which celebrated the alliance with France, was held. Only a few of the landmarks, however, remain to recall those historic events.

The most interesting relic of the past is a small and very plain marble slab in the old burying ground, which marks the burial place of the gallant Captain Leslie, of the British army, who fell mortally wounded at the battle of Princeton. A small white Presbyterian church stands on one side of the burying ground, right along the main street, and just beyond is the chapel. It is between these two that the grave of the British officer lies.

Upon the monument is the following inscription:

In Memory of the Hon. Capt. William Leslie,
of the 17th British Regiment,
son of the Earl of Leven,
in Scotland.
He fell January 3d, 1777, aged
26 years, at the battle of Princeton.
His friend, Benj. Rush, M. D.,
of Philadelphia,
Hath caused this stone to be erected, as a mark of his esteem for his worth, and respect for his noble family.

Leslie was the son of the Earl of Leven, and was a captain in the Seventeenth Regiment of foot. He was of a military line, being descended from that old Earl of Leven who was a soldier under Gustavus, and who, at the battle of Marston Moor, boldly rode at the head of his Scotch covenanters to oppose the cavalier troopers massed by the thousands under the silken standard of Prince Rupert.

It is a singular circumstance that when Captain Leslie received his death wound so far from home and kindred there were two friends of his parents near at hand. The battle was fought almost within the shadows of a college, the president of which was John Witherspoon. He had been a Presbyterian minister at Paisley, a Scottish town not far from Milville House, the seat of the Earl of Leven.

Captain Leslie's mother was a devout Presbyterian, and she kept up a correspondence with Dr. Witherspoon even after he had been called to America. The other friend, who was close by when he fell, was Surgeon Benjamin Rush. He had obtained his medical education in Scotland, and while there became acquainted with the family of the Earl of Leven.

When the heat of the engagement at Princeton was over, Washington and his staff, while crossing some fallow ground, discovered a party of soldiers supporting an injured officer. Upon inquiring and learning his name and rank, Surgeon Rush, who was in the general's suite, thus addressed his chief: "I beg your excellency to permit this wounded officer to be placed under my care, that I may return, to however small a degree, a part of the obligations I owe to his worthy father for the many kindnesses received at his hands while I was a student at Edinburgh."

The request was granted, and Rush was quickly out of the saddle, and with the aid of an orderly placed Leslie in a farmers' wagon that was collecting the wounded. The young soldier at once received surgical treatment, and every care and attention was bestowed upon him. He was carried with the army as it retreated to the Millstone River and on through Somerset county to Pluckemin, which place was reached the following afternoon with the army in an exhausted condition. Captain Leslie died just as the wagon in which he and other wounded men was descending the hill below Chamber's Brook, on the outskirts of the village.

The next day was Sunday and the numerous visitors from the surrounding country who came to Pluckemin to head the news of the battle of Princeton and to see the commander-in-chief, were treated to an unexpected affair of ceremony. About midday a detachment of forty men from Rodney's regiment marched into the village and drew up in line, with its centre opposite the entrance to the building in which lay the dead body of Captain Leslie, probably Eoff's tavern. The young English officer was about to be buried with the honors of war, the light infantry being selected as escort because of their soldierly appearance and superior uniform.

The detachment was commanded by Captain Humphries. At the beat of muffled drum and wail of fife the men presented arms, as the body was borne from the house to the flank of the line. The escort then broke into columns of fours, and, reversing arms, marched in slow time and with solemn step to the Lutheran churchyard, where they filed to the left, forming in line opposite an open grave.

Dr. Rush was not the only mourner at that burial. Among the citizens and military clustering about the bier were the captured British officers whom Washington had generously permitted to be present in order that they might bid a final adieu to a comrade-in-arms who had been much beloved.

The grave was at first marked by Surgeon Rush with a brown headstone, with the foregoing inscription upon it. This stood for nearly sixty years. About the year 1835, Professor John D. Ogilby, of Rutgers College, when in Scotland, was requested by the then Earl of Leven to find and, if necessary, remark the grave. Upon the professor's return to America he went to Pluckemin, found the grave and set up the present stone, reproducing the original inscription.

Dr. Rush, soon after this incident, took his seat in Congress, which was then sitting at Baltimore. His figure soon after became a familiar one to Somerset people.

CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED.

Large Audience Pleased by Bright and Varied Programme.

The audience at the banjo and mandolin concert presented by William and Fred F. Van Eps and W. E. MacClymont at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last night had a delightful, if light and pre-digested, programme for their amusement. The numbers made an admirable mixture of humor and music. The humor was young and fresh enough to be enjoyed, and the music was "popular" in tone, and very popular, without quotations, with the audience. The latter was large.

Besides the Van Eps and Mr. MacClymont, Mrs. Minnie Marshal Smith, elocutionist, and W. W. Waters, humorist, appeared. Frank Hardman, banjoist, assisted, and in the opening number a banjo and mandolin orchestra of twenty played. The orchestra was made up of the following players:

Banjos, Lawrence Smith, Frank Hardman, Frank Embleton, Russell Runyon, J. C. Edgecumbe, William Briggs, W. C. Force, R. A. Osmun, Fred F. Van Eps; mandolins, Miss Maud Emmons, Miss Mertie Fedderman, Theodore Gavett, Chester Briggs, Martin Stuttsman, Monroe Long, John Martin, William Van Eps.

Waters and Mrs. Smith, both of whom are familiar to Plainfield audiences, scored successes that have become the usual thing for them here. Of the other artists, nothing need be said; the excellence of their playing is too well known to Plainfielders. The musical numbers included the orchestral selection, solo by the Van Eps', and trios by Mr. MacClymont and Mr. Hardman with the Van Eps'. They won insistent demands for encores.

Miss Marion Short was to have been the elocutionist, but illness prevented her appearance.

TOMMY'S PUP AND A CAT.

Little Tommy on our block owns a pet dog of no particular breed. The boy and dog took an airing last evening. Tommy's chum is the possessor of a fine tiger-striped cat, whose reputation as a ratter and a scrapper is all over the street. Tommy and his dog met the chum and his cat sitting on the latter boy's stoop. The boys began to talk and disagreed about the fighting qualities of their particular pets.

"Sic him, Danger!" said Tommy to his pup.

"Go for the ki-ki!" retorted the chum to his pet.

There was a growl of defiance from Danger and a snake like spit from Mr. Cat, and immediately the fur began to fly. Later developments proved that the pup was getting the worst of the fight and Tommy wanted to call all bets off. His chum wouldn't stand for it, as his cat was a beauty in a mix-up with Mr. Pup, and the two boys clinched and found themselves whirled among the four-footed combatants.

After the smoke of battle had cleared away Tommy was found nursing a black eye, his chum a badly bumper head, Tige was running home with a lacerated tip to his nose and Mr. Cat was calmly cleaning his whiskers on the fence near by. Others gathered around and wanted to know who licked. The question is still open to discussion.—Albany Journal.

Rutgers College Presidency.

There is a possibility that the Rev. William Isaac Chamberlain, now holding the presidency of the Arcot Mission College, at Vellore, India, may be the head of Rutgers College, several friends in this country having signified their intention of working for that end.

Story About Theatre Denied.

A rumor that George Jacobs is to give up the theatre on East Jersey street, Elizabeth, was again heard yesterday. When questioned about it by a reporter Mr. Jacobs said that there is absolutely no truth in the story.

Bridge Whist Tournament.

The women's bridge whist tournament will be continued at the Park Club on Monday night, December 18. The tournament will be concluded on Monday night, January 8, when the prizes will be presented to the winners making the first, second and third highest aggregate scores.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETS

Organization Assembles For First Time After Long Summer Lethargy.

ARC LIGHTS DISCUSSED

Swimming Pool Committee Reports—Tentative Plans Discussed for Annual Dinner to Be Held Early in New Year.

With a good part of the membership in attendance, the local Board of Trade resumed its meetings for the season Thursday, the session being the first it has held since last summer. President Woolston was in the chair and something like the old time activity was noticeable in the way municipal matters were taken up and discussed.

Probably the most interesting was the question of arc lights, which the board has had under consideration for more than a year and which has been in the hands of a committee. It was stated by one of the members that the feeling among the marchants is for a change from the incandescent and that it could be done with a saving of cost to the city. In Passaic, so it was said, arc lights of the largest size are supplied for $65 a year, and throughout the State the cost of them has been greatly lessened withing the year. The committee was instructed to continue its investigations and will report further at the next meeting.

The board received the report of the swimming pool committee, which stated that it had proven successful, and through the assistance of philanthropic citizens all bills had been paid. The place had been well patronized by the boys and it was hoped to have still better facilities next season. A vote of thanks was passed for those whose contributions had made the pool possible.

In order to gain more members during the winter, the board voted to reduce the dues to $2 and those in attendance were instructed to redouble their efforts in this direction. Tentative plans for the annual dinner were discussed and a committee composed of Eugene A. Laing, D. C. Ivins, H. W. Marshall, J. C. Pope and Amos Andrews were appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

The municipal ownership of water supply was talked over through J. V. E. Vanderhoef declaring himself against it, because, as he stated, it would mean an increase in rates. The board also placed itself on record as opposing the granting of switch privileges to the street railway company.

At the meeting to be held next month officers will be elected and reports for the year received.

MT. ZION A. M. E. AFFAIR.

"Lincoln's Proclamation," a Drama, Given.

"Lincoln's Proclamation," a drama in three acts, was given by local talent in T. A. B. Hall, last night, for the benefit of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church. Mrs. H. C. Ashley, wife of the pastor, directed the affair, which was very successful.

The cast of characters were as follows:

Laura, beautiful slave girl, Miss F. Olden; Ed. Cyr, owner of plantation, Edward Blair; Dave, Laura's lover and brother to Edward, Omer Thompson; Mammy, Edward's housekeeper, Miss B. Chapman; Anna Liza, Laura's rival and Aunt Maria' daughter, Mrs. M. Henry; Aunt Maria, Peter's wife, cook at the Big House, Miss N. Moore; John, field hand, J. Tony; Flora Bell, friend of Laura, Miss K. Johnson; Rhody, maid to Rose, Miss H. Harmon; Rose Thomas, mistress of adjoining plantation, Miss M. Crudup; Pete, plantation wit, R. Tony; Missy, sister to Rose, Miss Nettie Clay; Uncle Mose, plantation prophet, C. Henry; Link, son to Pete, Andrew Rogers; Bill, Somers, plantation overseer, W. Johnson.

Miss M. A. Maynard was the pianist and H. Williams was the doorkeeper. Henry Lewis was the stage manager. During the evening solos were rendered by Miss Lulu Lewis, Miss Katie Simms, Mrs. Hattie Hamler, the Misses Laura Peterson and Etta Laws.

After the entertainment refreshments were sold by a committee of women from the church.

Gesang and Turn Verein Plans.

The Gesang and Turn Verein will hold its annual Christmas tree festival for the children on Christmas afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. The society has also planned to have a family reception and dance in Saengerbund Hall on New Year's night. At its meeting last night the society received the resignation of Anton Stenzenberger as janitor of the hall, and the application of Charles Schanz for the position.

Entertained Sunday School Class.

W. C. Leek, teacher of a women's Bible class, one of the largest in Trinity Reformed church Sunday school, entertained the members of it at his home Friday. There were about thirty guests, including besides the class Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck and Superintendent F. E. Smith. There was a splendid social time and during the evening a delightful programme of music was rendered, at the conclusion of which refreshments were served.

RUSHING WORK ON NEW COURT HOUSE

FIRST STORY OF SOMERSET'S NEW STRUCTURE COMPLETE.

Richards & Gaston, the contractors, are making such rapid progress in the erection of the new jail for Somerset county that work was begun Thursday on the second story of the structure. When completed it will be a three-story building of white brick with stone trimmings. It is expected the structure will be enclosed by the new year, but it is not likely the interior will be ready for lodging prisoners before spring.

The new jail will be a thoroughly up-to-date building. There will be a basement and two rooms of it will be fitted up for tramps. A hose and other sanitary appliances will be supplied for keeping the apartments clean. The balance of the basement will be devoted to a well-equipped kitchen and laundry, a boiler room and a dining room for the jailer. At the entrance on the first floor will be the keeper's headquarters, with a guard room for receiving prisoners. Six living rooms will be provided for the family of the keeper, two being on each floor. An underground passage for prisoners will lead from the basement of the jail to the new Court House.

On the first and second floors will be thirty-two steel cells. On the third floor will be provision for sixteen additional cells when necessary. The cells will be divided into separate apartments for men, women and juveniles.

SEASON OF MUSIC OPENS.

Chamber Concert a Marked Success.

The first of the three chamber concerts to be presented by Joseph McIntyre, the pianist, was given at the Casino last night. The first big musical event of the season, it attracted a large audience of society people. Henri Burck, violinist; and Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist, made up a trio with Mr. McIntyre that would size up to any audience. Glenn Hall, tenor, assisted them. The programme was as follows:

Mendelssohn Trio in D Minor, Andante Tranquillo, Allegro Agitato; Aria from "Reginella," Braga; 'cello solo, (a) Air, Bach; (b) Papillon, Popper; Beethoven Trio, Op. 97, Andante; 'cello solo—Romance, Caesar Cui; songs, (a) The Lover's Pledge, Strauss; (b) As My Dear Old Mother, Dvorak; (c) Who is Sylvia? Schubert; Reissiger Trio, Op. 85, Andante, Rondo.

All the numbers were greeted with the sort of applause that is only stilled by encores. Had the wishes of the audience been met the artists might be playing and singing yet.

With the programmes distributed last night came little printed slips announcing that the second concert had been postponed from January 25 to February 1, the following Thursday. The change was made because the date conflicted with the Weingartner tour of the New York Symphony orchestra.

STANBERY CASE TAKEN UP.

Oscar Harrison Appeals from Judge Strong's Court.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of counsel for Oscar Harrison in his civil suit against William R. Stanbery, has given notice that he will appeal the case from Judge Strong's court in New Brunswick to the Supreme Court.

Yesterday the plaintiff was nonsuited in the case on appeal from Justice Von Minden's court. The suit was for $200 claimed by the plaintiff for the loss of his horse and damages to his wagon as the result of a collision with Mr. Stanbery's automobile at Dunellen. Mr. Harrison won his suit in Justice Von Minden's court, and the defendant appealed.

BUYS FORTY VESSELS.

Jersey Central to Compete in Marine Business of Other Roads.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey is rapidly growing to be among the powerful corporations that conduct a marine business about the harbor of New York and one of the great strokes it has made is in the acquirement of new vessels to transport merchandise that is brought to Jersey City by train.

The Central has purchased the entire fleet of the Manhattan Lighterage Company, consisting of forty vessels of from 450 to 800 tons each. The price paid will not be divulged, but it was stated that it was considerably over first cost.

Miss Edith Fisk Engaged.

Mrs. Chapman Fisk, of West Seventh street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Edith Chapman Fisk, to J. Hartley Mellick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, of East Seventh street. Miss Fisk and Mr. Mellick are well-known in the younger society set both here and New York. The date for the wedding is not announced.

Change in Executive Board.

Mrs. F. S. Martin, a member of Benevolent Band, King's Daughters, has resigned as a member of the executive board of the City Union, and Mrs. Duncan L. S. MacLaren, also of the Benevolent Band, has been elected to the vacancy.

SHE DEFIED THE COURT

Freeholder Westphal's Daughter Wouldn't Testify in Suit Against Mr. Stanbery.

WRIT THROWN AWAY

Young Miss Had Been Subpoenaed to Appear at Trial in New Brunswick—Bench Warrant Issued.

Miss Ada Westphal, daughter of Freeholder William Westphal, of this city, thinks that courts are just horrid things anyway.

She decidedly refused to come to court in New Brunswick Thursday and a stern court officer, armed with an official looking paper which had been signed by Judge Strong and which was really a bench warrant, had to be sent down to Newark, where she is attending Normal School, to force her to testify. But the girl won anyway and didn't have to testify, as Oscar Harrison's suit against William Stanbery was nonsuited.

Miss Westphal gave testimony before Justice Von Minden at Dunellen, when the case was tried before. She had been in Stanbery's automobile with her mother at the time of the fatal accident. But those trials were in vacation time. Anyhow she though that three trials of a case ought to be enough to satisfy the most exacting and when she was asked to leave school, come out to New Brunswick and testify again, she shook her head most positively.

All this developed at the opening of the trial yesterday. Lawyer Alan H. Strong announced that they had been unable to get Miss Westphal and that the defense needed her testimony. He put William Stanbery on the stand to tell how he had tried to get Miss Westphal to New Brunswick.

Mr. Stanbery said that last week he had gone to Newark and had sent a messenger boy again. He returned, with the subpoena and $1 witness fee in an envelope. The girl was not there and so he sent the messenger to the Normal School after her. The girl received the letter and signed for it. But she did not respond to the subpoena yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon Stanbery said that he went to Newark again, this time armed with a subpoena and a letter from Lawyer Swackhamer commanding the girl to go to court yesterday. The messenger boy was sent again. He returned, saying that the aunt had said that the girl was not at home. When the aunt saw the letter the messenger said she declared: "That's something from the court. I won't have anything to do with it," whereupon she threw it out of the window.

Judge Strong then granted a bench warrant for the girl and a constable was sent after her.

HAPPY HOOLIGANS DINE.

Feast of Turkey and Wit at Watchung Notch Hotel.

The Happy Hooligans, an organization of congenial spirts who like outdoor sports and good times, held a dinner at Hugo Maul's hotel in the notch Thursday. There was no outdoor sport, but a good time was on tap from the sitting down of the club to the rising thereof.

Turkey was the piece de resistance of the feast, the which was a thing to be remembered. Demolli & Company served it in their best manner, and the attendant features were quite au fait, which is a Watchung phrase for very lovely. Landlord Maul is a great entertainer and he was as good as he ever will be last night. There were souvenir menu cards and odd favors.

The festive board was confronted by this array of trencher talent: William L. Gamble, Harry Werner, Jacob Blimm, Joseph Black, Walter Clark, Albert R. Vail, George H. Alcorn, Cyrus Boice, Adolph Bohren, L. W. Niles, Samuel Watson, Michael Crowle, J. T. Green and Mayor Newton B. Smalley. The Mayor was the guest of honor. Being original, and desirous of setting new fashions for guests of honor, he made a speech. So did all the rest.

Otto Maul's Imperial orchestra furnished the music.

PORK NOT DISEASED.

Report on Suspected Case Made by State Board.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow has received a report from the State Board of Health regarding the piece of diseased pork, which the local board obtained several weeks ago from a local butcher. An analysis of the meat was made by the State Board and so far as can be learned no traces of tuberculosis appeared.

It is the opinion of Mr. Thurlow, as well as the State health authorities that placing the meat in alcohol to preserve it, had some effect on it and may have had a tendency to remove traces of the disease. In the opinion of the local health officer there is no doubt that the pig had tuberculosis.

Piscatawayite on Grand Jury.

M. J. Whitford, of Piscataway, has been drawn as a member of the Middlesex County Grand Jury by Sheriff Church.

FRESH AIR WORK REPORTS

Results of the Year Reviewed by Plainfield Association at Annual Meeting.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Miss Sara Curry and Children From the Little Missionary's Day Nursery in Attendance.

The election of officers, reports of the work for the past year, together with addresses and an informal programme of music comprised the features of the annual meeting of the Plainfield Fresh Air Association held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Monday night. There was a good attendance, including several interested workers and Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Home, accompanied by several children from the Little Missionary's Day Nursery, New York.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, president of the association, occupied the chair, and after conducting the opening exercises called upon Mrs. F. C. Pierson, chairman of the house committee, for her report. This showed that during the past season as many as 320 children and mothers were cared for at the Home at one time, and twenty-five remained throughout the season. In all 420 mothers were at the Home during the season, 1,745 children, while 700 children were sick in one way or another. Physicians made sixty visits to the Home. There was consumed 7,515 loaves of bread, 2,350 quarts of milk and 59,519 meals were served.

Miss Florence G. Hawkins, chairman of the devotional committee, gave an interesting report of her department of work, showing how the various Christian Endeavor societies, Epworth League and other societies from this and other nearby towns assisted and co-operated to make the charity a success. She also paid deserving praise to Miss Sara Curry, the matron and David M. Torrey for their help and interest.

David M. Runyon, treasurer, reported receipts for the past year of $1,648.06 and disbursements of $1,522.81, leaving a balance of $25.25. By way of comparison receipts and expenditures for past years were given. In 1902 the receipts were $1,138.79, expenditures $1,888.79, leaving a balance of $250. In 1903 the receipts amounted to $1,681.68 and the balance was $124.09, while in 1904 the receipts were $1,508.53 and the expenditures, $1,825.75, leaving a balance of $217.22.

After this report Mrs. Theodore Mantz sang very acceptably "These Are They," from "The Holy City," accompanied on the piano by Miss Carrie Dewey. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman then made a few remarks of an encouraging nature about the work. Master Harold Willard, accompanied by Miss Dewey, sang "My Kentucky Home."

In the meantime Miss Curry, accompanied by four children from New York, came in and the children entertained the audience with some of their favorite songs and recitations, which proved very interesting.

Alexander Morgan, who is one of the largest benefactors of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, and the Day Nursery work in New York, made a few remarks, telling of his interest. One helpful feature was an experience he had with a wealthy New Yorker, who was led to contribute $500 toward a home for cripples in New York, $2,000 for the Little Missionary's Day Nursery and a like amount for the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. This money will be used toward erecting another building at Netherwood, and Mr. Morgan suggested that a number of improvements be made, such as erecting an attractive stone wall in front of the Home and building a terrace.

In a brief address, Miss Curry related some pathetic and interesting incidents concerning the past season's work which she said was the most successful in the history of the fresh aid enterprise. She spoke of a feature of last year's work, that of allowing the husbands of the mothers to spend Saturday night and Sunday at the Home, and in this way the men became warm friends of the institution and contributed in some measure towards its support. In a number of instances these men were converted.

Mrs. Mantz sang another selection from "The Holy City," after which David M. Torrey told of the Day Nursery work in New York and at the Home. He told of the $5,000 which had been given toward liquidating the mortgage on the New York property.

In this connection Dean Rodman referred to the beneficience of Francis deLacey Hyde in giving a lot near the Home upon which an auditorium is to be erected by David Hand as a memorial building for his two sons, the late Irving and David Hand.

David M. Torrey, as chairman of the nominating committee, presented this list of officers, which was elected, for the coming year:

President, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman; vice president, J. F. Parker; secretary, Mrs. David M. Runyon; treasurer, David M. Runyon; chairman of the house committee, Mrs. J. C. Pierson; chairman of the building and grounds committee, David Hand; chairman of the devotional committee, Miss Florence G. Hawkins; chairman of the finance committee, George A. Chapman; executive committee, George E. Hall, Harry Gee, Winfield S. Angleman, Esq., J. P. Laire, Charles W. McCutchen, Frederick H. Andrews, of Plainfield; Miss Sara Curry, Hugh Grant Brown, Alexander C. Morgan and Louis B. Rolston, of New York; David M. Torrey, of Westfield; Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Brundige, of Cranford; L. H. Bigelow, Jr., of Montclair.

After the election the meeting adjourned and the executive committee got together to discuss plans for the coming year's work.

ORDERS SEWER PIPE FOR WEST END AVE.

BOROUGH APPROPRIATED $5,350 FOR IMPROVEMENT SOME TIME AGO.

The street committee from the borough Council has placed the order for the storm sewer pipe to be placed in West End avenue. The Council some time ago appropriated a sum not to exceed $2,350 for this work, and it is believed that it can be done for that amount.

The pipe will be from twelve to twenty-four inches and will be laid from Maple avenue on West End avenue to Green brook. The pipe will be placed in the middle of the avenue and extending to a certain point distant from the brook, will form a "Y," each branch leading to two catch basins to be located near the new concrete bridge to be built over the brook in the spring. This improvement, it is believed, will prevent the washing out of the proposed boulevard in heavy rains.

Mayor Smalley expects to start the work soon of digging out for the shrubbery to be located along the thoroughfare. Early in the spring the work of macadamizing the avenue and building the new bridge will be started.

FOOTBALL RULE CHANGES.

Three Important Innovations Almost Sure to Be Adopted.

As a result of the conference of the intercollegiate football rules committee, held in Philadelphia on Saturday, it was pretty unanimously agreed among the delegates present that the following changes in the existing rules governing the great college sport are almost sure to be made:

Two umpires, instead of one.

Increasing the distance to be gained on three downs from five to ten yards.

The prohibition of a substitute for a disqualified player until ten minutes of actual playing time have elapsed from the time of the disqualification.

Coach Glen S. Warner, of Cornell, has also made the suggestion that stated officials, well informed on the rules, be employed by the Intercollegiate Football Association, of which the leading universities in the East are members.

Another proposition is to play only six men in the line of scrimmage, with three men five yards behind the line and two men inside the ends. The idea is to promote a more open style of game by strengthening the centre and weakening the ends. To encourage end runs, it is also proposed to allow a forward pass behind the line of scrimmage.

No definite action was taken on any of the proposed changes by the rules committee on Saturday, and the confreres will meet again in New York some time this week.

"BIG SIX" READY FOR FRAY.

Union Has $100,000 to Begin Fight for Eight Hour Day.

The officers of Typographical Union No. 6 announced Sunday that the union has more than $100,00 to carry on the fight for the eight hour workday in the book and job offices which is expected to begin on January 1. Delegate Greenberg, of the union, made the following report to the Central Federated Union yesterday:

"We understand that there is going to be a general lockout by the Typothetae in the book and job offices on January 1, with a view of establishing the open shop in the book and job trade. It will not last long. The employers are each under bonds to lock their employes out, and will obey the order so as not to forfeit the bonds. There is little work in the first few days of January, as the magazine publishers have their magazines printed several months ahead. In two or three days we believe the members of the Typothetae, or most of them, will take their men back again as union men, and that will be the end of it. We are now in a position to raise a fund of $500,000 in a week to fight the lockout or to prosecute a strike if there is no lockout."

Cards from Scotland.

Souvenir postal cards have been received from John Morton, who is travelling in Scotland, by a number of friends. Mr. Morton has been in Scotland for two months.

P. E. Bishop Visits Brother.

Bishop-elect Williams, of Michigan, has returned from a visit to his brother, Lewis A. Williams, of Dunellen avenue.

LAW OR POLICE TRIALS

Statute Under Which Proceedings Against Chief Kiely Will be Held.

METHOD OF TRIALS.

Gives Causes for Removal of Officer—Accused Must Have Reasonable Time to Prepare Defense.

Many people are unacquainted with the law according to which formal charges were made against Chief of Police Kiely at the meeting of Common Council Wednesday night. For that reason the original act of March 8, 1899, with section three as amended by an act of March 27, 1902, is herewith reproduced:

"An act relating to police departments in cities and regulating the tenure and terms of office of persons employed in such departments.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

"1. The officers and men employed in the police department of every city shall severally hold their respective offices and continue in their respective employment during good behavior, efficiency and residence in the city where employed, and no person shall be removed from office or employment in the police department of any city for political reasons, or for any other cause than incapacity, misconduct, non-residence or disobedience of just rules and regulations heretofore established, or which may be established, for the government of the police force or police department of the city; provided, that any member of the police force of any city who shall be absent from duty without just cause for the term of five days shall, at the expiration of that time, cease to be a member of such police force; each member and officer of the police force in the cities of this State shall be a citizen of the United States and a resident for two years of the city in which he is appointed next preceding his appointment; he must be of good moral character, sound in body and in good health, and able to read and write the English language intelligently, and provided further, that it shall be lawful for the board, body or person in the respective cities of this State having authority to employ members of the police department therein, to employ officers or men temporarily in cases of emergency or for parts of years in cases where their services are not needed throughout the entire year, and discharge them at the expiration of such temporary employment.

"2. No person shall be appointed an officer or member of the police force of any city who has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, or who is less than twenty-one nor more than fifty-five years of age at the time of his appointment.

"3. No person, whether officer or employe, in the police department of any city shall be removed from office or employment therein except for just cause, as provided by the first section of this act, and then only after a written charge or charges, stating the cause of complaint, shall have been preferred against such officer or employe, signed by the person or persons making such charge or charges, and filed in the office of the municipal officer, officers or board having charge of the department in which the complaint arises, and after the said charge or charges have been publicly examined into by the appropriate municipal board, officer or authority, upon such reasonable notice to the person charged and in such manner of examination as the rules and regulations governing the same may prescribe, it being the intent of this act to give every person against whom a charge for any cause may be preferred under this act a fair trial upon such charge, and every reasonable opportunity to make his defense, if any he has or chooses to make; and the officer, board or body having power to try such charges shall have power to issue writs of subpoena to compel the attendance of witnesses, which writs shall be served in the same manner as subpoenas issued out of the court for the trial of small causes; and every person who neglects or refuses to obey the command of such writ shall be liable to a penalty of twenty-five dollars, to be sued for in the corporate name of the city in any court of competent jurisdiction, and the penalty, when collected, shall be paid into the poor fund of such city; and it shall be lawful for and authority is hereby vested in the common council or other governing body of any city, by the affirmative vote of not less than four-fifths of the entire membership thereof, to designate and appoint, by ordinance, the board, officer or authority by whom such charge or charges shall be heard, tried and determined; and when so designated and appointed, such board, officer or authority shall have the sole and exclusive power to hear, try and determine such charge or charges; and upon such charge or charges being by said board, officer or authority sustained, to suspend for a period or dismiss the person so charged from office.

"4. For the better government and discipline of police departments in the cities of this State it shall be lawful for the board or body whose duty it is or may become to provide for, regulate or manage a police department in such city from time to time, to prescribe and establish just rules and regulations respecting such department.

"5. All acts and parts of acts, general, local or special, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately."

WHEN YOU ENTERTAIN.

You might give an "International Tea" when next you wish to invite a number of guests to your home, and are in doubt as to the character of your entertainment.

Decorate the rooms with the flags from all nations; these may be purchased in the department stores in all sizes. Young ladies dressed in costumes to represent "America," "Italy," "Scotland," "France," "England," "Germany," "Japan," "Manila," etc., form the reception committee and serve the refreshments.

National songs, such as "America," "Le Marseillaise," "God Save the King," "The Watch on the Rhine," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Beautiful Venice, the Bride of the Sea," are sung or played during the evening. When refreshments are served the guests are asked to choose at which table they will sit. "America" will serve an abundance of baked beans, doughnuts and pie. "Scotland" will have porridge, oat cakes, scones, with cheese and haggies. "Italy" presides over vermicelli soup, macaroni, grapes and figs. Sausage, pretzels and rye bread will be found at "Germany's" table, while the "French" table will have dainty rolls, salads and omelet. "England" will be represented by roast beef and plum pudding. "Japan" will be gay with chrysanthemums, cherry blossoms, tea, with delicate sweetmeats, rice and wafers. "Manila" will serve bananas, lemonade and oranges.

If it's to be a quiet little affair with only the members of your own family and a few neighbors, you might hold one of the new spelling bees. tI is conducted along these lines:

As it used to be played each player in turn contributed a letter, and the first one to spell a complete word lost the game. Thus, if five players were competing and the first gave the initial "s," the second "t," the third "i," making "sti," and the fourth added "f," the fifth player would have to search his vocabulary for some other word than "stiff." The only way of continuing "stif" without completing the word and losing the game would be by adding the "l," and switching the game on to the word "stifle" and its derivitives.

This was the old progressive spelling bee, whose vogue has declined. The new game, which is known as the "Double Demon Spelling Bee," is a further development of it. The novel point is that each player when it comes to his turn has the option of either affixing or prefixing a letter. This opens out all sorts of new opportunities. Thus in the case already quoted, where the fifth player had to continue the letters "stif," he would be able to get out of the difficulty by prefixing the letter "a," thus turning the growing word in a direction of "mastiff."

ENGLISH SWORN IN.

Assistant Prosecutor Takes the Oath of Office.

Lawyer John K. English Saturday took the oath of office before Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas James C. Calvert, as assistant prosecutor of Uunion county. Mr. English was appointed assistant prosecutor by Prosecutor N. C. J. English.

His appointment was made because of the law permitting a county of a population of more than 100,000 to have an assistant prosecutor. The last census showed Union county to have a population of much more than the number set by the law. Hence the appointment followed.

Mr. English has been practically the assistant prosecutor of the county for some time. But he has received no emolument for work that he performed, and was not officially the assistant prosecutor.

The new assistant prosecutor is a graduate of Lafayette College. He studied law with his father, James R. English, and was admitted to the bar nine years ago. He was elected a year ago to represent his ward in the city Council, and is one of the men of weight in the Council. Mr. English has attained an enviable reputation as a lawyer.

Frizzled Oysters.

Put four tablespoonfuls of butter into a frying-pan and place over the fire. To one pint of oysters use three beaten eggs and one cupful of soft cracker crumbs. Mix eggs and crackers together gently, and turn them into the frying-pan. Then turn in the oysters, liquor and all, add a small saltspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper, shake the pan over the fire, thoroughly turning the contents over, allowing to cook until the eggs are well done—about seven minutes—serve with garnish of young celery stalks and tender leaves.

A Marconnier Benefit.

An entertainment for the benefit of Marconnier chapel will be given at the chapel Friday night at 8 o'clock by the Sagamore Musical Club, assisted by Miss Aimee Louise Emmons. There will be a sale of ice cream and cake afterwards.

BOYS CLUB REORGANIZED

Opened Last Night Under Management of the Y. M. C. A.

FIVE CLASSES PLANNED

Carpentry Students Start In, Others Delayed Until First of the Year—Gymnasium Interests for the Boys.

The Boys' Club began its work under the management of the Y. M. C. A. Monday. The class in carpentry with a membership of about thirty-two opened its new term, and the other classes will be organized and started off as rapidly as arrangements can be made.

Although last Monday marked the actual opening of the club for the season of 1905-06, things are still somewhat upset at the club. Changes are to be made in the working rooms, and it will take until the first of the year to get all the classes under way. No changes in the general outline of the work is to be made, the new regime simply carrying out the same line of endeavor that has marked the club since its inception. The full curriculum is to include classes in moulding, pattern making, mechanical drawing and freehand drawing, besides the class in carpentry.

The boys in the carpentry class were put to work last night on a tool room. As soon as this is finished and new benches are installed, more pupils will be admitted to the class. The membership of the club classes is limited, on account of lack of room. Probably no more than sixty boys will be able to find accommodations, which means a long waiting list of ambitious gamins.

While no changes in the nature of he work will be made, minor changes in the nightly activities there will be. For one thing, the gymnasium periods will be made more important a part, and more systematized. The boys under sixteen are to have all of Wednesday night each week for gymnasium sports, and the older boys, after January 1, will have Friday nights. Basketball teams will be organized, and an inter-class league conducted. A strong representative team will be trained to meet the Y. M. C. A. Juniors, Whittiers, Hope Chapel, and fives of their standing. The teams are expected to do much in creating a strong club spirit, which the management believes must have a good effect on the club work.

Direct management of the club has been delegated by the Y. M. C. A. to Kenneth Robbie, its boys' secretary. He is the supervisor general. Charles Belknap is the instructor in carpentry and pattern making, and Mr. Crandall, of the North Plainfield High School faculty, is in charge of the mechanical and freehand drawing courses. Shortly after the club gets into full swing, probably some time in January, an exhibition of the work in all the classes will be arranged for a "visitors' night."

The roster of the club classes as it stood last night is as follows:

Carpentry — William Berkowitz, Edward Seader, Percy Haberle, Louis Rhodier, Rinaldo Coons, Russell Abbott, David Rogers, Martin Denlinger, Clifford Jones, Frank Hart, Walter Southard, Albert Renwanz, Charles Rhodier, Jerry Paoli, Tifred Manley, John Brown, Charles Schenck, Joseph Deaby, Charles Smith, Charles Killosan, Thomas Lappin, Theodore Pruden, James McCray, Henry Lewis, Richard Day.

Mechanical Drawing—James Kelly, Edward Mattox, William Ross.

Moulding—Fred Stewart, George Moore, Albert Paoli.

HIGH WIND DOES DAMAGE.

Blows the Roof Off a Freight Car Near Fanwood.

The high wind of Sunday did much damage in the vicinity of Fanwood. Limbs were broken from trees and in some of the residences window panes were blown out. About one mile east of here a heavy limb that had blown from a tree along the railroad tracks struck the telegraph line as it fell, tearing down an entire section of wires, putting the Western Union Telegraph Company's line out of business for about three hours, until linemen from Elizabeth arrived and made repairs.

While the wind was blowing a hurricane Sunday afternoon a freight train passing through Fanwood had two empty box cars with their doors open. The roof was completely torn from one of the cars and carried into a field nearby. The roof was loosened on the other car, damaging the car so that it was considered dangerous to run further. The train was shunted out on sidetracks. A number of trains stopped in the deep cut near Fanwood to close the doors of empty cars. The wind was so strong that railroad men say it greatly retarded the progress of trains bound westward.

Local Bowling Headquarters.

The former Crescent clubhouse on East Second street, now owned by A. D. Findlay, is soon to be the local home of bowling again. William McLaughlin, of the borough, has leased the building and has placed a contract with the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company to install four first-class alleys in time for opening Christmas day.

ANOTHER RAILROAD FOR METUCHEN, MAYBE

ANYHOW ITS CITIZENS ARE PUZZLED OVER SOME SURVEYS.

Metuchen is guessing and railroad companies are the cause. Three surveys out of at least a half dozen are considered seriously. A. G. Smith has disposed of three acres of his farm property, formerly the old Hill farm and W. H. Barr has sold a portion of his property. J. C. McCoy owns a tract of land facing Amboy avenue near the borough limits and it is said the mysterious railroad company is negotiating for this.

The company buying the property and securing options is called the Midland Railroad Company and people doing business with it are given to understand that it is a trolley road, despite the fact that a 100 foot right of way is being purchased and grades are being established by surveyors which show plainly that there is to be heavy traffic.

When Chief Smith disposed of his property the other night he was given to understand that there was another line separate altogether from the Midland Company (which is really a continuation of the Brunswick Fast Line), which is to run through the borough at a point near the Smith farm. Some people say this is the Pennsylvania's much talked of coal and freight road. Another projected railroad line has been surveyed for in North Metuchen north of Woodwild Park. The survey seems to come from and run in very different directions than the "trolley" and supposed Pennsylvania short line.

The other roads run southwest by northeast and this other road through Metuchen anyway runs almost due east and west.

In view of the fact that surveyors have been working for some time past in the vicinity of Bound Brook and Dunellen it looks as if this new road must be the same one working there. Metuchen has three railroads and two trolley lines now and some people are on uneasy seats wondering what the outcome of the three mysterious roads will be.

W. B. Pratt made the statement to a newspaper reporter recently that he had sold a strip of his property, near the Coudert-McCoy land, and that it was purchased by the Short Line. Mr. Pratt thinks it a bona fide trolley project and it is securing the width of land mentioned and making preparations for heavy traffic in order to make possible and safe a high rate of speed between New York and Philadelphia.

BIG COAL SUPPLY AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD

RUMOR OF STRIKE TROUBLE LEADS TO ACTIVITY AT THE YARDS.

Rumors of another big coal strike in the Pennsylvania fields have been persistent within thep ast month and activity at the South Plainfield storage yards of the Lehigh Valley amount to a practical confirmation of expected trouble. For several weeks the full force of men has been employed and the amount of coal on hand is about ten times the ordinary supply. In the big heaps that tower in the air there is almost 2,000,000 tons of anthracite, from which the road will draw its supplies in the event of trouble. In addition to this a great amount of soft coal is held in cars on the sidings at the plant. It is estimated that there is about 8,000 tons of this, and it is kept solely for the engines.

The Lehigh has other storage plants, and it is said they are also being filled to their capacity. In previous years when strikes were on these reserve supplies were all that kept the road going and prevented a serious tie-up when the output at the mines was practically nothing for many weeks. The Jersey Central's main storage plant is located at Hampton Junction, and it is large enough to contain a supply sufficient to meet any emergency. The general activity at these stations is always look upon as an expectation of trouble and the large consignments being received at present is taken in that way.

REV. DR. MABIE HERE.

Preached on Missionary Work in the Far East.

Rev. Dr. Mabie, of Boston, who is one of the secretaries of the Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. During his discourse he told of the missionary work being accomplished in Japan, China and the Philippines and the prospects for future enterprise along that line.

Dr. Mabie told of the encouragement which mission work offered in these countries at the present time, and of the willingness of the natives to receive the Gospel. He also referred to the hopeful sign in the erection of colleges and schools where students are flocking to receive an education. His remarks were not confined alone to the work of the Baptists, but he spoke of the efforts being made by other denominations. In conclusion he urged that this work be supported by more generous contributions of money.

SERMON MOVES JUNIORS

Several Asked For Preacher's Prayers at Y. M. C. A. Service.

250 ATTENDED MEETING

Three Councils of the City Go in a Body to Hear Rev. E. E. Roberson, a Fellow Junior.

Members of the Junior Order United American Mechanics filled the body of Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon. They gathered to hear their brother, Rev. E. E. Roberson, of Bound Brook, preach the culminating sermon in the series of four he has been delivering at the Sunday meetings of the association. Fully 250 Juniors were in the audience, all three councils—Benevolent, Franklin and Somerset—of this city being represented by good sized delegations. They made the largest audience that has gathered at a Y. M. C. A. Sunday meeting this year.

The Juniors met at their hall in the Scheuer building, West Front street, just before the service and marched to the Y. M. C. A. in a body, two abreast. They filled the lower part of the hall, and nearly fifty were compelled to find seats in the gallery.

Mr. Roberson preached a strong evangelical sermon. As he explained, his three previous addresses were more in the nature of talks on subjects of general interest, but in his discourse yesterday he preached a sermon, pure and simple, drawing the lessons to be found in all that he had spoken on the preceding Sundays.

His plea was for the instant and unhesitating acceptance of Christ as the personal seviour. The text he took was from the thirtieth chapter of Deuteronomy, verse nineteen: "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live."

They who accept Christ, Mr. Roberson said, choose life—"I am the way and the truth and the life." He gave four reasons for the choice:

First, everybody needs Christ. He is needed that men may meet the purposes of their creation. There are four sides to man's nature—mental, physical, intellectual and spiritual. All three of the first named may be highly developed, and the world may call the man who has so developed himself a success, but unless his spiritual nature is not strengthened he is imperfect; he cannot be perfect until it is.

Secondly, it is manly to accept Christ. Once it was thought a man showed weakness if he became a Christian, but the example set by great and strong men like Lincoln, Gladstone and Garfield had destroyed that idea. The acceptance of Christ was, in fact, a test of manhood, and only men strong in manliness could accept him wholly.

Third, the acceptance of Christ gives men a chance to show how heroic they are. Moral courage is vastly superior to physical courage, and Christianity called for the exercise of that virtue. It called its followers to strife and battle, and not to a flowery bed of ease.

Fourth, Christianity meant everlasting life. It was idle for men to say that they did not need that assurance now, that there was time enough to prepare for it. It was needed at once; the call might come at any minute.

The sermon produced a noticeable effect upon those who heard it. When Mr. Roberson, just before offering the closing prayer, asked if there were any men who wished to be remembered particularly in his petition several hands were raised above bowed heads.

After the service Mr. Roberson was cordially greeted by the Juniors. The meeting was marked by two fine solos by Miss Merry, of Scranton.

I. O. F. Elects Officers.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order of Foresters, has elected these officers for the ensuing year: Court deputy, Charles McCarthy; court physicians, Dr. H. H. Lowrie, Dr. A. K. Brennan, Dr. C. A. Gesswein; chief ranger, Louis Fehring; vice chief ranger, Arthur Neuman; recording secretary, James Patterson; financial secretary, Henry Hansen; treasurer, Edward J. McCue; orator, Thomas Roddy; senior woodward, Peter Kane; junior woodward, Frederick Wilbee; senior beadle, John Green; junior beadle, Thomas Fitzgerald; finance committee, Frederick Willbee, Patrick Harrington; trustees, Dr. H. H. Lowrie, Thomas Roddy; court druggist, Jasper Cadmus. The court initiated two candidates Friday night. Seven applicants were acted on favorably. A check of $500 was received from headquarters of I. O. F. in Canada, in favor of Mrs. Gunther, widow of a late member, George Gunther. The check was received seven days from date of filing claim.

Poor, But Honest.

"Pa, what is a Councilman?"

"A Councilman, my son, is a man who wears a fur coat."

"Pa, what is a reporter?"

"A reporter, my son, is a man who wears a shirt."—Atlantic City Review.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1905. NO. 51

"Support the Constitution Which is the Compact the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison

TRIAL OF CHIEF KIELY BEGINS BEFORE COUNCIL; CHALLENGES BY THE DEFENSE QUICKLY OVERRULED

Tyler and Bullock Voluntarily Withdraw From Their Seats, But Council By Divided Vote Keeps Three Other Challenged Members in Their Places.

PROSECUTION GOES ON

Seven Witnesses Placed on the Stand by Corporation Counsel Marsh—Mr. Tyler's Story of His Efforts at Golf.

Before nine of the eleven Council members, sitting as a court, the trial of Chief Kiely on the Tyler-Bullock charges began last night. The two missing from the tribunal were the authors of the charges, who withdrew of their own volition. The attempt of former Senator Reed, counsel for the defense, to have them ruled out as ineligible to sit as judges, and with them Councilmen Murphy, Higham and Wilson, failed at the very outset. His objections were summarily overruled and he was not even allowed to present the testimony he had prepared in support of his contentions.

The prosecution presented most of its case before the body adjourned. They had seven witnesses on the stand, among them Councilman Tyler, whose testimony was unfinished when the session closed. The bulk of the evidence was in reference to Kiely's famous ride in the patrol wagon early one morning, his alleged drunkenness and profanity in the Jersey City station, his alleged reluctance to proceed against the Golf speakeasy and his connection with the Get-together Club, which is what the coterie of politicians who gather in the upstairs room of Windham's Hotel call themselves. Collector Robert L. Lee testified as to the club gatherings and his bearing on the stand occasioned comment. He appeared to be impatient of the hearing, constrained and not very willing to commit himself as to the chief's connection with the club. Mr. Lee testified to the release of a prisoner at McCardell's direction, and his testimony on this was not at all unwilling.

The Council was called to order at 8:15. Councilmen Bullock and Tyler were not in their places. The former remained in the ante-room and the latter sat beside Corporation Counsel Marsh. When Clerk MacMurray started calling the roll Mr. Tyler started to his feet as if he had remembered something suddenly, and tip-toed from the room.

"Messrs. Tyler and Bullock did not answer to their names," said the clerk, "but I think they are somewhere around; I saw them here."

"Never mind," said President Daniel, after a moment's consideration. "There is a quorum isn't there? We will proceed."

Immediately after the regular order of business was suspended and the Council became an investigating body, Corporation Counsel Marsh arose.

"Before the charges are taken up," he said, "I wish to state that I have been authorized by Messrs. Tyler and Bullock to say that while they do not concede any claims that may be made as to their eligibility to sit as judges in this matter, they will defer to the desire of Chief Kiely and his counsel as to their withdrawal, and they ask the Council to relieve them from sitting during the trial."

On Mr. Murphy's motion the accusers were excused, by unanimous vote. Mr. Tyler slipped back to his place beside Mr. Marsh and the face of Councilman Bullock appeared at the door of the ante-room.

After minor formalities preliminary to the hearing were gone through by Mr. Marsh, counsel for the defense presented his challenges against Messrs. Tyler, Bullock, Murphy, Higham and Wilson. His grounds in all the cases were substantially the same. He charged them with being peculiarly and directly interested in securing a conviction, rehearsing the story of the anti-organization movement during the last municipal campaign to show that the five were prejudiced and not actuated purely by judicial desire to ascertain the truth in the case. He said

Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely.

Messrs. Tyler and Bullock were even more directly interested in the outcome of the hearing, because the result of the trial will hold them open to or relieve them from the chance, as it may turn out, of action by Chief Kiely. The Council sat as a court, he held, and it was axiomatic in law that no judge shall be allowed to sit in a case in which he is personally and directly interested.

Mr. Marsh objected to entertaining the challenges against Tyler and Bullock. They had already withdrawn and he could see no reason for acting against them. Mr. Reed refused to recognize their withdrawal. It was not legally binding and there was nothing to prevent them from retaking their seats whenever they so elected or Council saw fit to recall them.

In a short and pithy ruling, President Daniel refused to entertain the challenges. He cited a decision in a case before the Newark police board and ruled that a policeman under investigation was merely a public servant on trial as to his efficiency, and the formalities relevant to the trial of a criminal are not necessary to insure substantial justice to the defendant, and legal formalities tending to delay or chicanery are not to be permitted in such cases. To sustain the challenges, he said, would tend to suppress the trial. To allow the defense the right to shut certain councilmen out would give the same right to the prosecution, and might result in the removal of so many councilmen as to reduce the number sitting to less than a quorum. There was no other body before which the charges could be heard, so the proceeding palpably tended to prevent the trial entirely. He ruled the challenges against Higham, Wilson and Murphy out, and ruled that action was unnecessary on Bullock and Tyler.

Councilman Gloak protested against the ruling. He said there was no unfairness in Mr. Reed's profer of testimony to prove his charges against the five councilmen and he asked that the testimony be received. Without replying Mr. Daniel put the question. It was carried by six votes to three, Gloak, Frank Randolph and Tolles voting against the ruling.

Mr. Reed filed an objection to the president's method of putting the ruling to the Council. He said it was not legal for him to present the question where only one member of the Council had opportunity to express his opinion.

Corporation Counsel Marsh opened for the prosecution in a brief address as follows:

"The defendant for twenty years has been a friend of mine, and I never knew of his infraction of the law, and you may know how painful to me is the duty before me. I think it would be cowardly for me to resign my office or shirk my duty. I shall therefore try to do my duty, be the result what it may. My hope is that the evidence may be produced in a calm, dispassionate manner, so that when all the evidence is in it may be left to the judges without speeches. If the defendant is innocent, let's acquit him. I am no hireling; I am no private counsel; I am the counsel of the whole city and only want fair play. If, on the other hand, the charges be sustained, it will be for the Council to say what manner of penalty shall be administered. I wish to thank Chief Kiely for facilitating the trial by allowing us to see the records of his department, and also thank his counsel, Mr. Reed, for waiving certain points."

Supreme Court Commissioner Dengler, who was stenographer for the proceedings, was accepted by both sides as the official to swear the witnesses.

When the counsel had finished their preliminary arguments regarding the challenges, Corporation Counsel Marsh called for the defendant to plead to the charges, and the latter, through his counsel, Former Senator Charles A. Reed, promptly entered a plea of not guilty to each charge.

Tax Collector Robert L. Lee was the first witness called. Mr. Marsh offered the daily arrest record of October 22, 1903, noting the arrest of John Nelson for being drunk and disorderly, upon whom sentence was suspended by Judge Runyon. Mr. Lee testified that he was at the city jail when Nelson was brought in. He said: 'I was on Front street, with half a dozen others, and we all went into the station. Nelson was in a cell with the door locked. Chief Kiely came in when we did, and Andrew McCardell also. McCardell asked, 'Who have you got in here tonight?' and he went to the cell and talked with Nelson. He said, 'If you will vote the ticket I will give you at the next election I will see that you get out.' Nelson said he would. McCardell then gave directions to have the door opened, and in my presence and that of McCardell, the chief and others Nelson then walked out. McCardell talked with him. The chief said, 'John, you'll have to get down here at eight in the morning,' and Nelson went out."

Mr. Marsh asked Mr. Lee: "During your term as councilman, did you go to a room at the Waldorf Hotel, known as the Get-together Club?" and he replied that he did.

From January to November, 1904, had you seen Kiely there?"

"Yes," the witness replied; "several times; I don't know how often."

"What was supplied when Kiely was there?"

"We ordered what we wanted. If we ordered beer, whiskey or ale we got it. I have ordered drinks when Kiely was there. Everyone paid for his own. We figured up at the end, and put the money on the table."

"Did Kiely pay for his?"

"I suppose he stood up his end, but could not swear to it."

"Think he sponged?"

"No, I don't."

On cross examination by Mr. Reed the witness testified:

"I was a member of Common Council on October 26, 1904; saw Nelson released from jail; did not report the matter to Council. This is the first time I have reported upon it to Council. It was no good reporting it to the other Council."

"You thought it not worth while to bring such violation to the notice of Council?"

"No, I would never bring such as that. I did not think it the right thing to do, to bring such a charge against Kiely, but I always thought he had acted wrong at that time."

"Why didn't you make the charge?"

"I did not have any particular desire to do it."

"When did you first call the attention of Messrs. Tyler and Bullock to it?"

"I told them when I was asked, about six months ago, after I was elected collector."

"How often have you seen Kiely at the Get-together Club?"

"Several times; but he was not a regular attendant. I did not see whether he bought anything or not. I did not watch anyone pay; we all put money in a pile on the table and paid up. I have seen him put money on the table."

"Did you say that in January, 1905, in relation to the police department, that before the year was up we'd hear something drop?"

"Not about the police department."

"Is there any doubt in your mind," asked Mr. Marsh, breaking in on the cross examination, "that Kiely drank intoxicating liquors and paid for them?"

"No doubt," was the reply.

By Mr. Reed:

"Did you say to Sergeant Frederickson that Kiely would have to go?"

"No, sir."

The second witness called was Cornelius H. Vanderveer, stationmaster for the Jersey Central at Jersey City terminal. To Mr. Marsh's questions he replied:

"In March, 1904, I was stationmaster at Communipaw. I saw Kiely in the ladies' parlor on the night of March 25, 1904. He was taking things easy. My attention was first called to two or three men in the ladies' parlor, one of them under the influence of liquor. I saw a man in a chair with a string or red roses over his shoulder, and another opposite to him. I said, 'You will have to vacate, for this is only for ladies.' He said, 'Who are you?' I said, 'I'm the stationmaster, and you'll have to vacate.' He said, 'I'll be — if I do.' As he was going out, he said, 'You — ——, I'll have you broke.' He was drunk and had to be led out by his partner. It was after the owl train. I think he went away on the 4:08 a. m. train. He repeated the last words as he went out."

"Did you notice Mr. Lee? Was he with Kiely?"

"Don't recollect."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"What evidence can you give that he was drunk?"

"He could not stand alone."

"Was the other man drunk?"

"Not so much so."

"You are accustomed to seeing drunken men often?"

"I've handled hundreds of them."

"many times did some from Somerville. We hear all sorts of back talk; we take it from rounders, but from men like Chief Kiely it's different."

Otto Schmidt, of 230 Oxford avenue, Jersey City, the present ferry agent, was the next witness. He said he was ferry collector on March 25, 1904, and that he saw Kiely that night coming out of the ladies' room and said he appeared like the one who had been out for a good time and had had much in him."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"I did not notice him much because it is a common thing to see drunks at the ferry. Mr. Vanderveer spoke to me later about it, also Mr. Large and Mr. Tyler, asking me if I remembered it."

Peter Hamilton, Jr., former policeman, now a detective in Jersey City for the Erie Railroad, was the next to testify.

He said he was in the Plainfield police department on March 25, 1904, and saw Kiely early in the morning at the station, at about 5:30 o'clock. The chief entered headquarters with Mr. Lee. His hands were in his pockets and he staggered. He said, "What are you all doing here?" Officer McGinley replied, "It's after 5 o'clock, and we are off duty." The chief said, "Hitch up and take me home." He attempted to help hitch up the horse to the patrol wagon, and in doing so he jabbed the horse's neck several times with the ends of the snap-collar. He tried to get into the wagon, and finally did get in and took the reins. He drove up Front street at what the witness said was a fast rate, zigzagging from side to side in the roadway. At Richmond street the wagon struck the crub. When the chief's home, on East Fifth street, was reached the horse was fagged out. The witness said that he aided himself there were Officer Kiely and Councilman Lee in the wagon with the chief.

"Were you present when the Golf saloon was raided?" the witness was asked.

"I was," he replied.

"Was you there before?"

"Yes, six or seven times in the two weeks preceding the raid of September 3, 1905. I saw men drinking more or less. It was a regular barroom, fitted up with a bar and bottles under the bar, with tables, chairs and round tables. The first time I was in there there were fifteen or twenty men drinking whiskey and beer. J. J. Goff served it. I bought whiskey and beer and paid for it. There was no trouble getting it or to get into the place. I paid five cents for beer and ten for whiskey. I saw drunken men as I was there, and they went out on Front street. On the night of the raid a dozen men were playing cards and drinking. I got two bottles of beer at the bar and took them to a table. Two men came and joined me and wanted to play cards. They were Patrick Wallace and William Wenzel. It was Sunday night about 8 or 9 o'clock. I bought twice and they bought one each. During the card game Messrs. Bullock and Tyler came in and took possession. They

(Continued on Page 8.)

EQUAL TAX PIONEER DIES

Jacob Weart, Once Eminent Legal Light, Passes Away at His Home Here.

A GOOD LAWMAKER

Some of the Things He Achieved During the Seventy-six Years of His Life—Leaves Two Children.

Jacob Weart, a lawyer of repute and a former Assemblyman from Hudson county, died early Tuesday morning of paralysis, at the home of his daughter, Miss Ella Weart, in East Fifth street.

Jacob Weart was born June 8, 1829, in Hopewell. He was the third son of Major Spencer Weart, Mrs. Jonathan Blackwell, wife of former Senator Blackwell, is his sister.

He received a common school education, and at nineteen years of age became a law student in the office of John Manners, at Clinton. He finished his studies in Trenton with Mercer Beasley, who was for many years chief justice of the Supreme Court. Mr. Weart was admitted to the bar in 1852, and became a counselor-at-law in 1855.

For two years he was counsel to the Board of Freeholders of Hudson county and prepared and procured the enactment of the laws creating the county Board of Health and Vital Statistics and the Hudson county Board for the Equalization of Taxes.

In company with John Cassedy, Mr. Weart organized the Bank of Jersey City, now the Second National, and he was a director and its counsel for many years.

He was instrumental in establishing the Jersey City law library and was its president for a long time. He was a member of the American Bar Association and for a number of years represented New Jersey in its governing council.

In 1881 Mr. Weart took part in the public demonstration in Jersey City on the death of President Garfield, and was chairman of the committee that prepared the memorial volume.

His opinion on the legality of the Hudson River police act of 1866 produced the case of Pangborn vs. Young, 3 Vroom 29, which established a police commission in Jersey City and formed a precedent for every quo warranto proceeding since about that time.

Jacob Weart, as long ago as 1872, fought for equal taxation, and deserves to be ranked as a pioneer and leader in that cause.

Mr. Weart prepared a map showing the real estate holdings of the railroads in Jersey City, and it was published in the Evening Journal of that city December 3, 1873. It showed 120 blocks of land valued then at $16,000,000 as the extent of the railroad property that paid no local taxes. The sense of injury became greater the more the people thought about the matter, and about that time the filling in of the Harsimus cove closed the public sewers from First to Eighth streets, and the indignation of the people knew no bounds.

At a mass meeting held in the court house on January 30, 1874, Mr. Weart promised that justice should be done or the railroad trains would stop on the west bank of the Hackensack, and no trains should enter the city unless they came under the protection of State regiments. It was that saved the railroad bridges from destruction that night was the lack of a leader to say to the people "Come on."

That was a warm, prolonged and successful campaign. It produced results, liberating the State from Camden and Amboy rule and providing both competition and taxation. In the legal proceedings growing out of it, Mr. Weart represented Hudson county. He had been for some time counsel to the freeholders and a very efficient worker for the public weal.

During his term in the Legislature Mr. Weart was instrumental in procuring the passage of the law by which married women are enabled to hold property in this State. That was the pioneer law of its kind and other states have since copied New Jersey's statutes.

He also secured the passage of an act appropriating funds for the erection in Hopewell of a monument to John Hart, a signer of the declaration of independence, whose body lies in the burial grounds of the Old School Baptist church of Hopewell.

Mr. Weart was noted for his extensive historical knowledge and addresses, and when past seventy years of age he published in the New Jersey Law Journal a series of articles on New Jersey's best known lawyers.

Mr. Weart married Catherine J. Van Winkle, of Passaic, and had two children—Spencer Weart and Miss Ella Weart. His wife died some years ago. Not very long since he married again, and Mrs. Weart survives him.

KIELY HEARING KEPT POLICE FROM BEATS

CHIEF PROTESTS AGAINST THE HOLDING OF TOO MANY BLUECOATS.

After the trial in the Council chambers last night, Chief Kiely entered formal protest against the keeping of half his force of patrolmen in the Smalley building as witnesses. A majority of the bluecoats served with subpoenas are members of the night force and it was impossible to secure enough specials to cover the beats. As a result many of them were left unguarded, and, as the chief informed President Daniel, left an opening for second story men.

Many citizens in the Council room made similar comment, one of whom was former Mayor Charles J. Fisk. Addressing himself to Mr. Daniel, he said:

"I counted ten officers in this building tonight. That gives a fine opportunity to those sneak thieves that are working around here, and they hold that man (pointing to Chief Kiely) responsible; it's not right."

In speaking to the president, the chief stated that the men he had secured to police the building were on the day shift. He was unaware, he said, of the number that had been subpoenaed, otherwise he could have made arrangements. Inasmuch as the majority of the witnesses are to be present again tonight, Mr. Daniel promised to have some plan adopted whereby only the bluecoats positively needed would be called to the room.

XMAS EXERCISES AT BOROUGH H. SCHOOL

CELEBRATIONS ARE TO BE HELD IN ALL SCHOOLS ON FRIDAY.

Christmas exercises will be held at the North Plainfield High School Friday at 12 o'clock noon. Similar exercises will be held in the kindergarten department of the Somerset street and Watchung schools at 9 o'clock in the morning and in the primary departments of the schools at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The programme at the Borough High School will include a song, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," by the school, a piano duet, "The Arrival of Santa Claus," Miss Edith Major and Miss Florence Smalley; song, "Christmas Chimes," fifth and sixth grades; trio, "The Enchanted Lute," piano, Miss Myra Emmons; mandolin, Miss Maude Emmons; violin, Miss Edna Smith; "Christmas Holiday Song," school, and an anthem, "Sing, O Heavens," by High School. A feature of the exercises will be an address by Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church.

He Met Two Friends.

Charles Schaefer, an itinerant butcher, presented a woeful and penitent countenance in the city court this morning, when he was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness. He said his fall came through a meeting with two friends whom he had not seen in two years yesterday morning. They were very glad to see him, and he was very glad to see them, and their gladness overflowed so that other things overflowed, and he, Schaefer, became very, very drunk. What happened to the friends was not disclosed. Judge Runyon smiled indulgently on the meat man and suspended sentence. "I hope I never meet another friend," said Schaefer as he went out with his hands pressed to his head.

Masonic Lodge Election.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., at a regular communication, that night, elected these officers for the coming year: Worshipful master, George T. Cagley; senior warden, Robert Reif; junior warden, Samuel W. Fish; treasurer, Clarence Goss; secretary, Garret T. Dunham; trustees, Robert A. Meeker, Fred'k J. Pope and L. B. Scudder; representative to the Masonic Relief Association, R. H. McCready. The master-elect will announce his appointments at a later date. The elected and appointed officers will be installed on Tuesday night, January 2, by William D. Wellsted, right worshipful district deputy of the Fifth Masonic district.

Entered in Big Golf Tourney.

Charles Kirchner, of the Plainfield Country Club, and secretary for the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, is among those who will attend the second annual international golf tournament to be held at the Mexico Country Club, San Pedro, January 19-29 next, inclusive. He is also trying to interest other local golfers to make the trip. A special train will be run, composed of Pullmans, diner and baggage cars, direct from New York to the City of Mexico, and special rates have been secured.

CURIOUS ARE KEPT OUT

Only Principals and Witnesses Allowed in Council Room During Kiely Trial.

POLICE FORM BARRIER

One Individual Tries to Work "Fake" Subpoena—Prominent Citizens Interested Spectators.

As was expected by those who had in charge the arrangements for the Kiely hearing, the curious citizen was early on the scene last night, but he came in far larger numbers than had at any time been predicted. Long before the Council chambers were opened, the crowd began gathering on North avenue and the rules adopted to gain admittance to the Smalley building would have done credit to a Sherlock Holmes.

But all the scheming and connivving came to naught. Acting under instructions from the police committee Chief Kiely had supplied a sufficient number of patrolmen to keep out any but those who were directly connected with the proceedings and they obey orders to the letter. There were bluecoats everywhere—on the sidewalk, in the lower hallway, on the stairway and at the entrance to the Council room proper—all intent on barring out the men who only came for what they could see and hear. In some instances it was ten minutes before legitimate witnesses reached the seats reserved for them, so frequently did they have to exhibit their passport in the form of a subpoena.

One enterprising gentleman managed to run the gauntlet of the lower hall and when on the threshold of admittance to the guarded portal was halted by Patrolman Overbaugh, who asked for his subpoena. The schemer drew a long paper from his pocket, much like the customary legal summons, and showing it just for a moment, confidently started to pass on.

"Not so fast," exclaimed the officer, and he made a successful reach for the subpoena. It proved to be an old auction bill, carefully folded so as to deceive an ordinary glance. The owner was gently, but firmly, grasped by the collar and kept going in an opposite direction from what he wanted, until he reached the sidewalk.

Those who were not allowed to enter, lingered about the front of the building and at times it was impossible to pass along that part of North avenue, so great was the gathering. As the hours aged along the crowd began to dwindle but there were many who did not give up hope of hearing the proceedings and remained in the vicinity until the adjournment was reached.

The witnesses called by both sides and the officials allowed to enter were sufficient to fill every available seat in the lobby of the Council room. With only a few exceptions, all remained until President Daniel's gavel announced a cessation of proceedings.

Among the well known citizens who were interested spectators during the proceedings were Mayor James F. Buckle, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, Factory Inspector McCardell, and the majority of the city's legal lights.

MRS. SMITH'S FUNERAL.

Four Brothers Carry Casket to Grave at Hillside Cemetery.

In the presence of a large gathering of friends at her late home on Hudson county, died early yesterday noon, a funeral service was conducted over the body of Mrs. Ella B. Smith. It was in charge of Rev. R. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, assisted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus. The quartette from the First Presbyterian church sang "Asleep in Jesus" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." The floral tributes were numerous.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being four brothers, J. T. Bowne, of Springfield, Mass.; S. R. Bowne, R. Frank Bowne and William H. Bowne, of Glen Cove, L. I.

Pleurisy Attacks Dr. Taylor.

Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor is confined at his home in Park avenue by illness which threatens an attack of pleurisy. Today he was reported as being slightly improved.

During the month of December, in order to demonstrate the value of its service, The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company will arrange to give a free trial of telephone exchange service in residences in the Plainfield exchange. A free trial of extension station service in residences or business places is also offered. Application may be made for this service to District Manager C. W. Runyon, 332 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. 12 and 2 *

EASY ON CONTRACTOR

Council May Now be Satisfied With $50 Fine From Meeker.

OBSTACLE TO LENIENCY

Law May Compel the Collection of Full Penalty; But the Council is Willing to Take Considerably Less.

The question of penalizing Contractor C. M. Meeker for his failure to finish the macadamizing work in the West End on time gave rise to a lengthy debate at the Common Council meeting Dec. 13. The discussion hinged on the extent to which Meeker should suffer for his laxity. It was finally decided that a stipulated sum, in the neighborhood of $50, imposed as a fine, would serve the purposes of a deterrent penalty, and save the Council from committing the injustice of forcing Meeker to pay more than he could afford to lose on the contract by claiming the total sum due under the $10-a-day forfeit clause. There is a question, however, as to the city's right to do anything with the clause except ignore it, and the matter was referred to Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh.

Chairman Wilson, of the street committee, introduced the subject by offering a resolution providing for the infliction of the full penalty. The work should have been completed on November 15, and the contractor is liable, under the forfeit clause, to suffer a reduction of $10 for every day the work has run on since then. The contract is practically completed, so that the city might, if it saw fit, withhold about $300.

Councilman Tolles protested against the action proposed by Mr. Wilson. He thought the full penalty two exacting and too severe to be borne by the contractor. It developed in the course of debate that Meeker's contracts amount to $11,240, but Mr. Tolles held to the contention that a fine of $50 would be a penalty sufficienty deterrent to serve the city's purpose. He said Meeker had been held up through no fault of his own by lack of slag and other materials.

Mr. Bullock called attention to the fact that Meeker had been repeatedly ordered to hurry the work and warned over and over again of the penalty that overhung him, without seeming effort on his part to live up to the contract. He did not think it might be well to tax the contractor if he had been delayed in getting material, but if he had merely been paying attention to private work, something certainly should be done to him.

Mr. Wilson declared Meeker had done just that, and after repeated warnings from himself and Commission Gavett. Meeker seemed to think the penalty could not be enforced.

Mr. Gioak supported Mr. Tolles in his contention that $50 was a sufficient penalty. Mr. Wilson asked if such a limit on the penalty would not invalidate the whole clause. Mr. Randolph moved to table the matter until the work was completed, but the motion was not seconded and the debate went on.

Mr. Hibbard hazarded the opinion that the limited fine would invalidate the clause. President Daniel, who is a lawyer, and a very good one, agreed with him.

Mr. Higham recounted his personal experience of Meeker's laxity in getting at the Monroe avenue work and argued that the contractor was entitled to no particular consideration. After some scattering debate the consensus of opinion shaped itself in favor of a small fine if that course could legally be followed. On Mr. Tolles' motion it was voted unanimously to refer the matter to the corporation counsel, with the request to devise, if possible, some means whereby the penalty "for a less number of days than the whole number in default" might be collected.

Another street matter awoke debate earlier in the meeting. When Mr. Wilson, after the president's call for protesting property owners had brought no response, called up the ordinance providing for more West End macadamizing on its third reading, Mr. Tolles repeated his original protest against the work.

"It is too late in the year for such work as that," he said. "It will come under the control of the new Council and it should be left for them to inaugurate."

Mr. Gioak echoed Mr. Tolles. "The work should have been taken up at the beginning of the year," he continued. "I move the matter be tabled."

The motion was not seconded.

"We could not do the work earlier," explained Mr. Wilson. "The grade was not laid."

The vote on the ordinance was 7 to 3. Messrs. Gioak, Tolles and Randolph voting nay.

Two tax protests were received. Mrs. Carl Pfender asked for a remission of a poll tax against her husband; the latter died on November 3. It was ruled that the Council had no authority to remove the tax. F. W. Hopple, of Westfield, claimed an error in a sewer assessment, but the finance committee reported the error as one that did not affect the amount due.

WHERE CHRISTMAS TOYS COME FROM

MOSTLY MADE IN GERMANY, FRANCE AND SWITZERLAND.

In parts of Germany, France and Switzerland every humble householder takes more interest in Christmas than the average American boy. This seems like a strong statement, for Christmas is pretty thoroughly appreciated by the young of America. But, great as the festival is to them, it is not essential to their existence. They could get along without Christmas, but the toymakers in Switzerland, the Tyrol and south Germany would starve without this midwinter holiday which makes a market for their goods. There are wood carvers, doll dressers and toymakers in every hamlet and home of the Tyrol. They depend upon the small wages they make from these toys to put bread and butter in their mouths.

All through the winter season every boy and man carves out wood animals and toys for the factories. Everything is handimade. A Noah's ark of twenty or thiry wooden animals that retails for a quarter in this country does not pay the carver more than a few pennies.

The boys are taught to handle the knife early, and they learn to cut out wooden ducks, hens, horses, cows and other toys before they have reached their teens. Working all through the early winter days and nights in their little homes, they make the wooden toys that delight so many children throughout the world.

The value of German toys exported to foreign countries last year was close to $13,700,000, of which the United States, as the principal customer, took about $4,000,000 worth. Sonneberg is the chief center of the industry. The annual report of the Chamber of Commerce of the Sonneberg district gives the following cale of daily wages paid to persons working on dolls and doll heads, the hours of labor being ten to ten and one-half: Male adults, 54 to 60 cents; female adults, 36 to 48 cents; male youths, 36 to 48 cents; girls, 24 to 37 cents. Most of the hands are paid by the piece, the men earning from $5.60 to $6, the women from $1.92 to $3.60, and the youths from $1.10 to $2.40 per week. An piece-work some skilled males earn as high as $7.20 and expert women up to $4.32 per week.

TEACHERS INSTRUCTED IN THE CARE OF PUPILS

TOLD BY DR. BUCHANAN HOW TO DETECT DISEASE.

Taking as his subject, "The Detection of Disease," Dr. J. H. Buchanan gave his second and last "health" talk to the teachers of the North Plainfield schools, yesterday afternoon. The gathering also included many parents of pupils who had been invited.

In the course of his remarks, Dr. Buchanan stated that it is highly essential that teachers should be sufficiently experienced to note any sign of illness exhibited by a pupil and to take immediate steps to dismiss him from the class. Children who are at all indisposed should not be required to remain at the desks a moment longer than necessary and it is within the teacher's privileges to send them home. But as a rule, the doctor declared, the teachers do not see diseases in their formative stages, when they are most difficult of detection, and in many cases the trouble is well advanced before the truth is realized.

"A child who is in the full possession of his health," said the physician, "does not remain quiet for any great length of time. He is full of animal vitality that is bound to keep him looking for something to do and to rid himself of surplus energy. On the other hand, a dull eye and listless manner give warning of physical derangement and a warning for prompt action. Again, a child who is feverish or who complains several times of headaches should be sent to a physician. Another valuable aid to the detection of disease is the tongue, while a sore throat is always something to arouse suspicion. Beware of a tonsil covered with membrane and conduct a minute examination, using a microscope if necessary."

In closing Dr. Buchanan told the teachers they should never start the day's sessions without first scanning the face of every pupil to note the presence of any trouble. A sick child has no right to be in school and "It is better to make fifty mistakes in sending home than to be incautious and aid in starting an epidemic."

Heavenly Rest Nets $100.

The second and last night of the fair at the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Wednesday night, was even more successful than the first night. There was a good attendance and nearly everything was disposed of at satisfactory prices. The same members of the Women's Guild were in charge of the booths. The profits, about $100, will go into the guild treasury to be used for church purposes.

USE OF TURPENTINE.

Turpentine is excellent and soothing when applied to scalds and cuts. It will take ink stains out of muslin when added to soap and also helps to whiten clothes if added to the water in which they are boiled.

Moths will not come near clothes sprinkled with turpentine; they seem to hate its odor. A few drops of turpentine sprinkled where cockroaches congregate will exterminate them at once, while it will also drive red and black ants away.

Tan leather boots can be nicely cleaned with turpentine. Pour a few drops on a woolen cloth and rub.

White kid boots can be cleaned by rubbing them well with spirits of turpentine, using a clean white rag; they will first appear quite yellow, but must be dried before the fire and flour rubbed well into them to restore their pristine freshness. When quite dry, carefully wipe the flour off.

Turpentine applied with a bit of flannel will (especially when the stains are deep) restore the whiteness of ivory knife handles.

Gilt frames can be cleaned by wiping them with a small sponge moistened with oil of turpentine; wet the sponge only just sufficiently to take off the dirt and fly marks, then allow the frames to dry of themselves.

Turpentine is an immense boon for blisters on the hands, while it is also good for corns on the feet.

Turpentine is a simple and safe remedy for unbroken chilblains.

Persons suffering from rheumatism can have a little turpentine put in their bath water.

BIBLE ON DIVORCE.

What is the Scriptural restriction as to divorce? Is it limited to infidelity, or does it also include desertion?

The Interchurch Conference on Marriage and Divorce met recently at the Church Mission House and wrestled several hours with the problem. It was finally agreed to leave the question to be solved by the forthcoming Interstate Conference at Washington, which is to consider uniform legislation on divorce.

Some of the delegates to the conference, which was presided over by Bishop Doane, of Albany, thought infidelity alone should be a cause for divorce, and some who were not Episcopalians or Presbyterians thought desertion ought to be included.

After a discussion lasting several hours a committee was appointed to appear before the Interstate Conference and present the various resolutions adopted by the Interchurch Conference at its last meeting in Washington last January. These include a resolution forbidding the remarriage of the guilty party in a divorce proceeding and withholding from the innocent party the privilege of remarrying within a year of the decree.

Otherwise the Interchurch Conference approves the "act concerning divorce" prepared by the Conference of State Commissions and indorsed by the Bar Association.

The committee to attend the Interstate Conference will be headed by Bishop Doane and will include Francis Lynde Stetson, John E. Parsons, Judge W. M. Lanning, of Trenton and the Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, of the Presbyterian church.

IF I ONLY KNEW.

If I only knew the box where the smiles were kept,
No matter how large the key
Or strong the bolt, I would try so hard—
'Twould open, I know, for me;
Then over the land and the sea,
broadcast
I'd scatter the smiles to play,
That the children's faces might hold them fast
For many and many a day.

If I knew a box that was large enough
To hold all the frowns I meet,
I would like to gather them, every one,
From nursery, school and street,
Then, folding and holding, I'd pack them in,
And, turning the monster key,
I'd hire a giant to drop the box
To the depths of the deep, deep sea.

—Junior Toilettes.

REDUCED RATES TO NEW ORLEANS.

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account Meeting American Association for Advancement of Science.

On account of the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at New Orleans, La., December 29 to January 4, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to New Orleans from all stations on its lines at greatly reduced rates. Tickets will be sold and good going December 26, 27 and 28, and will be good for return passage until January 6, inclusive, when properly validated by agent of terminal line at New Orleans. A stopover at Washington will be permitted in both directions within the transit limit on tickets reading through that city. For particulars concerning specific rates and other information, consult nearest ticket agent.

John Wenzel, of South Second street, is detained at home by illness which threatens pneumonia.

Miss Helen Sylvester, of Philadelphia, has been the guest of Miss Leila Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue.

GROWTH OF METHODISM IN THE UNITED STATES

CHURCH'S MEMBERSHIP AND IT LIBERALITY BOTH GREAT.

During the year 1905 there has been an increase of 42,059 full members in the Methodist Episcopal church in the United States; and in the foreign missions an increase of 7,932, making in all 49,991 increase in full membership at home and abroad. Besides these there is an increase of 14,166 probationers in the home and 13,933 in the foreign field, making in all an increase of 78,090 communicants. During the year there have been 41,332 deaths, which, added to the 78,090 new communicants, shows the whole number of accessions to be 119,422.

December 31, 1904, the membership, including the probationers, was 3,070,121, besides 18,355 ministers, including those on trial, and three bishops, equaling $3,088,506. At this time the number of members, including the probationers, is 3,148,211; the number of ministers is 18,618; bishops, 28; total, 3,166,857.

The benevolent enterprises of the church show a similar increase. Without counting a dollar for church buildings, for colleges and universities, for debt paying or hospitals, homes for the aged or the orphans, which mount up to millions, or the money paid by the people for the support of local churches and pastors, the church has given to the regular "benevolences" — missions, church extension, Sunday School Union, Tract Society, Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, Board of Education and the American Bible Society—$3,169,403, an increase of $259,927. This is not only an increase in bulk, but in per capita gifts beyond anything the church has ever done.—Christian Advocate.

SCHOOL TAX APPORTIONED.

Union County's Share to be $53,188.43.

The State Boar of Education has received the certification of State Comptroller Morgan to the apportionment of the State school tax for the 1906 year. Based on the total ratables of the State, the tax for next year is two and three-quarter mills on the dollar of valuation.

The comptroller shows that the 1905 total ratables of the State, on which this tax is based, is $1,153,682.10. On this basis the tax would be $3,172,626.14.

Under the State school law the State appropriates from its general funds for the support of the schools an amount equal to thirty-five per cent. of the total school tax, and that reduces the amount to be raised by taxation just that much. The comptroller's report shows that the thirty-five per cent. appropriation for 1906 will be $1,110,419.29, so that the tax to be raised in the counties besides will aggregate $2,062,208.29.

The apportionment for Union county follows: Total ratables, $55,260,709; total tax, $151,966.94; share of thirty-five per cent. appropriation, $53,188.43; balance to be raised by the county, $98,778.51.

Under the State school law ten per cent. of the amount raised for school purposes is held by the State as a reserve fund and this is apportioned later in a way to benefit the districts where the ratables are not sufficient to produce tax enough to insure proper school accommodations. The reserve of the Mercer county tax will be $10,000.10, so that the county will have $90,000.87 for schools as son as the tax becomes available. Later it will bet its share of the reserve fund. Mercer county is not a district requiring aid from the ten per cent. reserve fund so that it will not receive more than the $10,000.10, and it may receive somewhat less.

The apportionment to the counties of both the total tax and the State appropriation is made on the basis of the proportion that the ratables of the county bear to those of the whole State.

HOW TO LOOK YOUR BEST.

When you wish to look your best at a dinner or dance on any special occasion, if tired, lie down in the afternoon, and be sure to throw off both shoes and corsets, for without the removal of these, as a hospital nurse once told me, you get no real ease. Now take, and quickly, a warm bath and afterwards rub your spine well with eau-de-cologne or verbena. Dress very slowly and take plenty of time to arrange your hair. The face should first have been carefully washed with water as hot as could be borne, softened with bran, and then sluiced with cold water, into which some toilet vinegar had been dashed. To brighten the eyes, bathe them in a teacupful of water which has been slightly salted. Whatever happens, be sure to have all your clothes, your stockings, shoes, gloves, handkerchief, laces, handbag, fan, opera glass, or what not, laid out ready for you in the afternoon, your hair brushes washed, etc., so that when the hour comes for you to dress you can have no sort of worry or hurry, and can make your toilet composedly. If a pick-me-up be needed, there is no recipe so good as a glass of boiling milk sprinkled on top with nutmeg. To be sipped slowly.

$110,000 GOES TO HOME

Institution Founded by the Late Wm. R. Clarkson the Beneficiary.

WILL HAVE $300,000

Able Execution of Trust Reposed in Alexander Gilbert and L. V. F. Randolph—Trustees Praised by Home's Board.

In their report the committee appointed by the directors of the Jennie Clarkson Home for Children have high words of praise for the manner in which former Mayor Alexander Gilbert and former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, both of this city, managed the estate of William R. Clarkson. Because of the business judgment of these two trustees in handling the late Plainfielder's affair, altogether about $300,000 will be vested in the institution, which is located at Katonah, N. Y.

Of the entire trust fund, approximately $110,000 is now payable the managers of the home. At the expiration of a life interest, an equal amount will be forthcoming. In addition to this, approximately $70,000, accumulated by the late Mrs. Clarkson since her husband's death, has also been bequeathed to the institution.

The Jennie Clarkson Home for Children was founded by William R. Clarkson shortly after the death of his daughter, to whom he and his wife were devotedly attached, and the institution was named for her. In his will Mr. Clarkson, who died a decade ago, formed a trust, having previously received the consent of Messrs. Randolph and Gilbert to administer it. To his wife, Mrs. Annie E. Clarkson, and his sister, Mrs. Ayres, he gave equal life interests. He made a provision, however, that on the death of either, the life interest of such should become payable to the home.

All the funds were invested by the trustees in carefully chosen real estate mortgages. In addition, all sums realized from the sale of real estate in New York, Brooklyn, Plainfield and Bayonne were in like manner invested in high grade mortgages. The homestead on East Front street alone was excepted and it has not been converted into cash because the trustees have not received a fair offer for it.

Mrs. Clarkson died on September 27, 1905. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ayres, is still living, though well advanced in years. The trustees will continue to manage the properties left on their hands until Mrs. Ayres passes away.

EXALTED RULER NAMES MINSTREL COMMITTEE

W. J. COUNIHAN TO HAVE CHARGE OF ELKS BIG AFFAIR.

At the regular meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., December 13, Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon appointed the committee that is to take entire charge of the organization's coming minstrel entertainment. It is comprised of W J. Counihan, manager; Frank Boos, John H. Cose, Elmer D. Cutting, Thomas M. Muir and Joseph O'Keefe. These members are to have entire charge and their plans will be outlined at once and the active work of preparation hurried in order to have the performances the latter part of January or the first of February. Chairman Counihan, being a theatrical man of wide experience, is in a position to introduce many features never before seen in a local amateur affair of this kind and is being backed by his assistants to make the show overtop all previous efforts.

The exalted ruler, last night, also appointed the committee that is to arrange the Elks' annual Christmas entertainment. It consists of Charles J. Fisk, chairman; Herbert Buxton John H. Cose, Maze Edwards, John J. Kenney, Charles A. Reed, William C. Smith, Edward M. VanBuren and W. F. Williams.

XMAS DINNER FOR POOR.

Salvation Army Undertakes to Give Cheer to 500.

Ensign and Mrs. Magee, of the local branch of the Salvation Army, are preparing for the annual free Christmas dinner, which it is proposed to give to 500 poor people of Plainfield. The plan is to give the dinner out in baskets, each one containing a good chicken, a loaf of bread, one pound of sugar, one quarter pound of coffee, one turnip, one cabbage, one quart of potatoes, one-half pound of candy, one-half pound of nuts, five oranges and one copy of the Christmas number of the War Cry, with supplement.

There is still $6,000 remaining to be paid in connection with the new building and Ensign and Mrs. Magee are making extra efforts to raise this sum at the earliest possible date.

Morris A. Zook, of Central avenue, sailed for Cuba on Saturday.

Chester Decker, of West End avenue, has recovered from a recent illness.

THIEVES IN HESS HOUSE ON CENTRAL AVENUE

LOOKED FOR MONEY AND DISDAINED ALL OTHER LOOT.

Harlem Page Hess, 830 Central avenue, was added Wednesday to the list of burglar victims that is being added to daily at police headquarters. The visitors from the under-world were at his house Tuesday night. They took nothing, but that was because they could not find just the swag they wanted and not because they didn't have all the time and opportunity they needed.

The thieves broke into the house through a lower window Tuesday night. The family were out of town Tuesday and the criminals worked undisturbed until they were ready to leave. Mr. Hess discovered the robbery yesterday, when he returned home. Evidences of the job were scattered all about the house. Every bureau, closet and drawer had been opened, and things were lying all about.

Mr. Hess took a rapid inventory of his goods, but could find nothing missing. It was evident that the thieves were after money, and did not want to be burdened with other loot. They found no money and went away practically empty handed.

The police were notified by Mr. Hess Wednesday morning. Officers sleuthed carefully about the place and asked searching questions, but clues were as elusive as usual.

RECEPTION TENDERED REV. GEORGE A. WARNER

NEW RECTOR OF HOLY CROSS PRESENTED TO PARISH MEMBERS.

In the prettily decorated parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross, Rev. George A. Warner, the recently elected rector, was tendered a reception by the members of the Women's Guild, Dec. 13. It lasted from 8 to 10, during which time Mr. Warner was presented to the greater part of the church members.

The affair was directly in charge of the entertainment committee of the Guild, of which Mrs. A. T. Converse is chairman. Mrs. J. O. Stevens and Mrs. Samuel Townsend poured while Mrs. J. C. MacClymont and Mrs. Murray served. They were assisted by a corps of waitresses comprising the Misses Mary Barlow, Kate Barlow, Gertrude Pearson, Marion Carman, Louise Saunders, Eunice Watson, Madeline Howard and Gladys Burt.

A feature of the affair was an informal programme of music arranged in charge of Mrs. Odell, organist of the church. It included solos by Mrs. Joseph M. Shellabarger, Miss Mabel Smith, Miss May Smith, Frederick K. Pope and Louis Barton.

In the decorations, which were prettily arranged, yellow and white were the prevailing colors. There was also a tasteful array of potted plants.

VAUDEVILLE AT CHARITY BALL.

Annual Benefit at Casino to Be on Big Scale.

Plans for the charity ball to be given at the Casino Friday night, December 29, for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, are progressing satisfactorily. The price of tickets will include, in addition to dancing and the vaudeville performance, an elaborate supper, which will be served in the billiard and bowling rooms.

Austin will furnish two orchestras, thus affording continuous dance music throughout the evening. Those in charge of the entertainment have arranged for a first class vaudeville show to be given in the clubhouse, where those who do not dance may have a good time. The responses thus far received indicate an attendance far exceeding that of last year.

MAYOR MARRIED 22 YEARS.

Borough Executive and His Wife Celebrate Informally.

Mayor and Mrs. Newton B. Smalley celebrated the twenty-second anniversary of their wedding Wednesday. The observance was purely informal. A number of friends dropped in during the day to offer their congratulations and some seat messages.

During the afternoon, the Mayor was kidnapped for a mushroom dinner at Pedefious' in honor of his being a benedict for a score and two years. No speeches were made but a delightful time was had.

Special Services at Hope.

Arrangements have been made by Rev. L. R. Howard and members of Hope chapel for a series of special evangelistic services to begin Sunday morning, January 7. Rev. George R. Lunn, D. D., of Schenectady, N. Y., a young man who has been especially favored in evangelistic effort in his own church and community, is to be in charge of the meetings.

Lincoln Day Dinner.

Plans are being made for a joint Lincoln's Day dinner by the three Jr. O. U. A. M. councils of this city. Benevolent Council started the movement and the other councils have signified their willingness to join in it.

S. S. ASSN. IS GROWING

Union County Organization Represents 25,575 Pupils Together.

NOT DENOMINATIONAL

2,613 Officers and Teachers—126 Sunday-schools—Some Plainfielders as Officers.

The executive committee of the Union County Sunday-school Association have just issued the twenty-fifth annual report, giving the statistics of the 126 Sunday-schools in the county, which shows an enrollment of 2,613 officers and teachers, and 19,718 pupils. In addition, fifty-two schools have a "cradle roll" with 1,254 babies enrolled, and forty-three schools have a "home department" with a total of 1,990 members, making a grand total of 25,575. During the year ending October 1, 653 pupils united with the various churches, making 3,426 pupils who are church members.

The report shows that in the coun*ty there are twenty-nine Presbyterian* schools with 7,460 members, twenty-five Methodist with 4,356 members, twenty-one Baptist with 3,367 members, nineteen Episcopal with 3,086 members, four Lutheran with 1,020 members; three Congregational with 379 members, two Reformed with 656 members. Reformed Episcopal, Friends, Seventh-Day Baptist, Methodist Protestant, and Moravian denominations, and Italian mission, have one each, Brethren three, and the remained are union schools. Included are seventeen schools of colored people—ten Baptist with 1,062 members, four Methodist with 246 members, two Presbyterian with 342 members, one Episcopal with thirty-six members. The membership given as to demoninations does not include the "cradle roll" or "home department."

The association is not denominational, but seeks to aid all the schools in the county to do more and better work in Bible study and teaching, through conventions and institutes, expert workers in all lines of Sunday-school work being brought in contact with the officers and teachers in this way.

The county association contributes to the support of the State associa*tion, whose lesson committee select* the course of uniform lessons which are used by the majority of the schools in this country.

The officers of the association for 1905-1906 are as follows: President, Walter M. Irving, Westfield; first vice president, Rev. W. T. Stuchell, Rahway; second vice president, Rev. C. J. Greenwood, Westfield; third vice president, Rev. J. B. J. Rhodes, Cranford; secretary and treasurer, Richard P. Greaves, Plainfield; recording secretary, Rev. W. B. Hamilton, Elizabeth; home department superintendent, William S. Webb, Westfield; elementary superintendent, Miss Edith Cairns, Plainfield; state executive committee, G. E. Hall, Plainfield.

There are sixteen district secretaries in the county, who represent the association in their respective districts, whose duties are to interest the schools in associated work and to secure a statistical report and an offering for the county association from each school annually.

The next annual convention will be held in the Westminster church, Elizabeth, October, 1906.

LOYAL LEGION DINES.

Plainfielders Join in the Festivities.

Rear Admiral Coghlan, U. S. N., was the principal speaker at the quarterly meeting and banquet of the New York Commandery, Military Order Loyal Legion, held at Delmonico's, New York, Dec. 13. It was a "navy" night, and the Rear Admiral presented an interesting paper on "The Navy." Other speakers were Naval Constructor Baxter, Commander Fisk and Rev. Donald Sage Mackey.

The Plainfield members attending the meeting were Dr. Frank Wells, Captains S. C. Peck and M. C. Dobbins, Major W. D. W. Miller, Rev. Dr. Hubbell, Hugh Hastings and Walter C. Dobbins. Among the new members installed at the meeting was Hugh Janeway, a native and former resident of this city, but now of Jersey City. In the afternoon some of the members were guests of the Military Service Institution of the United States, at a meeting held on Governor's Island. Lieut.-Col. James S. Pettit, of the Eighth U. S. Infantry, read his Seaman prize paper for which he received $100.

Knights of Columbus Elect.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, has elected these officers for the coming year: Grand knight, Arthur A. Cannon; deputy, T. J. Meaney; chancellor, Frank T. McInerney; recorder, Michael J. Moynihan; financial secretary, John J. Hines; treasurer, F. S. McCarthy; warden, W. H. Schaeffer; inside guard, Francis J. Blatz; lecturer, H. P. Greenwood; trustees, John J. Kenney, Patrick Traynor and John C. Traynor; chaplain, Rev. J. T. Delehanty.

FOR CHILDREN.

Let the children, even the very littlest ones, help make things for the Christmas tree; do not shut them out, for that is part of the fun. Here are some of the things they can do snowy afternoons and before bedtime: String cranberries and popcorn; make the paper chains which all kindergarten children know how to make; cut out paper dolls and petals of tissue paper for artificial flowers if the pattern is given them; make the paper flowers into garlands; wax or varnish autumn leaves for the walls; wind hoops with cedar and ground pine for wreaths; crack nuts and pick out the nut meats; make little bags of tarletan or net stockings for candies. Do not grow impatient if little fingers are a bit slow and clumsy, they are willing, and love and good cheer should be the watchword for Christmastide..

Tiny Japanese or Chinese lanterns are considered safer to use on the Christmas tree than unprotected candles.

To make artificial snow, stick bits of cotton in glue and then dip in powdered mica or diamond dust.

Doll heads with quaint caps may be used on the top of round blotters, bonbon boxes, pin cushions, pen wipers, string bags, and shaving balls. Stuff the head with cotton and add a large frill about the neck which will cover the foundation circle of cardboard on which the doll head must be sewed or glued.

English walnut shells gilded, filled with very tiny dolls and tied with ribbons, should hang on the tree and will please the little folks.

Better give baby home made stuffed animals of Canton flannel than cheap bright toys which are painted with poisonous paint. Everything goes into the little mouth, so if would be kind friends send the baby a toy covered with paint, scrape the paint off or put it into baby's treasure box to keep until he is old enough to keep objects out of his mouth. Home made candy, or rock candy, too, is better for the very tiny babies than the bright colored cheap candy sold by the ton at Christmas time.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Raisins should never be washed for a pudding, as it will make them heavy. Rub them clean between towels.

To cool a room wet a cloth—the larger the better—and suspend it in the room you wish to cool. Ventilate the room, and the temperature will soon sink.

To whiten bedroom floors—When washing a wooden floor put two tablespoonfuls of paraffin oil into some clean soapy water as hot as you can bear your hands in. It will also destroy insects and drive away moths.

Burnt milk—Next time you burn any milk take the saucepan off the fire and stand it at once in a basin of cold water. Put a pinch of salt in the saucepan, give the milk a stir, and you will find that the burnt taste has almost, if not entirely, disappeared.

Scorched linen—The following recipe is good for removing scorch: Extract the juice from two peeled onions, and add half an ounce of castile soap, cut small, and two ounces of fuller's earth. Mix together and then stir in one cup of vinegar. Stand the vessel over the fire and let its contents thoroughly boil. When cool spread it over the scorch and let it dry upon the cloth. When well dried wash the linen.

To keep butter cool—Here is a very simple arrangement for keeping butter cool, one of the greatest troubles of the housewife in summer. Get a common flower pot and a piece of new house flannel, and soak both in cold water all night. Put the butter on a dinner plate, put the flower pot over it, and then cover with the flannel which you have wrung out of the water. You must wet the flannel afresh every day.

A method of washing knives—In washing knives the water should only be allowed to touch the blades, as it is apt to loosen the handles if they are dipped into it. A cure for this is to have a wooden or tin cover made to fit the tub for washing up, pierced with slits, so that the blades of the knives may be passed through into the water while the handles rest above. In drying knives care should be taken to turn the sharp edge of the blade away from the hand, lest it cut through the cloth.

The value of whitewash—The healthfulness of a dwelling is very much increased by its being constantly whitewashed. Whitewash should be made by pouring boiling water on to cakes of whiting and stirring until the liquid is like a thin cream, when a small quantity of dissolved glue is added to prevent the color from rubbing off when dry. Whitewash should be applied with a broad, flat brush, working it in a uniform direction up and down the wall. It is necessary first to remove the dirt and old whitewash by washing it off with a brush and plenty of clean water.

When peeling onions hold them under cold water, as that will keep them from smarting the eyes.

Never dry flannels in the sunshine, but in a shady place. They should be washed and hung out to dry as quickly as possible.

Second Dinner Dance.

The second in the series of dinner dances under the auspices of the Plainfield Country Club will be held at the Casino on Saturday night, December 23.

DRESSING BY SIGNS.

"The hardest thing about life in the suburbs," said the girl who lived there, "is that you never can tell what weather conditions are likely to prevail in town. You get up in the morning, peer out the window and discover the sky to be gray and weeping. Therefore, you put on your oldest duds. By the time you get into town the sky has wiped its eyes and is smiling again, and there you are in storm boots and high water skirts. Or the country sky is blue, and you dress up pretty, and, lo! in town you find it to be raining in bucketfuls," says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"On many a doubtful morning my toilet is conducted something like this:

"Mother (at foot of stairs)—'Dear, you'd better put on a short skirt. It looks like a stormy day.'

"About the time I am dressed for rain Aunt Maude calls up: 'The paper says fair, dearie, so maybe it's going to clear up.'

"Off goes the short skirt gleefully, because I'm due to look particularly nice this afternoon, anyhow. No sooner do I get into a nice frock than swish goes a patter of drops against my window pane.

"'Oh, dear,' I say, 'it is going to rain.' And off goes the nice frock, just as mother comes trotting upstairs.

"'The birds are flying upward,' she says, eagerly—dear old mother hates to have any good times spoiled —'so I guess you can wear your silk.'

"There is also a blue patch in the sky above the buttonball tree. Wherefore, on goes the silk once more, and I set out in trusting confidence—to roll into the city train shed in a drenching downpour that lasts all day.

"If you live in the suburbs you'll soon lose faith in the birds, the newspaper reports and all other signs, and dress every morning in the melancholy conviction that whatever you don't expect the weather will do, in the country, that's what it will surely do in town."

IT WON'T GO NOW.

The woman wore a skirt of red cashmere, a jacket of yellowish covert cloth and a hat of black velvet, with pale blue satin knots.

Any one of these articles, as the feminine reader will instantly perceive, was all right in itself. Put that skirt, with a long redingote like it, and a black hat; or that jacket, with a tweed walking skirt and a tailored hat; or that black and azure chapeau with an all black costume, and how "fit" each would have appeared! Tossed together, they produced a most unholy combination, which attracted a battery of horrified glances to their luckless wearer.

Now, the point of this is that time was, and not so many years hence, when a woman might have appeared in that glaring hash of colors, and no one would have given her a second look, for the simple reason that the majority of women were similarly arrayed. In those unenlightened days most women of average circumstances wore a hat because it was a hat; a skirt and a coat likewise. Few beside the ultra-artistic were much concerned with the harmony or lack of harmony existing between the various parts of their attire. Many things passed as harmony then that would shock a sensitive beholder into convulsions now, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

How changed is the dress ideal! The poorest woman, with any intelligence at all, makes an effort now to have her clothes exhibit some relationship to each other, from head to foot. On six or eight dollars a week she manages a brown hat and gloves, with a brown suit; or a garnet or gray or blue tip-to-toe symphony. And great is the improvement in her appearance, therefore.

In the face of this, who can deny that there is reason in the changing fashions that have wrought this evolution?

Crimson skirts, with yellow coats and black-and-blue hats were all right once. But nevermore will they pass muster among women with any clothes sense whatever.

A SAMPLE WARDROBE.

Here is an itemized list of the wardrobe purchased by one social climber for a brief stay at Newport:

| | |
|---|---|
| Six lingerie waists | $240 00 |
| Six white skirts | 285 00 |
| Four morning dresses | 300 00 |
| Four linen suits | 255 00 |
| Three colored muslins | 250 00 |
| Black evening dress | 175 00 |
| Spangled evening dress | 400 00 |
| Hand-painted chiffon | 225 00 |
| Two silk dresses | 180 00 |
| Tailored suit | 150 00 |
| Automobile coats | 128 00 |
| Three fancy blouses | 195 00 |
| Eight hats | 320 00 |
| Shoes | 214 00 |
| Stockings | 192 00 |
| Handkerchiefs | 24 00 |
| Scarfs | 75 00 |
| Gloves | 100 00 |
| Veils | 176 00 |
| Neckwear, chemisettes, half sleeves | 227 00 |
| Belts | 50 00 |
| Parasols | 210 00 |

Mr. Parker to Lecture.

Early in January Andrew McClean Parker will give his interesting illustrated lecture on "The Panama Canal," under the auspices of the Men's Club of Grace church. All of the men's clubs of the city have received invitations to be present. The lecture will be given in the parish house.

WHY JAP GIRLS ARE PRETTY.

It is said of the dainty little Japanese woman that she is past mistress of all the arts of beauty and the culture of prettiness, health, and freshness is quite a rite with her.

One of her secrets of beauty and one which endows her with that attractive air of exquisite neatness is the marvelous care she bestows on her garments. She may wear a silk gown that is ages old, but it is so beautifully kept that it appears ever fresh and uncreased.

One rarely sees stout Japanese girls or matrons; they are very careful of their slender forms, and this is how they keep them slim: They never eat rich foods and many confections. They are up at sunrise and the daily hot bath is a religion, for of all women in the world the Japanese are devotees of the tub. An hour is devoted every day to a very careful toilet by the humblest little woman in Japan, and for the art of an innocently "making up" she has a perfect genius. The care she bestows on her hair is remarkable, and it is brushed and dressed with infinite care, scented and rolled off her white, wide forehead—a typical Japanese beauty—in softest, smoothest rolls, guiltless of curls and kinks. The Japanese girl's hair always grows low on the forehead, and this is one of the reasons why it lends itself so charmingly to the quaintly becoming national coiffure. Her complexion is more of a rich olive than anything else, but her skin is very clear and soft, and the contrast afforded by the dusky hair, kept purposely dark by applications of scented oil, and the flashing teeth, bleached to snowy whiteness, makes the Japanese woman a decided and piquant little beauty.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Curried Eggs—Slice two onions and fry in butter. Add a tablespoonful of curry powder and one pint of good broth or stock. Stew till onions are quite tender. Add a cup of cream thickened with arrowroot or rice flour. Simmer a few moments, then add eight or t enhard- boiled eggs cut in slices and beat them well, but do not boil.

Fish and Tomatoes—Shred some cold boiled whitefish until you have a cupful; mix with it the same amount of bread crumbs; add two eggs, a little pepper and salt, a dash of cayenne and a half cupful of stewed tomatoes. Turn into a baking dish, cover the top with fine cracker crumbs, drop bits of butter over it and bake for half an hour.

A Good Salad Dressing—Yolks of two eggs, one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of mustard, a little sugar, salt and cayenne, half a teacupful of vinegar. Mix butter in a saucepan, mix in a teacup mustard, vinegar, salt and cayenne, beat up the yolks of eggs, add mixture, stirring all the time; add butter, stir until it thickens like custard, leave to cool and thin down with milk. Can be bottled and will keep good a month.

Swiss Milk Toffee—Here is something to amuse the little ones some wet afternoon when they cannot get out. Rinse out a stewpan and leave about a teaspoonful of water in it. Add two ounces of butter, one and one-half tabulespoonfuls golden syrup, and one pound moist sugar. When these are all melted, stir in the contents of a tin of condensed milk and boil for twenty minutes. Lift from the fire and stir in two teaspoonfuls of vanilla essence. Pour into a buttered dish and when cool score it across.

Cherry-pine Trifle—Line a dish with thinly sliced pineapple; cover with sponge cakes, and over same pour juice of the pine. Beat up stiffly the whites of three eggs, and add a dessertspoonful of sugar. Heap unevenly over the sponge cake and garnish the dish liberally with stewed cherries. Serve with cream or custard.

Mayonnaise Dressing—A good mayonnaise dressing without oil is made in the following manner: Mix well and place on the fire to boil three-quarters of a tablespoonful each of flour, sugar, butter and dry mustard and one-half cupful of milk and one-half cupful of vinegar. Allow this to boil until quite thick, stirring constantly. When cool beat into it the yolk of one egg. If too thick thin with equal parts of vinegar and milk.

A Good Soup—Slice very fine one good sized Spanish onion or three ordinary onions; cover with a pint of cold water; add a teaspoonful of salt and a saltspoonful of pepper; cover and simmer for twenty minutes. Press through a colander. Put one quart of milk in a double boiler; rub together two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour; add to the milk and stir until smooth and creamy. Add th onion mixture; press through a fine sieve; reheat and serve with croutons an inch square.

Preserved Ginger Pudding—Beat to a cream four ounces of butter and four ounces of sugar, break one egg into it and throw in two ounces of sifted flour. Beat for five minutes, then break in another egg, and add two more ounces of flour. Beat for a few minutes longer, add two ounces preserved ginger chopped small, and two tablespoonfuls of the syrup. When all is mixed and the mold well buttered, quickly stir into the mixture half a teaspoonful of baking powder, pour the batter into a mold, cover with buttered paper, and steam for one hour and a half.

LITERARY.

The December Sunset is replete with the Christmas spirit. The cover design, "A Navajo Madonna," was designed by Xavier Martinez. Edwin Emerson, Jr., tells the thrilling story of the last Christmas celebrated by the Russians in Port Arthur at the historic moment when the great Muscovite stronghold was surrended by General Stoessel. Since Christmas is not reckoned among the public holidays of the Land of the Rising Sun, it is safe to presume that Christmas bells will not ring again for Port Arthur as long as Japan's ninety-nine years' lease of Quantung, wrested from Russia, holds good. Other features of this number are poems by Charles Warren Stoddard, Charles K. Field, A. J. Waterhouse and Ednah Aiken; Christmas stories by Arthur W. North, Mabel Craft Deering and Adelaide Soule; the story of an Indian fight by Cyrus Townsend Brady; the second of a series of articles on camping with Le Conte by George Wharton James; and an illustrated descriptive article on the Bancroft Library.

It is the desire of everyone possessing a camera to make pictures of home people as they see them. And every operator in every studio has heard and will continue to hear the hope expressed that "I wish I could get mother's or father's picture as we see them at home;" or, "I wish I could get baby playing as we see her at home," and such wishes. This is a desire of everyone that has pictures made, and the studio man is laboring under great disadvantages when he tries to please the customer who ha such a longing. All pictures are sized up for their likeness to the people as we see them about the house in certain occupations that have become familiar to us, and if the studio worker cannot get the picture to show these little familiar traits in his work we are dissatisfied. But in later years, nay, I may say months, it has become an easy matter for the amateur with his Kodak, or whatever camera he may have, to make some of the very best pictures to be had.—Felix Raymer, in Recreation for December.

In her novelette, "The Outsider," which opens the January number of The Smart Set, Beatrix Demarest Lloyd has written an exquisite romance of Italy, a story of rare literary charm and distinction. So delightful is the atmosphere of this tale, and so delicate is the art revealed, that it should take rank with Harland's "The Cardinal's Snuff-Box." This is high praise indeed, but a reading of the story will justify it. The new year opens auspiciously for The Smart Set. Short fiction in great abundance is to be found in the same issue. A delightfully humorous story, "In Vino Veritas," by Gertrude Lynch, should attract much attention. It tells of a young man who imbibes too freely before attending a smart reception. There he proposes to a girl and straightway forgets all about it. The ethics of such a situation are cleverly dealt with by Miss Lnych. "The Adequate Egerton," by Roland Franklyn Andrews, is another charming story, with a touch of Wall street and a happy ending. Marion Hill, in "The Great Perhaps," writes powerfully of an unhappy marriage, dealing with a question which will interest every reader. "Anne Houghton, Star," is a story of theatrical life by a new writer who is certain to be heard from again. The note of pathos in this graphic page from an actress' life will appeal strongly to women. Really humorous stories are difficult to find. In this issue there are two which will be enjoyed: "Mitland, of the Blues," by Ellis Parker Butler, and "Bridget, Buster of Busts," by William Hamilton Osborne; and there are other contributions from Alice MacGowan, Johnson Morton, George Bronson-Howard, Arthur H. Adams and W. C. Morrow.

OPTION ON 200 ENGINES.

Pennsy Recently Ordered 250—Not to Fall Short in the 1906 Rush.

Following a custom that has become very popular of late with the railroads, President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania, anticipating any possible further needs for motive power in 1906( has secured an option with the Baldwin Company for two hundred engines, in addition to the space already reserved with that firm for two hundred and fifty locomotives, for fifty of which the specifications have been furnished.

The conditions are such on the Pennsy that an unusually large amount of motive power is necessary to move the rush of freight that comes over that road, and it was having this knowledge in hand that prompted President Cassatt to ask for the option, although it is the opinion that it will not be needed. Should it be necessary to exercise it the Baldwins will turn out four hundred and fifty for the Pennsylvania Railroad alone during 1906. They turned out five hundred and twenty-five so far this year.

The Norfolk and Western, which is controlled by the Pennsy, has placed an order with the Baldwins for fifty locomotives. Engines such as the Pennsy orders are worth not less than $15,000 each, so that four hundred and fifty would cost $6,-750,000.

Collector Day is preparing a list of delinquent taxpayers for publication.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Dec. 24: "A Christmas Gift to the Christ"—Matt. ii, 11; II Cor. viii, 5; I Chron. xxix. 5.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

As the Christmas season comes again the thoughts and hands of all are busy with preparations for gifts and pleasant surprises for the loved ones. We care much less for what we are ourselves to receive than for what we desire to give to others. We have not thought of bargain and trade in this matter. It is all a question of giving pleasure. If not overdone, it is a blessed thing for the world, this Christmas giving.

One caution is needed in it all—that we do not forget the origin of the custom and the One who deserves and desires the best we can offer, the One who gives us not once a year, but continually, the very best of all His gifts and all that we have in any way.

There is danger even in Christian homes and in the church itself that we lose sight of our great Giver and neglect to give to Him what is His due and His pleasure to receive from us.

It is a beautiful custom coming into vogue in many places for the Sunday school and league to join with the church at Christmas time and bring offerings into the church building for the poor, to be distributed as need may require through the cold weather, when there is so much distress.

In other places they are making the collection or subscription at the Christmas festival for the mission causes of the church. Whatever calls attention to the pure benevolences and the divine origin and obligation of this festival is to be welcomed by us. We need to counteract the dissipation which is liable to creep in and all abuses of this festal season of the church. We would make more sacred all its functions in home life and elevate it to its true position.

The one best thing of all that should not be lost to view in all our enjoyment is the pleasure of our service for Jesus. This is the time of all times for renewed consecration to His work and getting very near to Him in sympathy.

We have many examples of generous giving recorded in the Bible when God's people poured out their treasure for His work, but we are not a whit behind the ancients in our offerings for the Lord.

How unstintedly the Israelites gave in the wilderness for the building of the tabernacle! How they gave when the temple at Jerusalem was to be builded! What offerings the early Christians made to help the poor! But the real systematic beneficence in care of the aged, sick and needy of all degrees is really a matter of recent growth.

What a marvelous thing has been the growth of benevolent orders with sick and burial benefits in these recent times! Great good has been done undoubtedly by many of them.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that this is not all that is needed. We must care for our needy brother, but we should not let our thought stop there. We need to give ourselves completely to the ever blessed Lord, all our powers dedicated to His service, our hearts to His love and our lips to His praise.

Better than the gold, frankincense and myrrh which the magi of old offered to the infant Saviour should be the offering which we present to Him. He has given all He had to us. Let us not withhold from Him anything which we have.

Perennial Piety.

The periodical piety that goes by the calendar and only serves the Lord Jesus at set times and places is of very little value. It is only a perennial piety that possesses both peace and power. He is the only healthy Christian who runs his Christianity through all the routine of his everyday experiences. Some people keep their religion as they do their umbrellas for stormy weather and hope to have it within easy reach if a dangerous sickness overtakes them. Others and quite too many reserve their piety for the Sabbath and the sanctuary, and on Monday they fold it up and lay it away with their Sunday clothes. A healthy, vigorous, cheerful, working religion cannot be maintained on Sabbaths and songs and sacraments. Every day has got to be a "Lord's day" if we expect to make any real headway heavenward. I have observed that those who try to live by fits and frames and feelings are never fruitful Christians.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

A Letter of Credit.

If a good face is a letter of recommendation, a good heart is a letter of credit.—Lord Lytton.

Day by Day.

I heard a voice at evening softly say:
Bear not yesterday into tomorrow
Nor load this week with last week's load of sorrow.
Lift all thy burdens as they come, nor try
To weight the present with the by and by.
One step and then another, take thy way—
Live day by day.

Live day by day.
The path before thee doth not lead astray;
Do the next duty. It must surely be
The Christ is in the one that's close to thee.
Onward, still onward, with a sunny smile
Till step by step shall end in mile by mile;
"I'll do my best" unto thy conscience say—
Live day by day.

Live day by day.
Why art thou bending toward the backward way?
One summit and another thou shalt mount;
Why stop at every round the space to count?
The past mistakes, if thou must still remember,
Watch not the ashes of the dying ember.
Kindle thy hope. Put all fears away.
Live day by day.

—Atlantic Monthly.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 24.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The brotherhood of man.—I John ii, 7-11; iii, 12-18. (A Christmas missionary meeting.)

A Christmas topic may well include the two ideas of human brotherhood and of missions. The coming of Christ into the world made it possible for men through Him to become the sons of God and hence brethren through the common tie that binds them to Christ. And Christ's coming to earth may well suggest missions. He came from heaven to earth upon the same mission that the disciples of Christ leave their homes and go to faroff heathen lands. He came to save men through His death, and missionaries go to foreign lands that they may lead men to accept the gospel offer of salvation in Christ.

The brotherhood of man is a well established doctrine. To a greater or less extent it has been recognized throughout the ages. The Fatherhood of God cannot be denied. No man was ever self created. "It is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves." By creation we have a common fatherhood and are therefore brethren. In his address to the Greek philosophers on Mars hill, in Athens, Paul enunciated this great doctrine when he declared, "God, that made the world and all things therein, * * * hath made of our blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth and hath determined the times before appointed and the bounds of their habitation." By redemption also there is a common human brotherhood. By sin we lost sonship with God; by Christ it has been restored. The redeemed sons of God are therefore brethren, "heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ."

The brotherhood of man brings its blessings, but also its duties and obligations. The latter, above all else, need to be emphasized. Brothers, for one thing, should love one another. If, therefore, all men are our brethren we should love all men, and this is the commandment of Christ. John also declares that "he who hateth his brother is in darkness" and "he who loveth his brother abideth in the light." Again, he declares that brotherly love is the test of Christian discipleship. "We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren." In other words, no man is a Christian who does not love his fellow men. Brothers should also be interested in one another and assist one another in the hour of need. Christ loved us and manifested His love by dying for us. We should show our love for each other by self denial in each other's behalf and by the exercise of kindness and charity toward one another. Nor are the obligations of brotherly love wanting. Philanthropy is widespread today. The Christmas season amply proves it. There may be here and there a man "who hath this world's goods and seeth his brother hath need and shutteth up his compassion from him," but the vast majority of men respond to the calls of their fellow men. The human heart is much better than it is often given credit for being. Few priests and Levites pass by on the other side. The spirit of Christ has a large hold upon the world. May it ever increase and more and more manifest itself not only in giving men bread for their bodies, but especially in giving them Christ, the bread of life to their souls.

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. xix, 17, 18; Ps. cxxxiii; Matt. ii, 1-15; v, 21-26; vii, 12; xxii, 35-40; xxviii, 19, 20; Acts xvii, 22-28; Jas. ii, 14-26; I John iii, 16-24.

Another Field Secretary.

In the person of Asa Merrick Parker the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor union has secured a strong man and a stalwart worker to represent it in the field.

ASA MERRICK PARKER.

Mr. Parker is a Williams college man, a former Young Men's Christian association secretary in Brooklyn and a Christian Endeavorer with a record of fourteen years' active service.

The Bay State has just reason to hope to place itself in the forefront of Christian Endeavor commonwealth.

A Japanese Poem.

John E. Randall, the secretary of the Jamaica Christian Endeavor union, was one of the foreign delegates to the Baltimore convention. He writes an interesting article to the Christian Endeavor Gem about a visit to Dr. Clark's home and closes it with a description of the interesting collection of world-wide Christian Endeavor souvenirs which the founder of the movement has treasured there, giving this translation of a Japanese poem which is among the many tokens given to Dr. Clark during his numerous around the world tours:

Strive on with God,
Then all things may be done—
As trickling drops from mossy bank
A mighty sea become.

But strive with God;
There's naught impossible to Him and thee—
As trickling drops from wayside brook
Grow into mighty sea.

Worth While.

At the recent Christian Endeavor convention in Baltimore an evangelistic meeting was held, and as a result of the appeal of the leader 500 persons arose for prayers and 200 signed cards signifying their desire to lead a new life. That was worth while.—Epworth Herald.

MATRIMONIAL FELICITY

"Edith," I said, "you'll have to speak to Mary, for she is not careful enough. There are two flies in the oatmeal this morning."

"Perhaps they are twins," my wife suggested.

"I am not speaking with a view to ascertaining their relation to one another, but merely to suggest that in the interest of maintaining an appetite, you have Mary use a few precautions."

As the lord of the house I threw considerable dignity into my little speech, and Edith, being a wife of only a year, appeared a bit nettled. I might have known that trouble was coming. That it should lie in the little pile of letters that Mary had placed beside my plate that morning, I did not at first suspect.

"Ralph," said my wife sweetly.

"Yes, dear," I answered hastily, a bit repentant for my brusqueness of a minute before.

"There is a letter from a lady in the pile for you!" Her voice was potent with hidden meaning.

I wondered. I knew I had not flirted, kissed or to any noticeable degree even looked at any prepossessing female for the last year. But a man who doesn't marry until he is twenty-eight has generally been in love once or twice—or more—before settling down, and this letter might contain secrets that in my wife's possession would prove a bane during my future life. Why, they might even lead to divorce, for women imagine themselves wronged if their husband has even had a flirtation before marriage that he has not confided in her. I took up the little pile and sorted them nonchalantly. The letter referred to was unmistakable, in its pale pink envelope, neat little seal and small, delicate handwriting. And yet I did not recall the hand. I slipped the envelope in my pocket.

"Ralph," said my wife quietly—but oh, there was a depth of meaning in the pronunciation of the name.

"Yes—dear."

"Do you know who it is from?"

"No—dear," I replied, truthfully.

"Then why don't you open it?" There was an impressive silence, the longest I've known since the momentous night I proposed and she accepted and then we sat side by side without a word for half an hour. She seems to have regretted the wasted time, for she has not been silent since.

"Ralph Loring, you are hiding something from me—your wife," she finally said, dramatically. "You are indulging in some miserable love affair when you've only been married to me for a year!"

"I have not," I shouted hotly. "And you know I haven't."

"Oh, yes, you have, and you're doing everything you can to make me miserable. You've refused to give up smoking vile cigars—"

"Yes, they are vile," I roared. "And no wonder. I have to give you so much for your dresses and ice cream sodas that where I used to smoke decent Bock occasionally, I'm lucky if I have money enough to get a Pippin nowadays."

"Oh, I s'pose you think you've got some young, innocent girl that you can fool and make love to other women, but I'm not as young as that."

"I'll bet you're not," I exclaimed brutally. "And I bet your birth certificate was lost in the Civil War."

"Mr. Loring!" she exclaimed, and I chuckled inwardly. I had hit a bullseye.

"Are you going to show me that letter?" she continued.

"I'm not!" I said shortly. "Not because there is liable to be anything in it that you could not see, but because I believe I should be allowed a bit of privacy. By George, if we are going to have much of this I'll be like poor Johnson."

"Well, what has Mr. Johnson got to do with this? He's dead!"

"That's just it. I envy him. He jumped off Long Bridge a couple of years ago and saved his wife's life, and was so sorry afterward that he jumped in again and drowned himself. And that is what I shall do if you keep on nagging me." Meanwhile I had thrust a hand in my pocket, and digging open the disputed letter with one finger I felt of the sheet within. Glory—it was embossed!"

"And now, madame, to make you duly repentant, I'll let you be the first to read that confounded letter." I tossed it across the table with a magnificently injured expression.

"It's open, Ralph," she said, a bit abashed already.

"Is it?" I said sternly. "Did you do that with my letter before I came to the table? Were you so mean as to mistrust me?"

"I didn't, Ralph," she pleaded. I subsided wrathfully.

A minute later I looked up to find her watching me guiltily. "It's only a tailor's announcement of the season's opening, all done up on fancy paper. Oh, Ralph, and I suspected you. Can you ever forgive me?"

I hesitated and deliberated. I knew it would be more effective that way. "I presume I must, little girl," I said finally. "But promise you won't ever again. You know you made me feel so bad that I—that I —that I could have gone out and shot myself."

"Oh, Ralph, you mustn't do that ever. Drown or poison yourself, please, dear, because you know shooting upsets me so!"—Gertrude E. Rebasze in Boston Post.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
Published at
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, DEC. 21, 1905.

How Cassie Chadwick must envy McCurdy, McCall and Murphy.

University of Chicago man's strength prevented his death. Isn't this a strong argument in favor of the game?

You can never reap the full benefit of good advertising unless your store management is up-to-date.—The Rhode Island Advertiser.

Iowa man's wedding rehearsal is stopped by his first wife. Wife-to-have-been probably knows to whom she owes a Christmas present.

Man out in Grand Forks claims to have brought down thirty-five ducks in one shot. Wonderful what a spectacular effect a little Jersey lightning will produce sometimes.

Exchange says that miners will insist on a full share in the rise when coal prices go up. The coal barons only know of one kind of "rise" so far as their employes are concerned.

Roosevelt is accused of being the greatest suppressor of news of any President in a quarter of a century. Of course this doesn't apply when he is on a hunting trip, speech-making tour or other continuous performance.

Will Reformer Bullock please be so kind as to tell us what has become of that proposed anti-spite house ordinance? Many, many moons ago it was related that "there is hope," but the promise like the moon appears to be made of cheese.

Just now it looks as if the Jersey City Journal and the Elizabeth Times are making a dire attempt to occupy the same relations towards each other that have characterized the Trenton papers. Cut it out, brothers. The public doesn't care a picayune for newspaper scraps; they're out of fashion.

And now the afflicted public will have to read all about the "Princess Alice's" presents, gowns, habits, hobbies, accomplishments and what not until she becomes Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. About the only things she has escaped is having her testimonial of a cleansing establishment exhibited in the "L" cars and her name on a favorite face powder.

It is indeed laudable on the part of the city to give some attention to the pests that are destroying the beautiful trees adorning the splendid thoroughfares of this city. But its plan of campaign is not one that will strike the average citizen as a wise one. In fact it looks like throwing good money away, and the city is not yet in a condition to become reckless with its funds. As we understand it, trees covered with the San Jose and Cottony Maple scales are to be sprayed with a liquid that will kill the pests. This work is to be confined solely to the trees along public streets. But how about the trees on *private property? If they are to re*main in their present condition, what is the sense of doing anything at all? The whole proposition is about as rational as it would be to quarantine a block or two should an epidemic of any sort strike this city. To be effective the remedy must be general. Otherwise it is of no avail.

It is seldom that we can agree with Chairman Wilson, of the councilmanic street committee, but his position at the Common Council meeting last night regarding the unfulfilled macadamizing contract was, to say the least, a very sensible one. The city agreed to pay C. M. Meeker over $11,000 for certain street work. When the time limit expired, it was extended. But even on November 15, when the extension itself expired, some of the work was not even started. An excuse given was that he could not get some of the necessary material. This, it will be conceded, is no fault of the city. On the other hand, the street committee and other councilmen complain that he refused to go ahead, strongly intimating that the municipality would be would be powerless to collect the penalty named in the contract. And now it has come to pass that several members of the councilmanic body do not wish to see the terms of the contract carried out. For what reason? Simply because they consider that a deduction of $200 from the bill would be a hardship. If Mr. Meeker be allowed to break his agreement, in the future what contractor will live up to his agreements?

Joint Installation.

It has been arranged by the officers of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps to hold a joint installation of officers early in January. Delegations from nearby Posts and Relief Corps will be invited to attend and there will be a special programme, followed by the serving of refreshments.

AMUSEMENTS.

A new star and a new play scored one of the most emphatic successes of the entire theatrical season in New York Monday night, when Thomas W. Ross made his first appearance at the Liberty theatre in Henry Blossom's new comedy of New York life, "A Fair Exchange." The scenes of the play are laid in New York and at Larchmont, and the plot concerns a poker game, a yacht race, and the efforts of a gentlemanly villain to get wrongful possession of Wall street securities. Mr. Ross appears as Cliffs Austin, a breezy Westerner taking his first dip into Eastern society. The part fits him perfectly. The nonchalant ease and sparkling good nature of the actor is perfectly blended with an attractive and magnetic role. Mr. Ross may confidently count himself henceforth a permanent factor in New York theatrical affairs. In "Checkers" he won a melodramatic triumph. In "A Fair Exchange" he has achieved success in a brilliant society comedy. The lines of the new piece include some of the brightest sallies and wittiest epigrams heard this season, and the audience Monday night expressed its hearty approval by enthusiastic applause and several curtain calls at the end of each act. The strong company provided by Charles Dillingham aided in what was undoubtedly a great success. Mr. Ross and "A Fair Exchange" will stay indefinitely at the Liberty theatre. There could not be a fairer exchange than the entertainment offered here for the price of admission.

One of the most talked about plays now before the New York public is Alfred Sutro's great drama, "The Walls of Jericho," the play in which James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering are now appearing in a limited co-star engagement at the Savoy theatre to audiences that continue to pack that playhouse at every performance. "The Walls of Jericho" has given to both Mr. Hackett and Miss Mannering the best medium for great success that either of these two brilliant stars have enjoyed since they first began their starring tours. Aside from the success that the popularity of Mr. Hackett and Miss Mannering lend to this drama, "The Walls of Jericho," as a play, must command attention, for it is evident that its author, Alfred Sutro, was tremendously in earnest when he wrote it, for there is an atmosphere of sincerity about it which gives it a charm that merits the public recognition which is now being accorded it. Matinees during the Hackett-Mannering season occur on Thursday of each week.

The limited co-star engagement of James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering in Alfred Sutro's great play, "The Walls of Jericho," at the Savoy theatre, New York, is without doubt the great dramatic success of the present year. This play is now in the fourth month of its engagement and the large crowds that fill the theatre at every performance are loud in their praise of both the play and the company, which gives a flawless performance of one of the most delightful and interesting dramas ever presented in a New York theatre. Seats are selling four weeks in advance, in*cluding the regular weekly Thursday* and Saturday matinees and special matinee performances on Christmas and New Year's Day.

"Wonderland" will close its season Saturday, December 23, and will be followed, starting Christmas matinee, by Marie Cahill in the part of "Molly Moonshine" in "Moonshine," which has been pronounced by the critics as the best she has ever had. This jolly and refined musical play by Royle-Hobart-Hein had one of the most successful runs that has ever been known at the Liberty theatre, New York. So unquestionable was the demand for a continuation of the piece that Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger regretted not having booked it at the Liberty for a more extensive engagement. But the next best thing possible was done, and Miss Cahill has been playing in the greater city since. This will be the last opportunity to see her this season, as after New York City she will fill her engagements in the West. "Moonshine" has charmed by its exquisite and yet an abundance of fun. Marie Cahill is the one woman on the American stage today who can make women and children laugh heartily. She has a rare sense of humor and a personality which takes it out over the footlights instantaneously. Her natural magnetism is helped by a wonderful talent as an actress. No one in the world can sing the Cahill songs as she can. And she has plenty of good ones this time. "Looking for My Ten," "Robinson Crusoe's Isle," "In Our Set," "Don't Be What You Ain't," and "Foolish," are all being sung about the city, and each is so good as to still leave it an open question as to which will be the hit of the present season.

That remarkable personage, "The Girl With the Red Domino," whose face has not been seen by any theatregoer in New York, is to be one of the attractions at Mr. Proctor's 23d Street theatre the week of December 18. This act is one of the most sensational that has ever appeared in New York, and its merit is not based solely upon the fact of the woman's secret identity, but is picturesque in the extreme. Surrounding the Red Domino is one of Mr. Proctor's extraordinary programmes. Nick Long and Idalene Cotton, in their new and original comedietta, "Managerial Troubles," will not fail to please the large Proctor audiences. During the comedietta Miss Cotton will give her famous imitation of Mrs. Fiske, as "Leah Kleschna" (by kind permission of Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske). The balance of this bill will be composed of such well known talent as The Five Mowatts, America's leading jugglers; Tom Nawn and Co., in an amusing skit, entitled "Pat and the Genii;" the Eight Shetland Ponies, the Casino Comedy Four, musical act; Artie Hall, the clever singing comedienne; Sylvano, equilibrist.

"Little Johnny Jones" is booked for a two weeks' engagement at the Grand Opera House, New York City, beginning New Year's Day. This will mark the twelfth engagement on Manhattan Island for George M. Cohan in this famous musical melodrama, and his farewell to the role of the American jockey, which will then pass to the capable hands of Bobby Barry. Bobby has been playing the part with the Western "Little Johnny Jones" company all the season, and his place with that organization is to be filled by Johnny Cantwell, a very clever singing and dancing comedian.

Blanche Bates, in her rollicking character, with its subtone of pathos and sincere sentiment, has endeared herself to the hearts of thousands of people in New York since she opened at the Belasco theatre in "The Girl of the Golden West." She was loved before, for she has been a favorite in the metropolis for years. But somehow, this dashing, breezy "Girl" seems to touch a responsive note in every breast such as is seldom found in a stage character. Probably this is because it does not seem a stage character at all. You feel that if you were to go to California you would meet this "Girl," just as sure*ly as you* would find yourself in the shadow of the Sierras, and you know that every word she utters rings true. David Belasco never conceived a character which fitted this big-souled wholesome young woman like this. It is because the "Girl" really is Blanche Bates in her inherent characteristics that you enjoy her impersonation so much. She hardly has to act at all.

David Belasco enjoys the distinction of having produced the two big hits of the present New York season. One of them, "The Music Master," with David Warfield as the star, was also the hit of last season. The other, Mr. Belasco's newest play, "The Girl of the Golden West," in which Miss Blanche Bates sustains the title role, has packed the Belasco theatre since its first night, and now it is necessary to purchase reserved seats five weeks ahead if they are to be obtained at all. The sure touch of the most eminent stage producer and dramatist of the decade is shown in the fact that every moment tells in both of the Belasco productions. This is no less true of "The Music Master," than of "The Girl of the Golden West." The hand of the wizard is evident in both. The Bijou theatre, in which "The Music Master" is holding forth, had not been a particularly lucky house for some years when it became necessary to move this particularly human play from the Belasco to make room for something else. But it has been one of the two theatres in New York which is sold out weeks before each performance. The Belasco theatre is the other.

Richard Carle begins the third week of his metropolitan run in "The Mayor of Tokio" at the New York theatre Monday evening. The talented young player-playwright has scored a decisive hit on Broadway and the New York theatre is at present the Mecca for all playgoers who like a light musical entertainment made up of comedy, beautiful girls and pretty music. Mr. Carle's songs, "I Like You" and "Foolishness," have proved the two hits of the show; the first for its pretty music and the second for its peculiar humor. In addition to the strong personal success achieved by Mr. Carle, decided hits have been scored by Miss Janvier as wardrobe mistress of a stranded theatrical company, and Miss Hortense Mazurette, the prima donna. When Miss Janvier walked down to the footlights there was hardly a person in the audience who had ever seen or heard of her. Within a few minutes after she had made her entrance, however, the whole house was looking through programmes to discover the name of this woman who had immediately taken the fancy of Broadway because of her keen appreciation of humor and her power to express it. Miss Mazurette was also an unknown quantity, although she had made a splendid impression in Chicago during the long run of "The Mayor of Tokio" in that city. New York theatregoers were unaware of her existence.

Public interest in the run of "Veronique" at the Broadway theatre shows no sign of waning and the house is packed at every performance. Ruth Vincent, Kitty Gordon, Lena Maitland, Lawrence Rea, John Le Hay and the others members of Mr. Edwardes' London company make up the strongest musical organization seen on Broadway in many years. Notwithstanding the success of "Veronique" its run is drawing to a close, necessitated by contracts for its presentation in other cities.

E. S. Willard will begin his third week at the New Amsterdam theatre Monday evening, when he will play for the first time Kipling's "The Man That Was," preceded by "A Pair of Spectacles." This will be the premiere of the former piece, Mr. Willard presenting it for the first time on the stage. On January 1st Mr. Willard will be followed by Fay Templeton in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway."

Thomas W. Ross has scored a success in "A Fair Exchange" at the Liberty theatre that will place him permanently among New York favorites. Henry Blossom has given Mr. Ross a vehicle just suited to his talents and Charles Dillingham has surrounded him with an excellent company, backed by a magnificent production. The result is a most highly enjoyable artistic performance of a bright comedy which teems with spirited interest. Mr. Ross begins his last week at the Liberty next Monday evening and will be followed on Christmas Day by "The Gingerbread Man."

"Before and After," Leo Ditrichstein's latest "laughter play," has made a hit at the Manhattan theatre, New York, where it will serve as perhaps the most amusing comedy to be seen in New York this season. Holiday matinees will be given on Christmas and New Year's Day, in addition to the regular Saturday matinees in vogue at this theatre. This play puts forward one of the best companies of comedians seen in New York in a long time, and when amusing players have such a medium the result is unmistakable. "If you are suffering from the blues," says the New York World, "go to the Manhattan theatre and your cure will be instantaneous." "The convincing claim of 'Before and After,'" says the Herald, "is humor, and it has scored a success in the fun-making line." And other metropolitan papers say the same. That Mr. Ditrichstein in his play has worked out one of the most amusing pieces yet credited to him is certain. And when one may see such comedians as Fritz Williams, George C. Boniface, Jr., Thomas A. Wise, Mr. Ditrichstein himself, Roy Fairchild, John D. Murphy, Katherine Florence, Georgie Lawrence, Kenyon Bishop, Jean Newcombe, Helen Warren and Mabel Lindlay in association, no further prescription for fun-needs to be written.

CHURCH RAISES $1,000.

First Baptist Congregation Contributed That Amount Yesterday.

After the morning service at the First Baptist church, yesterday, L. V. F. Randolph, a trustee, and J. Her*bert Case, treasurer, made state*ments regarding the finances of the church for the year. It was stated that there is a deficit of about $2,000, which includes $400 carried over from the previous year and which was the balance left of the $11,000 indebtedness which was met. In response to an earnest appeal from the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, as well as Mr. Randolph, Mr. Case and C. W. McCutchen, over $1,000 was raised at the service, of which amount $250 was given by the choir. There were several contributions of $100 and lesser amounts and the balance needed is practically assured to clear the church of debt. During the past year the envelope contributions increased twenty-five per cent. over the preceding year and the basket collections increased twenty per cent.

Former Quartette Sang.

A special programme of music was furnished at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning by the former male quartette. It was composed of E. D. Cutting, Sidney R. Titsworth, E. M. Honeyman and Howard Lewis.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Josephine Madden, of Muhlenberg place, to Robert Morley, of South Second street. The wedding will be celebrated at the former's home New Year's day.

XMAS AT GROSZMANN SCHOOL.

Exercises to be Held Saturday Afternoon.

Invitations have been issued to the friends of the Groszmann School for nervous and atypical children, to attend the Christmas exercises to be held Saturday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the school, Watchung Crest, Johnston's Drive.

The programme will consist of songs and recitations by the pupils; tableaux, representing the "Cradle Songs of Nations," leading up to the Madonna idea, and a Christmas play, "The Lost Reindeer," with songs and calisthenic dances, etc.

Miss Marguerite Steinberger, soprano, of Brooklyn, and the renowned violinist, Frederick W. Schalscha, of New York, have promised their services. Most of the scenery used in the tableaux and the play has been especially sketched for this occasion by the well-known landscape artist, Jonas Lie.

To Install Officers.

Officers from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will install the officers-elect of Ulric Dahlgren Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of Elizabeth, on Tuesday night, January 2. A large delegation of local veterans will accompany the installing officers.

McAll Auxiliary Tea.

The McAll Auxiliary will hold a birthday tea Thursday afternoon, January 4, at the home of Mrs. Frank O. Herring, 1111 Park avenue, at 3 o'clock.

PRIESTS KNOCK AT HIGH SCHOOL DOOR

ASK JERSEY CITY EDUCATION BOARD TO ADMIT PAROCHIAL SCHOOL GRADUATES

At Thursday night's meeting of the Jersey City Board of Education this communication was received:

"To Superintendent Henry Snyder and the Board of Education: At a meeting of the reverend rectors of the Catholic churches of Jersey City, held in St. Lucy's rectory, it was formally resolved that this appeal be made to Superintendent H. Snyder and the Board of Education, and that our petition be framed in the following resolutions:

"Whereas, Our schools, both in method and grade work, have made rapid strides, and today with schedule of studies, arranged as nearly as possible with that of our public schools, afford our children a com*plete grammar* course, and thoroughly fit them for High School; and

"Whereas, We desire, for the building up of our school system, to give our school children graduating an opportunity to enter the field of higher education, and for this purpose pledge ourselves to supply any difference existing between our schools and that of our public schools, so as to render our system more efficient; be it

"Resolved, That we, the rectors of the Catcholic churches of our city, and, by our office and principals of our schools, respectfully petition your honorable body to extend to our parochial school children graduating the right to enter High Schools on our approval."

The petition was referred to the board's committee on teachers and the High School committee, with instructions to report to committee of the whole.

One of the priests is Father Smyth, formerly rector of St. Mary's church here.

BOY LEADS AT SYNAGOGUE.

Jacob Abrams Conducts Service Preparatory to Confirmation.

Jacob Abrams, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Abrams, of Grove street, led the regular services of the Children of Israel at the synagogue last night, under the direction of Rev. D. Kantravitch. It was done as a preparatory form to his confirmation, which took place at 9 o'clock this morning, but was an unusual proceeding for one of his years. Following his religious service today a reception was conducted at the home of his parents and another will be given tomorrow.

One of the guests at the confirmation was Jacob Cantus, a wealthy New York manufacturer, who is one of Mr. Abrams' intimate friends. He will also attend the reception tomorrow.

WHITTIERS WON.

Girls' Basketball Teams Play an Interesting Game.

The girls' basketball team from the Whittier School defeated the P. H. S. 2d girls' team at the Hope Y. M. A. gymnasium yesterday afternoon by a score of 9 to 4. It was the first game of the season for the teams and the game was an exciting and interesting one from start to finish. The Whittier team feels so confident in its ability to play the game that it expects to meet the first team from the High School soon.

At the end of the first half the score was 9 to 3 in favor of Whittier, and while the victors did not score again, they succeeded in holding their opponents down to a score of four. The play was snappy and the girls showed that they can play the game almost as well as the boys. Miss Pope, one of the school teachers, was the referee. The teams lined up as follows:

Whittier School—B. Fleming, M. Durar, forwards; H. Knox, center; B. Alpaugh, N. Snyder, guards; Mahaffey, sub. center.

P. H. S. 2d—E. VanTuyl, H. Winn, forwards; M. Line, center; M. Jimmerson, M. Ramsay, guards; Moody, guard, second half.

MR. WIGHTMAN NAILS LIE

Everything is Harmonious in Altoona School Affairs He Declares.

HUNTING UP AUTHOR

Former Superintendent of Borough Schools After Instigator of Story Contained in a Pittsburg Despatch.

Allegations that the teaching corps of the Altoona, Pa., schools are in open revolt against Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, formerly supervising principal of the North Plainfield schols, are branded by him as being without the slightest foundation. For a week past Mr. Wightman has been endeavoring to hunt up the author of the malicious dispatch, but has gotten no further than tracing it to Pittsburg, where it was sent out by a news agency.

According to the dispatch in question, which was published in these columns on Saturday last, Mr. Wightman was accused by the teachers of Altoona at an institute then in session of being haughty and domineering in manner, too severe a disciplinarian, delegating to himself the duty of punishing pupils, and refusing to allow the teachers to sit down in the school room. These alleged charges were reported as having been framed in shape of resolutions.

This is what Mr. Wightman has to say about the matter:

"I have ben trying without results to ascertain where the newspaper dispatches printed in Plainfield could have originated. The allegations in every particular are pure fabrications. There is not even a trace of a snadow on the educational horizon here. Everything is most harmonious. The Board of Education are unanimous in their actions. The com*munity* in general, as far as any of us are able to learn, are in hearty sympathy with the plan of educational work now being carried out in this city.

"The institute session referred to was a most pleasant one, to my mind one of the best I have ever attended. There is absolutely no ground for the statement that there is any spirit of disloyalty on the part of any teacher or principal in this city. It would be, I believe, next to impossible to find a more earnest body of teachers and principals than we have here.

"Personally I have never enjoyed my work as much as at the present time, and the future looks very bright and promising."

Lloyd Harris Operated On.

Lloyd Harris, son of Mrs. Ida Harris, of South Plainfield, who has been a great sufferer with rheumatism for several months, underwent an operation in a Brooklyn hospital on Thursday. It is believed that this will eventually result in complete recovery and the physicians in charge are quite hopeful. While the boy is at the hospital his mother is staying in Jersey City, visiting the institution every day.

Big Money on Football Game.

A recent football game between Massillon and Canton for the championship of Ohio caused about $100,000 to change hands on the result. Massillon won by a score of 14 to 4, both teams indulging in rabid professionalism. Some of the players received as much as $500 for their services. Heston, of Michigan, got this sum, while Cure, of Lafayette, received $300 and Blondy Wallace, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania eleven, picked up $350. All these played on the losing team. On the winning team were several well known college players, who evidently forgot all about the amateur rule. After the game, which was played at Massillon, the Canton people who accompanied their team to the battlefield, had nothing left in their pockets but return tickets. Massillon was $50,000 behind on the season until this victory pulled the town out of the slough.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River.

In effect December 3, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.25, 7.28, 7.55, 7.47, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 10.28, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.32, 8.27, 9.27, 9.40, 10.27, 11.28 p. m. Sunday trains—2.17, 3.37, 4.47, 7.40, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 10.02, 9.49, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.27, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 9.40 p. m. Sunday trains—7.40, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 10.02, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.19, 7.11, 8.21, 9.17, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 1.42, 2.02, 2.11, 3.30, 4.23, 5.03, 5.29, 6.04, 5.57, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.33, 8.08, 8.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday trains—5.45, 8.42, 11.18 a. m., 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 7.05, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.11, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sunday—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.19, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.28 p. m. Sunday trains—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.47 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc.—3.37, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 12.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—(Except Ocean Grove) 3.37, 8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—3.37, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 12.44, 1.18, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—3.37, 8.01, 8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49 p. m., (3.44 p. m., Lakewood only).

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.01, 8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 9.30, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.39, 2.45, 3.42, 6.45, 7.46, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17, 9.53, 10.39, 10.44, 11.42 a. m., 2.45, 3.42, 4.55, 5.29, 6.45, 7.46, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 3.42, 6.45, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17, 9.53, 11.42 a. m., 4.55, 6.45, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m., 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg, via Bound Brook—5.17, 7.44, 10.51 a. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 10.44 a. m., 2.45 p. m. Via Allentown—5.25, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.47 p. m. Sunday—2.03, 5.47 p. m.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sundays —2.03 p. m.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and After November 26, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.57 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.39 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.10, 11.43 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.41, f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays —1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.41, 7.44, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 2.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., f 2.35 and f 6.41 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., f 6.41 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 9.37 a. m., f 1.03, and f 5.43 p. m., 12.51 night, week-days. Sundays—10.02 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.
GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Ralroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 3, 1905.
LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo, and principal intermediate stations.

10.23 a. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Detroit, and Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112.

Special Xmas Service.

There will be a special Christmas service at the Church of the Holy Cross on Sunday, the musical part of the service being under the direction of Mrs. Odell, organist and choirmaster. The annual Christmas entertainment of the Sunday school will be held Thursday night, December 28, in the parish house.

MR. BOARDMAN TO LEAVE

New Y. M. C. A. Physical Director Hands in His Resignation.

HERE ONLY 4 MONTHS

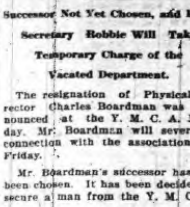
Successor Not Yet Chosen, and Boys' Secretary Robbie Will Take Temporary Charge of the Vacated Department.

The resignation of Physical Director Charles Boardman was announced at the Y. M. C. A. Monday. Mr. Boardman will sever his connection with the association on Friday.

Mr. Boardman's successor has not been chosen. It has been decided to secure a man from the Y. M. C. A.



C. A. Boardman.

training school at Springfield, Mass., but who the man will be not even General Secretary Manning as yet has any idea. The graduating class of the training school will not, in the usual course of events, go out from the school until next June, but it is a possibility that one of the students may be brought to Plainfield before that time.

In the meanwhile, the work will be under the charge of Boys' Secretary Kenneth Robbie. Mr. Robbie is not only a man of great executive ability and a tireless worker, but he is very familiar with gymnasium work and the general plan of physical department management. He is a graduate of the Springfield school, and from the very nature of his own work will carry on the physical work among the boys, at least, without any check to the advancement of the department.

Mr. Boardman's resignation was laid before the Board of Directors at the meeting held early in the month. After due consideration it was accepted, and the announcement followed. Mr. Boardman's departure will not be a matter of great surprise in Y. M. C. A. circles. It was rumored at least a month ago that he was on the point of leaving, and the reports although never confirmed until this morning, grew more positive as the weeks went on.

Mr. Boardman has been at the Y. M. C. A. since September 1, when he succeeded F. A. Henckel, now at one of the Brooklyn branches. He has formed no definite plans as to his future field, but will rest for a time at his home in Vermont. He has made many friends among the Y. M. C. A. members since his coming, and his departure will cause great regret.

LECTURE ON COLONIAL LIFE AT MONDAY CLUB

PROF. ANDREWS, OF BRYN MAWR, PICTURES GROWTH OF NORTH AND SOUTH

Prof. Charles McLean Andrews, Ph. D., of Bryn Mawr College, lectured before the Monday Afternoon Club at the Casino Monday afternoon. His subject was "Factors in the Northern and Southern Development." It was a continuation of the club's study of colonial life.

The attendance was large. Professor Andrews spoke most interestingly and received the undivided attention of his auditors.

He compared the New England colonies and the colonies of Virginia and Maryland, outlining the course of their development and pointing out the different factors that went into their making. The great difference between them, he said, lay in the fact that the Southerners were aristocrats or of aristocratic tendency, while the Northern colonists were simpler folk—what modern Americans call the common people. In the South the colonists were largely given to cultivating and managing big estates, which led to a conservative, classish and classy spirit, while those in the North were clustered more in towns, which gave to their lives a democratic tone. Another difference between the two peoples lay in the prevailing religions. The Southerners were, for the most part, of the Established Church, while Congregationalism held full sway in the North.

Miss Dorothy Fisk, of West Seventh street, has about recovered from a recent operation for appendicitis.

CHIEF KIELY'S TRIAL BEGINS

(Continued From Page 1.)

examined the stuff and talked with Goff, who denied selling anything until he was refused his license the last time."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"You were angry with Kiely after leaving the force, and said you would get even?"

"No, sir."

"You were angry at Kiely for not being appointed a regular, weren't you?"

"Yes, in a way. It was up to him to send in my name, and he did not send it in."

"It was after that you reported him drunk, did you?"

"No, sir, never reported him. When they (referring to Councilmen Tyler and Bullock) asked me I told them, as they were my superior officers."

"You didn't think it your duty to report it to the police board about Kiely being drunk until after you got mad at him?"

"I went under the instructions of Messrs. Tyler and Bullock in the Goff raid. I told them how to get in—to push the door in at the front door. I first went there on the invitation of two men. One day I was going to Kerwin's and they told me not to go so far, but to come with them to Goff's."

"Goff knew you were mad at Kiely, didn't he?"

"He spoke about that to me afterwards."

The next witness was John J. Goff, who claimed residence at 1248 West Front street since two years ago last February. He said his place was called a hotel, but never had been a hotel. "We were in a sort of club," he testified, "that was started up after the license was refused the last time. I went to Mr. Tyler's house one night and was there for three hours, and explained all there was in it."

"Did you sell beer and whiskey at your place from January to the time that you were indicted?"

"I don't know if I should answer that question. I sold some times, but some of those who bought were club members. We sold what we called ginger ale. I bought it of the Eastern Bottling Company and of the Rising Sun Brewery."

Mr. Marsh showed bills from the brewery and asked if they all referred to soft drinks. The witness replied:

"I sell on orders direct to the brewery. Hamilton never called for beer at my place; he called for ginger ale. He knew what to call for and how to get in."

Mr. Marsh showed the witness a slate with the scores of different men, asked the witness what they meant, and Goff said:

"A few friends asked me to put in some stuff before I started. I didn't want to start it that, and that is how I came to do so."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"You did not start in to violate the law until after your license was refused the second time?"

"A neighbor wanted me to start in first off, but I wouldn't. I had boarders—eighteen or twenty—who were mechanics."

Referring to the raid, Goff said:

"Mr. Tyler and Mr. Bullock came to my place September 3, last. All hands had a drink, but no one asked me for it, and we did not put it on the slate. Someone said it was pretty good whiskey."

"How did Hamilton get in there first?"

"He was brought in by Mr. Noble."

"You had a system of passing on candidates for admission to the place, didn't you?"

"We had to know they were all right or they had to be vouched for."

"If the police had come would they have got in?"

"No. I did not know Hamilton was an officer. I thought he was entirely out of the department."

Re-direct examination by Mr. Marsh:

"When Messrs. Tyler and Bullock were tasting the liquors did you not understand that they were sampling merely to see what they were?"

"Well, they took pretty good tastes of it."

The witness admitted to selling whiskey and beer, after being assured by Mr. Marsh that there was no intention in this examination to incriminate him on the old charge.

Justice James P. Kelly, of Elizabeth, a member of the party which raided Goff's saloon, was next placed on the stand. He testified:

"At the Goff raid we rang the bell and got in without much trouble. We gave not secret signs to get in. There were fifteen or more at the bar. We found beer and whiskey. I did not taste, but the stuff smelled to me like beer. I, as a justice of the peace, I participated in the raid for the convenience of interested parties. Mr. Tyler wanted the defendant arraigned at once. The complaint was made beforehand. Prosecutor English got me in. We found two property owners at the time of the raid who went as bondsmen. Goff was very much worried over Hamilton's doings. He said he never thought Peter would do that, and his exclamation after we came in was, 'Peter's done it, boys, Peter's done it.'"

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"My business there was in consequence of a visit of Mr. Tyler, who wanted a complaint drawn and the defendant arrested. I met Mr. Tyler at Dunellen and he had a carriage with an axe and a crowbar. We talked about getting in. I told him that for minor offenses it was hardly necessary to take such strenuous means. Mr. Tyler had an electric bullseye lantern. I suggested other ways of getting in than by the use of axe and crowbar."

Councilman W. S. Tyler, chairman of the police committee and chief complainant in the case, was the next witness. To Mr. Marsh's questions he said:

"I directed the attention of the defendant to Goff's place, where it was said liquor was sold, some time last January, as I told him. I was informed from several sources, in a way to make me believe that Goff was violating the liquor law, and that it was our duty—his and mine—to stop it. I had a number of talks with the chief about it. My confidence in him was implicit at that time. I told him often in the first six months of the year that he must get evidence against Goff; that I was more and more convinced that Goff was selling. People kept coming to me about it, some of whom had been kept by the noise and had seen drunken crowds going in and out of the place; who had seen lights over the barroom transom at night, when that side was apparently not in use. His first suggestion to me was that we get boarders to go to Goff's to get evidence, and I tried to get Councilman Hibbard to get some of his men to go there. Mr. Hibbard said that he was not willing to go to that extent, so nothing was done."

By Mr. Marsh, interrupting:

"Mr. Hibbard told you that he was not willing to have his men act as spies?"

"Not exactly that."

"Did Chief Kiely ever tell you," asked Mr. Marsh, "that the corporation counsel and Prosecutor English had said that he was not to proceed until he had evidence to submit to them for the Grand Jury?"

"No."

Continuing, the witness said: "At a meeting of the police board June 30, last, I called the chief by telephone to tell him what had been observed about the condition of Goff's. I had never made any charges against the chief up to that time, and my confidence in him was implicit. I called him and the other members of the board stated to him what they had said to me regarding the Goff place. The general import of the statement was the general observation of men going to Goff's and coming out drunk, and the noisy disturbance, and so forth. The chief faced Mr. Bullock up in a way that offended me, saying, 'You give me those witnesses and I will have them before the Grand Jury.' I said, 'Chief, we have tolerated this delay as long as we will. That place must be closed at once or there will be trouble. You search for evidence to close that place or we will know the reason why.' At previous interviews later in the year I had stated to the chief that it would be difficult to close the place because of the relation which Goff bore to the political powers, naming McCardell. Kiely said he knew it would be difficult to close the place because McCardell was behind it. McCardell's relationship was assumed all through the discussions. From June 30 to September 3 I asked the chief several times if he had gotten evidence. He said no, and could not unless we could give the names of witnesses. He said his conspicuous position made it impossible for him to do so. I then started in. I employed a detective, but did not get very satisfactory evidence. I was discouraged. There was nothing done until we got hold of Hamilton. It was hard work when it was necessary to maintain secrecy from the police. I employed a detective on July 1. He was on ten days. Then, one night, the chief called me up on the telephone and asked me, 'Have you got some one at work in the West End?' I said 'No.' The man was then gone. He then replied, 'I am going to arrest that fellow if you don't be here in four hours.' After some hesitation, he added, 'Don't you know you can't do anything in this town behind my back; don't you know that I know everything that is going on here?' Next we got Hamilton. We saw the prosecutor, and he said he had advised Kiely in the matter. The prosecutor did not advise us. He said that if I wanted to swear out a complaint he would introduce me to Mr. Kelly."

Just at the point when cross examination was about to begin President Daniel suggested that adjournment was in order. It was agreed between counsel to carry the case forward tonight. Mr. Tyler will continue on the stand, under cross examination.

There is likelihood that after tonight the hearing, if it is not finished then, will continue in daytime sessions. Mr. Reed said he was willing to have the case carried forward tonight, but would like sessions during the day after that. Mr. Marsh said he had no objection to daytime sessions, but the Council took no action on the question. There is a bare possibility that the case will reach such a point tonight that Council will consider it worth while to sit it out and get the whole matter over and done with.

The prosecution expects to complete the presentation of its case within an hour and a half, at the most, after the Council comes to order tonight. Mr. Reed has given no hint of the length of time he expects the testimony he will bring forward to consume, beyond his reference to daylight sessions, not a very promising portent for those who hope to see the case disposed of in one more sitting of the trial body.

Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, is much improved from a recent illness.

E. G. POPE DIES SUDDENLY

Seized With Heart Trouble, Expires at His Home in Newark.

A DOUBLE SURPRISE

Word of His Death Accompanied by the News that He Had Been Married—Body to Be Brought Here.

Edward G. Pope, son of the late Elias R. Pope, and widely known throughout the city, died suddenly at his home on Hillside avenue, Newark, at 6 o'clock Friday. He just finished his supper and was lying on a couch when he was stricken with heart trouble. Medical aid was summoned, but he passed away before it reached him.

Simultaneous with the report of his death, came the news by telephone that he had been married, a fact that caused great surprise, as it was always supposed he was a confirmed bachelor. His brother, F. A. Pope, of East Fifth street, and Chief Kiely at once went to Newark and established the fact that he is survived by a wife. Details of the marriage have not been made known, as newspapermen were denied information at the Pope home in this city.

Mr. Pope was born in Plainfield forty-two years ago and lived in Plainfield practically all his life. For many years he was attached to the staff at the Dime Savings Bank, but retired some time ago to live quietly on the income from property willed him by his father. He was quiet and unassuming in his manner and the picture of health, consequently the word of his death came as a great surprise and shock to everyone.

In town he was popular with a large circle of friends and was widely identified with secret orders. He was a member of Elizabeth Lodge, No. 289, B. P. O. E., having joined before the local lodge was organized; Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F.; Noah Dove Encampment, Plainfield Aerie, No. 466, F. O. E., and the Timbo Social Club, of which he was treasurer.

At the death of his mother a little more than a year ago, Mr. Pope told his friends that he was going to reside in Newark for a while, as he liked the place. No one had any idea that he was going to get married, and he had kept the fact a secret, though coming to Plainfield several days each week. He was here all last Thursday, and spent the afternoon and evening at the Timbo Social Club room. Besides his widow, he is survived only by one brother, F. A. Pope, of East Fifth street.

The body is still at Newark, but is to be brought to this city. The funeral is to be held Tuesday, but arrangements have not been made as yet.

SCHOOL MEN BANQUET.

Superintendent Krebs One of Those at Middlesex County Affair.

About seventy-five men interested in public schools met at the Mansion House, New Brunswick, Saturday afternoon to enjoy the annual banquet of the Middlesex County School Board Association and to gain inspiration and instruction from the speeches which had been prepared for the occasion.

The banquet was a fine one. At the head table with County Superintendent H. Brewster Willis sat Assistant State Superintendent J. B. Betts, of North Plainfield; W. E. Florance, a member of the State Board of Education; Prof. Louis Bevier, State High School inspector; Prof. John W. Wilson, of the New Brunswick Business College; Superintendent Krebs, of the borough schools; Matthew Suydam and John Suydam, of the Somerset county schools, and Dr. A. L. Smith, of New Brunswick.

The subject of proper compensation for education of school children when sent from one district to another was discussed and reports from about forty districts in the State were given. Assistant State Superintendent Betts drew some lessons gained by comparison of methods in forty districts.

Dr. Smith discussed the vaccination question, as there are about 3,000 pupils in Middlesex county who are not vaccinated.

The session proved a profitable one to all in attendance. Superintendent Willis acted as toastmaster and kept things moving along briskly and entertainingly.

The nominating committee then rendered its report and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick; vice-president, Calvin C. Conzens, of East Brunswick township; secretary, William Carman, of Metuchen; treasurer, D. W. Clayton, of Cranbury.

In Debutante Reception Party.

Mrs. William de la Roche Anderson, whose home is near Washington Rock, was one of the receiving party at a large reception given Saturday by her mother, Mrs. Robert Olyphant, of 16 East Fifty-second street, New York, to introduce her sister, Miss Sophie Vernon Olyphant, to New York society.

Mrs. W. G. Besler, of North Plainfield, has about recovered from a recent illness.

HORTICULTURISTS TO MEET AT TRENTON

STATE SESSION OF STATE SOCIETY ON JANUARY 4 AND 5.

Miss Mary Budd, of Mt. Holly, secretary of the New Jersey State Horticultural Society, has announced the programme for the annual meeting of the society, which will take place in the assembly chamber at the State House at Trenton, January 4 and 5. Many questions of vital importance to fruit growers will be considered, there will be an exhibit of fruits and flowers, for which premiums will be offered, besides other interesting and instructive features.

The meeting will open Thursday, January 4, at 10 a. m., and this session will be devoted to the reading of the president's address, reports of committees and other similar business. Thursday afternoon these questions will be presented: "Some Common Birds in Relation to Horticulture," by Samuel W. H. Walts, Linden, Pa.; "Tests With Oils for Spraying," Professor John B. Smith, State entomologist, New Brunswick; "Spraying—Dust and Liquid Methods Compared," Professor C. P. Close, Society for Horticultural Science, Newark, Del.

Thursday evening a musical programme will be rendered. William Turner, of Oceanic, N. J., will speak on "Forced Fruits Under Glass" and Professor A. F. Warren, State horticulturist, will give an illustrated lecture on "Commercial Fruit Growing."

Friday morning's programme will present the following subjects for discussion: "Small Fruits in Delaware," A. W. Slaymaker, Wyoming, Del.; "The Experience of a Small Fruit Grower in Hunterdon County," Thomas R. Hunt, Lambertville; "Peaches and Plums," Elias S. Black, Highstatown; "Old and New Ideas of Horticulture," H. W. Collingwood, editor Rural New Yorker.

The topics to be presented Friday afternoon will be: "Desirable Trees and Shrubs to Plant in New Jersey," Joseph Meehan, Germantown, Pa.; "Apples and Pears," Albert T. Repp, Glassboro. At this session, also, new officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

All the meetings will be public and farmers' clubs, granges, agricultural and horticultural societies everywhere are requested to send delegates.

The exhibits for which premiums will be offered will be all kinds of apples, all kinds of pears, best display of dried fruit, best display of canned fruit, best display of roses, best display of violets and best display of carnations. The music will be furnished by a sextet from the State schools.

YALE ALUMNI BANQUET.

Lawrence Tweedy Elected on Executive Committee.

Good fellowship reigned at the annual meeting of the Yale Alumni Association of Essex county Thursday night at Orange Hall, Prospect street, East Orange, and Yale spirit permeated the atmosphere. There were about sixty Yale graduates in attendance.

Much interest was manifested on the appearance of "Jim" Hogan, the famous captai nand tackle of the '04 football team, who told the alumni a few things about the gridiron spirit.

There were a number of others present whose names have been prominently linked with Old Eli, such as "Pop" Hirsh, author of the famous "Boola" song, one-time catcher on the varsity baseball team. He performed on the piano while the others sang old college songs.

Other guests were Russell Colgate, '96; Emil Schultz, '85, an oarsman in his day; Charles B. Stoors, '83, also an oarsman; Hendon Chubb, '95; Frank Quimby, '95, captain of the varsity baseball team, and Percy W. Crane, '95, a long distance runner. Bishop Edwin S. Lines, of Newark, was also a guest.

An election of officers which was held resulted as follows: President, Hendon Chubb, '95, scientific, East Orange; secretary, Andrew S. Taylor, '94, South Orange; treasurer, Russell Colgate, '96, Orange; executive committee, R. Graham Douglass, '98, West Orange; Andrew S. Taylor, Lawrence Tweedy, '99, of Plainfield; Malcolm McLear, '91; W. A. Barstow, '99; Russell Colgate, Dickison W. Richards, '81; Hendon Chubb, Sr.; nominating committee, Sidney M. Colgate, '86, Orange; Rev. Robert H. Nichols, '94, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian church, South Orange; E. Arthur Bredt, '97.

Dr. Ernest Richards, '98, now an instructor at Princeton University, gave selections on the piano. Rev. David B. Eddy, '85, led the singing.

Among the Yale songs were "Shoot Me the Scotchmen," "Son of a Gambler," "Wake, Freshmen, Wake," and "Amici."

Edward Ware, class of '97, who has just moved into Essex county, told how glad he was to meet so many Yale men in this county, and how it made him "feel at home again."

Samuel M. Chambliss, of Chattanooga, Tenn., who has been visiting his parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, has returned home.

COW HERDER HEIR TO SNUG FORTUNE

SAILS AWAY TO ENGLAND TO GET HIS ESTATE.

Edward Weatheredge, of Elizabeth, who, a week ago, was a cowherder, Saturday sailed as a first class passenger on the steamer Carmania for England and will take his Christmas dinner at the home of his ancestors.

Fourteen years ago Weatheredge, who is a landscape gardener and florist by occupation, drifted into Elizabeth, and became a barroom cleaner for the former chief of the old volunteer fire department, Joseph Brown, in that city. About two or three months ago he began tending cows for a dairy man at North Elizabeth. He got his meals and was allowed to make his bed in the barn. One week ago he received a draft for a large amount from a sister in England urging him to sail at once so as to take his Christmas dinner at home.

A thread of romance was woven in Weatheredge's life, however, and it was this that took him home. Previous to coming to this country he had been the suitor for the hand of a young woman of his neighborhood, but his suit was rejected. Discouraged, he took to drink and later came to this country.

He has from time to time received letters from his sisters, of whom he has two, beseeching him to come home, but he would deaf to all their appeals until he received a letter recently from one of them informing him that the husband of his old sweetheart was dead, and that she joined in the appeal to have him return. Upon the receipt of this letter, Weatheredge frotched that if funds were forwarded him he would start at once. This was done with the results already told. Since leaving home it has been learned that Weatheredge's father had died, making him heir to a snug fortune.

Tree at Children's Home.

A Christmas tree will be lighted at the Children's Home on Wednesday afternoon, December 27, at 4 o'clock for twenty-five children. Articles are needed for fourteen girls and eleven boys, those that will be acceptable are shoes, stockings and rubbers, sizes from five to fourteen years, gloves and mittens, handkerchiefs, ginghams for aprons, outing flannel, blouses and knee pants for boys from six to twelve years, books, toys and games.

Contract Case Adjourned.

The contract suit of W. F. Howarth against D. N. Force, in Justice Mosher's court, has been postponed for a week. F. J. Blatz is counsel for the plaintiff.

DIED.

ROGERS—At Wilmington, Del., on Saturday, Dec. 16, 1905, Frank, youngest son of George T. and Anna S. Rogers, aged 21 years.

SODON—In North Plainfield, Sunday, December 17, 1905, Mercey A. Sodon, widow of the late James Sodon, aged 69 years.

GAVETT—On Monday, December 18, 1905, Julia A., wife of William L. Gavett.

COOK—At Scotch Plains, N. J., Sunday, December 17, 1905, John G. Cook, aged 66 years.

SMITH—On Saturday, December 16, 1905, Ella Bowne Smith, widow of Henry T. Smith.

VANCE—At Dunellen, N. J., December 17, 1905, William G. Vance, aged 65 years, one month.

DORMAN—On Monday, December 11, 1905, Annie J., wife of E. E. Dorman.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

TO FRANK C. COOK.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Ann P. Randolph is complainant and you and Jennie Armstrong, Mrs. James Armstrong and Frank M. Mason are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint filed in said cause on or before the twenty-second day of December next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The names of all the defendants therein are Frank C. Cook and the said James Armstrong, Mrs. James Armstrong and Frank M. Mason.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by you the said Frank C. Cook to one Ann P. Randolph

STATE LIBRARY REPORT ISSUED

ACCESSION OF 3,417 BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS MADE DURING LAST YEAR.

The annual report of State Librarian Henry C. Buchanan, which has been submitted to Governor Stokes, shows that during the year 3,417 books and pamphlets have been added to the library, making the present total 71,057. The accessions during the year included the following: From the United States Government, 864; from other States and Territories in exchange, 793; through donations, 505; bought for the law library, 386; bought for the reference library, 633; daily and weekly newspapers donated, 56; received from the custodian of the Capitol, 80. Among other things, Librarian Buchanan in his report says:

"Of the $4,500 made available for the purchase and binding of books during the year, $1,830.28 was spent for the 386 volumes added to the law library, $1,178.95 for binding and repairs, about $1,250 for books, magazines and newspapers bought for the reference library and $139.76 lapsed into the State fund. Included in the amount spent on the reference library is $361.15 for books and pamphlets relating especially to New Jersey. The sale of the library of a collector brought to light more than 150 pamphlets, some of them exceedingly scarce, which were not in the State Library.

"Of the purchases made for the reference library, 239 were books and pamhplets relating to the history of New Jersey and municipalities, institutions and families of the State; and of the contributions made, 296 were of material of the same character. Besides, there were 322 duplicates donated, which were exchanged for other books that are included in the figures already given.

"Early in the present calendar year all of the alterations and improvements which were under way at the time the last report was made were completed, and the State Library is now in better condition in every respect than at any time in its history. The increased shelfroom has made it possible to rearrange and make more readily accessible the books in the law department and to classify by the decimal system and rearrange those in the reference department.

"A new and complete manuscript catalogue of the law library has been made, and during the year the dictionary card catalogue of the reference department has been practically completed. The latter includes about 38,000 separate words. In the report of 1899 it was stated that it would cost $4,000 to introduce the card system, but by extending the work over a period of years it has been possible to complete it at a trifling cost above the price of the blank cards and the subscription to such of the printed cards made by the Library of Congress as were of use.

"The books in the library are now in good condition. During the year many volumes which were damaged by the double moving when the alterations were made a year ago have been rebound or repaired, as have those which were badly worn by use. The cost of binding and rebinding and repairing books during the year has been $1,178.95, to meet which a special appropriation of $1,000 was made by the Legislature at its last session.

"At a meeting of the commissioners of the State Library held on February 28, the librarian was authorized to have rebound in separate sets one set of the legislative documents, in order that they might be rendered more accessible for use. These documents, which consist of the messages of the Governors and the reports of the various State departments and institutions, were printed in the Assembly minutes and the Senate journal during the early days of the government; but about 1840 they were collected together and bound separately under various names, such as New Jersey reports, legislative reports, legislative pamphlets, appendix to House journal, appendix to Assembly minutes and appendix to Senate journal, until 1862, when they were designated as legislative documents, and by that title have since been known.

"For several years the legislative documents have comprised five large volmues annually, and until five years ago there was nothing on the outside to direct one to the particular document for which he was searching. In 1900, the State printing board directed that the contents of each volume be printed on the "back title," and, while that proved to be a great help and time saver, it did not meet the requirements.

"In compliance with the instructions of the commissioners, a set of documents covering the period between 1847 and 1904 was broken up and the messages and reports gathered together and rebound, so that one seeking information concerning a department or institution has before him, in a few volumes, all of the official publications that have been made. There still remains in the library a complete set of the documents, in their orginial form, covering the same period of time."

WIFE HOMELESS; HUSBAND DRUNK, WITH $12 ON HIM

BUT COP REVERSED THINGS IN THE FAMILY OF ADOLPH CORNELIUS.

Mrs. Adolph Cornelius telephoned to police headquarters Friday afternoon that her husband, drunk and disorderly, was making life too miserable for her to bear. Officer Kelly rattled to the house in West Third street, where the Corneliuses were staying, and found that things were exactly as Mrs. Cornelius said, and worse.

Cornelius was lying about helplessly drunk. His wife said she did not care how soon the officer took him away. He had given them no money for days, and she had no money to buy food for her children and herself. They had been put out of their home early in the week and were sheltered only through the kindness of a neighbor.

Kelly bundled the sodden Cornelius, hatless and overcoatless, into the wagon and hustled him to the station house. When the prisoner was searched $12.50 was found in his pocket.

"Why, you miserable pup!" observed Kelly when he saw the money, and put Mr. Cornelius behind the cell door without any great regard to gentleness. Then the cop carried the $12.50 very swiftly to the penniless wife.

Judge Runyon looked disgustedly at Cornelius when he heard the story in the city court Saturday.

"What have you got to say?" he asked.

Cornelius gnawed his streaky mustache nervously. "I was never here before—I was never drunk before," he said in a small, shaky voice.

"You're doing well for such a late start," said the magistrate sharply. "Your wife isn't here to press the complaint against you, so I suppose I'll have to let you go. You understand where your money is? Your wife has it."

"Well, I was going to give it to her, anyway," said Cornelius, "but she was saucy."

He left court in a hat borrowed from Doorman McCue, looking very subdued.

THE WOMAN WHO ENTERTAINS.

Why not give a tea with a little music? It is not the simplest and most inexpensive form of entertainment you can offer, and its success depends only upon your own tact and the getting of congenial people together.

The drawing room should be cleared of all unnecessary furniture and potted plants or vases of cut flowers should be stood here and there. The shades of the windows should be drawn and lamps and shaded candles should be used in addition to the gas or electric burners. A soft, subdued light is much prettier and pleasanter to the eyes than a glare.

In the dining room the table should be prettily decorated with cut flowers and shaded candles. As a rule three or four intimate friends are stationed there to offer the guests tea, hot chocolate, bouillon, sandwiches, ices, cake and bonbons.

The hostess should stand just inside the entrance to the drawing room. If the tea or reception is given for a visiting friend she should stand at her hostess's left hand.

Those who are assisting the hostess in receiving should station themselves in different parts of the various rooms.

A half hour is the longest and ten minutes the shortest stay which one should make at a reception or tea.

A cordial word of welcome is all that is expected of the hostess, and the guests should be careful not to engage her in conversation so as to keep her from greeting those who may follow.

The correct costume for the hostess and receiving party is a high-necked afternoon or simple evening gown. Gloves are usually worn, but they may be dispensed with if desired. At small informal teas gloves are never worn.

Visitors appear in calling costume. The women remove their wraps and furs, but retain their hats and gloves.

When a woman wishes to give a small tea in honor of a friend who is visting her she may select those among her acquaintances who would be congenial and send them cards of invitation.

She should write in one corner of her visiting card "Tea at 5 o'clock" and directly over her name she should write the words "To meet Mrs. B——." This may be written under her own name if there is room.

At a small tea such as this it would be best to have the tea, chocolate, sandwiches, cakes, nuts and bonbons served from a small table placed at the end of the drawing room. Cafe frappe or frozen fruit may also be served if wished, but nothing more elaborate.

There is something very attractive in the hospitality shown in the simple afternoon tea, and although the large and formal tea or reception lacks much of the old fashioned hospitality yet it may be made a very bright and delightful affair, and it has theadvantage of being the one form of entertainment where all social obligations are paid off both by the host and hostess and the guests.

WOMEN WHO HOLD FEDERAL OFFICES

THERE ARE NOW OVER 11,000 OF THEM IN SERVICE OF THE GOVERNMENT.

It is more than forty years since General Spinner, who has been called "the father of the employment of women in the federal service," found places for a few women in the Treasury Department at Washington. He was then treasurer of the United States, and there was a great dearth of eligible employes in consequence of the drafts made upon the young men of the country by the employment of women in place of men, and the idea which he started has gone on almost uninterruptedly since, but not to the extent that is popularly supposed.

By the last government report it appears that there are 122,000 men in the federal service of the government as clerks, bureau chiefs and messengers, of whom not one-half receive $850 a year or less.

There are 11,250 women and girls in the federal departments, of whom 6,363, somewhat more than half, receive less than $720 a year. Of this number in the Treasury Department, 1,500 in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, 1,000 in the Indian service, 650 in the Government Printing office, 209 in the War Department, 950 in the Pension Office, 80 in the Navy Department, 729 in the Department of Agriculture and 19 in the Department of State.

Less than ten per cent. of the federal employes are women, and a great majority of them hold minor positions at small pay. An outcry was made after the close of the Civil War by those who feared that by the employment of women and girls men were deprived of a fair chance of livelihood in Washington, but the fact is that the number of men has increased very much more largely than the number of women in federal departments during the last twenty-five years.

MISS LE MATTY A BRIDE.

Married Quietly to Ernest Peters, of Dunellen, Thursday Afternoon.

Miss Rose Le Matty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Le Matty, of East Fifth street, and Ernest Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. L. Peters, of Dunellen, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride. The marriage was simple, but pretty.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Elsie Peters, a sister of the bridegroom, and the best man was Charles Le Matty, a brother of the bride. A reception followed the ceremony.

The wedding was a pink and white affair, with subtones of green from palms and ferns. The bride was attractively gowned in a grey travelling suit. She carried pink and white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters will enjoy a short honeymoon trip. They will live for a time in this city but make their permanent home in Dunellen.

The groom is one of the best known young men in Dunellen, and has a large circle of acquaintance in this city. He is an expert electrician on the staff of the P. S. C. He was a member of the old Alis eleven. His father is the assessor of Dunellen and a member of the Middlesex Democratic County Committee.

I'M STUNG, B'GOSH!

Tried a New Trick on New Jersey Easy Marks.

A clever swindling trick was worked last Thursday at Bordentown by a man giving his name as William Johnson, and alleging that he lived on a farm a few miles from that place. The dupes selected were men occupying prominent positions.

The swindler said he just had been left $6,000 by an aunt in Danbury, Conn. He produced a letter signed by one "Lawrence," in which he was told that one legacy was ready for him, and that he was to go to Danbury to get it and sign a release. "Lawrence" signed the letter as one of the executors of the will.

Johnson asked the person he approached what he best had do with the $6,000, saying that he knew very little about business, as he had worked on a farm all his life and could hardly write his name.

Johnson added that he had been advised to come to the proposed victim by farmers, and then asked the person addressed if he would be willing to take charge of the money for him, helping to invest it where it would bring interest.

When told by the person he would be glad to invest for him, Johnson continued to ask questions as to signing releases, etc., and ended his story by asking for enough money to get to Danbury to get the $6,000. In two or more cases he got from $8 to $10.

Johnson is described as a man of medium height and dark complexion. When he obtained money from his dupes he left, saying he would be back in town Saturday or Monday with the $6,000. As yet Mr. Johnson has not come back, and his dupes now are satisfied they will not see him or their money again.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Books in the Public Library of Interest to the Genealogist, Part I.

(Part II will appear next week.)

General Works.

American ancestry: the names and descent in the male line of Americans whose ancestors settled in the United States previous to the Declaration of Independence. v. 1-7.

The Ancestor: a quarterly review of county and family history, heraldry and antiquities, April 1902-January 1904. v. 1-8.

Anderson, J., ed.—Churches of Mattatuck: a record of a bi-centennial at Waterbury, Conn., Nocember 1891.

Barber, J. W.—Connecticut historical collections, relating to the history and antiquities of every town in Connecticut.

Barber, J. W.—Historical collections: a collection of facts, traditions, biographical sketches, anecdotes, etc., relating to the history and antiquities of every town in Massachusetts.

Barber, J. W. and Howe, H.—Historical collections of the state of New Jersey, with descriptions of every township in the state.

Brown, J. P.—History of the First Baptist church of Piscataway, with an account of its bi-centennial celebration, June 20, 1889, and sketches of pioneer progenitors of Piscataway planters.

Canterbury, Eng., Prerogative Court.—Abstracts of wills at Somerset House, London. (Register Soame, 1620.)

Carey, M.—Short account of the malignant fever lately prevalent in Philadelphia, with a statement of the proceedings which took place on the subject in different parts of the United States, and a list, partly collected from church books of persons who died in Philadelphia or other parts of the Union after leaving the city, from August to December 1793.

Chambers, T. F.—Early Germans in New Jersey, their history, churches and genealogies.

Clement, J.—Sketches of the first emigrant settlers in Newton township, old Gloucester county, West New Jersey.

Crayon, J. P.—Rockaway records of Morris county, N. J.: families, cemetery records, church history, military records, local history, genealogies of the old families, nearly 20,000 data.

Demarest, Rev. D. D.—Huguenots on the Hackensack: a paper prepared and read before historical societies and clubs of New Jersey during 1885-1886.

Elmer, L. O. C.—history of the early settlement and progress of Cumberland county, N. J., and of the currency of this and the adjoining colonies.

Halsey, E. D.—History of the Washington association of New Jersey.

Hanna, C. A.—Scotch-Irish; or, the Scot in North Britain, north Ireland and North America.

Harvey, C. B., ed.—Genealogical history of Hudson and Bergen counties, N. J.

Hatfield, E. F.—History of Elizabeth, N. J., including the early history of Union county.

Hills, G. M.—History of the church in Burlington, N. J., comprising the facts and incidents of nearly two hundred years, from original contemporaneous sources.

Hoes, R. R.—Baptismal and marriage registers of the old Old Dutch Church of Kingston, Ulster county, N. Y., for 150 years from their commencement in 1660.

Hurd, D. H., comp.—History of Bristol county, Mass., with biographical sketches.

Lamb, Mrs. M. J.—History of the City of New York: its origin, rise and progress.

Magazine of American history, with notes and queries, 1879-'93. v. 3-30, 1879-'93.

Massachusetts Bay, Governor and Company.—Records of the governor and company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England. 5v. in 6, 1628-1686.

Mellick, A. D., Jr.—Story of an old farm; or, life in New Jersey in the 18th century, with genealogical appendix.

Messler, A.—Centennial history of Somerset county, N. J.

Messler, A.—Forty years at Raritan: eight memorial sermons with notes for a history of the Reformed Rutched churches in Somerset county, N. J.

Munsell's Sons, Joel.—American genealogist, being a catalogue of family histories, a bibliography of American genealogy or a list of the title pages of books and pamphlets on family history published in America from 1771-1900.

National Society of Sons of the American Revolution.—National register, compiled and published under the auspices of the national publication committee.

New England Historical Genealogical Society.—New England historical and genealogical register. v. 57-date, 1903-date.

New England Historical Genealogical Society.—Vital records of the following towns of Massachusetts—Alfred, Becket, Hinsdale, Montgomery, Pelham, Peru, Tyringham and Walpole. 8v.

New Jersey Historical Society.—Documents relating to the colonial history of the state. Series 1, 22 v., 1880-1899; Series 2, v. 1-date, 1900-date.

New Jersey Historical Society.—Calendar of New Jersey records, 1664-1702, in the office of the Secretory of State.

New Jersey Historical Society.—Calendar of New Jersey wills, edited with an introductory note on the early testamentary laws and customs of New Jersey, 1670-1730.

New Jersey Historical Society.—Marriage records, 1665-1800.

New Jersey, Public record commission. Report, 1899-date.

New Jersey, Sons of the American Revolution.—Proceedings from its foundation in 1889 to 1893.

New York State.—Documents relative to th colonial history of the state, procured in Holland, England and France. 15v., 1856-'61.

New York, Sons of the Revolution.—Yearbook, 1896.

New York, State Historian.—Annual reports, 1896-date.

New York, State Library.—Colonial records. In Annual report, v. 81, p. 53-204.

New York, State Library.—Supplementary list of marriage licenses.

PARK CLUB HOLIDAY EVENTS.

Some Social Features of the Christmastide.

The entertainment committee from the Park Club announces that the Christmas dance will be held at the club on Thursday night, December 28, and on the following Saturday night there will be an informal dance which is not on the list of entertainments for the season.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the New Year's Day reception to be held in the afternoon of January 1. Invitations for this will soon be issued by the Board of Governors. In addition to the regular afternoon reception, there will be a one-act play, entitled "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome. This will be presented by members of the club and rehearsals for it are now being held regularly.

On the night of January 1, there will be the junior dance, the patronesses for the affair being the members of the entertainment committee. For the holidays the clubhouse will be appropriately decorated with greens and seasonable colors and the entertainment committee hopes to provide a pleasant entertainment for the members and their friends during the season.

MISS PETRIE LECTURES.

Missionary Worker Tells of Domestic Fields.

Picturesque peoples to be found in the home mission fields, as well as in Cuba, were portrayed in an allustrated lecture given at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night by Miss Josephine Petrie, Young People's society secretary for the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions.

The pictures shown depicted the mountain people of the South, the Indians scattered through the Western States, the Mexicans in the Southwest and the Alaskians, and Miss Petrie had something interesting to tell about each. She also showed the various mission stations in these parts of the country and told of the work being done by the Presbyterian missions. The manner of living, the customs followed for years before the missionaries reached these peoples, contrasted with the modern methods introduced a helpful lesson to all.

Another Pack of Hounds.

Dr. M. O'M. Knott, of the Watchung Hunt Club, who has been negotiating for a valuable pack of hounds in County Sligo, Ireland, received a cablegram last night informing him that the club could have the animals at the offer made. Mr. Knott immediately cabled a return message closing the deal and giving instructions as to shipment. In the pack there are thirty-one hounds, and they are considered exceptionally fine. The pack is expected to reach here about January 1. Some in the present pack of sixteen now will be sold. The useful life of a hound is from one to six years.

Mrs. Tomlinson a Speaker.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, addressed a parlor meeting held at the home of Mrs. C. W. Scott, in Elizabeth, Wednesday afternoon. She gave an encouraging report of the recent national convention held at Los Angeles and said that New Jersey was prominently mentioned among the States where much interest was manifested in W. C. T. U. affairs. Mrs. Tomlinson's report of the convention was listened to with much interest.

Bar Association Meeting.

The Union County Bar Association will meet in the law library room in the county courthouse at Elizabeth, Tuesday, January 2. The arrangements for the annual dinner will then be made. The association now has about $2,000 cash on hand and it is proposed to expend about $500 of this for new books.

Children's Dance.

A children's dance will be held at the Seminary, West Seventh street, on December 29. It will be given by Miss Ivins and Miss Booth. The charity ball will be held the same night, at the Casino.

WISHES TO STOP USELESS WRITS

JUDGE LANNING DECIDES TO PREVENT NEEDLESS HABEAS CORPUS ACTIONS.

In the United States Circuit Court at Trenton Wednesday Judge Lanning refused the application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Guiseppe Marmo, the Newark wife murderer, under sentence of death in Essex county yesterday. The refusal of the writ gave counsel ground for an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, which appeal was taken. The result is that Marmo was not hanged yesterday.

Before counsel made argument for the writ of habeas corpus on constitutional grounds that Marmo had not been allowed to go on the stand and tell his own story, and for the reason that his writ of error was dismissed by the Court of Errors and Appeals for lack of prosecution, Judge Lanning had entered on the minutes of the court the following statement in an effort to stop the use of the United States courts for the mere purposes of delaying the execution of sentences of the State courts:

"In an effort," said the judge, "to keep the United States court from being resorted to in this district for the mere purpose of delaying the execution of sentences of the State courts, I put on record now that hereafter I will carefully examine every application for a writ of habeas corpus in a homicide case, and if I find that there is no merit in the application, that it was brought for the purposes of delaying the execution of a State court sentence, I will immediately consult with my associate (United States Judge Cross) for the purpose of determining whether or not the name of the counselor so bringing before us the application for the writ shall be stricken from the rolls of this court."

Ever since counsel for Clifford, the Hudson county man who killed a railroad employe, set the practice of applying to the United States court at Trenton for a writ of habeas corpus, almost every murderer has had the benefit of this practice. Nothing comes of the practice, and it is the aim of Judge Lanning to abolish it unless there is a genuine merit in the applications.

GOES TO JERSEYMAN'S WIFE.

$285,000 House in Fifth Avenue Ready for Xmas Gift.

Every man in New York who possesses the price of a $285,000 residence in Fifth avenue and doesn't live in one now was in trouble after his wife had read yesterday morning that such a house, No. 826, near Sixty-fourth street, had been sold by the builders, W. W. & T. M. Hall, and a rich man's wife will find the title deed for it in her Christmas stocking.

Many a dutiful wife, who now entertains with difficulty in a dwelling worth only $150,000, or perhaps in a $10,000-a-year apartment, was filled with curiosity, and many a husband was made to feel that he ought to have dropped in at the builders' on the way home the night before and bought a Fifth avenue house.

The secret of the identity of the buyer of No. 826 is being well kept. It was said yesterday, however, that the anxiety among matrons in society in New York may cease, because the lucky woman now lives across the Hudson River—indeed, one man who pretends to know who she is even went so far as to intimate that her home now is in Paterson.

The Moral Value of the Telephone.

A recent article in a New York paper described the use of telephones in a church in Orange. The transmitter was placed in the pulpit directly in line with the clergyman's voice, lines from this were carried to the back of the church so that occupants of the pews in the farthermost distance by holding a receiver to their ear can hear distinctly every word of the service. This is only a germ of an idea that will probably be extensively elaborated. Already in numerous cases has telephone connection been established between the church and the bedside of invalids living at a distance of several miles. In Paterson a woman too ill to leave her bed listens every Sunday to the service at her church, which comes to her by telephone.

Reiter for Football Reform.

Howard R. Reiter, well-known here, who has charge of the athletics at Wesleyan University, expresses himself in favor of the proposed change in the football rules of ten yards in four downs. He says that it would call for more punting and less rushing, and that it would also result in less scoring, and would give an advantage to the lighter teams. He does not think, however, that it would lessen the number of injuries in a game. "Bosey" also advocates the compulsory use of the pneumatic headpiece to prevent injury to the head in rush or close formations.

A Xmas Festival.

The children's Christmas services will be held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Thursday night, December 28. In addition interesting exercises will be held after the service with the usual distribution of gifts.

WHIRLED AROUND SHAFT

Morris Arroe Has a Narrow Escape From Fearful Death.

CAUGHT BY MACHINERY

Revolved About Shaft at the Speed of An Express Train In New Brunswick Factory, Twenty Times.

Morris Arroe, of Metuchen, a former resident here as an employe of the Pond Tool Works and well known to a large number of Plainfielders, had a narrow escape from death Wednesday afternoon while stringing an electric light wire at the Empire Foundry, New Brunswick. He received several ugly wounds, but had no bones broken.

Arroe was adjusting an electric light wire to a strip of planking, and was standing near a piece of shafting, which was suspended about two feet from the ceiling, and about five feet from a wooden partition.

As he leaned over, part of his jumper was caught in the shafting and one of his arms was pulled across the shafting, but his weight pulled down his body until he was hanging to the shafting by his arm pit and part of the jumper, which had become fastened to the shafting.

In this position he was whirled around twenty times with the speed of an express train. At the first revolution his feet hit against the partition with such terrific force that it knocked out two planks of the partition and tore the soles off of his shoes, cutting his toes very badly.

The machinery was stopped by some one who had presence of mind enough to throw off the belting which was connected with the driving wheel of the shafting.

A doctor was summoned at once and dressed his wounds, among which was a gash about two inches in diameter under his armpit. He had several bad cuts about his head and had it not been that his weight pulled his body down even with the shafting he would no doubt have met instant death.

Arroe remained at the foundry all Wednesday night upon a cot. He spent a comparatively comfortable night and yesterday he was removed to his home.

DOG CAME BACK.

Valuable Pointer Falls in Love W Cop and Abandons Home.

A clean looking pointer dog, with good points and a thoroughbred air, was picked up by Patrolman Overbaugh on West Front street Wednesday afternoon. The dog was hunting around with the anxious air peculiar to lost canines and Overbaugh, who is a veteran sportsman, and knows a good dog when he sees one, promptly corraled the stray and took it to headquarters.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Sidney Williams, of 240 East Ninth street, claimed the dog. She said Overbaugh's judgment of dogs was good. The pointer is a thoroughbred with a long pedigree, and very valuable.

Yesterday afternoon an insistent bark sounded outside police headquarters' door. When Doorman McCue looked out to see what it meant the Williams pointer walked in, wagegd its tail, licked McCue's hand and lay down in front of the city judge's desk with a contented sigh. Mrs. Williams was notified and sent for the dog again. It didn't want to go, and the cops expect that Mrs. Williams will have trouble in keeping it from returning to headquarters. It appears to be a case of love at first sight between the dog and Overbaugh.

AUDITING CITY'S BOOKS.

Westfield Accountant Busy As Local Auditor.

Expert Accountant Collins, of Westfield, is now engaged in the preliminary work prior to auditing the books of this city. He does not expect to have his complete report ready for the Common Council much before the February meeting. His greatest task is on the books of the tax collector. All taxes not paid on or before December 20 will be delinquent, and consequently Mr. Collins will not be able to do much with Mr. Lee's books until after that date.

The auditing includes the books of the tax collector, city judge, city treasurer and all other accounts where there is an expenditure or receipt of money.

Mrs. Dorman's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. E. E. Dorman was held yesterday at her late home on Central avenue with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. It was conducted by Rev. J. A. Chambliss and Rev. A. E. Finn, of the local Baptist churches, Mrs. Dorman having been a member of Calvary Baptist church, New York. During the service two selections were sung by a quartette composed of Mrs. S. H. Tugwell, Miss Etta Raybert, Elmer D. Cutting and Mr. Iglehart. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. O. H. Day has been ill for several days. The shock of her husband's recent death has naturally left its mark on her.

HINTS ON MAILING GIFTS

Timely Suggestions of Value When Sending Christmas Presents.

WHAT TO OBSERVE

Points Well to Be Remembered at All Times—What the Postmaster Says.

Postmaster E. H. Bird calls attention of persons using the mails to a few valuable hints before the Christmas rush of postal business begins.

By paying attention to these hints a more satisfactory use of the mails will be had and many delays caused by the lack of information by the senders of packages will be avoided. The postmaster's hints follow:

Always place stamp in upper right hand corner.

Second, third and fourth class matter deposited either in street box or postoffice, if not fully prepaid, is held at office of mailing until addressee (who will be notified) sends amount of deficiency.

Mail matter of every description should bear name and address of sender in the upper left hand corner. This will insure return of matter if for any reason same cannot be delivered.

See that the proper postage is paid.

Have your letters and packages properly addressed.

Do not hold mail until the close of business, but mail it at frequent intervals during the day.

Postage stamps are neither redeemable nor exchangeable for those of other denominations.

Stamped envelopes which have been spoiled by misdirection or other cause, and which have not been cancelled, if in a whole condition, will be redeemed for the value of the postage on them, playable in stamps.

Mail matter deposited on the top of letter boxes is not in the custody of the postoffice.

It sometimes happens that letters intended to be registered, and have the necessary postage thereon, are dropped in the postoffice in the ordinary letter box. These letters are not registered, but go through as ordinary mail. The postoffice department requires parties registering letters to present same at postoffice registry window, where a receipt will be given, or to any letter carrier, who will give receipt for same and letter will be duly registered.

All letters and packages with valuable contents should be registered, as it is always impossible to trace losses of ordinary mail matter.

More mail matter is improperly handled, delayed and missent because of imperfectly or carelessly written abbreviations of states than from all other causes combined.

Any postoffice, no matter how small, makes special delivery of mail matter bearing a special stamp, within one mile of the office.

A special delivery stamp placed on a letter or package does not guarantee it against the possibility of loss, but simply insures prompt delivery at the office to which it is addressed, therefore, do not use special delivery stamp instead of registering valuable letters and packages.

Ordinary matter addressed to fictitious persons or firms, to initials ("A. B. C.," "X. Y. Z.," etc), or to no particular person or firm, unless directed to be delivered at a designated place, as a postoffice box, street and number, or to the care of a certain person or firm within the delivery bound of the office, cannot be delivered, but sent to the dead letter office (unless the sender's return card is on article mailed) in accordance with the postal laws and regulations.

Postmaster Bird specially urges persons sending Christmas gifts to see to it that packages are securely tied, otherwise the wrappers often become separated from the box or article, in which case neither sender or addressee can be identified.

The postoffice department at Washington is interested in the careful handling of Christmas mail, as will be seen by the following instructions issued to postal employes:

During Christmas holiday season, numerous Christmas gifts are in the registered and ordinary mails. Many of them are fragile and some are not packed securely enough to withstand either the frequent handling they receive or contact with heavier bundles or packages.

Clerks are especially charged, therefore to exercise extraordinary care in dumping pouches and sacks in piling mail and also in delivering it, to avoid breaking or crushing Christmas gifts.

It is also important in distributing packages into pouches or sacks to do so carefully in order to avoid their being broken by contact with heavy matter or by striking the racks.

Trampling upon mail sacks is always forbidden. When sacks or pouches in the rack begin to fill up, they must not be jolted or the contents pressed down either by hand or foot, and if the contents do not settle by shaking the sacks from the bottom, they should be taken out and other sacks hung instead of endeavoring to pack sacks or pouches to the fullest extent.

When practicable, packages of merchandise, which sem especially liable to injury should be included in puoches whether letter postage is apid on them or not.

Clerks will be particular to note the pouch or sacks in which loose articles are found, and examine same carefully to see whether the address can be ascertained before treating them as unmailable. In all cases the pouch or sack label should be forwarded with reports of unmailable matter, and section 1512 to 1518, inclsive, P. L. and R., otherwise carefully complied with.

Clerks will also retie loose packages to prevent any loss of contents.

It is the especial duty of clerks in charge to see that these instructions are enforced in their several crews.

CUPID CAN'T USE HOSPITAL 'PHONE

FLIRTING OVER WIRE BARRED BY EDICT OF HEAD NURSE IN HARLEM.

"No more flirting over the 'phone," is the latest edict in Harlem Hospital. It was conveyed to the thirty fair nurses on the staff by Miss Sara Gainsforth in the following simple but heart rending order:

"Hereafter nurses will not be permitted the use of the telephone except for official business.

"S. GAINSFORTH,
"Supervising Nurse."

Simple, but sufficient, for it has gone to the very hearts of the nurses, and Cupid, caught at the wires, is fluttering his helpless wings.

There are two telephones in the hospital. One is used only by department officials and the police, the other for ordinary service. Citizens of late have complained, it is said, of an inability to call up the hospital. Miss Gainsforth made an investigation, and found that walle one wire was comparatively idle, the other was extremely "busy." George Huyler, night clerk of the hospital, admitted that he had taken numerous calls from outside wires, oftener for "Miss So-andSo" than on hospital business. He thought Cupid was playing pranks.

Hence the order, and hence a merry war. What the nurses are going to do about it is not yet determined. If Huyler's guess is right, it is probable that "love will find a way."

TRINITY CONSISTORY'S WORK.

H. W. Van Arsdale Takes H. P. Seader's Place as Janitor.

Considerable business of importance was transacted at the regular monthly meeting of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church, Thursday. Henry P. Seader, sextion of the church for the past eight years, tendered his resignation on account of ill health. In accepting it the clerk was authorized to convey to Mr. Seader the regrets of the consistory at parting with so faithful an employe. H. W. Van Arsdale, of West Fifth street, was elected to take Mr. Seader's position.

The resignation of Mrs. J. W. Schenck, assistant superintendent of Marconnier chapel, was not acted upon, but was laid on the table, with the view of ascertaining whether the best interests of the chapel would not be best served by asking Mrs. Schenck to withdraw her resignation.

Another matter of importance receiving the attention of the consistory was the ordering of double storm sash on the dormer windows on the north side of the building, thus making the edifice warmer in windy weather.

ST. STEPHEN'S SERVICE.

Christmastide Celebrations Announced by Rector.

The rector, Rev. A. S. Peck, announces the programme for the Christmas service at St. Stephen's church. On December 24, Christmas eve, there will be public preparation for the Holy Communion. On December 25, Christmas day, there will be low celebration at 7:30, matins at 10:30 and high celebration at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The administration of confirmation will be held in the evening of St. Stephen's Day, Tuesday, December 26, and on Wednesday, December 27, St. John's Day, there will be low celebration at 7:30 o'clock in the morning. A children's festival has been arranged for Holy Innocents' Day, December 28, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Another One-story Shop.

Charles P. Sebring is preparing plans for the erection of a one-story building on West Front street, adjoining the Babcock building. It is his intention to add one or two stories to the building later on. The property is owned by the Sebring estate and the old building standing thereon was destroyed at the time of the fire in the Babcock structure.

Xmas Exercises in Public Schools.

The public schools of the city will close on Friday, December 22, for the holidays, and in most of them special Christmas exercises will be held on that day. At the Irving School elaborate programmes are in preparation. One will be given in the morning by the smaller children and in the afternoon the older pupils will take part. The affair is in charge of Miss Petrie, principal of the school, assisted by the teachers.

FLAT FOR BABIES.

Mother and Daughter Will Spend $1,000,000 on Structure.

New York children are going to be coaxed over to Brooklyn to live. There they are to enjoy large, airy apartments, with plenty of sunshine and rents attractively low.

The new paradise for children is going to be built on nineteen lots in St. John's place, between Bedford and Rogers avenue. The projectors of the plan are a mother and daughter, prominent in New York society, who are going to invest $1,000,000 in the house which shall afford children the opportunity to grow properly. The title will pass on Jan. 2. James S. Fonner, of New York, is the architect who will design the model apartments.

The mother and daughter do not intend to let their names be made public until the apartments are in successful operation. They do not deny that they expect to make a profit on their enterprise, but their chief object is to provides places wherein babies can grow up to full, normal health and strength so far as these can be nourished by spacious and hygienic surroundings.

The two women have visited scores of the finest new apartments in New York, but although in these they found ample accommodations for children, the lowest rents were $1,500 a year. They paid only $100,000 for the St. John's place property, and they think they can supply in their new building large apartments for half the rents demanded in Manhattan.

PATENTS ISSUED.

Among Number Two Granted Plainfielders.

Patents recently issued to Jerseymen include:

Desk lamp, F. E. Kinsman, Plainfield.

Lock, F. J. Vieweg, Plainfield.

Metronome, L. Aurnhammer, West Hoboken.

Machine for applying flux to cylindric bodies, C. H. Ayars, Salem.

Incubator, R. R. A. Boyer, Vailsburg, and F. Kinney, South Bound Brook.

Seal, E. J. Brooks, East Orange.

Turning lathe centre, C. J. Dalley, Raritan.

Stepladder, A. Daugherty, Atlantic City.

Container for ligatures, etc., F. Evans, Summit.

Pipe cleaning device, J. E. Flitcroft, Ocean Grove.

Cement stone machine, J. Geers and J. W. Mehrle, Jersey City, and J. Weimkes, Hoboken.

Armature for electrical machines, W. T. Hensley, Bound Brook.

Apparatus for promoting combustion, W. F. Herrick (three patents), Haworth.

Combined mount and derrick for engines and winding spools, H. A. Hettinger, Bridgeton.

Grip mechanism, W. Hewitt, Trenton.

Separation of metals (two patents) N. V. Hybinette, Westfield.

Sound box for sound recording and reproducing machines, J. Jetter, Camden.

Pencil box for slates, J. Koegel, Newark.

Garment fastener, B. Littauer, Newark.

Collar supporter, F. C. Osmers, Englewood.

Linotype machine, D. Petri-Palmedo, Hoboken.

Hat and cap, M. Redgrave, Jersey City.

Automatic piano, F. Schaub, Jersey City.

Coupling, M. L. Senderling, Jersey City.

Metallic mat, G. C. Sleeth, Newark.

Flexible tubing, L. Sussman, Bayonne.

Rolling chair, H. E. Weisgerber, Atlantic City.

Nail clipper or wire cutter, H. Wilcox, Newark.

Safety pins (trade marks), H. Wilcox, Newark.

Cloth fabrics for suitings for men and boys (trade marks), Oakes & Company, Bloomfield.

FREE OF DEBT.

Anonymous Gift of $3,000 Clears Children's Home Completely.

Every cost of debt has been lifted from the new building of the Children's Home. A Christmas gift in the form of a $3,000 check has been made to the institution. The gift will just cover the amount remaining on the new structure.

The donation is made anonymously by two generous friends of the Home. It is their special request that no clue to their identity be given. Not even their sex is known outside the official circles of the Home.

Dyers in Sympathetic Strike.

Lodi, Dec. 16.—Because seventy-five men were discharged from the United Dye Works here, charged with being responsible for the recent strike, nearly 300 dyers quit work yesterday. They became threatening and deputies are once more doing guard duty here. The two mills employ 1,000 men, and the strikers hope to have all out in a few days.

Hospital Open on Xmas Day.

Muhlenberg Hospital will be open to visitors on Christmas Day and those who helped make the "Harvest Home" a success, as well as the public in general, will be welcome. This is the season in the year when people should give some thought of the great work being done by that institution and should lend their support financially and otherwise.

BIFF'S WEDDING

The bride-to-be was quite certain she wanted him.

"You know," she told his mother, "he'll fit into the color scheme so beautifully with that golden hair. All he will have to do is unroll one of the ribbons for the aisle. Do say you, Mrs. Hunter."

"All!" echoed the mother of Biff. "All!" she repeated. "My dear Miss Farmington, that child is quite capable of playing a sudden game of jump-the-rope with your white satin ribbon or using it to lasso the rector."

"But he will look so angelic all in white," persisted the bride-to-be. "Those Russian blouse suits become him so, and he walks so well. I shall count on him, then."

Then it became necessary for Biff's mother to break the news to him of his impending debut at a church wedding.

"Why should I walk down the aisle?" he demanded, calmly. "Do I have to be married, too? What for? why?"

By dint of hard mental labor and the exercise of maternal patience Biff's mother made him fairly comprehend his part in the scheme of things. Still, he was doubtful. At the mention of white silk stockings he began to regard the prospect with favor, until in her haste to clinch his mother mentioned as an especially alluring point that a nice, sweet little girl was to be his companion in that promenade down the aisle—a little girl he knew, Retta Kingston.

Biff showed the white feather instantly. "I will not go down the aisle with a girl!" he protested with the stormy insistence of a 6-year-old, Why should I? Ain't I enough just by myself? I don't like Retta, anyhow!"

More diplomacy on the part of his mother caused Biff to relent. "Well, anyhow," he said, with an air of finality, "if I let her walk with me and she doesn't keep step I'll punch her face."

"He's just as apt as not to do it, too," wailed Mrs. Hunter to the bride-elect. "I'm so worried!"

As the time for the wedding drew near Biff had sundry attacks of backsliding. Whenever it was necessary for him to be fitted with a coat or experiment on in regard to a proper tie or a new shoe his stage fright grew severe and required chocolate creams or similar soothing applications before it was vanquished. Being a shrewd youngster, Biff detected possibilities in this stiuation. Toward the end he held out strenuously. He didn't want to be a page at the wedding, and he wasn't going to be, and that was all there was about it. Chocolate creams he scorned and stood firm in his defiance. Even the blandishments of the bride-to-be had no effect on his adamantine young heart.

"You must, Biff," his mother said finally in the low, tense tone of voice stage heroines always use at the critical moment when they add to a great scene by acting it with repression. "You simply must, now that everything is arranged. I'll there anything you particularly want? I'll give it to you if only you'll be a good boy and do as you first said you would."

Biff considered the prospect with inward joy. "I think I would like to go to that play Jimmy went to," he finally announced.

"You certainly may go," promised his overjoyed mother.

Biff remembered that he must keep up the attitude of a martyr. "All right," he said with a gentle sign. "I'll do it. But, please, let's not talk about it any more."

Regard for Biff's mighty sacrifice of self led the family to respect his wish. Also they were afraid he might change his mind again were the topic brought to his attention.

The night of the wedding Biff's mother suffered from nervousness, for her pride and joy had been in a particularly impish mood all day, and his chief charm, except on a public occasion like this, was his unexpectedness. No human being could know what the crinkles in Biff's brain would lead him to do next. And whatever it was, it was certain to be thoroughly done. He might drop the ribbon halfway down the aisle and clamber into the pew with his family; he might drag marble out of his pocket and have a game on the chancel steps; he might interrupt the rector and converse with him. Biff's mother had thirteen varieties of cold chills as she sat and waited and smiled in her best society manner, as though she were enjoying herself.

There was a portentous strain of music and then a hush. The bridal procession started.

Could that be Biff—that angelic faced child gazing heavenward, holding the ribbon so gracefully, stepping so easily? His mother held her breath in an agony of apprehension. Little Retta reached the end of the aisle unscathed as to face and Biff's lips were still closed. High up on the steps he was posed in his proper place. Then he turned and surveyed the people interestedly, unembarrassedly.

Suddenly his mouth opened wide, wider—it was a yawn. It is not given many people to see such a comprehensive, all-embracing yawn. As has been said, Biff did things thoroughly. It really was a scandalous yawn.

"I am only thankful," shivered Biff's mother as the procession came back down the aisle, "that it was no worse. But—heavens!"

"Yes, I had a good time," said Biff sleepily that night, his hands full of wedding cake. "Say, can I go over to Johnnie Martin's tomorrow to play with his new goat?"—Chicago News.

BERNHARDT TO ACT IN TENT.

Trust Drives French Star to Tour Under Canvas.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, "the divine," playing "Camille" under canvas on the Texas plains; travelling in her private car at the head of a train of real circus-cars, and performing on a portable stage not much different from those used in side-shows!

That is the proposed programme, unless the theatrical syndicate gives in and removes the ban from Henry Greenwall, who owns, but does not control, the Texas theatre.

"It is fine," said the "divine" Sarah when seen in the dressing-room at the Lyric theatre. "Voila! I have great managers. They will not be balked, and I shall aid them by appearing in a tent—yes, in a circus tent, and on a stage of pine boards. Probably I shall enjoy it; maybe not."

Mr. Shubert stands on one side of the theatrical fence, Klaw & Erlanger on the other, and Connor in the middle. The latter has never opposed Klaw & Erlanger's syndicate and thought he would have no difficulty in booking New Orleans and Texas through Henry Greenwall, who owns the Greenwall circuit, which is affiliated with the syndicate, so far as bookings are concerned.

Mme. Bernhardt will not show every night in a tent. Once in a while she will be able to get into one of the Shubert theatres, but in Texas these are few and far between. She will, of course, travel in her private car, Iolanthe.

WOMEN LIKE MASTERFUL MEN.

Nearly all women love the masterful man.

He has a high-handed way of doing things that seems to take wonderfully well.

Woman, in her soul, despises the man whom she can manage.

She does not manage the masterful man; he manages her, and the result is she respects and adores him.

He is not a bully, he can be as gentle as he is forceful, and the very fact that gentleness underlies his strength makes her love him, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

He has a way of saying "you must not do that, it's not good for you," or "I can't let you do this," that wins her interest at once.

When he wants to see her he thrusts aside every obstacle. Everything and every person will be sacrificed for her sake.

His methods may seem selfish to the world in general, but to the woman herself they are infinitely flattering.

He is a bold wooer, and he wins.

Women have been known to love timid men, but the love is more maternal and protective than wifely.

The masterful man sweeps all before him; his strenuous wooing carries a woman along on a tide that she is powerless to resist.

She may make a feeble pretense at rebellion, but in her heart she knows that her surrender is but a matter of time.

If he does not succeed in his first attempt to win her, he is not discouraged, but keeps at it.

He never lets her forget him.

He treats her as a child, but he makes love to her as a woman.

He understands her thoroughly, and rarely strikes a false note.

He makes her feel that everything on earth is subservient to her wish, that he will move heaven and earth to please her.

Thousands of years ago, when man went a wooing he knocked his lady love senseless with a club and dragged her home in triumph.

The method was a trifle strenuous, but the ladies seemed to like it, for they stayed and made faithful, loving wives.

Nowadays the wooing is done on a different basis, but the masterful man is still to the fore, still pursuing his successful tactics.

He does not conquer with a club, but with the force of his own all-powerful personality.

He does not say to a woman, "will you love me," but rather, "you must love me."

The very magnitude of his effrontery, though at firs it aggers, finally wins.

He inspires a woman with confidence, makes her feel that he cannot fail in aught that he undertakes.

And women worship moral and physical courage.

Above all, he makes her feel that she is the most important thing on earth and that he will go through fire and water to win her.

There's no doubt that the masterful man has a "way with him" where woman is concerned.

He is her exact opposite in every characteristic; he makes her do a thousand things she has sworn she would not do; he makes her bend to his imperious will; he tyrannizes over her, pets her and in the end wins her undying love and devotion.—Newark Advertiser.

Installing Bowling Alleys.

A New York company is installing four bowling alleys in the former Crescent Club house on East Second street for William McLaughlin. He has leased the building and will conduct it as a "home" for bowlers.

GOLDSTEIN FAILS TO RECOVER DAMAGES

BROUGHT SUIT AGAINST PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION FOR $300.

Harry Goldstein, of this city, who brought suit for $300 against the Public Service Corporation and Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, for damages sustained through his horse and wagon being run down by a trolley car in this city, November 1[illegible], 1903, failed to get a verdict in the District Court, Elizabeth, Thursday. The jury returned a verdict of no cause for action.

In the accident, which occurred on Richmond street near Fifth street, the plaintiff claimed that his horse was severely injured and his wagon completely wrecked. He was unable to prove his contention in court, for disinterested witnesses called by the defendants proved that Goldstein's wagon was merely shoved off the track, was not damaged, neither was the horse injured.

Sidney W. Eldridge, Esq., represented the plaintiff and J. A. Bernhard, Esq., the defendant companies.

CLEARS WOMAN'S NAME.

Evidence Against Her Not Enough for a Divorce.

Vice Chancellor Stevens has filed an opinion advising against a decree of divorce to John Benjamin Beatty, an architect, of Elizabeth, from his wife, Mrs. Clara May Beatty. The opinion holds Mrs. Beatty to have been innocent of misconduct with Samuel Carne, who was named as co-respondent. The opinion also exonerates Carne.

The Vice Chancellor holds that Beatty's neglect to his wife for two months preceding the date of the incident in the house of George Turk, on which Beatty's suit was based, was not satisfactorily explained. The denial by Beatty that he ever saw the letters his wife claimed to have found in his office desk, although addressed and mailed to him, and whose genuineness, the Court said, was hard to doubt, weakened to some extent the value of the petitioner's testimony.

The opinion holds that Carne's conduct in bringing his own wife to Mrs. Beatty's apartments immediately after his alleged discovery with Mrs. Beatty was an evidence of innocence on his part.

"Mrs. Beatty's letter," the Court said, "written to her husband within a few days after the occurrence, contains no statement that is necessarily an admission of guilt. Her expression, 'If you want a divorce, why don't you get it?' may, under the circumstances, of destitution in which she was placed, have been merely an outburst of impatience. On the whole, I cannot bring myself to the conclusion that the weight of evidence was against her."

Former Gov. Foster M. Voorhees, of New Jersey, was Mrs. Beatty's counsel. Carne was represented by former Prosecutor William R. Wilson.

SEAT ON CHANGE $88,000.

If Present Boom Continues, Price May Reach $100,000.

A New York Stock Exchange seat Wednesday sold for $88,000, the highest price on record. A previous high price was $85,000. The secretary of the Exchange declined to disclose the name of the purchaser, as he has not yet been elected a member of the Exchange.

Stock Exchange seats are usually regarded in Wall street as barometers of speculation. During booms they command high prices and in periods of depression they decline. Within a year they have sold as low as $65,000.

Brokers were predicting Wednesday that they would sell at $100,000 if the present boom continues. This prediction was made Wednesday by Henry Clews, who paid only $500 for his seat more than forty years ago.

Chinese Guinea Fowl.

Frank Hedden, of East Fourth street, who is one of the best known amateur chicken fanciers in this section of the county, has added three white Chinese guinea fowl to his hennery. Chinese guineas of pure white are rare. Hedden's new acquisition are two hens and a cock. He intends to breed them.

For Poor in Other States.

The Junior Auxiliary of St. Stephen's church has sent a box of useful gifts to go to the united Christmas box from the children of New Jersey to the children in Georgia and South Dakota. The value of the box is $29.50.

C. T. Rogers is having his big hay scales repaired.

Basketball League Suspends.

On account of the Saturday night games by the big team, the schedule of the Y. M. C. A. basketball league has been suspended temporarily. The games will be resumed after January. The Business Men look like probable winners. They haven't lost a game.

Boys' Gymnastic Exhibition.

The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a gymnastic exhibition on New Year's Day at 10 o'clock in the morning. Physical Director Boardman is training the class for the event.

NEW DAVIS PLAY A HIT

"The Galloper" and Raymond Hitchcock Given Premiere before Distinguished Audience.

NOTABLES PRESENT

Green Room Club Members, Henry W. Savage, Ralph Stuart and Ethel Barrymore Among Those Who Applauded.

Before a cultured audience that included a large part of the Green Room Club membership and many of New York's best known theatrical folk, Manager Henry W. Savage presented Raymond Hitchcock in the premier of "The Gallopee" from the pen of Richard Harding Davis at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday. Both play and star scored an instantaneous success and the enthusiasm of the spectators culminated in an ovation for Mr. Hitchcock and the author at the close of the second act. When the curtain descended after a series of delightful dramatic situations, calls of "Mr. Davis" resounded through the auditorium.

The creator of "VanBibber," "Gallagher" and other lovable fiction characters, was in the wings at the time, but though he has faced "shot and shell" as a war correspondent, he quailed at meeting the gaze of more than a thousand pairs of eyes that wished to look upon him and to pay him a tribute. Mr. Hitchcock was pressed into service and half pulled, half dragged the shrinking author before the footlights but his courage, or what was left of it, departed and left him speechless. Quick to grasp the situation, the comedian on his behalf rattled off a characteristic Francis Wilson salutation that satisfied and pleased. No one was positive at just what point it started or where it left off, but as both men withdrew there was an impression that a speech had been made.

"The Galloper" is a farcical comedy in three acts and deals with the experiences of a number of Americans during the Graeco-Turkish war, the title being an expression used by war correspondents to describe a despatch bearer who first gets his "story" on the "wire." Mr. Hitchcock is cast as Copeland Schuyler, a New York clubman in love with a young woman who has gone to the front as a Red Cross nurse. In order to follow and be near her, he assumes the guise of Kirk Warren, a famous war correspondent, and goes to the scene of the conflict. He is practically ignorant of corresponding methods and the many complications that follow when he tries to report a battle lead to a series of comic situations, especially when Warren appears. To further enhance the fun, there is a music hall performer, known as the "Human Fly," who is the divorced wife of the genuine Kirk Warren and a Newark widow who is also in pusuit of the journalist. A coterie of correspondents on hand to describe the conflict between the Cross and the Crescent and a variety of army types are among the other characters. There is a genuine love and dramatic element in the comedy and the exciting incidents which actually befall newspapermen in the field and on the fighting line are told in an inimitable way, actually sketched from Mr. Davis' own experiences in this campaign.

The role of "Copeland Schuyler" gives Mr. Hitchcock excellent opportunity for the refined droll methods that stamped his work in "The Yankee Consul" and he appears even to better advantage than he did in the musical comedy. In this new effort he is sure to score a tremendous success when he reaches Broadway, from which he was forced to depart because of the flimsiness of "Easy Dawson." He is in perfect accord with the first two acts but there is a noticeable flatness in the third and last due to Mr. Davis' failure to introduce his climax at the proper moment. This will probably be remedied in the pruning process that will follow the next few performances.

Hardly less enthusiastic than the star's reception, was the one accorded Miss May Buckley, as "Blanche Bailey." She is an actress of no mean ability and has a winning way about her that captures everyone. Her part is directly opposite to the one she had as Wright Lorimer's leading woman in "The Shepherd King," and fits her far better. Others in the cast who won deserved applause were Edgar L. Davenport, Herbert Cothell, Nannette Comstock and Helen Lackaye. The play is heavily, almost sumptuously mounted, and was staged by George Marion, general director for Mr. Savage.

Included in the distinguished gathering that witnessed the production were Miss Ethel Barrymore, the actress; Ralph Stuart, the star of "By Right of Sword;" Herbert Hall Winslow, the writer; Mrs. Hitchcock, Percy Weedon, Mr. Savage's personal representative, and his entire executive staff; Horace Cooley, general manager for Gus Hill; Charles White, manager for Mildred Holland and a delegation of eight New York newspapermen and critics.

George Apgar has recovered from a few days' illness.

MR. ACKERMAN LECTURES

Repeats "Above, Below and Between Magic Circles" for St. Mary's Parish.

A LARGE AUDIENCE

Musical Programme In Connection With His Talk—Proceeds for Benefit of Church. Work.

For the laudable purpose of assisting the poor of St. Mary's parish, State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman gave his interesting illustrated lecture, "Between the Magic Circles," at the Casino last Friday. The auditorium was filled with members of St. Mary's church and their friends, and all spent a most profitable evening.

The programme opened with a vocal selection, "The Bells," by a quartette from St. Mary's church, comprising Miss Anna Daley, soprano; Miss Elizabeth Day, contralto; Albert E. Matthews, tenor, and Joseph F. O'Keefe, bass. This was followed with a soprano solo by Miss Daley and a baritone solo by William Holmes. Each number was well given and heartily applauded.

After the musical numbers, Father Bogan introduced Senator Ackerman and explained the objects of the lecture.

As has been stated, Mr. Ackerman's trips have extended over a period of several years and the last journey, which was illustrated last night, practically covered the globe. The beautiful views displayed by Mr. Ackerman were nearly all taken by himself and are therefore of exceptional value. He took his large audience from New York across the Atlantic to Norway, thence to Turkey, where he showed them a number of interesting pictures and exlained the peculiar customs of that place. Leaving Turkey, Mr. Ackerman visited Egypt and in his trip along the Nile he took a number of handsome views which held the close attention of his hearers.

From Turkey the lecturer went to India, displaying the beauties of this country and describing scenes and incidents connected with his travels there. Perhaps the most interesting portion of the trip was that in Japan and China, where Mr. Ackerman has visited several times. He was in Japan when peace between that country and Russia was declared and his views of the many celebrations arranged were not only amusing but very instructive. The speaker brought his audience home from Japan by the way of the Yellowstone Park and Florida.

Frequently throughout the lecture the audience showed its appreciation by hearty applause and at the conclusion Mr. Ackerman received the congratulations and thanks of many for the entertaining evening afforded.

The lecture was arranged by a large committee, comprising representatives from the various societies in St. Mary's church, and a substantial sum will be realized as profit to be devoted to the poor of the parish.

MONEY FOR SCHOLARSHIP.

Undertaking of a Christian Endeavor Society.

For the purpose of raising funds toward the support of a young woman at Salem College, West Virginia, which it has undertaken, the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held an entertainment and tea in the church parlors, yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. The affair was arranged by a committee of which Miss Mary Ross was the chairman.

During the entertainment a double quartette of young women sang favorite songs used at Salem College, and Mrs. Violet Johnson rendered several violin solos. There was also a reading by Miss Mary Ross.

Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard and Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis poured tea and the young women waitresses wore the student cap and gown. There was a large attendance of members and friends of the society and a considerable sum was realized.

Kean Congratulates Longworth.

Congressman Longworth, the prospective son-in-law of the President, Wednesday made his first visit to the Senate Chamber at Washington since his engagement was announced. He was for a few minutes the centre of attraction, and Senators made haste to grasp his hand and congratulate him, Senator Kean being the first to wish him a long and happy married life. Senators Allison, Foraker and many other of the leaders followed the New Jersey Senator in their congratulations.

Reward for Ides' Capture.

A reward of $125 is now offered for the capture of Frank Ides, who escaped from the Rahway Reformatory a few weeks ago. Of this sum $100 will be given by Joseph A. Martin, superintendent of the reformatory, and $25 by the commissioners of the same institution.

Cranford Reps. Committee.

The primary election held at Cranford Saturday night for an executive committee resulted in the election of Emmor K. Adams, E. G. Woodling, A. D. Hart, W. F. Hall, Robert C. Clume, James Werner, Sylvester Scott and C. F. Clance. All these men are Republicans.

$27,500 AWARD AGAINST THE PUBLIC SERVICE

MIDDLESEX JURY GIVES HEAVY VERDICT IN TROLLEY SUIT.

A jury in the Middlesex County Court at New Brunswick awarded John H. Dodd, of that city, $27,500 for injuries received by him last August when a trolley car in which he was a passenger collided with a Lehigh Valley freight car, at the Aldene crossing. He sued for $100,000 damages.

Mr. Dodd was injured about the spine and head, and has been unable to do any work since the accident. He had to be brought into the courtroom on a stretcher. He has no control of his muscles, and when he was sworn it was necessary to raise his hand and put it on the Bible. His answers were given in a whisper and were audible only to those at his side.

On the day of the accident Mr. Dodd had been to Roselle on business. He was returning on an open car of the Public Service Corporation. When crossing a spur of the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks on South avenue, a freight train backed into the car and Mr. Dodd was thrown out and down an embankment.

The verdict was against the Public Service Corporation. Mr. Dodd's suit against the Lehigh Valley Railroad was non-suited on the ground that the accident was due to the negligence of the employes of the trolley company.

Central Lodge's New Officers.

Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., has elected these officers for the coming year: Past master workman, A. E. Curtis; master workman, Theodore J. Mason, Jr.; foreman, Robert W. Ellis; guide, Henry B. Zimmerman; recorder, Harry R. Thorn; financier, William Newcorn; receiver, Charles H. Randolph; inside watchman, H. F. Bulmer; outside watchman, William H. Lunger; trustee, three years, Lorenzo J. Spicer; representatives to Grand Lodge, William Newcorn, A. E. Curtis; alternates, Harvey R. Thorn, Lorenzo J. Spicer; organist, Theodore J. Mason, Jr.; medical examiners, Drs. O. L. Jenkins, W. J. Nelson and M. J. Whitford. Deputy Grand Master Workman George E. Mott, of Jersey City, will install the officers on Thursday night, January 11.

BOYS' Y. M. C. A. COUNCIL.

New Feature in Work Announced by Executive Committee.

The State Executive Committee of the Y. M. C. A. held its quarterly meeting in Newark last week, and among those present were W. D. Murray and F. H. Andrews, of this city, old members of the committee. A dinner followed the meeting.

Reports on the work in all parts of the State were made by State Secretary E. W. Hearn and Charles R. Scott; State Secretary for Boys' Work. The latter announced the organization of a Boys' State Council, to be composed of Y. M. C. A. juniors over fifteen years old. They will elect their own officers and will meet, from time to time, to discuss the work in the different departments. The council will be a clearing house for ideas in boys' work. The local boys' department will, of course, affiliate with the council.

A Saffron Dream.

Samuel Rottberg, an employe of Harry Werner, is indignant over a bald fake regarding him that appeared in Saturday's Courier-News. Mr. Rottberg found a bank pass book in New York and returned it to the trust company whose name appeared on its cover, which simple little incident formed the basis of a hysterical tale by one of the Courier-News fiction writers, wherein Mr. Rottberg figured as a haloed young man who returned $850 in cash to a grateful banker and the recipient of a warm letter of thanks and what the Courier-News novelist called a "tribute" to his honesty." Mr. Rottberg has been pestered ever since the publication of the fake by facetious friends and well-meaning bearers of congratulations. He thinks the incident has put him in a ridiculous position, and is the more indignant because the Courier-News refused, when he asked the management for such action, to tell the truth about the matter.

Entertainment for Chapel.

A successful entertainment was held by Marconnier chapel last week, for the benefit of the general funds. The programme was rendered by the Sagamore Musical Club and Miss Aimee Louise Emmons, elocutionist, of this city. The music was much enjoyed and Miss Emmons scored a decided hit. The attendance was large.

$100,000 Wanted for Building.

Congressman Wood intends to see what he can do this year for both Princeton and Trenton. He has introduced the bill for $30,000 for the battle monument at Princeton, which has passed the Senate several times and always failed in the house. Then he has introduced a bill making an appropriation of $100,000 to enlarge the postoffice at Trenton, a much needed improvement, as the United States courts are terribly crowded at present.

TO FORM 'VARSITY CLUB

Movement on Foot Among College Men to Organize Association Here.

MEETING AT CASINO

Owen Fleming, Princeton Man, Starts the Ball A-rolling—Smoker to Bring Grads Together.

For the purpose of getting together all the college men in the city and borough and promoting a greater degree of fellowship, plans are now being discussed for a "university smoker," to be held at the Casino on a date to be decided upon later. Owen Fleming, of Park avenue, a graduate of Princeton University, has taken the initiative and the affair promises to be a great success.

It is estimated that there are nearly 300 college graduates in Plainfield, and it is believed that fully one-third of that number would join in the celebration. As to numbers, Yale men predominate here, there being about eighty graduates, while Princeton is second with about fifty graduates. Amherst has nearly fifteen, Pennsylvania has thirty, and the balance represent Harvard, Lafayette, Lehigh, Brown, Bucknell, New York University, Cornell and various other institutions.

Invitations were sent out today by Mr. Fleming to the college graduates known to him, and they are asked to spread the news and help make the affair a success. The invitation also says that there will be plenty to eat, drink and smoke, with good music and addresses. A meeting of college men will be held within a short time, when the date for the smoker and other details will be fixed. The music for the occasion will comprise favorite college songs, and this will be made a feature. An effort will also be made to secure the presence of several prominent out-of-town college men to make addresses, and it is possible that one or two college presidents may attend.

If the smoker meets with the success anticipated, it will probably be made an annual affair, and an association may be formed to perpetuate the true college spirit. It is believed that with 300 college graduates in Plainfield a strong and influential organization can be effected which would insure many good times. Those who have been acquainted with the plans under discussion are enthusiastic over the idea and have signified a desire to lend every effort to make the first gathering a success.

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS THE TRENTON'S

SOUTH JERSEY CHAMPIONS ROUTED—SCORE BEING 31 TO 17.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A.'s crack basketball five defeated the Trenton Y. M. C. A. team, champions of South Jersey, at the local gymnasium Saturday night. The score was 31 to 17, but despite the onesidedness it was one of the fastest games played this season. Trenton's style of play was exceedingly rough, but Plainfield's superior team work overcame this and another victory was gained.

Smith and Scull made some sensational goals from wide angles, while Leary's four goals from fouls were loudly applauded. The score:

| Plainfield. | | Trenton. |
|---|---|---|
| Utzinger | | Dice |
| Smith | | Graft |
| Thompson | | Harris |
| | forwards. | |
| Scull | | Miller, Dye |
| | center. | |
| Letson | | Pumyea |
| Gavett, Leary | | Crook |
| | guards. | |

Goals from field—Scull, 8; Pumyea, 4; Smith, 2; Dice, 2; Graft, Thompson, Letson, Leary. Goals from fouls—Leary, 4; Scull, Dice, Dye, Pumyea. Referee—C. B. Morse. Umpire—Arthur L. Denton. Timekeeper—H. M. Barlow. Scorer—O. F. Mueck.

The Business Men defeated Plainfield Consolidated in the second game, 26 to 7. The score:

| Business Men. | | Consolidated. |
|---|---|---|
| Heicher | | Phillips |
| Baker | | Douglas |
| | forwards. | |
| Spicer | | McNaughton |
| | center. | |
| Clark | | Collier |
| Miner | | Cullingworth |
| | guards. | |

Goals from field—Heicher, 6; Haines, 3; Miner, 2; Spicer, Douglas, Manning. Goals from fouls—Douglas, 3; Spicer, 2. Referee—O. B. Morse. Umpire—A. L. Denton. Timekeeper—H. M. Barlow. Scorer—O. F. Mueck.

Tonight the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team will play New Brunswick Y. M. C. A., and Business Men will play Wanamassa Boat Club, of Asbury Park.

Bridge Whist Christmas Week.

Miss Adelaide Graybill Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball, of Rockview avenue, has sent out invitations for a bridge whist party to be given on the afternoon of Friday, December 29.

PLANS ANOTHER CIRCUS

Y. M. C. A. Physical Department Outlines Interesting List of Wider Activities.

NEW BOWLING LEAGUE

Athletic Competition Also on the Cards—Leaders for Gymnasium Groups to Be Chosen by Test.

Relieved by the resignation of Mr. Boardman and the appointment of Mr. Robbie as his temporary successor, from the incubus of uncertainity, the physical work department of the Y. M. C. A. has taken a spurt that will rekindle the spirit of activity that marked the heyday of Director C. M. A. Heywood's regime.

As soon as the time was ripe for the announcement of his authority over the department, Mr. Robbie plunged into the work centering about the gymnasium and the news that he was to take charge was followed almost immediately by the announcement of several important departures from the attitude of relaxation that seemed to have settled down on the physical department.

For one thing, leaders will be chosen to train various classes in gymnasium work. A schedule of tests to demonstrate the men best fitted for leadership is to be prepared by a committee composed of Edward Neal, Walter Cahoone and Harry Scull. The committee will meet on December 28.

Another circus is to be held in February. Arrangements for that affair have been placed in the hands of the following committee: John Steiner, Stryker Hoagland, E. J. Cullingworth and Charles Sebring.

Arrangements for an athletic meet are being made by Ray Smith. A list of events is to be planned by Smith and two others not yet named. The winner will earn the title of champion. Medals will be offered and the winners of the various events will have their names inscribed on the shields of honor that hang in the gymnasium.

A committee of four has charge of the arrangements for the formation of a bowling league. Four teams at least, it is expected, will be formed, and a trophy will be offered to spur them on to lively effort. The bowling committee is made up of C. B. Koons, F. A. Martin, G. Harold Whitney and A. L. Jeffery.

MRS. J. H. ACKERMAN GOES TO HER REST

PHILANTHROPIC WOMAN PASSES AWAY PEACEFULLY.

Mrs. Ellen R. M. Ackerman, widow of the late J. Hervey Ackerman, passed away Monday, after a brief illness. She was the daughter of Rev. Dr. Richard U. Morgan, of the Protestant Episcopal church, and was naturally as well as spiritually a devoted member of the church of her fathers. She was a woman of rare Christian virtues and until impaired health restricted her personal activities, she was practically interested in every department of church work.

In her family she was a faithful wife and affectionate mother. Among her circle of acquaintances she was always hospitable, kind and unselfish. In her church relations, as already referred to, she was remarkably loyal, generous and charitable. As a Christian her delight was in doing good to those who were in need of gracious assistance. She yielded up her spirit quietly in the presence of all her immediate family, her two sons and their wives and her two daughters with their husbands.

FEW RIDERS OUT.

Weather Prevents Large Attendance At Hunt Club Chase.

Owing to the disagreeable weather on Saturday only seven members of the Watchung Hunt Club joined in the chase after the hounds. Those braving the elements met at Mt. Pleasant and followed the hounds to Colonia, where there was a check. The riders then returned to Oak Tree, where the chase ended.

On Saturday the club will meet at the kennels on Rahway road and follow the hounds to Westfield, where there will be a check. The club will then select the road for the return trip to Plainfield.

Dr. Knott has received word from Ireland that the new pack of hounds, thirty-one in all, will be shipped on Friday, December 29, on the steamer Armenia from England, and will arrive here in about a week.

Miss Lawrence a Story Writer.

Features of the December Acropolis, the Newark High School paper, include the stories that secured first places in the short-story contest which closed last week. Among those published is "Elizabeth's Cure," by Miss Josephine Lawrence, of Washington avenue, the borough, which wins the $5 prize. Miss Lawrence is the daughter of Dr. E. W. Lawrence, of the borough, and is a member of the junior class of the Newark High School.

FRUSTRATED A BURGLAR

Mrs. Corlies' Presence of Mind Stood in Good Stead When Intruder Faced Her.

SHE ACTED QUICKLY

Walked to Another Room and Sounded Several Blasts on a Coaching Horn—Aid Came, but Man Escaped.

Looking up from a book that she was reading at her home Saturday night, Mrs. J. E. Corlies, of Roadending, was greatly startled to see an ill-appearing man shading his eyes and peering through a window into the room. She was alone at the time and though badly frightened by the apparition, sat perfectly still. Dropping her eyes, she pretended to resume reading, but instead continued to covertly watch the face, which was still to be plainly seen and to all appearances was there to stay until the owner had mapped out a plan of action.

Mrs. Corlies mapped out one herself, and laying down the book, yawned perceptibly and then started slowly for another room, giving the impression that she was to retire. Instead she hurried to a room on the upper floor, where a horn is kept to summon her coachman, and throwing open a window, gave several strong blasts. The employe responded, and was informed of the occurrence, but though he hurried about the grounds, the man had made good his escape. He had evidently intended to rob the house and was sizing up the rooms in order to have a fixed plan of exit in case he was detected and an alarm was given.

Mrs. Corlies' experience is one that would throw most women into hysteries and her planning to catch the fellow while he was watching her movements has caused admiring comment among her friends. The house is situated a considerable distance from any other residence and as a rule some of the employes are always about the place at night.

FIRST BAPTIST JUNIORS GIVE AN ENTERTAINMENT

THE PLEASING PROGRAMME APPROPRIATE TO CHRISTMAS TIDE.

Under the auspices of the primary and junior departments of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, a pleasing musical and literary entertainment, appropriate to Christmastide, was given Saturday afternoon. The Sunday-school room was filled with members and friends and the programme was enjoyable.

The opening number was an address of welcome by Elmer French, followed by a song, "Days We Love the Best," by the primary class. A piano solo by Lawrence French preceded recitations, "Christmas Greeting," by Florence Coons and "A Question," by Dorothy Hall. "Dolly's Rock-a-by Song" was sung by girls from the primary department, each one sitting in a rocking chair and holding a doll.

There was a piano duett by Lawrence and Elmer French, followed with recitations by Lillie VanWinkle, the junior department, Gertrude King and a song by the junior department, "Grandma's Gift" was the title of a recitation by Ethel Runyon, and after a piano solo by Elmer French, these recitations were given: "The Night Before Christmas," Junior VanDeventer; "Only a Baby," Edith Rickert; "The Day Before Christmas," Florence Neal; "Kris Kringle," Lawrence French; "Feeling Sorry for Santa," Herbert Hillman; "A Little Speech," Emma Mantz. The programme was concluded with a song by the primary department and a piano duett by Elmer and Lawrence French.

The children acquitted themselves with credit in their various parts and were heartily applauded.

Mrs. J. A. Powlison, superintendent of the primary department, was in charge of the entertainment, assisted by Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. Dudley B. Miller and the other teachers in this and the junior department.

Xmas at First Baptist Church.

The Sunday school of the First Baptist church is preparing an elaborate Christmas entertainment to be held probably on Friday night, December 29. The affair will be in the form of a cantata and William Holmes, of the church choir, is now engaged in rehearsing the children of the school. The regular Christmas service will be held on Sunday morning and afternoon, when the choir will give a programme of appropriate anthems. In the afternoon the Sunday school service will be held.

Bought Home in Newark.

James Welsh, of Lee place, has purchased a home in Newark, and the family will move there the first of the year. Mr. Welsh is an old resident of Plainfield. He leaves town because he has been employed in a responsible position in a Harrison machine shop.

EDWARDS' ACTING PRAISED BY CRITICS

APPEARS IN REPERTOIRE WITH MISS MAUD FEALY.

Rowland Edwards, son of Maze Edwards, of the Casino, and who was visiting here a short time since, is now a member of the Gilmore Stock Company at Springfield, Mass., and during the past few weeks has been meeting with the greatest success of his career as an actor. The organization is headed by Miss Maude Fealy, who was Sir Henry Irving's leading woman for several seasons, and her associates include some of the best known members of the profession. Last week the company produced Hall Caine's "Eternal City" and The Springfield News has the following in a lengthy criticism:

"Conspicuous for intelligent and forceful acting was Rowland Edwards as Bruno. He acted with intelligence and fire, and in the tribunal scene, riveted the attention of the audience on him to the exclusion almost of the other persons in the picture. His death fall was effective and well done. In fact, the honors of this week's production are pretty evenly divided between Miss Fealy and Mr. Edwards."

The Springfield Republican, one of the most widely quoted papers in the country, had the following to say of his work: "A pleasant surprise was furnished by Rowland Edwards in his portrayal of Bruno Rocco. He made the most out of the part and won deserved applause. In the scene before the tribunal he did highly creditable work."

Mr. Edwards is a very young man but the notices he has been receiving are seldom accorded actors far beyond his years. His training in stock, especially with a company headed by Miss Fealy, will prove of great value to him and it is not at all improbable that he will be heading a similar organization within a season or two. He has many friends in Plainfield who will be greatly pleased to hear of his success.

Mr. Edwards still claims Plainfield as his home.

EDWARD G. POPE BURIED AT HILLSIDE CEMETERY

MEMBERS OF ORGANIZATIONS ESCORT CASKET FROM NEWARK.

The body of Edward G. Pope, who died suddenly at his home in Newark Friday night, was brought to this city Tuesday and interred in the family vault at Hillside cemetery. The formal funeral service was held at his late residence Monday and was attended by a gathering from Newark, Elizabeth and this city.

Tuesday morning the casket was escorted from the house to Elizabeth by members of Elizabeth Lodge, No. 289, B. P. O. E. From there to this city it was in charge of a delegation from the Timbo Social Club and at the North avenue station it was met by a large turnout from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F. The last named organization had charge of the service at the grave and it was conducted by Fred Becker and Nathan Pennington. The floral tributes were very handsome and included set pieces from all the organizations of which he was a member.

The pall bearers were John Penny, Joseph Perry, Henry Nischwitz and George Ludgate, from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44; James Kane, from the Timbo Social Club, and Charles Flynn, from Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, F. O. E.

WOMAN IN PULPIT.

Rev. Elizabeth Padgham, of Rutherford, Preaches at All Souls'.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, of All Souls' Unitarian church, Park avenue, exchanged pulpits Sunday with Rev. Elizabeth Padgham, of Rutherford. A large congregation heard the woman preacher deliver an unusually interesting sermon on the meaning of religion.

She explained the true inwardness of religion, and what true religion meant. Among other things, she said that religion was not all found in the Bible; that it came rather from the innate goodness, and self-nurtured spiritual cravings of the truth-seeker. She pointed out in this connection, how each sect referred to, and found in the Bible "confirmation" for their varied beliefs.

Honors for Leal's Boys.

These members of Leal's School football team have been awarded their L: Dallas, Glenney, Howard, Browne, Rhodes, Eoff, Bergen, Brokaw, Endicott, Haughey, Lyman, Guttieres and Alpaugh. Rushmore was the only one that received his numerals and Wilson was honored with stripes.

To Face Yorkville Five.

The basketball attractions at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night will include a game between the first team and the Yorkville Branch, East Side Y. M. C. A., New York. The New York team beat Newark Y. M. C. A., State champions and a very fast game is expected here.

KILLED BY AN EXPRESS

Young Frank Rogers Meets an Untimely Death Near Wilmington, Del.

G. T. ROGERS' SON

Slipped on Rail and Fell in Path of Swiftly Moving Train—Funeral in Wilmington Today.

Frank Rogers, the young son of former Councilman and Mrs. George T. Rogers, of Myrtle avenue, was struck and instantly killed by an express train on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in the suburbs of Wilmington, Del., early Saturday night. The news came to his parents by telephone and they left for the scene as soon as possible.

The young man, who had just passed twenty-one, had been staying with friends of the family at Wilmington for the past few months, and Saturday night was out in the suburbs with an acquaintance. They went to the Concord railroad station intending to go back to the city proper, but the train they expected to catch did not stop. Unwilling to wait for another they started to walk along the tracks and had proceeded but a short distance when an express came behind them. Both made an attempt to get out of the way, but Frank's foot slipped on an ice-coated tie and he fell directly in the path of the locomotive. His companion hardly realized what had happened until after the train passed.

He then hurried to a nearby house and secured assistance to lift the body from where it had been thrown. The friends with whom he had been staying were notified and they in turn sent word to Plainfield.

Frank was widely known throughout the city and borough, and the news of his death came as a great shock. He attended Leal's School as a boy, but recently had been in business in New York. He has frequently visited at Wilmington, and this time had stayed longer than usual, intending to return home this week.

MRS. ELLA B. SMITH HAS PASSED AWAY

SUCCUMBS TO ASTHMA AFTER A LONG ILLNESS.

Mrs. Ella B. Smith died at her home, 65 Westervelt avenue, Saturday night, following a long illness with asthma. While she was a sufferer with this disease for many years, it was only during the past year that she was considered seriously ill. Last summer she was at Liberty, Sullivan county, N. Y., but the change was not very beneficial.

Mrs. Smith was born at Glen Cove, L. I., and was a resident of this city nineteen years. She was prominently identified with church and charitable enterprises, being a member of Grace church, the Women's Guild, Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A.; Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Christian Alliance. For several years she was a very active member of the committee from the Women's Guild of Grace church, looking after the poor of the parish. She will be greatly missed in these various societies.

Surviving Mrs. Smith are three children, Mrs. Lester R. Walton, of New York; Miss Elsie T. Smith and H. Clifford Smith, of this city; three grandsons, Lester R. Walton, Jr., Stanley W. Walton, of New York, and Gordon L. Smith, of Plainfield; also four brothers, J. T. Bowne, of Springfield, Mass.; S. R. Bowne, R. Frank Bowne and William H. Bowne, of Glen Cove, L. I., and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Zabriskie, also of Glen Cove.

USED PASTOR'S NAME.

Swindler Adopts Successful Ruse in Soliciting at South Plainfield.

Claiming to have walked all the way from Whitehouse, a smooth-tongued young man who gave his name as Thomas Spicer, of Pittsfield, Mass., made an appeal to South Plainfield residents Saturday afternoon to lend him enough money to get home. "No work and sickness" formed the groundwork of his entreaties, but he failed to get what he wanted in the village and then set out for the outlying districts. In making his rounds he had learned the name of Pastor J. H. Cubberley, of the South Plainfield Baptist church, and he informed the farmers that the clergyman had sent him to them.

The ruse worked successfully and Spicer made quite a collection, getting $5 from one man alone. He was well out of this district before his trickery was discovered. The local police were notified, but there is slight chance of the fellow being caught.

Mr. Craig's Advancement.

Sidney Craig, of West Front street, who has been a member of the City National Bank staff for several years, will leave the first of the year to accept an advanced position with the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, New York.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1905. NO. 52

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison

PASSING OF SHIPYARD

Death of an Big Industry That For a Time Flourished.

NOTED VESSELS BUILT

A Cruiser, A Monitor, Gunboats, Torpedo Boats Among the Number Constructed at Elizabeth.

The sale of the Crescent Ship yards, announced last Friday, marks the passing of what was once an important ship building industry in Elizabeth. The pioneers of the Crescent enterprise were Charles E. and Samuel L. Moore, who in 1854 started in business on Bond street, below Front street, in that city, where they continued until 1869. Then Charles E. Moore withdrew from the firm and Douglass G. Moore became a partner, the new firm name being S. L. Moore & Son. The Samuel L. Moore & Sons' Company was incorporated in 1886 with Samuel L. Moore, president; Douglass G. Moore, vice president, and Miller F. Moore, secretary and treasurer. The Crescent Iron Works was adopted as the name of the establishment. In 1886 the property on Front street, running north from Marshall street to a point between Fulton and East Jersey streets, was purchased and extensive improvements made. The buildings were enlarged and additional machinery installed. The first vessel constructed there by the S. L. Moore & Sons' Company was the Bancroft.

In 1894 Lewis Nixon, who was superintending constructor of the plant of the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, at Philadelphia, resigned his position with the Cramps and leased the Crescent shipyard from the Moores. The plant had been idle for two years. Lewis Nixon conducted the yard independently until 1900 when the United States Shipbuilding Company was formed and the Crescent was taken into the combination. When the company got into financial straits the Crescent went into the hands of a receiver in 1903, since which time the yards have been practically closed.

All the vessels in course of construction or undergoing repairs at the time had been seized by order of the courts and the working force with few exceptions was discharged. Soon after the seizure the authorities of the Brooklyn Navy Yard sent two powerful tugs over to the yards at night and stole the cruiser Chattanooga, which was about completed, and towed her over to Brooklyn, despite the protests of the sheriff, who was in control. The Chattanooga is one of the six protected cruisers built at the yards of the company.

The Annapolis, the first composite gunboat built for the United States Navy, was constructed at the Crescent yards. Before leaving the vessel after the trial trip, Commodore, now Admiral, George Dewey, president of the trial board, remarked to those standing about him as he wrote a dispatch to the naval authorities at Washington, stating that the trial was "most satisfactory." "It is not customary to use adjectives in such dispatches, but really, this time it cannot be helped. She deserves them."

The monitor, Florida, and the torpedo boats, Nicholson and O'Brien, were also built there for Uncle Sam's Navy, and the Holland, the first of the submarine boats designed by John P. Holland, was built there.

Two gunboats for the Mexican navy, the Tampico and the Vera Cruz, as well as some of the fastest yachts afloat in these waters, slid down the ways into the waters of Staten Island sound from the Crescent yard.

The steam yacht Freelance was built here for P. Augustus Schermerhorn, of New York, and the Yacht Czarina, for Mr. Bryant, of New York. Probably no yacht in America has attracted more widespread attention than the Josephine, built at the Crescent yards for P. A. Widener, the traction magnate of Philadelphia.

The first vessel turned out at the Crescent yards after Mr. Nixon took charge was the Elizabeth, named in honor of the city, and was built for the Standard Oil Company.

Today the yards present a deserted appearance, in sharp contrast to the bustling scenes witnessed there a few years ago, but if the plans of the new owners do not miscarry, the doors of the old buildings with new additions and new machinery, will soon be thrown open to many employes.

---

Horse Was Unruly.

The horse attached to Edward M. Devine's coal wagon became fractious yesterday afternoon on Washington street, and tried to break up the roadway. It did succeed in smashing one of the shafts and most of the harness. It started to run away, but was checked by a muscular man halfway down the block.

7TH DAY BAPTISTS ENJOY XMAS FESTIVAL

DR. MAXSON HAS CHARGE OF THE PROGRAMME.

The members of the Sabbath school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church enjoyed their Christmas festival in the parlors of the church, last night. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, assistant superintendent, had charge of the programme. The church was decorated with greens and red bunting.

The programme comprised vocal solos by Miss Elizabeth Stillman, of Westfield, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson and piano solos by Miss Mabel Maxson.

A feature was the reading of the story of "The Night Before Christmas," by Mrs. James E. Kimball, and illustrated with tableaux by the children of the primary department. After this part of the programme Mrs. Johnson gave a violin solo.

The price of admission to the entertainment was one red apple and these together with other useful articles, as well as a contribution of money voted by the primary department, will be given to the Children's Home and poor children. At the conclusion of the programme the committee from the Sabbath school served refreshments and a social hour was spent.

JUDGE VAIL LENIENT ON AUTO OFFENDER

PETER CRON GETS OFF ON A SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

In the Court of Special Sessions at Elizabeth, this morning, sentence was suspended on Peter Cron, charged with excessive speed of his auto and running down a woman on Broad street, Elizabeth, several weeks ago. Mr. Cron was sentenced recently to thirty days imprisonment, but his counsel secured his client's release on a writ of error. The writ was returnable this morning, and his counsel made a strong plea for a modification of the sentence, declaring that the defendant was eminently respectable and that he had no intention of violating a law. In a large measure he contended the accident was unavoidable. Judge Vail announced that he would suspend sentence, adding that in the future any person brought before him and convicted of a similar offense, would get the full penalty.

William Mackey, who pleaded guilty last week to two charges of flim-flamming merchants of Elizabeth, was sentenced to three months in the county jail on each charge, the sentence to run concurrently. Mackey worked the game of visiting a shop, making a purchase and in paying the bill would make the money disappear mysteriously and then claim that he knew nothing about it. He made a pathetic plea for a suspension of sentence, claiming that if sent to jail his wife would have to work hard to support the family. It was learned that Mackey was an old offender.

PASTOR JACKSON'S FAREWELL.

Mt. Olive's Special Service on January 14.

The annual meeting of the Mt. Olive Baptist church for the election of deacons and trustees and transaction of other business was held last night. The deacons chosen for the coming year are D. W. Brown, William Phillips, Peter Gordon, Nathan J. Pollard, Abner Hancock and William Burton. Armstead Jackson, Samuel Seay and Edward Martin were added to the board of trustees.

It was voted to appropriate the necessary sum for the transportation of the New York choir which will furnish music at the farewell service of Pastor Jackson on Sunday, January 14. Resolutions expressing the congregation's appreciation of the pastor's services were also adopted. It was announced that Rev. J. E. Harris, of Newport News, Va., will be the preacher on Sunday.

On Friday night, January 12, the regular covenant meeting will be held and the annual reports of the treasurer and various societies will be presented. On Sunday, January 7, there will be communion and baptism by the pastor.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Overton, of 91 Rockview avenue, the borough, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Grace Elting Overton, to Dr. Alfred Jerome Brown, of New York city.

Santa Claus' Defenders.

"Santa Claus' Defenders" will be the name of the Christmas cantata to be presented at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Thursday night by the Sunday school.

FOURTEEN CONFIRMED AT NETHERWOOD CHURCH

WORDS OF CHEER FOR ST. STEPHEN'S FROM BISHOP SCARBOROUGH.

Bishop Scarborough confirmed a class of fourteen candidates at St. Stephen's P. E. church, Netherwood, last night. The service was largely attended.

The bishop was assisted by the rector, Rev. S. C. Peck, and Rev. Dr. Neilsen, in conducting the service. Mr. Peck presented the candidates. The class was composed of three girls, two boys, three men and six young women.

The bishop's sermon was marked by encouraging comment on the work of the parish. He complimented the rector on the prosperity of his charge, and the way in which it is growing. He spoke of the future of the parish and the possibility of a new church. He was very hopeful of securing a new church, and urged the people to work for that end. The future of the parish, he said, was very good.

The music of the service was unusually good. An anthem was finely sung, with A. E. Sprowl in the solo work.

YOUNG MAN TO GET FORTUNE NEXT MONTH

GEORGE L. BABCOCK WILL BE 21 IN JANUARY.

George L. Babcock, son of the late George H. Babcock, attains his majority next month and arrangements are now being made to dissolve the trusteeship of what is known as the Babcock estate. This was formed after the death of his father. The trustees are William M. Stillman, Joseph A. Hubbard and J. Bennett Clarke. They manage and control the estate.

Notice is now given that on January 31 the account of the executors and trustees under the will of the late George H. Babcock will be stated and audited by the surrogate with a view to settling up the business of the estate. After this is done the trustees will be discharged and George L. Babcock will come into his share of the big estate and will probably assume the management of it.

The largest part of the real estate in this city is the Babcock building, while there are a number of other properties here and elsewhere, including Alfred, N. Y., and in the West, to be considered in the settlement.

It is understood that upon Mr. Babcock attaining his majority and the settlement of the estate, that Asa F. Randolph and Joseph A. Hubbard, of this city, will be retained as his advisors in the management of his estate.

Mr. Babcock is now a student at Alfred University, in which his father had a large interest prior to his death, and which has been maintained by the estate. Upon the settlement of the estate, Mrs. Babcock, widow of the late George H. Babcock, will also receive her share. It is not likely that there will be any radical changes made by Mr. Babcock or his mother, that the interests as heretofore will be continued.

First M. E. Programme.

The primary department of the First M. E. church Sunday-school will hold its Christmas entertainment in Vincent chapel Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This will also include the beginners and cradle roll departments. The main school entertainment will be held in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. Moving pictures will be the chief attraction, while there will also be an exchange of gifts. The galleries will be reserved for the parents and friends of the school.

Funeral of Mrs. Jeppe Sorensen.

The funeral of Mrs. Jeppe Sorensen was held last night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Johnson, of East Third street. It was conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The floral tributes were numerous. Interment was made at Somerville this morning, the pall bearers being Benjamin Eddy, Clarence Rittenhouse, Thomas M. Muir and George Graves.

At Mt. Olive Church.

Christmas exercises were held at the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday night under the auspices of the Sunday-school. The programme comprised the singing of carols, recitations and selections by the choir, while the pastor, Rev. Dr. E. B. Jackson, preached a Christmas sermon. The Christmas entertainment will be held Thursday night.

Collegian Will Lead.

Richard Lovell, of Yale, '03, will lead the first boys' meetings of the new year at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, January 7.

CONSTABLE'S BLACK EYE

Although the Discoloration Faded Many Weeks Ago Pierce Still Seeks Satisfaction.

KEEPS AT GRAND JURY

One Jury Wouldn't Indict the Puncher, But He Has Hopes of the New Body—Started a Tort Suit, Too.

Determined to get satisfaction for a black-eye, Constable Robert Pierce, of New Market, has called the attention of the new Grand Jury of Middlesex county to a case in which the old Grand Jury refused to indict, and is doing all a complainant and an officer of the law can do to bring the indictment about. In addition to that, the constable has started a suit in tort against the author of the discoloration that marred his optic.

The source of the discoloration lay in the fist of Abner Coriell, Jr., a well known young man of Dunellen. He wielded the fist one day last August and ever since then Constable Pierce has been seeking satisfaction. He says he will keep on seeking until he gets it.

Pierce had just served a subpoena in a civil suit on Coriell, when the blow was struck. Coriell didn't want the paper and refused to take it. Pierce laid subpoena and fee on Coriell's folded arms and walked away. Coriell followed him and expressed his feelings in unshorn language. After a little of that excitement his feelings gave way entirely and he landed a thump, with scientific accuracy, on the constable's right optic. Constable Pierce's feelings became ruffled at that point and he reached for his billy. He was hampered by an umbrella and a package of meat, however, and Coriell was out of reach before the billy could be brought into play. Since then the constable has carried with him a consuming and unsatisfied thirst for satisfaction.

The night of the clash Coriell surrendered himself and the case was sent to the Grand Jury. The constable thought his day was coming, but the Grand Jury, after considering the facts and other things connected with the matter, refused to indict. Pierce was so put out by the failure to indict that he almost said things unbecoming an officer and a servant of the courts.

But he comes of fighting stock, and the incident was not closed. He waited until the present Grand Jury was drawn and then he laid the facts before Judge Fort. Judge Fort is regarded as the personification of rugged justice in Middlesex county, and Pierce has hopes that something will drop on young Mr. Coriell when this jury gets through its labors.

Made wise by his experience with the other jury, however, the constable has decided that everything in the way of satisfaction shouldn't be left to the grand jurors. Hence, the suit in tort. He has assured himself that Coriell makes money enough to give value to a judgment and has almost more hopes of satisfaction from that source than from the jury room.

"I'll have satisfaction for that blow, if it takes me all my life," said the constable, with emphasis, this morning. "I have been a constable for thirty-one years, and this is the first time anything like this has happened to me. I don't intend to pass it over."

The constable is too simple-minded a man to say "Re-e-e-venge!" about a thing like this, but that is what his face looked like as he went away.

LOTUS GLEE CLUB.

Will Appear at Y. M. C. A. Monday Night.

The Lotus Glee Club, which will appear with Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith in the Y. M. C. A. star course on Monday evening, January 1, was organized in 1881-2. Of the present quartette Charles L. Lewis, of this city, is the oldest member, having joined the club in 1884. They have traveled and given concerts in every State this side of the Rocky Mountains, with two exceptions, and have had three London seasons.

The club enjoys a unique distinction from other quartettes, having the prestige of a distinguished European success in addition to its high rank among leading American organizations.

The club has always been noted for its ensemble work and its perfect blending and shading, and the artistic character of its singing is due in no small measure to the admirable method of the conductor, Frank J. Smith, who has been with them from the beginning.

Boys Gym. Exhibition.

The Y. M. C. A. Juniors will give an exhibition of their regular class work in the gymnasium next Monday morning at 11 o'clock. A basketball game will be a feature of the programme.

TO PRESENT "SUNSET" AT THE PARK CLUB

NEW YEAR'S TO BE CELEBRATED WITH ELABORATE PROGRAMME.

Arrangements are about complete for the New Year's Day festivities at the Park Club. The details will be more elaborate than ever. In addition to the annual reception to be held in the afternoon from 3 to 6 a short play will be given at 4:30 o'clock by local talent in the club.

The piece to be given is "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome, and it will be presented by Miss Louise Saunders, Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver, Miss Van Deventer, Walter M. McGee, Clifford V. McGee and Morgan T. Townsend. Rehearsals for the play have been held weekly for some time and a successful production is assured.

The patronesses for the afternoon reception will be Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Henry C. Irons and Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows.

The events at the club this week include the annual Christmas dance on Thursday night and an informal dance on Saturday night, both of which will be largely attended by society folk from the city and borough.

SEWER ORDINANCE MAY BE HELD UP

COMMON COUNCIL MAY NOT PASS IT FRIDAY NIGHT.

It is improbable that the ordinance providing for the south side sanitary sewer and pumping stations will be adopted on final reading by the Common Council at its special meeting Friday night. As Councilman Tolles stated at the last meeting, Street Commissioner Gavett is not satisfied with the proposed method for installing the pumping stations, and furthermore J. O. Osgood, the consulting engineer, is still undecided as to several material matters in connection with the suggested improvement.

There are two or three systems under consideration for the operation of the pumping stations. These include compressed air and electricity.

While it is true that the councilmanic street committee, as well as Commissioner Gavett and Consulting Engineer Osgood, have been discussing the scheme for some time, several councilmen do not feel sufficiently acquainted with the details to vote an expenditure of $55,000.

MISS CASEY A BRIDE.

Wedd Saturday Afternoon to William Hearn, of Providence, R. I.

Miss Lillian Casey, of this city, and William Hearn, of Providence, R. I., were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. Leonard Bunn, of Lee place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. R. Howard, and was witnessed by a gathering of relatives and friends from this city and vicinity. It was followed by a reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Hearn are at present on their wedding trip and on returning will make their home in the West End. The groom is employed at the Manganese Safe Company's plant.

Dr. Jackson Soon to Leave.

Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, who tendered his resignation several months ago, will give up his charge here the second Sunday in January, at which time he will preach his farewell sermon. Dr. Jackson has accepted a call to the Waverly Place Baptist church, New York, and will enter upon his duties at once after leaving Plainfield.

Miss Abby Lewis Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Abby Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whelan Lewis, of Ashaway, R. I., and Nelson Daniels, of Pawtucket, R. I. Miss Lewis, who made her home here for several years, has been a student during the past year at Burnham, Northampton, preparatory to Smith College. Both are now spending the holiday season in this city.

A Christmas Festival.

The Christmas entertainment for the primary department of the First Presbyterian church will be held Thursday afternoon, and in the evening the main school entertainment will be held. The programme in the evening will include Rankin, the juggler, and a musical programme.

New Night Operator.

Michael Griffin, formerly an assistant to Manager Charles Schermerhorn at the Western Union Telegraph office, but lately night operator at Westfield, has been transferred to the local office of the Western Union Company as night operator.

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR CHARITY BALL

COMPLETE LIST ANNOUNCED BY CHAIRMAN C. J. FISK.

The charity ball for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held at the Casino Friday night. The details of the affair are about complete and the success of it is already assured. A large number of tickets have been disposed of by the committee in charge and the Casino will undoubtedly be taxed to its capacity.

Austin has been engaged to furnish two orchestras for continuous dance music and Mrs. Lena Hellstrom will furnish supper in the billiard rooms and bowling alleys.

The committees having charge of the ball, as named by Charles J. Fisk, are as follows: Executive—Dr. F. C. Ard, chairman; W. C. Kinney, treasurer; H. V. Borden, E. H. Ladd, Jr., Charles J. Fisk, W. S. Tyler, Elliot T. Barrows, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, H. R. Stockton, T. R. Van Boskerck, George S. Ring, E. H. Booth, Francis deLacy Hyde, L. G. Timpson, Ernest R. Ackerman, Dr. W. H. Murray, Townsend Rushmore, Theodore D. Wilson, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Dr. T. S. Davis, George P. Mellick, H. C. Munger, George T. Rogers, Lewis E. Waring, J. W. De Graff, Evarts Tracy, Paul Taylor Brown, Joseph M. Shellabarger. Finance—Charles J. Fisk, chairman; E. H. Ladd, Jr., W. C. Kinney, Joseph M. Shellabarger, George S. Ring, George P. Mellick, Paul Taylor Brown, with the chairmen of the other committees ex-officio. Ball—L. G. Timpson, chairman; Elliot T. Barrows, T. R. Van Boskerck, H. L. Hall, Lewis E. Waring, Theodore D. Wilson, Evarts Tracy.

GIFTS FOR PASTOR AT XMAS FESTIVAL

REV. AND MRS. MUSSON RECEIVE PRESENTS AT FAITH CHAPEL EXERCISES

The distribution of handsome and useful gifts, the singing of carols and an entertaining and instructive sketch by Speedon, the character artist, together with instrumental numbers, combined to make the annual Christmas festivities at Faith chapel last night a delightful one to the members and friends of the chapel and Sunday school. The auditorium and class room were filled to overflowing with people and all joined enthusiastically in the programme, under the direction of Superintendent L. W. Randolph.

After the opening exercises by Mr. Randolph, a recitation by Lillian Handt and a carol by the school, Speedon entertained with character songs and some clever sketch work with the crayon. He greatly amused all, especially the children. His work throughout was of a high character. There was a cornet solo by Whitney Frazee; accompanied by Clifford A. Braider on the piano, after which Superintendent Randolph, assisted by Frank Stewart, assistant superintendent, distributed gifts. Rev. J. W. Musson, the pastor, and Mrs. Musson, were the recipients of a Morris chair, a bugh stocking filled with numerous useful articles, a silk pillow and a handsome quilt made by the Ladies' Aid Society and bearing the names of a great many persons who contributed toward it. This netted $100 for the chapel work.

W. A. Conger, the organist, received a solid oak chair, and Mr. Randolph was presented with a costly umbrella by Mr. Stewart, on behalf of the school. The primary and infant departments received books, dolls, and all received boxes of candy. There were also special gifts to U. B. Crane, Chris. Utzinger and Mrs. Oblinger, for faithful work performed during the year.

Throughout there was a happy expression of good fellowship on the part of pastor, superintendent and members of the chapel and school. Clifford A. Braider presided at the piano during the evening, accompanying in the singing of carols and for Speedon and Whitney Frazee.

Assistant Superintendent Frank Stewart received a gold watch chain and charm from the members of the school. The children brought potatoes, apples and other things which will be sent to the Children's Home today, thus inculcating the spirit of giving as well as receiving.

Anchor Lodge Officers.

Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M., reelected all the old officers last night. W. N. Runyon, W. M.; J. T. Sutphen, S. W.; William Taylor, J. W.; P. A. Rogers, P. M., treasurer; T. A. Rogers, secretary; trustees, E. M. Rodman, O. T. Waring, F. R. Wynkoop.

---

—Neuman Brothers are the local selling agents for White Label canned goods. They guarantee them personally to be strictly high-grade.

MARKET FOR PLAINFIELD

Plan For Such an Institution to Be Located in East Front Street.

MR. LA RUE'S SCHEME

To Run Through to Second Street and to Be Similar to Those Found in Many Larger Cities.

Back of the announcement made yesterday that Ira L. LaRue, the local real estate agent, had secured an option on the plot of ground on East Front street opposite Woodhull & Martin's, is a plan that will probably mean a great change in property in that section. Associated with Mr. LaRue are several Plainfielders who have in view a scheme to build an up-to-date market on the ground extending through to East Second street and eventually over to North avenue. In the event of the project reaching a successful culmination, which will undoubtedly be brought about, the building boom in that section will be given added impetus.

Open markets are a feature of many of the several cities in New Jersey, and large cities in other States, particularly in the South. Mr. LaRue has devoted considerable time to studying them, especially the one at Newark. He has held the idea for one in Plainfield several years but there has always been a difficulty in getting a proper site. The one on East Front street seems to offer every advantage and the option was secured as soon as it was feasible.

When spoken to about his plans today, Mr. LaRue stated they were not at a stage where much could be said of them but that he hoped to have things in shape within a short time. Tentatively, he said, it was his purpose, as leader of the movement, to secure the East Front street property and the plot east of Fire Headquarters as the needed site. The building to be erected, he said, would surpass anything of its kind in this section and would be an ornament to the streets at either entrance.

According to his idea it can be three stories in the main, connected by a one-story structure. The upper part could be made into flats with stores beneath, while the connecting link could be used as the market proper, with stalls ranged along as is done in the New York markets.

Frank M. Bacon has been associated with Mr. LaRue in negotiating for the property.

ORRA S. ROGERS WEDS; MISS HUBBARD HIS BRIDE.

Quiet Nuptial Ceremony at Lockport, N. Y., Today.

Mrs. Ella Burdick Hubbard and Orra S. Rogers, of Madison avenue, were married at the home of the bride at Lockport, N. Y., today, in the presence of the near relatives and intimate friends. The couple will go to the home of the groom's parents at Alfred, N. Y., for a visit, after which they will come to this city to live.

Mr. Rogers is well-known here. He has been very active in religious work, being identified with the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., also the work at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

WHO IS WILLIAM HEERAN?

No Trace Here of Crooks' Victim Who Says He's a Plainfielder.

A man giving his name as William Heeran, and his address as 612 South avenue, this city, was picked up in front of a saloon at Seventeenth and Walnut streets, Newark, yesterday, suffering from the combined effects of knockout drops and a fractured skull. He recovered consciousness enough to give his supposed name and address and to state that he took one drink in the saloon and remembered nothing after that, and that he is a diamond merchant and carried $600 worth of gems in a bag when he went into the saloon. Neither money nor jewels were found on him.

No trace of a man named Heeran, or anything like it, could be found in the city this morning by Daily Press reporters. The tax books show that 612 South avenue is a vacant lot, surrounded by vacant lots.

Getting Church Census.

In preparation for its series of special services, which will begin early in January, Hope chapel is having a census of the West End taken. The data is designed to show who in the district go to church and where they go; those who don't go and where they would go if they went; and those who have no desire to go at all. The information will enable the workers to make an intelligent personal canvass of the section. The census covers the district between New street, Rock avenue, First and Sixth streets.

DAKOTA DIVORCE INVALID

New York Court Hands Down Decision in Favor of Mrs. Woolworth of This City.

HUSBAND TO APPEAL

Residence in a State Not Sufficient to Support Suit—Justice O'Gorman's Opinion.

A decision that lawyers think of far-reaching importance in the matter of divorce was handed down Thursday in New York by Superior Court Justice O'Gorman in the case of Woolworth vs. Woolworth.

It is the question as to whether a South Dakota divorce granted there while a counter suit is pending in another State is valid. The case before Justice O'Gorman was that of Martha G. Woolworth, of this city, against Herbert G. Woolworth, one of the founders of the ten-cent store industry. The Justice decided against Mr. Woolworth.

Mr. Woolworth, in 1903, instituted an action against his then wife, Martha Gwena Woolworth, in the Supreme Court of New York State. It was heard by Judge Leaventritt. It was for absolute divorce based upon statutory grounds, and came up for trial in January, 1904. The jury disagreed, but the case was tried again in March following. This time the jury found in favor of the defendant.

In March, 1904, Mr. Woolworth went to the State of South Dakota and engaged in business there. After residing there for six months he, in September of the same year, brought suit in the Supreme Court of that State before Judge Joseph W. Jones for absolute divorce, charging her with desertion. The case came up for hearing on Nov. 7 of last year, and Woolworth was granted a decree. Prior to his obtaining this decree in South Dakota, but after the suit had been started, Mrs. Woolworth, who resided in New York State, brought action against her husband in New York on the ground of desertion.

Woolworth appeared by counsel and filed an answer. It came up before Justice O'Gorman, in November, this year, and the Court, after hearing the evidence, gave the counsel until Dec. 4 in which to submit briefs.

It was on these lines that the decision of yesterday was handed down. Justice O'Gorman saying in part:

"Mere residence in a State will not support a divorce suit. The factum of residence and the animus manendi prove the domicile. Mere bodily presence, without an intention of remaining in the State, is insufficient. The wife's domicile never changes. While the husband has the right, without his wife's consent, to change the family domicile, the wife's domicile cannot be changed when she is deliberately kept in ignorance of her husband's movements and not invited to accompany him. His refusal of the plaintiff's repeated offers to live with him, and his secret removal to a distant State without inviting his wife to accompany him or providing for her support here, make the defendant the deserter, and in my opinion the South Dakota decree confers on him no protection or immunity in this State."

FUNNY FASHIONS.

Some of the winter fashions are going to be mighty foolish for a girl earning wages to follow. There will be every chance for her to make herself conspicuous and ridiculous if she has a mind to.

A girl in the street today was both. Her hat, which was perched on the top of an enormous pompadour, was of the most fly-away order. It had so many wings on it that it was a wonder it did not fly off her head, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Her waist was a cheap white lace and she wore a string of pearls around her neck.

Her skirt was of this black material, and the underskirt was far too scant for the outer.

She had patent leather shoes on with heels three inches high.

She is employed in an office, and that was her business costume.

Every man she passed stared at her and turned to look after her. The glances were not those of admiration.

Her clothes were conspicuous, unladylike and unbecoming.

It's a bad plan to buy a thing just because it happens to be stylish. The wise girl chooses what is becoming and sets her own styles.

When she can have but a limited wardrobe it is a great mistake to have her things so conspicuous that everyone will get to know them. The last thing a well-bred young woman wants to be is conspicuous. Loud dressing is almost as bad as loud behavior.

Do not spend all your money on your hat and dress and not have enough left to have a warm coat. The most bewitching hats will not do you much good if your nose is red.

Buy sensible, heavy-soled shoes, and keep your feet warm and dry. Patent leather is only for "dress" occasions.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMME AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH

SPECIAL SERVICES IN THE CHURCH AND IN THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

The programme for the Christmastide celebration at the First M. E. church has been completed and all of the services and exercises will be of unusual interest to the members of the church and Sunday-school.

Tomorrow afternoon Vincent chapel will be open to receive Christmas offerings of food and clothing from members of the Sunday-school to be distributed by the charity committee.

Sunday morning at 10:30 there will be a Christmas sermon by the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, with special music by the vested choir. At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Vincent chapel the Christmas service for the Sunday-school will be held. The programme will comprise carols and recitations by the children, a vocal solo by Mrs. Thomas MacDonald and an address by President Herbert Welch, D. D., of Ohio Wesleyan University.

In the evening at 7:15 o'clock there will be a musical service in the church, when Dudley Buck's Christmas cantata, "Coming of the King," will be given by the choir.

The Christmas party for the primary department of the Sunday-school will be held in Vincent chapel Thursday afternoon, December 28, at 3 o'clock. This will include the cradle roll and beginners' circle, and the programme will include games, refreshments and gifts. In the evening of the same day at 7:30 o'clock, the annual Christmas entertainment of the Sunday-school will be held in Vincent chapel. One of the attractions will be moving pictures. Seats on the main floor of the chapel will be reserved for members of the school and the Home Department. James R. Joy, as superintendent of the Sunday-school, will be in charge of the exercises.

BOROUGH SENIORS HOLD XMAS EXERCISES

FACULTV AND FRIENDS EOJOY THE ANNUAL JOLIFICATION.

The senior grades of the borough schools held their annual Christmas jollification in the chapel of the Somcal Club at her home Wednesday gathering included the pupils, the faculty and many friends, all of whom enjoyed the programme and customary pleasantries that passed. Class colors and Christmas greens formed the decorations.

The programme opened with an instrumental trip, "The Enchanted Lute," by Miss Maude Emmons, mandolin; Miss Myra Emmons, piano, and Miss Edna Smith, violin. This was followed by an amusing frace, "Chums," in which the characters were taken by Frank Webster, Marion Overton, William Dunning, Ralph Kutz and Mary Robley. The young artists acquitted themselves creditably and kept the audience laughing.

In conclusion, members of the junior class were given presents from the senior Christmas tree. Each one was supposed to "hit off" the recipient, an attached verse telling about it, and some of them were very cleverly gotten up.

IN MISS FISK'S HONOR.

Miss Grave Kaufman Gives a Dinner Party.

In honor of Miss Edith Fisk, whose engagement to J. Hartley Mellick has just been announced, a delightful dinner was given at the Caerset street building Wednesday. The man. The decorations were unusually attractive, the prevailing color being white.

Covers were laid for ten, those comprising the party being Miss Edith Fisk, Miss Georgianna Smith, Miss Ursula Rowland, Miss Virginia Hegeman, Miss Grace Kaufman and J. Hartley Mellick, Lawrence Tweedy, Dudley H. Barrows, Gordon Abbott and W. T. Kaufman. During the evening Miss Fisk and Mr. Mellick were the recipients of hearty congratulations and the young people had a general good time.

MISS STEWART ENTERTAINS.

Musical Club Members her Guests Yesterday.

Miss Kathryn Stewart, of West Seventh street, entertained the Musisino Wednesday by Miss Grace Kaufnoon when an enjoyable programme was presented by the members. The numbers included piano and violin selections by the Misses Hyatt, the reading of a paper on "Mme. Sembrich" by Miss Ida Stewart, soprano selections by Mrs. Joseph M. Shellabarger and Mrs. George S. Ring, accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Atterbury, and a "Christmas Cycle" comprising six old folk songs by Miss Grave Carroll, contralto, accompanied by her sister, Miss Alice Carroll.

Each number was well received and heartily applauded.

Shuffleboard Tournament.

A shuffleboard tournament is being arranged among the juniors of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Robbie, the secretary, and Russell P. Morris are in charge of the entry list.

ANTI-CAUCUS IDEA WINS IN THE SENATE

UPPER HOUSE AGREES TO RESPECT COLBY'S PRINCIPLES.

Everett Colby abolished the caucus, so far as the Senate is concerned, Dec. 20, and thereby won a victory for his anti-caucus theory. He declined to remain in the conference of Senators at Trenton yesterday if anything binding was adopted. On motion of Senator Wakelee, of Bergen, a resolution was passing leaving Mr. Colby free to exercise his own free will to any action that might be taken. Of course, the same privilege, by inference, would be granted to any other Senator. In future what used to be a caucus will simply be a conference.

The Senators and Senators-elect met at the Republican Club about noon. Senator Ackerman, of Union county, was absent on account of his mother's death. Senator Bradley, of Camden, as the temporary chairman, called the meeting to order. Senator Wakelee then nominated Senator Hillery, of Morris, for leader, and the latter took the chair. At this point Mr. Colby arose and stated that he did not see his way clear to vote for any officer if the action of the meeting was to be considered binding. It was contrary to the principles he had been advocating. If the Senators desired him to withdraw, in view of his attitude, he would depart. He would be glad to attend the meetings whenever party measures were to be discussed, provided it was understood that he was not bound in any way. There was considerable discussion that apparently amounted to little. Colby finally walked slowly to the door, and had his hand on the knob when Senator Wakelee remarked:

"Come back a minute, Colby, I have a resolution to offer, which may interest you."

Mr. Colby took his seat, and Senator Wakelee then read a resolution, which had evidently been prepared in advance, in which it was moved that Mr. Colby need not vote for any officer at any of the conferences or be bound as to any measures on which action might be taken. This resolution was adopted unanimously, and Mr. Colby bowed his acknowledgment of the compliment.

Then the regular business proceeded. Colby voted for Hillery for leader, but after Senator Homer, or Burlington, named Bradley for president, and the vote was taken, the Senator-elect from Essex did not vote. The nominations for the rest of the officers to be chosen by the Senate were left to a steering committee. While the committee was making up its report, the Senators sat down to a dinner furnished by the club. Later on the following officers were named and confirmed: Secretary, Howard L. Tyler, of Cumberland; assistant secretary, Lewis T. Stevens, of Cape May; journal clerk, S. Merchant Meeker, of Union; supervisor of bills, Edward S. Sexsmith, of Monmouth; calendar clerk, William E. Staban, of Passaic; assistant sergeant-at-arms, Richard Rowe, of Burlington. The bill clerk is to be named by Colby, the assistant journal clerk by Shinn, of Ocean; the assistant supervisor of bills by Hillery, of Morris; the assistant bill clerk by Frelinghuysen, of Somerset, and the sergeant-at-arms by Hutchinson, of Mercer.

The conference adopted a resolution directing the custodian of the State House to see that no flowers were placed on the Senators' desks on the opening day of the session. There were two absentees, Avis, of Gloucester, and Ackerman, of Union. Avis had to go to Washington on business, and the death of Mr. Ackerman's mother detained him.

Mrs. Martha G. Woolworth Also Gets $30 a Week Alimony.

Mrs. Martha G. Woolworth, of this city, wife of Herbert G. Woolworth, who, it is claimed, is the manager of his uncle's five and ten cent store business, has been granted a separation from her husband by Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman, of New York, and $30 a week alimony.

The decree of divorce obtained by Woolworth in South Dakota, after a jury in New York decided against him in the suit he brought there is declared by Justice O'Gorman to be void in New York State. Mrs. Woolworth remained in New York and was served with papers in the Dakota action, but ignored the suit and judgment was granted by default. That was in November, 1904. She then used for a separation on the ground of abandonment.

Justice O'Gorman says that a refusal by Woolworth to take his wife back constituted abandonment and that his attempt to claim a domicile in South Dakota was evidently fraudulent, as he returned to New York on getting his divorce.

Death of Mrs. Abram Whitlock.

Mrs. Eliza P. Whitlock, wife of Abram V. Whitlock, died this morning at her home, 1767 West Front street, following an illness extending over a period of one year. She was a resident of this city for many years. She is survived by a husband, a married daughter and two sons, one residing here and the other in New Brunswick.

WILL REPORT ON ALL FRANCHISES

BOARD TO SUBMIT REPORT TO LEGISLATURE EARLY IN SESSION.

Former Governors Murphy and Voorhees called upon Gov. Stokes at Trenton Tuesday afternoon and passed the time of day with him. They came in company with Prosecutor Frank T. Lloyd, of Camdan, and John C. Payne, of Hudson, as members of the commission appointed under authority of the Legislature to inquire into the subject of granting franchises for public utilities and the taxation of the same. Eckard P. Budd, the other member of the commission, was not present.

After paying their respects to the governor the commission held a meeting and considered the report which it will make and which it expects to have ready for submission early in the coming session. The commission has received information on the subject it has under investigation from every state in the union, and through the United States consular agents from all the larger of the important foreign cities.

As the two former governors passed through the governor's reception room, on the walls of which hang the portraits in oils of those who have heretofore occupied the executive office, former Governor Murphy paused before the large painting of himself and gazed at it.

"This is the first time I've seen that since it was hung there," he said.

"I don't like it," replied the governor decisively, and then he added jocularly, "When I get wealthy, I'll have another one painted to take its place."

Former Governor Voohees was asked what he thought of the portrait of himself which has recently been added to the collection.

"Why, that's all right; it's a good picture," said the former governor as he hurried after his fellow franchise commissioners.

JUNIORS' HAPPY TIME.

Young Epworth Leaguers Enjoy Christmas Exercises.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church enjoyed its annual Christmas exercises in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon. There were forty children present and all thoroughly enjoyed the excellent programme prepared by Miss Nettie Beeching, the superintendent, and her assistant, Miss Miller.

During the forepart of the afternoon the children spent the time playing all kinds of games. There was a large red stocking filled with gifts of various kinds, and the appearance of Santa Claus, in the person of Edward Bingaman, who distributed the gifts, delighted the little ones.

After the distribution of gifts, piano solos were rendered by Miss Frances Rittenhouse and Miss Myrtle Darling, the young artists receiving hearty applause. A feature of the entertainment was the appropriate talk by the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, whose pleasing words were attentively listened to. The programme over the children were served with ice cream and cake.

MISS SCRIBNER WEDS.

Napoleon F. Perron is the Bride-Groom.

Miss Florence Scribner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Scribner, of Pearl street, and Napoleon F. Perron, formerly of this city, but now of Athol, Mass., were married Dec. 20 by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The ceremony was performed at the home of the officiating minister in West Front street. The couple was attended by Miss Mabel Scribner, sister of the bride, and Arthur Perron, of Athol, Mass., brother of the groom.

After the ceremony the party returned to the home of the groom's brother, George Scribner, in East Sixth street, where congratulations were offered and supper served. Late last night the couple left for Niagara Falls, from which place they will return to Athol, where they will reside. The bride received many handsome and useful gifts.

The bride is an attendant at Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school. Mr. Perron was a resident here for three years and was employed at the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works. Three months ago he returned to his home at Athol, where he secured a similar position.

Becoming a Sprinter.

Raymond Brokaw, of the Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, is spending the Christmas holidays at his home here. He is becoming one of the prominent athletes at the institute, and promises to develop into a star runner. He took part in the recent interscholastic athletic meet at Philadelphia.

Realty Transfer.

James C. Manning, the contractor, has sold his new ten-room dwelling house, corner Park avenue and Arlington place, to Stuart H. Patterson, of East Ninth street. The sale was made by J. T. Vail and the consideration was about $9,000. Mr. Patterson will take up his residence there in the spring.

SCHOOL IS CLOSED AFTER 145 YEARS

MILLBURN'S "LITTLE WHITE SCHOOL HOUSE IN THE OLDEN DAYS.

"The Little White School," at Parsonage avenue and Old Short Hills road, Millburn, which was recently ordered closed by the Millburn Board of Education, has for so long been "a seat of learning," and has so many recollections surrounding it, that there was many a pang of regret among the older residents when they learned that it was the intention of the board to close the school.

The closing was due to lack of attendance, many of the older scholars from the neighborhood attending the other schools of the township, leaving only the younger ones to attend the little school where the attendance had dwindled to twelve at the time of the closing. Since that time three of these children have moved away, and two others will leave in a short time for the city, which reduces the number to seven, and the majority of these can attend the other schools without great inconvenience.

The plot of ground on which the school house stands was originally given for school purposes by the land owner about 145 years ago, and the original "little white school," the name which has clung to it ever since, was then given it. At that time it was a very crude affair, as schools go nowadays. There were no individual seats, with desks, slate blackboards, etc. The benches for the older scholars ran the whole way around the sides of the room, while the little ones had lower benches in the centre of the room, and in winter the place was heated with a wood stove. In those days the schools were not supported by the State, but the expense of running them was paid by the people whose children attended them.

In summer the attendance would be confined to the younger children the older ones being kept at home to do the farm work and getting but a "quarter" education in the winter. The attendance at the school at such times would be large, running as high as seventy-five or eighty, and the pupils were taken care of in a simple room, such as the school laws would now say would not be large enough for a dozen.

The oldest living person at present who at one time attended this school is John D. Meeker, of Main street, Millburn, who is now in his eighty-third year. It was at the age of 6, or seventy-seven years ago, that he first attended there. At that time the school was governed by a board of trustees, Jonathan Meeker, his father, being one, and the other two were Samuel Bailey and John D. Parkhurst. At this time the nearest schools were one at Jefferson Village, now known as Maplewood, which stood in Ridgewood road near Baker street; a "little red school" above Deantown, at the junction of Morris avenue and the road leading to Feltville, and the old academy at Springfield, which stood on the site of the school which was burned a few years ago. At this time Jonathan Parkhurst, who conducted a pasteboard mill where the Diamond paper mills now stand, and who was one of the wealthiest and influential men in the town, wanted some change made in the manner of running the school, but failing to win the trustees to his way of thinking, he built a school, and for awhile conducted it as the first Sunday school in the township, afterwards turning it into a day school. This building was near the mill gate, and has since been added to and is now used as a dwelling. In a short time this school was abandoned, but the "little white school" still remained in business at the old stand, and many of the descendants of the old people who attended there are living in Millburn today. The names of the most familiar of these old families are Campbell, McChesney, Reeves, Taylor, Bailey, Meeker, Parsil, Parkhurst, Smith and Ross.

Some of the reminiscences of the old school days by Mr. Meeker are interesting, especially one where the school master, a little bit of a "Yankee," thrashed eighteen of the largest boys in the school for disobeying him about remaining too long at the noon hour on the ice at the "big pond," now known as the Newell Pond, a short distance from the school.

The only other pupils who attended about the time or shortly after Mr. Meeker, and who are living today are: Abram Parkhurst, of Millburn; Aaron Parkhurst, of Branch Mills; George Ross, who is living with his son-in-law at West Livingston, and Phoebe Clark, who afterward married Oliver Bailey and is now living in this city. Oliver Bailey also received his early education there, and was at one time the teacher. Scores of the pupils who received their early education there have died, others have drifted too far away, but the "little white school" still remains, fenced in on its little bit of ground, about as large as a cemetery plot, and with the trees which were planted years ago now standing sentinel over it to protest it from the elements and the destroying hand of man.

Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph and children, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday and Monday with relatives here.

LIBBIE GARRABRANDT RELEASED ON PAROLE

AFTER 35 YEARS IN PRISON POISONED A MAN.

Libbie Garrabrandt's life term in State Prison for the poisoning of Ransom F. Burroughs at Paterson is ended at last, after she has served nearly 35 years, and 16 attempts have been made to secure her freedom. By a vote of 5 to 3 the Court of Pardons Wednesday granted her a parole. Those voting in favor were Governor Stokes, Judges Vroom, Vredenburgh, Gray and Dill. Chancellor Magie, Judges Green and Bogert opposed the parole.

Miss Garrabrandt's case was taken up early in the session of the court, and about 1 p. m. Prison Keeper Osborne was notified officially that the parole had been granted. Miss Philbrook, probation officer of Essex county, and counsel for Libbie, was at the State House early in anticipation of favorable action. Relatives of the prisoner were also there. Following the action by the court the necessary papers were executed for the release of the prisoner. Then those interested hurried to the prison to make the arrangements to take Libbie away.

10,000 BIBLES A YEAR DISTRIBUTED IN STATE

REPRESENTS PART OF THE WORK OF AMERICAN SOCIETY.

In a statement just issued some idea is given of the work done in this State by the American Bible Society, both as regards the distribution of Bibles and the amounts paid for them, together with the donations from the auxiliaries (the principal distributors) and the churches. Following are some of the facts shown:

The number of books sent into the State in the last five years was 47,427, or nearly 10,000 a year. Of this number 1,531 were grants. The 45,896 were sales.

The amount paid by auxiliaries for Bibles in the five years was $10,814.84. The amount donated by the same auxiliaries was $9,743.13, making a total of $20,557.97.

To this was added $13,248.70, received from contributing churches and the two Methodist Conferences.

The total received from sales through auxiliaries, donations by auxiliaries and contributions from churches, reached $33,806.67.

The number of contributing churches averages sixty-one. The church which is the largest contributor is the First Presbyterian of Trenton, giving on an average $187 a year. The Brick church, East Orange, is second. Last year the contributing churches were eighty-three.

In 1901 the auxiliaries paid $2,595.55 for books, and $1,998.68 in donations. The churches contributed $2,882.98.

In 1902 the figures were, respectively, $2,023.55, $2,427.36 and $1,917.84.

In 1903 they were $1,868.45, $1,065 and $2,125.54.

In 1904, $1,959.12, $2,351 and $3,189.62.

In 1905, $2,595.05, $1,901.09 and $2,132.72.

"Thirty-four thousand dollars in five years," said W. H. Morse, secretary of the Union County Auxiliary, "or between six and seven thousand a year, seems a large sum, and particularly when there should be added to it the contributions from individuals. I make no doubt but that the latter swells the amount to $50,000, or $10,000 a year. But, it seems to me that it might well be doubled. New Jersey is a generous giver, and the auxiliaries and the contributing churches do nobly. But it would be better if the number of contributing churches were increased. That this may be the case, may be expected, as the Rev. A. E. Colton, the indefatigable field agent for New England, has had this State added to his territory."

ERIE RAILROAD INDICTED.

Charged With Maintaining Bridge That Is a Nuisance.

The Bergen County Grand Jury indicted Wednesday at Hackensack the Erie Railroad Company for maintaining a nuisance at that place. The nuisance is the frail-looking bridge that crosses the Susquehanna and Western Railroad tracks at Prospect avenue, in the residential section of the place. Engineers have said the bridge is unsafe. The residents say it is inadequate and unsightly.

For years the Improvement Commission of Hackensack has endeavored to have the Erie build a new bridge, but delay has been the result. The Grand Jury inspected the bridge Tuesday and unanimously voted to indict.

A Telephone As a Present.

The telephone company today placed an instrument in the study of Rev. Charles L. Goodrich at his home on West Seventh street, as a Christmas present from the members of his church.

PETITION FOR BOROUGH

Draft of South Plainfield Citizens' Formal Application to Legislature.

REASONS ARE GIVEN

Demand for Better Police and Fire Protection Prompts Request—Over 1,000 Persons in the Village.

South Plainfield is intensely earnest in its endeavor to become incorporated and already the proper application has been drawn and will be presented at the opening sessions of the Legislature next month. The special committee of citizens of that village has passed favorably upon the petition, which recites that the people in that place, which number over 4,000 souls, pay one-third of the taxes in Piscataway township. A desire for better police and fire protection are the principal reasons given for making the application.

Here is the petition in full:

"To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

"Gentlemen:

"The undersigned, residents and property owners in the township of Piscataway, in the county of Middlesex and State of New Jersey, hereby make application for the passage of an act to incorporate as a borough all that portion of the territory of Piscataway as herein described: the said territory to be known as the borough of South Plainfield.

"This portion of the township has had a large and rapid growth during the last few years, and now forms a connected, thickly settled community of at least one thousand inhabitants. South Plainfield is situated about three miles from New Market, the present municipal seat of the township government, and is the junction of the Perth Amboy and New York branches of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company.

"While the presence of these railroads in South Plainfield is a distinct advantage in many ways, they bring to our town a number of tramps and other undesirable characters, who make a stopping place of South Plainfield, and it is becoming more and more necessary to adopt rules, regulations and ordinances for the maintenance of order and good government, and the prevention of crime in South Plainfield, that are not at all necessary in other parts of the township. South Plainfield is also more thickly built up than any other portion of the township, and requires adequate fire protection, which could be easily obtained by the organization of a fire company, if a separate municipality were created.

"In the year 1904 the South Plainfield district contained more than one-third of the taxable wealth of the entire township, and paid more than one-third of all taxes. It is constantly growing, and being situate, as it is, within twenty-five miles of New York City, with first class railroad facilities, good water supply, and available factory sites, we feel that if we had borough rights, we could, by the organization of a Board of Trade, or by the adoption of other suitable means, induce many valuable industries to locate here, as has been done in the case of a number of other small boroughs which have not nearly as good facilities to offer as South Plainfield.

"Your petitioners therefore believe that the needs of this community call for an entire separation from said township of which it is now a part; and that its best interests, continued progress and proper government will be more readily and safely secured by its creation as a district and separate municipality.

"The undersigned therefore most respectfully petition your honorable body to pass an act incorporating said territory as a borough."

LEAL TEAMS WIN.

First and Second Basketball Aggregations Bested Boroughites.

Two exciting basketball games were played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium yesterday afternoon between the first and second teams of Leal's and North Plainfield High Schools. In each game Leal's were successful, taking the first contest by a score of 10 to 8 and the second by a score of 11 to 5. The team from this city showed up stronger and the advantage of constant training. However, the boys from the borough played well and gave their opponents a hard game.

The lineup for the first game is as follows:

Leal's—Alpaugh, left forward; Howard, right forward; Lyman, centre; Endicott, left guard; Brokaw, right guard.

North Plainfield—VanArsdale, left forward; Burtis, right forward; Mundy, centre; Webster, left guard; Steiner, right guard. Physical Director Boardman was the referee and Kenneth Robbie the umpire for both games. Two fifteen minutes halves were played in each contest.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Nellie Adeline Bechtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, and Charles Stanley Woolston, of this city.

PHILATELY;
What It Is and What It Teaches.

Not only collectors of postage stamps but the public in general will be interested in the following article on Philately contributed by Ernest R. Ackerman at the request of The Daily Press. It is safe to say that no man in New Jersey is as well qualified to discuss the subject as he is and it is a question whether there are a score of men in the entire country, excepting those engaged in postage stamp collecting as a means of livelihood, who have devoted so much time and expense to it.

When he was yet a small boy, Mr. Ackerman formed the nucleus of his magnificent collection, which today is contained in more than two dozen albums. During his trips around the world he has found much enjoyment in examining famous private collections, attending exhibitions held by philatelic societies, viewing the assortments of dealers and conferring with men who have spent fortunes in gathering stamps of rare value.

Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman.

On several occasions, Mr. Ackerman has received medals and ribbons as prizes for the collections he has had at public exhibitions in this country and abroad. His collection of the issues of Norway and Sweden won for him a prize not long since, and he has also received an award for his collection of stamps of the U. S. possessions, which is very hard to surpass anywhere.

That philately is the hobby of the Lawrence Cement Company's busy president would be readily recognized upon visiting Mr. Ackerman at his "den" in his fine residence in West Eighth street. The wall paper of that room is entirely composed of uncancelled postage stamps of a South American Republic, and there he is "at home" with a collection of stamps that he would not part with for any price.

(By Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman.)

Probably none of the many hobbies which have come into existence during the last fifty years has attracted so much attention as that of collecting specimens of the postal and revenue issues of the various countries of the world. This is known today as stamp collecting or philately. The encyclopaedias, at least those that were published twenty years ago, have little or nothing to say on the subject, for stamp collecting was then such an infant that it was considered not worth recognizing; but the time is doubtless approaching when a degree of attention will be paid to the pursuit by historians that can hardly be realized by those who are now living.

We cannot call stamp collecting an independent hobby, for it is rather a development of the enjoyable occupation that has interested the world for centuries, that of "numismatics" or coin collecting. Few people know that the word "philately" is derived from the two Greek words "philos," love, and "atelia," exempt from tax, hence a collection of articles on which tax has been paid.

Boys are not the only ones who are interested in stamps, though they probably constitute the larger part of the number of collectors, since the finest collections are owned by people of maturer years. Among those who have large and valuable collections we can count the Prince of Wales, M. Philipp la Renotiere, whose mother is the Duchess of Galleria; the Prince of Siam, Members of Congress, and of the English Parliament, Ministers and Consuls in all parts of the world.

There are at least 300,000 collectors of stamps in this country, but, as by far the larger number of stamp collectors live in Europe, it is safe to say that there are at least 700,000 persons in the world who are interested in the hobby. If we assume that the average value of a collection is only $20.00 each, we have at once $14,000,000 invested in this study. This is a very low average, for some collections are worth from $250,000 to $400,000 each. In New York City alone there are probably fifty or sixty dealers in stamps; one firm, the great house of Stanley Gibbons, of London and New York, has a paid-up capital of $582,500, and the National Stamp Dealers' Association that existed five years ago represented a capital of $1,000,000.

While stamp collecting has existed but a few years, the increase in values during that period on various stamps has been almost fabulous, and could a collector of the period of 1860 have used the same foresight in stamps that the Astors did in real estate, their profits today would have been equally as great.

The postage stamp was first issued in Great Britain on the 6th of May, 1840. Although Americans are generally the first to adopt any new suggestions, it was not until the 1st of July, 1847, that this country issued stamps under National auspices, although the postmasters of Brattleboro, Millbury, Baltimore, New York, St. Louis and New Haven had stamps prepared and issued at their own expense before that time. While Great Britain, however, was the country to take the initiative as regards postage stamps, Austria introduced the postal card, in 1873, and the United States gave the newspaper bands in 1857, but the East Indies introduced the telegraph stamp.

In sending out copies of the fifth edition of their Universal Standard Catalogue of the Postage Stamps of the World, the publishers accompany it with this information:

"The following statistics, compiled from the catalogue, may not be uninteresting. The figures comprise only standard varieties of postage stamps, and do not include revenue or telegraph stamps or post cards, letter cards, stamped envelopes or wrappers.

"The total number of all known varieties of postage stamps issued by the governments of the world up to the present time is 19,242.

"Of this number, 5,916 are apportioned to the British Empire and 13,326 for the rest of the world. Dividing the totals amongst the continents, Europe issued 4,089, Asia 3,628, Africa 4,005, America 4,585, West Indies 1,510, and Oceanica 1,425.

"The Republic of Salvador has issued more varieties of postage stamps than any other country, the number being 450. Next in order comes the United States, then Spain, followed by Nicaragua, the Philippines, Uruguay, Victoria, Cuba and Mexico.

"Poland and Wadhwan have each found a solitary specimen suffice for their postal needs."

The real credit for the introduction of the postage stamp belongs to Sir Rowland Hill, although several parties have lately attempted to transfer to themselves the honor which belongs to him. But this introduction of the stamp is not without its romance, and the prettiest story in connection with its advent is related by a writer in one of the popular magazines of the day.

Over fifty years ago a traveler was passing through the Lake district in England when he stopped at an inn where a postman was delivering a letter to a young girl. As she turned it over and over in her hand, he noticed that she appeared to be very dejected, for she had asked the price of the postage upon it, and when she found that it was one shilling, she sighed sadly, shook her head, said she had no money to pay for it, and with tears in her eyes returned it to the postman. The traveler, who was of a kindly disposition, inquired of the girl who the letter was from, and finding it was from her brother, he offered to pay the postage, and it was only with considerable reluctance that the girl allowed him to do so. After the postman had departed, the traveler, impressed with the girl's demeanor, asked what was the reason she did not want to receive the letter. She replied by saying that the letter was from her brother and that certain marks on the outside gave her all the information she desired, but the letter itself contained no writing. "We are so poor," she said, "that we have adopted this mode of correspondence. Now, that is the reason I did not want you to pay for it."

This incident caused the traveler to put on his thinking cap to try and see if he could not devise some means whereby to stop the frauds then being practiced on the internal revenue by people who would communicate with each other by letter, but who would not pay for the privilege of so doing. Soon afterwards the postage stamp appeared, as the result of the thinking of the traveler, for the same was Sir Rowland Hill, and, the English Government agreeing with his views, appointed him secretary to the postmaster general.

As a means for instructing and educating the young, there is no way that it can be done with apparently so little effort and with such good results as by collecting stamps, for they teach history, geography and languages, and gives the boys who work to increase their collections by exchanging or selling their duplicates an insight into business operations which they might otherwise not have an opportunity to learn so soon. A collector in this city, when he was fifteen years old, made quite a large addition to his collection in this manner. At that time the P. O. Department in Washington, in response to numerous inquiries, looked up their old discarded plates, brushed them up and had struck off several thousand impressions from the original plates, which they sold to collectors at face value, but most of the issues were disfigured by the word "specimen" printed on the face of them. Two of the dies, however, could not be found, so the Government had new dies engraved, which were in many points widely dissimilar to the originals from which they were copied. Several of the later issues, however, especially the beautiful issue of 1869, were prepared with gum, the word "specimen" was not printed on them, and thus they were made valid for postage. The Government, having provided a desk in the office of the third assistant postmaster general, an official circular was prepared, giving a list of all the varieties which were procurable, and thus started in to supply collectors with the genuine article at face value. The various issues were usually sold in sets, but a provision in the circular informed collectors that "two dollars worth or over of any one value could be obtained at one purchase." This collector, being aware of this fact, procured 200 one-cent stamps of the obsolete 1869 issues and affixed them to his circulars as a means of prepaying the postage. The novelty of receiving an obsolete stamp which was worth to a collector who did not know how to otherwise obtain it several times it face value, was a novelty to say the least, and the result was that he made several good acquaintances with collectors in far away places which doubtless he would not otherwise have made. Wishing, with his small capital, to obtain as large a number of stamps for his money as possible, as quantity and not quality was what he was aiming at then, he addressed a letter to the Postmaster General of Spain, enclosing him a twenty-five-cent fractional currency note, requesting him to send him 500 unused one-quarter-cent de peseta Spanish stamps. It requires twenty of these stamps to equal the value of one cent of our money, so quantity was surely here obtained, and it was the means of securing to him in the end a very fine quality of all the stamps of Spain and her dependencies, for it seems that the Postmaster General of Spain was himself a collector and asked his young correspondent if he could supply him with some United States stamps which were lacking in his collection, sending the American collector a list of what was wanted. Naturally this collector was very much pleased to have so prominent a person as the Postmaster General of Spain for his correspondent, and so he sent him the very best assortment of his duplicates, together with the desired stamps as soon as possible, and in due course of time received a magnificent assortment of the stamps of Spain and the Philippine Isles that gladdened his heart. There was now but one difficulty connected with his correspondence and that was that the Postmaster General could only correspond in Spanish, while the collector was only familiar with English, and as the Spaniard said he could not write English, the only thing to be done was for the collector to learn Spanish, which he tried to do with the help of a dictionary and various phrase books, until he could correspond sufficiently well to make his wants known to his foreign correspondent. The pleasant correspondence which was thus commenced continued for several years. Thus the incentive to study a foreign language was started by his stamp collection, and it was but one of the many good accomplishments which followed in its train.

Perhaps a few words about the process of making stamps may be of interest. They are, as a rule, printed from steel plates, on which 200 stamps are engraved. They are also printed with hand presses instead of by steam, as other printing is done. After the plate is well inked, the paper is put on, the impressions taken, and after it has dried these sheets are gummed with a gum of peculiar composition, consisting largely of a powder of dried potatoes, which is better than gum arabic, as it does not cause the gum to crack or make the stamps curl up. The paper is of a peculiar texture, and especially the last two issues of our revenue stamps were printed on hair line paper similar in texture to that used in printing bank notes. These sheets, when printed and gummed, are placed on little racks, which are fanned by means of large fans worked by steam power; then the stamps are put in between sheets of pasteboard and pressed in hydraulic presses which apply a pressure of several hundred tons. Each sheet up to this time has contained 200 stamps, but now the sheets are cut in half by girls with large shears, for machinery might destroy too many of the stamps. They are next perforated and then are again put under hydraulic pressure, after which treatment they are made up into packages ready to be sent away to fill the many orders from the 78,131 different postoffices in the country. If a single stamp in a sheet is at all mutilated, the whole sheet is burned. Yet, notwithstanding the great care that is taken, we often find specimens with double perforations or perforated obliquely, and sometimes not perforated at all. In 1869, when the Government issued that beautiful set of two-colored stamps, the fifteen, twenty-four, thirty and ninety cent were printed in two impressions and much care had to be taken in feeding the half-printed sheets to the machine, so as to get the second impressions printed correctly, for if the sheet was placed under the press upside down the result would be that the two impressions would not conform to each other and the stamp thus produced would have its centre surrounded with a frame in exactly the opposite way to that intended by its designer. In spite of the fact, however, that each sheet is counted eleven times, the fifteen, twenty-four and thirty-cent sheets were printed with reversed centres and escaped detection, these stamps being now the choicest prizes in our collections. The same thing happened with the Pan-American issues of 1901, and the one-cent stamp with reversed steamer is worth $17.50, while the two-cent with the engine reversed is worth $20.

At a meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, held in September of this year, fifty stamps were shown which were valued at $23,000, and included in this lot was a fine five-cent Hawaii of the first issue, unused, which was valued at $2,000.

The rarest stamp in the world and of which but one copy is known, and that a poor specimen, is the one-cent British Guiana of 1856. If another copy is found, it is safe to say that more than one collector would be willing to pay $10,000 for it, provided the copy was a fine one. The best known of the great rarities is the Post Office Mauritius, so-called because the words "Post Office" were inscribed on one side of the stamp instead of the words "Post Paid." They were designed and engraved by a local watchmaker in the Island and were issued in 1847. Of the 1,000 stamps issued, only twenty-two copies are known to exist today. They are worth from $5,000 to $8,000 each, according to condition. Of the two-cent blue of the 1851 issue of Hawaii or Sandwich Islands a dozen copies are known to exist, and a specimen of this rarity is worth $3,200. Of an issue of 2,000 copies of the eighty-one paras, the postage on a heavy letter in Moldavia, only 693 copies were sold by the postoffice, but an unused copy of this stamp has sold for $1,750, not very long ago. The Prince of Wales paid £1,450 (equal to $7,250) for a 2d. unused Mauritius of the first issue.

Some of the recent notable pieces which have been sold in America include the fifteen-cent and thirty-cent of the 1869 issue of the United States with inverted centres, unused, with gum, and, collectively, these stamps stand practically as unique, although two other copies of the thirty-cent are known in unused condition, but not as fine as this copy. These two stamps were sold for $5,500, and, as an interesting sidelight on the value of something which is really unique or pracically so, to all intents and purposes, we might say that this pair could unquestionably be sold today at an advance of a thousand dollars or more, as several of our largest collectors would be very glad indeed to have this particular pair.

Mr. Duveen, of New York, the well known art connoisseur, has a collection mounted in seventy albums which is said to be valued at $400,000. Sir W. B. Avery, a scalemaker, of Birmingham, has one of the finest general collections known and which cannot be worth less than $250,000. M. P. Castle, the vice-president of the Philatelic Society, of London, is one of the keenest of English collectors. He sold his collection of Australian stamps in 1894 to Stanley Gibbons Co., Ltd., of London and New York, for $50,000, and then started a collection of European stamps only, which consisted of sixty-seven volumes and for which he realized the sum of $150,000 in 1900.

In his natty little volume on Philately, "The A. B. C. of Stamp Collecting," Melville gives the following table of the sales of famous stamp collections, from 1876 to 1900:

| Date. | Collector. | Countries. | Amt. Realized. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1876 | Ehrenbach | German Empire | £ 6,000 |
| 1878 | Cooper | General | 3,000 |
| 1882 | Philbrick | General | 8,000 |
| 1882 | Image | General | 3,000 |
| 1885 | Burnett | General | 1,000 |
| 1888 | Bros. Caillebotte | General | 5,000 |
| 1890 | Hughes-Hughes | General | 3,000 |
| 1894 | Castle | Australia | 10,000 |
| 1894 | Philbrick | Great Britain | 1,500 |
| 1894 | Harrison | United States | 1,330 |
| 1897 | Ayer | G'ral (dispersed gradually) | 45,000 |
| 1897 | Legrand | Part of Gen. | 12,000 |
| 1898 | Pauwels | General | 4,000 |
| 1900 | Castle | Europe | 27,500 |

To these might be added the Nankivell collection of Transvaal, the Earl of Kintore's collection, and others recently acquired by Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., W. H. Peckitt, etc. Mr. Melville, as an instance of money profitably invested in stamps, recalls the fact that Mr. Hughes-Hughes spent only £69 on his collection and eventually sold out for £3,000, or $15,000.

The method of supplying the smallest collectors with additions to his collection is by sending out what is known as approval sheets. This is entirely a mechanical process, and, by various systems now in use, many thousands of young collectors are served with dispatch and care. The larger concerns sending out approval sheets have trays containing fifty little boxes, which correspond to the fifty stamps on a sheet. These stamps are made up by the hundred, and when a sheet is returned with stamps lacking, it is merely necessary to take a stamp from the corresponding box in the tray which the sheet represents and refill the empty space.

From the approval sheets the small collector gradually grows into sending a "want" list to various dealers, and, in a few instances, the dealers' stocks are kept very carefully made up, so that at a moment's notice they can tell if they have any stamps desired.

Still a further way of meeting collectors' needs has been developed in the last few years, by representatives of some of the stamp concerns traveling through the country with the rarer stamps; but in these instances, for the most part, they carry just the greatest rarities. This branch of the business has been growing very rapidly and single sales of $25,000 and upwards are known from this source.

The premier society of stamp collectors is the Philatelic Society of London, which was founded in 1869 and for over thirty years has held regular meetings in the winter time without a break. On its membership roll are three princes, several earls, baronets, judges, barristers, doctors, officers in the army and navy, besides many well known merchants. For the past twelve years this society has published a monthly journal which contains technical articles besides giving the latest information concerning new issues and discoveries.

An international exhibition of postage stamps will be held from the 23d of May to the 1st of June, 1906, in Horticultural Hall, in London. The chief patron is His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and the vice-patrons are Lord Stanley, postmaster general; Right Honorable Austen Chamberlain, late postmaster general; the Marquis of Londonderry, the late postmaster general; and the Duke of Norfolk, also the late postmaster general. Twenty-nine philatelic societies in all parts of the world have endorsed the movement and the exhibition will probably represent stamps of a value exceeding a million dollars.

Already America is striving for honors at this exhibition, the first American entry received being that of a resident of Plainfield, whose famous collection of the stamps of Norway and Sweden has won the highest possible awards whenever it has been shown in competition, both in Europe and America.

FOR CHANGE IN THE FACTORY LAW

HUGH F. FOX, OF THIS CITY, EMPOWERED TO NAME COMMITTEE.

Preparations for a campaign throughout this State toward securing an amendment to the present child labor law, which shall prohibit the employment of children under sixteen years in factories at night, were made at a meeting of the New Jersey Children's Protective Alliance, held in the rooms of the Bureau of Associated Charities, 10 and 12 Academy street, Newark, Wednesday afternoon. There were present many of those who led in the crusade against child labor a year or two ago. The point on which they have determined to focus their energies this year and for which careful plans have been made, was originally a part of the child labor law, as introduced, but was eliminated before the bill was passed.

Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the Alliance, who is also president of the State Board of Children's Guardians, was directed to name a committee from the members of the organization, with power to enlarge its membership from outsiders, which shall be authorized to draft the amendment and present it to the coming Legislature. Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, secretary of the national child labor committee, offered the co-operation of that body in the proposed fight. He spoke at length on the campaign against child labor recently made in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Lindsay declared that Pennsylvania had its eyes upon New Jersey and that without doubt if the Alliance succeeded in getting the amendment made a part of the law in this State, Pennsylvania would soon follow suit, or even if it made simply a good showing, the people in Pennsylvania, with the interest of the child workers at heart, would be encouraged to go ahead with their campaign.

"Does that mean," asked Mr. Fox, who was presiding, "that if we succeed it will help, but if we should fail it would hinder?"

"The worst thing that could happen to the cause," replied Dr. Lindsay, "is for you to do nothing."

Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth, spoke strongly of the necessity of the Alliance going ahead with its campaign.

"This fight," she said, "is going to be a long one and a hard one. It is going to be harder than it might be ordinarily because of the trouble in the ranks of the Republicans in Hudson, and, as you know, the labor unions in the south of the State are divided among themselves. We must get the help of the labor unions, the trade councils, and we certainly need the help of the national child labor committee. In this part of the State we are all fighters—every one of us—but this fight is going to be a tremendous one, and we need every bit of help we can get."

Arthur W. McDougall suggested the necessity of getting the co-operation of the Boards of Trade throughout the State, and the question of raising funds for the campaign was also discussed. These matters, it was decided, should be left with the committee.

A constitution and bylaws for the Alliance were adopted. The body was organized about a year and a half ago, and at that time William Potts was made chairman of a committee to draft a constitution and bylaws, which was submitted by mail to the members. Several changes were made, notably the leaving out of an executive committee. The Alliance is made up entirely of representa*tives from other organizations*, all working for the betterment of conditions affecting children, and its purpose is to work for any measure which it is felt by the body to be needed and which may be advanced by any one of the organizations represented.

The agitation started by the Consumers' League for shorter hors for children employed in stores was indorsed.

PLAYED VIOLIN AS FATHER DIED.

Daughter of Cousin of Emerson Soothed His End With Music.

Charles M. Emerson, who died at his home, No. 81 Montgomery street, Jersey City, was buried Wednesday.

The late Mr. Emerson was a third cousin of Ralph Waldo Emerson, the great American essayist and philosopher. He was an atheist and when he died no clergyman was called in.

He was employed as a clerk in the motive department of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the station in Jersey City, where he had worked for thirty years. His deskmate, Charles Ayres, read a simple burial service and Miss Mary Laterman, a student in the New York Conservatory of Music, sang "Lead, Kindly Light."

Mr. Emerson was sixty-two years old. As his life ebbed away his daughter, Miss Josephine, a teacher in the New York Conservatory of Music, played the dying man's favorite airs on the violin—airs she had learned at her father's knee.

Mr. Emerson had been ill only since last Friday. He was stricken with pneumonia. Over 1,000 persons tried to gain admission to the house during the funeral services.

TO INVITE NOTABLES TO BIG SAENGERFEST

PRESIDENT, GERMAN AMBASSADOR AND GOVERNOR TO BE ASKED.

In anticipation of the twenty-first triennial saengerfest, to be held in Newark next June, under the auspices of the Northeastern Saengerbund, elaborate invitations will be sent to President Roosevelt, the German ambassador at Washington, Governor Stokes and Mayor Doremus, of Newark, to be present at the festival of song. The invitations, which are engrossed on white vellum, are enclosed in morocco leather covers with an interlining of white watered silk. The invitation reads as follows:

"We take great pleasure in inviting you in the name of the Nordoestlicher Saengerbund of America, to our twenty-first triennial saengerfest, to be held in the city of Newark, N. J., June 30 to July 5, 1906, and would esteem it a great honor to be favored by your presence.

"Singers of all the States of the Northeast will assemble on this occasion to compete in song for valuable prizes, including the well known 'Kaiser Prize,' presented by his majesty, Emperor William II., of Germany. A united chorus of six thousand voices, as well as selected soloists and orchestras of high reputation, will be heard at two grand concerts, July 2 and 3. Knowing that you take a great interest in music and song, which you have shown through your presence and most remarkable address at the festival at Baltimore on June 18, 1903, we sincerely hope that you will be able to spare a few hours of your most valuable time and encourage again the humble efforts of our organization by your presence at Newark to awaken in the hearts of our people the ideals and the love of song and music."

The invitation is signed by Carl Lentz, as president of the Saengerbund; Adam Obst, as secretary, and John J. Plemenik, as secretary of the festival. Theodore Hunsinger, of Brooklyn, president of the United Singers of New York, prepared the invitation, the ones to Freiher Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador; Governor Stokes and Mayor Doremus being similar to the President's.

Major Lentz, Dr. Louis Weyland, of New York, vice-president of the Saengerbund; Dr. Obst, Karl Kuhl, of Philadelphia, recording secretary, and August Geertz, the treasurer, who is also president of the local United Singers, together with Carl W. Heilman, Dr. Oscar Taum, John J. Plemenik and John J. Goering, members of the local committee of singers, will form a committee to deliver the four invitations in person to the addresses.

In response to overtures from the United Singers, the German-American Central Association voted to co-operate with the former in arranging the preliminaries for the saengerfest.

MADE HER MAKE SOUP.

Actress Rebelled and Now She Is Suing for Divorce.

Because she refused to do housework "unbecoming a lady and an actress," Mrs. Laura B. Hauser, of Newark, who is seeking a divorce from her husband, Gustav Hauser, Jr., alleges she was subjected to extreme cruelty. Mrs. Hauser, who was Miss Stem before her marriage in Paterson in 1896, is a native of Brooklyn. She is twenty-six years old, while her husband is a few years her senior. She was a vaudeville artist when Hauser met her, and she has been practicing her profession since her separation from her husband.

Hauser formerly conducted a saloon in Hoboken, and it was there, she alleges, trouble took place. Mrs. Hauser testified that her husband compelled her to make soup for his bar, and when she protested trouble followed. She left him last May.

Vice Chancellor Emery adjourned the case to January 9, 1906.

EVANGELISTICS SERVICES.

Connecticut Revivalist Engaged by Faith Chapel.

Commencing on Sunday night, December 31, and continuing for two weeks, evangelistic services will be conducted at Faith chapel by Rev. C. C. Luther, a Baptist evangelist from Connecticut. He will be assisted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson, and other officers and workers in the chapel.

It is not the purpose to start any wave of revival over the city, but to confine the efforts of religious work to the east end of the town, and more particularly in the neighborhood of the chapel.

Will Accept No More Passes.

The members of the Board of Works of Newark have decided to decline passes from the Public Service Corporation. Heretofore the company at the first of each year has forwarded to each commissioner a book of tickets which could be renewed throughout the year.

Celebrated Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Nelson, formerly of New Market, celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding at their home in Roselle on Wednesday night. There was a large number of guests from this city, Dunellen and New Market.

ACTOR ABBOTT DAVISON KILLED BY HOTEL MAN

PREPARED HIS LAST VAUDEVILLE IN THIS CITY.

George Abbott Davison, a widely known and successful actor who had a host of friends in this city, died at Gaffney, S. C., last Saturday from the effects of a bullet wound inflicted up*on him by John Hasty, proprietor of* a hotel at that place. The body was brought north and the funeral was held yesterday from his brother's home at Richmond Hill, L. I. It was attended by several Plainfielders.

Davison was in vaudeville for many years with Miss Ines Mecusker and the last sketch they presented, "A Fair Trial," was rehearsed in this city and first presented to the public at the Central theatre, then conducted by William Schorb. While in Plainfield, Davison and Miss Mecusker became widely acquainted and the former, being a Knight of Pythias, frequently attended the meetings of Perseverance Lodge. At one of its entertainments three years ago he sang "I'm Tired" in such an effective way many of those present have never forgotten it.

In the past year Davison had been starring in "Nothing but Money." At Gaffney, the hotel man insulted a woman member of the company and Davison and another actor, Milan Davison, demanded an explanation. Hasty whipped out a revolver and killed Bennett instantly. Davison lingered for several days but there was no hope for him from the start. The murderer narrowly escaped lynching.

BUY BIRTHPLACE OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

House Acquired by Home Club Will Be Presented to the Nation.

The Roosevelt Home Club, of New York, whose membership extends throughout the country and in whose roster are the names of many prominent men as honorary members, has announced through its president, Roderick Begg, of No. 31 Irving place, New York, that the club had at length accomplished the object of its formation—the purchase of the birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt.

The house is an old-fashioned structure standing at No. 28 East Twentieth street, New York, and has been occupied by the club as its meet*ing place since the organization* formed a year ago in October.

The purchase price was $60,000, to which Andrew Carnegie, Henry C. Frick, Gen. Horace Porter, President Eliot, of Harvard, Henry Clews, Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, and many oth*er prominent men subscribed. It was* said that Henry C. Frick gave $10,000 of the purchase prise.

The Roosevelt Home will be presented to the nation with due formality within a few months, and will be preserved in its present condition as a historic spot. An effort was made by the club to get possession of the original furniture of the house, but it was found that this was scattered and the idea was given up.

MRS. J. HERVEY ACKERMAN LAID AT REST IN HILLSIDE.

Son's Business Concerns Shut Down During the Service.

With the edifice well filled by a gathering of relatives and friends, funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the body of Mrs. Ellen R. M. Ackerman, widow of J. Hervey Ackerman, in Grace church. They were conducted by Rev. E. V. Stevenson, the rector, and Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus. A quartette composed of Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. Albert Cliver, Mr. Chamberlain and E. D. Cutting rendered, "Sun of My Soul" and "Softly Now the Light of Day." Mrs. W. A. Freeman presided at the organ.

The floral tributes were sufficient to form a bank along the chancel and numbered dozens of large set pieces. The casket was covered with smilax and cut flowers. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

During the service, the offices of the Lawrence Cement Company, of which her son, Ernest R. Ackerman, is president, were closed; and the company's mills shut down for a part of the time.

Shepard—Lowe.

Invitation have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe for the marriage of, their daughter Charlotte Frances, to Frederick Mead Shepard on Wednesday, January 10, at half after twelve o'clock in Grace church. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, 1024 Park avenue. A special car will be attached to local train conveying New York guests to and from the wedding.

A $5,000 Dwelling.

E. S. F. Randolph, of Grant avenue, has purchased the S. H. Thuebel plot, at Grant avenue and West Fifth street, and will erect a $5,000 dwelling upon it as soon as the West Fifth street house is finished. Mr. Randolph's plot now consists of 250 feet on West Fifth street and 110 feet on Grant avenue and the grounds will be laid out in one lawn in the spring with two houses on Grant avenue and one on the Fifth street side.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, DEC. 28, 1905.

"Hail to the Chief!"

Talking about prominent social organizations, the Get-together Club is occupying the greatest attention just at present.

After listening to the evidence in the Kiely trial one is almost persuaded that it is a case of "the pot calling the kettle black."

"That's another step in your education," was the terse comment of Mayor Buckle to Councilman Tyler after the Kiely verdict was announced.

Chief Kiely's vindication is but an instance of failure to prove many absurd charges made from time to time against those in power. So crystalized have some rumors reflecting on those in political control that they are accepted facts. Here was an opportunity afforded to show indirectly at least how awfully corrupt Plainfield is but the attempt fell flat for lack of evidence worthy of credence. Plainfield is fairly well blessed so far as its municipal government is concerned and it only takes a little investigation such as that made at the Kiely trial to bring out the fact.

The borough Common Council held a meeting last night that in one sense of the word was similar to its hundreds of other sessions, and yet will be memorable for one thing. It marked the retirement from that body of one of the most faithful members it has ever had—James K. Arnold. For seven years he has been a councilman and during every one of them his aim has been to perform the duties devolving upon him carefully, conscientiously and with credit to the people who placed him in office. That he succeeded no one will deny, and his going will leave a gap that will be hard to fill. Not once during his long term did he miss a meeting, but with him it was not a mere matter of answering "here" when the roll was called. To attend a session meant work, and those who have followed the proceedings of the borough fathers know that James K. Arnold labored for the municipality as few men care to. As chairman of the street committee there was always something for him to do, and he did it, sometimes to the exclusion of his own business. North Plainfield has a name throughout the State for possessing well constructed thoroughfares, and a good part of the reputation is due to his efforts. In commenting on his retirement last night, Mayor Smalley expressed regret at his departure, and besides personally complimenting him, declared that the taxpayers owe him a vote of thanks—not only for what he has given them, but for what he has saved them. Mr. Arnold is not the kind of a man who would encourage adulation, but he has that vote and he becomes a private citizen in the full knowledge that his worth has been appreciated. Councilman Humble also retired last night, but he had been in office but a short time and had not the opportunity to distinguish himself as did his colleague. For all that his service merited the thanks bestowed upon him by the chief executive.

ELKS PLAY SANTA FOR 500 CHILDREN

TREAT THEM TO ENTERTAINMENT, CANDY AND ORANGES.

The true Christmas spirit was exemplified by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., Saturday afternoon, when 500 poor children of the city were its guests at Reform Hall. Through the kindness of the Organized Aid Association tickets of admission had been given out where they would be most appreciated and Plainfield has never seen a happier crowd of youngsters than the one that was on hand before the doors opened.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and City Judge William N. Runyon marshaled them into their seats and then for two hours they were treated to a wonderful entertainment provided by New York artists. "Iouna the Great Juggler," with his marvelous tricks, made their eyes grow large with amazement; Professor Charles Scheck mystified them with his feats of magic and then the funny antics of Winans and Cassler, a musical comedy team, made them shriek with laughter. When this part was over, everyone was given a pound box of candy and one of the nicest oranges that could be bought.

The committee from the Elks that had charge of the affair consisted of former Mayor Fisk, Herbert Buxton, John H. Cose, Maze Edwards, John J. Kenney, Charles A. Reed, William C. Smith, Edward M. Van Buren and W. F. Williams. They were assisted in the distribution by Judge Runyon, Clarence Teel, Frank Boos, Thomas M. Muir, George Johnson, S. P. T. Wilbur and Elmer D. Cutting.

AMUSEMENTS.

In one scene of "The Girl of the Golden West" Miss Blanche Bates wears a pair of white satin high-heeled slippers which are supposed to be too small. As a matter of fact Miss Bates has a small foot, and the diminutive bottines she wears on the stage fit her perfectly. The business of the scene requires her to limp, as if the slippers pinched her, and she does it with such naturalness that it is difficult to believe it acting. A few nights ago in that scene she did not act. She drew on the slippers hurriedly and walked across the stage. At the first step something in her right slipper caused her to limp in reality, and she was nearly lamed befofe she was able to remove it and see what had hurt her. It was a cartridge from her 44 calibre pistol—the pistol to which she refers when she jumps up and cries: "Oh, gee! I'm sitting on my gun!" She does not know to this day how the cartridge got into her slipper, but she could not help smiling bitterly when David Belasco said to her, at the end of the act: "I never saw you play that tight slipper scene better."

That people like to be amused is shown by the notable success of "Before and After" at the Manhattan theatre, New York. This "laughter play" by Leo Ditrichstein is drawing large audiences to this house, and has not only justified the good words said of it in the metropolitan press, but promises to achieve a notable run. The period immediately preceding the holidays is a trying one to the theatres generally, but "Before and After" has steadily been enjoyed at the Manhattan by large audiences, which fact promises a great vogue hereafter. There have been so few plays of comedy of the farcical type in New York this season that "Before and After" comes to fill a decided public want, and the gusto with which it is enjoyed augurs well for its long continuance. It has been a long time indeed since such a play has been so well acted as this is. The company is one of the cleverest that could be assembled in this country, and the union of clever actors and a medium worthy their efforts shows the natural result of prime public appreciation.

Henry E. Dixey starts on Monday his final two weeks in "The Man on the Box" at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, which is now known as the "theatre of successes." Every play that Walter N. Lawrence has produced there has been an unqualified success. It was Mr. Lawrence who picked out Mr. Dixey for the star part in this comedy and selected Carlotta Nillson to play the difficult comedy rôle opposite to him, thereby giving Miss Nillson her first opportunity to appear before New York audiences in a new line of work. As an emotional actress we knew her, but as a comedienne she has been a revelation. Mr. Dixey has never had a role since his first appearance in straight comedy that has suited him as well as the one in which he has been so successful in "The Man On the Box." To follow Mr. Dixey on January 8, Mr. Lawrence has arranged for the first American appearance of Henri de Vries in "A Case of Arson," and the London success, "Lucky Miss Dean." In giving this double bill, Mr. Lawrence believes he has found a novelty which the public will surely enjoy.

Rev. McCrea at Y. M. C. A.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. His subject was "He is Able." The speaker dwelt at length on the great power of Christ manifested in all His work. Instrumental and vocal solos were rendered by Otto Muller, 'cello, and Miss Cornelia Sampson, soprano.

"By George."

"Bill Hildreth's Last Story," is the title of an interesting tale appearing in the Christmas number of the Hoboken Inquirer. It was written by George E. Firstbrook, of this city, a member of the staff of the Hoboken weekly.

Rugg & Cline, the West Third street coal dealers, secure the best coal and every customer receives the quality well screened and at low prices.

The Grandview Meat Market, Somerset street, has a full array of holiday poultry. Tenderness, flavor and price are what you consider the thing in poultry.

W. W. Dunn is a grocer of many years experience and will give you every satisfaction. His stock is kept entirely new and he charges nothing but honest prices.

Kirch & Zimmerman, of Somerset street, cash grocers, invite a share of your patronage. The firm's stock of goods is the best and the prices will meet every pocketbook.

S. Frucht, the West Front street sporting goods and bicycle dealer, calls attention to some very good bargains he is offering. You can save money by buying at his place.

Call Smalley Brothers over the 'phone and ask them about that Berkshire sausage they make and sell. There is nothing like it in the local market—everybody who has once used it says so.

E. F. Dorman, of Park avenue, sells the best life and accident insurance at low rates.

A. H. Enander, of Watchung avenue, is an expert sanitary plumber and his work always gives entire satisfaction.

LITERARY.

It is true that the musical side of London society, with its streak of Bohemianism and its necessary toleration of foreign ways and professional manners, is far less typically English than the sporting side or the political side or the Philistine side; so much so, indeed, that people may and do pass their lives in it without ever discovering what English plutocracy in the mass is really like; still, if you wander in it nocturnally for a fitful year or so as I did, with empty pockets and an utter impossibility of approaching it by daylight (owing to the deplorable decay of the morning wardrobe), you have something more actual to go on than the hallucinations of a peasant lad setting his foo' manfully on the lowest rung of the social ladder. I never climbed any ladder: I have achieved eminence by mere gravitation; and I hereby warn all peasant lads nto to be duped by my pretended example into regarding their present servitude as a practicable first step to a celebrity so dazzling that its subject cannot even suppress his own bad novels.—Bernard Shaw in the January Metropolitan Magazine.

McClure's Magazine begins the new year with a number filled with American activity and decency. From the first article telling of the daily life of probably the most consistently active man in the country, the President, to the editorials at the end which preach the gospel of decent, upright living, there is not a page bare of either instruction, appeal, or healthy entertainment. Lincoln Steffens writes of Mayor Mark Fagan, of Jersey City. Ray Stannard Baker presents the third article of his series, "The Railroad on Trial," making astonishing exposures this time of the strange, devious methods of the big shippers to hold up the railroads and the public, and to gobble wealth from both through the private car abuses. Henry Beach Needham in an article illustrated with rare portraits and photographs of Mr. Roosevelt tells of the routine of the President's life, of the marvellous amount of work he manages to accomplish in a brief time, and of the diversity of his interests. The Reminiscences of Carl Schurz continue, dealing with the vital events from which the present German Empire drew its life. Stewart Edward White begins in the January number a new series of short stories, woven together by a slight chain of narrative, with the title "Arizona Nights." Each story is to be complete in itself. "Uncle Jim's Yarn, the Indian Story," the first of the new series, borrows life from the out-of-doors; it breathes rough health and contentment, and is full of the true spirit of the West.

Public Press Praise Hippodrome.

Public and press are unanimous in their eulogy of "A Society Circus" at the New York Hippodrome. It is the most gorgeous and magnificent production in the annals, modern or ancient, of the stage. As metropolitan critics said after viewing the wonderful spectacle, "adjectives fail and metaphors pale," in describing this greatest of productions. It is impossible of adequate description. It must be seen to be appreciated. London, Paris, in fact no European capitol has ever conceived anything that can even compare with "A Society Circus." A departure from the accepted ideas of theatricals; original in detail; teeming with action from the opening unto the end; gorgeously beautiful in costume and stagecraft; charming with its music and trained chorus; thrilling in the wonders of the circus acts; the greatest production has two features that stand pre-eminent and unexcelled. They are the wonderful ballet "The Song of the Flowers," and the transcendingly beautiful tableau, "The Court of the Golden Fountains." This last is the most magnificent spectacle ever seen on any stage in the world. It compels admiration because of its superlative beauty and is a fitting end to this, the greatest of all theatrical successes.

New York's Coming Poultry Show.

Entries with Secretary Crawford, of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association, ensure another success for its seventeenth annual exhibition, which will open at Madison Square Garden, on Tuesday morning, January 2, and give New York, for the week ending January 6, a show that is always welcomed, *and is important to breeders of poul*try, fanciers of pigeons and raisers of pet stock, in this country and abroad, and to the public. Added to this, the New York Cat Show, under supervision of the Atlantic Cat Club, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, will be seen in the Concert Hall of the Garden, and the high-priced cats have an audience of their own, as a part of the whole. Standard breeds of fowl, fancy birds, a multitude of pigeons, exhibition yards of families of birds, incubators, and equipments for the poultry yard will be shown to the best advantage, while the canary and caged bird section will be under the auspices of the New York Ornithological Society. The Pet Stock Department with its rabbits and cavies is an attraction to the ladies and children; so are the pretty bantams. In fact there is something for everybody to admire from 9 a. until 10:30 p. m., at half dollar admission.

MEEKER'S PENALTY $150

Common Council Amicably Settles Dispute With Tardy Street Contractor

GIVEN MORE TIME

Next Meetings Subject to Call—Year's Business to Be Wound Up—Minor Matters.

When Common Council returned to its regular order of business at the conclusion of the trial of Chief Kiely Friday night, a petition was received from C. M. Meeker, who has certain contracts for macadamizing streets, asking that another extension of time to December 26 be granted to complete the work. In return for this extension Mr. Meeker agreed to accept $4,577.03 for his work, which is $150 less than the contract price. Mr. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, to whom the matter was referred, offered a resolution which was adopted, granting the petition with understanding that $150 be deducted from the amount to be paid Mr. Meeker.

Considerable time was wasted in discussing the question of adjourning to December 29, to receive the reports and close up the business for the year. Mr. Wilson, who has the southside sanitary sewer ordinance in tow and who wants to secure its final adoption, asked the members to agree to a special meeting for the third reading and thus make it possible to conclude the matter this year.

Mr. Tolles took exception to Mr. Wilson's haste, adding that further consideration of the improvement is necessary. He said that the expenditure of $55,000 and the issuance of bonds should not be acted upon too quickly, that the Common Council had been issuing bonds too fast, and he favored the plan to let the ordinance go over until next year.

Mr. Wilson continued to urge favorable action, station that he had talked with Charles J. Fisk about the sewer and he referred to the need of such a sewer for the hospital, which he considered most important.

Mr. Tolles stated further that Street Commissioner Gavett was not satisfied as to the best method of installing pumping stations and until this and other essential points were settled he would oppose the improvement.

It was the opinion of President Daniel that the last meeting for the year would be a very busy one and he did not think it would be possible to act upon everything. Something would have to go over until next year. City Treasurer W. F. Arnold said that he hoped to have the reports in the finance department ready for presentation at the next meeting.

The motion to adjourn to Friday night, December 29, was lost, Councilmen Higham, Hibbard, Wilson and Daniel voting in the negative, and Councilmen Tolles, Frank Randolph and Gloak in the affirmative. The matter was left this way and the meeting will now be held subject to call.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the appropriation of $6,000 for sewer improvements, and on Mr. Higham's motion John P. Dengler, the official stenographer during the trial of Chief Kiely, will be asked to furnish two copies of the testimony to the Common Council.

J. B. Coward, F. J. Skinner and Elston M. French communicated with the Common Council relative to tax matters and they were referred to the finance committee.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that twenty-four sewer permits were granted from November 1 to December 13. It was after 1 o'clock this morning when the business was concluded and the meeting adjourned.

Councilmen W. S. Tyler and W. S. Bullock, who waived their right to sit during the trial of Chief Kiely, did not resume their seats when the Common Council returned to regular order of business, although they remained until the adjournment. Near the close of the meeting Chief Kiely, who, in the meantime had heard the verdict in his case, entered the room and shook hands with each member of the Common Council, receiving the congratulations of every one.

Of course the Christmas gift season is over, but husband, father or brother may need gloves, cravats, handkerchiefs or underwear, and the place to get them is at James R. Blair's Park avenue haberdashery. He has a fine assortment of each and makes a specialty of the Hawes hats.

Shirley & Johnston are now fully established in their new quarters in the Babcock building and are better enabled than ever before to display their large stock of rugs, carpets, mattings, shades, etc. Their store is one of the best of its kind in the State and they invite the general public to drop in and look around.

Only a few days remain when Hill & Shupp, the dry goods firm, will retire from business. There is still an opportunity to secure many bargains at unusually low prices. These goods are being sacrificed to make room for the new stock of goods that will be put in by the new firm of A. E. Force & Co., who take possession the first of the year.

SKETCHES OF OUR REPRESENTATIVES

MOST OF THEM ARE LAWYERS OR BANKERS AND SOME ARE BOTH.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—In the Congressional Directory, printed copies of which are issued shortly after the opening of every session of Congress, appear biographical sketches of the Senators and Representatives. These sketches are furnished to the committee on printing by each Senator and Representative, so that they practically represent each individual's opinion of himself. One of the longest sketches is that of Senator Chauncey M. Depew, and it caused no end of comment four years ago when the directory had the fact of his marriage to his present wife before that event had taken place. One of the shortest biographical sketches is that of John Welborn, of Missouri. It is only three lines in length.

There is not much egotism in the sketches of the New Jersey delegation. That concerning United States Senator John Kean recites the fact that he was born at Ursino, near Elizabeth, in 1852; that he entered Yale University, studied law, and was admitted to the New Jersey bar in 1877. It tells of his election to the Forty-eighth and Fiftieth Congresses; that he is president of the National State Bank of Elizabeth; vice-president of the Manhattan Trust Company, and elected to the United States Senate in 1899 to succeed James Smith, Jr., and re-elected in 1905.

The sketch of Senator Dryden is also brief. It tells of his birth in Maine in 1839; of his entering Yale University and being obliged to leave on account of ill health and of his graduation in 1865. It is stated that he founded the Prudential Insurance Company in 1875, becoming its first secretary, and in 1881 its president. It is also stated that he is interested in large financial enterprises, and was elected to the United States Senate in 1902 to succeed the late William J. Sewell.

Representative R. Wayne Parker tells his story in eight lines and a half. Born in Newark in 1848; graduated from Princeton University in 1869; admitted to the bar in 1870; a member of the Assembly in 1885 and 1886; elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress and every subsequent Congress.

Nineteen lines are devoted to his life's story by Representative William Halsted Wiley. He was born in New York City in 1842; served through the Civil War, took the degree of civil engineer at the Rensselaer Institute at Troy. He was engaged in the mining business, and finally went into business with his father. While a judge at the International Exposition at Brussels in 1897 he received the decorated order of Leopold from the King.

Exceptionally brief are the biographies of Representatives Loudenslager, Gardner, Howell, Fowler, Wood and Allen. Of Mr. Loudenslager it is stated that he was born in Cumberland county in 1852; that he engaged in business in Philadelphia; was elected county clerk in 1882 and re-elected in 1887 and to the Fifty-third Congress and continuously ever since.

John J. Gardner, affectionately known as "Old Brains," was born in Atlantic county in 1845 and was elected to the Fifty-third Congress and continuously ever since. That is all his biographical sketch has to say. His service in the Assembly and State Senate are modestly omitted, as well as his work on the Industrial Commission.

Representative Benjamin F. Howell was born in Cumberland county in 1844; served through the Civil War in a Jersey regiment, the Twelfth; was elected surrogate of Middlesex county in 1882 and re-elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress, and thereafter.

Representative Wood was born in Wilkesbarre, Pa. He was graduated from Princeton University, is a member of the New Jersey bar, was elected to the New Jersey Legislature in 1899 and 1900, and served as a commissioner to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress.

Charles N. Fowler was born at Lena, Ill., in 1852. He was graduated from Yale University and from the Chicago Law School in 1878. He was elected to the Fifth-fourth Congress and continuously since.

Henry Crosby Allen was born at Paterson in 1872. He was graduated from Yale University and from the New York Law School, and was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress, defeating William Hughes.

Representative Marshall Van Winkle was born in Jersey City in 1869. He comes of an old Knickerbocker family, his great-grandfather having been Peter Van Winkle, an old New York merchant. He was admitted as a lawyer when 21 years of age, and was appointed counsel to the Tax Board, and then Assistant Prosecutor of the Pleas. He was defeated for Congress in 1900, but was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress in the new ninth district, defeating Allan Benny.

Of the ten Congressmen the only Democrat is Allen L. McDermott, who was born in South Boston, Mass., in 1854. He is a lawyer by profession, and the sketch tells of the public positions he has held, such as Corporation Counsel, 1879-1883; District Judge, 1883-86; president Jersey City Board of Finance, 1883-86; member of the State Board of Taxation, 1884-86; member State Assembly, 1880-81; State Senate, 1899-1900; Corporation Counsel, 1904 to date, and elected to Fifty-seventh Congress and thereafter.

Of the two Senators and ten Congressmen seven are native born, Senator Kean, Representatives Loudenslager, Gardner, Howell, Allen, Parker and Van Winkle. Four were graduated from Yale, Senators Kean and Dryden and Representatives Fowler and Allen, and two were graduated from Princeton, Wood and Parker, Seven of the twelve gentlemen are lawyers, Senator Kean and Representatives Wood, Fowler, Allen, Parker, Wiley, Van Winkle and McDermott. Three of the delegation are bachelors, Senator Kean and Representatives Wood and Allen. Representative Howell is a banker, Representative Wiley a civil engineer and business man, and Representatives Loudenslager and Gardner plain, every day business men. Senator Kean should be considered as a banker, as he does not practice law, although he was graduated from a law school, and Representative Fowler does more business in the banking line than in the law.

POOR BOYS EAT XMAS DINNER AT Y. M. C. A.

FED TO PLETHORIC STATE AS GUESTS OF ASSOCIATION JUNIORS.

Carrying out an annual custom, the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. gave a dinner to the poor boys of the city yesterday afternoon. Fifty hungry fractions of the other half were given their chance at a plethoric array of turkey, cranberry sauce, fixin's and ice cream. They improved the chance.

The dinner was served in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. building, at five separate tables. As far as the association officers could discover, they gave invitations to practically every gamin in the city who would otherwise have gone without any Christmas cheer at all. All the newsboys were there. When the boys came into the hall at 5:30 o'clock they found their plates piled high with feast things, and ready for the onslaught. There were no formalities except grace, and as soon as that was said the boys fell to, urged on—although they didn't need much urging—by an older boys of the association who sat at the table as the host. Members of the department waited on the tables.

There was nothing in the affair to dampen the ardor of the guests. There were no speeches, and only a certain amount of quiet was requested. The boys had a great time and showed it plainly. When the dinner ended the boys were dismissed, with an extra orange to take home and suck in contemplative reminiscence.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and Twenty-third Street and North River.

In effect December 3, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 2.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.57, 7.25, 7.28, 7.55, 7.47, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 10.23, 11.00 a. m., 12.03, 12.44, 1.28, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.53, 6.29, 6.43, 7.08, 7.32, 8.27, 9.27, 9.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sunday trains—2.17, 2.37, 4.47, 7.40, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 10.02, 9.49, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.25, 6.48, 8.13, 8.27, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.28, 7.47, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.30, 9.59, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.21, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.53, 6.29, 7.08, 7.32, 9.40 p. m. Sunday trains—7.40, 8.01, 8.52, 9.34, 10.02, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.45, 2.40, 3.17, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 8.13, 8.35, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.19, 7.11, 8.21, 9.17, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 1.41, 2.02, 2.11, 3.20, 4.33, 5.08, 5.29, 6.04, 5.57, 6.19, 6.38, 7.12, 7.33, 8.08, 9.37, 10.23, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday trains—5.45, 8.42, 11.13 a. m., 2.03, 3.40, 5.37, 7.05, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.11, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sunday—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.19, 8.21, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.38 p. m. Sunday trains—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—8.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.47 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc.—3.37, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 12.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—(Except Ocean Grove) 3.37, 8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—3.37, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 12.44, 1.18, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—3.37, 8.01, 8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 2.49 p. m., (3.44 p. m., Lakewood only).

For Toms River and Barnegat—3.37, 9.30 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.01, 8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 9.39, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.39, 2.45, 3.42, 6.45, 7.46, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17, 9.53, 10.39, 10.44, 11.42 a. m., 2.45, 3.42, 4.55, 5.39, 6.45, 7.46, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 3.42, 6.45, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17, 9.53, 11.42 a. m., 4.55, 6.45, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—8.51, 10.44 a. m., 12.39, 2.45, 5.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—10.44 a. m., 12.39, 2.45, 6.45, 7.46 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg, via Bound Brook—5.17, 7.44, 10.51 a. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 10.44 a. m., 2.45 p. m. Via Allentown—5.25, 9.55 a. m., 2.11, 5.47 p. m. Sunday—2.03, 5.47 p. m.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.19, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sundays—2.03 p. m.

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Electri Automatic Block Signal System.

On and After November 26, 1905. Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

f 2.35 P. M. Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis Express.

f 6.40 P. M. Western Express.

f 8.27 P. M. Pacific Express.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—f 8.22 a. m. week-days.

Southern Railway Express—f 12.58 a. m. daily.

Atlantic Coast Line—f 10.06 a. m. and f 10.07 p. m. daily.

Seaboard Air Line—f 12.58 and 1.04 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore and Washington—f 12.58, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.06 a. m., 1.04 and 10.08 p. m. On Sunday at f 12.58, f 9.06, f 10.06 a. m.; 1.04 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Trenton and Philadelphia—1.01, 6.46, 7.10 (Trenton only), 8.06, f 8.39, 9.06, f 10.10, 11.43 a. m.; 12.40, 1.04, 2.04 (Trenton only), f 2.35, f 3.33, f 6.41, f 7.35, 7.44, f 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.01, 6.51, f 9.06, 10.40 a. m.; 1.04, f 2.35, 5.52, f 6.41, 7.44, f 8.37 and f 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—Through Vestibuled Express Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach, and Combined Coach, f 10.33 a. m. and f 3.35 p. m. week-days. Sundays—Through Vestibuled Train, Pullman Parlor, Dining, and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibuled Coaches, f 8.33 a. m.

For Atlantic City—Via Delaware River Bridge, f 2.35 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.01 night, daily.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg, and Stroudsburg, Via Trenton—6.46, f 8.39, and 11.43 a. m., f 2.35 and f 6.41 p. m. week-days; 6.51 a. m., f 6.41 p. m. Sunday.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 8.37 a. m., f 1.08, and f 5.43 p. m., 12.51 night, week-days. Sundays—10.03 a. m., and 5.40 p. m. Stop at North Asbury Park for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—Trains connect at Jersey City with Pennsylvania Annex boats for Brooklyn.

"f" Stops on notice to Agent or on signal.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Man.

GEO. W. BOYD, General Passenger Agent.

Lehigh Valley Ralroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 3, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.27 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo, and principal intermediate stations.

10.22 a. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Detroit, and Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express". Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112.

College Men's Smoker.

The "university smoker" scheduled to be held at the Casino on Friday night, January 5, has been postponed until February 8. There has been a general response to the cards sent out by Owen Fleming, chairman of the committee, and it is the desire of the committee to reach all college and university grandates in the city.

PROVISION FOR A DISTRICT COURT FOR CITIES THIS SIZE MANDATORY

Law Says Municipalities of Over 17,000 Inhabitants Shall Have Such a Tribunal.

POWER IN GOVERNOR

Method of Obtaining Benefit of Statute—Demand for Such a Court—What the Law Says.

The subject of establishing a district court in Plainfield, which has been frequently talked of among those more directly interested, is again being discussed by legal lights and officials and there is a strong possibility that it may shortly be brought to the notice of Governor Stokes, who has the power of appointing the tribunal. The city proper now has 18,478 inhabitants, whereas recent Legislative acts declare that but 17,000 is necessary to make the proper application to the State's chief executive. In the laws of 1900 is a supplement to the act of 1898 "concerning district courts," which makes the establishment of such a court here mandatory.

The law follows:

"All district courts now constituted and established by, under or in pursuance of any law of this State, shall continue in existence under the provisions of this act, and there SHALL hereafter be district courts in the several cities of this State as follows: In cities having one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants or over, two district courts, to be called the first and second district courts of such cities; in cities having over seventeen thousands inhabitants and less than one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants, one district court to be called the district court of such city.

"The salaries of the judges of said courts shall be fixed as follows: In cities having two hundred thousand inhabitants or over, an annual salary of $4,000; in cities having between one hundred thousand inhabitants or over, an annual salary of $3,000; in cities having between twenty-five thousand and one hundred thousand inhabitants, an annual salary of $2,500; in cities having between twenty-three thousand and thirty-five thousand inhabitants, an annual salary of $2,000; and in cities having between eleven thousand and twenty-three thousand inhabitants, an annual salary of $1,200."

According to an amendment to the laws of 1898 made in 1903, the judge of each district court shall be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and shall continue in office five years from the date of appointment and until his successor has been duly appointed and qualified. This is the act which has brought the matter more directly to the attention of Plainfielders and which clearly marks out the course to be pursued in seeking the official action.

An act of 1903 defines its jurisdiction as follows:

"Every suit of a civil nature at law, or to recover any penalty imposed or authorized by any law of this State, where the debt, balance, penalty, damage or other matter in dispute does not exceed, exclusive of costs, the sum or value of $200, shall be cognizant in district courts of this State; district courts shall also have jurisdiction in proceedings between landlords and tenants, and in actions of forcible entry and detainer, and in actions of replevin, and in attachments as hereinafter provided by this act."

An interpretation of section 31 of the laws of 1898 which it still in force, reveals the fact that an appeal could be taken from many decisions rendered by local justices of the peace. It declares that : "No justice of the peace or court for the trial of small causes shall have jurisdiction over any cause or proceedings cognizable before a district court, where the defendant or defendants reside within the limits of any city where a district court is established, nor shall any justice of the peace resident within the limits of any city where a district court is or MAY BE established exercise any civil jurisdiction whatsoever."

Special Council Meeting.

It is the intention to call a special meeting of the Common Council for Friday night, so that Chairman Wilson, of the street committee, can call up on third reading the south side sewer ordinance, with the hope of final adoption. All of the members are not convinced that this ordinance should go through this year, believing that the 1906 members should have an opportunity of considering it. Reports for the year will be presented at this meeting.

FAST EXPRESS KILLS TWO PEOPLE AT CRANFORD

HEROIC FLAGMAN AND COLORED WOMAN BOTH STRUCK.

While travelling at the rate of sixty miles an hour, the Philadelphia express that reaches this city from New York at 10:51, struck and killed two persons at the Cranford crossing, Friday; the flagman who guards that point and a colored woman. The latter started to run over just ahead of the train and then noticing it bearing down upon her, stood as if dazed. The flagman sought to save her, only to lose his own life. The woman was thrown beneath the wheels and the body was terribly mangled, while the heroic flagman was hurled through the air and to the roadway near the Cranford hotel.

Many Plainfielders were on the train and several of them assisted in picking up the bodies after the train was stopped and backed to the scene of the accident.

BOARD OF PARDONS' WORK.

Show Mercy on a Number of Prisoners.

The Court of Pardons at Trenton Wednesday, in addition to action in the Garrabrandt case, paroled a number of prisoners, pardoned one man and remitted some fines.

The man who was pardoned is Abraham Goldberg, of Hudson county, sentenced to ten years for bigamy. His case was brought up at the last term of the Court of Pardons, but the evidence offered was so startling that the court could not believe it. Assistant Prosecutor Vickers, of Jersey City, has since made a thorough investigation, which sustained the claim.

The story told was that Golberg went through a mock marriage ceremony at Braunsville, N. Y., having a false rabbi, false witnesses and a mock ceremony, in which his housekeeper was the principal. Later he was regularly married in New Jersey against the wishes of his family, who to get even, it is now alleged, charged him with bigamy, and produced witnesses, who testified that the pretended marriage was real.

The Court laid over the application of William Macqueen, the alleged anarchist, who is serving five years, accused of inciting riots in Paterson during the silk strike in 1902.

WORKMAN SAVED HER.

He Threw Off Belting, but Not Before Girl's Scalp Had Been Badly Torn.

The quick wit of a workman in the mill of the Clark Thread Works at East Newark probably saved Wednesday the life of Sivana Camel, fifteen years old, of 132 Hudson street, Newark.

Miss Camel was bending over tying a lace of her shoe when her hair, arranged in a long braid, was caught between two slow-moving gears. The girl was dragged to the wheels and was being drawn between them. Her scalp was torn and her plight was desperate when the clear headed workman threw off the machine belt.

It required a number of stitches to sew up the wound in Miss Camel's scalp. She was taken home, instead of to the City Hospital, on her plea that her father was in the hospital being prepared for a serious operation, and she feared he would learn of her injury and that it would involve serious consequences.

JACOB WEART'S FUNERAL.

Services Over Remains of Lawyer and Politician.

The funeral services of Jacob Weart, who for many years was a prominent member of the Hudson County Bar, and was prominently identified with affairs in Jersey City, were held yesterday afternoon from the late home in East Fifth street. There was a large attendance of friends, including many former business associates in the legal profession in Jersey City, Trenton and other parts of the State.

Rev. Mr. LeVevre, formerly pastor of the Reformed church at Middlebush, Somerset county, where the departed was an attendant several years ago, conducted the services. He read appropriate Scripture selections and made a short address. The remains were taken to Arlington, Essex county, for interment.

Mrs. Colby's Christmas Gift.

Mrs. Everett Colby, of Orange, wife of the State Senator-elect, and who was formerly Miss Edith Hyde, of this city, made a Christmas gift of $5,000 to the New Jersey Orthopedic Hospital Saturday. The money was given without reservation, to be applied according to the judgment of the managers of the institution. Mrs. Colby has become greatly interested in philanthropic work and she and her husband make frequent gifts of this nature.

PUPILS CELEBRATE XMAS

Rev. A. C. McCrea Speaks at P. H. S. and Rev Dr. G. W. Parsons at N. P. H. S.

HARTRIDGE SCHOOL

Public and Private Schools Hold Formal Exercises—Vacation Now Until January 3.

Preceding the presentation of prizes at the Christmas exercises at the Plainfield High School this morning, Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, made an appropriate address. He spoke on the subject of "Worthy Ambition." Mr. McCrea said that winning the prize is the ambition of nearly every boy and that nothing can be accomplished without ambition. He then referred to noble and ignoble ambition.

Dwelling on what constitutes noble ambition, the speaker said that it consisted of making the most of one's self, striving to do the best for others and doing one's best to develop that which God has endowed one with. He characterized the noble ambition by referring to Lincoln and Roosevelt, and the ignoble by the life of Napoleon.

Following the address, Principal Ira Travell presented the following prizes: The Daily Press medal for individual championship, Phil. Smith; Sabbath Recorder cup prize, class championship, class '08; boys' tennis championship prizes, singles, Paul R. Collier; doubles, Paul R. Collier and Phil. Smith.

Following the Christmas exercises at the High School at noon today the seniors took possession of the platform and the customary "roasts" were in order. While the boys were marching to the platform the seniors sang a parody on the popular song, "Everybody Works But Father," the words being written by Miss Louise Kline.

There were the usual "roasts" for the juniors, many being considered quite appropriate. After this part of the programme the juniors served refreshments to the seniors in the chapel rooms and friendly relations were resumed. The rooms were decorated with the various class colors.

Then followed the customary "roasts" between freshmen and sophomores. The juniors presented each sophomore with a stick of candy and an appropriate rhyme written by Miss Eleanor T. Woodcock, and the seniors presented the freshmen with candles with an appropriate rhyme written by Miss Marguerite Ostrom. School will reope on Wednesday, January 3.

The exercises in the borough schools were enjoyed by a large gathering of parents and friends of the pupils. Those of the kindergarten and junior departments were held at 9 o'clock and the upper departments assembled in the Somerset street building at noon. The programme, as given in yesterday's Daily Press, was carried out, with an address by Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church, one of the features.

Interesting exercises appropriate to Christmastide and at the same time closing the school year, were held by the kindergarten children of Miss Hartridge's School in East Seventh street, yesterday morning, under the direction of Miss Florence Burt, of this city, and Miss Morris, of Springfield, Mass., teachers in this department.

The little tots had the usual Christmas tree and many pretty things of a useful character made by them were presented to the parents. The time was pleasantly spent in playing games and singing popular selections. Quite a remarkable feature of the exercises was the fact that the children, even to the youngest, were so well advanced in history, being able to tell many interesting facts.

The children in this department of the school participating were as follows:

Chapman Kinney, Prescott Van-Wyck, Duncan Taylor, Margaret Patterson, Susie Taylor, Lucy Otterson, Charlotte Taylor, Wesley Johnson, Celia Bomann, Heyward Erickson, Gordon Taylor, Walton Hedges, Edward Hyde, Godfrey Clay, Jack Zelie, Lillie Wright, Ruth Lecas, Whitney Baker, Edith Frierson, Nat. Stevens. After the exercises the children were dismissed for the term.

This morning the pupils of the elementary and academic departments gathered at the school in East Seventh street, and enjoyed their Christmas exercises. The recitations and songs were all of a sacred character and were given in a very efficient and pleasing manner under the direction of the teachers. A feature of this work is that all of the pupils have prepared their own essays and poems which they read.

Following the opening exercises there was an intermission for social intercourse on the part of the pupils, the parents and other guests of the school. Upon resuming the exercises, Mrs. Andrews, who has charge of the vocal instruction at the school, favored those present with a solo, her selection being from "The Messiah." This was greatly enjoyed.

The exercises were concluded about 10:30, when this department was dismissed for the term. The school will reopen on Monday, January 8. In the meantime the teachers and out-of-town pupils will spend the holiday season at their various homes. At the close of both yesterday's and this morning's exercises, Miss Hartridge, as well as all of the teachers, were congratulated upon the excellent showing made by the pupils.

Leal's School closed this morning for the holiday vacation and will be reopened on Wednesday, January 3. The closing was marked by an informal programme of simple exercises chiefly by the younger boys of the school, comprising readings and declamations.

IS POLL TAX ANCIENT MODE OF TAXATION

A. C. PLEYDELL SENDS LETTERS ON SUBJECT TO NEWSPAPERS

A. C. Pleydell, of Grandview avenue, who se views on political economy and kindred subjects have been widely published, has sent the following letter to newspapers throughout the State and which has been given prominence in their columns:

"Dear Sir—It was assumed in a recent editorial that there are men residing in the State who pay no taxes at all, and advocate a poll tax. But everybody who lives in the State and pays rent for a house, or even for a room, helps to pay the tax on real estate. Everybody who buys goods from a merchant helps to pay the taxes on the merchant's store and stock. Poll taxes are an ancient mode of taxation and have been forbidden by a number of State constitutions because of their obvious inequality. To arbitrarily tax men at so much a head does not take into account either their ability to pay or the benefit which they get from the government. As an illustration of the injustice of a poll tax as a requirement to vote, some years ago I was paying $900 a year rent, out of which my landlord turned over about $110 to the tax collector. He got a receipt for this money and could vote on the strength of it, while I and my customers, who were really paying the tax, had to pay a poll tax before we could vote. The case of fraternal organizations is different because they are voluntary associations which no one need join unless he feels he is getting his money's worth, and they cannot be supported in any other way than by directly collecting from each member.

"A. C. PLEYDELL.

"North Plainfield, Dec. 19."

DREW PERFORMANCE PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

"DE LANCY" A CLEVER COMEDY WITH BRILLIANT DIALOGUE.

The largest and most fashionable audience that has yet assembled in the New Plainfield theatre was present last night when John Drew, the Lyceum theatre favorite, and his company presented Augustus Thomas' successful comedy, "De Lancey." From every standpoint it was a successful performance. The spectators were highly delighted with the cast and the brilliant dialogue, and the box office record for receipts was broken, the sale reaching $1,159.75. Mr. Drew pleased, as he always does, and those who had witnessed his work in other plays declared the part of "Jim De Lancey" fits him better than anything he has ever undertaken.

The scenic mounting was a feature of the play, especially the setting of the second act. It showed a conservatory and hot house, an exact copy of the nurseries at the country home of J. P. Morgan, Jr., which required an entire car to transport.

Mr. Drew and several members of the company were entertained after the performance by former Mayor Charles J. Fisk at his home on West Seventh street.

AT THE GROSEMAN SCHOOL.

Pupils Had a Jolly Christmas Entertainment Saturday Night.

The Christmas exercises at the Groseman School for nervous and atypical children were held at the school on Watchung Crest Saturday afternoon. There was a large large number of guests from many distant points and this city, including parents of the children. The programme comprised songs and recitations by the pupils; tableaux, representing the "Cradle Songs of Nations," leading up to the Madonna idea, and a Christmas play, "The Lost Reindeer," with songs and calisthenic dances. The pupils performed remarkaby well.

Other features of the programme were soprano solos by Miss Marguerite Steinberger, of Brooklyn. There was also a short address by A. Lueder, of New York, followed by the appearance of Santa Claus and the distribution of gifts to the children. The pupils who did not return to their homes remained at the school and poined in an old fashioned German Christmas eve celebration Sunday night. Most of the scenery used in the tableaux and the play was especially sketched for the occasion by Jonas Lie, the well known artist.

Charles Ulrich, formerly of this city, but now of New York, spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street.

SOME GOOD RECIPES.

A string of round red objects dangling from an upper window was the cause of daily comment by passengers on a train that pressed pretty close to the tall tenement house. They swung there for a fortnight in the bright fall days, and then disappeared, for they were nothing more than large red peppers hung out to turn red and dry for winter use. They will season the savory dishes cooked by the little dark-haired foreign woman, who still uses the methods of her mother country as far as possible.

Peppers, both green and red, and especially the mild sweet variety, are growing in favor every year with cooks of all degrees. The flavor of the dry red pod added to soups and sauces is pleasant, and it is a positively pure seasoning. If a mild red pepper that is still juicy is shaved into fine shreds, like little red threads, and is added to a vegetable salad, it will give a piquant flavor as well as pleasant color to the whole.

The uses of green peppers, either stuffed, baked, pickled or in salads, are increasing, where for a cold there is nothing better than a dose of old-fashioned pepper tea, made by steeping a piece of the red pod in boiling water. This tea is also a stimulant and a good tonic in some conditions of the stomach. Pure red pepper as a seasoning for food is healthful, while black or even white pepper is more or less irritating. The seeming excess of red pepper eaten in hot countries is needed as a tonic and is nature's preventive or remedy.

Coffee Cake.

Make a sponge with one cup of milk scalded and cooled until lukewarm, one and three-quarters cups of flour, three level tablespoons of sugar and one-half yeast cake dissolved in one-half cup of lukewarm milk. Cover and let rise. Add one-half cup of melted butter, one whole egg and the beaten yolks of two, one-half level teaspoon of salt, the grated rind of half a lemon, and one and three-quarters cups of flour. Beat well, turn into a shallow buttered pan until it is one-quarter of an inch thick. Let rise until twice as high and set in a moderate oven. When half done spread with butter, after brushing over with a beaten egg. Spread on three-quarters of a cup of sugar, mixed with one-half cup of seeded and chopped raisins.

Beef Croquettes.

Chop enough cold roast beef or cold tender steak to make one cup. Season well with salt and pepper, onion juice and a little table sauce if liked. Add a tablespoon of melted butter, a rounding tablespoon of fine bread crumbs and one beaten egg yolk. Stir all over the fire until heated, then spread to cool and form into little rolls. Dip each roll in flour, then in a beaten egg and last into fine bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat. Serve with a sauce.

Orange Ice.

Grate the rind of one orange, add the juice of one lemon and one cup of orange juice. Boil two cups of sugar and one cup of water together for fifteen minutes, add the fruit juice and cool. Strain and freeze.

Prune Puddings.

Wash one pound of prunes and soak over night in cold water to cover. Cook in the same water until tender, then take out the stones. Make a batter with three well-beaten eggs, one and one-half cups of milk, a saltspoon of salt, one rounding tablespoon of sugar and three cups of flour, sifted with four level teaspoons of baking powder. Beat and add the prunes and fill buttered cups a little more than half full. Steam one hour and serve with a prune sauce.

To two cups of the prune juice from the stewed fruit add a level teaspoon of cornstarch, mixed with one-half cup of sugar. Stir and cook fifteen minutes; add a level tablespoon of butter and it is ready to serve. If there should not be two cups of the juice add enough boiling water to make that amount.

Wheat Muffins.

Sift one cup of white flour, two cups of whole wheat flour, a rounding tablespoon of sugar, four level teaspoons of baking powder and a saltspoon of salt together twice. Beat one egg, add two cups of milk, three tablespoons of melted butter and the dry materials. Bake in muffin pans in a moderately hot oven.

Second Dinner-Dance.

The dinner-dance held at the Casino Saturday night under the auspices of the Plainfield Country Club was even more successful than the first one of this series. There are now about sixty-five subscribers and on Saturday night there were about eighty present. Twenty-five members had dinner prior to the dance, and there were many private suppers served afterwards. During the evening the guests enjoyed dancing, "bridge," billiards, pool and bowling. The festivities were concluded shortly before midnight. The next dinner-dance will be held on New Year's night, the date being changed so as not to interfere with the dance at the Park Club on Saturday night.

New District Passenger Agent.

About a month ago W. C. Walsh resigned as district passenger agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey to engage in other business. The new appointee is C. K. Armstrong, who has been district passenger agent of the Burlington road at St. Paul. Mr. Armstrong has had many years experience in the railroad business, and comes into the new field with many new ideas, and is looked upon favorably by railroad men in general.

BIG SURPRISE FOR DUKE

Wife's Sensational Testimony in Divorce Case at Newark Astonishes Court Room.

RULED BY SERVANTS

Declares They Used Flowers From "Farm" and Were Treated as Members of Family—A Bitter Fight.

Mrs. James B. Duke, wife of the president of the American Tobacco Company, astonished the court at Newark Thursday in the suit to settle the question whether Mr. Duke is a resident of New Jersey and whether Mrs. Duke is answerable to the Jersey court in the divorce suit brought by her husband.

When asked whether she had corresponded with her husband during his last trip to Europe she replied that she had written to him daily. She said that during her husband's absence she had remained in New York, and when asked why she did not go to Mr. Duke's place in Somerville she replied:

"Because Mary and Maggie Smith rule the place by Mr. Duke's orders."

The Smith girls were originally employed as servants in Mr. Duke's house at Somerville. Concerning them Mrs. Duke further said:

"On one occasion I wanted them to send to my home in New York some flowers from the conservatory in the Somerville place, but they replied that they had only enough for their own use. Another time, when I desired them to send me some vegetables from the farm, I received a similar reply."

"Even when I visited the farm with my husband," continued the witness, "the Smith girls ate at the same table with us and dominated me."

At this point the court interposed, saying that the question whether or not Mr. Duke permitted servants to dominate his wife was irrelevant.

Mrs. Duke said her husband told her he had intended to make the Somerville house into a clubhouse for the members of the tobacco company, and she added that she had never looked upon the place as her home. She said her husband's brother, sister-in-law, cousins, aunts, nephews, and nieces had all visited at the Sixty-eighth street house, and all looked upon it as the home of herself and her husband.

Mrs. Duke said "Ben" Duke, her husband's brother, used the "farm" a great deal in entertaining his friends. She said her husband had told her he liked to go to the "farm" occasionally, but that one day or two was the most he could stand at a time.

Witness was asked if she had sent invitations to the Smith girls to attend her wedding to Mr. Duke, and she replied that she had, but that she had done so only on the request of Mr. Duke. She added that after her marriage she was told by her husband that when they visited the "farm" the Smith girls were to be treated as members of the family.

Mr. Duke testified that he had never given any orders that the girls were to "dominate" his wife. He admitted that when he was in Europe he received a letter from his wife in which she said she was unable to get any vegetables from the "farm." Duke said he inquired the cause of the trouble, and the girls told him when Mrs. Duke wanted the flowers they did not have any at the "farm" at the time, and the Smiths told him they had to borrow some from a neighbor.

After hearing counsel sum up, the vice chancellor decided that Mr. Duke had established his contention that he was a resident of New Jersey, and could sue for divorce there.

Mr. Parker, of Mrs. Duke's counsel, showed the witness cards announcing that the Dukes "at home" specified No. 11 West Sixty-eighth street, New York.

"Yes, I paid for these," said she. "That was our home."

Later, commenting on this, Vice Chancellor Pitney remarked:

"'At home' means that when a lady doesn't wish to see another lady she tells the maid to say she is 'not at home;' that she is not visitable."

Everybody laughed.

"How about the automobile rides?" Mrs. Duke was asked.

"I went out but twice," said Mrs. Duke, "while I was there. Mr. Duke always took the Smith girls with him.

"'Why do you take them?' I asked. 'Because I owe them much,' he answered.

"'Here are three motor cars,' he told me one day. 'You take them and drive around Somerset county while Maggie runs the house.'"

The multi-millionaire was called in rebuttal. His pink face grew crimson as he took the witness chair.

"It is not true that my wife did not get enough to eat," he swore. "Nor is it true that she was not mistress of Duke Park. Mrs. Duke never complained of our home nor of the Smith girl. In fact, she once begged Mary Smith to remain when the maid had threatened to leave. I objected to my wife going to New York so often, and even threatened to close up the New York stables if she did so. Her answer was that she would hire carriages and send me the bill."

The spectators tittered, and Mr. Duke's face assumed the hue of an Italian sunset.

The Vice Chancellor in his decision said:

"The testimony would show that Mr. Duke's residence by choice is in New Jersey. He had other homes, but that is his right. He never settled down that I can see except when he was sick. He has spent millions on his Somerville estate and the letters that he wrote to her while he was living in this home he gave her on West Sixty-eighth street show him to be a greater man than I at first thought him. He asked her in that letter, 'Will you be my wife?' I thought more of Mr. Duke as a man after I read that letter that her lawyer put in evidence."

SINGING EVANGELISTS COMING NEXT MONTH

SERIES OF MEETING FOR GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church, has arranged with his people to secure the services of the Rines brothers, Canadian singing evangelists, who will conduct a series of meetings at the church from Tuesday, January 2, to Sunday, January 14. The afternoon meetings will be at 3 o'clock and the evening services at 7:30 o'clock.

This programme has been arranged for the special afternoon meetings, from 3 to 4 o'clock:

Wednesday, January 3, "Obedience and Reward;" Thursday, January 4, "Cripple Tom—A Service of Song;" Friday, January 5, special service for children and young people, at 3:30—subject: "Flowers and Weeds;" Tuesday, January 9, "The 23d Psalm in Gospel Song;" Wednesday, January 10, "Companionship;" Thursday, January 11, "The Salt of the Earth;" Friday, January 12, special service for children and young people, at 2:30—subject, "From White to Black, and from Black to White."

TEACHER FIGHTS THIEVES.

Finds Burglars in Home—Beaten in Attempt to Capture Intruders.

The arraignment of two men arrested on suspicion in the Second Criminal Court, Jersey City, yesterday brought out a story of the fight of a young woman to arrest a thief on Wednesday evening. The young woman is Miss Jean Arrison, who conducts a kindergarten at her home, 166 Belmont avenue. She lives with her father. Every one was absent Wednesday when Miss Arrison returned from a shopping tour. She entered by the basement and was surprised to find the door had been forced open.

She moved quietly and heard some one moving about the parlor. Stealthily ascending the stairs, she threw open the door, to confront two stalwart young men. On seeing her the intruders bolted for the door. She stood in their way. The first of the thieves was a good dodger and cleverly avoided Miss Arrison as she attempted to catch him. The other was not so agile.

She got a firm hold and stopped him. The thief pummelled her with his fists until she was dazed and fell. Miss Arrison quickly recovered and ran to the door and shouted. The intruders, however, escaped.

She made an investigation and found that the thieves had ransacked the house from the bedrooms to the parlor, but had not reached the dining room, where the silverware is kept. They obtained some jewelry, taking also the wedding ring that Miss Arrison's mother wore. The booty was valued at about $100.

Miss Arrison promptly reported the theft to the police, who arrested the two young men. She was unable to identify them.

THEY FISHED WITH GUM IN SALVATION ARMY POT.

One Boy Abstracted Dollar Bill While the Other Gagged One-Legged Collector.

John Owens, twelve years old, and William Garvey, ten years old, of Paterson, conceived a novel method of obtaining money for Christmas gifts. By the use of a cane and a piece of tutti-fruitti they robbed a Salvation Army pot of $1. Both were arrested and committed to jail.

The pot was on one of the most prominent corners in the city, in front of City Hall square. A wire netting covered it. Owens fastened a piece of chewing gum to a cane, which he inserted between the wire netting and drew forth a $1 bill, while Garvey held his hand over the mouth of John Vanderwheel, a one-legged boy who was in charge of the pot.

After the money had been extracted the boys ran off. The one-legged Salvation Army man was unable to pursue them, but both boys were recognized and complaints were made. Owens admitted the theft.

He and his companion were committed to the county jail.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cliver, of Crescent avenue, are attending the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. Cliver's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Cole, at Yardville, N. J., today. The celebrants have always lived at Yardville, where they are held in high esteem by everyone.

BLAMING IT ON THE REPORTER

The other day a well known citizen entered the Sentinel-Review office with a grievance. He had, he said, been grossly misrepresented in a news paragraph which had been printed in the paper. When the offending paragraph was submitted for correction, behold, there was nothing to correct, and eventually it was ascertained that the complaining citizen had not read the item at all, but based his complaint as to its inaccuracy on what somebody had told him. This is neither a fable nor a parable; neither is it an isolated case; but it has a moral all the same: you seek to ventilate it.

Be sure you have a grievance before

The people who make daily newspapers have a good deal to answer for; it should be sufficient to hold them accountable when they are clearly responsible. In the gathering and preparation of news for a daily newspaper, inaccuracies are almost certain to creep in. For these the newspapermen are freely blamed; but they are seldom given credit for the diligence they display in the search for facts. Perhaps the great mass of the people, not being intimately associated with newspaper work, have no idea, or but an imperfect idea, of the troubles to which sincere and self-respecting newspaper men go to ensure accuracy. And yet the difficulties by which newspapers are surrounded on every side should be more or less familiar to everyone who has ever attempted to get at the bottom facts of a piece of gossip.

It is a familiar fact that no two eye witnesses of an occurrence will see exactly the same things, and no report of it will be exactly correct to the man who has his own fixed notion of what happened.

Then there are the flying stories. Where do they come from? How do they originate? How do they develop? The reporter is at the mercy of all these. If he spends the time necessary to "chase up" one of these mysterious stories, to find there is nothing in it, he will miss the other news that he should have gathered on his rounds. If he prints the story as he is told it, he will probably be denounced as a wonderful liar. If he should decide to ignore the story altogether, and there should happen to be something in it, he would probably learn that he was a failure as a news-gatherer.

If the reporter prints a story that is untrue he is characterized as a liar. No one seems to think it worth while to give him the benefit of the doubt, in that he may have been nothing more than the victim of a liar. And yet any other man who accepted in good faith an untruthful story would scarcely be condemned as anything worse than a victim of credulity.

Again a reporter may make a synopsis of a speech or a sermon, and may for his pains be denounced as a blockhead or worse, for failing to catch the speaker's meaning, or for having misrepresented what was said. It seldom occurs to anyone that the fault may not be entirely the reporter's. May it not be that the speaker was at fault in not making his meaning clear? No doubt the speaker knew what he meant to say; but did he say it in such a way that an audience of average intelligence would know what he meant? If not, whose fault was it that he was misunderstood? Assuming the reporter to be a man of average intelligence, and nothing more—and reporters are not chosen for their stupidity, whatever some people may think—what does it signify when he fails to grasp a speaker's meaning? Does it not signify that the speaker failed to make his meaning sufficiently clear to meet the needs of an average audience? Instead of placing all the blame on the reporter, it would be much more candid and to the purpose if the speaker who has been "misrepresented" would engage in a soliloquy something after this fashion: "I must have made a sad mess of that speech. If that is the impression I made on the trained reporter, how hopelessly I must have failed to make my meaning clear to those of my audience who are not trained in detecting points and extracting the gist of public utterances!" That would be a fair way of looking at it. Are such soliloquies often indulged in? Not likely. It is much easier to lay the blame on the reporter. One can even imagine an indignant retort: "Supposing that to be true, do you expect a man of my culture and standing to talk down to the level of an average audience's intelligence?" Perhaps not; but why in the world does such a man talk to an audience at all? If he is unable or unwilling to make himself understood by an audience of average intelligence, is he not wasting his own time and that of the audience by his talk? This is a phase of the matter which public speakers might think over with profit to themselves and those who go to listen to them.

There are several other aspects of the matter which might be discussed, probably without convincing anyone. It has become the custom to blame the newspaper, and we suppose there is no help for it, until the custom changes. In some countries editors are employed at good salaries who never write a line and never edit anything, but whose duty it is to go to jail every time some one in authority finds himself afflicted with an overcharge of spleen which he seeks to work off on the newspaper. Perhaps in time the newspapers of this country will find it advisable to employ such editors. There are plenty of people willing to go to jail for the sake of the food and shelter to be found there. If there was a salary also, no doubt the number would be greatly increased. The trouble might be that the editors out of jail would become so envious of the delicious restfulness of the quiet life of their lucky colleagues behind the bars that there would be no preserving harmony on the staff.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

LITERARY NOTES.

The American Magazine has become, from the photographic standpoint, perhaps the best of the magazines of National circulation. In the current number there is a striking series of photographs, of crocodiles, by Julian A. Dimock. In one instance a 10-foot crocodile has been photographed only four feet away, and in another the effect is almost that of some prehistoric monster or dragon. The January number is excellent from start to finish. Booker T. Washington writes of "The Negro in Business;" Arthur Goodrich tells of the work of Dr. Barnado in saving London's waifs, and Burton T. Hendrick traces the development of the Gould fortune. Creswell Maclaughlin contributes two pages of epigrams, and Annie Payson Call continues her series on "Every Day Living." The short stories are by Joseph C. Lincoln, Mark Lee Luther, W. B. M. Ferguson, Julia B. Foster and A. C. Davis. Miss Cholmondeley's serial, "Prisoners," is making a hit.

The January Everybody's is virtually's an "automobile number." There is excellent reading in Arthur N. Jervis' spirited article, "Car Coming!" with its brilliant description of Vanderbilt Cup race and its discussion of the present high and significant status of American automobile racing. On the other hand, Eugene Wood, in his sprightly essay, "Do I Want an Automobile?" treats the same subject with highly successful humor. Any reader who may be in doubt as to whether he wants an automobile, and why, can find out by reading these two articles. Charles Edward Russell, who has been studying European solutions of American problems, tells, in a remarkably significant instalment of his serial, "Soldiers of the Common Good," of the phenomenal development of Municipal Ownership in Europe. The story of the London County Council, "that body unique in the history of government;" the fact that where Public Ownership has been tested, "Private Ownership is doomed;" and the relation of these important sociological developments to the misery of London's very poor—are all points that Mr. Russell makes with vigor and conviction. There is also a brief put pithy instalment of Mr. Lawson's and the reappearance of Addicks are "Frenzied Finance." Bay State Gas taken up in this number.

The January number of Scribner's Magazine contains one of Kate Douglas Wiggin's most amusing stories, "Philippa's Nervous Prostration." In its course it describes a modern sanitarium, with its daily routine of prepared foods, massage, rest and meditation. The theme furnishes Mrs. Wiggin with the very best opportunity for the display of her marvelous talent for making fun. Incidentally it develops two charming love stories. The illustrations, by May Wilson Preston, catch the humorous spirit of the story delightfully. Mrs. Burnett's wonderfully powerful tale, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," which was begun in the Christmas number, is concluded with great strength, and will no doubt have a decided effect on the many thinking people who see in the present time the right moment for a recrudescence of Faith. Ernest Thompson Seton was a writer of natural history long before he became a writer of stories, and he begins in this number, with an account of "The Wapiti and His Antlers," a series of papers on the great horned game of America. In each brief paper will be set forth clearly the result of many years study and observation, illuminated with drawings by Mr. Seton. The articles will interest every lover of outdoor sports.

STUDY OF FRANCHISES.

Public Utility Commission's Report for Legislative Session.

The public utility franchise commission met at the State House at Trenton to consider the report which it is to present to the next Legislature. The members are former Governor Murphy, former Governor Voorhees, John C. Payne, secretary of the State Riparian Board; Eckard P. Budd, of the State Board of Assessors, and Frank T. Lloyd, prosecutor of Camden county. All were present. One member stated that the report would not be ready at the opening of the Legislature, but would be presented during the session.

Prosecutor Lloyd stated that the report will be based on information gathered from every State in the union and from Europe. Several countries in Europe, he stated, have made surprising progress in the matter of handling the public franchise question during the past five years.

The commission was appointed under an act of the last Legislature to investigate the whole subject of the grant of franchise by municipalities to public utility companies, also the question of assessing the franchise values of corporations using the public streets for trolley, gas, telephone, telegraph or water purposes, and taxing them at a local rate.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

List of books in the Public Library of interest to the genealogist, Part 2.

Part 1 appeared in last week's issue.

O'Callaghan, E. B.—Documentary history of the State of New York. 4v.

Our Home—A monthly magazine of original articles, historical, biographical, scientific and miscellaneous, mostly by Somerset and Hunterdon county writers and on subjects largely pertaining to these counties, with classified local items and tables of marriages and deaths in these counties, from January, 1872 to November, 1873. v. 1.

Pape, W. J., and Scott, W. W.—History of Passaic, N. J., from its earliest settlement to the present day; embracing a descriptive history of its municipal, religious, social and commercial institutions, with biographical sketches and several ancient maps published for the first time.

Pratt, E.—Comprehensive history, ecclesiastical and civil, of Eastham, Welfleet and Orleans, Mass., from 1644 to 1844.

Rupp, I. D.—Collection of upwards of thirty thousand names of German, Swiss, Dutch, French and other immigrants in Pennsylvania from 1727 to 1776, with names of ships, whence they sailed, and the date of their arrival at Philadelphia, chronologically arranged, together with the necessary historical notes, and an Appendix containing lists of more than one thousand German and French names in New York prior to 1712.

Salter, E.—History of Monmouth and Ocean counties, embracing a genealogical record of earliest settlers in those counties and their descendants.

Scotch-Irish Society in America—Scotch-Irish in America: Proceedings of the Scotch-Irish congress, 1st-5th. 1890-93. 5v.

Shaw, W. H.—History of Essex and Hudson counties, N. J.

Smith, E. M.—Documentary history of Rhinebeck, in Duchess county, N. Y., embracing biographical sketches and genealogical records of our first families and first settlers.

Snell, J. P., comp.—History of Hunterdon and Somerset counties, N. J., with illustrations and biographical sketches of its prominent men and pioneers.

Society of Colonial Wars—Annual register of officers and members: constitution of the general society, published by authority of the general assembly, 1896.

Society of Mayflower Descendants—Meetings, officers and members arranged in State societies: ancestors and their descendants.

Stryker, W. S.—New Jersey continental line in the Virginia campaign of 1781.

Stryker, W. S., comp.—Official register of the officers and men of New Jersey in the revolutionary war.

Stryker, W. S., comp.—Record of officers and men of New Jersey in the civil war. 2v.

Thompson, H. R.—History of the reformed church at Readington, N. J., 1719-1881.

Wheeler, W. O.—Inscriptions on tombstones and monuments in the burying grounds of the First Presbyterian church and St. John's church at Elizabeth, N. J., 1664-1892.

Whitcomb, R. P.—First history of Bayonne, N. J.

Whitehead, J.—Passaic valley, N. J., in three centuries.

Whitehead, W. A.—Contributions to the early history of Perth Amboy and adjoining county, with sketches of men and events in New Jersey during the provincial era.

Whitehead, W. A., and others—Proceedings, commemorative of the settlement of Newark, N. J., on its 200th anniversary, May 17, 1866.

Whitehead, W. A., and others—Records of the town of Newark, N. J., from 1666 to its incorporation as a city in 1836.

Wickes, S.—History of medicine in New Jersey, and its medical men from the settlement of the province to 1800.

Wickes, S.—History of the Oranges in Essex county, N. J., from 1666 to 1806.

Wilson, J. C., ed.—Memorial history of the city of New York from its first settlement. 4v.

Winfield, C. H.—History of the county of Hudson, N. J., from its earliest settlement to the present time.

Winsor, Justin, ed.—Memorial history of Boston, including Suffolk county, Mass., 1630-1880. 4v.

Genealogies of Special Families.

Bulkley, A. I. B.—Chad Browne memorials: genealogical memoirs of a portion of the descendants of Chad and Elizabeth Browne, with appendix containing sketches of other early Rhode Island settlers, 1638-1888.

Carpenter, D. H.—History and genealogy of the Hoagland family in America from their first settlement at New Amsterdam, 1638-1891.

Mellick, A. D., Jr.—Story of an old farm; or, life in New Jersey in the 18th century, with a genealogical appendix.

Opdyke, C. W.—Op Dyck genealogy: the American descendants of the Wesel and Holland families.

Robinson, C. E.—Robinson family, genealogical and historical association: the Robinsons and their kin folk. Second series, 1904.

Stevens, C. E.—Stevens genealogy, some descendants of the Fitz Stephen family in England and New England.

NEW ROUTE FOR THE PENNSYLVANIA

WILL RUN FROM TRENTON TO NEWARK THROUGH THE INTERVENING COUNTIES

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, through a number of its officials, including President A. J. Cassatt, filed articles yesterday with the Secretary of State at Trenton incorporating the Pennsylvania and Newark Railroad Company. The capital of the company is placed at $500,000.

The company is incorporated to construct and maintain a railroad from a point in the middle of the Delaware River at Trenton through the counties of Mercer, Middlesex and Union in New Jersey to a point in Essex county near the northern boundary of Elizabeth, and there to connect with the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The length of the rail is given as forty-seven miles. The articles of incorporation do not disclose anything more than these facts, but it is understood the purpose is to provide for the Pennsylvania Railroad an additional double-track road connecting it at Newark by a separate and distinct route through the counties named with what is known as the Trenton Cut-Off, extending from Morrisville, Pa., across the Delaware River from Trenton to Glenloch, twenty-five miles west of Philadelphia, on the main line between Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

This will give the Pennsylvania a double-track freight line from Glenloch to Newark and will relieve a great deal of the freight traffic that is now handled on the present four-track system between Philadelphia and Newark.

The map showing the route of this new road has not yet been filed, but it is understood that it will run through the outskirts of Trenton, New Brunswick, Rahway, Elizabeth and the other towns between Trenton and Newark.

The incorporators named in the articles filed are A. J. Cassatt, William A. Patton, Samuel Rea, Thomas D. Cuyler, W. H. Barnes, Henry Tatnall and S. L. Shephard.

TOASTS.

A long life and a happy one;
A good business and a successful one;
A firm friend and a faithful one;
A swift death and a peaceful one;
And God's face beyond.

At a recent supper to a bride this was the first toast:

Here's to Love, a thing so divine.
Description makes it but the less,
'Tis what we feel but can not define,
'Tis what we know but can not express.

And after toasts to the youngest matron and the bride, one of the girls whose engagement had not been announced, gravely recited:

We've had a toast to the bride-to-be,
Winsome, smiling and fair,
Here's to the girls who would like to be,
Wondering when and where,
Still there's fish in the sea,
No doubt of it, as good as ever came out of it,
And some day we'll get our share—
So we don't care.

Then her neighbor at the table sad:

Pray do not fancy hope is dead.
Be game and laugh at fate.
Bear this in mind; they also wed
Who only wait and wait.

Among general toasts, the quotation from Cicero to friendship is apropos: "It improves happiness and abates misery by the doubling of our joy and the dividing of our grief."

At a family reunion Mark Twain's unique toast to "The Babies" is generally appropriate: "We haven't all had the good fortune to be ladies; we have not all been generals, or poets, or statesmen; but when the toast works down to the babies, we stand on common ground—for we've all been babies."

A familiar toast to a general company is:

Here's a toast to all who are here.
No matter where you're from;
May the best day you have seen
Be worse than your worst to come.
—Pilgrim.

Pretty Workbasket.

That medium-sized Japanese straw bathing hat makes a pretty work basket. The crown is dented inward, making a receptable, when lined with satin or silk, for sewing implements; scissors kept in place by a band of ribbon sewed into the lining; a pin cushion attached also to the lining; and a pad for needles. The hat is bound with ribbon and the edges are curled up all around, further carrying out the workbasket idea. Red satin is very pretty for lining one of these hats, and pale blue, light green or yellow all combine with the tint of the straw also.

Benevolent Council Initiates.

Six candidates were initiated in the mysteries of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., Friday, and four applications were received. During the evening addresses were made by Past Councilor H. G. Runyon and the new members.

Freeholders to Reorganize.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet at the Court House, Somerville, at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, January 2, for reorganization.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 31.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Looking backward. What have I learned this year?—Deut. viii, 2-20.

Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward" was in reality a looking forward. Before looking back he placed himself in the distant future and then prophesied what were to be the social changes from the present to that future. Our looking backward on the last day of the year 1905 is, however, to be of a different character. We are actually to look back upon the 365 days of the year and to recall especially what God has taught us as the days have gone by. Looking backward in this sense should be a profitable exercise. The memory is one of the most marvelous attributes of mind that God has given to us, and we should use it for our advancement in spiritual things as well as in secular affairs. Many will recall the successes and failures of the past year, its gains and its losses, but will give little thought, if any, to God in these remembrances. Yet God in His Word teaches us a different doctrine. Of this fact we have an illustration in the passage selected for our study. The children of Israel upon their entrance into the land of Canaan were instructed to remember how God had led them—"And thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these forty years in the wilderness." And to us, the children of God, there comes the command on this last day of the year, "And thou shalt remember all the way the Lord thy God hath led thee these 365 days of the year 1905."

God had led us. His leading may not always have been evident to us, nor may we have understood all His dealings with us, but He has led us all the way and in the way that has been for our good. This does not mean that the way has always been pleasant and desirable. Israel was often afflicted in the wilderness, as we are in the journey of life to our heavenly Canaan. God's people were humbled, they were made to suffer hunger and to meet hardships and difficulties, but God's hand was in it all. He humbled them that He might exalt them. He caused them to hunger that He might feed them. He afflicted them that they might seek comfort and consolation in Him. He weakened them that they might realize that their strength was in Him. As you look over the past year do you recall dark days, difficult roads and times of affliction and distress? If so do not argue that God has not been with you, but be convinced that He has been and that even in these things He was manifesting His glory and administering to your good. Then recall as against these things the bright days, the days of plenty, the successful achievements and the manifest blessings of God, and be filled with submission to His will and gratitude for His goodness.

Gratitude for the blessings of the past should inspire obedience for the future. With the command to remember there is also the exhortation to obey, "Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God to walk in His ways and to fear Him."

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxiii, 1-6; xxxix, 1-5; xc, 12; cxix, 81-88; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; John ix, 4; I Cor. vi, 19, 20; Eph. v, 15-21; Col. iv, 1-6; II Pet. iii, 8-14.

The "Plus" Sign In Our Work.

This mathematical sign is an excellent one to appeal to every effort we put forth in these days. In mathematics it is the sign of addition. In Christian Endeavor it is the sign of "increase." And just at this particular juncture in God's heavens this sign is in the ascendant. A large Endeavor society—"plus." That means larger than ever, by the grace of God. Missionary enthusiasm—"plus," meaning still greater enthusiasm. Splendid intermediate and junior societies—"plus." The call to improvement, enlargement, betterment, expansion, is as natural as breathing and as insistent as your heart beat. "Anywhere, so it be forward." There are no statics in Christian experience. Life is ever pushing onward and outward and upward. You say you had a fine society last year. Very good. Press on to a better one this year. This year does not look back into last year for its model, neither does this month look to last month for its ideal. These conceptions of what we ought to be and what we may become lie just before us. They are to be wrought out in living, loving, everyday characters in the months to come. —Rev. J. Webster Bailey, President of the Indiana Christian Endeavor Union, in Christian Endeavor World.

Maker of Character.

I like Christian Endeavor because Christian Endeavor makes character. I like it, too, because it makes Christian character, and there is no currency in this world that passes at such a premium anywhere as a good Christian character. The time is going by when a young man or a young woman has to apologize for being a Christian. Christian character swings wide open every door of opportunity to the young men and the young women of the United States.—William McKinley.

I suppose that the basis of Christian Endeavor is the consciousness of Christ in the hearts of Christian workers.—Dr. Hume.

To Christian Endeavorers.

You serve with zest
Your cause—the best
That any may espouse;
It is your plan
In every man
The highest to arouse.

—S. W. Gillian, "Christian Endeavor Welcome" poem in Baltimore American.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Dec. 31: "What Have I Learned This Year?"—Deut. viii, 2-20.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

"All the way which the Lord thy God hath led thee." It is well to do some thinking at the close of the year, just as Moses reviewed with the Israelites their journey through the wilderness. We have each one of us had a varied experience during the twelve months past. Some of it has been hard to bear. Other things have far more of pleasure than we could have anticipated. We may not have realized as we passed along that there was any hand guiding our affairs. Sometimes it has seemed as if mere chance alone governed things, they went so perversely; but as we look over the whole field from the present vantage point we can be sure that there was a guiding hand directing all our affairs. God has led, and we should not forget all the way in which he has led. There is purpose in His dealing with us. He has hedged up our way in some directions and opened it unexpectedly in others. There is much of mystery we could not penetrate at the time and some that we perhaps do not yet understand clearly, but there is an abiding consciousness that God has led and that it is all right.

I see not a step before me;
God tenderly shades my eyes,
And every step of my pilgrim path
He makes new scenes to arise.
And every joy He sends me
Comes as a sweet and glad surprise.

The lesson of life is strikingly expressed in this passage. God has led us in the way He has in order to humble us—that is, not to put us to shame and crush the spirit. Humility is a different thing from that. It is the opposite of proud self sufficiency and arrogance, which is fatal to all peace and extremely dangerous in indulgence by such creatures as we are in such a world as this, where we know so little and the mistakes may so easily be serious in consequence. Humility begets a reliance on the power and goodness of God. That gives peace and assurance of safety. Has not the past year shown us so many times and in so many ways our need of better judgment than our own and a stronger protection than we could exercise? How all this brings us back to God and proves what is in the heart. It not only reveals what manner of spirit we are of, but it also develops in us new traits of character.

All that we have passed through has confirmed us more certainly in the attitude we have had toward the commands and will of God. Are we more teachable and tender hearted than a year ago, or have we felt ourselves hardening under the stress of circumstances?

Some seem to think that every difficult and painful passage in life they have to encounter is somehow an injustice toward them on the part of God, as if He is under obligation to make everything pleasurable for them and the failure to do so is depriving them of rights.

We not infrequently hear people speak of the mysterious dealings of God in the death of friends, as if God was punishing them when they have not deserved it. Whoever has such a view of life and circumstances would best read the book of Job very attentively and also this chapter in Deuteronomy frequently and come to a better conception of the mode of God's dealing with us.

Out of it all let us learn to walk in God's ways the coming year more faithfully and diligently than we have done in the past and trust with unwavering confidence that He will lead us rightly and safely and bring us home to Himself all in His own good time.

God's Eternal Purpose.

The waves of the ocean spring up, we know not where or why. They come careering past us, the very emblems of resistless power. They subside and are lost among the succeeding waves. In like manner, on the vast sea of human life, individuals, then empires, mysteriously emerge. They raise their ephemeral forms conspicuously high, overwhelming whatever stands in the way of their march. They also subside and are lost, but the unfathomable abyss of humanity still remains, and God's eternal purpose moves on toward the accomplishment of the determined end.—Draper.

Sentence Sermons.

They are never alone that are accompanied by noble thoughts.—Sir Philip Sidney.

Happiness is not in having what we like, but in liking what we have.—Henry F. Cope.

The essence of Christianity is not imitating Christ, but trusting Him.—P. T. Forsyth.

He is great who is what he is from nature and who never reminds us of others.—Emerson.

Keep steadily before you the fact that all true success depends at least upon yourself.—Theodore Munger.

It is the work of a philosopher to be every day subduing his passions and laying aside his prejudices.—Addison.

The wealth of man is the number of things which he loves and blesses and which he is loved and blessed by.—Carlyle.

Art thou a beggar at God's door? Be sure thou gettest a great bowl, for as thy bowl is so will be thy mess.—John Bunyan.

If you are poor and weak and helpless and of little account, these are only extraordinary reasons why God should care for you.—John G. Stevenson.

Carve the face within, not dress it from without, for whoever would be fairer illumination must begin in the soul. The face catches the glow only from that side.—W. G. Gannett.

ANNUAL REPORT ON STATE RIFLE PRACTICE

INSPECTOR GENERAL SPENCER FAVORS ANNUAL ENCAMPMENTS.

General Bird W. Spencer, inspector general of rifle practice of New Jersey, has just filed with the adjutant general his annual report and has also transmitted to the War Department at Washington, through the adjutant general, the results of firing under special course "C."

The results of the season just closed are much in advance of those of the two previous years. Special course "C" firing regulations for small arms of the United States army went into effect in 1903.

The figure of merit for the State was, the past season, 51, the Fifth Regiment being the highest, with a figure of merit of 58, the Second Regiment being next with a figure of merit of .52, followed by the Third Regiment .49, Fourth Regiment .44, and First Regiment .38.

There were qualified: Expert riflemen, 206; sharpshooters, 51; marksmen, 1,170; first class, 413; second class, 436; third class, 913; fourth class, 1,264.

In the company figure of merit Company L, Second Regiment, leads with 1.12, Company D, Fifth Regiment, being next with 1.07.

The First Troop, Newark, has the highest figure of merit, 1.26, qualifying every man on the roll; expert riflemen, 13; sharpshooters, 4, and marksmen, 55.

In armory practice the First Regiment leads with 494 qualified; the Fifth Regiment being next with 448 qualified; followed by the Fourth Regiment, 425; Third Regiment, 364, and Second Regiment, 234.

The First Battalion of naval reserve had their rifle practice while on a cruise on the U. S. S. Portsmouth, with very successful results.

General Spence recommends that the rifle practice be held during camp and that all the regiments shall go into camp each year. He says: "In view of the increased range facilities and the present system of employment of scorers and markers from the colleges, we shall be so situated that there is no reason at all why the organization going into camp should not obtain all or practically all of their rifle practice during their camp. Rifle practice with ball cartridges is a much more efficient instruction than extended order drills with blank cartridges, although not quite so spectacular. I sincerely hope that arrangements may be made whereby the entire National Guard will encamp by regiments for a period of five weeks in all, and that the rifle practice at the share of, say, two companies per day, be extended over this period.

"Additional time, say three weeks, can be afforded after the camp is over for the practice of those who are unable to go to camp, who may be entitled to fire in the higher classes than those practiced during the camps. I believe that the money saved in transportation and the money saved in subsistence to the regiments during rifle practice will be almost sufficient to pay the difference necessary to encamp the entire National Guard each year. It goes without saying that a more efficient guard will be developed and a larger percentage will have an opportunity to qualify upon the rifle range."

Captain W. C. Gannon, inspector of rifle practice of the Fourth Regiment, is announced as the winner of the Governor's championship match.

Reference is made to the use of the magnificent facilities at Sea Girt for the rifle practice of the United States troops. Six companies of the Eighth Infantry and seventeen companies of coast artillery completed all of their practice on the Sea Girt ranges.

As to the national match at Sea Girt, General Spencer has the following to say:

"The third national match, under the supervision of the National Guard for promotion of rifle practice, pursuant to act of Congress, was held at Sea Girt beginning August 24. The first national match, in 1903, was held at Sea Girt, and fifteen teams competed. In 1904 the competition was held at Fort Riley, Kan., and nineteen teams competed. This year at Sea Girt thirty-seven teams were entered and competed. The housing and care of this vast number of competitors was undertaken by the State of New Jersey, and if commendations and congratulatory letters count for anything the efforts of the State was a decided success."

After telling of the arrangements made at Sea Girt for the national match General Spencer says:

"While Sea Girt is not especially a candidate for the next match, or for future matches, still it is to be regretted that the tendency of the regular officers is toward a permanent match at Fort Riley, under strictly regular army regulations. Nor can we agree with General Hall, in his report, that the Fort Riley range makes it the most available point in the United States. It is true that it is near the geographical center of the country, but nowhere near the geographical center of the population; much less of the shooting population. If the national match is to be a success in the future it must be a joint competition, held under joint auspices, and not in any sense strictly under army control."

GUILTY ON 1 COUNT, TECHNICALLY SO ON 3; ALL SO TRIFLING THAT COUNCIL IMPOSES NO PENALTY

Chief Kiely Practically Vindicated of the 21 Charges, Some of Serious Nature, After a Long and Hard Fought Trial in Which Put Some Accusers in Bad Light.

SWEAR LEE WAS DRUNK

City Fathers Out for Two Hours—Chief Holds An Impromptu Reception After Verdict—The Testimony Friday.

Vindicated of every charge touching his morality and his efficiency as an officer, Chief Kiely emerged from ent last Friday when John Drew, the happy man indeed. He was adjudged guilty on four counts; in three of them his guilt was termed purely technical, and his judges ruled that the circumstances surrounding all four did not justify any penalty.

The verdict was unanimous. No one but the councilmen who took part in the three-hour discussion of the evidence in executive session knows what passed behind the closed doors, but every one of the nine members who have sat on the case voted "aye" to the resolution that brought the chief from under the cloud. It was one of the councilmen accused of strong prejudice against him—Mr. Murphy—who offered the resolution.

The charges under which the chief is found guilty are numbers one, two, three and nineteen. One, two and three referred to the release of prisoners without bail or hearing; of these he was adjudged "technically guilty." Count nineteen covered his attendance at the meeting room of the Get-together Club, in the Hotel Waldorf upstairs room, "a place where liquor is sold." He was declared innocent of drunkenness, conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, conniving at John Goff's violation of the law, disobedience of orders, incompetence, and allowing political influence to control the disposition of prisoners at the station house, all of which were charged in the other counts.

The case closed at 9:45 last night, after a session lasting, with an hour-and-a-quarter recess for supper, from 4 o'clock until then.

Frank J. Blatz was called to the stand first after Council convened. He was questioned with regard to the debt claimed by Frank Linke against the defendant. He said:

"The defendant came to me about the bill and said he'd been bothering him about it. I advised him not to pay it. He came to me again and said he would rather pay it than be bothered any more about it. He gave me the money and I paid it for him. I went to Linke's and saw Mrs. Linke. Told I came to pay the bill, and wanted an itemized statement. She said if I wanted a statement I could go to Mr. Tyler, who had the bill for collection. The amount was $59.22. I offered her that and she said it was not enough. That the bill was $60.27."

By Mr. Marsh:

"Did Kiely deny he had received lager beer, whiskey and champagne as charged in the bill?"

"He said they were for his wife."

"Necessaries, eh?"

"He said these had been paid for, and he said after he paid one bill he told Linke not to charge him with any more goods, but to get his pay at the house."

Sergeant Fredrickson was next sworn. He said he remembered when John Nelson was released from jail. That McCardell came into the station house at nine o'clock and asked if Nelson was there. Witness said: "I don't know. I will go and see."

"I came back and told him Nelson was there," continued the witness. "He asked me if I had seen the judge there. I said no. He went out. About ten o'clock he came in again, handed me a slip, and said 'Read that.' It was a release from the judge for Nelson, until the next day at nine o'clock. Nelson was sober enough to go out, so I unlocked the door and told him to come out. McCardell said to Nelson, 'You go home now, and behave yourself.' I put the slip in the chief's desk, as I always do, to show what had occurred. Sometimes these orders of release come from the judge by telephone. If responsible persons are locked up and have friends who go to the judge about them. At this time I don't recall if the chief was there. I remember Mr. Lee was there among others."

"Do you know of any prisoner being released without an order by the judge, mayor or president of the council?"

"I don't know of any. I know I never released any that way."

"Do you remember, on March 25, 1904, when the chief came into the station house?"

"Yes, it was about 5:30 a. m. I was sitting at the desk, when the chief and Mr. Lee walked into the station. The chief said, 'Good morning, sergeant.' Officer McGinley was by the door. The chief said, 'What are you doing here?' McGinley answered, 'I am waiting for a car; we've off duty.' The chief walked toward the gate in the courtroom, saw Kelly and Hamilton on the benches, and asked 'What are you fellows waiting for?' They said, 'A car to go home.' The chief said, 'Then you might as well hitch up the horse, and all drive home.' He said, 'Come on, Kelly,' and started out first for the barn. Hamilton came later. I said, 'Mr. Lee, you'd better get out there, or you won't get a ride home,' and he walked out."

"What was Kiely's condition? Intoxicated?"

"I say he was not."

"Did he wear any decorations?"

"No. I saw Mr. Lee have some flowers on, and asked him if he had been out in a rosebush. I saw no wreath on the chief."

"Did you ever hear the chief instruct officers about the Goff place?"

"Yes, on several occasions. In the evening when the men lined up to go out, he would say, 'Look out for the speakeasies.' He said, 'I want you to do your duty without fear or favor,' and he would lecture them sometimes."

At this point Mr. Reed showed a paper in Roundsman Flynn's handwriting which was a statement made on Sunday, September 3, 1905, by John W. Kiely, who stated he had had three drinks of whiskey at Goff's that morning, in company with three men from Newark. Sergeant Fredrickson stated that this man Kiely had been locked up, and in the evening, who sober, asked to be let out. The sergeant had said no, and continued, "John, if you stayed away from Goff's you wouldn't get into this trouble," to which the man replied, "Sergeant, I want to make a statement about this."

Mr. Marsh, interrupting:

"Why should we have a statement from a drunken man?"

Mr. Reed: "I want to show that the officer was getting evidence."

Fredrickson continued: "We were instructed by the chief, when he went on his vacation, to do his best during his agsence to get evidence against Goff."

"Now sergeant, I want you to pause and reflect before answering this: Did you, on the morning of Mach 25, when the chief came into the station house, say to Peter Hamilton that you had seen the chief drunk many times, but never so drunk before?"

"No, I certainly did not."

Patrolmen Arthur McGinley and John Kelly testified to the condition of the chief on the morning of March 25, when he entered the station house with Robert L. Lee, and said that he was not intoxicated. Kelly described the ride in the patrol wagon to the chief's house. He said there was no zigzagging of the wagon, and that the chief drove in the regular way; and that after leaving the chief at home, he drove Mr. Lee to his home.

Kelly and McGinley corroborated the sergeant as to the floral decoration on Mr. Lee. The chief, they swore, had no such adornment.

Michael Lavaratt, Central Railroad detective, was the next witness. He said:

"I was in the terminal station at Jersey City early in the morning on March 25, 1904. At about two o'clock the matron of the ladies' room told me that there were some men in the room who would not get out. I went to see about it, and met Vanderveer, who also said the men were in there. One was Chief Kiely, who said, "I have a sick man in here," and the chief and I marched him out to the police office. The man had a big string of flowers around his neck. He was taken with a fit of vomiting. I pulled some of the soiled flowers off his coat. I came in a few times during the night to look after him, and about four o'clock both men went out. I knew the chief, and that was the reason I cared for his friend. Otherwise I would have locked him up. I did the talking to the men while they were there. Vanderveer did not talk to them while I was there, for it is my business to look after the whole station."

By Mr. Marsh: "How many witnesses have you sought to influence in this matter?"

"None, so far as I know."

"Didn't you go to Harry Wyckoff, clerk in Chief Dougherty's office, and try to make him forget what he had said about Kiely being drunk in your room? What did you tell Wyckoff?"

"I told him that Chief Kiely had a man drunk in his office, and only for the chief being a friend of his I would have locked him up."

"Aren't you a friend of Kiely?"

"No more than the other chiefs. I deal with them all."

"He has done service to your road, hasn't he?"

"I don't know. He's done none for me."

Patrolman Florence McCarthy, an officer detailed to detective work, was the next witness. He testified to being present when Sheridan and Newman were released. He also testified to being detailed to the West End by the chief, who told him to pay particular attention to the Goff place, to get evidence of illegal selling. He produced a number of names of people going to the place, and told of his difficulty in getting names, because of the number of strangers living in that section—workmen in the shops from out of town. He made a list of those he knew on each Sunday, during July and August and gave it to the chief. "One evening," he said, "while preparing cases for the May term of court, the chief called back Officers Vanderweg and Flynn as they were going out to their detail in the West End, and lectured them for not having gotten evidence in the Goff case, while the rest of us were getting evidence in other cases. The chief's general instructions were to look after al suspected places, and especially Goff's, and he often said to us, 'Do your duty without fear or favor.' While I was looking for evidence in the West End I saw a man who was a stranger, and asked who he was, but no one seemed to know. Two days later I got to talking with him. I reported this to the chief, and asked him if he had a man in the West End looking after Goff. I said, 'There is a man there who is either a detective or a crook. He knows too much for an ordinary man.' The chief said he had no one there, but maybe Mr. Tyler had. He said, 'I'll call him up. I was present when the chief talked to Mr. Tyler over the telephone, asking him if he had a man in the West End. His words to Mr. Tyler were, 'If you say you have no man there, then I'll find out what he is doing there. Of course if you have a man in the West End, I don't want to spoil your game.' The chief sent me to see what the fellow was doing. That was about July 16 to 17."

By Mr. Reed: "What did you ever do on the instructions of the chief about getting a list of government licenses in Plainfield?"

"I saw the deputy revenue collector and showed him my badge and introduced myself. When I asked him for the list he said that the rules of his office would not permit him to give names of those having retail government licenses."

Roundsman John J. Flynn followed McCarthy on the stand. He testified to being on the Goff post from January to June 25, last year, and during that time the general instructions of the chief were to look after all suspected places. Special instructions were to get evidence for the May term of court against Goff. This he said, was difficult to do, because many who went into Goff's were boarders, and others were strangers from the shops. The witness testified also to turning in a list of names that he had gathered from watching people go into the place.

Thomas O'Gorman, driver of the patrol wagon, was the next witness. He is on duty from seven p. m. to five a. m. If the patrol wagon went out between those hours, he said, he was the one to go with it, together with what officers might be on reserve. He said that the wagon was not out with the chief at the midnight train of April 29, 1904, and that the chief was never carried drunk in the wagon.

Patrolman Morris Higgins took the stand after O'Gorman. He told of the instructions from the chief to watch the Goff place, and said he was transferred from the East End to the West End on August 22 to get after Goff, the chief telling him he wanted a good list of names for the fall term of the grand jury. He said he got quite a list. He said the chief was always preaching about speakeasies. He testified that he was on reserve April 29, 1904, subject to call at the police station, and was the one to go with the wagon and driver between seven p. m. and five a. m., and that the wagon did not go to the depot that night or to get the chief at any time.

By Mr. Marsh: "You have a pretty good memory, Higgins?"

"You thought so, Mr. Marsh, when I did some work for you. You said I was a regular Sherlock Holmes."

Patrolman Charles Flynn testified that he was on the depot beat April 28, 1904, his duty being to meet all trains and see who got on and off. He said he never saw the patrol wagon come to the depot to take the chief away. He said it couldn't have come there without his knowing it.

Patrolman Dennis O'Keefe testified to instructions from the chief to keep an eye on Goff and take the names of men going into his place for evidence for the grand jury. He said the chief told him also to look after Britton's place. He also turned in a list of names.

Henry J. Gaffney, of the Central Railroad police force, testified to having been at the station house at nine o'clock on the night of April 28, 1904, and saw the chief there and talked with him. The chief was in his street clothes. That bit of testimony was offered to offset that of James E. Martine, who swore to his identification of Chief Kiely as the man who, he thought, was loaded into the patrol wagon on that night. Mr. Martine testified that his attention was attracted to the man in question because his companions wore dress clothes.

This testimony ended the afternoon session. The Council adjourned at 6:30, and recovened at 7:45.

Chief Kiely took the stand in his own defense, and was under examination and cross-examination for more than an hour.

Among the questions put to the chief was:

"To your knowledge, chief, was any man ever released from the jail without an order from the judge, mayor or president of the Council?"

"No."

"Were you ever criticised by any superior officer for permitting men to be released from jail on an order?"

"No."

"What about discharging two unknown moulders in March, 1904?"

"Two moulders were arrested at that time. One worked at Scott's and I don't know where the other worked. If they were discharged it was not by the order of Mr. McCardell."

"Were you in the Jersey City station on March 25, 1904?"

"Yes."

"With whom?"

"I was with Mr. Lee. I met him in New York."

"Were you intoxicated?"

"No sir."

"How did it happen that you were there?"

"We missed the one o'clock boat, and I stayed to care for Mr. Lee. I did not care to leave him."

"What occurred there?"

"It was cold in the station. Mr. Lee was cold and sick, so we went into the ladies' waiting room; no one else was in there. The matron came and said we would have to go out. I said we would as soon as I could get my friend away. Just then Vanderveer came in, and said, 'You'll have to vacate right away.' He and Mr. Lee had some words. I said to Vanderveer, "He's all right, he's a councilman from Plainfield. He won't do you any harm.' He said, 'I'll call an officer.' A railroad officer came in and I said, 'Hello, Mike; will you assist me with this man?' We got on each side of Mr. Lee, and took him to the office, and stayed until the early morning train."

"Did you have any flowers or buttonhule bouquets?"

"No."

"Did Mr. Lee?"

"He did."

"When you went on the train at Jersey City did you have words with Vanderveer?"

"No sir."

"What did you do when you got to Plainfield?"

"Mr. Lee and I went to the station house."

"What did you do there?"

"I met Sergeant Frederickson and Officers McGinley, Kelly and Hamilton. I asked, 'Is anything doing?' They sad no. I asked McGinley why he was there so late. It was about 5:25. He said he was off duty and waiting for a car. I walked through the wicket, and on the bench were Hamilton and Kelly. I asked them what they were doing there. They said they were waiting for a car. I replied, 'Well, so long as you are waiting for a car, and there is nothing doing, me might as well hitch up and take the boys home.' I went to the barn, snapped the harness on, and Kelly came out, and soon after Hamilton came out. We all got in the wagon and rode away."

"Were you intoxicated?"

"No, sir."

"What did you do when you got home?"

"I told Kelly to drive Mr. Lee home. I asked him if he could drive, not knowing his experience with horses. Going home I did not drive out of an ordinary trot. We never zigzagged from one side of the street to the other."

"Were the flowers on Mr. Lee's coat removed before coming to Plainfield?"

"No, they were still there. I wanted to take them off, but he wouldn't let me do it."

"On April 29, 1904, you heard it stated by Mr. Martine that you came from the train in the patrol wagon?"

"I did not."

"Did you ever get off at the station intoxicated?"

"I've never been intoxicated since I've been chief."

"Tell us about the Get-together Club?"

"I've been there, if that's the name of it, but not often. I was not in the habit of going there, and when I did it was only after leaving the station house and on my way home."

"Have you been there in company with your superiors?"

"Yes."

"Were you ever criticised by them for it?"

"Never."

"Were you ever told you were off duty after leaving the station house?"

"Mr. Tyler said when I left the station house to go home that I was off duty. It was only then that I went to the club."

"Where is this club held?"

"It is in a dining room and parlor."

"The meetings are not open to everyone, are they?"

"No, sir."

"Ever go there in uniform?"

"Never."

"Do you owe M. J. Cashin anything?"

"No."

"Did he ever make a claim on you?"

"No."

"When did you hear of this claim first?"

"When the charges were served on me."

"Why did you not pay Linke's bill originally?"

"My wife said, shortly before she died, that she owed nothing. She had money with which to pay her bills, and I did not feel I owed it."

"Why did you pay it finally?"

"I heard that Mrs. Linke had given the bill to Mr. Tyler to collect, and to avoid any trouble I paid it."

"Now, Mr. Kiely, tell the Council what passed between you and Mr. Tyler after he was appointed chairman of the police committee?"

"I believe it was about the second Sunday in January that we talked over police matters. Mr. Tyler was anxious to do everything for the department and asked me for suggestions. We met on several occasions. He was anxious to better the department in every way, and I tried to assist him in every way. We talked up to the small hours of the morning many times. On the third meeting he said, 'Now, chief, aren't you a little prejudiced against me from what you have heard?' I replied, 'No; I've heard rumors, but I don't take those things for granted.' He said, 'Chief, if you don't think I'll do the right thing by you I'll resign ...' He said he was informed that Goff was selling without a license and was told that I would not make an arrest because of Mr. McCardell. I said, 'Mr. Tyler, no one owns me; I'll arrest anyone who is guilty. My hands are clean. I'd arrest you, or the Mayor or anybody, if the occasion arose.' I talked with him about the Goff matter, and told him of the difficulty of getting evidence in such cases, and how Mr. Marsh and the prosecutor had tried and found it very hard. I said the way to do was to get frequenters of the place, but perhaps a better way was to hire detectives and get them into the shops, and thus learn all about it. I told him that Mr. Marsh would not take paid evidence, and neither would the prosecutor. Mr. Tyler said, 'Yes, chief, your plan is a good one.' He wanted to know why Mr. Marsh did not take charge of the cases instead of taking them to Elizabeth. I said Mr. Marsh had no jurisdiction. I suggested his asking Mr. Hibbard to put a couple of men in his shop and in that way could get into Goff's without trouble. I met Mr. Hibbard later and spoke to him about it, but he did not like that kind of thing. I told Mr. Tyler what he said."

"What do you say of the character of Goff's place prior to his refusal of the license?"

"If Goff was doing business then he was careful, because he was applying for a license. My experience is that a man gets bolder after a license is turned down, and the frequenters of his place more numerous. Then it is easier to get the names. I gave instructions to the ojcers that I wanted to get that man Goff, and I did all I could o get him."

"What occurred at the meeting of the police board on June 30?"

"Mr. Tyler called me upstairs and said, 'Chief, here are two men who say they have evidence that Goff is selling without a license.' I said 'Mr. Bullock, if you have the evidence I am glad to get it. I will prosecute him.' And I said the same to Mr. Higham. I added, 'This talk about protecting Goff, I'm tired of; if you have evidence, give it to me.' Mr. Tyler said, 'This man Goff must be gotten. Get the evidence to prosecute him.' I went on about it. Mr. Tyler never told me to do otherwise than I was doing."

"Did you believe Mr. Tyler fully understood your explanation of the advice from the corporation counsel and from the prosecutor?"

"I thought he did."

"Had you done all that could be done by a man of your position to convict Goff prior to May, 1905?"

"Yes, sir."

"How many names were turned in by the police as frequenters of the place?"

"About seventy."

"Mr. Tyler says you told him you had no evidence?"

"He may have misunderstood my meaning of the word evidence. I had two detectives prior to May last who got into a number of places. I told Vanderweg and Flynn to go out and get Goff. If he was doing business, I wanted evidence. Vanderweg was on the post some time, but got no names. I did not have enough names in May to present to the prosecutor. Officer McCarthy reported to me that a suspicious man was in the West End, and said he was either a detective or a crook. He asked if I had anyone here, and I said no, but probably Mr. Tyler had. I called Mr. Tyler up, and asked him if he had anyone in the West End working on the Goff case. He said no. I said, 'If you have a detective, I won't spoil your game,' and he said no. 'Well, I said, 'I will find out what he is doing.' Later he asked if I doubted him about having had a man in the West End. I said I had no reason to doubt him. I had spoken to him of detectives and did not know but that he had put some one on there."

"Had you a chance to explain any of the charges against you before they were brought?"

"No."

"Where were you on April 29, 1904?"

"I was in the station house, and recall Detective Gaffney's coming to ask me if I had done anything about arresting the parties who put a dummy on the railroad tracks."

Cross examination:

"You understand that the law is higher than the councilmen, the Mayor or the judge, don't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"You know that the charter of the city prescribes police duties? Don't you know that your duty is to lock up a man when he is arrested and keep him?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you know it was a violation of the law to release a man on a telephone order?"

"I consider the Mayor and the judge my superiors."

"Now, chief, all I have to say is that if Council believes it is true that you had an order in writing and that you thought you were within your privilege in releasing prisoners, I still think you guilty of a violation, but that you should be dealt with leniently."

"I was advised several years ago that unless the board required otherwise, not to work under the law requiring $100 bond for releasing prisoners held for minor offenses."

"How often has Mr. McCardell called on you at the station house?"

"Occasionally."

"On March 25, 1904, had you had drinks in New York?"

"Yes."

"How many kinds of stuff?"

"Maybe three."

"When you got to the station you were feeling pretty good, weren't you?"

"Yes, quite good."

"Mr. Lee had a lot, too, didn't he?"

"Yes, some."

"Were you taking care of him?"

"Yes."

"What time did you get here?"

"About 5:15 a. m."

"You would have walked but for Lee, wouldn't you?"

"Yes."

"You hitched up the horse to take Lee home?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you take off Mr. Lee's decorations?"

"I couldn't without a scrap. He was a councilman and I didn't want to raise a fuss."

"How many times have you been to Windham's?"

"Occasionally."

"You paid your shot?"

"Yes."

At this point Mr. Marsh addressed the Council. He said the result of the trial seemed to rest upon the credibility of the witnesses. Then he called Mr. Tyler in rebuttal.

"Mr. English testified that you said to him that you didn't care anything about the Goff place, anyway, or Kiely either, but wanted to use the raid for political effect. Did you make that statement to Mr. English?"

"I did not, sir."

"What did you say to Mr. English in that interview?"

"I remember very well that I did not say that and could not have said it, because of a peculiar matter which occurred in connection with the conversation. The whole conversation, Mr. Marsh, was extremely confidential, and was so stated at the beginning."

"You relieved Mr. English from the seal of confidence," said Mr. Marsh. "Mr. English disclosed what took place, and you are legally and morally free to speak, and I request you to do so."

"I explained to Mr. English," revisitsumed Mr. Tyler, the purport of my visit was to get a warrant for John Goff. I went into the details of the political situation here to show him the importance of extra secrecy, because, I explained to him, that if the matter were taken before a justice of the peace, even in Elizabeth, let alone Plainfield, it was very likely to get to the ears of McCardell or the chief. I told him I was investigating the department and we must find out what was going on, and find out now. It was in that connection that I mentioned the matter of the political situation, and he said o me, 'I have a young man here in the next room who was a former emplaye of mine and studied law in my office; you can trust him as implicitly as you can trust me. But he said, 'Mr. Tyler, I am not willing that my official position should be used for political motives or political purposes'—I don't remember the exact words he used. But I remember distinctly today as if it were but five minutes ago—because of the indignation I felt at the time. I arose from my seat and said to him, 'Mr. English, I resent the suggestion that I would allow my own position or yours—I, as chairman of the board of police of Plainfield—to be used for any such purpose as you suggest. And it was on the strength of that statement that Mr. English took me into Mr. Kelly's room for the purpose of getting the warrant and carrying out the raid.

"Now, I do not want to accuse Mr. English. I simply say that Mr. English is mistaken in his interpretation and recollection."

"Now, Mr. Tyler, wholly apart from your oath, on your honor as a man," asked Mr. Marsh slowly, "is it true that you started these proceedings merely for political effect? If it is, I wish you to release me from the case. I want a distinct and categorical answer to that question."

"That is the farthest from my thoughts, Mr. Marsh. Anyone who knows me, knows that. It was in connection with his statement about the use of his office for political purposes, and my reply resenting the suggestion, he turned to me in a very friendly way, with a smile, and said, 'Well, Mr. Tyler, I speak of it because it has been a matter of great annoyance and excessively disagreeable to me, that there is political intermeddling with my office, and I cannot keep it out. I have wished and sought to have the Governor appoint me a judge so I could get out of it."

"Get out of what?"

"Get out of his present position. And he told me in the confidence and the friendliness of the interview, and I speak of it only since one part is out now, and all must come out."

Mr. Tyler was the last witness. The case was submitted without argument, and the Council retired to the committee room. That was exactly at 9:45.

At least half of the spectators who crowded the chamber waited patiently to hear the verdict. Politicians, from Andrew McCardell to the humble crumb-hunter, were prominent in the waiting crowd, divided into knots, discussing the tesitmony and the chances for acquittal. Mr. Tyler emphasized his claim to the impersonality of the charges, so far as he was concerned, by circling among the organization men. He gave Chief Kiely a warm and lingering handclasp immediately after the Council retired, and stood talking to him for some time. The chief seemed to be in good humor; his cheerful smile as not dimmed even when Mr. Bullock shook hands with him.

At 12:45 the councilmen filed into the chamber and took their seats. President Daniel's gavel fell, and Mr. Murphy ros eto offer the resolution disposing of the case.

"Before a vote is taken," said President Daniel, "I request the audience, no matter what our action may be, to refrain from any demonstration whatever. Please favor us to that extent."

The resolution was a long one, full of formal phrases, and it was not until the clerk neared the end of his reading that the waiting crowd knew what had been dealt the chief.

"We find him technically guilty on counts one, two and three," read the verdict, "and guilty on count nineteen. We find him innocent of all the other counts. And, in view of the circumstances we find that no penalty is called for."

The resolution was put without comment, and three seconds later the accused official was freed from every taint of alleged misfeasance.

His friends found him standing in the hallway of the floor below the chamber, at the doorway of Mr. Reed's office. Warm congratulations were showered on him. A little group of bluecoats stood about him and they looked almost as happy as he did himself.

One of the first things the chief did after hearing the verdict was to hurry to the telephone to tell the news to an anxious little woman in the house on Fifth street, to which he is alleged to have driven in the patrol wagon on the morning of March 25, 1904. No newspaper man has learned how she took the news, but it is not so very hard to imagine.

SALVATION ARMY SENDS DINNERS TO 100 HOMES

CHRISTMAS CHEER, UNCOOKED, FOR 500 PEOPLE DISTRIBUTED IN BASKETS

The Salvation Army distributed 100 uncooked Christmas dinners to poor people. Each dinner was enough for five people, so that half a thousand hungry ones got their Christmas cheer from the army.

The dinners were distributed Saturday night, after a brief special service in Salvation Army Hall. Bearing the cards that entitled them to the dinners, men, women, boys and girls, of all creeds and colors, gathered at the hall at 7 o'clock. Prayer was offered by Ensign Magee, and he delivered a brief address. His talk was practical and sympathetic. The service closed with the singing of the doxology, and the dinners were packed in the baskets the ticket-bearers had brought with them.

Eleven things went into each basket: A plump chicken, a loaf of bread, potatoes, a big yellow turnip, a cabbage, one-quarter of a pound of coffee, sugar, nuts, candies, five oranges and a copy of the Christmas War Cry, with a colored supplement. The dinners were distributed uncooked in order that all the members of the families reached might enjoy them. When a public dinner as held and served from the tables, some one member of the household, as a general rule, has to stay home, and gets no more Christmas cheer than if the others were not being fed. Another feature of the basket distribution is that in families where economy is practiced the dinners are quite likely to tide over the larder for two days.

Charles P. Titsworth, of West Seventh street, is home from Alfred University, for the holidays.

John Winzenreid, of Lee place, is ready at all times to move goods of every description. His charges are reasonable.